Ground To Be Broken For Library Monday Evening

Bishop Hughes Will Deliver Graduation Address June 1; Forty-One Seniors Finishing

Senior Week To Get Underway With Annual Music Recital on May 28.

SERMON COMES MAY 30

Women Outnumber Men 24 to 17 in College's Tenth Graduating Class.

Dr. Edwin Holt Hughes, resident bishop of the Washington district of the Methodist Episcopal church, will deliver the commencement address at the High Point College on June 1, it was announced yesterday by Dr. G. I. Humphreys.

Forty-one seniors will receive their diplomas following the address, which will be preceded by the academic procession.

Senior week will get under way next Thursday, May 28, with a music recital given by the College music department at 8:15 in the evening. This program, which will consist of voice and instrumental selections by music students at the College, will be given under the direction of Miss Margaret Sloan.

The annual oratorical and essay contests will be held at 8:15 on Friday evening, May 29. These contests are confined to the young men and women of the graduating class.

The annual reception for the seniors given by President and Mrs. Humphreys will be held on Saturday, May 30, at 5:30 P. M., followed by the senior class day exercises at 8:15.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys will deliver the annual baccalaureate sermon at the First Methodist Protestant church on Sunday morning, May 31. The address to the campus religious organizations will be given in Roberts Hall auditorium at 8:15 on the same day. The speaker for this occasion has not yet been announced.

This year's graduating class, forty-one in number, surpasses that of the past few years, although it does not reach the high mark set by classes of the pre-depression era.

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT LAST MEETING OF ARTEMESIAN SOCIETY

Graduating Members Honored With Program at Year's Final Conclave.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its final meeting Thursday night, at which time the new officers were installed and a program was given in honor of the members who are graduating. The new officers are: President, Julia Coe; Vice-president, Mary Frances Gerringer; Secretary, Jo Walker; Treasurer, Marguerite Jenkins; Chaplain, Mary Baity; Chorister, Dorothy Jones; Forensic Council Representative, Violet Jenkins; Pianists, Lillian Pearson and Christine Carroll; Critic, Margaret Dixon; Reporter, Sophia Taplin; Monitors, Frances Muse and Dorothy Wiggins.

The program opened with "Blest Be the Tie," and the devotionals were conducted by the new chaplain—the theme being, "We plant new seeds today." Mary Baity greeted the seniors, expressed the society's appreciation of their work and closed with an appropriate toast "Hail Seniors." Following the toast, Julia Coe, the new president, made a short talk on "What You Have Meant To Us."

The most amusing part of the program was given by Sara Forrest Thompson as she gave short character sketches of each senior member. Betty Auman, mascot of the Artemesians for the past several years, made her last appearance as society mascot. She gave a reading of Riley's "Little Orphan Annie."

The last number on the program was a poem given by Nancy Parham, "Until We Meet Again," dedicated to the seniors. The entire group sang "Auld Lang Syne," after which the new critic gave her report. The meeting adjourned with the Society Song.

CO-ED SPORTS BANQUET USES GREEK MOTIF

Woman's Athletic Association Has Annual Banquet at Emerywood Club.

BRAME GIVES LETTERS

Mrs. Humphreys Accepts Invitation to Sponsor Organization.

The Woman's Athletic Association held its second annual banquet Saturday evening at the Emerywood Country Club. The Greek motif was carried out in decoration and program.

The tables were grouped about a miniature reproduction of the Olympia, the famous stadium where the Greek yearly games were held. The programs were ornamented with wreaths symbolizing the olive crown of the Olympic event winner. The favors, too, were representative of a phase of athletics.

The welcome speech was delivered by Virginia Grant, who made all the guests welcome to a "modern Olympia." Elizabeth Phillips toasted the General Athletic Council, with Dr. C. R. Hinshaw responding. Pauline Parker, present W. A. A. president, toasted the "past Olympic head," Lillian Varner, who responded with remarks concerning the new president, facetiously classing her with the Queen of the Amazons. C. Virgil Yow, men's athletic coach, toasted the women of the Association. Appropriate dances were presented by members of Mrs. Davis' Dancing School, of the city. Later, various co-eds toasted the many phases of Physical Education down through the ages.

Nineteen women received certificates and letters for having earned 500 sports points during the year. These letters were presented by Miss Sidney Brame, director of physical education for women, who also presented to Margaret Dixon the medal offered for the best all-round athlete. To the freshmen women went the individual sport Volley Ball and Tumbling Awards; to the sophomores the awards for basketball, indoor baseball, and tennis singles; the juniors took the tennis doubles title.

Sweaters were presented to Vir-

Senior Oration, Essay Tryouts Slated Tonight

Preliminaries To Be Held Tonight If More Than Three Enter Events.

Preliminary tryouts for the senior oratorical and essay contests will be held at the College tonight provided more than three speakers enter each event, it has been announced by Professor Cullen B. Owens, who is in charge of the arrangements.

Should no more than three decide to enter, all will be allowed to speak in the finals on May 28, although it is expected that more than this number will try out for the essay contest at least.

The contest is divided into two sections, an essay competition for women and an oration contest for men. The Charlotte M. Amos Medal is awarded to the winner in the former contest, while Mr. S. Robinowitz donates a medal to the man judged best in the oratory.

Those who have expressed an interest in trying out for the oratorical contest are Hoyt Wood, Sulon Ferree, and Leo Pitard, while Virginia Grant, Lois Hedgecock, Mary Parham, Laura Fritts, and Juanita Hayworth are considering the essay contest.

Artist's Conception Of Wrenn Memorial Library

Methodist Protestant Conference Convenes In High Point This Week

The General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church held its opening session in the First Church of High Point this morning at 10 o'clock, with Rev. J. C. Williams, of Columbus, Ohio, delivering the sermon.

This afternoon the officers of the Conference, which is a meeting of Methodist Protestant representatives from all over the United States, will be elected. They will serve until the next convening of the Conference, which meets every four years. For the past eight years, Rev. J. C. Bromfield, D. D., has been president of the general work; Dr. C. W. Bates, at present of Winston-Salem, has served as secretary-general for the past twelve years, prior to which he acted as statistical secretary.

Tonight's program will be given over to singing by the College A Cappella choir and to addresses by J. Clay Madison, '32, host to the Conference; Dr. C. S. Grayson, Mayor of the city; and Rev. R. M. Andrews, D. D., president of the North Carolina Conference.

Pre-conference meetings were held on Monday, a number of the delegates having already arrived. Some of the women representatives are in Woman's Hall for the duration of the Conference, which wil close next Wednesday. The sessions will be taken up with the usual business and reports from the various departments. There will be addresses on Sunday from the fraternal messengers of the Primitive Methodist, Methodist Episcopal, and Methodist Episcopal, South, churches.

On Sunday there will also be a Young People's Rally, which is in charge of the department of religious education of the general church. Reports from a committee on church union, are expected to be of especial interest, as is the address Tuesday evening by Dr. Frank Hickman, of Duke.

The education sessions which took place on Monday are of especial significance to those interested in the Church's colleges. Dr. Frank W. Stephenson, of Pittsburgh, presided. Addresses by many of those concerned in the educational work of the Church followed a devotional program in charge of Dr. E. A. Sexsmith, chairman of the Annual Education Conference. Dr. Clarence Sutton, president of Westminster College, Texas, spoke on "Educational Trends and Their Effect on the Church-Related Colleges;" Dean P. E. Lindley, of High Point College, on "Religious Education Departments in the Church-Related School;" Dr. C. E. Forlines, of Westminster Theological Seminary, on "The Theological Seminary in the Life of Today;" Dr. F. G. Holloway, of Western Maryland College, on the subject "Can the Church Keep Her Colleges?" Dr. G. I. Humphreys spoke on "Student Government at High Point College," while Dr. N. M. Harrison told something of the problems of "The Promotional Secretary." Other addresses of note were delivered by Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University; Dr. E. A. Sexsmith, and Dr. Lawrence Little.

A highlight of the conference will come Monday evening when ground is broken on the High Point campus for the Wrenn Memorial Library. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held on the campus for the delegates.

Williamson Talks To Senior Class At Friday Chapel

New Presbyterian Pastor Speaks on "Life's Challenges" Here Friday.

Dr. O. C. Williamson, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, High Point, addressed the seniors last Friday morning at the chapel hour. He spoke on "Life's Challenges."

Dr. Williamson began his talk by saying that youth responds to the challenges of life in several ways. First, there is a group who shrudges its shoulders at opportunity; second, there is the type that wants to enjoy life and "make merry" always; third, there is the group that drifts along, letting talents go to waste; and fourth, there are some who want to make use of life and all its opportunities.

The speaker then went on to characterize a high ideal that is worth challenging. First, he said that the ideal must be unattainable. It should challenge the very best in youth. Then, the high ideal must shine in the nighttime—be a comfort in discouragement. It should be a guide that will lead onward. Lastly, the ideal must be a meeting place with the Higher Power. It should have with it the strength of the Infinite.

In closing, Dr. Williamson summarized his points and bade his listeners to go face the world with a high ideal.

The concluding speech in the series of talks to seniors will be heard at the College Friday.

Plan To Issue New Annual

Complete Proof-Reading on This Year's Zenith; Out Next Week.

The 1936 Zenith will be circulated on the campus sometime next week, acording to Lois Hedgecock, business manager, and Edgar Snider, editor. The staff completed proof-reading of the yearbook Monday afternoon, and it is expected that it will be printed and sent here without delay.

Charles Ridge, of Lexington, was named editor of the 1937 Zenith and Wilson Rogers, of Denton, was chosen business manager at the Publications Board meeting held Monday afternoon. These two will choose a new staff to assist in publishing the book next year.

Rogers has been connected with th staff of the Zenith for the past year, working in both the editorial and business departments. He is the newly elected secretary of the Akrothinian Literary Society, a member of the A Cappella Choir and the Iota Tau Kappa social fraternity.

Ridge, a non-fraternity man, served as staff photographer for both THE HI-PO and Zenith last year. He is student manager of the College Bookstore, a member of the A Cappella Choir and of the Thalean Literary Society.

The 1936 Zeniths will be delivered to every student at the College without cost other than the regular fee paid for student activities at registration, Miss Hedgecock announced at chapel Monday morning.

Council Handbook Staff Is Selected For This Summer

Garlington Business Manager, Weisner Editor of First Council Book.

W. W. Weisner has been named editor and J. Ezell Garlington has been named business manager of the first student handbook to be issued by the student government.

Heretofore a handbook has been issued by the Y. M. C. A. each summer, but this year the responsibility has been surrendered to the student council in order to make the book more representative of the general student body.

The form of the new handbook is expected to follow that of the Y books, which included information about campus organizations and personalities, general rules and regulations of the College, welcomes from various churchs in the city, and advice to the incoming freshmen.

The Y handbook of last year, one of the largest and finest ever issued at the College, was put out under the editorship of Jasper L. Jones, with Millard Isley acting as business manager.

The new student government handbook will be published early in the summer and will be ready for distribution at the opening of school next fall. A number of copies will be used by Rev. N. M. Harrison in his promotion work this summer.

The business manager and editor will select a staff to aid them in publishing the book in the early summer.

Formal Ceremony Will Mark Start Of Work On Memorial Edifice To Late M. J. Wrenn

Architect Completes Drawings For Wrenn Memorial Library Building.

READY IN SEPTEMBER

Construction On New Building To Go Forward During Summer Months.

Ground will be broken for the new Wrenn Memorial Library building next Monday evening at 7 o'clock, it has been announced by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College.

A brief ceremony will mark the start on the construction of the new building, according to Dr. Humphreys. Following this occasion, the College will hold a reception for the delegates to the Methodist Protestant General conference now meeting in High Point.

Eccles Everhart, local architect, has completed plans for the new building which have been approved by Mrs. M. J. Wrenn, who is donating the library as a memorial to her late husband.

The exterior of the building, which is to be 34 by 70 feet in size, will be made to harmonize with the general style of the other campus buildings. The library will contain space for about 20,000 volumes and will have a reading room seating about 112 persons. The Librarian will have a private office in the new building, and a lavatory will be built on each side of the vestibule. There will be two open fireplaces in the building, one at each end of the reading room.

Construction on the building will go forward promptly after the ground has been broken, and it will be ready for occupancy soon after the opening of school in September, Dr. Humphreys said.

The new library building was formally presented to the College by Mrs. Wrenn in an impressive announcement made last graduation day. The building is to be known as

HI-PO EDITOR AND MANAGER ARE RETAINED

Present Set-Up of Newspaper Staff To Be Continued For Second Year.

SAME STAFF RETAINED

Weisner to Continue as Editor, Austin Business Manager Next Year.

The College Publications Board has confirmed the re-appointment of the present HI-PO officials for next year. W. W. Weisner will again act as editor, and Allen Austin will retain his position as business manager.

Dorothy Bell has been re-appointed managing editor, Alton Hartman, sports editor, and Samuel Myers, circulation manager. The position of advertising manager has been vacant since W. C. Barnhouse withdrew from school at mid-term, but Austin expects to make an appointment to this place early in the fall.

The present members of the reportorial staff, all of whom have been retained, are as follows. David Cooper, Inza Hill, Julia Coe, M. M. Bates, Evelyn Turner, Nancy Parham, Helen Bates, and Virginia Curry. The members of the business staff, besides Austin and Myers, are John Apple, Hoyt Wood, and Sheldon Dawson. Not a single member of the editorial staff will be lost by graduation, and only one, Hoyt Wood, will leave the business staff by the sheepskin route.

The retention of virtually the entire staff for the second straight year leaves THE HI-PO in hands of unprecedented experience for next year. As far as can be learned, this is the first time that all of the major officers have been retained for two years straight here, and it is a rare occurrence in the entire history of collegiate journalism.

The business manager, Austin, served a long apprenticeship on the staff before he was appointed to his present position last spring. He had previously been advertising manager and secretary-treasurer of THE HI-PO.

Weisner has been a member of the editorial staff for the past three years. He served as manag-

Society Elects New President In Place Owen

Weisner Becomes Akrothinian President as Owen Resigns Place.

W. W. Weisner was elected president of the Akrothinian Literary Society last Thursday night to replace Paul Owen, who resigned because of the weight of his other duties on the campus.

Weisner, a member of the Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity, has held almost every position in the Akrothinian organization during the past three years, having served as chairman of the program committee, secretary, critic, and vice president.

Sheldon Dawson was installed as vice president Thursday night; George Crowell became treasurer; Dan Sharpe, secretary; Harry Ershler, assistant marshal; Max Rogers, assistant secretary; Porter Hauer, chaplain; and Paul Owen, critic. The secretary-elect, Wilson Rogers, was absent on a tennis trip and will be installed at the next meeting.

The new Akrothinian officers are laying plans for an aggressive membership campaign next fall. The last meeting this year is scheduled to be held at the student meeting period this morning.

HARTMAN IS ELECTED GREEK COUNCIL HEAD DURING COMING YEAR

Epsilon Eta Phi's Representative Chosen Pan-Hellenic Council President.

Alton Hartman, a rising senior, of Advance, last Wednesday was elected president of the Pan-Hellenic Council for next year, succeeding Broadus Culler. Hartman is a member of Epsilon Eta Phi.

Occo Gibbs, Iota Tau Kappa, was chosen vice president to support Hartman, and Julia Coe, Theta Phi, was elected secretary.

The new president elect is a member of the Thalean Literary Society and is sports editor of THE HI-PO. He has served as president of the junior class and is president elect of the men's dormitory student council.

Gibbs is a member of the Thalean Literary Society and the Christian Endeavor Society. He is the new vice president of the student government council for next year. Miss Coe is president-elect of the Artemesian Literary Society and a member of the A Cappella choir.

The student representatives who have been elected to represent each of the Greek letter clubs on the Pan-Hellenic council are as follows:

Alton Hartman, Epsilon Eta Phi; W. W. Weisner, Delta Alpha Epsilon; Occo Gibbs, Iota Tau Kappa; Julia Coe, Theta Phi; Iris Welch, Alpha Theta Psi; and Gladys Maxwell, Sigma Alpha Phi. The faculty representation on the council remains unchanged.

The council has recently completed the process of drawing up a new Pan-Hellenic constitution which will be presented to the faculty for ratification. The new constitution is said to include several important provisions, but these will not be made known until the faculty have taken action.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1936

SAME STAFF, SAME POLICY

In starting on our second straight year of service, we, the staff of THE HI-PO are setting a precedent in the annals of High Point College journalism. As far as we can learn, no business manager and editor have ever served two consecutive years together. And to make the precedent even more unusual, we are retaining every member of the editorial staff and every member of the business staff except one, who will be lost by graduation. We feel that we will have an unusual opportunity next year because we will be more than apprentices stepping into the job; we have worked together for a year, and we know our weaknesses and our strong points.

Since the staff is completely intact for another year, it is natural that we have made no great departure from the opinions set forth when we took charge last year, although we hope that we have profited by experience. We quote from THE HI-PO of May 9, 1935:

"In general, of course, our constant aim will be to improve High Point College; to assist the faculty and student organizations in turning out more efficient citizens who will reflect creditably on their alma mater.

"More specifically, we pledge our support to student government and to all other student activities seeking to make a constructive contribution to college life and youthful ideals. Needless to say, we join with the great majority of the students in seeking to broaden the scope of social life on the campus. In this connection we feel that dancing would do much to alleviate the situation that sends many of the students elsewhere to functions that would make a greater contribution to school spirit if permitted on the campus. However, the honor society, the honor roll, and the literary council projects are no less deserving of support by those seeking a well-rounded improvement in all phases of the College—and it is our earnest hope that we represent this group.

"Accomplishment of all these aims, of course, will require a high standard of news and editorial writing. From a purely technical standpoint, we hope to maintain and even improve on the example of journalistic excellence set by HI-PO boards of the past."

For the second straight year, we set these aims before us as we start our task, although we retain the right to revise and add to the list as new situations arise.

THE SCHOOL YEAR AT HIGH POINT

The current school year has now reached the stage at which it is looked upon in retrospect. The freshman is probably interested in comparing his present views of college life with those he held when he entered nine months ago; the senior is likely a little sad as he contemplates the lessons that he has learned too late or thinks of the occasions that will be no more. But withal, the year has been an interesting one to us as we have chronicled the major happenings.

The student council has continued to make a great contribution to campus affairs. It started the year by supervising freshman initiation for the first time in the history of the College, and it assisted the yearlings in adjusting themselves to college life. The student government organization has made history by taking over control of absences and tardies. The council has proved itself worthy of its responsibilities, and its opportunities will probably continue to grow.

High Point College stepped into line with national youth movements by presenting a forceful peace program last Armistice Day and by sending delegates to the Student Volunteer convention at Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays. In addition, High Point has been represented at a number of state conventions held in the interest of student government, college journalism, and religious work.

In the field of athletics, High Point's greatest glory came from the Purple Panther basketball team, which clinched the North State conference championship in the regular season's play and came out with the laurels from the first loop tournament. The soccer team anticipated the basketball triumphs by annexing the Central Carolina League championship. Creditable performances were turned in by the baseball and tennis outfits.

The debating squad, choir, dramatic group, and literary societies have also seen their share of activity this year. The alumni came back for their third consecutive Homecoming Day and entertained us with speeches, athletic contests, and a dance.

Interest has seldom dragged this year; as one activity fell into the doldrums, another came along to claim the headlines and to relieve the students of the monotony of routine schedules.

FAREWELL TO VETERANS OF '36

We could hardly allow the year to end without putting in a special word to the members of the graduating class. Each spring every college editor attempts an editorial that will bid the seniors farewell in some original way. Most of them give up in despair because there is really nothing new to be said to a graduating class.

Resorting to platitudes without blush or apology, we merely take this opportunity to thank the seniors for their work at the College during the past four years, to thank them for their contributions to campus life, and to wish each and every one of them a long, happy and successful career.

Platitudes, yes—but they are sincere, and they express the feeling of some three hundred students who remain behind to carry on where the Veterans of '36 leave off.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Automobile Club directors of the country are coming out these days with figures which show that the most alarming increase in traffic fatalities is occuring among high school and college drivers.

And speaking of sudden death, Professor L. A. Clousing of Northwestern University is making interesting studies of carbon monoxide poisoning in automobiles. He stopped 200 cars at random on the highways and discovered one out of 20 had a dangerous concentration of the gas in the air breathed by the driver. He said the gas will cause drowsiness and sleepiness and will slow down reactions, although the driver will never be aware of his condition.

Sleepiness and drowsiness, by the way, are being combatted by doctors at the University of Minnesota who have developed a little white "anti-fatigue" pill. They fed them to two professors who liked the results. "They speed up mental processes and are stimulating for several hours" said the professors. But of course they cannot be used indiscriminately and continuously. "Body tissues cannot stand long periods of sleeplessness" said Dr. Beiter of the pharmacology department.

The professors further reported the pills acted like alcohol in that they caused excitement, talkativeness and hilarity.

Frank Hausmann, editor of the Loyola News at Loyola University, did some checking up the other day and found that most college men hate punning, don't care if their girl friend drinks, since that's "her own business," don't want to spend more than four dollars on any one date and don't believe in going steady. The rest of the answers we don't believe.

The boys said the perfect girl didn't need to have physical attractiveness if she had character, intelligence and personality!

Warning note: Editors at Iowa State College have figured that it costs a student just one dollar every time he cuts a class.

Another Iowa editor, over at the state university, deserves honorable mention this week. He runs the yearbook. His yearbook like many others, decided to have a beauty prize winner. The following were elected as judges:

One iceman, one plumber and one traveling salesman.

Princetonian editors express amazement that the University of Texas has dropped the honor system of examinations. Said the Texas dean: "We realized that under the system we were white-washed hypocrites." It works, it seems, at Princeton.

Sidelights at the second showing of "Campus Life at HPC:" Nellie Blonde, the mountain musical artist, gets a big call from the audience following her successful appearance at the Christian Endeavor social. He is familiar with both campuses. A number of persons become jealous when their sweeties are pictured in intimate poses with other people.

DR. BOWEN TO TEACH AT ASHEVILLE AGAIN

Biology Professor to Take Up Duties at Normal College June 10.

Dr. Paul R. Bowen, Professor of Biology and Geography, will be a member of the teaching staff of the Asheville Normal College for the six weeks' summer term from June 10 to July 22.

This will be Doctor Bowen's third summer as a visiting professor at the Asheville school. He came to High Point in 1932, after receiving the degree of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy from Yale University. As a Sterling Research Fellow at Yale in the 1931-32 term, he was elected to Sigma Phi, national scholastic scientific fraternity, and to Gamma Alpha, national graduate social fraternity. He is also a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity at DePauw University, where he received the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Dr. Bowen will offer courses in General Bacteriology, Economic Geography, Geography and World History, and Geography of South America.

GERMANS ARE BANNED AT WILLIAMS COLLEGE

Massachusetts School to Abandon Exchange Scholarship With Nazis.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Williamstown, Mass. — German students coming to this country with "certificates of political responsibility" are not wanted at Williams College, and the institution's system of exchange scholarships with Germany will be allowed to lapse in June.

German students rigidly committed to the principles of naziism can not hope to gain much from a consideration of American political thought, said President Tyler Dennett in making the announcement.

"One of the indispensable conditions for study in an American college is an open mind," he asserted. "It seems unlikely that anyone who is officially committed to any political program to the point where he is not at liberty to change his mind as to the rightness or wrongness of a governmental system would profit by what an American college has to offer.

"It is hardly likely that anyone so handicapped would be benefited here. We do not slect our scholarship recipients in that way."

For the past ten years Williams has admitted a German student annually, paying his board, room, and tuition, giving him an additional $400 for his own use.

A statement from the Reich Ministry of Education to the effect that all young German students going abroad would be given a special training in propagandizing was one of the factors in the decision, Dr. Dennett said.

"If the German authorities really feel that it is important to spread their gospel in Williamstown," editorialized The Williams Record, student paper, "they will at least have to pay the bill themselves."

THALEAN STAG PICNIC HELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Society Members, Tired of Literary Pursuits, Take Annual Jump in Lake.

Tired of literary pursuit, the Thaleans went and jumped in a lake last Thursday afternoon.

At least most of the members present at the annual stag party, held at Dr. Jackson's Lake this spring, went for an icy swim before they settled down to a real old-fashioned fish fry, prepared by Chefs Higgins, Walton, and Moser.

Those who felt that the water was just too chilly, took to rowing as an appetizer. Prof. Yarborough and Dr. Hinshaw, of the College faculty, were among the boating party, and several members of the society were anxious to row for better French and Psychology grades.

The customary picnic menu, hotdogs and sandwiches, was tabooed as the members of the society satisfied their hunger with a fry of speckled trout, plus cole slaw and their thirst with lemonade, nothing more.

Dr. W. L. Jackson, owner of the lake and adjacent grounds, joined the boys in their feast.

CLAUDE HOPKINS WILL PLAY AT SEDGEFIELD FOR DEMOLAY'S DANCE

Well-Known Harlem Orchestra Signed For Homecoming Dance June 25.

Claude Hopkins and his famous Cotton Club orchestra will play at Sedgefield Inn on June 25th for a Homecoming dance sponsored by the local chapter of the Order of DeMolay, it was announced yesterday.

This orchestra, which is composed completely of Negroes, is famed for its perfection in rhythm and especially in the rhythm suited to the current dance hits. He is purported to have one of the best balanced dance orchestras in the country and also has with him one of the best Negro tenors who will be featured in several solo numbers throughout the course of the dance at Sedgefield.

He is now playing at the famous Cotton Club in the heart of Harlem in New York and periodically plays over the Columbia Broadcasting Company. Since he is able to stop at only a few places in the South on this tour, the DeMolay club feels itself fortunate in obtaining this famous jazz band for its annual dance, which is always open to the public.

Sponsors and their escorts and the chaperones will be announced later. It is hoped that many High Point College students will be able to attend this affair during the latter part of June.

Senior Proctors To Serve During Examination Week

At the suggestion of a joint committee from the council and faculty, the student body Monday authorized the appointment of several student proctors to serve during the forthcoming examinations.

These proctors will be selected preferably from the senior class and will sit in on all examinations to report cases of cheating. While student council officials are emphatic in saying that there has been no general breakdown in the honor system here, they feel that the use of proctors will prevent any unpleasant situations that might arise.

ALBRIGHT IS SPEAKER ON WORK OF FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS

Urges College Students to Sign With Bureau For Summer Employment.

Mayne Albright, a representative of the Federal Employment Service, spoke to the students of High Point College Monday morning concerning the work of his department.

Mr. Albright pointed out that although the employment bureaus located in various cities handle some relief cases, the majority of people registered with them are qualified persons not on relief. He traced the work of the employment service in its efforts to bring employers and employees together, and told of the great success it has enjoyed. Mr. Albright said that there is an increasing demand for college-trained people through his department. In closing, he offered the services of his department in assisting the local students to find either permanent or summer employment.

The speaker urged students who are seeking employment to register with the bureau of their own home town. He introduced Mrs. Irene Price, head of the High Point bureau, who in turn invited the local residents to register with her.

September

We register, and immediately start wondering what the year will bring us in the way of sports glory . . . the ever present question of the freshman prospects . . . fall baseball drills again . . . Culler's soccerites begin to limber up (should we say kick?) . . . mostly loafing. . .

October

We listen to football over the radio, read about the outstanding elevens in the papers, crash the gates nearby to see exhibitions of the manly sport, and all the time wishing that HIGH POINT HAD A FOOTBALL TEAM. . . Tigers win World Series to the approval and disappointment of local fans. . . Niernsee successfully defends tennis title against Jarrett, freshman star from T-ville. . . Sosser eleven starts defense of their five-year record of non-defeat by trouncing Indians. . . Frosh start basketball drills. . . Kernersville spoils soccer record with 4-1 win here. . .

November

More silent praying (football)....Duke hands eleven second defeat in history...Frosh cagers go west, mostly for food but win four out of five....Soccer team hits comeback trail to resume winning ways...defeat Duke, tie Davidson.... Niernsee hurt in Wildcat game....Varsity cage drills begin with first exhibition on Homecoming Day....Rogers appointed net captain and manager for coming season....

December

Akronithians win inter-society volleyball. . . . . Soccer team beats Kernersville for revenge....Davidson also ....Panthers lose to Duke in exhibition game.....Culler named captain....Those Purple Panthers go 'Nawth' where they speak Owl Head's Language....players lose 10 pounds each on strict diet but become saturated with congressional knowledge..."Southerners Whip Yankees".....Randolph-Macon and Western Maryland are victims....Yow's Rebels fail to find more opponents while in enemy territory...Soccer team takes Central Carolina Association title with nine victories in ten games.

January

The Appalachian Teachers teach the Panthers a few things as they hand them a defeat in the conference opener... Enraged Pack then clips Bears, Pirates, and Bulldogs in succession....Appalachian and Catawba fall....Catamounts licked....Walker and his Christians bow in reverence as Pack tears up Elon, January 25....

February

Rudisill back....Still dizzy from exams, Panthers travel to Hickory and barely eke out 42-41 win over Bears in extra-period battle—Harris saves game, and then Culler wins.....Frosh co-eds to Chapel Hill. More victories for Pack....Elon again...Jinx broken as locals take over Guilford twice....Pack takes CHAMPIONSHIP with 11 victories and one defeat....fourth for High Point...Thaleans win basketball game....First Annual North State basketball tourney goes over with bang as Panthers prove their worth by annexing tourney title to their honors...Culler and Intrieri on all-conference selections.....

Purple Panther Teams Finish Eventful Season

PANTHER NINE TAKES FIFTH PLACE IN NORTH STATE LOOP

Yowmen Finish Season With Six Wins In Sixteen Conference Starts to Lead Second Division Teams; Win Total of Twelve Games During Year.

Winning only six North State contests in sixteen starts, the Purple Panther nine landed one notch lower in the final conference standings this year as they took fifth place to lead the second division teams.

The Yowmen, with a percentage of .375, were nosed out of the first division by the Quakers when the two clubs met in the final game of the season at Guilford last Wednesday. The Catawba Indians wrested the title from the Elon Christians, champions of the circuit for the past six years. They won 12 out of 16 games for a percentage of .750.

Second place honors went to the Christians, who finished with a .727 percentage. The Lenoir-Rhyne Bears, who practically won the pennant for the Indians by trouncing the Christians three times, landed third place.

The Panthers lacked one game of gaining an even break in the total of 25 games played this season, winning 12 and losing 13. In their exhibition games they met many strong amateur and semi-pro teams, but experienced better luck than in the circuit by taking six of the nine contests.

They rang up three victories over E. C. T. C., one over Unique Furniture in a thrilling 13 inning battle, and won over the Duke "B" nine. E. C. T. C. defeated them once, Chatham Blanketeers of Elkin, and the Mock-Judson club of Greensboro.

In the circuit the locals found the weak spot of the A. C. C. Bulldogs to register four conference wins over the Wilson boys. During a home stand, they displayed the best ball of the season as they turned back the Catawba Indians and the Guilford Quakers on successive days.

Three contests were lost to Elon, Catawba, and Lenoir-Rhyne. The tenth loss was to the Quakers. Appalachian was not on the schedule, while the W. C. T. C. Catamounts, the eighth member of the conference, did not enter the baseball race.

Although the Panthers were able to obtain Willis Park as their home base this year, attendance at the games, with the exception of one or two instances, was far from satisfactory.

Culler and Harris were the only regular hitters to better the .300 mark for the season. Harris led with .339, while Culler had a .320. Last year Culler hit .382, while Grigg came second with .352.

The substitute hurlers stole the spotlight from the regulars on the firing line this year. This was partly due to the fact that they drew their pitching assignments against the weak teams.

With five players finishing school, the baseball squad will need plenty of material next year. These five Panthers who played their final contests in the High Point uniform last week were Culler, Ingle, Isley, Elder and Diamont.

Gerringer Captures Tennis Title; Junior Team Takes Doubles Crown

Sophomore Player Defeats Holt, Defending Champion, in Finals of Co-Ed Tourney; Holt and Dixon Win Over Harris and Watkins.

Mary Frances Gerringer, sophomore, wrested the Women's Intra-Mural tennis title from Fay Holt in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, in the finals last week, while the junior class doubles team, composed of Fay Holt and Margaret Dixon, captured the doubles title over Sara Harris and Ann Watkins, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

The tourney, which was sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, has been in progress on the courts back of Woman's Hall for the past three weeks. The ladder system of play has been used to eliminate contestants in each division.

Thirty-five co-ed racquet swingers entered the singles division. The winner started near the bottom, number 34, but displayed a brilliant brand of tennis as she challenged and defeated players posted above her to reach the top without a defeat. Several matches were forfeited.

Ann Watkins, frosh player, gave the champion her hardest fight in the semi-finals when she forced her into three sets before going down.

Holt, the defending champion and pre-season favorite to again cop the meet, was unable to hit her stride in the final match. She went into the finals by virtue of a victory over Virginia Grant in the semi-finals.

Emerging at the top from the 16 doubles teams that entered the competition, the two finalists put up a real tennis exhibition before the junior team claimed the victory. Opening up with a brilliant offensive drive, Harris and Watkins won the first set 7-5 to appear the stronger team.

The juniors staged a comeback to take the next set, 6-4, and then outlasted their opponents to take the final and deciding set by the count of 6-3.

Yow Serves Fourth Year As Director

Pack Wins Cage Championship; Soccer Eleven Takes Central Carolina Title.

Sport fans and scribes alike have acclaimed the 1935-36 season as a great athletic year for High Point College.

The summaries of the year show: Soccer, Championship in Central Carolina Association; Basketball, North State Conference crown, and title in first conference cage tourney; Baseball, fifth place in conference; Tennis, three victories, one tie, and eight losses.

But there is more to the story. To go behind the scenes would reveal that High Point teams have fought against tremendous odds at times, and have encountered numerable obstacles in their fight.

Attendance at part of the contests was good, while at other times it fell far below par. The school spirit evidenced by the students and players was a great aid.

Featured by the brilliant performances of Coach Yow's Panther Pack, which brought the fourth North State flag to the campus by winning 11 victories in 12 conference contests, the year has been a success from many angles.

QUAKERS TRIM PANTER NINE IN LAST CONTEST

Yowmen Lose Final Struggle of Year to Guilford by 6 to 4 Score.

Completing a twenty-five game schedule, the High Point Panthers closed the 1936 season Wednesday afternoon when they bowed to the Guilford Quakers by the score of 6 to 4 in a North State tilt at Guilford.

Both clubs gained seven hits each in the final battle, but the Quakers bunched theirs effectively in the third and fourth racks to gain the decision. Weston, working on the mound for the winners, hurled steady ball and was able to keep the seven hits well scattered.

Brinkley, sophomore hurler, started on the mound for the Panthers, but after two scoreless innings weakened in the third. Carroll gained first when hit by the throw, Weston singled, and Boyles, the following man up, drove the two runners in with a double.

Rudisill relieved him in the fourth, but found the going just as tough in that rack when he allowed three runs on a walk, a wild pitch, a triple and a double. After this rack he settled down and kept the Quakers under control the remainder of the contest.

Dorsett's single brought Culler home with the first Pointer run in the first inning. Ingle singled in

NETMEN CLOSE YEAR WITH BEST RECORD IN HISTORY

Win Three Tatches, Tie One, and Lose Seven During Year; Handicapped During Early Part of Season by Lack of Courts For Matches.

The High Point College netmen closed their 1936 season last Thursday afternoon with a record for the season which shows that they have won three matches, tied one, and lost seven, bettering all past tennis records of the College.

The Panthers started off the season with a rush, winning the first scheduled match despite bad practice conditions and the absence of any College courts upon which to play by a count of four wins to three losses when they met a strong Appalachian aggregation on private courts of the city on April Fool's Day. Two days later the Panthers traveled to Hickory to put up a game fight for the heavy end of the score only to drop the match by one point, 4-3, as Niernsee, top-ranking Panther failed to show his usual winning form for possibly the deciding point against the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears.

In the third match of the year, the Pointers, handicapped by the lack of their number one man, Frank Niernsee, who had not yet arrived from the Easter holidays, bowed the knee of fealty very humbly to the all-powerful Elon team on the local courts, finding it impossible to gain even one match. Catawba showed very bad manners in the next competitive match as they badly beat their guests 7-2. In the next three contests, the High Point College boys were unable to stop the defeat jinx giving way to A. C. C., Elon, and Guilford, with only a few individual wins.

The racqueteers then took advantage of several days of good practice weather and the newly completed tennis courts and proceeded to show top form in their next three matches with some of the best balanced teams of the smaller colleges. The Panthers completely reversed the score of an earlier match with the Guilford Quakers on May seventh, on the enemy courts, as they took all but two of the seven matches, with Niernsee, Jarrett, Setzer and Rogers showing some real driving power. The next day, the netmen took out the point which they had needed in their initial match together as they ended in a tie with the Lenoir-Rhyne squad, 3-3, in the last home game of the college year.

Last week the racqueteers invaded the east when they took the road towards Louisburg Junior college where they administered the worst defeat of the year to the youngsters, showing the result of the good formal practices which the team had been able to obtain in the week or two preceding the match, taking every singles match and every doubles match. The next day, however, the Panthers again were brought back to earth with a thud as they lost to the A. C. C. Bulldog netmen, 5-2.

This record though not impress-

Racqueteers Divide Two Matches On Eastern Jaunt; White Scores

Netmen Trip Louisburg Club by 7 to 0 Count For Third Win of Year; Lose Final Match of Year to Atlantic Christian Bulldogs at Wilson.

The Purple Panther netmen, showing the best form and power of the year last Wednesday afternoon, completely routed the Louisburg Junior College team with a humiliating 7-0 defeat, only to drop back to earth the next day as A. C. C. took all but two of a seven point match.

Leonard White, number five man, found his stride in the next to the last match of his career in college tennis circles while visiting the Louisburg courts and pulled out his first win in inter-collegiate competition in three sets, 4-6, 6-2, and 6-1.

The team as a whole on this climaxing tour of the season played with the ease and skill of veterans, showing a fighting spirit as well as good all-round tennis throughout. The Junior college team, though putting up a tough fight, was no match for the older collegians and despite the fact that several of the matches went to three sets as well as to deuce the netmen had little trouble in taking each match.

Going on to the Atlantic Christian campus the next day, Captain Rogers and Frank Niernsee had to take the brunt of the winning play as they took their singles matches for the only wins of the afternoon. Suffering a severe let-down from the hilarious winning streak of the day before, the Pointers seemed unable to pull out the necessary winning points. Each man put up a fighting match but except for the lone two matches to no avail. The Bulldogs continued to show the top-form which was characteristic of their play on the local courts earlier in the year.

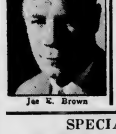

Niernsee, as usual, showed the fans some real points in the art of playing the court game as he delivered powerful and accurate services and often pounded the little white ball from one side of the court to another with hard ground strokes and net smashes.

Captain Rogers, pulling his winning average up a little higher, also showed what has come to be a characteristic of his play, a never-say-die spirit which made it impossible for his opponents in many cases to pull out the final winning points, although the sets and games were often close as game point and set point swapped hands several times before the final point.

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

PANTHER NINE TAKES FIFTH PLACE IN NORTH STATE LOOP

Veterans Finish Season in by .500 Mark In Mission Conference Wins Second to Last Second Division Team; Two Teams of Twelve Games During Year.

Winning nine out-North Carolina baseball team Conference baseball last Wednesday in the final conference with the win Wilson here. Dunlap Panthers finished their pitcher Bill Wilson with games in loss the second division.

The Panthers have a percentage of .500 mark, having won 12 and lost 12 games during the season with the Conference games in which they won seven and lost five games. The Mission nine won seven games and lost five. The Panthers accumulated in the season the the Conference games, while the Mission nine made 84 runs in the same number of games.

Coach Ford's nine won two out of three games from Wilson College at Chambersburg, Pa., on Monday and Tuesday of last week, after having another loss rained-out game here, but subsequently broke their record by taking six in succession from Wilson.

They won the three contests from Wilson by the scores of 10-3, 7-6 and 5-4. The first game was in the 8-3 victory over Wilson. Coach Ford used Captain Thompson in the box, but he failed to go the route, Tuttle and Pearson.

In the fourth inning Wilson scored three runs on a walk, a single and a double. Pearson relieved Thompson in the box and held Wilson scoreless for the remainder of the game. The Panthers scored their winning run in the seventh inning when Tuttle walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a single by Pearson.

Although the Panthers were able to collect 12 hits Pearl in nine innings they were unable to push across more than seven runs. Thompson was the losing pitcher.

Coach Ford used Pearson in the first game of the double-header with Wilson on Tuesday afternoon and the Panthers won by the score of 7-6. Pearson was relieved in the fifth inning by Tuttle, who finished the game. Tuttle was the winning pitcher in the last game between the two teams.

The Panthers' entire nine was used in the game with Wilson on Tuesday afternoon with the exception of Bissell. Pearson was the leading batter in the game with two hits in four trips to the plate. Tuttle, Dille and Pearson

Gorringer Captures Tennis Title; Arnold Team Takes Doubles Crown

Sophomore Player Defeats Bibl, Defeating Champion, In Finals of Co-Ed Tourney; Bibl and Hand Win Over Arnold Twisdon.

Mary Frances Gorringer, sophomore, defeated the Women's tennis singles title from Ruth Bibl in the finals by scores of 6-0, 6-2, in the finals of the women's tennis tournament which was completed last week. Ruth Bibl, the champion, Mary Ann Hand, Mary Frances Gorringer and Ann Wallace were the four who made the semi-finals.

Ruth, the defending champion was prevented from defending her title on the mark, was unable to be present for the finals. Ruth was forced into the finals by her victory over Virginia Green in the semi-finals.

Returning to the net from the finals Miss Gorringer found little difficulty in overpowering the two finalists and the match was completed in short order. The former champion was unable to get her service working and was forced to rely on her ground strokes. Miss Gorringer's service worked the remainder of the match.

Ann Wallace, fresh player, reached the semi-finals by defeating Virginia Green in the quarter-finals in the last three sets before losing to Ruth Bibl.

QUAKERS RUIN PANTHER NINE IN LAST CONTEST

Preston Lees First Hitting of Last Inning Defeats Purple Nine 5 to 4.

Contributing factors five game-winning run in the last inning Coach Ford's Panthers dropped their final game of the season to Earlham, 5 to 4, on the Quaker baseball diamond on Saturday afternoon.

Both clubs started out with the bats in the first inning and the Quakers pounded home additionally in the second inning to take a lead of three runs. Earlham, however, was unable to add to their total after the second inning.

Lawrence White, Earlham pitcher, found the middle of the field to be his favorite spot for the ball and the Panthers were unable to find the Earlham pitcher's speed ballers. White struck out 11 batters and allowed seven hits.

The game was a tight one in the pitching department, both hurlers allowing but one run in the first seven innings.

Coach Ford's nine was unable to get a hit off White until the fifth inning when Hamilton singled. Hamilton was forced at second by Lantz, who singled, and Lantz was caught stealing second.

The Panthers scored their first run in the sixth inning when Hall, who had replaced Lantz in left field, singled and scored on Dille's double. Dille was forced at second by Tuttle, who singled. Tuttle was caught stealing second.

The Panthers' second run came in the seventh inning when Hamilton singled and scored on Hall's double. Hall was forced at second by Tuttle, who singled.

Earlham scored three runs in the second inning on a single by Preston Lees, a double by Ben Hoag and a single by Lawrence White.

Preston Lees was the hero of the game as a result of his hit in the last inning.

The Panthers' entire nine was used in the game with Earlham on Saturday afternoon with the exception of Bissell. Pearson was the leading batter in the game with two hits in four trips to the plate. Tuttle, Dille and Pearson

The Panthers rallied in the ninth to push two markers across the platter, but lacked the final punch to overcome the Guilford lead. "Dub" Koontz, Pointer second sacker, flied out to Swaim, Guilford center fielder, to end the 1936 season for both clubs.

Towery led the locals at bat with a total of three hits in four trips to the plate. Weston, with two hits, feaured for Guilford.

ing editor for several months before he was named editor last spring.

The sports editor, Hartman, and the managing editor, Miss Bell, both rising seniors, have been members of the paper's editorial staff almost from the beginning of their College careers. Hartman has been official sports editor for the past two years, and is in addition student publicity director for High Point College.

Myers was appointed to THE HI-PO's circulation department at the beginning of last year and succeeded to the position of circulation manager upon the failure of John Herman Davis to return to school this year.

The position of President of THE HI-PO Board, which was held by Larry Yount last year, and to which D. Kermit Cloniger was appointed last spring, has been abolished. The President of the Board was the nominal titular head of the newspaper, acting as adviser to both the editorial and business staffs.

the Wrenn Memorial Library in honor of the late Mr. M. J. Wrenn, who was for many years a trustee of the College and a man vitally interested in the development of the school.

The present library facilities of the College are housed in a very limited space in Roberts Hall. A separate library building has been a long felt need, not only to provide for the growing collection of books but also to release the much-needed space in Roberts Hall.

This building is the first to be constructed on the campus since Harrison Gymnasium was completed four years ago, and it marks a renewal of expansion for the College.

An important feature of the evening was the election of Mrs. G I. Humphreys sponsor of the organization. Mrs. Humphreys has been much interested in the Association since its inception, and accepted the invitation to become its official sponsor with expressions of pleasure.

WHAT THE PLAYERS EXPECT TO DO

Culler and Harris have signed up with the Concord entry in the Central Carolina league.

Dorset and Koontz plan to play with Thomasville Chair team.

Diamont, out now with injury, hopes to recover for season with Burlington or Gibsonville of Industrial League.

Rudisill will probably play at Lincolnton, his home town, this summer.

Coach Yow will officiate in the Central Carolina loop, and the Inter-City league.

Undecided, or silent for other reasons; Ingle, Rogers, Intrieri, Brinkley, Martin, Jarrett, Setzer, Niernsee, Booth, Elder, Isley, White, Towery and others.

Chesterfield Advertising Praised By Charles Ridge

The management of the College Bookstore wishes to commend the attractiveness of the Chesterfield display advertising recently installed in the store by H. C. Ferrell, district representative of the Liggett and Myers Tobacco company.

Charles E. Ridge, student manager, points out that the Chesterfield advertising has been consistently attractive and has been reflected in increased sales of this popular brand of cigarettes in the Bookstore. Ridge is particularly enthusiastic about the interest that Mr. Ferrell has taken in preparing his displays for the local store, and he believes that the advertising is a real credit to the appearance of the interior.

May 2, not May 10, is Mother's Day at Georgetown College.

Over one-half of the class, 24, are women, with 17 men on the roll. Seventeen of the number, 11 women and six men, are residents of the city of High Point.

The following seniors will receive diplomas: Pattie Graves Partee, Reidsville; Nell Brower, High Point; Catherine Brown, High Point; Edith Maxine Crowder, High Point; Catherine Elizabeth Farlow, Sophia; Laura Elizabeth Fritz, Lexington; Virginia Lee Grant, Garysburg; Margaret Juanita Hayworth, High Point.

Doris Hedgecock, High Point; Lois Hedgecock, High Point; Frances Lambeth, High Point; Christine Latham, High Point; Ruby Martin, Mocksville; Dorothy McCollum, Reidsville; Josie McNeill, Asheville; Alice Nesbit, High Point; Mary Parham, Henderson; Dorothy Perry, Thomasville; Ernestine Von-Cannon Strickland, High Point.

Clara Tanner, Litleton; Lillian Varner, Morganton; Hazel Welborn, Trinity; Julia Williard, High Point; Mrs. E. M. Briles, Asheboro, an extension student; E. N. C. Andrews, Thomasville; Broadus Culler, High Point; George Elder, High Point; Sulon Ferree, Tobaccoville; Lincoln Fulk, High Point; Atley Hartman, Advance; George Ingle, Siler City.

Milliard Isley, Graham; Frank Jones, Jamestown; James Massey, Pleasant Hill; Lee Moser, Burlington; Leo Pittard, Roanoke Rapids; Edgar Snider, High Point; Carrick Teague, Kernersville; Leon Thompson, High Point; Leonard White, Winston-Salem and Hoyt Wood, Denton.

Two more students, Elijah Dinmont of Gibsonville and Ray Hilton of Thomasville, expect to complete work for degree in the summer school session.

Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the former Doris Duke, "richest girl," spent two days on the Duke University campus recently — and wasn't recognized.

ciation title, comes in for its share of the glory for the year. And as this is a comparatively new sport, they probably deserve more praise than they have received. Their victories over Duke, Davidson and Catawba is real evidence that High Point produces one of the best soccer teams in the state.

Dividing their series of games, the Duke Blue Devils and the Panthers may be termed the co-holders of the state coellegiate title. There is no official state title.

Kernersville and Duke inflicted losses this year, to break the nondefeat record at five straight years.

Still handicapped by lack of adequate courts, the netmen showed great improvement over last year. In winning three matches the racqueteers showed real potential power for future court warfare.

Not only has real progress been made in the inter-collegiate field, but in the intra-mural athletics Keen interest has been shown by the classes in the volleyball, basketball and softball series. The literary society teams have also engaged in several hotly contested battles during the year.

The College athletic department gained prominence in the North State circle and in the eyes of state fans by the obvious success of the North State cage tourney staged in Harrison gymnasium the last three days in February. Although there has been no definite action, High Point stands a good chance of becoming the permanent scene of this event, which is to be an annual affair. Located in the center of the state, offering one of the best equipped gyms in the conference and the biggest "gate," the College appears as the logical selection.

Coach Yow, who finished his fourth year as director of the athletic department, is in no small way responsible for the successful year. Broadus Culler, student assistant, coached the soccer team and assisted in the physical education classes and intra-mural program. Prof. N. P. Yarborough served as coach of the tennis team.

Although no announcement has been made, Coach Yow is expected to return next fall for his fifth year as coach here.

lve, shows that the High Point squad could with adequate practice and better facilities loom as possibly one of the strongest contenders for the conference title.

Several of the individual members of the team show almost topranking averages. Frank Niernsee, holder of the top position on the team and winner of the fall tournament last year, has the most wins to his credit on the team itself and one of the best averages in the conference, having won seven out of ten matches in singles competition, losing to a Lenoir-Rhyne man twice and to Jones of Elon once. Wilson Rogers, captain and number four man, also shows a good average with seven out of 11 wins, while Jarrett, promising number two man, brings up the third place in the number of wins with six out of 11 matches coming his way. Setzer, freshman and number three man took three out of 11 while White, number five man, was able to pull out only one match during the season.

Fulk Succeeds Cloniger As Student Council President

New President Elected to Succeed President - Elect, Who Fails to Return.

INSTALLATION TODAY

New Leader to Head Organization With Unusual Powers in Student Administration.

A. Lincoln Fulk, of High Point, Monday was named president of the student body to succeed D. Kermit Cloniger, president-elect, who failed to return to school. Fulk won over Hoyt Wood, of Denton, who was the only other candidate nominated for the position.

Allen Austin, vice president of the council, read Cloniger's resignation to the assembled students of the three upper classes, and presided over the election.

Fulk transferred to High Point College from Campbell junior college in the fall of 1933. He is pastor of the North Main Street Baptist church in High Point, and has been particularly active in forensic activities on the campus.

He was a member of the College debating team which came back from a long tour of the West last year to win the state championship at the South Atlantic forensic tournament. Fulk is charter member of the Order of the Lighted Lamp, local leadership and scholastic organization. He is also a member of the College ministerial association and the Thalean Literary Society.

Cloniger sometime ago accepted a position with the International Harvester company, which prevented his returning to school. He was also president of the North Carolina Collegiate Press association, and head of THE HI-PO board. He is also a former president of the class of 1936. He is now located in Statesville.

Fulk will head a student government organization that has almost unprecedented powers of administration. In the very near future the council will be given control of student absences and tardies. A committee will be chosen whose duty it will be to receive and pass on all excuses. This action is in keeping with the Administration's policy of keeping "hands off" as far as possible in the management of student affairs.

The class representatives to the student council are as follows:

Senior class, Sulon Ferree and Lois Hedgecock; junior class, W. W. Weisner and Dorothy Bell; sophomore class, Alson Gray and Elizabeth Phillips. Freshman members will be elected soon after the organization of the class of 1939.

Wallace Will Be First On College Lyceum Schedule

Famous Magician to Appear Here on Tuesday, October 1; Complete Series Is Announced.

Wallace the Magician will appear at the College next Tuesday night, October 1, in the first lyceum program of the year, it has been announced by Dean P. E. Lindley, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Wallace si reported to have returned from a tour of the Old World and is expected to give a thrilling program of startling manifestation of his art.

Five different attractions have been scheduled for the 1935-1936 season and all artists come highly recommended by institutions and organizations where programs have been given before. Special effort has been made to select and present numbers from various fields of entertainment.

After Wallace come Kyrl and his famous Symphony Band consisting of forty musicians. This group of artists will appear in concert at the College on October 28. A copy of the program has already been forwarded here and will be published at a later date.

The third event is a program by the Twin City Glee club on the evening of December 3.

Leaving the field of music, Elliott James appears as the fourth attraction giving a lecture on, and demonstration of, liquid air and other scientific phenomona. Mr. James entertained for a great while at the Chicago World's Fair with this same demonstration. His appearance on the College platform is anticipated with considerable enthusiasm. His presentation is made in a popular as well as scientific manner.

Miss Ethelyne Smith, soprano, closes the lyceum course with a recital on April 24. Miss Smith is an artist of excellent ability, and is making her first appearance at High Point on her tour through the South.

A lyceum fee is included in the student activity charge, payment of which at registration time entitles the student to attend these programs without further charge. A limited number of season tickets will be for sale to the general public, but due to the lack of seating capacity in the auditorium, the number will of necessity be rather small. Opportunity will be given to secure these tickets through the lyceum committee.

Several Changes In Womans Hall

Upstairs Clubroom Furnished and Opened For Dating; Floors Varnished in Bedrooms.

Students returning to the College last week found numerous improvements in the various campus buildings—improvements which promise more enjoyable dates for the socially inclined, quicker haircuts for the hirsute, and a better appearance all round.

The upstairs clubroom of Woman's Hall, heretofore "no man's land", which is to be included in dating territory this year, boasts new and brightly cushioned divans, gay drapes, and floor lamps. The floors of both social rooms have been refinished in darker shades. A door has been erected at the entrance to the attic, and all bedroom floors have been varnished and waxed. Heretofore the floors of the bedrooms have been unfinished.

In the book store building Ferman Wright, the College barber, presides over a new shop with a single chair, running water, and an electric sign bearing the traditional red and blue stripes of the tonsorial trade. The store proper has acquired a fresh coat of paint, an electric clock, a new and complete stock of rings and pins, and the job of selling fresh-

MAJOR IN SOCIOLOGY TO BE OFFERED HERE

Students Below Senior Rank May Register for Degree in Sociology This Year.

The College is now prepared to offer in its courses leading to the A. B. degree a major in sociology. It is not, however, available to students graduating this year.

The courses now offered in connection with this major are Principles of Economics, Principles of Sociology, and Rural Sociology. The spring semester will include Social Problems, Social Psychology, and Labor Problems. The highly specialized divisions of the work, such as Race Relations, The Family, and Family Case Work, will not be offered this year. They will be reserved for next year's senior class, with sufficient additions to the teaching staff to take care of the extra hours.

Members of this year's junior class may plan to take this course if they are so inclined. Next year's addition to the teaching staff will bring the number of sociology hours up to the necessary 27. Dr. Lindley, Dean of the College, is at present teaching the sociology courses offered.

Societies Begin Membership Rush

Campus Literary Organizations Start Competition for Members From New Students.

Each of the four literary societies on the campus has begun its drive for members from the students newly arrived on the campus.

The Thalean and Akrothinian societies, mens' organizations, have agreed to an exchange of meeting nights in order that the rushing will be entirely equal and fair. The Akrothinians will hold their first regular meeting tonight instead of Thursday, the usual meeting night. Next week the Thaleans will meet on Wednesday , while the Akrothinians will meet on the regular night that week.

Paul Owen, president of the Akrothinian organization, has announced that his society will eschew its program on Thursday, October 3 in favor of a social meeting given in honor of the new men. While the Thaleans have made no definite arrangements for a similar entertainment, it is also their custom to honor the freshmen each year, according to Lee Moser, head of that organization.

The womens' organizations are preparing for the annual decision night, which has been set for October 4 this year. At that time the new women become members of the organization of their choice.

Lois Hedgecock, of High Point, is president of the Nikanthan Society, and Mary Parham, of Henderson, is leader of the Artemesians.

The campus literary societies give programs of cultural and literary interest throughout the year, and each usually sponsors several social events.

The formal society day of the Akrothinian-Artemesian organization is held on the first Saturday of each March, with the Nikanthan-Thalean event coming somewhat later in the spring.

HARTMAN WILL HEAD NEW PRESS BUREAU

Enlarged Publicity Organ Under Promotional Secretary Succeeds Press Club.

The College publicity duties have been assumed by Mr. N. M. Harrison, Promotional Secretary, and Alton Hartman, a junior, of Advance, has been named student director.

For the past two years the function of sending out College news to state newspapers has been handled by a student organization known as the Press Club. This year news will be dispensed by an improved and enlarged setup patterned after the news bureaus of larger schools.

Hartman became connected with the Press Club in the spring of 1934, being appointed first librarian of the organization soon after it was founded by C. T. Morris. Last year he was advanced to sports writer in charge of all athletic news sent out from the College. He is president of the Junior class, sports editor of THE HI-PO, and reporter for the Thalean Literary Society.

HI-PO TO BEGIN DISTRIBUTION OF COLLEGE DIGEST

A regular pictorial review of the news of the college world will be featured each week in The Collegiate Digest section of THE HI-PO, the first issue of which appears with this edition of THE HI-PO.

Featuring exclusive lively features written especially for its wide collegiate audience in addition to the regular news of the week "in picture and paragraph," Collegiate Digest brings to the readers of THE HI-PO the most complete pictorial review of college news available.

A new and unique feature of the issue will be the unusual Speed photos taken with the "Mo-Ve" camera and depicting the continuous motions of athletes in action. The remarkable photos have been made possible recently by the invention of a camera which "stops" the various movements of people in action.

Then, too, Collegiate Digest will continue in The Spotlighter, its bright and lively stories of the great and near great who graduated from or attended college. The first issue features the biography of America's greatest humorist, Will Rogers, presenting many heretofore unpublished facts about his life.

Students of High Point College are urged to send photos to the editor of Collegiate Digest at P. O. Box 472, Madison, Wis. Regular newspaper rates are paid for all photos accepted for publication.

New Library To Be Opened By Next May

Architect at Work on Plans for Building Given as Memorial to Late M. J. Wrenn.

FIFTH BUILDING

Another Step in Realization of Building Program Outlined by Founders of College.

An architect is now completing drawings for the new High Point College library building, it has been announced by Dr. G. I. Humphreys.

While no definite date has been set for the beginning of actual construction, officials announce that the building positively will be ready for occupancy by May 1, 1936.

In an impressive announcement made on graduation day last spring, Mrs. M. J. Wrenn, a trustee of the College, said that the library would be built as a memorial to her late husband.

Mr. Wrenn was for many years a trustee of the College, and a man vitally interested in the development of the school. The new building will be known as the Wrenn Memorial Library.

No details about the style of the building will be available until the completion of the architect's drawings, but it is believed that the building program outlined in the College catalog will be followed. This will be the first new building added since the completion of Harrison Gymnasium four years ago, and is another step forward in the rapid expansion of the College.

The College library is at present housed in a very limited space in Roberts Hall. Its removal to a separate building will not only

HI-PO MEETING

THE HI-PO is issuing a call to all students, old or new, who are interested in newspaper work to meet in Room 1 at three o'clock Thursday afternoon. Positions are open in both the editorial and the business departments. College newspaper work in general will be discussed and an opportunity will be offered to those present to compete for positions on the staff.

COLLEGE ADDS TWO MEMBERS TO FACULTY

On the left is Mr. Cullen B. Owens, who comes to High Point College as head of the Speech Department, director of dramatics, and debating coach, after receiving his Master's degree at Northwestern University. Right is Miss Elda Clark, a High Point graduate, who will teach courses in the Business Department and act as secretary to the President.

High Point College Opens For Twelfth Session With High Registration Figure

Humphreys Holds Out Promise of More Self-Government in Officially Opening Institution.

HARTZELL WELCOMES

Freshman Aid Committee Assists in Orientation Program for Record Freshman Class.

High Point College officially opened its doors for its twelfth annual session last Friday morning with the first assembly of the student body and faculty.

Registration of upperclassmen began last Tuesday afternoon, and the freshman class began enrollment two days later. All indications point to one of the largest student bodies in the history of the school, although no exact figures have been issued by officials. A small number of students continue to register each day, and the roster probably will not be completed for a week or more.

The Rev. Howard S. Hartzell, president of the Ministerial Association in the city of High Point, Friday morning welcomed the assembled group to the local churches. The Rev. J. Clay Madison, '32, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, frequently referred to as the "College church," issued a special invitation to the students to attend his church.

President G. I. Humphreys personally greeted the students at their first assembly. He promised the school a measure of self-government that is unusual among small schools of the South, in turning over to the council control of classroom absences and tardies.

"Added privileges bring added responsibilities," said Dr. Humphries.

A program of freshman orientation has been in progress for the past week, marked by several gatherings of a social nature. An aid committee, consisting of outstanding campus leaders, and headed by Allen Austin, vice president of the council, has rendered valuable assistance in adjusting the new students to their campus environment.

Freshman initiation will be handled in a regulated, orderly fashion this year, according to the rules drawn up by a sophomore committee last spring, and approved by the student council. No initiation of any kind will start until October 1. The entire program will be planned in advance by a committee and submitted to the student council. Dr. Humphreys has promised the full backing of the administration in enforcing an orderly and sportsmanlike initiation.

Administration officials and campus leaders alike are looking forward to a banner year at the College. Expressions of optimism are heard on every side as the school starts the year with a large and promising student body.

Two Teachers Are Added To Faculty; Librarian Named

Business and Speech Departments Gets New Instructors; Mrs. White Named to Library.

Two new teachers have been added to the faculty of the College. Miss Elda Clark, of High Point, who received her A. B. from the College, is an assistant professor in the commercial department this year. She will teach a class in shorthand and also one in typing, in addition to her duties as secretary to the president. Miss Clark has taught commercial subjects in Asheboro high school for the past three years.

Cullen B. Owens, professor of speech and dramatics and debating coach, received his B. A. in English from Berea College, located in Berea, Kentucky, and later his M. A. from the School of Speech of Northwestern University in Chicago. Mr. Owens' home is in Hazard, Kentucky.

Professor Owens fills the vacancy left by John M. Erickson who accepted a law scholarship at the University of Cincinnati this year. Professor Erickson, last year, turned out the state championship debating team.

Mrs. Alice Paige White, who has been a member of the faculty for several years, teaching in both the ancient language and the English departments, has been named acting librarian. She succeeds Miss Louise Jennings, who is now connected with the public library at Kinston.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT EXPANDS

Several Theoretical Courses To Be Taught in Connection With Practical Training.

The College department of physical education this year presents a more diversified course of study than has heretofore been offered. The various divisions outlined for the course include both theoretical and practical work.

Besides the usual classes in practical physical education—general courses which have taken up the various sports in season—courses are being offered in corrective exercises, first aid, physical education theory, and specialized fields. Especially has there been improvement in the physical education program for women.

Tumbling, which constituted only an outside interest last year, is being offered as separate course for credit. Instruction in pyramid building is included. First aid, which was part of the program last year, and which carries with it an American Red Cross

Entertainments Are Feature Of Freshman Week

Series Is Culminated With Open House at Womans Hall; Endeavorers Give Party.

Open house in Woman's Hall Sunday afternoon culminated a series of social events designed to make freshmen at home and to aid them in becoming acquainted with campus localities and personalities.

Freshmen registered on Thursday. On Thursday evening, the resident faculty members entertained the student groups in their various dormitories. In Woman's Hall, faculty members as well as students donned childish clothing for their frolic. The party began inside the dormitory, but soon overflowed to the lawn, where instructors and coeds joined in the time-honored pastime of jumping rope. A tap dance by Margaret Dixon was an entertaining feature of the evening. In McCulloch Hall, infantile amusements also prevailed, with males puffing feathers over barriers, and blowing air into balloons until explosions followed.

Friday evening the lawn of Woman's Hall was the scene of a "nigger festival", sponsored by campus religious organizations, at which all guests were invited to appear dressed to "suit the nigger in yo' natur." Day and dormitory students of all classes were present, as were faculty members—including Miss Mary Young, former dean of women, who was gay and garrulous in her character of the "nigger" hostess. A number of contests were features of the program, in which Doctor Paul Bowen lived up to his campus reputation by taking part in all the competitive events. In addition, "get acquainted" games were played. Watermelon was another, and an appropriate, feature.

The Sunday afternoon "open house" was in the nature of an informal tea from three to five o'clock. It had a dual purpose—that of "showing off" the furniture in Woman's Hall, and of giving freshmen and upper classmen further opportunity to become acquainted. Tea was served in the lower clubroom, with Mrs. Humphreys at the tea-table. Guests were free to roam at will in the upper social room and on the lawn. In the course of the afternoon, a number of former students came by for brief visits.

A social event to take place later is the annual faculty reception, which is scheduled for Friday evening. The reception, sponsored by faculty members for all students, is a formal affair.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HAS VESPER SERVICE

Dr. Humphreys and Choral Group appear at the First Meeting of Society.

The College Christian Endeavor Society held its first meeting of the year in the form of outdoor vesper services on Sunday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock.

Mary Margaret Bates, president of the organization, welcomed new students briefly and simply. She introduced Miss Margaret Sloan, of the music department, who announced that she had secured several members of last year's A Capella Choir to render special music. The group sang Bortnyansky's Cherubim Song preceding the scripture reading by J. E. Garlington.

Doctor G. I. Humphreys spoke briefly and stirringly on "Coming to Terms With Life." He urged that new students realize that college life must be in the nature of an investment which must bring returns to others as well as to the investor, that they have a high determination to find for themselves souls. He spoke of the responsibilities and contacts which have great meaning, of the results which they might have. He closed with a challenge to all students to resolve to live a higher life.

The service closed with the singing of "Now the Day Is Over", and the repetition of the Mizpah benediction.

WE EXTEND THE GLAD HAND

For the tenth successive year THE HI-PO joins with several thousand other college papers in extending a welcome to the incoming students. Every editor attempts to get away from platitudes and write a glad-hand editorial that is really different. Most of them fail. However we feel that editors are justified in repeating a more or less standardized editorial of welcome to the students, because, after all, most editors really are glad to see the new freshman class and a large percentage of the old students.

Therefore THE HI-PO, without apology, continues the tradition of welcome to the students, both new and old. We are honestly glad of the opportunity to become acquainted with the new students and continue our friendship with the old ones. We invite the new students to join with the old in putting across every activity on the campus.

Material indications point to a banner year at High Point College, with more and better opportunities for everyone. THE HI-PO staff again welcomes you to the campus, and looks forward with you to a realization of the promise at hand.

SUPPORT OUR ADVERTISERS

THE HI-PO, like the vast majority of newspapers, both amateur and professional, is made possible through the cooperation of advertisers. The staff believes that every dollar invested in HI-PO advertising brings a good return to the merchant who advertises with us, largely through the cooperation of students in patronizing firms that place ads in the paper. We are very anxious that these friendly business relations between the students of High Point College and the local firms shall continue to show a substantial increase.

The new out-of-town students will find the city of High Point a fine shopping center. It is to be hoped that they follow the old students in forming trading habits influenced by HI-PO advertising. Make High Point your home town for the next nine months, and get the full advantage of the opportunities offered here off the College campus. Keep the advertising on these pages in mind when you make your next trip up town. Remember that without advertising, and advertising that pays for itself, there would be no HI-PO.

WE CHOOSE A NEW LEADER

The student body of the College has done well in choosing a new leader for its student council, which has before it a year of unparalled opportunities and responsibilities.

It is unfortunate that Cloniger is unable to return to school; his contributions to student government, to class organizations, and to the business department of THE HI-PO are unquestioned. By his accomplishments in the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, of which he was president-elect, he brought the College and the College paper state-wide fame that can scarcely be attained again in a decade. The student body can but wish him the greatest success in his new work.

But certainly Fulk has the maturity, the vision, and the leadership to lead the student government organization to a fine realization of the ideals of its founders and supporters. His work on the debating squad and in various campus organizations put him head and shoulders above the field for the highest office within the power of the students of this College to bestow. His character and ability give all promise of vindicating the faith shown in him by a large popular vote.

THE HI-PO staff congratulates Fulk, and calls upon the entire student body to cooperate as one in putting over the great program which has been outlined. We have chosen able leaders; with able support the Student Government of High Point College will achieve triumphs exemplary to student self-government throughout the entire South.

TO JOIN OR NOT TO JOIN

One of the most pressing problems with which the new college student is confronted is the matter of deciding which of the many campus organizations he shall join. High Point has a variety of extra-curricular activities which embrace the interest of a versatile student body. There are religious organizations which are entirely adequate to maintain the spiritual interest of the student who has a background of church training and reverent home influence. The four literary societies of the campus make an undoubted contribution to the scholastic and cultural atmosphere of the College, aside from their recreational value. There is an intercollegiate and intro-mural sports program sufficient to keep the livliest athlete busy. In addition there are College publications, dramatic organizations, debating, the choir and many other activities, all bidding for the services of the new students.

All of these organizations fill a definite need, otherwise they would not flourish on the campus. Every student should be identified with several organizations; they are very definitely a part of the College. But experience has shown that there is a danger in joining too many things. The student who succumbs to the "rush" of every organization on the campus is likely to find himself without time to be of real service to any one activity, therefore impairing the value of the organization to himself.

The wise course to take in this matter of joining is one of moderation. Become connected with enough clubs to keep yourself busy, but study your own preferences and join carefully. With a well-balanced program of classroom and outside activities, a working time budget, and sincere application, you will reach your highest efficiency.

TAKE IT ON THE CHIN

This year, for the first time in the history of the College, initiation is to come under regulation. Instead of being the entirely spontaneous, often undignified and painful, thing of the past, this year's introduction of freshmen to campus procedure is to have, along with the usual element of the ludicrous, something of organization and dignity. Freshmen may be sure, when asked to do something during the initiation period, that the request comes from a large group, not from one or two individuals whose zeal surpasses their good sense.

Elsewhere in this paper there is given a synopsis of the general rules governing initiation. Certainly the rules are not unreasonable; the upperclassmen are not asking too much. It is, then, up to the members of the freshman class to take what comes like the good sports we believe they are. This business of initiation is not, as some people may think, a Roman holiday in which upperclassmen give vent to innate brutality—both mental and physical. It is, instead, a method of finding out whether newcomers can "take it," a way of making them feel that they "belong."

The new rules should do away with any distortion of this meaning—certainly they definitely discourage any mistaken and childish "private parties" such as may have taken place in the past. We believe that initiation this year will mean what it should mean—an introduction to college life, a fostering of college spirit.

If Ray Russell, John Eshelman, John Pendleton, or Helen Raper are doing anything, they are keeping it to themselves as far as anyone seems to know.

The Vogue

The far and sometimes ill-famed Vogue again comes back on the campus after three months vacation. Those of you who have been breathlessly awaiting its reappearance in the hope that its editors have spent the entire summer in collecting more and better dirt are going to be disappointed. And those of you who have been trembling in fear of its appearance will be relieved. The truth is that the Vogue has reformed. (Only partly due to the withdrawal of Egghead as its guiding hand.) The Vogue will be a more diversified column than hitherto. We reserve the right to write about anything of interest, whether it be a new book, a new show, news from other colleges, society gossip, or whatnot. And we won't cut out the good clean dirt entirely. The column will be written by various members of THE HI-PO staff, and we hope to present several outsiders as guest columnists during the year. They, of course, will be free to choose their own subjects.

But now to get down to business. The Myers-Barnhouse-Austin-Etc. contingent is seeking new quarters for its bull-sessions, which have been most prolific for the past two years. Genial host John W. Davis is reported to be too busy with his farming to attend school this year. However he invites all of his old friends to come up to a tobacco-curing sometime. J. Claude Kimrey, co-host and born leader of the above named sessions, has moved on to new pastures, having transferred to the University of North Carolina.

It seems that the ex-students simply cannot resist the attractions of dear old H. P. C. Larry Yount, John Warlick, Bobo Ronyecz, Archie Smith and Chunker Hight, were notable visitors on the campus during the past week, while Pinky Williams, Dorus Cloniger, and Egghead Morris are expected in next week-end. Look for the women in these cases.

The elder Hartman, on the other hand, could not resist the attractions of home sweet home, or some place thereabouts. He had only been on the campus four days before he started back in the general direction of Mocksville. She'll be in Brevard next week-end.

The first Sunday night at Womans' Hall and the lights go out for thirty minutes. Boy, how we regretted making that resolution to keep a clean Vogue. But we didn't even look; we just booed Ferman, who did look so sweet singing hymns by candle-light. 'Tis a pity he doesn't have a voice to match his looks.

The editor-elect of the Lenoir Rhyne college paper has resigned his position to accept a job in a bank at Lenoir. He'll never know how lucky he is, unless he goes back into the newspaper game.

Guilford staged its first dance of the year on the same night that the Christian Endeavor society entertained the freshmen here. No comment necessary.

Frosh at Duke are told to be prepared to deliver a three minute speech at any time. Mr. Owens should import a few little Dukes to pinch hit for some of the juniors in his speech classes. He would probably hear better speeches.

And then there was the unlucky bridge player who remarked that he was the proud father of twin byes. Erickson influence, no doubt. He was punny that way, too. But that's oil right; he's safely on the right side of the Ohio this year.

Shin-Busters Begin Drills

Equipment was issued to the soccer squad yesterday afternoon, and Coach Culler started the Panther shin-busters through the early practice grind in preparation for the coming season.

The date of the opening game has not been announced as yet, but it will probably take place within the next two weeks. Practice tilts with some of the local teams may be held before that time. The regular schedule is expected to contain more games than lost year, and tougher teams will be played. Arrangements are now pending for an exchange of games with the Davidson squad.

Although his team was hit hard by graduation and loss of veteran players for other reasons, Culler is expecting to put out a fighting team again this year. The High Point teams in the past years have built up a record that all the students are proud of, five straight years of non-defeat, and the fans will be depending upon the '35 club to keep the record unblemished for the coming year, to boost the winning streak up to six successive seasons.

The men returning that have had one or more years of experience on the Panther team are: Isley, Sherrill, and Elder, backfield men, Culler, coach and center, Harris, Grigg, and Ferree, utility, and Niernsee, who will probably be groomed for the goal-keeping job.

Big gaps were left in the line. Yount, Jones, and Captain Byrum, all stellar shin-busters, graduated. English, Rudisill, and Cloniger failed to return.

The freshmen class will probably furnish some additions to the team, but it is not known yet how the new men will stack up in this game.

Improvements Are Made In the Gym

The extensive physical education and collegiate sports program of the year which will have as its setting the fine Harrison gymnasium of High Point College shall find very little room for alibies in the physical equipment of the gym itself due to the fact that many improvements have been made during the summer months and will continue to be made throughuot the school year.

Construction of dressing rooms for both boys and girls inside the gymnasium instead of in the respective dormitories, as previously, which was started before school closing last year, has been finished and the rooms are now ready to take care of all comers—yhpsical deucation students and outside sports participators as well.

The completion of this work now makes the High Point College gymnasium one of the most complete and up to date college gyms in the state, certainly in the conference. The equipment now includes a well adapted heating system; adequate seating arrangements in special gym bleachers; a big, well polished floor which is well suited for basketball, volley-ball, indoor-baseball, badminton, tumbling and wrestling; supplies for the various sports such as basketballs, basketball nets, volley-balls and net, badminton equipment, et al.; and now of course the two new dressing rooms.

The program for further improvement in the Harrison building calls for the installation of a heating plant within the building so that hot water will be available at all times for showers etc.; showers and dressing rooms will also be installed in the large basement so that visiting teams can be provided for. Their comfort will also be looked after in this building program by the constructing of opened sleeping quarters in the gym bascment.

With the wealth of good basketball material and gym students and with the improved building itself High Point College students may well look for continual broken athletic records.

SOCCER MEN DEFEND RECORD OF UNDEFEAT

With a tough season ahead in which their five year record of non-defeat will be at stake, the High Point College soccer team has already started practice with a grim determination to keep the record intact during the coming season.

The initial practice was held Tuesday afternoon, with around 16 men answering Coach Culler's call for players. More men are expected to report within the next few days. Fall baseball practice claims some at present.

Culler is drilling his men in the fundamentals of the game for the first practices. Both new and old men are being taught how to trap the ball, block, pass, and kick correctly. Scrimmages will be held until the men are in better physical shape.

Many of the old shin-busters will not appear in the line-up this time. Byrum, Yount, and Jones graduated, while Cloniger, English, and Rudisill failed to return to school. Culler, student coach and center on the team, hopes to fill these gaps with new men, both from the upperclassmen and freshman class.

To Continue Fall Baseball

Fall baseball practice, which started last week, will continue for five more weeks, it has been announced by Coach Yow.

According to Yow, these practices gives the coach a chance to look over his men, both new and old, and get some idea of how the team will appear the following spring. Many likely freshman prospects have been discovered this way in the fall.

The players are being taught the fundamentals of baseball, such as base running, fielding, hitting, bunting, and trapping runner off base. Coach is also trying to correct recognized faults in several of his old men.

In addition to the regular training, the team has played one game with an amateur club, and will probably play some more. Last Saturday they defeated Gibsonville by the count of 8-2, with Coach Yow hurling against the home town boys. The Panthers displayed power at the plate at intervals in the game, scoring 7 runs in the third rack, and securing 10 hits in the game.

Approximately 15 to 20 men have been reporting for practice. Culler, Koontz, Diamont, Isley, Martin, Harris, and Grigg, are the lettermen back that have reported. Dorsett will be back, but has not showed up on the field. Rudisill, veteran southpaw, and the Mainstay of the Panther hurling staff last year, has not entered school yet, but he is expected back by the second semester.

Among the new men, "Red" Towery, of Lattimore, is showing the most promise at present. It appears that the hefty freshman will add plenty of punch to the Panthers' attack next spring. Luther, a junior, looked good behind the plate during the time he played in the game against Gibsonville last Saturday. If he continues to develop, he probably will share part of the catching duties with Diamont, the regular receiver.

Other likely freshmen are Waggoner and Brantley. Watson, a yearling from Alabama, has a good "eye" at the plate, and will no doubt come through with a little coaching. Several other players may look better after another week of training.

Most of the regulars spent the summer playing with some amateur team. Harris and Culler played with Cooleemee in the Carolina Textile league, where each had a good season. Diamont caught for Gibsonville; Dorsett played in Thomasville, and Brinkley played with Mills Home.

NOTE TO STUDENTS

Akron, O.—(IP)—Experiments made by Prof. George L. Hayes, head of the department of psychology at Akron University, demonstrate that while a person who has lost a great deal of sleep may give all the appearances of being wide awake, he makes perhaps 35 per cent more mistakes in what he does than the person who has had normal rest.

Prof. Hayes tried the experiment on students who had had only four hours sleep out of 24 and seven out of 48. He used two electric lights, operated by separate buttons. The student's job was to push the right button when the corresponding light came on, or both buttons when both lights came on.

The sleepy students responded as quickly as the rested students, but they made 35 per cent more errors.

SIDELINE SPORTS

By Alton Hartman

Beginning with this issue, a sports column, entitled SIDELINE SPORTS, will appear in THE HI-PO practically every week. SIDELINE SPORTS is the successor of SPECULATIN' IN SPORTS, ably written last year by Lee Sherrill before he jointhe Cards. We are pounding out this sheet for two reasonsS first, for your benefit, and second, to fill up space. Even if the readers are disgusted with it, the words will still fill up space. Then our work will not be wholly in vain.

In the column we shall attempt to give you the latest gossip concerning college sports, both on the campus and off, and in other fields of sports. Comments will be made from time to time on the results of certain contests, and conference races, but we promise not to bore you with a long list of football predictions each week.

The freshmen have us guessing. With all this crowd milling around the campus, it is hard to pick out a future Panther center, a star netman, a superb hurler, or one of those hard kicking shin-busters. But time will tell. The freshman class last year gave us Intrier, Harris, Niernsee, Martin, and Griegg, each of whom added strength to some High Point team, and we are expecting plenty this time.

This should be a great year in athletics for High Point. The soccer team was hit hard by graduation and failure of a great number of the players to return, but the basketball squad lost only one man by graduation, namely Captain Ronyecz.

The tennis line up will be changed somewhat, but the baseball team will be composed of practically the same players, with additions from the freshman class and other new students.

Coach Yow will be back to coach the Panther baseball and basketball teams for the fourth consecutive year. He has put out some great teams in this time, but tough breaks have prevented a conference winning team. Yow reports that he spent the summer umpiring in the Coastal Plains and Roanoke-Chowan leagues.

'Culler's shin-busters have got some record to uphold this fall. Five straight years of playing without meeting defeat is good for any college team. With tougher games on the schedule, and many gaps to fill, Culler will have his hands full if he leads the soccer eleven through with straight victories to boost the record of non-defeat up to six consecutive years.

Every day brings in more and more veteran athletes. . . Niernsee dropped in during the wee small hours Monday morning, and "Saddle-Legs" is due to arrive any day.

But it takes Lee Sherril to furnish us with our biggest surprise. After joining the Cardinals last spring, Lee went to Asheville, the Cards' farm in the Piedmont league. Although he had several tough breaks, the ex-Panther star made a good record for his first year in the professional field. He reports that he broken about even in approximatelly forty games that he pitched.

And now he is planning to return to High Point this fall. The soccer team could use him to an advantage in their campaign this time (Lee played an excellent backfield game last year), and it would help him to keep in trim until he goes south for the training season early next spring. We understand that he is eligible for all games, unless a conference is formed, or the opposing team objects.

We're glad to see him back.

LOUIS DOWNS BAER BY K. O. IN FOURTH

Joe Louis, sensational Detroit negro, last night knocked out Max Baer in the fourth frame of their scheduled fifteen round battle in New York.

Louis astounded spectators with the severity of the attack which he launched against the handsome playboy ex-champion. Volleys of lefts and rights put Baer on the floor several times before he finally took the full count of ten in the fourth round. Jack Dempsey, who was in Baer's corner during the fight, vainly tried to induce his charge to rise, but the badly dazed Baer was as ignorant of his second's cries as he was of the thunder of ninety thousand spectators.

Baer, who entered the ring on the short end of the betting odds, threatened the chocolate cotton-belt kid only twice during the entire fight.

PRO PITCHER ENTERS HIGH POINT COLLEGE

Former Panther Hurler Registers Here After Successful Season With Tourist Club.

Lee Sherrill, who left college during his junior year last spring to join the Cardinal baseball chain, has returned to High Point College for the fall semester to continue his work towards an A. B. degree.

After leaving school last year, the big right hand hurler was placed with Asheville, the Cardinals' farm in the Piedmont league. Despite the fact that this was his first season in professional ball, the ex-Panther star made an impressive showing on the mound. Working in approximately 45 games, he broke even in the percentage column, winning 11 and losing the same number.

During his two and half years at High Point, Sherrill was an outstanding athlete and student. He was quarterback on the Panther eleven his first year, and the only year that football was offered to him, the mainstay of the hurling staff of Coach Yow's nine for two years, and a member of the soccer team. He will not be eligible for baseball, but will probably camp down South. It is not known where he will be placed next year.

He will continue his education until next spring, when he will report to the Cards' training keep in shape by frequent workouts with the squad.

First Annual Conference Tourney To Be Held Here

COACHES SOCCER

Broadus Culler, who begins his fourth year as student coach of the Purple Panther soccer squad. In addition to supervising the drills, Culler also plays center on the team, and has been called by authorities the best soccer player in the South. The Panther shin-busters have been undefeated in a regular scheduled game for the past five seasons.

NOTICE, NETMEN

The annual fall tennis tournament will be discontinued this year, unless considerable interest is shown by the racqueteers. The event will take place only in case enough netmen sign up to play in the tournament.

Bad weather and courts caused the tourney to last approximately three weeks last year, with Niernsee, freshman star, winning out over a class-mate, Wright, in the finals. Niernsee is back to defend his title this year, if the affair is played.

All men interested in entering the tourney should see Coach Yow, or sign the paper in the Book Store.

DAVIDSON TO BATTLE STATE UNDER LIGHTS

The nocturnal battle between the State and Davidson football elevens in Greensboro's Memorial Stadium Saturday night is expected to attract a large number of High Point students.

Many fans are anxious to see how Coach Anderson's Pack will perform in their first clash. "Cowboy" Robinson, and Berlinski will appear in the game, and are scheduled to give the Wildcats plenty of trouble.

Several of the local students were present at the game between Wake Forest and Duke last Saturday night in Greensboro, in which contest the mighty Blue Devils ran wild in the second half to take the victory.

The fact that High Point students will flock to these football contests, shows that they are interested in this great fall sport, which has been replaced at High Point by soccer.

High Point Will Play Host to Basketball Teams in North State Conference Next February.

The first annual North State Conference basketball tournament to be held in the Harrison gymnasium February 26, 27, and 28 stands out as the highlight of the college athletic calendar for the coming year.

Representatives of the eight schools in the North State conference, formerly known as the Little Six, decided upon High Point as the scene of the first annual conference tourney during their meeting here last spring. It is not known whether the location of the tournament will be changed from year to year or not.

The event will be something similar to, or a successor of the Tri-State tournament staged in Charlotte last year and under the sponsorship of Charlotte newspapers. Six conference teams, High Point, Elon, Catawba, Appalachian, Lenoir-Rhyne, and Atlantic Christian, competed there last year. However, schools from Virginia and South Carolina also entered.

All the conference teams are expected to enter, but the outcome will not officially determine the conference championship. The team finishing the regular conference season with the highest percentage will bear the title of conference champs as in the past years. The tournament will come at the close of the regular season.

Harrison gym will be adequately equipped next spring to handle the teams. The heating plant was completed last year, which added much to the comfort of the fans. Showers in the building and probably sleeping quarters will be provided for the visiting teams.

The tournament should furnish the local fans with some real court battles. Elon, the conference champions last year, won out in the Tri-State tournament also.

The college was fortunate in securing the tournament, and the students and fans should cooperate in making the event a success.

Ridge Returns As Store Head

Additional Stock Added and Building Painted Inside; Barber Shop Moved.

Charles E. Ridge, a junior, of Lexington, has been named student manager of the College Book Store for this year, it has been announced by Mr. H. L. Spessard, business manager of the College.

Ridge was manager of the store for several months last year before he resigned to accept a position up town. Occo Gibbs, a sophomore, will be regular assistant in the store. Additional clerks will be added to the staff to take care of the rush at the beginning of each semester.

The store will be open all four periods in the morning on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, Ridge announces, and during the second and fourth periods on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. The store will also open for a short period after lunch and at 9:30 p. m. each week day.

The store has been repainted inside and additional furnishings added during the summer. Notable additions to the store's stock include a line of jewelry bearing the High Point College seal. Books, stationery, refreshments of a wide variety, and yearling caps are also on sale.

Barber Shop Moved

The College barber shop, with Ferman Wright, '37, continuing as attendant, has been moved to a central position on the campus. The shop is now located in the Book Store building where it is available to both men and women of the College. Wright is a licensed master barber with several years experience in this work. On Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays the barber shop will be open from 3 until 5:30, and from 7:00 until 8:00 o'clock. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the shop will remain open from 10:20 a. m. until 12:00, and from 2:00 until 4:00 p. m. On Saturday the shop will not be open except from 10:20 until 12:00.

Kid Brewer, former star athlete at Duke University, is a new addition to the ranks of North State conference coaches. He bosses the pigskin toters at Appalachian State Teachers College.

Freshman Regulations

The following regulations governing freshmen were drawn up last spring by a committee from the sophomore class and approved by the student council.

1. Freshman initiation shall be held within the first two weeks in October of each year.

2. Initiation shall be for the duration of ten days.

3. There shall be no distinction made between the dormitory student and the day student. However, the dormitory students as well as the day students shall be initiated in two separate groups:

a. All freshmen alike shall adhere to the principals of Student Government of High Point College and act as ladies and gentlemen at all times.

4. Beginning with the first day of the prescribed initiation period all freshmen shall procure the freshman caps and shall continue to wear the caps until the first day of the second semester.

5. Rules governing the wearing of the freshman caps shall be as follows:

a. The prescribed caps shall be worn by all freshmen, both male and female; dormitory and day student.

b. All freshman girls shall wear the caps from 8:30 Monday morning until 12:30 of the following Saturday, but will not be required to wear the caps on Saturday afternoon or Sunday, neither will the girls be required to wear the caps to dinner nor to any social function given in Roberts Hall.

c. All freshman boys shall wear the caps from 8:30 Monday morning until 12:00 of the following Saturday, but will not be required to wear the caps on Sunday, or in Roberts Hall at any time.

d. All freshmen students who fail to cooperate in the wearing of the caps shall be given a public reprimand in the form of a yellow cap to be worn a number of days, according to the nature of the difficulty.

6. Rules governing the conduct of the boys during the first semester are as follows:

a. Freshmen shall hold doors for upper classmen, faculty members, and freshmen girls at all times.

b. Freshmen shall extend courtesy to upper classmen at all times when bumming rides.

c. Freshmen shall attend all athletic contests.

d. Freshmen must know all school songs and yells. These rules apply to all male freshmen, both dormatory and day students.

7. A committee shall be in order, consisting of one dormitory boy, one town boy, one dormitory girl, and one day student girl. This committee shall be elected by the incoming sophomore class and shall have charge of all initiations.

8. The initiation committee shall be directly responsible to the Student Government for all action taken.

a. This committee reports to the Student Government any appeals that are to be made through the Student Government and to be acted upon by the Council.

9. On the last night of the initiation period all freshmen shall be gathered together at one place and at one time and a fitting ceremony shall terminate the freshman initiation, at which time all freshmen tall take the Oath:

We pledge to evidence in character and conduct our belief to those moral standards, that make for healthy bodies, sane thinking, humanitarian impulses, and noble ideals.

We pledge to uphold and defend the honor method with respect to such standards both on and off the campus, cooperate with one another and with the administration in and through our council.

We pledge to support the purpose and program of Student Government by individual and group adherence thereto, and by lending our influence therefor in every way possible.

10. On the first night of the second semester there shall be a ceremony and after which the students so named will no longer be required to wear the freshman caps. In the event that the first night of the second semester shall fall on Sunday the ceremony will be held the following night.

man caps, which must be donned by the first of October.

The woman's day student lounge, located in Roberts Hall, has new chairs and divans, an additional book-rack, and freshly varnished floors. A number of tables have been added in the diningroom to accomodate the increased dormitory group.

In addition to interior improvements, the College grounds have been "dressed up" for the new year. Shrubbery has been trimmed, the lawns mowed, grass coaxed into growing where grass did not grow before. Tennis courts have been scraped, and Boylan Terrace, the athletic field, put in shape for fall baseball practice and the advent of soccer.

Another preparation made during the summer was the canning of a large quantity of peaches in the College kitchen, for use in the diningroom.

and Dorothy Bell, of Southport, both of whom have had considerable experience in publicity work, will be student asistants in the news organization.

Mr. Harrison feels that an enlarged press bureau is in keeping with the rapid development of High Point College and with the increasing demands of state newspapers for general college news.

An increased appropriation has been made for pictures illustrating College news during the coming year. In addition to the general news sent out to the larger papers, a weekly news letter will be inaugurated covering every weekly and bi-weekly which circulates in the towns represented on the campus.

Mr. Harrison also expects to send out a personal story, with picture, to the home town paper of every outstanding student on the campus.

ZENITH TRYOUTS

Edgar Snider, editor of the 1936 Zenith, yearbook of High Point College, has issued an invitation for prospective staff members to try out for positions this week. The positions of managing editor, assistant business manager, and associate editor are now open, and while everyone is eligible, a special invitation is given juniors and seniors to try out. In addition there are several other staff positions to be filled by students from any of the four classes. Editor Snider assures the successful candidates plenty of work, fun, and experience.

certificate, is a practical and intelligent course. Tap-dancing, which trains in muscular co-ordination and grace, is also offered. General courses are part of the program as usual. Two years, or four hours, of practical work is required for graduation. After that requirement has been satisfied, theoretical courses are permissible.

Among the courses in the theory of physical education is a course in playground management. It Deals with the theory of play, and is designed to prepare the student to deal with school children on the playground. Another and a similar course, one in the coaching of sports, is included in the program.

GEO. O'BRIEN COMING TO CAROLINA FRIDAY

George O'Brien as he appears in his latest film "The Cowboy Millionaire," to show here two days starting Friday.

FALL AND RISE OF FAMOUS LAWYER IS THEME OF HOLT FILM

He made four million in legal fees in ten years, and had $84 in the bank.

He lived for front-page publicity regardless of how he got it.

He got advertising that money couldn't buy, and that the bar association couldn't bar.

He had been defense attorney in thirty-two major criminal cases and never lost one.

He had an army of admiring hangers-on, a legion of willing newspaper publicists who nearly drank him out of his payroll.

But—a wistful, blonde girl stepped into his office as private secretary, opposed his unethical moves, dug up a case against him—and changed his whole life and career.

Such is the powerffful, dramatic story, fascinating as the intense thrills which unfold in criminal courtrooms, which presents Jack Holt as a sensational lawyer and Jean Arthur as his conqueror, in "The Defense Rests," coming to the Carolina Theatre Thursday. It is a Columbia picture, directed by Lambert Hillyer.

EDWARD ROBINSON CAST IN HIS FIRST SERIO-COMIC ROLE

Edward G. Robinson, the screen's outstanding character actor, will be seen in his first serio-comic role in Columbia's "The Whole Town's Talking," which will be the feature attraction at the Carolina Theatre starting Monday.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, author of Robinson's greatest film success, "Little Caesar," and adapted to the screen by the two ace scenarists at the Columbia studio, Robert Riskin and Jo Swerling, "The Whole Town's Talking" presents the hilarious and exciting adventures of a meek, poetic office clerk who is sprung into the headlines because of his remarkable resemblance to the country's most dangerous criminal.

To prevent police from molesting him, the District Attorney gives Robinson a letter, or passport, which is to identify him as the respectable citizen and not the public enemy whom he so strongly resembles. Killer Mannion, his double, obtains possession of the passport and thus goes about his criminal activities with comparative immunity.

Lovely Jean Arthur is cast in the picture as the girl whom Robinson has always loved but has been too shy to woo. With his unexpected distinction and newly found courage he turns the table on his hard-boiled counterpart and crashes through to a heart-stirring climax.

Also seen in the cast are Wallace Ford, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Byron, Donald Meek and Joan Wray. John Ford, well-known director, handled the megaphone.

FILM STAR OWNS PRIVATE RODEO

The screen personalities in Hollywood have many interesting hobbies, but one, that is a rarity, is a privately owned rodeo, belonging to the film star George O'Brien, whose picture, "The Cowboy Millionaire," shows at the Carolina Theatre starting Friday.

The Iron Horse Stables, owned by George O'Brien, are located on five acres of ground, five miles from Culver City. Seven horses, two colts and a goat are the occupants of the stables. They are cared for by cowboy friends of Mr. O'Brien, who are unable to find picture work.

Several times a year, these cowboys stage a rodeo for George O'Brien and his friends. Skilled horsemanship, broncho - busting and lassoing are the highlights of the day. It is curious to note that this is one of the very few privately owned, non-commercial rodeos in existence.

Sophs Institute Siege To Subdue Yearlings; Men Get Jump With Midnight Games

McCulloch Hall Sophomores Follow Council Approval of Program With Early Start.

LASTS TEN DAYS

General Regulations Governing All First Year Students Go Into Effect.

Taking advantage off a technicality in time, the sovereign sophomores of McCulloch Hall instituted their siege of submission against the freshmen at 12:01 o'clock Tuesday morning.

According to the student council regulations, the initiation was held off until October 1, but the dauntless sophomores went into action only a few hours after the council had placed its stamp of approval upon their program Monday night.

The opening shots of the siege came shortly after midnight when all the dormitory freshman boys were assembled in the clubroom under the watchful eyes of upperclassmen and introduced to the well-known "cuckoo game." Other horseplay during the night was climaxed at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning by a freshman serenade of the co-eds in Woman's Hall.

A detailed ten days program of initiation has been drawn up by a sophomore committee consisting of one day student co-ed, one dormitory co-ed, one day student man, and two McCulloch Hall sophomores. For "subjugation" purposes, the first year students have been separated into four groups, with each having a slightly different set of regulations to follow.

The general regulations governing all freshmen, including the wearing of "dinks," officially went into effect yesterday and will continue for the entire first semester. The initiation program will continue only until October 1.

The student council is backing the sophomore committee in the enforcement of all regulations, and all recalcitrants will be dealt with summarily, the council members decided Monday night.

PRACTICE HOUSE HAS FIRST FORMAL MEAL

Dorothy McCollum Is Hostess at Dinner Given by Home Economics Students.

Dorothy McCollum was hostess at the first formal dinner of the practice house of the home economics department Thursday night at 7 o'clock. A four course dinner was served. Guests for the affair were Dr. and Mrs. G. I. Humphreys and Professor N. P. Yarborough.

The practice house, which is located this year in five rooms on faculty hall in the women's dormitory, opened with lunch on Friday, September 20. Dorothy McCollum acted as hostess, planning and supervising meals, from the opening until last Monday; Christine Latham cooked the food; Cricket Varner was maid; and Alice Nesbit, dishwasher and host. Miss Varner took over the duties of hostess on Monday. Each girl in turn will serve for ten days in the capacities of hostess, cook, dishwasher, and maid.

During the period as hostess each girl must have a company dinner and a formal dinner. Misses Adams and Sloan were guests at Miss McCollum's company dinner. The practice house is run every other year, having both junior and senior home economics majors in the same year. The house will run this year from September 20 through December 16. During the first half, the seniors, with the exception of Catherine Farlow, have charge. The latter part will be given over to the juniors, Mary Margaret Bates, Gladys Maxwell, and Elizabeth Pirtle; Miss Farlow will also be in at that time.

The girls plan, cook, and serve all the meals and at the same time continue their classwork. The meals are planned to give a

Four Added To Staff Of 1936 Senior Annual

Advertising Campaign Is Launched With Photography Scheduled to Start Next Week.

The staff of the Zenith, High Point College annual, has been selected and will begin work in a short time, it has been announced by Edgar Snider, editor, and Lois Hedgecock, business manager.

Atley Hartman and Leo Pittard, both seniors, have been added to tre staff as assistant business managers, while Vrginia Grant, a senior, and Wilson Rogers, a junior, will assist with the general duties of the Zenith staff. These students were selected from the group that has tryed out for the board during the past week. Dorothy Perry and Paul Owen have been held over from last year as associate editors.

The staff opened its drive for advertising yesterday afternoon, and the photography and editorial work is scheduled to get underway in a short time, it has been announced.

The engraving will be done by the Charlotte Engraving company again this year, and the Benson Printing company, of Nashville, will again do the typographical and binding work. A photographer will be named within a few days.

Humorous Debate Is Feature of Program at First Regular Society Meeting.

A number of precedents remain yet to be set, according to the judges of the debate at the first regular meeting of the Akrothinian Literary society last Wednesday night.

Mattocks delivered a telling blow with his graphic demonstration of an action which he claimed had never been done before

TWO SOCIETIES PLAN JOINT PICNIC TODAY

Nikanthans and Thaleans Combine Rush Parties to Give Affair at City Lake.

The Nikanthan Literary Society's annual rush picnic gives way this year to a joint affair, with the Thaleans, members of a brother, organization, combining forces, and including the new men as well as the freshmen coeds. The picnic will be held this afternoon at the municipal lake.

It has been a custom for some years for the Nikanthan women to invite all feminine newcomers to a picnic, as a featureof the literary societies' rush week. The Thaleans have rarely participated in social rushing, preferring to gain their new members by the quality of their regular programs. In this case, they have made an exception in favor of the joint picnic.

The picnickers are scheduled to leave the campus this afternoon at four o'clock. Means of transportation will be provided for the trip to the lake. No program has been arranged, as the affair is to be entirely informal. The newly improved park will probably prove of interest to both old and new students. Sandwiches, drinks, and the inevitable "weiners" will be included in the picnic fare.

Faculty chaperonage is required and has been arranged for. The picnic party will return to the campus at eight o'clock.

Crowder Is Head Of Committee To Handle Absences

Dr. Humphreys Names Student Committee of Nine to Receive Absence Excuses.

The student committee, appointed by Dr. Humphreys to deal with absences, organized and elected officers in a meeting with Dean Lindley Friday afternoon.

The purpose of the committee is to decide whether the absences are excused or unexcused and thereby to lighten the duties of Dean Lindley. They will deal with both class and chapel absences.

High PPoint College is the first college in the state to give the student government the power to deal with the absences.

Teachers will place their absence lists in the box in the office as they have done in the past. The secretary of the committee will collect them from there.

Excuses must be written, dated, and given to any member of the committee within three days after the absence occurs. Any excuses falling to come in on time will automatically be declared void. Seniors must submit their excuses to Dean Lindley as formerly. Students may find out if their excuse was accepted or not by asking the member of the committee to whom they submitted the excuse. The committee is not to chase down a student. Dean Lindley will see him before he has piled up enough absences to suspend him from school or remove him ffrom a course.

One member of the committee will not determine the validity of the excuse, but it will be passed by a majority vote of the committee.

If the absence is unexcused a student has the privilege of appearing before the committee if he feels that he did not receive a square deal.

Dr. Humphreys selected the committee from the junior and senior classes. The members of the committee are: Edith Crow-

Choir Tryouts End This Week

Long Trip Probably To Take In Northern Points This Year; Miss Sloan Optimistic.

Tryouts for the A Capella Choir will probably be completed this week.

Miss Margaret Sloan, Choir Director and Head of the Music Department, is well pleased with the prospects this year. Tentative plans are being made for the annual trip, which will probably be to northern points, as well as shorter trips. The long trip will be made sometime during the spring semester, but not during the Easter holidays.

Several members of last year's choir did not return this fall, thus making room for more voices. Some old members are also usually replaced by better voices found among the newcomers. The list of those students who have been successful in the tryouts will be posted on the bulletin board as soon as the tryouts are completed.

Drama To Be Produced In Near Future

Owens Soon to Hold Competitive Tryouts for Places in Cast of First Play.

VEHICLE UNDECIDED

Expected to be Fast-Moving Comedy With Medium-Sized Cast.

A number of plays are under consideration by Cullen B. Owens, head of the College speech department and teacher of dramatics, who plans a production at an early date.

Mr. Owens, who has had extensive experience in the field of college dramatics, and who has done a bit of directing, is teaching a class in play production. The greater part of their work will consist of the actual presentation of plays. For [illegible] champion of the year, the [illegible] probably use a fast-moving modern comedy with a medium-sized cast. Mr. Owens has announced that he will select that cast by means of competitive tryouts. He hopes that all students who have acted before, and all those who suspect themselves of having talent will report for tryouts when he issues a call.

The class has not yet determined the number of plays to be attempted during the course of the year. It is not expected to be less than three, and perhaps will be larger. The small size and shallowness of the College stage will probably influence to some extent the plays chosen.

Before the year is over, the class will probably stage a period play. The "theatre-goers" of last year will remember that Mr. Owens' predecessor, John M. Erickson, produced Richard Sheridan's famous "School for Scandal" during the second semester.

Mr. Owens will attend to the casting and directing of plays presented by the dramatics class. D. J. Rulfs, who was in charge of stage sets and technical work last year, will continue to assist in a technical capacity.

Twenty Mount Holyoke College freshmen will be allowed to take only two courses this year under rules set down for a unique educational experiment there.

Fulk Addresses Students After Taking Office

New Council President Suggests "Forward Together for Better College" as Motto.

A. Lincoln Fulk, of High Point, took the oath of office in the student government meeting last Wednesday and thus became the president of the student body for the ensuing year. Vice-president Allen Austin gave the pledge to Mr. Fulk.

Following his public acceptance of the office Mr. Fulk made a short talk. He divided his message into three parts, the first of which was an appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him by the student body and a hope that he might be worthy of the trust.

He then spoke of his relationship to the student government and expressed the desire that the students consider him one of them instead of above them. The last part of the talk was concerned with the relation of the students to the student government. Mr. Fulk first spoke to the freshmen and urged them to act as ladies and gentlemen, enter into the spirit of the College, and show proper deference and courtesy to upper-classmen.

The upper-classmen he urged to be careful of the example which they set for the freshmen. President Fulk added that the students of High Point have been given a great deal of responsibility and only as the organization proves able and efficient shall it be able to attain its objectives. He concluded with a suggested motto for the year, "Forward together for a better, bigger High Point College."

The meeting closed with the College song.

MARGARET CURRY IS BRIDE OF W. B. WEBB

Former Student Weds Washington Youth In Simple Ceremony at First M. P. Church Here.

An event of interest to College students was the marriage of Margaret Pleasant Curry, of High Point, to Walter Baxter Webb, of Washington, D. C., which occurred at six o'clock on Monday afternoon in the First Methodist Protestant Church.

The wedding was a quiet one, with a small group of invited guests. Simplicity was the keynote: large bouquets of red and white dahlias were used as altar flowers. Prior to the saying of the marriage vows, Miss Margaret Sloan sang the familiar "Tell Me That You Love Me," and Dorothy Perry followed with "Because You Come To Me." Ernestine Voncannon, at the pipe organ, accompanied the soloists.

The bride had no attendants, but entered on the arm of her father, George L. Curry, before whom the vows were spoken. T. E. Strickland assisted in the ceremony.

The bridal party left immediately after the ceremony for Greensboro, where an informal reception was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Webb, mother of the groom. The newlyweds plan to live in Washington.

Wallace The Magician Brings Bag Of Tricks For First Of Lyceum Numbers

Flashing a variety program ranging from the usual legerdemain to trick cartooning, Wallace the Magician delighted a capacity audience last night in the first of the entertainment programs scheduled by the College lyceum committee.

Wallace opened his program with a disappearing card trick in which the audience was tricked into believing that the card had been discovered, only to read "Stung" when the card was uncovered. Upon the insistent demands of the dublous onlookers, Wallace turned the card over. The other side revealed the words, "Stung Again."

One of the magician's most amazing tricks was a puzzler in which a dollar bill, borrowed from a spectator, was wafted into a lemon which had been selected by another member of the audience and concealed in his pocket. Comparison of serial numbers proved the bill to be the same one that had been borrowed.

Another exhbition of Wallace's art in which a listener was victimized was a trick in which the magician removed numerous silk handkerchiefs, six alarm clocks, and a string of weiners from a borrowed hat. Just before returning the headpiece to its owner, Wallace reached under the handkerchief and pulled out the traditional rabbit.

Turning from the field of pure sleight-of-hand, Wallace entertained the audience with an exhibition of ventriloquism, making himself the goat of his mechanical stooge's remarks. He added further variety to his program with a series of rapid-fire cartoons. He drew his greatest applause for a quick shadow drawing of George Washington, closely followed by a sketch of the popular comic-strip hero, Popeye.

His closing exhibitions were an exhibition of a stationary shadow cast through a paper screen, and a puzzling trick in which a rabbit and a duck were made to disappear before the eyes of the audience.

Annual Faculty Reception For Old and New Students Proves Brilliant Affair

Music, Readings, Autograph Contest Feature First Important Social Function.

LINDLEY PRESIDES

H. A. Millis and Mrs. M. J. Wrenn Presented to Students by Dr. Humphreys.

The annual reception given by the College faculty for all students, both new and old, was held in Roberts Hall Friday evening.

Students assembled in the foyer of the administration building, going from there to the dining-room, where members of the faculty stood in receiving line. Each newcomer was accompanied by an old student; this is an innovation with the purpose of making the freshmen more at ease.

At the end of the line each student received a folder for autographs. The folders bore the name, place, and date of the occasion. Everyone became interested in the business of securing signatures for his folder, incidentally learning a number of new names. When the last guest had been accorded a greeting, the faculty joined in the autograph-getting, until Dean B. E. Lindley, master of ceremonies, announced a musical number. Miss Virginia Franck, with violin, and Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, with the cello, joined in two selections. Miss Margaret Sloan, of the College music department, was at the piano.

Following the music, Dean Lindley introduced Cullen B. Owens, new head of the speech department, who read from Newman Levy's Opera Guyed the office boy's description of Hamlet. Mr. Owens' reading was followed by a "dramatic" selection by Donald J. Rulfs, of the English department, who gave with mock seriousness a burlesque version of Hamlet's soliloquy. Mrs. J. H. Allred sang two numbers, Miss Sloan accompanying.

During the course of the evening several off-campus guests were presented: H. A. Millis, chairman of the board of trustees of the College, said a few words of welcome to new students and old. Mrs. Millis graciously acknowledged Dr. Humphreys' introduction, as did Mrs. M. J. Wrenn. Mrs. Wrenn is the donor of the Wrenn Library, which is to be built this year in memory of her husband, for many years a member of the board of trustees, and active in College affairs until his death. She has the distinction of being the only woman on the board, having filled the vacancy left by the death of Mr. Wrenn.

Last to speak was Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College. He welcomed again the student body, urging them to a fuller and more profitable fellowship, to closer contact with their instructors, and to higher determination for the future of themselves and the College.

The last two features of the evening were ice cream and a group picture. N. M. Harrison, promotional secretary, and head of the publicity bureau, had secured a photographer for the occasion.

Ten Are Added To Thalean Society

Humor Features Program at First Regular Meeting of Literary Organization.

The Thalean Literary Society enrolled ten new members at their first regular meeting held last Thursday night in Robert's Hall.

Wood opened the program with the traditional "Why Join A Literary Society." He gave several excellent reasons. In closing he mentioned several of the leading activities past, present, and future of the Society. Austin then gave a very excellent criticism of the programs of the Society. Ferree gave the history of the Thalean Society from its first beginning on the campus of Yadkin College in 1906. Much to the amazement of all this was amusing instead of the usual dry history. Ferree quoted several incidents taken from the minutes of the earliest programs. He also had the unusual quality of making the bare historical facts interesting.

From this point on the program was lively with wit and humor as Hartman and Gibbs upheld the affirmative of the question, Resolved: That Boys Should Date On The Campus Instead Of Up-town. Gibbs, in all seriousness, began to describe the different types of girls in the dormitory. Wright conceded him this fact and added that he could say "ditto" for the fair co-eds who reside up-town. To Gibbs cry of economy, "only expense being the usual pack of chewing gum, Wright came back with the statement that it all depended upon the girl as he had found in his twenty years of experience.

The affirmative instead of refuting the points in the negative resorted to cracks at the opposition in the rebutal. The judges gave the decision to the negative.

The visitors were dismissed for the business session. At this session Massey was elected by acclimation as vice president for the first semester. This place was vacant due to the failure of Sharpe to return to College. The members then joined the Nikanthans in the auditorium for a brief meeting. Plans for a party to entertain all frosh were discussed.

NIKANTHAN SOCIETY HAS FIRST MEETING

Bell, Welch, Troxler, and Heptinstall Appear on Program; Several Visitors Present.

The Nikanthan Literary Society held its first meeting Thursday evening in the College auditorium. New students were invited to attend.

The meeting opened with a few words of welcome from Lois Hedgecock, Nikanthan president. She thanked the visitors for their presence, the old members for their return. No reference was made to business matters, as they were reserved for a later hour.

The program began with a brief sketch of the society by Dorothy Bell. She described in a few words something of what the Nikanthan organization is, does, and means. She was followed by Iris Welch in a flute solo, with Vesta Trovler at the piano. The flute solo preceded a piano number by Miss Troxler.

A dramatic reading, "Bobby Shafto", by Kathleen Hepinstall, was the next feature of the program. The last feature was a pantomine, taking in some eight Nikanthans, and portraying a melodramatic romance in actions which followed the literal meaning of the words read in conjunction by Juanita Hayworth.

After the program, Nikanthan members met in a business session with their brother society, the Thaleans.

NEW CO-EDS FETED BY ARTEMESIAN SOCIETY

Literary Organization is Hostess to New Students at Theatre Party Monday.

The Artemesian Literary Society entertained the new co-eds of the College at a theatre party Monday afternoon.

The group, composed of approximately sixty-five girls, gathered in the downstairs club room of Woman's Hall at 2:30 o'clock and from there went to the Paramount theatre where they saw the picture, "Freckles."

After the picture, the party returned to the dormitory where a social hour was held and refreshments were served.

Tomorrow night, the Artemesian society wil hold a "mock" meeting, at which time all new students are invited to attend.

THE NEW LIBRARY

THE HI-PO finally gets a belated opportunity to con-

Vigorous expression of opinion is an age-old traditional tion upon the receipt of a new library building, soon to be started upon this campus.

After the publication of the last issue last spring, Mrs. M. J. Wrenn, a member of the board of trustees, announced the donation of funds to construct the library building in memory of her late husband. Both the material and moral contribution of Mr. and Mrs. Wrenn to the development of High Point College are too well known to be reviewed. Needless to say, a building erected to the memory of Mr. Wrenn is an entirely fitting and deserved tribute to his character, his accomplishments, and his interest in the College. Even without a material monument, his name would always have a place in the hearts of everyone concerned with the welfare of this institution.

In turning to the benefits of the building itself, it is readily to be seen that it fills an obvious and long-felt need. The library resources of the College are now located in very cramped quarters on the second floor of Roberts Hall. The noise of changing classes prevents development of a quiet literary atmosphere, and the limited space has forced the staff to turn down offers of books which might otherwise have been thankfully added. And even the pitifully small space which the library occupies has been allowed at considerable sacrifice to classroom needs.

Certainly the advent of a library building is to be hailed with joy by the students and friends of High Point College. With it we march on toward our goal, a fully equipped, modern college at High Point.

SUPPORT THE SOCCER SQUAD

The Purple Panther soccer squad soon will enter its 1935-36 schedule, hoping to run the High Point record of undefeat through the sixth successive year.

While football is undoubtedly missed at the College, in soccer we have a sport which potentially could fill the gap almost entirely. Certainly teams have been developed here which have aroused considerable enthusiasm among soccer authorities in the state. However, the fault in the past has been an almost complete absence of student support. The students may take a perfunctory pride in the soccer team's long record of undefeat, but they fail completely to support the team with their presence at the games. As far as the majority of the student body is concerned, our team might as well play its games in Greenland, so long as the news of victory could be sent to the comfort of the students' rooms by radio.

A five year record of victory is no small accomplishment, even in a little known sport. In the absence of football, the least that we can do is to lend our support to the men who carry on successfully in a sport that is a worthy and cheaper substitute for the great American autumn pastime.

STUDENT OPINION

Vigorous expression of opinion is an age-od traditional attribute of youth; and a desirable one, we think. And so we follow the precedent of this paper and nearly every other college paper in issuing an annual invitation to our readers to communicate their feelings on any subject whatsoever to the Editor for publication.

The efficacy of those effervescent epistles published in the daily newspapers and signed Just a Taxpayer, Mother of Five, or Old Subscriber, has long been recognized by politicians and publishers. No less efficacious in the college newspaper field are those communications signed Disgusted Sophomore, Dining Hall Victim, or Frozen Freshman. The student who leads the way with a vigorous expression of opinion often finds backing among his fellow students in bringing about long-desired reforms. Certainly no major change was ever made by a group without someone leading the way.

We long ago came to look upon student letters as more than just space fillers. We see in them a constructive interest that leads to better student cooperation, and an opinion that may be reflected in desirable changes conforming to the wishes of the student body.

The Vogue

Just as we predicted last week, the campus was overrun over the week-end by love-sick ex-students. Honey-Bunny played host to three graduates and one misplaced bow-legged basketball player Saturday night and Sunday morning. "Don't cha know I had to run two shifts to get 'em all in," stated Mine Host, the Henderson Hotel, to a HI-PO reporter who asked how it was done.

Egghead, as usual, made a most obstreperous appearance upon the campus at 7 a. m. Sunday morning just as sweet peace was beginning to settle over McCulloch Hall. He was fairly gaudy with sound as he sang "Glorious," "Mabel," "Colombo," and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" to the complete consternation of all inhabitants of East High Point.

Cloniger made his fortnightly visit to Steele street on scheduled time, with a pink-haired fraternity brother right on his heels. There seems to be some confusion as to who came to see whom, and Mister Sherrill and a fair-haired dark horse are also factors in the confusion. Anyway, the Vogue hopes to give you the lowdown before another two weeks have rolled around.

The pent-up pride of the long-repressed sophomores finally broke loose Tuesday morning at 12:01 a. m., with the poor frosh getting the worst end of the deal. Several of the yearlings laid careful plans to gently electrocute he raiding sophs, only to be thwarted when their experiments were detected by radio fans down the line. The jubilant first year men couldn't resist the temptation to try the trap on themselves just to prove its efficacy; instead it proved their undoing. They'll larn.

The usually loyal High Pointers who turned redskin and war-whooped for Catawba last Saturday afternoon are reported eager to repeat the experience. A fair squaw with a flair for gymnastics in her cheerleading is responsible for the alarming increase in Saturday Indians. Austin leads the vanguard.

Overheard in Woman's Hall: If High Point College made as many advances as Gray it would be [illegible] largest university in Ameri[illegible] student council plan whereby [illegible] would be charged by the hou[illegible] talking to the frosh co-eds.

Morris innovation for an appropriate wedding gift: A glass rolling-pin. Morris psychology behind the innovation: It can only be thrown once.

HUMPHREYS ATTENDS SERVICES FOR WARD

Western Maryland College President Dies While Preaching Sermon at Madonna.

President G. I. Humphreys attended the funeral last Wednesday of Dr. Albert Norman Ward, for 16 years president of Western Maryland College, Methodist Protestant school at Westminister. Dr. Ward died suddenly from a heart attack on Sunday evening, September 22, while preaching in the Bethel Presbyterian Church at Madonna, Maryland.

Dr. Ward was prominent in church affairs. He entered the ministry in 1895, and is credited with much constructive service. Particularly was he active in the field of education, having served as chancellor of Kansas City University, and as both vice-president and president of the Maryland institution which now mourns his death. During his administration at Western Maryland, the growth of the student body has been phenomenal.

Dr. Ward was a native of Harford County, Maryland, where he was born on November 27, 1871. He is survived by his widow, one son, one brother, and three sisters. Mrs. Ward and A. B. Ward, Jr., were in the audience at Bethel at the time of his death.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—Previous to 1932, before the New Dealers came to this town, the words "Government employee" conjured up in the mind of the average citizen a picture of a thin, middle-aged or even elderly person, bent over a desk in some Washington office, filling in endless forms at a snail's pace. Washington itself was pictured as a town full of such clerkly people, plus Senators with black Stetsons, and a few Cherokees in to see the Great White Father.

At that, Mr. Average Citizen wasn't so far wrong. The national capital was something like that. But the New Deal has changed things here considerably, and Washington's Mummy Epoch has been superseded by the Children's Hour, comparatively speaking.

At least, some of the oldsters think of it as the Children's Hour. Stronghold after stronghold of the oldtimers has fallen into the hands of young folks just out of college. The Treasury Department, the Department of Labor, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Agriculture, have had their dignity severely jolted by the influx of Brain Trusters, Junior Braintrusters, and their various apprentices and disciples.

The Department of Labor is an outstanding example. Once its bureau of Labor statistics had as personnel a great many elderly, slow-moving people but now if you were to drop around you would find a considerable sprinkling of youthful statisticians, out of college only a few years, plus a number of ex-instructors, and quite a few attractive young ladies doing stenographic work whom you might rightly suspect got out of Bandersnatch's Bon-Ton Business Institute just a few weeks ago.

The New Deal agencies, with their predilection for young college graduates, have in many cases infected the old line departments under whose jurisdiction some of them come, with the same virus. The AAA, under the influence of Wallace and Tugwell, hired score upon score of young economists, statisticians, lawyers, minor executives, and accountants [illegible] stenographers [illegible] school you come could muster at least a corporal's guard of alumni and alumnae of the same school, from among the employees of the AAA. A good many of them are now getting into the older divisions of the Department of Agriculture.

As for the NRA, well, before the Supreme Court said, "Thou Shalt Not Code", it was the Harvard - Columbia - Princeton - Dartmouth-Michigan-Tulane - Amherst-Siwash-and what have you-club all rolled into one. The wide corridors of the Commerce Building were filled with sharp—looking Phi Betes conversing earnestly with each other about open prices, code violations, labor policies, and whether or not the Scrap Iron and Steel Institute's Code should have clause 13, section 4, stricken out in fairness to manufacturers of bobby pins. Now that the Blue Eagle has lost its tail feathers many of the young folks have left the NRA, but close scrutiny discloses that they are now with the AAA, the Resettlement Administration, the NYA, the FERA, or the WPA.

The last three agencies named probably have the highest percentage of recent college graduates on their payrolls, of all the New Deal bureaus. Columbia, Wisconsin, and Michigan alumni seem to account for the greatest part of this group of college people.

The effect on the town as a whole has been marked. A walk along Pennsylvania Avenue at noon or in the evening, in the compass of a few blocks, turns up dozens of university people. F street, the city's principal shopping thoroughfare, displays in its store windows far more clothing meant for people under thirty than ever before.

The cocktail lounges of 14th and 16th streets, the restaurants of Connecticut Avenue, are filled with young Government lawyers, economists, stenographers, and secretaries. Gazing about idly, Joe Smith of Oregon U. discovers the presence of Joe P. Smith of Oregon U. and rushes over to shake his hand. They discover they've both been working in Washington for Uncle Sam for over a year, and neither knew the other was in town. There are so many of them in from so many colleges that one can easily miss meeting an old classmate for months on end.

University groups have formed, some meeting regularly, others informally for lunch. Over the table they talk of many things, about the WPA allotment to Texas, about a girl they knew back on the campus, about a survey they expect to have a hand in when their bureau starts it going, about the superiority of Washington's mint juleps to that sulphuric acid they drank at the Cornell-Penn game back in 1931. They're apt to be clannish at times, especially when overtaken by nostalgia. But more often they mix readily, Columbia with Dartmouth, Williams with Amherst. Traditional college rivalries go by the board in Washington.

Most of them like the town. The presence of so many other young people, the academic atmosphere that hovers faintly in the air, (every time an important Congressman belabors the Brain Trust, or the Supreme Court frowns at the New Deal, it becomes fainter) the physical resemblance of the capital with its parks and acres of greensward to a campus, all these things contribute to making B. A.'s and M. A.'s and Ph.D's feel very much at home.

In their offhours they swarm over the tennis courts and pack the swimming pools, fill the picture houses and crowd the concerts. Every third girl among them looks like last year's Prom Queen, and possibly is. The shops that rent bicycles, including tandems, report a boom in their business. At night, rollerskating happily around the Lincoln Memorial, one finds Mr. Gainsborough who during the day is a busy and earnest young attorney over at the Department of Justice.

And meanwhile, the government clerk of yesteryear, a very Throttlebottomish individual, continues to work on in Washington, daily seeing the young folks moving in and the old folks retiring, with the whole life of Washington getting new impetus from these lively youngsters.

He only hopes, that if he decides to take a walk some evening after dark, down Constitution Avenue, he will be able to avoid being run over more than twice by some of these youngsters on their rented bicycles.

"STRANGE WIVES" AT CAROLINA ON SUNDAY

"Strange Wives" are coming to Sunday to the Carolina theatre. But only in film form. A gripping romance of an American who married a foreign wife, and a honeymoon that was worth waiting for, forms the basis of the plot in "Strange Wives." Universal's thrilling comedy drama was taken from Edith Wharton's Cosmopolitan Magazine story, "Bread Upon the Waters."

"Strange Wives" gives you an American business man who marries a Russian refugee. Right after their honeymoon her relatives come to live with them. They are a temperamental lot.

One of the sisters-in-law marries a millionaire. A brother-in-law marries a movie actress and becomes a leading man. Another girl just arrived from the old country becomes a flapper. They try to marry her off to an artist but instead the latter falls in love with the wife.

It is one of the most absorbing stories ever told on the screen and is splendidly acted and directed. Roger Pryor and June Clayworth appear in the leading roles, ably supported by such players as Esther Ralston, Hugh O'Connell, Ralph Forbes, Cesar Romero, Phyllis Brooks, Francis L. Sullivan, Valerie Hobson, Ivan Lebedeff, Leslie Fenton and many others.

Expansion of the University of Michigan graduate school is being made possibe through the recent gift of $5,000,000 from the trustees of the Horace H. and Mary A. Rackham fund.

Coach C. V. Yow, a former president of the Akrothinian organization, was the last man on the program, speaking on "Why Join a Literary Society." Mr. Yow urged the new students to visit both men's societies and join the one of their choice. He pointed out the value of literary organizations in the development of poise and speaking ability in the college student not obtained elsewhere.

At the close of the meeting three new men, George Crowell, Ed Stirewalt, and John Thomas, all of High Point, signified their intention of joining the society.

The Akrothinian society is planning an entertainment for the first year men to be given tomorrow night.

Parents and even grand-parents are now given the opportunity to take regular college courses and earn university degrees in afternoon study under a new adult education plan developed at the University of Southern California.

Fall Tennis Tourney Starts Today With Many Racqueteers Competing

Niernsee Defends Tennis Title in Tourney; Only Three Varsity Players Back This Year; Likely Prospects May Be Found Among Freshmen Racqueteers.

Twenty-two racquet wielding men of High Point College will go into action beginning today in an attempt to find a new college tennis champion as well as new and better material for the tennis team which meets competition in the spring.

Frank Niernsee, sophomore and last year's fall champion, again heads the list of racqueteers and stands as a potential bundle of fast ground strokes and aerial strokes; numbering in his repertory effective half-volleys, overhead volleys and a hard bewildering service. Niernsee played number two man in the spring inter-collegiate competition after losing in the finals of the spring tournament to Al Primm, captain and manager of the team, and local prognosticators predict that he will hold the number one position this year unless a dark horse is found in the freshman material.

The tournament, which will be held on the court next to the boy's dormitory, will find only two other varsity players beside Niernsee taking part, Wilson Rogers and L. White, number five and number four respectively. This fact will probably bring out some real fighting competition between the old aspirers to the tennis throne and the new material—coming from the freshman ranks, leading to a number of possible upsets.

The number of men signing for the tournament this fall shows that interest in the sport has not lagged despite the fact that last year's team, which was badly handicapped by the lack of good training grounds, courts, etc., and the lack of practice due to bad weather conditions, ended its season with a .000 percentage. Their schedule included Lenoir-Rhyne, Appalachian, Catawba, W. C. T. C., et al.

The boys' court, the only one of the five college courts which has been kept up even fairly decent, is in little better shape than it was last fall; the new surface which was put on the court the first of last year has settled and though not yet in A-1 condition, is playable and will be the scene of the racquet battles again.

The material for the new Panther team will come from the following: Frank Niernsee, L. White, W. Rogers, Occo Gibbs, David Cooper, Richard Setzer, Alson Gray, Robert Rankin, Wayne Hornaday and possibly twelve others.

Soccer Conference For State Colleges Considered By Officials In Greensboro

Proposed plans for a soccer conference embracing colleges of the North State conference and of the Big Five circle were discussed at the Inter-collegiate Athletic conference held in Greensboro Saturday morning.

Practically all the colleges were represented at the meeting, with Coach C. V. Yow and Prof. C. R. Hinshaw from High Point present. Considerable interest was shown in this sport by the officials.

Foremost in advancing plans for the proposed shin-busting loop were Prof. Wilson, of Duke University, who is Secretary to the conference. Prof. Marion, faculty manager of athletics at Lenoir-Rhyne, stated that he would take up the matter with the athletic committee at his school. The Guilford representative, Prof. F. C. Shepperd, also seemed interested n getting the sport on the Guilford campus.

In the past seasons Duke, Catawba, and High Point have been the only colleges with teams. Naturally these three would join in the conference, while Lenoir-Rhyne, and Guilford are expected to enter a squad this year. Davidson, of the Big Five, has already organized for the coming season, and has written to the local officials for an exchange of games.

The local shin-busters are rapidlyrounding into shape for the coming season. The schedule has not been announced yet, but they will probably scrimmage with some local team soon. More college teams will be on the schedule this season, with few or not any games against outside squads.

DORAIS FINDS JOKER IN FOOTBALL RULING

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Detroit, Mich. — Coach Charles E. Dorais of the University of Detroit has discovered a "joker" n the football rules that may prove to be more important than a casual reading of the code might indicate. It is a supplemental note to Section 7, Rule 7, covering the dead ball and it reads:

"A runner who is on his feet even though he be held by an opponent may run, pass, or kick until the whistle blows."

This is an apparent contradiction of the body of the rule which reads:

"The ball is dead when a player in possession and control of the ball goes out of bounds, cries 'down' or is so held that his forward progress is stopped or (except tthe holder of the ball in a place-kick(when any portion of his person except his hands or feet touches the ground."

As Coach Dorais sees it, much will depend upon how quickly the referee blows the whistle when the ball-carrier is held by an opponent and is still on his feet. If the referee is fast with the whistle, it means that lateral passing will be greatly curtailed, while if he is inclined to place a liberal interpretation on the supplemental note, it is going to be possible to pass laterally in a manner never before seen on the American college gridiron.

"It may be necessary before each game to find out from the referee just how he is going to interpret the rule," he added.

THRIFTY CO-EDS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn. — Minnesota statisticians and figure-hunters have blasted another idea that is prevalent among collegians:

Women students spend only 76 cents more per month in beauty shops than men do in barber shops! And she spends only a fraction of the amount that men spend on tobacco.

These figures were revealed in the results of a survey of the buying habits at the University of Minnesota by an insurance company. The survey showed that clothes for mthe greater part of the co-ed's budget, while food is the largest item in the collegian's budget.

The human race has grown a full two inches in average height during the last century, Dr. Edith Boyd, University of Minnesota, reported after extensive research.

Oxford University (England) officials have removed virtually all restrictions against women students. All degrees at that institution are now open to men and women alike.

SIDELINE SPORTS

By Alton Hartman

With all the ballyhoo being broadcast about the excellent record of the Panther shin-busters, everyone is no doubt anxious for the soccer team to get started. Since football was abolished here, soccer has been the predominating fall sport on the campus. This seems to be the only logical substitution, since the shin-busting game affords nearly as many thrills, spills, and rough stuff as the classical gridiron sport.

Although an exciting and interesting game, soccer originated in England, and is a comparatively new sport in North Carolina. Hence it does not draw the colorful crowd that flocks to the week-end tussles on Duke were the only colleges in this state with an inter-collegiate soccer team. Things look brighter this time as representatives of the state colleges showed considerable interest in forming a conference during the Inter-Collegiate Athletic conference in Greensboro last week.

A soccer conference, including schools in the North State conference and the Big Five circle, would mean a faster and better brand of soccer in the state. It would also mean that the Panther shin-busters would have a harder the football fields. Last year Catawba, High Point, and secutive years.

Still we believe that High Point should have a football team if possible. The fact that the students are interested in this game was shown by the large attendance of local students at the games in Greensboro and Guilford the past two Saturdays.

Although it is still not known just who killed Cock Robin, everyone knows that the Chicago Cubs destroyed the Red Birds. Setting a pace too fast for the Giants and Cardinals in the final stretch, the Bruins, aptly named the Grimm Reapers by one sports writer, won the National pennant in one of the toughest fights ever staged in the senior circuit. They clinched the flag with their 20th straight victory Friday, defeating the second place Cards, who used their invincible Dizzy in a desperate attempt to halt the pennant march of the Cubs.

And now the fur is slated to fly this afternoon when the Detroit Tigers, American league champs, grapple with the Cubs in the opening game of the World Series in Detroit. We are picking the Tigers to win. Warncke and Lee, or Root, may win two games for the Cubs, but the series will not run over six games.

Nore national news—Braddock's hopes of keeping the heavyweight title long are very, very dark at present. It seems that the writers have virtually named Louis as champ. Another champion from Detroit.

Football predictions—In the Big Five: Duke, first; Carolina, second; State, third; Wake Forest, fourth; and Davidson, fifth. Elon will take top honors in the North State conference again.

PRONUNCIATION TEST IS STUMBLING BLOCK

Many Hoding Master's and Doctor's Degrees Fail in Pronunciation.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City.—Teachers applying for jobs in New York City schools are contemplating writing a new ditty which will have a title which goes something like this, "The Board of Examiners Will Git Ya If Ya Don't Watch Out."

And especially this new song will be chanted by the college and university graduates who hold masters and doctors degrees, for the board has a new pronunciation examination that is a "beaner", if we are to judge from some of the results given in a few of the tests.

Here are a few of the new additions to lexicology made by the examinees:

Manger rhymes with anger.

Assuidity should rhyme with liquidity.

Lamentable accented on the second syllable.

Maniacal is accented on the first syllable.

And, in the field of word definitions, their new contributions included:

Noisome has to do with clamor.

Littoral with unpoetic language.

Temerity with lack of courage.

Machinations are a form of labor-saving machinery.

Fatuous is related to corpulency.

Commenting, the report of the board said: "Apparently the explanation of a marked weakness in vocabulary is to be found in a habit of reading carelessly or inattentively, or perhaps in the lack of habit of reading at all outside of the limited field of elementary subject-matter."

Biochemist Hector Mortimer told the American Neurological Association recently that our skulls get denser as we grow older. And the condition is ten times more common in women than in men!

Yale and Harvard students will meet in annual "intellectual" contests for a prize of $5,000 awarded in the will of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Putnam.

The student who pursues a college education this day and time needs to have his eyes examined.

He may be spending more nervous energy through his eyes than is good for his health.

Football Here Next Year Depends Upon Completion Of College Athletic Field

President Expresses Hopes for Return of Popular Sport Here Next Fall After Absence of 3 Years.

After an absence of three seasons, football, the monarch of college sports, will return to the High Point College campus next year if present plans for the completion of the college athletic field are successful.

In an interview with THE HI-PO reporter, President G. I. Humphreys stated that, although no definite statement could be made, it was highly probable that sufficient funds would be secured which would make possible the completion of the field before the football season next fall.

Work was started on the stadium in the summer of '33, but lack of funds forced a halt to the construction. The field is located west of the college, between Montlieu and Lexington avenues, at a distance from the College which makes it convenient to the students.

When finished, the field will furnish ample room for inter-collegiate football contests, track meets, and baseball games. The amphitheatre will have a large seating capacity, and will be in every way one of the most modern afforded by any of the smaller colleges in the state.

The revival of this sport would be welcomed by the students and alumni. The Panther elevens chalked up a good record during the nine years they played. The first eleven was formed in '24, and in '27 the Pointers, coached by Boylin, were crowned "Little Five" champs. They successfully defended their title the following year in the conference, which had been changed to the Little Six. The Little Six, the forerunner of the North State conference, was then composed of Catawba, Lenoir-Rhyne, Atlantic Christian, Elon, and Guilford. Coach Julian Beall took over the coaching job here in the fall of '30, and continued in that position until the temporary halt in '33.

Football would serve as an attraction at High Point for prospective students, and especially the athletes. Although soccer has to some extent filled in the gap left in the fall sports calendar by the absence of the gridiron sport, everyone interested in High Point College longs to see the return of football.

Baseball Team Looks Better

High Point's baseball outfit this year looks far better after two weeks of fall practice than the baseball squad did last year with the same amount of practice, according to Coach Yow.

The Panthers have shown marked improvement during the two weeks practice grind. It appears that the Yowmen will be stronger in the field and at the plate in the conference campaign next spring. The Pointers finished up in fourth place in the circuit race last spring, but it is believed that they will place higher this time.

From the showing of the players, it appears that there will be a real tussle among the candidates for the outfield positions. Dorsett, a junior with two years on the team, is favored to take care of one post. Grigg, and Ingle are back, but Peeler, Wagoner, and Jarrett are going to furnish tough competition for a place. Peeler, who dropped out of school one year, returning this time as a sophomore, is expected to make a good showing in the coming year.

The infield will probably be changed from last year. Coach will probably have the same combination at short and second, with Culler holding down short and Koontz back on second. "Red" Towery, a Lattimore boy with plenty of punch at the plate, will no doubt see plenty of service on the infield.

Brinkley, Harris, and Rudisill, each of whom hurled for the Panthers last year, will probably alternate at the first sack. Lefty Rudisill has not returned to school yet, but Coach Yow stated that he will be back the second semester. One or two other men are expected to enroll next spring.

If he is able to hit, Luther, who looks good behind the plate, should help Diamont with the catching duties.

Practice will continue for three or four more weeks if the weather permits. The squad engaged in another practice tilt last week, defeating Jamestown by the score of 7-5. The Panthers bunched hits in the second frame for two runs, three more in the fourth, and two in the fifth. Brinkley, who went the full route on the mound for the locals, was opposed by Garner for Jamestown.

Many Upsets In Opening Games

His Majesty, King Football, monarch of the fall sports, has successfully inaugurated his season's program in the initial two weeks of his 1935 reign. Quite a few of the planks in his campaign platform have been changed.

The lambs of intercollegiate football roared and gamboled playfully over their supposedly superior lion opponents in the past week-end's schedule showing that upsets come not only in tennis, boxing, and baseball but in other of the seasonal sports as well.

The first plank of King Football's new program which said that Alabama, Rose Bowl champion, would probably repeat its '34 record was forcefully torn away from its questionable foundation when the Crimson Tide failed to get better than a 7-7 draw with the Howard Bulldogs.

Cornell, Illinois, Wisconsin and Virginia, four of His Majesty's favorites, were all unsympathetically given a rating of .000 for the current season by their meek opponents.

Yet North Carolina's Big Five favorites joyfully and even emphatically upheld their end of prognostications by piling up scores which were heavy only on one end. Duke gave Coach Wallace Wake a latent revenge by defeating the South Carolina Gamecocks 47 to 0. It was the first time a Blue Devil team had defeated South Carolina. This is the second win of the season for Duke, they having triumphed over Wake Forest a week ago. Carolina won her first conference game over the week-end by downing Wake Forest, 14-0. State nosed out Davidson, who in their initial game a week before had triumphed over the Elon Christians, by a score of 14-7.

The collegiate associates of High Point College in basketball, baseball and tennis have also presented some interesting battles in their gridiron contests during Football's two weeks' rule. The Catawba Indians won their second game of the year Saturday by scalping Guilford 21-0. Guilford also lost their first game a week ago by bowing to Newberry 6-13. Western Carolina Teacher's College found Catawba a tough foe when they gave way to them in game number one, 53-6.

Disparage Scientific Warnings That Heavy Lunches Retard Mental Efficiency.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa. — You'll dispense with heavy lunches if you want to be alert for your afternoon classes. That is, you will if you heed the advice of Dr. Donald A. Laird, Colgate University psychologist.

While on a recent visit here, Dr. Laird had this to say about the effect of eating large meals at noon-time:

"Our experiments showed conclusively that brain, or cerebral, anemia, caused by the digestive organs drawing the blood away from the brain, is the cause of the sluggish mental condition which afflicts office workers after the noon lunch period, and that this condition results in a definite impairment if the speed and accuracy with which their minds work.

"When the brain is adequately supplied with blood, and literally 'in the pink of condition,' mental efficiency tends to be at its highest point. When the digestive system is called upon to digest a heavy meal and draws upon the blood supply of the brain, mental efficiency is lowered."

PAPER OPPOSES WOMEN AT MALE STRONGHOLD

Editor Denounces Proposal to Admit Co-eds at St. Mary's College.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Moraga, Calif. — An emphatic "No" to the recent proposal that St. Mary's College turn co-educational is the answer of the Collegian, weekly student newspaper at the Moraga institution.

In the leading editorial in its current issue, Editor Philip Quittman calls the idea "absurd" in no uncertain words.

"We chose St. Mary's because we wanted to go to a man's college. And we still prefer to go to a man's college! There are ample co-educational facilities in the immediate region for those who must constantly be with the weaker sex. For those students who must have 'company', transfers to co-educational institutions can be obtained," he blasted.

Quittman called St. Mary's "the last real stronghold of masculinity in the region." Authorities of the college are sounding out sentiment on the proposed admittance of women students in the future.

SMART COLLEGIANS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Berkeley, Calif.—University of California collegians have found a new way of beating the law so far as parking ordinances are concerned.

Here's their simple plan: First, get a parking tag for over-parking. Second, stick it on your windshield every day when you park to go to your classes.

The theory behind it all is that the police will pass by a car that is already tagged.

Seniors at the Newark College of Engineering have voted in favor of allowing women to enter their classes.

Public Library Has Formal Opening for Public With Congressman W. Umstead Present.

A formal opening for the remodeled High Point city library was held last night from 7:30 to 10 o'clock at which time leading citizens and patrons of the institution visited and inspected the new quarters.

Congressman W. B. Umstead, who aided the city in getting the federal government to convert the old postoffice building into a library, was present for the occasion which marked an advancement in the city's educational and literary life.

Members of the library board of trustees and the staff were at home to visitors. Mrs. R. K. Stewart, president of the board, and Mrs. Nancy K. Poston, librarian greeted visitors at the door. The members of the board and the staff were in various sections of the library to answer questions and show the library facilities to the public.

A registration book was in a prominent place and every visitor was asked to sign so that a permanent history of the event may be kept.

The High Point Council of Garden clubs was in charge of the flower arrangements and an attractive plan was carried out.

The public is cordially invited to visit the library, to see its facilities, and to make arrangements to become regular visitors.

BUSINESS EXPERIENCE HELPS STARS' CAREER

To be successful in motion pictures one should have left behind a commercial career. The greatest stars in Hollywood did not start their careers on the stage or on the screen. They were members of the great army of common working people.

Will Rogers, for instance, was a cowboy long before he dreamed of becoming, perhaps, the screen's best drawing card and the friend of kings and captains of industry. He joined a small circus because he was broke and hungry. This was his first stepping stone to fame, success and wealth.

Rogers will shortly be seen in the comedy for Fox Film, "Doubting Thomas," which comes Monday and Tuesday to the Carolina theatre.

In this film, which was produced by B. G. DeSylva and directed by David Butler, Will portrays the role of a small-town sausage manufacturer who doubts the talents of his stage-struck wife, played by Billie Burke, and attempts to cure her. Among the long list of favorites in the supporting cast are Alison Skipworth, Sterling Holloway, Gail Patrick, Frances Grant and Frank Albertson.

Princeton University administrators recently announced an expansion plan that calls for the raising of $7,750,000.

Jack Holt in "The Unwelcome Guest" is playing at the Carolina in conjunction with Amateur Night.

Wait All Night For Series Tickets

A thousand or more fans who wanted World Series reservations bad enough to stay up all night out in the open, arose from cots, crates, garbage pails and even the sidewalk this morning to do cash and carry business at Wrigley field ticket booths.

It was a long, chilly night of waiting, but most of the standers in line were equipped with blankets, food, tobacco and other things intended to help the time pass more quickly. They had strung out in one long queue and a detail of police had the task of splitting them up and forming them into shorter lines before each of the score of booths.

The opening of the wickets ended a 28-hour vigil for the number one unit. Gus Swanson, Edwin Brummett and John Peterson, Chicagoians, and Robert Sinclair of Chesterton, Ind., staked out their claims at 4 a. m., yesterday, an hour or so ahead of a man and wife who declined to identify themselves. John McFarland, a telegraph messenger boy, was next, and a grocery clerk from Vevay, Ind., Carlyle Branham, held the next position.

It was a friendly mob, standees who had not taken food or had run out of cigarettes, left their places in line in care of neighbors for the duration of the wait, while they ate at nearby lunchrooms or purchased smokes. Impromptu bridge games sprang up among foursomes, the members of which were total strangers to one another the day before yesterday.

LOCAL FURNITURE TO GO TO ADDIS ABABA

Furniture made in High Point may see interesting activity and possibly world change if things warm up much more in the Italo-Ethiopian situation. Because furniture manufactured by Tomlinson of High Point has been selected for furnishing the American Legation at Addis Ababa in Ethiopia.

The local merchandise has been selected to withstand the rigors of the rare atmospheric conditions prevalent in Addis Ababa. Rigid specifications were met in the construction of this furniture, and no built-up stock, legs or framing was acceptable. It was essential that drying methods be used which insured proper working of drawers and mechanical parts at both high and low seasons of humidity.

New York University has received more than 10,000 books during the past few months through the activities of the Society for the Libraries.

State Grid Teams To Meet Outsiders

In generally good physical condition, North Carolina football teams today began heavy preparations for out-of-state contests this week.

The only varsity player of the "Big Five" schools who was unable to appear in uniform was Tom Evins, North Carolina's 200-pound tackle, who was injured in the Wake Forest game last Saturday and physicians today were undecided whether he would be in shape to start the Tar Heels' all-important game against Tennessee.

Coach Carl Snavely is especially eager to win the Tennessee tilt because the Volunteers were the only team to defeat Carolina last fall.

Snavely worked his squad overtime yesterday and there were indications the Tar Heels would try more than the straight football they used in winning their opener from the Demon Deacons.

All Coach Wallace Wade's Duke players were in tip-top shape as the Blue Devils trained for their clash at Richmond against Washington and Lee's Southern conference champions. Joe Cardwell, veteran tackle who was hurt at the start of the South Carolina game last week is again in shape.

School Man Is Chief Speaker At C. E. Meet

Henry Grady Owens Addresses Christian Endeavorers on "Pursuit of Truth."

Henry Grady Owens, principal of High Point Senior High School, spoke to the Christian Endeavor Sunday night on "The Pursuit of Truth."

Mr. Owens began his talk by stating that every individual must dedicate himself to some cause or die; there is no alternative. "But dedicate to what? To a life of getting by as easily as possible, as a great many people in high schools and colleges today are doing? Or what is there for students who have some regard for the way in which they live their lives?"

Mr. Owens suggested that it would be wise to dedicate oneself to the pursuit of Truth. He then asked, "What is Truth?" and stated that what was Truth yesterday is not truth today, adding that it is necessary to make a continued adjustment if one would seek and find truth. If that is not done, the young person will lose himself in the changes. All truth has not been determined and probably never will be as long as man lives on the earth; therefore it is up to the ambitious youth to find something more of truth, that he might be made free.

He then threw out the challenge, "Will you dedicate yourselves to an understanding of the forces of life as they operate here and as they can make life better or worse?"

In conclusion Mr. Owens said that the end of all truth and understanding is in right living and that the most important thing to be learned from a college education is not mathematics, history, or science, but how to live with people, what are the niceties of society, and a sense of values. The speaker said that if the members of the society would dedicate their lives to the acquirement of those things, honestly and earnestly striving to do them, they would go away from the College better Christians with eyes open to what it means to be alive, with a life filled with possibilities for living large and abundant lives.

He closed by adding, "I covet that sort of thing for you, for all young people."

Mr. Owns' talk was in keeping with the Consecration theme of the entire meeting. Wayne A. Hornaday, a freshman, sang "Prayer Perfect" for an offertory.

ARTEMESIAN SOCIETY HAS VARIED PROGRAM AT REGULAR MEETING

Weiner Roast For New Co-Eds Follows Program on Variety of Subjects.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its first regular meeting of the year last Thursday night in the College auditorium, at which time all new co-eds were invited guests.

The program began with the singing of the society song, followed by a piano solo played by Ernestine Voncannon.

The remaining part of the program was divided into six parts:

Theatre—"Merriment From Legara," by Edith Crowder; Music of Scotland—"She Sings Her Story," by Margaret Smith; Personality—"In Homage to Mark Twain," by Pattie Bartee; Science—"Chirognony, I Wish I Knew," by Lib Pirtle; Books—"The Art of Reading," by Miss Vera Idol, head of the College English department.

Miss Frances Taylor, an alumna member of the Artemesians, talked on "What the Artemesian Literary Society Meant to Me."

The program closed with a skit presented by Dot Perry, Lillian Varner, Katherine Bivins, and Marjorie Elkins, and announced by Helen Dameron.

Following the program, the society entertained the new girls who were present with a weiner roast on the College campus behind Woman's Hall.

Nearly Sixty Women Added to Rolls Of Literary Societies

Women's Organizations Observe Annual Decision Night For New Co-Eds; Musical Program and Refreshments Follow Division of Freshmen.

Decision night for the two women's literary societies took place on Friday evening in the College auditorium. A total of 34 women joined the Artemesian society, while the Nikanthans gained 25 members.

The decision ceremony was carried out in customary manner. Old members of the Nikanthan and Artemesian societies were grouped on opposite sides of the auditorium, their respective sides appropriately decorated with the colors of the two societies. The women wishing to pledge either society entered the main door, each making known her decision by joining her chosen sisters.

The decision made, the two societies separated, taking their new members to their meeting places for the administering of membership oaths and further initiation ceremonies. Following the conferring of full membership on their pledges, they returned to the auditorium, where they joined in a musical program. A trio consisting of Iris Welch, Lena Hunter, and Vesta Troxler sang a number. Dorothy Perry sang a solo, with Miss Solan at the piano. The entire group joined in the singing of the school song.

Refreshments concluded the activities of the evening.

A list of the new members follows.

Artemesians: Catherine Brown, Dorothy Jones, Sophia Taplin, Marguerite Jenkins, Violet Jenkins, Helen Rae Holton, Virginia Dixon, Sara Forrest Thompson, Irma Grey Hornaday, Olga Marlette, Evelyn Turner, Jacqueline Kinney, Patty Redmon, Bessie Hyman, Olive Hutchins, Nancy Parham, Dorothy Wiggins, Lorene Koontz, Nelle Blonde Bess, Mabel Hoover Hargett, Sara N. Jones, Jane Truesdell, Lucille Ingram, Jo Walker, Virginia Elleson, Margaret Austin, Ruth Lee, Mary M. Baity, Frances Muse, Marguerite Mann, Lois Chidester, Christine Carroll, Lillian Pearson, Marion Dixon.

Nikanthans: Grace Moody, Helen Bates, Virginia Curry, Mildred Grant, Elizabeth Cullum, Margaret Walton, Helen Hunter, Kathryn Sexton, Laura Jane Holt, Nancy Barnette, Nina Crawford, Virginia Burton, Vera Mae Ferree, Cleo Hardee, Kathryn Cochran, Mary Frances Warlick, Elizabeth Hoffman, Patsie Ward, Evelyn Lindley, Elizabeth Ellerbe, Erselle Ivey, Elise Kilpatrick, Margaret Fogleman, Grace Hicks, and Rebecca Finch.

SLOAN ENDS TRYOUTS FOR COLLEGE CHOIR

Several Voices Added to A Capella Choir; Northern Trip Planned This Year.

The High Point College A Capella Choir begins regular rehearsals this week, as tryouts are now completed. There are forty members this year, with twenty new members, and twenty old ones.

The following new members have been added: first soprano—Irma Grey Hornaday, Violet Jenkins, Kathryn Sexton, Sallie Ruth Shufort; second soprano—Elizabeth Hoffman; first alto—Hyacinth Hunter, Lena Hunter, Dorothy Jones, Mary Frances Warlick; second alto—Grace Hicks, Virginia Curry; first tenor—Max Rogers, Willis Kerr, Arnold Bolen; second tenor—Vaughn Boone, Lester Valentine; first bass—George Craver, George Crowell, Wayne Hornaday; second bass—Owen Lindley.

The old members are as follows: first soprano—Julia Coe, Margaret Fowler, Pauline Parker, Dorothy Perry, Lois Pressley; second soprano—Marjorie Elkins, Elsie Mae Sink; first alto—Elizabeth Pirtle, Ernestine Voncannon, Iris Welch, Vera York; second alto—Vesta Troxler; second tenor—Joseph Payne, Robert Rankin; first bass—Sheldon Dawson, Leo Pittard, Wilson Rogers; second bass—Joe Crowder, Lee Moser, Charles Ridge.

In addition to week-end trips in the state, the choir will probably make a northern tour this spring. Practically all the above members will be included in this trip.

AKROTHINIANS HAVE RUSH WEINER ROAST

Over Twenty Men Entertained at Jackson's Lake by Akrothinian Literary Society.

The Akrothinian Literary Society last Thursday was host to the non-society men at a weiner roast held at Jackson's lake, on the Thomasville road.

The party assembled on the College campus and was transported to the lake by day student members of the organization.

Divising impromptu entertainment, the picnickers amused themselves with boat riding, "bull sessions" featuring ghost stories, bridge, and various other forms of recreation. One Akrothinian, it is said, even braved the chilly waters and went in for the final dip of the season.

Refreshments included weiners, marshmellows, potato chips, and lemonade. Something over twenty men attended the picnic.

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTS TWO TO FILL OFFICES

Ridge Becomes Vice President, Maxwell Treasurer of Class.

The junior class met last Wednesday to fill two positions vacated by students who failed to return to school.

Charles E. Ridge, of Lexington, was named to be vice president of the class, succeeding Ed Woollen. Gladys Maxwell, of Hendersonville, was elected treasurer in the place of Mildred Crowder.

Ridge is a member of the Thalean Literary society, and student manager of the College book store. He has been active in the A Capella Choir.

Miss Maxwell is an Artemesian, and is secretary of the Woman's Hall student government.

Ridge, as vice president, became ex-officio chairman of the junior executive committee charged with putting over a project to raise money for the expenses of the class. Alton Hartman, president of the class, appointed Elizabeth Pirtle, Dorothy Bell, and G. I. Humphreys, Jr. to serve with Ridge on the committee. They will begin work immediately.

ZENITH PICTURES

Individual pictures of juniors and seniors for the 1936 Zenith, College yearbook, will be made tomorrow, it has been announced by Lois Hedgecock, business manager. The photography this year will be done by Thomas E. Dodameade, local artist.

Group pictures of campus organizations will be made next week, Miss Hedgecock states. The freshman and sophomore classes will be taken as group pictures, as was done last year.

Bates, Hill Are Named to Places On News Bureau

Two Co-Eds Appointed to Staff of College Publicity Bureau; News Letter Is Issued.

N. M. Harrison, promotional secretary of the College, has appointed Mary Margaret Bates, of Winston-Salem, and Inza Hill, of Denton, to the rapidly expanding news bureau, which is being directed by the administration for the first time this year.

Miss Bates is a member of THE HI-PO staff and has had considerable experience at news writing. She is president of the Christian Endeavor society and a Nikanthan. She wil be in charge of publicizing all campus organizations.

Miss Hill is also a member of THE HI-PO staff and a Nikanthan. She will handle news pertaining to individual students at the College.

The entire work of the news bureau has been departmentalized for more efficiency, it has been announced by Mr. Harrison. W. W. Weisner will handle news of the student government organizations, and Dorothy Bell will cover the administration and faculty for the bureau. Alton Hartman, student director of publicity, will handle sports events and all news of a general nature. Miss Hill and Miss Bates were added to take care of student and organization publicity.

The first of the weekly news letters was placed in the mail last week, and will be issued each Saturday throughout the school year. It contains a short paragraph about every phase of the College furnishing information of news value. It is mailed to over 140 newspapers, both daily and weekly, and covers the home town journal of nearly every student at the College.

NOTICE

All students are warned that absence excuses must be placed in the hands of a committee member within three days after the absence occurs.

Strange Antics Performed As Sophs Subdue Frosh Co-Eds

Sovereign Sophomores Hold Kangaroo Court in Woman's Hall Attic; Day Student Men and Women Appear on Campus in Strange Gard; Pajama Parade Tonight.

Last Thursday morning at the dubious hour of two, junior and senior dormitory women rolled over and yawned angrily, while freshmen shivered in anticipation at the eerie screechings of sophomores on the warpath. Initiation in Woman's Hall was underway.

Sleepy-eyed freshwomen scurried into the club rooms, only to be sent back to their rooms to remove robes and slippers and secure towels to serve as blindfolds. Then they were hustled all over the building, through darkly gaping doorways, down unknown stairs, into the unfamiliar attic, where sat the sophomore women in Kangaroo Court. There, still blindfolded, they took strange oaths, ate more strange and ghastly concoctions, and drank soda water by the glassful. Sophomores clad in sheets administered mudpacks, not designed to aid the complexion, and others applied "brands" to freshman foreheads. Freshman noses accustomed themselves to peanut-rolling; freshman legs were liberally coated with syrup and feathers; and instructions for the week were handed out. Very mussed-up freshwomen, annoyed juniors, sleepy seniors, and exultant sophomores repaired to their rooms, and perhaps to bed.

Later that morning the freshmen emerged from Woman's Hall in full warpaint: red noses, branded foreheads, ludicrous garb. One freshman wore the derby hat and perky mustache of Oliver Hardy, but no Laurel was supplied for company. Another yearling miss was forced to carry her books in a very squeaky wagon. The dining-room at each meal was the scene of impromptu speeches and songs. Later in the day, the gaudily-dressed first-year women dedicated an ash-can on the campus.

When class-time arrived, the dormitory women found themselves not the only down-trodden and oppressed group on the campus. Their day student sisters appeared in quite as ridiculous attire. Freshman boys, both day and dormitory, were uncomfortably droll in clothes turned backwards and inside out, with pant legs rolled. In the halls yearling women bowed down before their "superiors", while male freshmen shined upperclass shoes with a will.

Dinner-time came, and save that the women wore green dresses and hair bows, the freshmen were human again. On Monday, however, the ridiculous costumes reappeared, to be worn for the last time.

The program of initiation for

BIVINS BECOMES VICE PRESIDENT OF SOPHS

Hillsboro Co-Ed Succeeds Stevens as Class Officer; Frosh to be Feted.

The Sophomore class in a meeting a week ago today unanimously elected Catherine Bivins, of Hillsboro, N. C., vice-president of the class.

Miss Bivins, who is a popular and well liked member of the High Point College student body, was elected to fill the vacancy made in the vice-president's position by the resignation of Marie Stevens, of Wilmington, elected the latter part of the spring term last year. Miss Stevens was unable to return to the school this year.

Other business which claimed the attention of the sophomores in this meeting included only the suggestion that a Hallow'een party or some other form of entertainment be planned for the freshmen before the end of this month, and a warning given that the freshman initiation be carried on in an orderly manner. President Frank Niernsee appointed the committee on entertainment.

Students Urged To Use Library By Mrs. White

Librarian Speaks at Chapel. Urging Greater Use of College Book Facilities.

Mrs. Alice Paige White, librarian, spoke to the student body at the regular chapel excrises Friday morning.

She opened her talk with the quotation, "A great library contains not only books, but 'The assembled souls of all that men hold wse.'" In it one will find many rare and precious treasures.

The purpose of the library, Mrs. White stated, is for research, study, recreation, browsing, and scribbing. The library is a storehouse or treasure hoard, and many valuable bound volumes of magazines and many helpful books are to be found in it.

To get all one should out of a college education one should read a number of books and not just swallow the textbook whole. Students should learn to get information out of a book without reading every word.

Too few students, Mrs. White continued, are using the library. Day students are cramping their style by neglecting the library and are not getting their money's worth out of the College. If the students expect to have a bigger and better library in the new building, they must start now and prepare for it. The same system of catalouging and the same books plus new ones will be found in the new library.

All students should learn how to look for what they want by the use of cards and indices. They should learn to dig the treasures out of encyclopedias.

In the future there will be a bulletin board in the library. On it will be posted suggestions about magazine articles, new books, and valuable information.

In closing, Mrs. White read parts of an editorial from The High Point Enterprise, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the translation of the Bible into English.

Three-Cornered Moon To Shine For Dramateurs

Owens' Class Will Produce Former Broadway Success; Fast-Moving Modern Play to Stage.

"Three-Cornered Moon," one-time Broadway hit, will be the first play presented this year by the class in play production, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, teacher of dramatics at the College.

The class, which has as its object some proficiency in the staging and directing of plays, will supervise with Mr. Owens all operations connected with the production. Assistance from other students will be not only welcome but necessary, as the class is a small one, having but four members. Especially will help be needed in the preparing of sets for the play.

The play, an amusing sketch of a family of middle-class Americans fallen on evil days, requires nine characters. The selection of the players will be made through competitive tryouts, which will be open to all students. Announcements will be made soon of the time and place of these tryouts.

This play is the first of a series of plays to be presented by the class in the course of the year. It is a fast-moving modern comedy, and will be followed by productions of various other types, perhaps including a period play.

TWO SOCIETIES JOIN IN FETING STUDENTS

Thaleans and Nikanthans Hold Joint Picnic for Non-Society Students.

The Thalean and Nikanthan Literary Societies, brother and sister organizations, entertained the non-society men and women at the municipal lake last Wednesday, as a part of the usual rush program.

The picnickers left the campus at four in the afternoon, and were carried to the lake in the College truck. There they were free to explore the ground, or to ride the merry-go-round which remained in the park, a hangover of the summer's activities. Someone discovered a two-wheeled vehicle, which to all appearances was designed for the carrying of fire hose, and converted it into a chariot, using manpower for locomotion. High spot of the afternoon: Dr. Bowen and Miss Brame almost taking an upset while riding the improvised chariot.

In the meantime a number of society members busied themselves with preparations for the most important part of the picnic—food. A quantity of firewood was secured, and a fire built for the roasting of the inevitable "weiners." Lemonade was mixed in a large container. The picnickers gathered without being called.

Weiners sizzled on forked sticks; sandwiches disappeared with amazing rapidity; a long-suffering Nikanthan ladled numberless dippers of lemonade into paper cups; and rolls and chili sauce did not outlast the weiners.

As it grew dark, and the cars gathered to carry the picnickers back to the campus, they joined in singing familiar songs in the firelight.

The new women were further entertained in the interests of the Nikanthans on Thursday afternoon, when Lake Montgomery and Jewell Welch, former Nikanthans, were joint hostesses at an informal gathering at the home of Miss Montgomery. A brief musical program and a tap dance were features of the afternoon.

Wide Variety of Subjects Marks Recent Additions Made to the College Library

By Dorothy Bell

An assortment of new books with subjects ranging from Chinese history to early Victorian novelists has arrived at the College library. The books are being catalogued, and will soon be ready for circulation.

New fiction makes up the greater part of the assortment. An unusual volume is that in which two prize novels, Dorothy McCleary's Not For Heaven, and Edward Anderson's Hungry Men, are bound together. The two novels won the prize recently offered by Story Magazine, in a search for new and thoroughly American authors. Not For Heaven is the simple and homely story of Ma Bostwick, who places her old horse, Ned, on a level with the rest of the family. "He understands me, does Ned. Oh, him and me, we're never for Heaven. Horse and man, it's all the same—fertilizer all, when dead!" Anderson's novel is a tale of youth in the depression, a saga of boys on the road, hopping freights, eating strange concoctions in hobo "jungles", and wondering WHY.

Anthony Thorne's Delay In the Sun is reminiscent of Thornton Wilder's Bridge of San Luis Rey and of Vicki Baum's Grand Hotel, in that it brings together for a brief period a number of widely differing people, with a sharp sketch of each. A strike delays a bus in a small Italian village; Thorne dips into the life of each tourist so marooned there. Very different is Pumpkin Coach, by Louis Paul, the story of an educated Samoan youth, sceing America for the first time.

The Folks, by Ruth Suckow, is in the usual style of the author—a simply told tale of everyday people, a straightforward presentation of life-as-it-is. Josephine Johnson's Now In November, recent Pulitzer Prize winner, which came to the College library as a gift of the author—an autographed copy—is a more philosophical work, life in retrospect.

History also has its inning in the new assortment. Alan Collins has arranged an unusual collection of pictorial history—ranging from oil paintings to present-day news prints—which he has called The History of America In Pictures. The Four Hundred Million, by Mary A. Nourse, is a brief history of the Chinese people, which gives an admirably clear background for the numerous novels of China now on the market. John Murray Gibbon, appropriately writing of historical events, supplied Steel of Empire, story of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and of the Canadian people. Irina Skariatina, Russian, and her husband, Victor Blakeslee, have written a human interpretation of current happenings, New Worlds For Old. Theodore Marburg's Development of the League of Nations Idea, a two volume work, is perhaps the only comprehensive discussion of the much-mooted League. Warmoth's War, Politics and Reconstruction is a brief study of the political history of the state of Louisiana.

Lord David Cecil's Early Victorian Novelists is an informal study of Dickens, Thackeray, The Brontes, Trollope, and George Eliot by the man who in 1930 took the Hawthornen prize with

FRESHMAN INITIATION

The highly touted program of freshman initiation, which was supposedly being carried on under the watchful eye of a dignified student council, last week narrowly averted turning into a free-for-all—not between sophomore and freshman groups, but among sophomores and members of the two upper classes.

The council met hurriedly in an extra session Friday night and spent three hours attempting to save its brain-child from becoming a complete fiasco. Reports were heard of alleged gross violations of the council's regulations governing yearling initiation, and there were even hints that the state law forbidding hazing technically had been overstepped. Charges and admissions of angry challenges—all made by upperclassmen—were also heard, and it was upon this that the council finally decided to act. Rigorous examination revealed that the stories of private initiations and over-zealous interpretation of the council's regulations were colored with hyperbole, evidently resulting from previous ill-feeling.

Apparently the least concerned in the whole affair have been the freshmen, who started out as central figures in the drama but who became lost in the background as their "defenders" and "tormenters" put on a show of their own. The sportsmanship of the freshmen has been entirely above reproach, and we are more than pleased to note that the council has drastically curtailed the program of initiation for them. The conduct of their elders has not been such as to make the freshmen over-appreciativeof the value of continuing with the program. They seem entirely capable of adapting themselves to college life without the solicitious aid of upperclassmen who must fight over the manner in which such aid is to be rendered.

We trust that this lamentable hitch will have no bad effects on student government at the College or the conduct of sane, sportsmanlike initiations in the future. We believe that had more specific instructions been given by the council, and had a better attitude been shown by those charged with carrying out the instructions, the program this year would have accomplished all that had been claimed for it in developing a spirit of fellowship among freshmen and upperclassmen.

THE LYCEUM SCHEDULE

With our feud of last year only a faintly remaining memory, we take pleasure in congratulating the lyceum committee on its prompt start and excellent schedule this season.

The first of the lyceum attractions was presented last Tuesday night, and only two more are to be given before the Christmas holidays, leaving only two numbers for the busy second semester. It is in the early weeks of the school year that the new student forms his opinion of the College, and it is within this time that a palpable campus atmosphere is developed for the year. The presentation of attractive lyceum numbers seems likely to have a desirable bearing on both of these processes.

Another commendable feature of the lyceum schedule is its splendid variety, embracing as it does the fields of music, science, and magic. There is certainly to be a program in the group pleasing even to the most fastidious student; it is likely that every program will strike a responsive note with a great cross section of the student body.

THE HI-PO feels that the students' lyceum fees have been pledged to good advantage. We look forward to the remaining programs with a feeling that the lyceum problem has been well handled.

This yearling pajama parade tonight should furnish some unusual information concerning styles in noctural wearing apparel. We halfway expect some freshman to branch out in an old-fashioned night shirt in lieu of the pajamas which he has never owned. A night shirt would probably draw cheers from the assembled spectators, because grandpa's nightie still has plenty of secret patrons and defenders who tend to wax bold when the first frost of fall pinches unpleasantly.

A little story is going the rounds about a guest at the Thalean-Nikanthan picnic last week who became dizzy walking around on a merry-go-round attempting to avoid payment of a ten-cent fare. Comfortably seated on the amusement device, the Scotch guest spied the ticket-collector and immediately set sail, remarking to his escort, "Come Sidney, we must fly." But alas, poor Sidney! She was left stranded with a horse, and only a smile for fare. The situation might have proved embarassing had not a gallant ministerial student felt moved to contribute a dime to a good cause.

What with High Point College manifesting its increasing social liberalism with the opening of the upstairs clubroom for dating in Woman's Hall, it seems that the ex-Boy Scouts on the campus might contribute some of their vast knowledge of signal systems for use from balcony to portico. So far the daters have even neglected to take advantage of a junior co-ed's offer to be flagwoman at one end of the line. But just wait until winter drives them in; Woman's Hall will rival a six-track railroad yard for profusion of signals. . . . And speaking of social liberalism, the ovation that a dance agitator received in speech class was heard throughout Roberts Hall. But most of the noise was made by one person. Find out why.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C. — At least once a day the secretary of any government executive of a New Deal agency, no matter how minor his ranking, finds a dozen letters in his mail from recent college graduates, running somewhat in this vein:

Dear Mr. Gleep:

One of my friends, a Mr. Smith, who is a friend of a friend of yours, Mr. Jones of the Covington Kentucky Joneses, has suggested that I write to you in regard to a job with your division, the legal division of the Federal Administration of Emergency Entomology.

Now although I am not a lawyer, let alone know anything about the laws having to do with entomology, I am a recent graduate of Oklahoma University, having majored in Anglo-Saxon and Norse. What I don't know about Beowulf never happened to him.

Well, I need a job badly. I never took entomology and what's more I don't know what you need a legal division in your bureau for, but I feel sure that what I know of your legal code of Athelthrothel the Allwet, king of the Northumbrians, would stand me in good stead in your department.

Or, I could be a useful office executive of some sort, engaging myself in working out methods to file paper clips correctly. Is there anything more annoying to a high powered man like yourself than to have to lose your dignity and your temper, hunting through a bowlful of seventeen different clips for an elliptical one, with only square, rectangular and round ones turning up?

I know I could be useful to you. And I am willing to study law or entomology, or both, at night. Please let me know if you can use me.

Very truly yours,
Baxter Milbury.

Mr. Milbury hasn't much of a chance with the New Deal agencies. For a minor clerical or office job he has to have either political sponsorship or, to get in some bureaus, he has to have Civil Service status. For a better job he has to have technical or professional training of some sort and some proof of his ability in some specialized field from which men are being drawn.

If he is a fledgling lawyer, with a good academic record, and, more than that, a recommendation from one of his law professors to someone doing important executive work in Washington, his chance for a job in the capital is fairly good. The AAA, the FERA, the Resettlement Administration, the Department of Justice, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and a number of other bureaus may have something to offer in their legal divisions.

Engineers' best opportunities lie with the Resettlement Administration in their field offices, or with Rural Electrification, or with field offices of the Works Progress Administration. Architects, to a considerably lesser degree, may find work with the planning sections of these departments.

Economists, with specialized knowledge of public utilities, labor conditions and problems, market prices, or statistics usually come armed with letters from former professors to executives of the Security Exchange Commission, the Department of Labor, the National Relations Board, the Farm Credit Administration, and to the WPA. The statisticians have been especially in demand, in the past, and good ones always have an even chance. Mountains of statistics are compiled every day by droves of government statisticians. The amount of statistical information about the trends of prices, employment, industrial activity, etc., in this country, added in the past three years to what was already known is staggering. It takes an army of statisticians to compute what is being done under the New Deal, month by month, in terms of employment and expenditures, plus another army devoted to carrying on statistical research.

Accountants have been finding employment with the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department aiding in investigating income tax returns. Every New Deal office has had occasion to use many of them steadily, others temporarily. In many cases investigators sent out by such agencies as the FERA and the WPA, Rural Resettlement and AAA are accountants, with some legal training.

Graduates of colleges and departments of journalism are having more difficulty than any other professionally trained group in finding posts in Washington. It is true that the New Deal has created a great many new press sections for its new agencies, but in almost every case the person hired is a seasoned, experienced newsman. The novice has to compete with men of years of experience, men often nationally known, in order to get a job. Moreover, even the biggest agencies use no more than three or four people to turn out releases, or to handle their organization's relations with the press.

As for the college graduate with a general letters and science background, his only chance is to fit in somewhere on the strength of some minor he took as an undergraduate. Many persons employed here are doing work that they didn't devote most of their time to at college, but in which they showed more than a passing interest. English majors, who discovered a secondary forte in statistics, are gathering them for Federal agencies. History majors, with a good background in sociology are doing sociological research for government departments. And the interesting thing is that the subject that was once their second choice is now the field they plan to make their life-work.

Getting a job in Washington means a campaign, often a long one. It has to be well thought out to have any chance of being successful. And frankly, if you're a Mr. Milbury, the odds are greatly against you here. Even if you're first rate in your field, it may still very possibly be true that there are far more opportunities for you at home, or in cities nearer to you, than in Washington. Washington is unfortunately somewhat like Hollywood in that often an accident gives you a job or keeps you from getting it, or takes it away from you, if you do get it!

A criminology class at Syracuse University (N. Y.) has discovered that morons can dance as well, if not better, than most people of normal mentality. They are gifted with an abnormally developed sense of rhythm, the students declare.

TO THINK OR OR NOT TO THINK

President Hutchins of Chicago University, recently facing a charge that the University was a "hotbed of communism," made effective reply.

"A university," said the young educator, "is a community of scholars. It is not a kindergarten; it is not a club; it is not a reform school; it is not a political party; it is not an agency of propaganda. A university is a community of scholars. . . .

"Freedom of inquiry, freedom of discussion, and freedom of teaching—without these a university cannot exist."

Today fourteen states in the United States have laws requiring teachers to take a loyalty oath. If schools and colleges today are forced to confine their teachings to a "safety zone," they are losing their reasons for existence.

Because groups of students are beginning to think seriously of social, religious, and racial problems, they are, on the part of the general public, "viewed with alarm." But the students are not necessarily radical; rather, they are learning why they should be conservative.

Perhaps most people are too prone today to label as "radicals" the person who in his thinking departs somewhat from the commonplace. We need not be "Reds" or anarchists because we realize the limitations and inadequacies of the present social system. Neither are we necessarily stodgy because we are slow to accept new ideas. But it is up to us, the college students of today, to strike a happy medium between dogma destruction, between being opinionated and being rabid.

WAR AND PEACE

The general subject of world peace and the specific issue of the long impending conflict between Italy and Ethiopia have been the subject of so many editorials, both in college newspapers and in the commercial press, that actual outbreak of hostilities finds little comment left to be said. The intensifed interest aroused in the conflict, however, moves us to re-emphasize the need for unbiased views in keeping with the official neutrality legislation recently passed by Congress. Actual neutrality is a matter of mass attitude, not of laws that may be written in the center of government.

It is doubtful if the United States would escape unpleasant consequences should the present ominous blaze spread into a general conflagration. Certainly there would be loss of American property and lives. No war has ever been so rigidly controlled by its participants that the rights of every neutral nation has been perfectly observed. But would it not be better to accept the loss of a few ships and an occasional stray traveler with grim sportsmanship than to defend the national pride at a cost of millions in lives and money? At the present stage of the conflict, it is easy for Americans to observe a theoretical neutrality. The real test of keeping cool will come when the uncontrolled flames begin to flick our limbs and faces.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"This world is suffering today from uncoordinated thought. Never was there more brilliant thinking and never was brilliant thinking more productive of accomplishment, but the thinking and accomplishment of one group are entirely detached from the thinking and accomplishment of another." Thus saith the president of Dartmouth College, Dr. Hopkins.

Now that we have you thinking upon this sad situation, let us transfer the scene to Harvard University and demonstrate to you that truer words were never spoken by a college president. We will show you the swellest piece of un-connected thinking that ever moved cogs within a university.

Not so long ago, the Rockefeller Foundation began sending literature out to the many halls of learning here and there, hinting about establishing campus departments devoted to the training of public servants—which is the newest wrinkle in the handling of political economy work. The politics department at Harvard thought that would be swell; they would like to have such a project. So did the business school. So did several other branches of the great university.

Result: The amazed gentlemen at the Foundation received eight letters from eight department heads at Harvard, all asking for the project—and each department head unaware that his colleagues were doing the same thing!

We were telling you last week about the levels to which colleges have fallen in the procurement of students, especially good athletes. Comes this tale to light: In 1933 a state university in the south discovered and trained a brilliant halfback through his freshman year. In the fall of 1934 he did not return. An intensive search found him on the squad of a western school: A prominent political figure whose heart was with the southern team notified the boy that if he did not return, his father would lose his position with the state highway department.

A degrading spectacle? A perplexing problem for the boy? Take another chaw and listen closer: The whole darn family of the lad was transported en masse to the western university, where his father got an even better position in the highway department in that state.

WANING COLLEGE SPIRIT

(From the Duke Chronicle)

Our congratulations are due to the Class of '39 for their fine turnout during the pajama parade Thursday night. Again this year it looks like another class has brought some real school spirit in with them; the Class of '38 failed to advance strides in this direction last year.

From college men in all corners of the country comes the report that spirit for the Alma Mater is very poor. Regardless of how much everyone yells about keeping "school spirit," most college students are loathe to evidence any except when their team is on the highroad to victory. Perhaps the spirit is not really poor; perhaps it is only the contrast between the small local school and the large cosmopolitan university.

More and more, students are using their spirit as a reward for success. Hence the victorious team finds itself feted, and the defeated team finds itself the object of reproach. The phrase, "Behind you, win or lose, we'll be" has become a trite ballyhooery. The main reason for this attitude seems to be the general feeling that teams are playing for themselves and their own aggrandizement rather than for that of the alma mater. This era of high-powered propaganda, educational remuneration, high-salaried coaches, and paid players has brought the inherent disrespect which mercenaries have always brought with them. Hence the spirit for the players in the smaller schools, who played at the expense of their own time and energy, is lost in colleges today.

This whole setup seems to be a definite cause of the waning college spirit everywhere. However, little progress can be made in alleviating this condition since it seems only fair to reward hard work with material benefits. Such must be our penalty for this world of practical material evaluation .

Frank Niernsee Defends Tennis Title In Match With Jarrett This Afternoon

Sophomore Racqueteer Defeats Setzer in Semi-Finals Tuesday Afternoon; Jarrett Overcomes Rogers to Enter Finals.

Frank Niernsee, defending champion, and Dale Jarrett, a freshman challenger, will meet in the finals of the men's fall tennis tournament this afternoon. The match is scheduled for three o'clock on the girl's court.

The defending champion conquered Setzer, an outstanding freshman racqueteer who eliminated White in the quarter-final round, yesterday afternoon in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2. Setzer was the first man to score a game over the lanky Southport star in the tournament, when he garnered two games in the second set.

Niernsee also reached the semi-final and final round of the fall tourney last year, eventually winning the college title after decisively trouncing Al Primm, captain and manager of the '35 team, in three sets. Frank evidently plans to more than equal his last year's record this season as he is back in the competition with a bigger and better bag of strategems than ever before. While doing little more than practicing his faster and more effective service, his hard ground strokes and bewildering half volleys and net volleys he breezed through the necessary two matches before the semi-final round without losing a game, triumphing over Frank Jones, Charles Ostwald, and G. I. Humphreys, Jr. with identical scores, 6-0, 60.

The other semi-finalist, Richard Setzer, a freshman, advanced to that position by obtaining a bye in the first round, a default in the second round, and by pulling an upset in the quarter-final round when he took L. White, last year's number four man, in straight sets, 9-7, 6-2. Setzer showed good form in his quarter-final match and continually worried his opponent by the use of a fast and accurate shovel forehand drive into the deep backhand corner of the court, playing havoc with White's backhand slice. This same stroke proved less ruinous to the last year's champion's ground shots partly because Setzer was on the defensive most of the time and found time for only a few well placed forehand drives and partly because the backhand stroke is not one of Niernsee's weak spots.

Dale Jarrett, another freshman, will oppose Niernsee in the final round of this post-season tournament and shows promise of giving the general favorite the best and most exciting competition of the series. Jarrett had surprisedly little difficulty in becoming the other finalist, proving to be the little looked for dark horse. Conceded a bye in the initial round, he advanced to the quarter finals by trouncing Cooper, 6-1, 6-1, where he triumphed over Gray in like manner, 6-0, 6-1, thereby gaining the right to meet Wilson Rogers, the man who was generally rated the favorite in winning the lower bracket. In this match Jarrett made good use of his various and well executed tricks of the trade and literally sliced and volleyed his way to victory. Continually he brought his opponent to the net by well timed slices only to maddeningly place the return just out of reach. The second set of the match was a joy to the spectators; the two players continually fought back and forth, the games coming to deuce often five and six times, until Rogers, usually the steadiest player in a match, finally gave way to his freshman opponent, 6-3, 7-5.

The finals will probably be played on the dirt court beside the boys' dormitory. A large crowd of the College tennis fans will probably be present to witness what promises to be a well played and exciting match.

YOW OFFERS COACHING COURSE FOR TEACHERS

Students who aim to teach and coach will receive valuable training in the coaching course which is being taught by Coach Yow the first semester. This is open to all upperclassmen and will count as two hours credit.

The course is given this year for the first time, and several students have enrolled. The fundamentals and the rules of the majority of high school sports are explained and illustrated. Emphasis will be placed upon the teaching of the athletes and the correct handling and training. The actual difficulties that face the average high school coach, as the preparation for the games, arrangement of the schedule to suit the condition of the team, and the financing of the teams, will be taken up on class and discussed.

Coach Yow states that he aims to take up the following sports during the semester: soccer, volleyball, basketball, baseball, track, softball, and tennis.

CORRECTION

The article concerning the formation of a soccer conference of colleges in the state, which appeared in the last issue of THE HI-PO, was probably misleading. It was stated that the plans for the conference were discussed at the Inter-collegiate Athletic conference meeting in Greensboro.

In correcting the story, Coach Yow states that he talked to the representatives from Guilford, Catawba, Duke, and Lenoir-Rhyne after the meeting had adjourned. Although most of them were interested in soccer and the conference, no official action was taken.

Carolina Elevens Win Over Rivals

North Carolina gridiron favorites gained national recognition during the week-end by rollicking triumphantly over the conference leaders and Rose Bowl hopes of the South.

A mighty Tar Heel team, running wild with a brilliant running and passing attack, furnished the biggest thrill and the biggest upset of the week by humbling the highly-rated Tennessee Volunteers on their own ground by a score of 38 to 13. North Carolina, last year's Big Five champions, has been afforded very little chance of repeating its past year's record by local and national predictions; yet the North State University team has lost not a game since the season started.

Duke and N. C. State also continued their triumphant march towards Southern Conference honors by scrambling over Washington and Lee and South Carolina. The Duke Blue Devils, led by the indomitable "Ace" Parker, caused the Generals to retreat without orders, running them in the ground by building up a score of 26 to 0. State, determined to keep up with other North Carolina leaders, scored by land and air to sew up their first Southern Conference tilt, 14 to 0.

Princeton, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Temple and Rice, other national satellites did their best for the greatest outpouring of fans the present season has yet seen and delightfully pulled many strategic wonders from their bags of tricks to give the abundant fans their money's worth, winning by impressive scores.

Little Five favorites did not fare so well in their gridiron invasions, many of them being on the small end of the score instead of the usual heavy end. Elon, invading a foreign territory, found the enemy well armed for the fray—too well armed and had to surrender when the count read 9-6. Guilford bowed to Wofford after giving the Methodists a three period fight before allowing the two winning touchdowns. Catawba redeemed the Little Five honor by beating Newberry 26-0.

Shin-Busters Join Central Carolina Soccer League; Six Clubs In Circuit

Plans For Soccer Conference of State College Teams Fails to Materialize; Opening Game in League With Catawba College On October 19.

With the tentative plans for a college soccer conference in the state an apparent failure, the local shin-busters joined the Central Carolina soccer league last Saturday night.

The new league was formed by soccer coaches in this section of the state during a meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. The new circuit will contain six clubs, two of which are college squads, and the rest Y or independent clubs. The teams are: High Point College, High Point Y. M. C. A., Catawba College, Kannapolis, Winston-Salem, and Kernersville. The circuit is similar to the Inter-city league, which was formed last year and contained four of the teams in the present league. The two additions to the old loop are Kannapolis and Catawba College.

Tom Sykes, of High Point, was named president of the league and Prof. D. E. Foust, Catawba College, was elected vice president. Bill Ragan, of High Point, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Chet Smith, a former Panther athlete and captain of the first soccer team which was formed here in 1930, was named to draw up schedule for the season. The opening games for October 19 were announced as follows: Winston-Salem at High Point Y. M. C. A., Kannapolis at Kernersville, High Point College at Catawba College.

Culler still has his squad going through hard drills, and expects to have them in fine shape for the opening tilt. A practice game may be held before the opening game, but will count only as a pre-season scrimmage tilt.

The Panthers will probably play games outside the league with Duke University, Davidson College and Guilford College, if these schools organize a club.

WOMEN WILL CARRY ON WITH SPORTS PROGRAM

The executive council of the Woman's Athletic Association held its first meeting of the year Monday evening in Roberts Hall.

Tentative plans were made for the admittance of new women to the organization. To be eligible for membership, a woman must have received at least 25 points under the athletic credit system. Hiking, tennis, and other sports will supply points. A strict system of hiking for points was arranged, with hiking leaders to outline long treks and attend to the turning in of credits.

Intra-mural tournaments were discussed, and it was decided that they be carried on as last year. The Brame Cup, woman's sports trophy, will be awarded under different conditions. Last year the cup was awarded to the class whose teams won the most women's tournaments. This year there will probably be a small cup offered for the winner of each tournament. The Brame trophy will go, however, to the class whose members pile up the highest total of W. A. A. points.

Volleyball practice has begun, in preparation for the tournament, which will begin the intra-mural program. Other activities which will enter the program are basketball, tumbling, tennis, and possibly soccer.

The Woman's Athletic Association is a new organization at the College. It had its inception last year, and with its program gave life to the deadest "activity" on the campus—woman's sports. It built for itself in the short time that it functioned a fine reputation, and brought its activities to an end with a successful banquet at which the members of the general Athletic Association were guests. Miss Sidney Brame, director of physical education for women, and Lilian Varner, president of the W. A. A., express high hopes for the organization and its prospects this year.

The board of trustees of Lafayette College is inviting members of governing boards of 35 leading universities and colleges of the East to a conference in Easton, Pa., on April 26.

McDowell Named Soccer Manager

John McDowell, a sophomore from Asheboro, has been appointed manager of the soccer team for the year, it was recently announced by Coach C. V. Yow, head of the athletic department.

McDowell has shown an interest in the game since he enrolled here. Last fall he went out for team, but failed to make the regular squad. This year he decided to accept the managership of the team rather than compete for a position.

With the increased interest in the sport prevalent on the campus, accompanying the entrance of the Panthers in the Central position will be more important Carolina Soccer Association, the than before. "Red" Towery, freshman, will assist the new manager.

SIDELINE SPORTS

By Alton Hartman

For five years High Point College has had a soccer team. For five years these teams representating High Point have gone undefeated in a regular scheduled game. Most everyone is acquainted with these facts, but few know that only three teams have held the local shin-busters to a tie. Two college teams, and one high school club share this distinction.

Jamestown High School achieved this formidable task in 1930, the first year of soccer on the campus. The high school lads held the "Tiddlewinks," as they were then tagged by the sports writers, to a 1-1 tie.

The Catawba Indians came near spoiling the non-defeat record in the second year. Coach Carl Smith's squad emerged from the battle with their traditional soccer rivals with a scoreless tie.

For the next two years the Tiddlewinks bowled over the opposing soccer teams in easy fashion, making a clean sweep over the clubs scheduled. Then last year the Duke Blue Devils, after suffering a 5-0 whitewashing at the hands of the Panthers earlier in the season, gave all High Point supporters a big scare in the game at Durham. Culler's men barely eked out a 2-2 deadlock to keep the ball rolling.

Another interesting sidelight on this sport, which is so hard on the shins: All the High Point teams have been coached by students who were interested in the game. Carl Smith, class of '33 and a versatile athlete, while an undergraduate, was the first coach of the soccer team, and continued to direct its activities for the first three years. When he finished, Culler, then a sophomore, took up his duties as mentor and continued to lead the soccerites to straight victories in scheduled games. Both these coaches have played an important part in the big success of the teams and deserve a lot of praise.

The big question in soccer practice this fall is, Will Culler be able to fill the gaps left by Byrum, Yount, Rudisill, Cloniger, and English? There will undoubtedly be plenty of material from the freshman class, and some from the reserve ranks among the upperclassmen. But will these new men, with little or no experience in the game, be capable of taking the place of the above mentioned veteran shin-busters? To forward an answer would be to forecast the results of the coming season.

Mickey Cochrane's Tigers brought the first championship to Detroit, although they have played in four series before this time, when they won the series over Chicago Monday afternoon. But the going was tough. Both teams appeared rather evenly matched, and played a superb brand of ball. Warneke, winning two games for the Cubs, and Bridges, 150 pounds of Tiger dynamite, who also chalked up two victories, were the outstanding players in the series. Especially do we remember how Bridges pitched himself out of the hole in the ninth inning of the final game after Walker opened the rack with a triple.

Goose Goslin lived up to his reputation as the best money ball player in the majors by knocking in the winning run in the final game which meant the championship.

It's all over and ended as we predicted. Detroit won the series in six games. We gave one game to Warneke, and one to Lee or Root. Warneke got more than his share of the victories, but received excellent help from Lee, as relief pitcher, in winning his second battle.

A special treat is in store for the devoted, but perhaps rather disappointed, St. Louis Cardinal fans. The two famous Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, or as the elder Dean would put it—me and Paul, will appear in an exhibition ball game in the Greensboro Stadium next Wednesday night, the 16*th.*

Although a long time in getting started, the annual fall tennis tournament has progressed at a fast clip. The large number of matches that have been forfeited partly explains the speed however. It is not known why so many players in the early rounds defaulted. Perhaps the odds seemed too great, or some one else signed up in the book store for them.

Most of the matches that have been played were close, and provided some good tennis. Two of the freshmen racqueteers, have been looking good in the play, and should add strength to the squad next spring.

Niernsee, the defending champion, is favored to win, but will probably find some tough opposition in freshman netmen.

They say it began last spring at some eastern school, but at any rate, the idea seems to have swept throughout the collegiate world. Men students have found that they can polish up their white shoes very neatly with the chalk dust from a blackboard eraser.

Not contenting itself with aiding undergraduate students in financial need, the federal government is now supplying millions to make it possible for postgrads to keep on their work for higher degrees.

Graduate students in their first years of study for advanced degrees may earn from 15 dollars a month up to 30 dollars. The quota for each school is 20 per cent of those awarded masters degrees and 75 per cent of those awarded doctors' degrees in 1934-35.

Speaking of federal students, a study made at the University of Southern California shows that these students get, on the average, better grades than those who do not have to work their way. While the "college aptitude" rating of the former group was scarcely higher, their records after a few months in college went 'way up. Which leads one to the conclusion that they show more earnestness of purpose instead of more brain power.

HEREDITY IS MATTER OF LUCK, SAYS PROF.

Finds Dumb Parents May Produce Child of Genius If Genes Fall Right.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—You may be a genius in spite of the fact that your parents' I. Q's were a bit on the minus side. Similarly, your undistinguished grades in quantitative analysis don't prove that your children, if any, may not be world-beaters. This is proven by the findings of Psychologist H. O. Jennings of John Hopkins University.

The difference between the "unbright" lad and the boy—yes, and girl—genius is decided, according to Dr. Jennings, through the play of "supplementary genes," each responsible for some trait of inherited character in the offspring. But whether these traits shall be good or bad is more a matter of luck than brains, the scientist asserted.

In the game of genetic factors, the genes may cancel another. The end product or individual may then be brilliant or the reverse, depending upon those genes which have not been eliminatd from the game by cancellation.

Japan will have an opportunity to see American football this autumn. A squad of 34 former college players, from Tulsa University, the University of Chicago and various Pacific Coast schools will play a series off ten games in seven Japanese cities.

FINDS MEN DO BEST WORK DURING YOUTH

Ohio Professor Finds Youth Leads in Fields of Science and Literature.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Work, for the night is fleeting, and you won't be this young forever.

That would seem to be the lesson to be learned from the "achievement batting average" recently computed by Dr. Harvey C. Lehman of Ohio University, a compilation which shows that the most important work in science and literature is done by men in their early youth.

Outstanding achievements in chemistry, physics, short-story writing and other fields of creative work were used by Dr. Lehman as a basis for his "batting average." He counted each year of life as one time at bat, with each important contribution a "hit."

Thirty-five is the big year for production, Dr. Lehman found, although important "hits" were registered by men as young as 18 and as old as 69. Astronomers didn't run true to form, however. They reach their most productive years between 40 and 44.

Chemists reached their highest batting average between the ages of 27 and 39, physicists were tops between 30 and 34, and mastermiinds in mathematics between 28 and 38.

If you're a short-story writer, you'd better be good after your 30th birthday and before your 34th, or you may never get any place, and if you lean toward poetry, you may expect to be at your best between 22 and 35.

Dr. Lehman points toward Thomas Alva Edison as a prime example. Between the ages of 33 and 36 Edison took out a total of 312 patents, more than a fourth of all those he received during his lifetime.

It's impossible to get a college degree in Italy now without proficiency in military science.

TWO MEN, A GIRL—AND A GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT

Can a woman pal with two men, in the narrow confines of a park tool-house, throughout rigors of winter, and still keep the relationship pure and platonic?

This question comes up for dramatic solution in the unfolding of the screen story, "One More Spring," at the Carolina Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

This story, modern, unique, romantic, takes up the problem of a girl of sternest principles, who meets a ruined antique dealer and penniless musician in a city park. They have no home, no food, no prospects. A friendly 'whitewing' gives them the use of the park toolhouse. They decide to winter there.

"A gentleman's agreement" between the trio to permit no darts of Dan Cupid to strike them, is made and kept until Spring with its romance forces two of the three to break the pledge.

This production is a master picture, and is recommended to all lovers of the romantic and the adventurous. It proves that romance is not something that must be caught through the unusual, but that it flowers out of every-day life.

The beautiful romance co-stars Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, the stars who belong together. They give superb and unforgettable performances.

The adventures of the trio, their ingenious schemes for procuring food, the complications that beset their existence, the moments of pathos and comedy, an dbehind all, the inspiring courage and hope with which they sustain misfortune, make it a thrilling experience.

In the supporting cast are Walter King, Jane Darwell, Roger Imhof, Grant Mitchell, Rosemary Ames, John Qualen, Nick Foran, Astrid Allwyn, and the comic Stepin Fetchit.

PENN STATE FROSH PAY TO BE RUSHED

Fraternity Coffers Benefit by Fifty Cent Charge to Yearling's Date Card.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

State College, Pa.—Penn State frosh are paying for the privilege of being rushed by fraternities this year.

Contrary to the time-worn traditioon, the freshmen are being assessed a fee of fifty cents when they apply for date cards prior to the opening of the rushing season Non-payment of the fee results in deferment of pledging for thirty days—should the yearling be asked to pledge.

The fraternity coffers will profit to the extent of about $350 as a result of the new method, which has been successfully used at the university of Michigan and the university of Wisconsin.

COLLEGE GETS SONG

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—"On, Wisconsin," one of the most famous college songs in America, will become the property of the University of Wisconsin for the first time since it was written more than 20 years ago unless legal obstacles intervene.

Carl Beck, New York, former Wisconsin student, wrote the words for the song in 1909, and the music was written by W. T. Purdy. Purdy died in 1918.

Beck has declared that "On, Wisconsin," called by John Philip Sousa "the most stirring, enthusiastic college melody I have ever heard," will be given to the University in 1937, when the present copyright expires. The song was published by a Milwaukee music firm, and neither Beck nor Purdy ever profited materially from it.

men came to an abrupt halt last Friday morning until the student council could investigate charges of violations of the regulations governing initiations. While the charges proved false, the council decided to curtail the program, leaving only one night's activity on the schedule in addition to the dress regulations.

The initiation of yearlings in McCulloch Hall opened last Tuesday morning immediately after midnight, in keeping with a council regulation that postponed activities until October 1. The program began with the traditional "Cuckoo game," which was supervised by one group of sophomores while another group proceeded to "stack" the rooms of the new men.

Still standing by long-established custom, the sophomores sent their unwilling charges to the cemetery Tuesday night to spend several hours seeking the tombstones of a list of dead given them. Kangaroo Court, followed by a hike into the country, was the initiatory menu for Thursday night.

The final initiation will take place tonight with a mammoth pajama parade to be participated in by the entire male division of the freshman class.

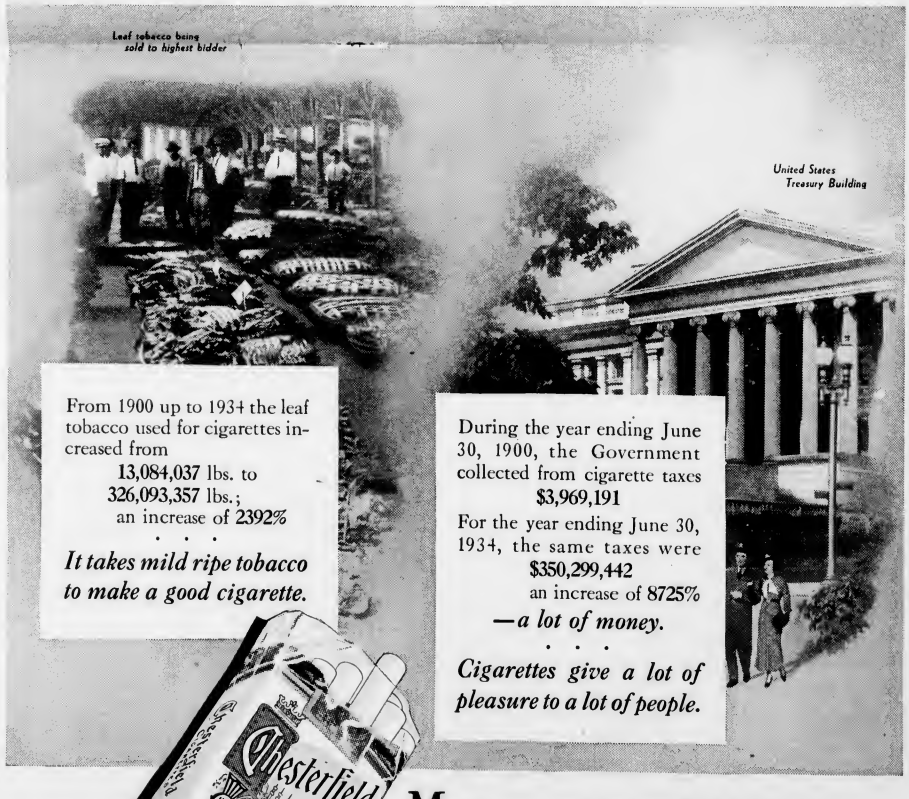

Tomorrow night all freshmen will be formally admitted to the student body of High Point College with an appropriate ceremony.

Junior Class To Have Broadcast On November 15

Negro Entertainers Secured to Put on Minstrel as Feature of Class Project.

The junior class Monday approved plans submitted by its executive committee to present an imitation broadcast on November 15, featuring Francis Holmes and his Colored Orchestra, of Lexington, as a class project.

Holmes' outfit is one of the best known entertainment features in the state. Holmes, the old maestro himself, leader of the orchestra, is a trap drummer of wide fame, especially noted for the novelty touches he gives to his instrument. His band inclues eight players.

The junior class will furnish an announcer for the "broadcast" while the orchestra, as the main attraction of the program, will provide a master of ceremonies for its contributions, which will be arranged in the form of a Negro minstrel. The band will play music ranging from old Southern favorites to the latest dance hits, with variety touches added to all. In addition they will present the usual minstrel humor, two Negro tap dancers, and many original numbers.

The juniors will contribute several local features to the program to supplement the professional entertainment furnished by the Lexington outfit. The added features may include a beauty contest in which local co-eds will be judged by outside authorities on feminine pulchritude. The complete program has not yet been outlined, but the broadcasting theme will be followed throughout, including the ever-present advertisements.

ittard Heads College Choir

arker Elected Librarian, Rogers, Dawson Property Managers For Choir.

Leo Pittard was elected president of the College A Capella Choir last Wednesday.

Pittard, a member of the senior class, has been active in the Choir as well as various other organizations on the campus, since he entered High Point College. He is now president of the State Ministeral Association, a member of the Christian Endeavor Society, the Y. M. C. A., the Forensic Council, is working on the staff of the Zenith, and last year was president of the College Ministerial Association. As president of the Choir he will preside over any business meetings called and will be student head of the organization.

The other officers elected were as follows: Pauline Parker, librarian; Wilson Rogers and Sheldon Dawson, property managers. Miss Parker, a junior, has charge of keeping all the music in correct order when not in use and of seeing that none of it is lost or misplaced. The property managers, Rogers and Dawson, are to look after all the equipment of the Choir. When making trips they are to help with the transportation, make sure that all the necessary equipment is taken and have charge of all other properties that may be needed.

Miss Margaret Sloan, head of the music department and director has already begun choir rehearsals and expects the choir to present programs in various cities in North Carolina as well as out of state programs.

NIKES DEBATE FROSH INITIATION PROBLEM

Judges Agree That Sophs Enjoy Initiation; Two More New Members.

The new Nikanthans met with the old members of the society for the first time last Thursday evening.

Lois Hedgecock, president of the organization, called the meeting to order, after which the chaplain conducted the devotionals.

When the usual business matters had been transacted, the president gave the pledge of membership to Elsie Mae Sink and Ruth Hendrick, who were unable to be present at the Decision Night ceremonies.

As the opening number on the program, Virginia Grant gave the general regulations of the society. A debate followed discussing the query, Resolved: That Freshmen Enjoy Initiation More Than Sophomores. Patsie Ward and Margaret Walton upheld the freshmen, while Jacque Cameron and Elizabeth Phillips spoke for the sophomores. The subjects of molasses, feathers, olives, peanuts, and "rats" were brought back to mind, and despite good arguments on both sides, the judges, Elise Kilpatrick, Bernadine Hurley, and Lena Hunter, decided in favor of the negative.

GROUP PICTURES FOR 1936 ZENITH START TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Each Organization Will Be Photographed in Different Location This Year.

Rapid progress has been made on the Zenith, according to Edgar Snider, editor, and Lois Hedgecock, business manager.

The individual pictures of seniors, juniors, and faculty members were made last week, and group pictures of campus organizations wil be completed next Tuesday and Wednesday, it has been announced. The freshman and sophomore classes will be made as group pictures, as was done last year.

An original innovation in the group picture making this year will be a change of location for each picture. Heretofore a large majority of the pictures have been posed on the steps of Roberts Hall. This year the organizations will be placed in suitable and unusual locations for the photographer.

The advertising drive of the Zenith is now in full swing, according to the annual's managers, and it is meeting with success.

A full schedule of group pictures, with time and place, follows. The Zenith staff is especially anxious that each organization be in its appointed place on scheduled time. All classes will be virtually suspended for this work on Wednesday morning, and the staff desires that all pictures shall be made promptly.

The schedule:

Tuesday Afternoon, Oct. 29

3:00—Soccer, Boylin Field;3:10 Baseball, Boylin Field; 3:30—3:40—Volley Ball, Court; 3:15—Baseball, B oylin Field; 3:30—Basketball, Gym; 3:35—Tumbling, Gym.

College Offers Extension Plan

High Point Will Offer Extension Courses This Fall and Others in Spring.

High Point College is planning to offer this fall several extension courses, and others will be offered in the spring, it was announced last night by Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, director of extension.

Monday afternoon from 4 until 5:30 o'clock has been set aside for registration, and all those interested in the courses are asked to come to the College at that time to register. Each course except French will give two semester hours credit. Classes will meet Thursday afternoon of each week at 4:15 o'clock. There will be a charge of $3.75 per semester hour.

The following classes rave been arranged:

Contemporary American Poetry taught by Miss Vera Idol; French taught by Prof. J. H. Allred, Historical Geography of the U. S. taught by Dr. Paul R. Bowen; Public School Music taught by Miss Margaret Sloan, and Rural Sociology taught by Dr. P. E. Lindley.

CHEERLEADERS NAMED

Dorothy Perry, '36, of Thomasville, was elected head cheer leader Monday morning at the student government meeting. Miss Perry was the only candidate nominated by the council for this position, and she was named by a unanimous ballot.

Bobby Rankin, '38, Royce Gibbs, '39, and Virginia Dixon, '39, were chosen as assistants.

Nominees for the three assistant places were L. V. Smith, Vera York, Royce Gibbs, William Barnhouse, Virginia Dixon, Robert Rankin, and Catherine Bivins.

Owens Holds Tryouts For Fast Comedy

Cast For Drama Class Presentation to be Selected Within a Few Days; Five Men and Four Women In Cast.

RULES [illegible] SETS

Varied [illegible] Play Moves Rapidly, With Fast and Clever Dialogue to Explain Success On Broadway.

Tryouts for the College Theatre production "Three-Cornered Moon" were held in the College auditorium Saturday afternoon and Monday evening.

The play requires nine characters; five men and four women. All the parts may be characterized as "good ones" from the actor's standpoint. The cast is varied, ranging from the "temperament" of Donald, who has a "poet's soul," to the stolidity of the Czecho-Slovakian servant girl. Perhaps the best part in the production is that of Mrs. Rimplegar; in the Broadway version Cecilia Loftus, who played Mrs. Rimplegar, was the star.

To those who demand "action", the play should be particularly appealing. From the moment the curtain rises until it falls for the last time, something is going on. It may be someone falling downstairs, or Mama Rimplegar buying wildcat stock, or Ed, the Rimplegar scion, fainting on the stage.

Love is not lacking. Along with the other worries of the Rimplegars is Elizabeth's inability to choose between the solid and prosaic Dr. Stevens and the too poetic Donald.

The members of the cast have not yet been announced. Work has begun on the set, with D. J. Rulfs in charge. Rehearsals will be announced soon. Cullen B. Owens, head of the dramatics department, will direct the production.

N. Y. A. TAKES OVER STUDENT AID DUTIES

The National Youth Administration has assumed the duties of college student administration formerly performed by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. This aid is designed to keep students in school who otherwise could not attend.

The students on full time receives one hundred dollars for the year, working about fifty hours a month. The nature of the work is specified to each college by the government.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR GROUP GAINS 25 NEW MEMBERS AT MEETING

Christian Organization Lays Plans For Year; Social Hour Follows Business.

The Christian Endeavorers met for the first business meeting of he year last Friday night at 7:00 o'clock in the auditorium. Mary Margaret Bates, president, called the meeting to order and conducted a short devotional.

The society adopted a budget of $100 for the year, which had been formulated by the executive committee. The largest item on the budget is the five dollars monthly which the society pays toward the support of a child at the Children's Home.

Plans were suggested for the raising of the budget and suggestions were made to each of the committees concerning their work for the year.

The president appointed committees for the play, "The Laughing Cure," which the society will give in the near future. Miss Young, faculty advisor for the society, will direct the play. The cast has been selected and work on it will begin right away.

The society decided to try to win the High Point C. E. union plaque which the Union gives quarterly to the society which has the largest number of points. Point for this time will be given for Thanksgiving baskets, attendance at the Thanksgiving Sunrise service, and at the next mass meeting.

The society voted to have the monthly business meetings on the second Friday night in the month at seven o'clock instead of immediately after prayer meeting as has been the custom in the past. These meetings will be followed by a social time for the members of the society.

The president urged that all committee chairmen submit written reports at the executive meetings which will be held on the

Akrothinians To Take In New Men

Eleven Will Be Initiated by Akrothinian Society Tomorrow Night.

Eleven new men have expressed their intention to join the Akrothinian Literary Society, and will be initiated at the regular meeting hour tomorrow night, it has been announced by Paul Owen, president.

The new members are Crowell, Stirewalt, Thomas, Hauser, Max Rogers, Sharpe, Hornaday, Bradner, Ostwald, Craver, and Parsons.

The program last week was intentionally made short in order to provide time for a full docket of business matters. The program was further shortened by the illness of two men scheduled to appear.

Haughtaling spoke to the society on "Why We Have Freshman Initiation." The speaker traced this custom back to the earliest colleges in the world, and pointed out how it has been entrenched as a tradition of campus life. He further explained the value of an initiation in instilling sportsmanship into the new men, and developing a spirit of fellowship among upperclassmen and freshmen.

Barnhouse brought the program to a close with a Winchellsque verbal column called "Peeping Through the Keyhole."

Four Students Get Places On Staff of Hi-Po

Three Co-Eds, One Man Named to News Staff; Business Department Holding Tryouts.

Four students have been added to the reporting staff of THE HI-PO, it has been announced by W. W. Weisner, editor of the College newspaper. They are Evelyn Turner, of Lincolnton, Virginia Curry, of Greensboro, Helen Bates, of Winston-Salem, and Perry Petersors, of Clinton.

Peterson, a junior, has previously worked on the circulation staff of the paper. He is a Thalean, and has been active in various other campus organizations.

The three co-eds are all freshmen, and are entirely new to THE HI-PO organization. Miss Turner has been assigned to edit a column of campus society news for the coming year. She is an Artemesian. Miss Curry and Miss Bates, both Nikanthans, will handle general news stories.

Several positions are still vacant in the news and feature departments of THE HI-PO, and other appointments will be made during the year as tryout results justify such action. Sports Editor Alton Hartman especially is anxious to make additions to his department from the male contingent of the student body. There is at present only one man working in the sports department besides Hartman, who would like to divide the work among more men.

No announcement has been made relative to appointments to the business staff, where Business Manager Allen Austin is now engaged in conducting tryouts. Several positions are vacant on both the circulation and advertising staffs, and some step will be made to fill them within a short time.

Initiate Fifteen Men Thursday

Thaleans Will Add New Members to Rolls Tomorrow Night; Program Given

A total of fifteen men will be initiated into the Thalean Literary Society at its regular meeting tomorrow night. Ten new men expressed their desire to join at the first meeting, and five more were added last Thursday.

The new Thaleans to be are as follows:

Apple, Boone, Briles, Gibbs, Hamilton, Henderson, Holmes, Jones, Lindley, Morgan, Pittard, Trodgen, Wagoner, Walton, and Welborne.

The program last week consisted of miscellaneous magazine articles. Garlington gave the "Life of Mark Twain, the Poet of the Mississippi." Massey read a report on "The Land of Ethiopia." Coming as a surprise to everyone was Robert Rogers' report on "How to Get Along With Women." This modest member would not consent to give any incidents from his own experience with the fair

REQUEST LIBRARY BE OPEN LONGER HOURS

Student Body Petitions Administration to Open Library 3 Nights In Week.

The student body Monday voted to petition the administration to open the College library at least three nights a week for a period of from an hour and a half to two hours.

For the past several years it has been customary to open the library on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings from seven to nine o'clock, but this year the library facilities have been available to the students only from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m.

It was pointed out in an open forum discussion of the matter that morning classes and afternoon athletic practice prevent many students from using the library even for necessary research work. No adverse discussion was offered, and the student body voted almost unanimously to have the council petition the administration.

Frosh Take Oath After Soph Party

Freshman Initiation Officially Terminated After Entertainment Thursday.

BIVINS PRESIDES

Fulk Administers Pledge of Allegiance to Student Government to New Students.

Freshman initiation terminated last Thursday evening with a social, given by the sophomore class in the College dining hall, to honor the new students.

A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student body, administered the oath to the large group of freshmen present. With right hands upraised, they pledged their support to the school as members of the student body of High Point College. This year is the first time in the history of the College that the oath has been given in this manner, having been previously administered in the dormitories by the respective boards and in the past having not included the day students.

Miss Katherine Bivins, vice-president of the sophomore class, was in charge of the program. Frank Niernsee, president of the class welcomed the group and spoke a word of appreciation to the freshmen for their fine spirit and for their coperation during the initiation.

Wayne A. Hornaday, freshman, favored the group with a solo, "Sing Me To Sleep," accompanied at the piano by Miss Agnes Louse Wilcox, junior.

Mr. Fulk administered the oath, after which impromptu speeches were heard from Max Rogers, on "The Evils of Campus Dating." James Jones spoke on "Kissing—Advantages and Disadvantages of Same" and Sara Forest Thompson told the girls what they were missing by not working in the dining hall.

Progressive Conversations followed, after which apples, bananas, grapes and ice cream were served.

Mrs. Helen Robertson Wohl Announces Candidacy For State Legislature.

Mrs. Helen Robertson Wohl, a former instructor in the home economics department at High Point College, is to become the first woman candidate for Democratic nomination to the state legislature in the history of Guilford county, it was learned last week when she confirmed reports that she will be a candidate.

Mrs. Wohl, who was born in rural Guilford county, is a descendant of one of the county's oldest settlers, the original member of the clan settling here in 1772. After completing rural grade schools she was graduated from Guilford College in 1923, taught in the Gaston county schools and at High Point College. Later she received her A. M. degree at Teachers College, Columbia University. She married Stanley S. Wohl in 1926 and they have two children.

She points out that Guilford county, under re-appointment, is entitled to another representative and pledges to introduce at an early session of the assembly a state-wide bill under the terms of which this would be realized. She further advocates old-age insurance in the form of pensions, unemployment insurance, abolition of child labor, right of collective bargaining and other measures in line with President Roosevelt's program for the nation as a whole. She advocates that "at least a 20 percent sales tax" should be levied on liquor in counties where it is now sold legally.

"AN ALERT AND OPEN MIND"

A recent advertisement of New York University, which offers courses "especially planned for people who would occupy their leisure hours in constructive thinking, reading, writing, or discussion, "gives as its only entrance requirement—"An alert and open mind."

Today, although not so much as in the thoughtless pre-depression days, too many students entering American colleges and universities lack that requirement. Particularly does one find a lack of that open-mindedness which is necessary for human progress—not "muddy" thinking which can arrive at no basic truths; not will-o'-the-wisp thinking, flitting aimlessly from one idea to another; but clean, coherent thinking, giving each new idea consideration, fitting it into a sound system of values. Open minds mean tolerance, the realization that the other fellow may be right; open minds mean kindness, the knowledge that "I might have made that mistake;" and above all, open minds mean freedom from stagnation and promise an interesting and intense existance.

It is for the college students of America, in this changing era, to keep their minds open; to investigate all theories and so arrive at sound ones; so to lay a foundation for a kinder and more tolerant world.

GET IN THE GAME

A great part of the value of college life is derived from the activities which are outside the regular rounds of class room activity. Were it not for these activities and the associations they foster, every college could close its doors in favor of the more economical correspondence schools. Yet students continue to pay good money to attend a college and then fail to receive full value because they waste time that might be spent in building up some campus organization and to the eternal edification of the student.

Talk to the average college graduate or even to the average upperclassman and you will find, in all probability, that the chief regret connected with his school career is that he failed to identify himself with more extra-curricular activities. He perhaps felt a longing to become connected with some activity in which he was interested, but in his freshman year he didn't have a chance against those veteran upperclassmen who had been in the game for years. Later, in his subsequent years, he developed a feeling that it was just too late, he couldn't compete with those who started in their freshman year.

There are literary societies, publications, dramatic organizations, athletic teams, religious organizations in dire need of new blood both from the freshman and upper classes. And certainly there are students in every class who need the development and training that these organizations are able to provide. No one should delay entering the organizations covering the field of his interest, and it is useless to expect to be vaulted into that organization by some magical power. To push may be ill-mannered but it still stands as an effective means of advancement.

SELFISHNESS GREATEST FOE OF PROGRESS

(From The High Point Enterprise)

Because selfishness and self-centeredness are the greatest enemies of human progress, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, admonishes members entering his institution's freshman class to cause the next four years to serve their self-development.

Would that every freshman might have and heed that advice and come to recognize that selfish persons are hopelessly uneducated. There is in the truly educated person—not meaning necessarily those exposed to formal education but rather those who have that faculty of living together happily with people—there is no conflict between the numerator and common denominator; as Dr. Butler explains, the numerator represents the individual personality, while the denominator is "that which we all have and know together."

True education breaks down selfishness of necessity because it reveals the basic truth of relationship of peoples and nations and overlooks puny physical barriers which hold in that selfishness and nationalism that is a constant and real foe of human progress. World brotherhood must be built upon enlightened realization that mankind cannot and does not live alone.

The following letter was submitted to the student commttee on absences by a day student member of the sophomore class whose name has been mercifully deleted by the Editor. Incidentally the request was refused on the grounds, so the committee reports, that no squirrels were produced as proof of the story.

Committee on Student Absence,
High Point College,
High Point, N. C.

Mr. Chairman:

As is the custom of most people to follow their favorite sports in due season, so is it my custom to devote a few days each fall to hunting. This fall I particularly wished to hunt squirrels upon the land of my friend Mr. J. W. Gordon. Due to the fact that Mr. Gordon is engaged at all times at Richardson's Department Store and that I also work there when not attending college, we decided that the most logical time to hunt would be Monday morning, October 7.

Accordingly then, I arose at five-thirty that bitter cold morning and went hunting. It was my intention, at that time, to return immediately folowing the first period; but as we made ready to return we had considerable difficulty in starting Mr. Gordon's old car (he said it was because of the cold weather—I think it was because of the general old age of the car). At any rate, when we arrived in town the chapel period was just breaking up; thus I was caused to miss periods one, two, and chapel Monday the seventh.

Respectfully yours,

P. S. I killed two squirrels.

ASSOCIATION CHARGES MED STANDARDS LOWER

Says Undermanned Faculties, Crowded Labs, Have Forced Down Med Schools.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago, Illinois.—The standards of the medical schools, once among the highest, have been lowered in recent years, asserted The Journal of the American Medical Association in this year's review of educational conditions in the United States and Canada.

Undermanned faculties, overcrowded laboratories and the acceptance of students of below-par scholastic records have resulted in an impairment of efficiency, according to the publications.

Responsibility for the situation is largely attributed to financial stringency during the depression, which has compelled some schools to rely more largely on income from student fees. The Journal says that larger numbers of students have been accepted for the money they bring in, pointing out that in most cases the teaching staff has not been correspondingly strengthened or the physical plant commensurately enlarged.

Probably the most unique scholarship in America is one offered by Hamilton College. Worth $500, it is open to all men in America by the name of Leavenworth.

Editor THE HI-PO:

Please accept my most sincere congratulations on the professional job you are doing in filling a live college newspaper each week without being laborious in length or trivial in subject matter of your stories. I chose the word "professional" advisedly, because your paper is not amateurish in content or make-up.

The three issues you have published this year have all excelled the best of last year, and I am looking forward confidently, even though a bit prematurely, to THE HI-PO receiving the award as the best paper in the state at he spring convention of the press association.

Your editorials are, without exception, pithy and to the point. They seem to be wholly fair and impartial; may they continue to be frankly and fearlessly so.

Best wishes for a successful editorial year, and a competent hard-working staff.

Sincerely yours,
C. T. Morris.

Still others are expecting to join.

Several other matters of business were brought before the society. Then followed a social hour in charge of Vesta Troxler, chairman of the social committee, in which the society was divided into two groups which in turn challenged each other. A constant fire of challenges kept the groups occupied and interested until ice cream ended the affair and the meeting adjourned with a verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by the Mizpah benediction.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C. — After a young college man has been in this town for about a year he often finds that his acquaintances are limited to fellow classmates he knew well at school and to the people he meets in his own department. Quite often he drifts completely away from his classmates and confines his after-hour friendships to co-workers. Once he has done that he has become part of an interesting social pattern fairly prevalent here, a sort of tribal arrangement with government departments substituted for tribes.

To elucidate, what is meant is that in Washington, employees of one department are very apt to maintain social relations mostly with people in their own department. A young man in the NRA has three dates with young ladies in the NRA for every date he has with outsiders. A young lady in the AAA, although she may often look wistfully at the young men in the Department of Justice, is usually forced to accept her lot, which seems to take the form of a steady diet of young AAA statisticians.

Young men and women, limited in this manner finally begin to rationalize the limitation, and then to adopt it unconsciously as a policy. The AAA people have exclusive little parties on holiday evenings, limited to people in some particular office. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation's personnel follows the same trend, with a little informal picnic now and then.

It's good for office morale though. When you see old J. B. Grampus, head of your division, whom you had previously believed was not so much a man as a disembodied roaring from an inner office, at the office's Hallowe'en party, masquerading as A Sharp Rise In Prices, you feel that never again will you tremble at that roaring. You almost feel like putting in overtime for old J. B.

Such office gatherings however cause clannishness between offices to increase. Each group begins to have its own secrets, its own interests, and even its own terminology. In order for old J. B. to have come disguised as A Sharp Rise In Prices, he had to assume a certain basis of understanding among the people in his office. Being statisticians steeped in the jargon of the business they immediately identified him for what he represented.

On the other hand if he had entered in a costume symbolizing Supplementary Relief, the greatest confusion would have prevailed. But it would have been child's play for an FERA employee to label him correctly. Because ten to one the FERA man once used that idea himself, at a party given by some member of the FERA staff!

After a year in Washington the college man or woman begins to find himself behaving somewhat similarly. He falls into the routine. In a vague way he begins to wonder what sort of chaps work in some of the other departments, just as a Harvard man often finds himself faintly curious as to what sort of chaps go to Princeton. He suspects they may be perfectly alright but he isn't quite sure.

Occasionally, meeting an old classmate from another department, they get to discussing the merits of their respective bureaus, the importance to society of the work done by each. Smith of Harvard and the Resettlement Administration and Jones of Harvard and the TVA are cordial until inadvisedly Smith happens to let drop the remark:

"I see where the court reversed you fellows on the Dinklefogle case."

This happens to be a sore spot with the TVA, and Jones reacts as if someone had thrown mud on the flag. In a half hour they are calling each other names and each is sneering openly at the other fellow's outfit.

The result is that Smith begins to look upon the Resettlement Administration as he once looked upon Harvard, and Jones has the same feeling of loyalty to the TVA as Harvard once aroused in him. What happens? As an indirect result Smith will never feel quite right about meeting girls employed by the TVA, and Jones will be uncomfortable in the presence of the Resettlement Administration's young ladies. Potential romances are nipped in the bud and the buds are plowed under, just because Smith happened to meet Jones the day after the decision was handed down in the Dinklefogle case.

Something will have to be done about this spirit of clannishness. A Committee of Inter-Departmental Social Relations will have to be formed to promote understanding between the estranged Smiths and Joneses. The Smiths in one department will have to be shown that the Joneses in another department are their equals, that chemically Smith and Jones are on a par, that culturally they are on the same plane, that they must not allow prejudice to rule them.

People must be shown that if a young lady in the RFC marries a young man in the NYA it's not actually illegal, not NG, but perfectly OK.

Columbia Sleuth Has Close Calls

Bluffs Prowlers With False Police Call; Gets Divorce Dope From Rumble Seat.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—John W. Kluge, '37 Columbia University, was walking down a dark street in Detroit last summer. There was a man following him, two black cars with New York licenses were parked at the curb, and a third was cruising back and forth in the street.

Kluge, who was working as a private detective, decided he was on somewhat of a spot.

"I recognized the man as someone I had seen walking behind me several minutes previously, when I happened to look around," he said. "I'd been working all summer, but this was the first time the shadowing had been done on me instead of by me."

Kluge finally got out of that scrape, but it took some fast thinking. He yelled, "Here come the police," as a Ford coupe, similar to a prowl car, sped up the street. His would-be assailants made a quick get-away.

During his career as a sleuth, Kluge has done about everything. He worked as a laborer in a factory for ten days to keep watch over a suspect; he once played slot machine for ten consecutive days in order to strike up an acquaintance, and on another occasion was forced to hide in a rumble seat until he nearly suffocated.

"That was a divorce case," Kluge explained. "I had dressed up as a kid and hid in the rumble seat. I was afraid to lift the seat cover, lest the driver see me, but it finally got so stuffy I had to have air, and I sat up. The fellow was furious, but when I told him I had taken a hitch to save ten cents bus fare to the movies, he gave me a dime."

A divorce was subsequently obtained on Kluge's testimony that the driver of the car had been with the woman in the case that night.

WHAT, NO BELL?

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Williamston, Mass. — For the first time in over a century, Williams college students are not being routed out of bed by 7:30 a. m. chapel bells.

As a result of a twenty-year war between undergraduates and the administration, the board of trustees finally abolished compulsory daily attendance at religious service.

Some smart lad at New York University has found a new way to crip. It seems that notes written on spectacles or watch-crystals in grapefruit juice become visible when breathed upon.

The funniest campus incident we have heard this fall happened during the registration period at the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis).

Mr. Asher Christensen, a professor, was strolling past two lines of freshmen. One line consisted of freshmen who planned to be doctors and were registering for pre-medicine courses. The other line was filled with those about to enter pre-business courses.

A small voice from the end of the "pre-medicine line" piped a call to Mr. Christensen.

"Hi, mister," the frosh said, "which is the longest line?"

The professor considered. "I would say your line is about 25 feet longer," Christensen answered.

"Okay," the boy said, stepping out of the queue, "I'm a business man already." And he registered for pre-business!

Niernsee Retains Men's Tennis Title With Victory Over Jarrett In Finals

Defending Champion Wins Over Freshman in Straight Sets; Challenger Displays Good Brand of Tennis.

Frank Niernsee, versatile sophomore, last Wednesday steamed through three sets of well played tennis to win the High Point College tennis title, beating Dale Jarrett, a freshman, of Thomasville, 6-2, 6-3, 9-7.

The match which was played on the college court behind the girls' dormitory came as an exciting climax to the week's play that had featured the 1935 fall tennis tournament sponsored by the college. Niernsee was defending champion, having won the '34 tournament by triumphing over Primm, captain and manager of the past season's team, in straight sets.

The sets were featured by the hard back and forehand drives and the fast accurate service of the twice crowned champion, as well as the low bouncing forehand slice which was Jarrett's main stronghold. Niernsee continually worried his wily opponent by strategically placed half volleys, and overhead net volleys, yet each point was well fought for as the two players exchanged slice for drive and placement for slice.

Despite the fact that the games were often played at deuce, the first two sets passed quickly and without a dangerous threat on the part of the loser. Jarrett then with a forlorn but ambitious hope started the third set off with a rush biding his time in the exchange of balls, picking out a [illegible] only to put it away [illegible]nt. For three [illegible]e on the [illegible]t end [illegible]in- [illegible]e ing the game advantage only to lose it in the next play. The most exciting part of the set came with the games standing six-five in Niernsee's favor and forty-love, Niernsee serving when Jarrett pulled himself together and took the game, finally losing the endurance contest after dropping his service and giving way to the lanky sophomore in the sixteenth game.

DUKE AND TAR HEELS LEAD FOOTBALL RACE

The Old North State again found fame in the national headlines over the week-end when Duke and Carolina Universities kept their records clear of defeats or ties for the present '35 football season by defeating two of the South's most powerful title contenders.

On the whole Saturday was a most successful day for North Carolina colleges, especially among the Big Five elevens. Fifteen thousand spectators saw Maryland sadly humiliated by the Tar Heels when they walked through the Old Liner forward wall as though they were only a second rate high school team. Carolina's powerful triple-threat Don Jackson, racing along behind perfectly synchronized interference, continually worried the Maryland line and advanced an aerial offensive that gained 113 yards with nine completions out of eleven attempts. Elmore Hackney, a fast-stepping sophomore of Duke, took his pitch fork and led ten of his Blue Devil associates on a jungle hunt which finally ended with the complete routing of a dangerous Tiger from Clemson, S. C., 38 to 12.

State remained in the conference race by tardily scoring over old enemies in the final quarter, beating Wake Forest, 21 to 6. The Davidson Wildcats made a bad breach of etiquette by badly hu-

WILL JOIN NATIONAL SPORT ORGANIZATION

The Woman's Athletic Association held its first meeting of the year Monday evening in Roberts Hall.

The meeting was entirely devoted to business. Lillian Varner, president of the Association, reported to the members that the Woman's Athletic Council had formulated a new plan for the awarding of the Brame cup. The plan, a percentage one in which the points gained by a class are divided by the number of its players, was adopted by the Association. Individual cups will be awarded for intra-mural tournaments.

Tentative plans were made for the furnishing of a club-room in the attic of Woman's Hall, in case the administration pursues its plan for the flooring and heating of the attic. Further plans were made concerning programs for the year. The Association will probably follow in its regular meetings the progress of physical education for women in all countries of the world.

Outlines were considered for further hikes similar to that taken Saturday afternoon by a number of women, with Virginia Grant, Hiking Manager, in charge. It was called to the attention of the organization that in a recent number of the Health and Physical Education Journal favorable reference is made to the College's W. A. A.

The College Association plans to affiliate itself with the national athletic federation for women.

Don't get impatient—we promise not to rename the column again, at least not until the name grows old. The primary purpose was to leave more space on the page for bigger and better headlines concerning High Point sports.

—o—

With both Duke and Carolina slashing their way thru all opposition on the football field in the early games, a natural battle is expected by all when the powerful gridiron machines of Coaches Wade and Snavely clash in the Duke Stadium on November 16. The game should draw a record crowd of students and fans. It seems that the winner would stand a good chance of going to the Rose Bowl, as well as becoming winner of the Southern conference and Big Five championships, if that team then finished the season undefeated. We still believe that the Wademen have a slight edge over the Tar Heels, but it would be risky business to pick the winner of the game.

—o—

Judging from the performance of the players in the tennis tournament last week, we should have as good, if not better, net squad next spring than last year. Niernsee seems to have improved over his work last year, and should win plenty of matches as number one man. Jarrett made a wonderful showing in the tourney, although loser in the finals, and should land the number two or three post next spring. Another freshman who looked good in the competition was Setzer, a semi-finalist. White and Rogers, the only veterans back except Niernsee, should place on the squad also. That still leaves gaps to be filled. Humphreys, who was out last year with an operation, may round into shape by next spring.

—o—

But we need a better team than we had lost year—as good is not good enough. In order to produce this team the players must have moral and financial support from the students and administration, or athletic association.

—o—

We have only favorable comment to make upon the selection of the soccer captains. Both men are good players, and deserve the so-called "break" in their senior year. Since they are the only seniors on the team except the coach, it seems best to let them share the honor. Here's wishing the new captains plenty of good luck with their team this season.

—o—

Now for a trial at the favorite sport of the sport writers — prognostication. (Anyone is eligible to try). Here's the predictions for the Big Five circle: Georgia Tech will bow before the mighty Duke Blue Devils as the other teams have done so far this fall. . . . Carolina should have little trouble in running over her Big Five opponent, Davidson. . . . The State-Georgia tussle is a toss-up, but Georgia will win by a narrow margin. . . . Wake Forest will win over Furman. That's giving the state teams the edge, but it's a great year for the Old North State elevens. . . .

Soccer Eleven Opens Season Saturday In Battle With Indians At Salisbury

Locals Play Ten Games In League

The Panther soccer team will play ten scheduled games in the Central Carolina soccer league this season, four of which are scheduled on foreign soil and six in High Point.

All games are scheduled on Saturday, and beginning this week-end will last for ten successive Saturdays. Due to the Christmas holidays, the games scheduled on December 14 and 21 may be played by the college teams at an earlier date if necessary.

The entire schedule follows:

OCTOBER 19.
High Point College vs. Catawba College, at Salisbury.
Kannapolis "Y" vs. Kernersville, at Kernersville.
Winston-Salem vs. High Point "Y" at High Point.

OCTOBER 26.

SOCCER CO-CAPTAINS

Isley and Elder Are Co-Captains

Millard Isley and George Elder, both of whom are veteran shinbusters of three years experience, have been named as co-captains of the soccer team for the coming year, it was recently announced by Coach Yow.

The two seniors will share the honors and duties of the position alike. They are the only last year men on the squad, with the exception of Culler, coach and center.

Both have been active in athletics since enrolling. Elder has shown wonderful improvement on the basketball court since he went out his first year, and was an important cog in Coach Yow's Purple Panthers last year. He has also played on the baseball team. Isley was slated to cop a position on the infield of the Pointer nine last spring, but an appendicitis operation benched him for the season. He is expected to be back in shape for the campaign next spring.

The co-captains are backfield men with plenty of experience in the rough game. Both are fast and can handle the ball well.

RALEIGH MAN FINDS CHANCES FOR CRASH

Most Wrecks Occur on Dry Roads With Cars in Good Condition, Tucker Says.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Raleigh, N. C.—If you're driving between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening of a clear day, preferably Saturday or Sunday, during the month of December, in a passenger car, on a straight dry, well-paved road in the country AND have had a couple of drinks—watch it, because you're heading for a crash.

So says Prof. Harry Tucker, director of the North Carolina Engineering Experiment Station and head of the highway engineering department. He draws the picture from statistics gathered during his long experience as a highway authority.

In addition to the setting for the ideal fatality depicted above, the car is most likely to be in good condition, with four-wheel brakes and balloon tires, the driver between 25 and 54 years of age, and with one or more years of driving experience.

GAY ENVIES BROTHER

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—Charles R. Gay, recently chosen president of the New York stock exchange to succeed Richard Whitney, admits that occasionally, when he has time, he envies his brother, Robert Malcolm Gay, professor of English and dean of the graduate division of Simmons College, Boston.

"My brother leads a life exactly contrary to mine," Gay says plaintively. "He spends his time quietly, under no pressure. He visits his friends of the intellectual circles of Boston, goes to the Boston symphony concerts, and studies."

Gay has been a member of the stock exchange since 1911, and is known as a strictly commission broker. He never speculates!

Team Determined to Keep Five Year Record of Non-Defeat Intact in Initial Clash of Year.

The highly touted Panther shinbusters will undergo their first real test of the year Saturday afternoon when they clash with the Catawba Indians in the opening Central Carolina league tilt at Salisbury.

Charged with a determination to uphold their five year record of non-defeat, Culler's eleven is expected to put forth every effort on the field to beat their traditional soccer rivals. Last year the Pointers handed the Indians two severe drubbings. In 1931 the Indians barely missed a victory over the Panthers, the game ending in a scoreless tie. They have tried hard in all the encounters since, but have failed in all games, most of the time by a wide margin.

Culler has been drilling his men hard for the past three weeks, and most of the players are reported to be in good shape for the battle. On the whole the weather has been favorable for outdoor practice. The injury jinx has evaded the Panther camp so far, with no player receiving any serious injuries, although several are sporting the customary shin bruises.

In order to give the players a chance to use the plays and methods explained in practice, Culler has played the men in two scrimmage contests with outside teams. In the first, which was played against the local high school club, only the freshman and reserves participated. Still they bowled over their opponents by the easy score of 3-1. Many of the new players showed great promise of developing into real shin-busters before the season is over.

Saturday afternoon the locals defeated the High Point Y, 2-1, without the use of their full lineup. As only part of the regular string played in this contest, the team should be considerably stronger later in the season when the entire squad begins to click. The performance of Culler was the outstanding feature of the contest. The veteran center displayed mid-season form, scoring both goals to lead the attack.

The coach refused to make any definite statement as to the line-up. Niernsee will probably play the goal position; Isley and Elder, co-captains, and Sherrill, will play in the backfield, and Culler at center. The remaining positions remained to be filled by the reserves and freshmen.

Hamilton, N. Y.—"Mankind is marching the road to destruction," said Dr. George Barton Cutten, president of Colgate, in a recent speech.

"A civilization which removes natural checks more rapidly than it fosters high controls commits suicide," Dr. Cutten declared.

"The greatest sinners are probably the philanthropists and the doctors. They have done everything they could to preserve the unfit. If anything happens to protection the race is doomed."

"Man has always had to be kicked upstairs," concuded Dr. Cutten.

Baton Rouge, La.—When Sen. Huey Long, dying, asked, "My university boys, what will become of them?" he was referring, according to Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State University, to his plan to send 1,000 needy youths to the university this year.

Every effort will be made to carry out Long's plan, Dr. Smith says.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT, WARREN WILLIAM IN "IMITATION OF LIFE"

"Big . . . clean as a hound's tooth, strong in story, comedy cast and production value, this production should rate high." That is the opinion of Variety, the screen's fairest yet severest critic, in its preview of Universal's "Imitation of Life."

This Fannie Hurst best-seller, produced by that master of domestic drama, John M. Stahl, with Claudette Colbert and Warren William as his stars, has fully justified this author's estimate of it. "Imitation of Life" will play at the Carolina Theatre Thursday and Friday, October 17-18.

Claudette Colbert as "Bea" Pullman steps into this emotional role direct from her triumph as "Cleopatra," and makes of it the outstanding characterization of her career. Fannie Hurst's intensely modern heroine lives and breathes through Miss Colbert's magic, and you see in her the embodiment of all young womanhood struggling with the problems of love and life to provide a livelihood for herself and baby daughter, and gaining only a love starved existence, an imitation of life.

Warren Williams plays opposite Miss Colbert, as he did in "Cleopatra," and it is a happy combination. Rochelle Hudson, Ned Sparks, Baby Jane, a 3 year old budding star, Louise Beavers, Alan Hale, Henry Armetta and a score of other very well-known players complete the cast.

"Imitation of Life" was last year's best selling novel: it is this year's biggest screen attraction. Claudette Colbert and Warren William, John M. Stahl and Fannie Hurst are an unbeatable star-author combination. Thrill to their aristry on Thursday or Friday, when "Imitation of Life" plays here.

Committee Lays Plans For Annual Homecoming Day To Be Celebrated Next Month

Alumni Committee Sets November 23 as Date for 3rd Annual Homecoming.

ROBBINS CHAIRMAN

Coach Yow Appointed to Arrange Afternoon Program; Banquet, Dance Planned.

The third annual Homecoming Day for alumni of High Point College, will be held on Saturday, November 23, it has been announced by Charles Robbins, Jr., '28, chairman of the executive committee.

Mr. Robbins was re-elected chairman of the executive committee at a meeting held Saturday night, and becomes ex-officio chairman of all sub-committees on arrangements for Homecoming plans. The members of the executive committee who met Saturday are Coach C. Virgil Yow, J. Clay Madison, Rosalie Andrews, Lucille Brown, Chester Smith, and Carl Smith.

Coach Yow was appointed committee member to arrange for the afternoon program, which will feature several athletic events. A Central Carolina Soccer league contest will be played on the campus on that date, probably with the Kannapolis "Y" team. Although the Panthers are scheduled to meet Catawba at Saalisbury on the 23, Yow expects to arrange for an exchange with the other teams in the league in order to bring a game here for Homecoming. In addition to the soccer event, Coach Yow plans to put on an exhibition basketball game and perhaps a tumbling exhibit.

The six social clubs on the campus are arranging to hold an open house for former members on Homecoming day. Each fraternity or sorority will holds its event at a separate time to avoid taking too many spectators away from the other attracions which will be in progress during he afternoon.

Miss Lucille Brown, treasurer of the Alumni Association, and a member of the executive committee has been appointed to arrange for the morning program, which will probably include speakers, special music, and a business session of all alumni.

The day's festivities will be closed with the annual alumni banquet, followed by a dance. The place for these events haa not yet been selected, and it is possible that the banquet and the dance will be held at separate locations.

Th drive for an athletic scholarship loan fund will be renewed by the Alumni Association thia week. The executive committee has authorized the treasurer to turn over all money collected for this fund last year to Dr. Humphreys, and an attempt will be made to achieve a larger goal for next year.

The committee this week is mailing out a form letter to the alumni announcing Homecoming Day, soliciting support for the Alumni Association, and making a special subscription offer for THE HI-PO.

Cast Begins Rehearsals

Tentative Selection of Characters Made for Drama Class Presentation.

A tentative cast has begun rehearsals on "Three-Cornered Moon," which is to be produced early in November by the College Theatre.

The play, for which tryouts were held last Monday evening, requires five men and four women to complete the cast. At present five women are engaged in reading for the production. Dorothy Jones, '39, and Mildred Lambe, '38, are competing for the part of Elizabeth Rimplegar, feminine lead. No definite selection has yet been made.

Sarah Forrest Thompson, '39, of Thomasville, will probably have the role of Mrs. Rimplegar, the ineffectual mother of a bickering family. This part is one of the best in the production. Nell Bess, also of the class of "39, is attempting the role of Jenny, the "dumn" servant girl fresh from Czecho-Slovakia. The other feminine role, that of Kitty, is in the hands of another freshwoman, Pattie Redmon.

Two members of the class of '38, Alson Gray and Robert Rankin, are to play the two oldest of the Rimplegar offspring, while Ed, the youngest brother, is played by Wright Morgan. Donald, the would-be novelist, is at present being read by Max Rogers, and Dr. Stevens by Paul Owen, '37.

The setting of the play is unusual. The action takes place in two rooms of the Rimplegar home, and both of those rooms are shown on the stage.

Rehearsal rules will be strictly enforced, according to C. B. Owens, director. Members of the cast are expected to arrive at rehearsals promptly, and to have good reasons for absenting themselves. Lack of interest and effort will not be tolerated.

MISS NESBIT BECOMES PRACTICE HOUSE HOST

Succeeds McCullum as House Head for Next Ten Days; Varner Is Cook.

The first session of the practice house of the home economics department draws to a close as Alice Nesbit assumes the duties of hostess and Cricket Varner becomes cook for the next ten days.

Miss Varner followed Dorothy McCollum as hostess. To her company dinner, she had Mr. Jack Applewaite and Professor Yarborough, and to her formal dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Gunn. During this period Miss Nesbit was cook, Christine Latham, maid, and Miss McCollum washed the dishes.

For the next ten days Miss Latham was hostess; Miss McCollum, cook; Miss Nesbit, maid; and Miss Varner, dishwasher. Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon were guests for the company dinner, and Dr. and Mrs. Hinshaw, for the formal affair.

While Miss Nesbit is hostess, Miss McCollum will be maid and Miss Latham, dishwasher. Miss Nesbit will have Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Geddie for her company dinner. She expects to have Dr. Paul R. Bowen and Miss Sidney Brame for her guests at the formal dinner.

Each hostess plans and supervises three meals a day for ten days. Each girl must have a company and a formal dinner. In turn, each is hostess, dishwasher, maid, and cook for a ten-day stretch for each duty.

In addition to the four girls Mrs. Yarborough, head of the home economic department, also eats in the practice house and supervises all the work. The home economics majors receive four houra credit for the six weeks work.

LIBRARY TO BE OPEN TWO NIGHTS IN WEEK

Dr. Humphreys Announces Additional Hours on Tuesday and Thursday Nights.

The College library in the future will be open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock, it has been announced by Dr. G. I. Humphreys.

The President added that if the student interest and attendance during these periods justify the additional hours, the library will also be opened on Wednesday nights later in the fall. This would bring the library schedule back to what it was last year. Heretofore this year the library facilities have been available only during daylight hours.

The student body last week petitioned the administration that this change be made. However an evening schedule was under advisibility when the request was received, Dr. Humphreys said.

Annual Fall Rush Week For Greeks Now In Progress

Bids to Campus Social Clubs to Be Issued Monday Following Rush Period.

The annual fall rush week for campus Greek letter social clubs got under way Monday morning. Only upperclassmen who have attended the College for a previous semester are eligible to receive bids at the end of this period.

The rushing will continue until next Monday morning, when the official bids will be issued through the office of Dean Lindley. The answers, also coming through the office of Dr. Lindley, will be in the hands of the social clubs within twenty-four hours after the bids are issued.

To be eligible to receive a bid to a Greek letter club, a student must have a scholastic average of C for the last semester that he was in school. The student must also be in good financial standing with the Bursar of the College. No social club may have over twenty members or less than five.

Initiation of those tccepting bids must be completed within one month after rush week.

The duties of regulating the social clubs are vested in the Pan-Hellenic council, which consists of one student member and one faculty member from each club. The council has full charge of all rules governing the manner in which rushing may be conducted.

There are at present six Greek letter clubs on the campus, three for the men and three made up of co-eds. The former are Delta Alpha Epsilon, Iota Tau Kappa, and Epsilon Eti Phi, while the women's clubs are Theta Phi, Alpha Theta Psi, and Sigma Alpha Phi.

STUDENT MINISTERS TO MEET AT CATAWBA

Pittard Announces Annual Convention of Association to be Held November 3.

The state Student Ministerial Association will hold its annual meeting at Catawba College on Saturday, November 3, it has been announced by Leo Pittard, of High Point, president of the organization.

A tentative program for the Catawba meeting has been drawn up to include both business and recreational sessions, Pittard said. Several outside speakers will be presented, and the general discussion groups will meet during the day, followed by the annual banquet Saturday evening. "Deeper Christianity" has been selected as a theme for the entire convention.

The meeting was held at High Point College last year, and was attended by representatives from nearly every denominational college in North Carolina. The of-

Joint Programs To Be Given By Four Societies

First Union Meeting To Be Held on Hallowe'en Night; Another in Spring.

The four literary societies in their regular meetings have voted to have a joint program every fifth Thursday night for the ensuing college year.

The presidents of the Artemesian and Nikanthian societies jointly conceived the idea for a large union meeting with their brothers, the Akrothinians and Thaleans. There will be only two of these union meetings this college year because of the fact that the third meeting would come during he Christmas Holidays.

The programs will vary according to the seasons. The first program will fall on All-Hallow's eve. The night that witches and owls, bats and cats are seen and heard strange beings will enhabit Woman's Hall. Witches serving conjured foods and the gobblins partaking there of will mark the fitting climax of the first union meeting.

The second program falls in the showery month of April; "in the spring when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." Although plans have not been definitely outlined a big feast is expected.

Caroline Pritle heads the committee on plans and preparations. Gray of the Akrothiniana and Wood of the Thaleans wil aid her. The committee member from the Nikanthans has not yet been named, but it is expected that the chairman of the standing program committee will be the one chosen. The four presidents will act as ex-officio members of this committee.

These programs mark an era of good-will between the different societies. [illegible] competition for [illegible] sometime. They are willing at last to cooperate for the common good of all.

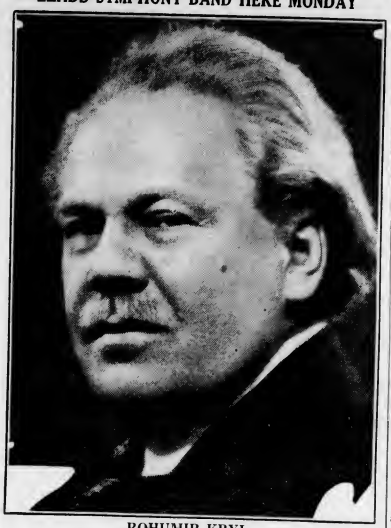

DR. STEVENS SPEAKS AT CHAPEL SERVICE

Asheboro Baptist Minister Urges Student Body to Ignore Scarecrows.

Dr. Herman T. Stevens, pastor of the Baptist church in Asheboro, spoke at chaptel last Friday on the subject of "Scarecrows." He used, as the basis for his talk, the story of the talents and said that the man who buried his talents did so because he was afraid of the scarecrows. He emphasized the fact that scarecrows are never placed where there is nothing worth protecting. He atated that the things that we hesitated to do because we felt we could not accomplish were the very things that would bring the best results.

President Humphreys conducted the devotionals.

The Lyceum Committee was fortunate able to secure him for an evening engagement, so he and his artists will appear in the forenoon. Classes will be dismissed for the concert, which will begin at 10 o'clock. They will be resumed at the beginning of the fourth period.

The Kryl concert is the second of a series of lyceum programs arranged by the College Lyceum Committee. The first entertainer, Wallace the Magician, appeared on October 1 before a capacity audience. The third event is a program by the Twin City Glee Club on the evening of December 3.

Further features of the series will include a lecture, with demonstrations, on scientific phenomena. The lecturer, Elliott James, entertained at the World's Fair with a similar demonstration. Miss Ethylinde Smith, soprano, closes the series with a recital on April 24.

Artemesians Hold Debate

Speech by Rulfs, Solo by Perry, Reviews by Baity and Phibbs Are Given.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its regular meeting Thuraday evening in the College auditorium with [illegible] members participating in the program.

The meeting opened with a welcome to the new women by the characterizes. The chorister performed [illegible] ties and the devotionals were conducted by the chaplain. After the roll call and minutes the secretary read the society's constitution for the benefit of the new members. Necessary business was transacted.

The program opened with a solo, "Sweet Mystery of Life," by Dorothy Perry. R. J. Rulfs gave a history of early printing, with pictures to illustrate his talk. "A Singer to Pioneers," a brief sketch of the life of Stephen Collins Foster, was reviewed by Mary Baity —followed by a review of Josephine Johnson and her prize-winning novel Now in November by Katharine Phibbs.

The longest feature of the program was a debate concerning the query, Resolved: That Football Should be Resumed at High Point College. Julia Coe and Mary Nel-

First Methodist Protestant Church Has Annual Reception For College Students

The First Methodist Protestant church Friday evening followed the custom of the past several years and gave a reception to the faculty and students of High Point College.

A number, with a paper background of various colors—blue, green, orange, yellow, orchid, and pink, was pinned on each person as he entered. Both faculty and students were shown into the Sunday School room and, there, found their color mates and their color leaders. Mr. Arnold Koontz, master of ceremonies, informed the group that they were to go with their leaders to different parts of the church and prepare a scene from some well-known motion picture and be back in ten minutes to be disqualified for the contest.

When all had reassembled each group in turn gave its production. The first on the program was two scenes from 'It Haappened One Night", with Miss Agnes Louise Wilcox taking the part of the beautiful Claudette Colbert and Dale Jarrett in the role of the handsome Gable. Leo Pittard, as driver of the bus, became so interested in all that was going on around him that he succesafully upset the occupants.

In the next production G. I. Humphreys, Jr., huffed and puffed his way throughout the role of the Big Bad Wolf, trying to blow down the houses of the Three Little Pigs.

As the curtains parted the audience saw for the third show, Occo Gibbs, as Will Rogers, steering the steamboat around the bend, with Fleetie Belle (Margaret Austin) beside him. In the next scene a group of men were seen firing statues into the furnace with all their might.

In the fourth group Mrs. Wiggs (Junnita Hayworth) appeared with all the little Wiggses.

The fifth group presented the scene from "Naughty Marietta" in which the men of the place were selecting their wives from the girls who had come to the new country for husbands.

The sixth group produced scenes from Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, but this time Pauline Parker had the role of Mrs. Wiggs.

Group number one, because of its excellent performance, was awarded the prizes of the evening —double suckers which they were to share with someone else.

In spite of a lot of static the group was entertained by a radio broadcast over station LMBC. Miss Ann Wood recited and Mrs. Whitesell sang "Sorter Miss You." After the broadcast little Miss Wood, appeared in person and favored the group with a reading.

Little Miss Wood drew from a box numbers and colors corresponding to those of the audience. Lucky guests, whose numbers were drawn, received prizes.

At the conclusion of the drawing the group passed by punch tables where they were served punch and cookies.

MINISTERS HEAR TWO FACULTY MEN SPEAK

Lindley and Kennett Address Ministerial Association at First Meetings.

The College Ministerial Association, under the leadership of Ferman Wright, president, has started on its program for the year, with Dean Lindley and Dr. P. S. Kennett addressing the members at the first two meetings of the association.

"The Call of the Ministry" was Dean Lindley's subject for the main address at the first meeting of the year.

"A modern, up-to-date view is necessary on this matter," the speaker said, "we need to look upon it with as much sincerity and open mindness as we look upon anything else."

The four elements which Dr. Lindley listed as entering into the call are a realization of ability to do the work, a feeling of the need for it, a natural love of the work.

Seniors Will Play On All Saints' Eve

Fourth Year Men and Women to Have First "Suction" Party of the Year.

NUDISTS?

Bingo, Tap Dancing, Songs, Fortune-Telling, Games, to Be Featured.

A nudist colony, says the committee on arrangements, is to be one of the features of the Hallowe'en party to be "thrown" by the class of '35 on October 29.

Beyond the fact that there will be such a feature, little has been disclosed. It is not known whether the admission fee will qualify the person entering for membership or simply for observation. The committee suggests that each person attending the party pay the fee and find out. The nudist colony will be in the nature of a side-show.

The general admission fee will allow each person paying it to see the main show, which will include music by a negro band, songs by the Pentagon Trio, tap dancing, and ballroom dancing exhibitions.

Further fun may be had in the Crazy House, in the apple room, and at the Gingo stand. For those competitively inclined, there will be the pitch game and the marble contest, probably with prizes for the most talented or lucky. Those who care to look into the future, with its cares and joys, may do so by crossing with silver the palm of the fortune-teller.

That essential article of all money-making schemes at the College—Food—will be in evidence also. The inevitable "hot-dogs" [illegible] Martin had his big moment in [illegible] will be sold by the Seniors. This is the first event scheduled this year for the purpose of making money, and will probably be by no means the last, since each class is to raise a sum of money for a class project.

TAKE IN ...

Home Economics Majors to Sell Peanuts, Candy to Raise Project Money.

Four new members joined the Modern Phiscilla Club when it met in the living room of the practice house last Monday night. They are Irma Gray Hornaday, Rebecca Finch, Margaret Fogleman, and Lorene Koontz, who are all home economics majors and freshmen.

Mary Margaret Bates read two poems pertaining to home economics; Christine Latham gave ten rules for happiness; and Elizabeth Pirtle read ten rules for chosing a wife.

The girls decided to begin making Christmas presents at the next meeting. They exchange ideas, and work during the programs.

They will sell peanuts twice a week and sell candy at the student entertainments and plays as a means of making money for some project which they have each year.

After the program and business the freshmen were initiated. Miss Hornaday was called upon to make a speech; Miss Fogleman had to say her A, B, C's backwards; and Misses Finch and Koontz each did an impersonation.

The society then adjourned to the dining room for a salad course and Russian tea.

Miss Bates and Jacqueline Cameron will be hostesses for the next meeting. Dorothy McCollum is president of the organization and Mrs. N. P. Yarborough, adviser.

UNION LITERARY MEETINGS

A step toward better cooperation on the campus is the decision of the four literary societies to join in putting on two or three union programs during the coming year. But this move, important as it is, only serves to point out the tremendous literary possibilities that may in time be realized by combined action.

We suggest the formation of a literary council embracing all the societies on the campus, and serving in a capacity similar to that of the Pan-Hellenic council. Its chief [illegible] the student body. The possibilities in intramural debating and oratory have hardly been touched throughout the entire history of literary societies on the campus. The two co-ed organizations have staged an annual contest in competition for the Mary E. Young loving cup, but the men's societies have been entirely dormant in this respect for the past several years.

We believe that there are times when the separate programs of all four societies approach mediocrity. Several joint programs of varied types presented during the year should do much to revive interest in all of the societies, suggesting new ideas for meetings and relieving the monotony of week-after-week type programs. The development of joint meetings will do nothing to quench the keen spirit of friendly rivalry among the organizations. In fact comparison of talent on a mutual basis, and competition for contributions to the joint programs will undoubtedly add zest to the traditional rivalries.

HOMECOMING DAY

Announcement has been made that the third annual Homecoming Day for graduates and former students of High Point College will be held on November 23. It immeditely behooves the undergraduate body to start both work and talk to make this even an outstanding success, to make Alumni Day an institution as inevitable as Graduation Day or Opening Exercises.

The development of a good alumni spirit is barely less important than the school patriotism of the student body itself. It is alumni who lend the strongest support to the older colleges and universities of this country. And so it must be at High Point before this school can attain all the material and educational hopes held for it by its friends. The present alumni group is small, but there are in it former students who are genuinely interested in the College, and who are willing to go the limit in helping the institution and the members of the student body.

All this has been preliminary to getting around to the point: the undergraduates and the campus organizations which they control must put forth every effort to make Homecoming Day a success. Every alumnus has an interest in one or more activities on the campus. Every organization must make its graduate members feel that their work in being carried on, that they are graduates of a College of which they may justly be proud in its past attainments, present growth, and future hopes.

BUY COLLEGIAN

On the evening of October 29 the class of 1935 will break the commercial ice on the campus by staging a Halloween party for the purpose of "bringing in the shekels" for some worthy project. This is the beginning of a number of "suction" affairs of a similar nature. It has been customary for some time for various campus organizations to stage money-making entertainments, and particularly for the classes to earn in that way the money for their gifts to the College. Sometimes we are inclined to come away dissatisfied, to make derogatory remarks about the affairs at which we spend our parents' money. But we must consider that things are on a cooperative basis. If we cooperate with the other fellow, he will be kinder to us; each of us will make more money, and the College will benefit. We suggest, as organizations begin to make bids for our nickels and dimes, that just as sound as the slogan "Buy American" is the cry "Buy High Point College!"

Alumni News

The HI-PO will begin in an early issue a new series of columns of alumni news. This news is received with such interest by "old grads" of the College that arrangements are being made with the administration to obtain regular information from its alumni files. At present the cards filled out last year at Homecoming Day are being indexed and filed for convenient information.

The Vogue

We actually managed to get by with printing that verbose absence excuse handed to the committee last week without getting threatened with anything worse than murder—and what columnist objects to murder? It's cutting off his source of dirt that gets him down. The writer of the above mentioned and afore printed letter expressed his appreciation for our deleting his name, but expressed his intention of objecting to the committee for turning his letter over to the Vogue. Another god source stopped.

—o—

One time campus personality John W. Davis dropped in Sunday afternoon with reports of an edifying interview with one of our Thomasville commuting co-eds. "Frank is plenty romantic," John W. quoted her as saying, "with his athletic ability, class presidency and all, but I think Allen is the best looking boy on the campus—and he drives a nice car, too." Is is possible that the most impervious fort is to be subjected to an irresistable bombardment of feminine wiles? These T'ville dames have a way about 'em.

—o—

Veteran upperclassmen are loudly bemoaning the degeneracy of that most classic form of collegiate horseplay, water fighting. A mild aquatic fracas was observed in progress among several freshmen a few days ago. Upperclassmen gathered around expecting a clothes-room-hall-skin soaking demonstration as of old, but the vets turned away disappointed when they found that the [illegible] mind. [illegible] yearlings were throw[illegible] er from, of all things—drinking glasses. A far cry from the days when buckets were suspended floating in hallways!

—o—

We consider it our solemn duty to comment upon the shocking lack of observance of closing hours at Woman's Hall. The regular bell-ringer was off campus last Sunday night and it was 10:15 p. m. — no less — before another monitor could be fetched from behind a bush to sound the gong. . . . And all that extra time Maxie's poor date sat blushing horribly while her swain matched wits with a gutteral-minded fraulein across the clubroom. We overheard a good one about little Johnnie who was always causing his mamma some embarrassment.

—o—

A rush week seldom passes without its bit of scandal and humor, and this one should be no exception. Reports are heard of beautiful but dumb (my goodness, how trite. Ed) co-eds who struggled all last semester to reach the Pan-Hel scholastic requirements only to find that the society of their choice has a still higher standard in its own constitution. Chorus from co-eds: We Feel Futile.

—o—

And are all these bad codes in the bed caused by bad codes in the heating plant department? And would we get into hot water figuratively if we tried to get some hot water to get into literally? The soccer squad threatens mass action; they object to being roasted in class in the morning, roasted on the field in the afternoon, and frozen in the shower at the end.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

The Colleges, of all places, are showing a drop in literacy, says Barnard's Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve. One wonders. There is little question about the illiteracy; one wonders merely if it is on the increase. It seems to us that collegiate society, like any other, is divided into literate and illiterate, has always been so, and probably always will be. There is in any college a certain fixed proportion of students who have never read anything if there was any possible avenue of escape, and there is always a contingent of omnivorous and intelligent readers.

—o—

"Instead of taking things in through the eye and becoming familiar with the aspect of English words," says Dean Gildersleeve, "they take them in through the ear, by the radio and the movies. This has a lamentable effect on their spelling and on some other aspects of their writing."

"Are we right in feeling that the present student is rather more illiterate than were the students of he past," Dean Gildersleeve continues, "Has this condition, if it exists, much to do with our college requirements, or does it grow out of the state of affairs noticed in the schools also—that is, the rapidly diminishing amount of reading done by our young people?"

—o—

The radio and the movies have of course raised figurative and literal hob with the status of learning in these United States. There is no simpler way of obtaining information than that afforded by the radio, just as there is nothing that affords amusement with less intellectual effort on the part of the audience, than the current cinema. Not that either of these two praiseworthy phenomena is intrinsically debasing; it is merely that they both depend for success [illegible] on an appeal to the lowest common denominator, and the level of the mass mind is found at about 14 years. So. . . . Come, say the scientists. The only barrier between us and illiteracy is the American press, specifically the newspapers. The country is full of people who read nothing but newspapers. Already the radio is encroaching on the news fields; it is easier now, in some instances, to get one's news over the air than it is to read it for oneself. And what of increased radio activity in this field, my masters, and what of television? Imagine the alert television reporter, broadcasting pictures and a running description of, for instance, a session of the United States Senate, complete with sound effects. Who'll read the newspapers then? A few people surely; there is some truth in the often-reiterated statement that "the newspapers will never go." But the people they will cater to in the future will be those who want interpretative and background material, matter that can never be instantly prepared.

—o—

Mr. Joe E. Moore, of North Carolina State College, is an enterprising fellow, and a gentleman of parts in the psychological field. He has recently published, in the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology, a treatise giving the results of an experiment he undertook to discover the annoying habits common to the college professor. Mr. Moore had a class of 123 elementary psychology students study 112 professors for two weeks and then turn in a report on the teachers' annoying habits and mannerisms.

—o—

Twenty-five unpleasant things were listed. Heading the list of mortal sins, according to the testimony of 76 students, was "rambling in lectures." Then came "Twisting the mouth into odd shapes," with 63 earnest young psycologists recording their aversions to this pleasantry. "Frowning" came next, with 55 votes, then "Playing or tinkering with objects"—type of object unspecified—and next, "Cocking head" pulled an even 50 votes. The list runs on like that for quite a little while, various attitudes and mannerisms being listed.

—o—

There are professors who did not know, perhaps, that "standing in an awkard position" is very painful to some students, and definitely retards their concentration. Similarly, your careful pedagogue will not "walk around too much" nor will he effect "odd color combinations in clothing." And it is de rigeur to speak in "complete statements" and not scratch the head nor "talk too low."

Finds Students Are Against War

College Opinion Divided on Wisdom of America's Entering League Boycott.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wisconsin — The college youth of America definitely does not want war, and can be expected to oppose vigorously and actively any effort to drag the United States into the general European war many experts predict will arise out of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

This is the belief of Associated Collegiate Press correspondents who have just completed a survey of student opinion on the subject.

Outstanding among the conclusions reached as a result of the survey are these:

1. While most American students are in decided sympathy with Ethiopia in the present undeclared war in Africa, opinion is divided as to the wisdom of the United States joining the League of Nations in the application of aggressor penalties against Italy, with only a minority in support.

2. Today, more students than ever before are prepared to view with synical skepticism the flag-waving jingoism and propaganda so successfully used to drive America into participation in the World War.

3. The flood of books, pamphlets and magazine articles exposing the origins of past wars, and particularly the World War, has found a wider circulation among college students and instructors than among any other group of the American public as a whole.

4. The number of "conscientious objectors" and pacifists in the colleges and universities, both those who would refuse to enlist for a foreign war and those who are pledged not to fight for any reason, has vastly increased during the past few years.

What collegiate America thinks of war is best expressed in the following editorial from the Northeast Missouri Teachers' College. The article has been widely reprinted in the college press:

"We, the young people of today, are faced with a world preparing for war. Italy is rapidly forcing the issue in Ethiopia; Great Britain is rushing her navy to the Mediterranean; the United States is steadily increasing its military expenditures and following policies which threaten to plunge us into the melee. The League of Nations is a peace organization in name but it powerless to avert war unless Italy retracts, and Italy will not retract as long as there is a possible chance to gain land and resources. War in Europe seems inevitable.

"The United States must not be drawn into the mess. The young men of America are too valuable to waste in a squabble between selfish nations in Europe; American resources are too valuable to blow up in gun powder.

"We feel the need for constructive and dramatic demonstration against the rising war tendencies of our nation. We must bear down strongly on peace education. We must demonstrate our determination not to be cannon-fodder for future wars."

AROUND WASHINGTON

Mr. Serwer, the regular Washington correspondent of THE HI-PO and the Associated Collegiate Press, is on his vacation this week. In his column today he deserts the Washington scene and gives you his impressions of Key West, his ideas about the founding of a co-educational college, and a little bit of ballyhoo that must have come from a Chamber of Commerce secretary.—Editor.

By ARNOLD SERWER

(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Key West, Fla. — If anyone wants to found a college for women I suggest starting it here in Key West. I know of no more ideal place, winter or summer, for the pursuit of learning in beautiful surroundings. At the risk of sounding like a spokesman for the local chamber of commerce I am going to explain why the place is so unusual, and Mr. Hemingway, who has had this place to himself for so long, can bite his nails all he wants to at the spectacle of an outsider egging on other outsiders to come down and overrun the place.

The climate is practically perfect. Once in a while, in January or February, Key West has a really cold snap. The mercury dives way down to 49 degrees above zero. In the summer it never gets above 91 or 92. Built on the largest of Florida's Keys it is lapped on one side by the Atlantic Ocean and on the other by the Gulf of Mexico. People living in the middle of the city, daily have to make up their minds whether they'd rather swim in the Gulf or in the Atlantic Ocean. They're only about a half a mile apart.

Key West has a distinct flavor all its own. It scarcely seems like an American city. Half of its 12,000 people are Cuban and Spanish, the remainder are native whites and negroes. The whites, known as conks, are hard bitten people, clannish to the nth degree. Hospitable on the surface, underneath they are extremely suspicious of outsiders. An outsider is anyone who came to Key West in the last 20 years. Walk down Duval street and you can hear Key West Spanish, an impure version of the mother tongue, being spoken as readily by the conks as by the Cubans.

It is a perfect spot for writers and artists. There is color everywhere. In the startling green sea, in the tall cocoanut palms, in the multi-colored boats in the harbor, in the white beaches. The scores of grey and white houses, all seemingly leaning slightly to one side or the other, invite the etcher to try his hand.

At night the main street, Duval, comes violently to life. Scores of people, young and old, lean against the shop windows and watch the passersby. The street is lined with bicycles parked against the curb. Everybody rides them here. Whole families come downtown on them together, the head of the family pedaling a bicycle with a basket attached to the handlebars, if the purpose of the trip happens to be shopping. People shout and halloo to each other. Little coffee colored Cuban children scoot back and forth across the street on urgent business of their own.

At this particular time Key West's commerce with the outside world has suffered a severe temporary stoppage. The hurricane of a month ago, striking 60 miles north of here, wiped out highway fills between several of the keys, and destroyed several bridges, along with the Florida East Coast Railway. As a result Key West depends on one boat and about four planes a week for mail and some of its supplies. But beginning November 1 ferry service is slated to be resumed, and within the next few months the highway will be rebuilt. At the present time the FERA and the state highway department are jointly putting in a temporary road.

Key West itself has not had a hurricane in which life was lost, in 40 years. A week ago when one threatened Key West got ready. Windows were boarded over, doors nailed, boats fastened to hurricane moorings. The hurricane passed within 40 miles of the city. It is the wave following hurricanes that is to be feared, not the wind itself. The position of Key West, and the type of harbor it has, provides ready outlet for hurricane waves. If the water has enough avenues of escape it cannot bank up, and it is the banking up that smashes things and takes lives.

The local FERA, now WPA, has done wonders for the city. Two years ago Key West, with its shipping and cigar factories gone and its sponge industry destroyed, was flat on its back looking up at the cold stars. Seventy-five per cent of the town was on relief. It had two choices. It might die slowly, as people evacuated Key West, or it might build up some source of revenue by playing up some strong point. The FERA suggested making the town a tourist center, playing up the climate, the fishing, sports and amusements. The FERA has done just that thing. It has cleaned the streets, demolished houses that were fire hazards, improved the water supply, built an aquarium, improved the city's golf course, run an art project that is becoming nationally famous for producing etchings and water colors of Key West scenes, and persistently it has advertised Key West. Last winter the city had more visitors than it had in years. Now the WPA is about to construct an artificial atoll in Florida Bay, to serve as a swimming pool, complete a botanical garden that will have exotic plants never grown in this country before, and put out a guidebook for national distribution. The city fathers are beginning to see very decided rays of hope.

Local enterprise is returning. People are opening new night clubs and restaurants to handle the business that is expected to come this winter when the tourists come down to Key West. This town has its Habana Madrid Club, its Raul's, its own Sloppy Joe's. In Sloppy Joe's you can find seamen off the coastwise tramps, getting pickled to the eyebrows, and vowing that they don't give a damn what time their boat sails, they're staying right where they are, yessir!

Yes, if someone else doesn't do it I'm going to found a college for women here, possibly a co-educational university, with courses in barracuda and tarpon fishing, sponge diving and coral collecting, tennis and bicycling, and post-graduate work in the drinking of Rondador, the stuff Hemingway always talks about in connection with Key West. We'll hold Commencement Exercises in shorts and polo shirts on Boca Chica Key. If we feel that the school needs a traditional rival, there's always the University of Havana, 90 miles away. For a school color I suggest something the color of the hibiscus that bloms so beautifully here, and of course it's unthinkable that the students should call themselves by any other name than "Conks." "Conks versus Tarheels." "Conks versus Gophers." "Conks versus 'Gators." It sounds pretty good.

It it's a co-educational university I wonder if it would be proper for me to be coach of the football team and Dean of Women at the same time?

By Alton Hartman

The soccer team lived up to our pre-season ballyhoo Saturday afternoon when they blanked the Indians by the count of 5-0. They have reached the first rung in the climb up the 1935 ladder without slipping. But there is plenty of hard climbing above before Panthers reach the top without a mishap as they have done in the past years. . . .

The game served as an answer to plenty of questions that have been bothering the coach and players. The team feels the loss of the old veterans, but the new men filled in the gaps in a wonderful style considering their experience in the game. And several of the upperclassmen, who either didn't come out for the squad before or failed to make the grade in their first attempt, played a big part in the Panther victory.

With their first game already in the bag, we believe that the shin-busters have an even chance to extend their winning streak to six years. Since soccer has been approved as a minor sport at Duke, the Blue Devils can be expected to put out a team that will probably give the locals some trouble. Other foes to be dreaded are the Kannapolis Y, with the Smith brothers who were former Panthers althletes, and the Davidson Wildcats. The Presbyterians are entering their first eleven in the inter-collegiate field.

The authorities at Chapel Hill are to be commended upon their action in the dismissal of a certain football player who was ruled ineligible because he had formerly played in the same sport at another school. College athletics need a general cleaning; especially in some departments, and this kind of action is the best way to perform the task.

The dismissal of the Carolina athlete brought to light some ineligible players at the school which entered the protest. It seems to be a game where "you tell on me and I'll tell on you". All this goes to show that "tramp" athletes may be found almost anywhere, regardless of how straight the authorities try to conduct the sport.

After the first disastrous attempt in the field of prognostication last week the author is almost afraid to try this time. In the four games, we picked only two winners for a percentage of .500, which is considered very low. The big upset pulled the average down. However everybody was surprised when Georgia Tech repeated 1933 history by defeating the Duke eleven.

But there was no money backing our predictions, so here goes again — George Washington will take over the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest (even Sherrill agrees) . . . Duke will come back to defeat Auburn Friday afternoon in Durham, although comparative scores give the edge to the Plainsmen.

Although they will have their hands full, Snavely's Tar Heels should conquer the conquerers of the Wademen when Carolina and Georgia Tech meet in Kennan Stadium Saturday . . . The fighting Wildcats of Davidson are favored over Citadel, but again we are picking a foreign team to win over State, this time Manhattan.

Duke Officials Approve Soccer

Soccer, long a leading sport in the athletic repertory of High Point College, is now taking its well-earned place in the sport's programs of some of the largest colleges of the state and the nation. The Duke Athletic board definitely approved plans last Thursday evening to make soccer a varsity sport there which would be supported by the school, and an appropriation is to be made to take care of expenses incurred in intercollegiate competition and purchasing equipment.

This decision came as the result of a petition which was handed to the Athletic Board at its final meeting last spring to make soccer a recognized sport. At the same time, a special committee was annointed to investigate the matter. This same committee made its decision last Thursday in answer to the student demand, on a basis of the interest and enthusiasm displayed in the sport heretofore. Although there have been teams before this year at Duke, they have never been financed by the university

The High Point Purple Panther soccer squad engaged the Blue Devil team in a series of two games for the first time in the history of soccer at High Point College last year and preserved their no-loss record by decisively trouncing the Duke squad in the first game only to tie them in a stellar defensive game in the second and final contest of the season. Due to the failure of the Duke Athletic committee to come to a decisive previously, a certified Blue Devil schedule has not been published.

First Freshman Practice Today

Coach Calls Basketball Practice at 4 O'clock in Harrison Gym.

The initial freshman basketball practice session of the year will be held this afternon at 4 o'clock in the Harrison gym, according to an announcement by Coach Yow.

The High Point mentor is urging all the new men interested in the game to report for the early drills. The frosh practice is always started earlier than the regular varsity in order for the coach to discover those players of varsity caliber. The ones that show unusual promise on the court will later be shifted to the varsity.

Coach Yow stated that there will be three basketball teams on the campus this year. Besides the varsity, which will probably have freshmen as well as the old veterans on its roster, and the regular freshman team, a "B" team will be organized for the reserves.

Around thirty men are expected to make up this trio, with ten to each squad. Of course there will be changes during the year before the correction position is found for each man according to his ability.

The varsity will represent the school in the inter-collegiate contests. The "B" team will play the local industrial fives and other teams, while the freshman will meet mostly high school squads. It is probable that the frosh team will play some of the high school teams away from High Point, but they will not be accompanied by the tumbling team as during the past two years. Due to the lack of transportation facilities there will not be any tumbling exhibitions given in the high schools over the state this year.

SAYS PRO GRID GAME HARDER THAN COLLEGE

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Detroit, Mich.—Earl C. "Dutch" Clark, quarterback of the Detroit Lions, and considered by many critics one of the greatest players now in the game, offers an explanation of one of football's most baffling mysteries.

Sports writers and fans alike have wondered why many "big names" stars have failed to make the grade in the pro game while players' rosters of major professional leagues are filled with names of men whose colelgiate experience was with obscure teams representing smaller institutions.

"Pro football is much tougher than the college game," Clark says, "very much tougher. A lot of people have the idea that the pros lack the physical condition of the colegiates. That's out. We start practice more than a month before our first game.

"We work five hours a day with both morning and afternoon drills, and in the heat of summer, too. No college team undergoes such rigorous pre-season practice. That's where the boys from the smaller schools show up to advantage. They are eager to make good, and hustle more, and they're not always thinking about past reputations."

Clark cited "Cowboy" Jack Johnson, formerly of Utah University, tackle for the Detroit Lions, as an example of the type of player who makes good in professional football.

"He's the best conditioned man I have ever seen in football," Clark said. "He plays a full sixty minutes at top speed and after the game, when the rest of us are all tuckered out, he's as fresh as a daisy. From the end of one season to the start of another, Jack is on his ranch, and he's always as hard as nails."

Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears ,former University of Tennessee star is, in Clark's estimation, the finest running back in professional football.

"If they come any better than Feathers, I would like to see them," he said. "He is elusive, not exceptionally fast, but when he has to bull his way through the pact, has the power to make extra yards."

One of the toughest assignments in the pro game, according to Clark, is passing.

Because the cost of replacing broken dishes and damaged silverware at Grinnell amounted to $700 last year, college authorities have announced that student waiters must pay for what they break.

Duke Loses To Georgia Tech

The North Carolina gridiron specialists, so happy a week before as a result of the past weekend's battles, are now in the depths of despondency, mourning the loss of a perfect record.

Two of North Carolina's Big Five elevens—Duke's excellent Blue Devils and N. C. State's Wolfpack—fell before Georgia teams, leaving only the University of North Carolina undefeated and untied among the major state teams.

Georgia Tech, for the second time in as many years, spoiled Duke's Rose Bowl hopes by pushing over a lonely but triumphant score in the fourth quarter, completely outclassing the Blue Devils.

Scoring in the first and third quarters, the University of Georgia Bulldogs won a 13 to 0 victory over the hitherto untied or undefeated N. C. State Wolfpack, putting a black border around the prospective perfect slate.

Yet there need not be too much mourning for the University of North Carolina kept the Tar Heel State in the front page headlines by managing to win over Davidson, the underdog, in a slow, uninteresting game, 14 to 0, keeping its 1935 record unblemished.

Catawba in the Little Five conference defeated Hampden-Sydney 26 to 6 at Salisbury while Elon's Christians won a 12 to 0 victory over a Roanoke College team at Norfolk, Va., in a hard fought game. East Tennessee Teachers defeated Western Carolina Teachers 13 to 0 at Johnson City. William and Mary defeated Guilford in a runaway game 44 to 0.

Other prominent games of the week-end showed the many spectators some really exciting defensive playing. Most of the scores missed being tied by only a few points, with only a few upsets.

The Annapolis Middies sent up a surrender while taps was played after a colorful closely contested battle in the Yale Bowl against the Newhaven smartly coached team, 7 to 6. The West Point Cadets, led by "Monk" Meyer, broke the home field jinx to drub the Harvard eleven, 13 to 0. Kentucky fell before Auburn, 23-0 while a fighting Notre Dame team, remineiscent of the days of Knute Rockne, came from behind to smite the Pittsburgh Panthers in a breath taking game, 9 to 6. Alabama also got back into the old championship form and rolled over the Tennessee Volunteers in an easy 25 to 0 victory.

Catawba Loses To Panthers By 5-0 Count In Fast Game

Martin Scores Two Goals to Lead Offensive Attacks; Locals Strong on Defense.

Fighting behind an air-tight defense, the Purple Panther shin-busters kicked and clawed their way to a decisive 5-0 victory over the Redskins of Catawba college last Saturday afternon in the opening game of the season at Salisbury.

The contest, the first of the ten games scheduled in the Central Carolina league for the locals this year, gave the Panthers a good start on the trail to their ultimate goal of he year—to extend their winning streak to six successive years. But the trail ahead, with the many tough teams stationed along, will probably be as tough as "the rocky road to Dublin."

No individual players appeared to grab outstanding honors in the clash, although Martin featured on the offensive with two tallies to his credit. The team clicked as a well organized unit, with each of the eleven men taking his part in the game. Intrieri, Peeler, Martin, and Koontz played good ball, while Elder and Sherrill looked well in the backfield.

The Indians found the pack of Panthers too tough to break through, and rarely succeeded in carrying the ball into a scoring position. The attempts made at the goal were easily blocked by the Pointers.

The Indians held the Panthers at bay during the entire first period, with no points being scored. However in the second period the locals seemed to hit their stride and pushed one marker across the line, with Koontz, a junior lineman who is playing for his first time, receiving credit for the first goal of the year.

Martin had his big moment in the second when he sent the ball across the enemy's line twice. Sustained drives down the field in the last period of the game gave the locals two more tallies, one by Gray, a sophomore, and the other by Ferree.

Culler, captain and center, played only in the first half of the game. Isley, the only man on the squad last year to play every minute in all of the games, lost out in his endurance record when an injured knee forced him to leave the game soon after the opening whistle.

The line-up of the High Point squad follows:

Brinkley, G; Elder, R. F.; Isley, L. F.; Niernesee, R. H.; Sherrill, C. H.; Grigg, L. H.; Ellington, O. L.; Koontz, I. L.; Culler, C; Intrieri, O. R.; Peeler, I. R.

Substitutions — Gray, Martin, Ferree.

Scorers: Koontz, Martin — 2, Ferree, Gray.

Shin-Busters Meet Kernersville Next

The undefeated Purple Panther soccer squad will go into action for the first time on the home ground this season when they meet a powerful Kernersville eleven on the High Point High School soccer ground Saturday afternoon.

The Panther shin-busters opened the '35 season last Saturday by decisively beating the Catawba Indians 5-0, on their home territory, showing good defensive and offensive work throughout. Yet this second game will decidedly not be a push over; Culler, coach and stellar center, will have to use all of the many tricks of which he is master to put down the usual Kernersville fighting tactics.

The varsity and reserve men have been put through a good stiff work out this week, making the fourth week of hard practice, and the players are reported to be in very good condition. The line-up has not been definitely established though there is a probability that Niernsee will hold down the goal position; Isley and Elder, co-captains, and Sherrill, will play in the backfield. These men will be backed up by a well trained substitute staff and—it is hoped—by a large number of Panther rooters. A five year record is at stake!

Culler, stellar center and student coach, will be missing in the line-up. He had his tonsils removed Monday and will be out for a week or two. The shin-busters will probably feel his loss keenly, although he may coach from the sideline.

MOST COLLEGES SHOW LARGER ENROLLMENTS

Mid-Western Schools Have Larger Increase than Eastern Colleges, Figures Show

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Definite and substantial enrollment gains in colleges and universities throughout the country are the order of the day this fall, with almost every school able to report at least a slight increase in registration over last year.

The gain is most marked in the Mid-West, where student ranks are apparently increasing three times as fast as they are on the Atlantic seaboard. Colleges polled beyond the Alleghanies show an average student gain of 10.6 per cent over last year, as against 3 per cent in Eastern schools.

More money at home, plus the feeling that new jobs are opening up, is believed mainly responsible for the 1935 jump. The N. Y. A. is playing an important part, many registrars believe.

ROTC UNITS RECORD LARGER ENROLLMENT

Increase Attributed to Opportunities Offered Graduates in Civilian Corps.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago, Ill.—A gain of more than 5000 in R.O.T.C. enrollment, amounting to an average of about 20 per cent in 40 of the country's leading colleges and universities has been registered this year, a recent survey shows.

It is not believed, however, that the increase is indicative of a kindlier attitude toward war on the part of college students. The general increase in college registration this year is held partially responsible, together with the opportunity for reserve officers to land good jobs after graduation as Civilian Conservation Corps commanders. Then, too, the supplying of uniforms by the government attracted more enrollers, some institutions reported.

The Mid-West and South showed the biggest gains, with the University of Illinois in the lead with a gain of 460. Purdue, Michigan State, the University of Nebraska, Kansas State and Louisiana State University registered big increases.

COLUMBIA SPECTATOR SUBSIDY TO BE ENDED

University Paper Will Rely Solely on Student Support After Next Year.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — The Columbia Spectator, long ranked with The Daily Cardinal of the University of Wisconsin and the Cornell Daily Sun as a leader of American collegiate journalism, will have to rely on 100 per cent student financial support in the future.

The Columbia Board of trustees has just voted to discontinue its subsidy, an "activities fee" giving students admission to athletic contest and entitling them to receive copies of sudent publications without cost.

The new financial set-up, which applies as well to the Columbia Jester, humorous publication, and The Student Review, monthly literary magazine, will go into effect at the end of the academic year 1937-38.

The persistently radical and critical attitude of the Spectator during the past four years did not influence the trustees, according to Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, who said the arrangement was designed merely to vest both responsibility and control of publications in the student body.

CHRISTIAN SOCIETIES HOLD DISTRICT RALLY

J. Clay Madison Leads Song Program at Opening Session; Carroll President.

Christian Endeavor representatives from the various churches in the central district Sunday afternoon gathered at Mt. Pleasant Methodist Protestant church in a district rally. Several addresses were heard during the program, and a pageant was presented. New officers were elected at the business session.

The opening session was held at 2:30 o'clock with a song program led by the Rev. J. Clay Madison, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church of High Point. Special music was furnished by the intermediate choir of the West End M. P. church. The devotional program was in charge of Springfield Friends intermediate group. J. Addison Smith discussed financial matters.

Aubrey Todd, of Elon College, delivered the address, "A Challenge," at 3 o'clock. Discussion groups followed with Miss Myrtle Davis, of this city, in charge of the junior group; Mrs. Roy P. Barber, of Greensboro, in charge of the intermediate, and Mrs. Glenn Lambert, of High Point, directing the senior and young peoples' groups.

A social period at 4:15 o'clock was in charge of the Mt. Pleasant society, and the business session followed. The young peoples' society of the local First M. P. church presented a pageant at 5 o'clock.

Among the officers elected were the following from the city of High Point: Roscoe Briley, treasurer; Jewel Welch, junior superintendent; Lucille Hayworth, citizenship superintendent. The Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, High Point '28, now of Greensboro, was elected president.

DuBois Says Students Driven to Pulp Magazines by English Teachers.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Wernersville, Pa.—The statement that high school students are being driven to "cheap pulp magazines" by the schools' practice of "cramming Shakespeare and the English and American classics down their throats" was made at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Library Association here.

"No institution does as much to destroy the love of reading as the average high school," said Carl W. Hully of DuBois. "Teachers destroy the desire of a student to read after he leaves school by the manner in which they cram the classics down his throat."

ROCHESTER SCIENTIST MAKES ATOM-SMASHER

Cyclotrons Perfected at Rochester University and at California Tech.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Rochester, N. Y.—Construction of the University of Rochester's $10,000 cyclotron, or "atom-smasher," is rapidly nearing completion here under the direction of Dr. Lee A. DuBridge of the department of physics, as is the huge atom "gun" being made at California Institute of Technology.

The Rochester cyclotron will consume 100,000 watts of electricity and will break atoms with a force of 4,000,000 volts. It includes an electro-magnate containing 14 tons of high purity iron and windings made from nearly four miles of heavy copper wire.

The California Tech device makes use of a 15-foot porecelain vacuum tube designed to operate at more than 1000 volts.

The formation of new atoms and the artificial creation of various radio-active substances are among the ends expected to result from the use of the new machines.

Kryl's Band In Concert At College

Famous Musicians Well-Received by College Audience and Visitors From High Point.

KINARD SINGS

Present Program of Classical Music With Solos for Harp, Cornet, and Violin.

Bohumir Kryl and his famous symphony band appeared in the College auditorium Monday morning in the second lyceum program of the year.

The program of the forty-piece band was divided into two parts, the entire presentation lasting about two houra. Its features included violin, harp, cornet, and vocal solos.

The program began with the Overture to the opera "Mignon," by Thomas. The second number was "Serenade d'Amour," another classical composition. Miss Ruth Templeman's harp solo, "ad imitazione del Mandoline" brought enthusiastic applause and an encore. Komak's concert waltz, "Love and Life in Vienna," by the band, was followed by Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumblebee." Miss Nell Kinard, soprano, sang the aria "Connais-tu le Pays," by Thomas, and used as an encore the typically American melody, "Lindy Lou." Smetana's symphonic poem, "Moldau" was followed by the American Patrol March, a medley of patriotic airs. There was a brief intermission.

The concert resumed with a cornet solo by Kryl himself. He is recognized as one of the foremost cornetists of the world, and used for his solo one of his own compositions, "Carnaval Original," especially arranged for the cornet.

The band played in its entirety the Goldmark symphony "Country Wedding," in three movements, the Bridal Song, the Serenade, and the Rustic Dance. Josephine Kryl-White used as a violin solo "Ballad and Polonaise," by Vieuxtemps. Her encore was the familiar "Minuet in G" of Beethoven. The band's final number was "The Entrance of the Gods Into Valhalla" from Richard Wagner's opera "Das Rheingold."

The band remained in the College auditorium for a brief rehearsal after the concert. During the remainder of their stay the musicians were besieged by autograph-seeking collegians. Kryl himself graciously consented to pose for several photographs.

JUNIORS COMPLETING BROADCASTING PLANS

Class to Sponsor Program November 15 Featuring Negro Orchestra.

The executive committee of the junior class is completing plans for the Junior Broadcast on November 15, according to Charles Ridge, chairman of the committee.

The main feature of the broadcast will be a minstrel program given by Francis Holmes and his Colored Orchestra, of Lexington. Their program will include music, tap dancing, and the usual minstrel burlesque. The music will range from old Southern favorites to the latest dance hits, and will be led by Holmes, who is considered one of the best trap drummers in the state.

The juniors will furnish an announcer for the "broadcast," and will contribute several local talent numbers to supplement the minatrel. The added features will probably include a beauty contest with outside judges and local pulcritude. The broadcasting theme will be followed throughout, and will even include verbal advertisements.

Three unusual courses of study, open to the public, are being offered at Yale this semester. They include a course in "world problems" with current newspapers as texts, a study of the nineteenth century novel in America, and survey of Western art from ancient Egypt to the present time.

Plans Progress For Homecoming

Open House To Be Held By Each Social Club; Several Speeches in Morning.

Plans for the third annual Homecoming Day to be held at the College on November 23 are rapidly nearing completion, according to Charles Robbins, Jr., president of the Alumni Association and ex-officio chairman of all arrangement committees.

Miss Lucille Brown, chairman of the morning program committee, is now awaiting replys from several alumni who have been asked to make speeches or furnish music at the morning session. The program will differ this year in that several short talks will be made instead of one long address, as has been the custom before. Representative alumni,both men and women, will have part in the activities.

Mr. Robbins met with leaders of the six Greek letter social clubs on the campus last Wednesday evening and completed plans for an open house to be held by each fraternity and sorority at some time during the afternoon of Homecoming Day.

Coach C. V. Yow is arranging a series of athletic events to take place during the afternoon for the alumni. The high spot of this program probably will be a Central Carolina Soccer league game with the Kannapolis Y team, which is coached by Chester Smith, Jr., '31.

A dance and banquet in the evening will conclude the activities of the day.

The executive committee of the Alumni Association last week mailed out form letters announcing the date of Homecoming Day, and making a plea for financial support of the graduate organization in its aims.

Success Subject At Thalean Meet

Moser, Pittard, Wood, Hartman Make Talks Carrying Out Theme of Program.

The idea to succeed was the center of the Thalean program Thursday night. The familiar quotation from Browning "A man's reach should exceed his grasp or what's heaven for" was the nucleus for the entire program.

The program opened with Pittard giving "Varying Ideas Of Success." His theme was the different social orders of American life. "In order to succeed we must select the social order we wish to be in and to work toward success in that field. Even a servant has made a success if he has served his master to his fullest capacity and received the praises for which he is working. But the greatest success, the success which is more recognized, is that which comes in the highest social order. We should all strive for this success; that is to have high ideals," said Pittard.

Moser's talk "The Place Of Ideals In Success" took up the torch and carried it just a step farther. He explained that in order to have the most worthwhile success, the success of the highest type we must have high ideals.

"The Contribution of a Literary Society Towards Building Ideals" by Hartman sounded a new note whose strain was heard throughout the rest of the program. He used literary societies in general instead of expounding to the limit the virtues and values of the Thaleans.

Wood's talk on "Why Do Men Succeed" came as an answer to the questions in the minds of some present. Men succeed, says Wood, because they have ideals and stick to those ideals and work to make them a reality.

The cold formality which gathered was suddenly very pleasantly shattered when Boone gave a musical number, a negro folk song, in which the words "chicken" and "possum" were spelled in the negro way with the negro meaning given to each letter as apelled.

At the close Ridge, a former member, rejoined.

Max Rogers Is Named To Head Class Of 1936

Miss Baity Becomes Vice President, Curry Secretary; Council Members Are Elected.

The class of '39 met with its newly chosen faculty sponsor, Louise Adams, last Wednesday morning for the purpoae of organization.

Miss Adams presided over the meeting until proper officers could be elected. It was necessary that six class officers be chosen by the yearlings: a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer, and two representatives to the general Student Council.

Max Rogers, of Denton, was chosen to head the yearlings. Rogers is a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society, the A Capella Choir, and the Christian Endeavor Society.

The vice-presidency went to Mary Mitchell Baity, of Henderson. Miss Baity is a member of the Artemesian Literary Society and of the Christian Endeavor. She is working toward membership in the Woman's Athletic Association.

Virginia Curry. of Greensboro, was elected secretary of the class. She is a Nikanthan, a member of the Christian organizations, and of the A Capella Choir. She was recently added to the editorial staff of THE HI-PO.

Wayne and Irma Grey Hornaday, twins, of Greensboro, were both honored in the elections. Wayne, who is a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society, and of the A Capella Choir, was chosen as treasurer. Irma Grey was chosen a representative to the Student Council. She is an Artemesian, and belongs also to the Choir, the Modern Priscilla Club, and the Art Club.

The additional Student Council representative, Allen Thacker, is a resident of High Point. He is a member of the Thalean Literary Society.

In separate meetings of residents of Woman's Hall and McCulloch Hall, Helen Bates, of Winston-Salem, and Wilbur Walton, of Fairfax, Alabama, were chosen to represent their class in the respective house governments. Miss Bates, a Nikanthan, is also a member of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Art Club, the Y. W. C. A., and THE HI-PO staff. Mr. Walton is a member

NIKANTHAN SOCIETY HEARS PROGRAM ON CURRENT ARTICLES

Program Based on Magazine and Newspaper Articles; Two Co-Eds Join.

The program for the Nikanthan Literary Society last Thursday night centered around articles in current magazines and newspapers.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Lois Hedgecock, and several business matters were taken up. Devotionals were conducted by the chaplain, Doris Hedgecock, after which two new members, Sallie Ruth Shuford and Lucy Fuller, were voted into the society.

Ercelle Ivey opened the program with a review of the new book, "The Furies" by James Henley. Rebecca Finch read a short story, "The Bird and the Girl" by Lafcadio Hearn, from the book "Stories of the South." Evelyn Lindley spoke on "Poets and Poems" and read a poem, "Today" by Douglas Malloch.

Grace Moody broke away from the modern trend of the program and went back to Millet and Breton in her talk on "Painting and Illustrations." She gave the stories of the "Angelus" and the "Song of the Lark" and something of the lives of both artists.

Mary Margaret Bates concluded the program by reviewing interesting articles in the magazines of the month. This proved such an interesting feature that the society voted to include such a review in the program at least once a month.

Owen Elected Head Marshal From Juniors

Faculty Names Marshals to Officiate at Formal Functions of College Year.

SIX ASSISTANTS

Two Men, Four Co-Eds to Serve on Staff; Basis of Selection Given.

College marshals for the current year were selected at the faculty meeting held Friday afternoon.

Paul Owen, of Shoals, was elected chief marshal, and W. W. Weisner, Margaret Dixon, Frances Guethfi all of Tigh Point, Alton Hartman, of Advance, Mary Margaret Bates, of Winston-Salem, and Inza Hill, of Denton, were chosen assistants.

Owen is president of the Akrothinian Literary Society, junior representative on the Men's dormitory council, and vice president of Christian Endeavor. Weisner is editor of THE HI-PO, critic of the Akrothinian society, and a member of the student government council. Hartman is sports editor of the College newspaper, director of the news bureau, president of the junior class, and a member of the Thalean Literary Society.

Miss Gueth and Miss Dixon are graduates of the local high school, and are members of the Artemesian Literary Society. Miss Gueth is a Theta Phi. Miss Dixon is treasurer of the Women's Sports Council.

Miss Bates and Miss Hill are members of the Nikanthan Literary Society. Both are assistants on the news bureau, and Miss Bates is president of the Christian Endeavor organization.

College marshals are chosen from the upper third of the junior class in scholastic standing. Leadership and character are other factors considered in the selection of these officers. Marshals act as ushers at all lyceum programs and other public functiona held in the College auditorium.

N. Y. A. GIVES HELP TO MANY COLLEGIANS

Youth Administration to Assist Over 100,000 Students Needing Aid.

Financial assistance for 100,532 needy students in 1,514 colleges and universities in 46 States, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico will be provided by the National Youth Administration, Aubrey W. Williams, Executive Director, announced this week. The figures, based on total enrollment of students and affidavits received from the heads of these educational institutions as of October 18, 1935, are preliminary and involve a monthly allotment of $1,503,795 by the National Youth Administration to the colleges and universities.

The preliminary figures for 1935 compare with 94,331 students in 1,466 colleges and universities at the corresponding date for 1934, when a monthly allotment of $1,414,595 was made to the State Emergency Relief Administration in 48 States, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

The preliminary figures for 1935 show an increase of 48 educational institutions participating in the program and an increase of 6,201 students receiving aid to complete their education. Figures from the States of Connecticut and Minnesota and Hawaii, which were included in the 1934 total, are not yet available and, on the basis of 1934 participation, the 1935 increase over 1934 will be approximately 100 educational institutions and 9,500 students.

Each college president is held responsible for the program in his institution. Students are employed in socially-desirable work on and off the campus. On the campus they are engaged in research, clerical, office, library, museum and laboratory work, while off the campus activities include community education, health

Debaters' Coach Issues Call For A Platform Team

Owens to Meet All Men Interested in Debating Tonight in Auditorium.

Cullen B. Owens, debating catch, will meet in the College auditorium this evening at 7:00 o'clock all men interested in making the debating team this year.

Action has been delayed in debating until the annual query of Pi Kappa Delta, national debating fraternity, should be definitely decided upon. The query for this year reads as follows— Resolved: That Congress should have power to over-ride by a two-thirds majority vote decisions of the Supreme Court declaring laws passed by Congress unconstitutional. Now that the query, formally stated, has been received, work in debating will begin almost immediately. Requests for debates have already come in from N. C. State College and from Winthrop College in South Carolina.

Coach Owens urges that all men who are interested show up for the meeting tonight. Two of last year's varsity debaters were seniors, and the need for new material is imperative. Freshmen as well as members of the three upper classes are eligible for competition.

Moat of the work done this year will be done on the Pi Kappa Delta question. Almost every college in the United States uses this question. Debates will be much easier to arrange on that basis. Mr. Owens anticipates an interesting itinerary for members of the squad.

IMPROMPTU SPEECHES MADE AT MEETING OF MEN'S ORGANIZATION

Akrothinians Hear Series of Off-Hand Talks Made by Members Present.

A series of impromptu speeches featured the meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society last Thursday evening. The program which had been scheduled for that hour was postponed because of the absence of several members who were away on a basketball trip.

Slips on which subjects were written were passed out to each member present, but because of a shortage of time only a few speakers were heard. Rankin spoke on "Light," and Haughtaling followed with a talk on "My Favorite Subject." Craver told the society about "Hobbies." Max Rogers and Dawson, the negative team of the scheduled debate on the query, Resolved: That There Will Always be War, delivered their arguments as orations since the opposing team was absent. Several other members gave impromptu speeches before the program was brought to an early close because of other campus events which were to follow the meeting.

In the business session, Fred Cox, '39, of Lexington, expreased his desire to join and was accepted by the society. He, with Ostwald and Bradner, will be initiated at the next meeting of the organization.

The Akrothinians voted to challenge the Thaleans to the annual inter-society volley ball contest on Thursday, November 7. Haughtaling was named playing coach and manager for the Akrothinian team.

COLLEGIATE DIGEST RAISES PHOTE RATE

The Collegiate Digest, syndicated rotogravure section distributed with THE HI-PO, is now offering the regular news rates of $3.00 for all photos accepted for publication.

Right now the Digest is particularly in need of action and informal shots of events on the campus, and candid camera (Leica) photos are particularly desired. Gloss prints must be submitted for use in the rotogravure process, but any size of picture is acceptable.

State Ministers To Hold Meeting

North Carolina Student Ministers to Assemble at Catawba College Saturday.

All ministerial students at the College are making plans to attend the convention of the North Carolina Student Ministerial association at Catawba College Saturday, according to Leo Pittard, of High Point, president of the state organization.

Following registration Saturday morning, the convention will open with devotionals led by the Presbyterian Junior College delegation. President H. O. Omwake, of Catawba, will deliver a welcome in behalf of the host college, and Pittard will respond for the student delegates. The discussion group in the morning session will be led by the Rev. George Fitz. A business session will conclude the activities before lunch.

"Deeper Christianity" has been selected as the theme for the entire convention. The general purpose of the association is to foster interdenominational cooperation between the student ministers of the colleges in this state.

Guilford College will be in charge of the devotional service at the beginning of the afternoon session. The Rev. Joshua Levens will deliver an address, and Dr. D. E. Faust will lead the discussion group. Another address will be given by the Rev. Banks Peeler. The Y. W. C. A. of Catawba College will provide entertainment for the assembled delegates. A business session for the election of new officers will be held as the concluding feature of the afternoon session.

The annual convention banquet will be held Saturday evening, with a toastmaster furnished by Davidson College presiding. The Rev. E. A. Dillard will deliver the main address of the evening.

Four Societies To Give Affair

First Joint Program To Be Given Tomorrow, Replacing Faculty Party.

The first joint program of the four literary societies will be given tomorrow night in Roberts Hall. Few details of this affair could be learned beyond the fact that it will follow a Hallowe'en theme, since it falls on All Saints' Eve.

Caroline Pirtle, of the Artemesians, heads the committee on plans and arrangements, with Gray, an Akrothinian, Wood, a Thalean, and someone from the Nikanthans aiding her. The four presidents of the societies are acting as ex-officio members of the committee.

The literary society party will be given in place of the faculty aocial committee's annual Hallow'en masquerade, which has been abandoned this year.

The second of the joint programs, which are scheduled to be given each fifth Thursday night during the College year, will be held sometime later in the season. Probably only one other such party will be held this year because one of the fifth Thursdays falls during a College holiday.

COUNCIL TO PRESENT ARMISTICE PROGRAM

College Will Cooperate in Holding Peace Program on November 11.

High Point will operate with other colleges in the United States in observing Armistice Day on November 11, it has been announced by Lincoln Fulk, president of the student government council.

A speaker from each of the four literary societies will appear on the program, making a brief talk on some phase of the peace movement. The speakers who have been selected are Alson Gray, from the Akrothinians, Sulon Ferree, of the Thaleans, Dorothy Bell, from the Nkanthans, and Nancy Parham, of the Artemesians. Miss Vera Idol, head of the English department will read a poem for the occasion.

Many Accept Bids At End Of Fall Rush

Three Fraternities, One Sorority Take in New Members at End of Week.

PARTIES GIVEN

Next Rush Week To Be Held In March When Frosh Will Be Eligible.

Fall rush week for the six Greek letter social clubs on the campus came to a close Monday morning when bids were issued from the Dean's office. The issuing of bids followed a round of social events sponsored by the fraternities and sororities.

Theta Phi sorority received positive replys from Helen Dameron, of Liberty, Katherine Bivins, of Hillsboro, Mary Lou Moffitt, of High Point, and Pattie Roane Hendrick, of Norlina. All are members of the sophomore class. The other two sororities on the campus, Alpha Theta Psi and Sigma Alpha Phi, issued no bids at the end of this rush week.

Hoyt Wood, '36, of Denton; Paul Owen, '37, of Shoals; and Elbert Lane, '38, of Pinnacle, accepted bids to the Iota Tau Kappa fraternity.

Ishmael Dorsett, '37, of Thomasville; James Mattocks, '38, of High Point, L. V. Smith, '38, of High Point; and Whitman Kearns, '38, of Farmer, became pledges to the Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Frank Niernsee, of Southport, David Cooper, of High Point, C. W. Martin, of High Point, all sophomores, and Edgar Snider, a senior, of High Point, were pledged to the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity.

The Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity held a rush party at the home of Professor J. H. Mourane last Thursday night, honoring the prospective members. The Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity followed with a weiner roast at the City Lake Park on Friday night.

Only upperclassmen who had attended the College a previous semester were eligible to receive bids at the end of the fall rush week. Freshmen and transfers will be open to rushing during the next period, which starts in March.

SENIORS ENTERTAIN AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Program by Negro Band, Several Side Attractions Feature Senior Project.

High Point College students anticipated Halloween Night last night when they appeared at the party sponsored by the senior class dressed in full Last of October make-up.

This affair, first "suction" party of the season to raise money for a campus organization, was featured by a program given by a negro band. Additional features offered in the show were songs by the Pentagon Trio, tap dancing, and balroom dancing exhibitions.

Attractions offered by way of side shows were the Crazy House, the House of Horrors, the apple room, the Gambling Den, the fortune teller's booth, and the much advertised nudist colony.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON MATTER OF "DINKS"

Drastic Action Threatened by Council to Enforce the Wearing of Freshman Caps

The student government council met this morning and decided upon drastic action to be taken to enforce the regulation requiring freshmen to wear caps.

The offending yearlings will be brought before the student body Monday and publically reprimanded. The nature of the punishment would not be revealed by council members, but it is expected to be highly effective. All freshmen, both day and dormitory, men and women, are required to wear the "dinks" until the end of the first semester.

FRESHMEN NAME THEIR LEADERS

The class of 1939, largest organization on the campus besides the student government body, officially started its program as a unit last Wednesday with the election of a slate of officers for the year. Of course we can but congratulate the class upon its selection, and the officers upon their opportunity to lead the freshmen in making genuine contributions to student government and to general campus spirit.

The new students as individuals have been on the campus long enough to see both the pitfalls and potentialities for good in College life. Most of the freshmen have identified themselves with the campus organizations and activities of their choice. They have probably established themselves with the work and social schedule which they will follow in general throughout the year. In short, each freshman as a separate unit has orientated himself and become as much a part of the College as he is ever likely to be.

But as a class the freshman group is as raw as were each of its component parts on September 11. The class still has to learn the important lesson of acting cooperatively, and its officers have their first real responsibilities of leadership in a college. We hope that the class as an organization may have four years of constructive work at the College, unhampered by petty politics and undivided by weakening dissentions.

WE CHANGE SIDES

Last year these columns were the field on which we carried on a friendly tilt with the lyceum committee. Today we rise in defense of that committee and protest the action of a number of students on Monday morning. Last year we spoke for lyceum programs for the students; today we speak for student attendance on these programs.

Monday morning classes were dismissed for a two-hour period to make room for a lyceum number. Kryl's band is in such demand that the committee was unable to arrange an evening concert. Monday morning a portion of the student body heard that band. Where were the others?

Kryl's band was, in all probability, the high-spot of the lyceum series. Certainly it was well worth hearing. But not all the students heard it. We do not wish to be "nosey;" we rarely say much about the affairs of others. But when classes have been dismissed that the students may hear a program, the least they can do is listen to that program.

THE MATTER OF CAPS

For the past two years the student government organization has sought to increase school spirit at the College by requiring freshmen to wear purple caps. Besides a few common rules of courtesy that should be observed by everyone, the wearing of caps has been the only regulation specifically affecting freshmen throughout the year. Early in the fall, the council cut down the time when yearlings would be required to wear caps to one semester, and later the annual program of initiation was drastically curtailed. And still there are freshmen who consistently appear on the campus without their caps, thereby displaying a lack of cooperation and school spirit.

Habitual wearing of caps is, after all, only a small matter for freshmen to observe. Much worse things could be required, yet nothing does more to advertise High Point College in the city, or to create a collegiate spirit on the campus.

Conscientious freshmen can readily see the necessity for observing rules and will accept the hint. Cooperative viligance on the part of upperclassmen is necessary to bring the recalcitrants into the fold. A drastic measure has been suggested by council members as a cure for the present condition, but we hope it won't be necessary to use it.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

We learn by remote control that the girls in a certain boarding house at the University of Wisconsin now have placed little placards up beside the phones in the house. The placards say, "Gentlemen guests will please not answer calls."

It is a development of an embarrassing situation of last spring. One day the dean of women called the boarding house and a deep masculine voice answered, "Third Floor."

—o—

A few days ago an announcement was made to the students on the McKinlock campus of Northwestern University. A voice class for amateur harmonizers was to be opened on the ninth floor of the Ward building.

One day after the class began the dean in charge moved his office from the eighth to the first floor.

—o—

Prophecy: One of the big foundations with headquarters in New York soon will make announcements of an outlay of hundreds of thousands of dollars for radio education.

—o—

"ESCORT INCORPORATED"

It's a new firm doing business down on the campus of Washington University (St. Louis).

It's like this—four BMOC (big men on campus) have pooled their charm to make it easier for the campus girls to date them. They accept applications for a date from any girl provided she will furnish the money. The remainder will come from the men—their prestige, charm, their own cars and the evening's good time.

We do not know whether the boys retain the option of submitting an expense account after the party.

—o—

We shan't say what college paper this item came from, but it goes like this: "We regret to state that we did not have the information about John ——— correct. He is not an instructor, but a fellow. Dr. Wolfe is not head of the botany department. There is no botany department. It's biology. It is not Durham University, but Duke University."

—o—

Dr. Loir of Le Havre, France: "If rats could be given intelligence tests they would rate higher than the average man."

Dr. Gilhousek of the University of Southern California: "There is absolutely no basis for comparison between rats and human beings."

Dr. Loir: "Rats outwit humans at every turn. The best trapping methods merely encourage polygamous habits, since traps catch the males that roam while the females stay with the young."

(We give you this in accordance with our policy of keeping strict account of what the best minds are thinking.)

—o—

Law students are quick to catch on.

A story is now going the rounds of a student whose law school fees were raised from $40 to $50. Canny, he looked at his college catalogue and the catalogue said fees were to be $40. So he sued his college administration for the extra $10. The whole law school faculty was lined up against him, but the judges gave the boy the nod. He won his case.

—o—

That reminds us of a similar incident at the University of Minnesota. Last year, the editor of the campus yearbook noticed that the athletic department was intending to charge admission to the Yale-Minnesota hockey series. The editor looked on the back of his season athletic ticket and saw that hockey was included in the sports covered by the ticket. He demanded in the name of the student body that the ticket contract be kept and an uproar ensued. But the athletic department was "over the barrel," and was helpless.

Now that we have come to the end of this column we feel it safe to inform you that a professor of rhetoric at the University of Illinois has declared that "columnists belong to the moron school of writing."

LETTERS

I have on my desk a copy of THE .HI-PO for October 23 and have been noticing with interest the changes contemplated with reference to Alumni News. I believe this is a step in the right direction and that it will encourage all former students to subscribe to the school paper.

The article by Arnold Serwer about Key West, Florida was very good. I was also much interested in the soccer news since it was my pleasure to coach and play on High Point College's first soccer team in 1931. I wish the boys the best of luck as they strive to extend the winning record to six years.

Am enclosing check to cover my subscription to THE HI-PO.

Very truly yours,

EDITORIALS REVEAL SENTIMENTS ON WAR

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Armed with a complete understanding of the origins of war, and of the methods used to embroil the United States in the last great war, American college editors are giving notice that they will not be so easily led into rahrah jingoism in the event of future conflict.

Probably no news event of the last few years has received the attention being given Italo-Ethiopian dispute by the college press, and a count made by the Associated Collegiate Press shows that denunciation of war has been the No. 1 subject for editorial comment for the past several weeks.

"With the Italian-Ethiopian conflict well under way and war and devastation folowing in the wake of the Italian advance," says The Brown Daily Herald, "it is noticeable that as yet there has been little propaganda in the way of pictures, feature articles and editorials which are aimed at turning American opinion and emotions one way or the other.

"Although very early for such an affair, there are no posters showing mothers with babes at their breasts being stabbed by bayonets or any of the similar rot which was prevalent during the early stages of the World War. For this we are thankful.

"At the same time there are . . . editorials and radio programs devoted to instructing the populace to the insensibility of the United States entangling itself in the conflict by careless relations with the belligerent nations. The saneness of this policy is not challenged by anyone but the militarists."

But circumstances similar to that of the sinking of the Lusitania, says the Butler Collegian, "might set off the highly inflammable powder keg which is the United States . . . . Citizens would become incensed and the agencies that fan the war spirit would get in their work. Into the army would go the youth of the nation, many thousands of them college students. . . . The "cream of the crop" would go into service, not realizing that the toll of war is poverty, and living torture."

The Illinois College Rambler poses a question: "Are you ready to go away to war, are you willing to grab a flag, succumb to the hysteria of band-playing and marching feet, and die on a distant battle field, a 'hero' who gave his life for a 'glorious' cause?

"Neither am I.

"We know about War, you and I. We have not been taught that war is glorious and that to die for one's country should be the dream of every citizen. We have not been led by a dictator who must show his power to keep his position. We have not been imbued with a warlike spirit in our schools, in our churches, and in our homes. We know about War, you and I."

"You can't get people to fight until you make them want to fight," says the Rice Thresher, Rice Institute publication, "and you can't make them want to fight until they are hypnotized with brass bands and oratory and drugged with copius injections of propaganda . . . . behind a great war is a great mesmerist."

There is a tendency for the American public to favor the under dog, the Cauldron, Fenn College (Ohio) student paper points out, and from sympathy for Ethiopia to hatred for Italy is only a little step. "From righteous indignation to violent condemnation is but a step! From violent condemnation to war hysteria is still less!"

"Il Duce has chosen Ethiopia for the opening scene of his fascinating production entitled, 'Death to All,' but like all fast moving productions this one will require a change of scene," says the Drexel Triangle. "More than likely it will envelop all of Europe."

Eventually someone will recall the existence of the United States. This will be the signal for the propagandists to take the stage and momentarily steal the show. Having uttered a series of meaningless platitudes the propagandist will drop from view . . . . his simple task will have been completed and cannon fodder . . . . will have been provided. Our excuse for entering the war will be to make America safe for something or someone. The true reason will be to protect large American interests."

"In 1914 our relationship and attitude toward the militants of Central Europe did not differ greatly from those of today," says the Middlebury Campus. "It is true that munitions makers have been highly publicized in recent months and that an embargo on the shipment of arms and munitions to belligerent nations has been established. . . . But exporters are prepared to continue shipments, saying that they MAY demand cash in payment. Bankers are mumbling that MAYBE they will not lend much money abroad in this crisis. . . . For the meagre profit on goods exported to Italy which annually are valued at only 65 million dollars, and for the few pennies of usury collected by our money-changers, the United States must risk grave danger of becoming embroiled in another destructive and costly major war."

"Wait and see," counsels another student writer. "Wait and see. War will come again to our country. War-crazed beasts will beat the drums of hate; profit-mad capitalists will shriek for the blood of the enemy; damnable lies and filth will be broadcast by organized propaganda agencies; the press will join in the maniacal furor; special interests will seize upon the radio to drench the air with outraged indignant demands; the wealthy class will make a great show of patriotism as it forces the millions of under-dogs to don uniforms and shoulder arms in the name of 'God, home, and country;' the weak-willed millions will again succumb to the mad hysteria of war, and, in a blazing crescendo of hate, another country plunges forth on the headlong rush down the mad road to war and oblivion."

The Columbia Spectator, however, sounds a more cheerful note. "The American anti-war movement was never stronger than it is today," says a Spectator editorial. And . . . . its pressure is being felt at Washington. Still, a further revitalization of the student ani-war movement, around this and other issues forced upon the American people by the constant threat of another world catastrophe, remains an urgent necessity."

JOURNALISTS?

Evanston, Ill.—Here are some of the answers given by journalism students in a recent test at Northwestern University:

Addis Ababa, king of the Riffs.

Sir Anthony Eden, captain of the stricken liner Dixie.

Maxim Litvinoff, king of the Bulgarians.

Nicholas Murray Butler, governor of Oklahoma.

SirSamuel Hoare, according to one embryo reporter, is commander of the French fleet.

Richard E. Byrd is a senator from West Virginia.

HIGH POINT'S OUTSTANDING DEPARTMENT STORE

AROUND WASHINGTON

Mr. Serwer, the regular Washington correspondent of THE HI-PO and the Associated Collegiate Press, this week writes from Birmingham, Ala., where he is spending a portion of his vacation.

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Birmingham, Ala.—In about two more weeks this column will carry a Washington date-line again, and concern itself once more with bureaus and officeholders, programs and the people behind them, but in the interim, while moving about the South, I am relaxing enough to permit myself the pleasure of doing a piece now and then about stray subjects. The stray subject this time is the football game I saw played here yesterday, between Auburn and the University of Tennessee, the first southern game I have ever witnessed.

It was an excellent game, but never mind that. What interests me is that the events of the afternoon did not come up to expectations. I expected entirely different behaviour on the part of the fans.

Having seen a number of games in the north, played between southern and northern teams, at which scventeen southern rooters, a tiny little patch in a mass of home team supporters, usually outyelled all the rooters for the home team, having met in my time a great many high spirited southern gentlemen, the most fragile of whom at any sort of athletic contest could drown out a calliope. I was frankly disappointed by the sustained periods of silence and by the mild bursts of cheering that came from the stands during the game.

Partisanship, I had thought previously, must be even more pronounced at southern games than northern ones. I have heard alumni of southern colleges talk about games played in the dim past, great historic games that they attended. And they spoke of them in a tense manner, with a repressed fervor that brought back faint echoes of mighty cheers that rolled out from the stands when Bancroft Bogie, of the 'Bama Bogies, tore off a 70-yard run only to be brought down at last on the five yard line by a peanut vendor, who later turned out to be Buell Bogie, of the Arkansas Bogies, own kin but lifelong enemies of the 'Bama Bogies.

Somehow, I thought, when southern rooters cheered their men on in some uncanny fashion they got a warlike note into their cheers, a blare as of bugles. At such a moment, I though, if you shut your eyes you might easily be fooled into thinking it was the cheer that rose up from Pickett's men when they swept forward toward the Union lines at Gettysburg.

But, if the Auburn-Tennessee game is a fair sample, it is not like that at all. For two and a half hours I failed to hear a solitary rebel yell. No one got up and let out so much as a single, irrelevant, piercing "Ya-hoooo!" People sat around and looked properly mournful, as Tennessee made large decisive gains and collected two touchdowns inside of five minutes.

And partisanship, bitter partisanship, was at a low ebb. Directly in back of me sat two Auburn fans, one drunk and the other sober. Next to them sat two Tennessee rooters, and here too, one of them was drunk and the other sobcr. Did they call the referee a robber and a buzzard when he made a decision adverse to their team? They did not. They pointed out to the opposing rooters the excellence of the referee's eyesight and the fine calibre of his judgment.

The Auburn two held their heads in their hands gloomily, and freely admitted to the Tennesseans that Tennessee was the superior team. The Tennessee supporters dened it stoutly and took pains to explain that their team had had the breaks and that was all there was to it. The place reeked of good sportsmanship. The Auburn men began to applaud politely for Tennessee whenever their team put a diffficult play over successfully. The Tennesseeans began to look embarrassed and unhappy whenever their players broke through Auburn's line, as if fearful that such behaviour on the part of their team would break up what looked like the beginning of a beautiful friendship among the four of them in the stands.

In front of me there was an interesting example of optimism at war with pessimism, of faith struggling with reality, in the person of an Auburn rooter who was one of the few who ever raised his voice independently to spur his team on.

"Hold 'em Auburn!" he would yell, when Auburn was losing ground.

And sotto voice he would add gloomily, "To ten touchdowns!"

"Watch 'em make them first downs," he cried at another point.

And sotto voice, "If they don't drop the ball."

"Le's make a slight touchdown, Auburn," he bellowed toward the end of the game.

"And Tennessee will make three of 'em," he mumbled unhappily.

Therewere only two fistfights in the stands during the game. This is far fewer than one finds starting during the course of games in the north and the middle West. Moreover, no inebriate appeared before the stands between halves, as is customary in other sections of the country during football games, and offered to lead cheers for the crowd or to buy drinks for all the Smiths present.

I am glad to say, however, that several times during the game someone announced over the stadium amplifier that a Mr. O'Toole was wanted at Gate One. Usually it is a Mr. Chopclowsky that is wanted, but at the Auburn game Mr. O'Toole was in demand. They called for him several times, and either they found him or gave it up as a bad job, because finally they stopped asking for him.

Even when Mr. O'Toole was being summoned from whatever hiding place he was sulking in, the crowd showed a lack of spirit. Not a single waggish remark was made about Mr. O'Toole, about his wife or the G-Men wanting him. Yes, the crowd definitely lacked color.

FIVE YEAR WINNING STREAK BROKEN

Culler Drills Players Hard For Battle With Kannapolis

Locals Meet Towel Makers at Kannapolis Saturday Afternoon; Culler Will Play.

The Purple Panther soccer eleven, even more ferocious than ever before because of their loss of a game last Saturday for the first time in five years, travels to Kannapolis Saturday to meet a hard kicking Towel City Y. M. C. A. team.

This game, which comes in the third round of play in the Central Carolina Soccer league, promises to be one of the most interesting games of the season. Both teams have hard playing and skillful players.

High Point last Saturday bowed to a rushing, overpowering Kernersville eleven, 4-1, while playing without their coach and star center for most of the game, in a most interesting contest. Coach Culler will probably be recovered enough by Saturday to again resume play and backed by Niernsee, Isley and Elder, co-captains, and Lee Sherrill, a better rounded game should be the result.

Kannapolis went up against another powerful eleven last Saturday when they played the local Y team in a game which featured good defensive work on both sides, finally leaving the field of combat with only a 2-2 tie. Yet the Cannon city boys are always to be watched not only in their fine defensive work but also in the offensive, goal shooting part of their program.

Local fans may also be looking forward to the first big intercollegiate game of the year as the local shin-buster team has just finished plans for a game with Davidson College, to be played in the near future.

Dr. A. S. Pearse, Duke university zoologist, is making a special study of oyster diseases and their prevention. The work is being financed by the government.

Locals Lose Lead To Kernersville

The second round of play in the Central Carolina Soccer League whch was run off Saturday brought about one big change in the set up of league leaders as a result of one of the biggest upsets of the soccer year.

A hard kicking eleven representing Kernersville in the league accomplished a feat which no other team had been able to do in a regular scheduled game for five successive years when they trampled a fighting Purple Panther team 4-1. Kernersville now takes the lead as High Point steps down without its goal of six years without the loss of a game.

High Point's Y. M. C. A. shinbuster team, which gained its first victory last Saturday a week ago in the opening game of the Soccer league, suffered a 2-2 deadlock in their second game, when they played Kannapolis Y. The tie hurts the Kannapolis average very little as the towel city boys had also given way in their initial contest for a percentage of .000.

The Catawba eleven which bowed to the Panther eleven in the first game came back in Saturday's play to make their average .500 when they triumphed over Winston-Salem.

Teams	W	L	T	Pct.
Kernersville	2	0	0	.1000
High Point Y	1	0	1	.1000
High Point College	1	1	0	.500

SAYS THREE RANGES HAVE DISAPPEARED

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Worcester, Mass. — Poets and others who talk about "the everlasting hills" may not be strictly accurate, according to Dr. Wallace Atwood, president of Clark University here, who says that recent geological research indicates that three Rocky Mountain ranges have formed and worn away during the ast 30 million years.

"Three distinct ranges of mountains," he said, have come into existence and passed away since the formations which we know as the Rocky Mountains began."

SPORTSCRIPTS

The inevitable has happened. A sad, disappointed, and somewhat ill tempered group of shin-busters formed a circle on the local high school field Saturday afternoon to give fifteen rahs for the victors. Upon their return to the campus, the students failed to ring the victory bell, Old Yadkin, as has been the custom for the past five years. Kernersville beat High Point in a soccer game.

But a defeat was to be expected sometime. No team can continue to win indefinitely; no team can hope for the breaks all the time. Kernersville played a nice brand of ball, better than High Point, and deserved the victory. But it isn't taking too much credit from the victors, or offering too much alibi for the locals to say that the visiting team caught the Pointers in bad condition. The team had been without their coach for a week; the spark plug of their attack (the same guy) was missing in the game. Injuries kept Peeler out of the line, weakening it considerably. The men playing failed in fighting spriit.

The team should not take the defeat too hard. One loss in five years is not bad at all. But to let this become a habit, since there is no record to uphold, is what the coach and players will have to guard against. We still have a good team, and we are now predicting a victory for the Panthers in their next clash with Kernersville, unless they have bad luck.

While in a conference with Coach Yow sometime ago, we found that plenty of good high school coaches have gone out from High Point.... Among the graduates last year we have Raymond "Sinky" Northcutt, now head basketball and baseball coach at Pilot High. James "Bugger" Warlick is directing the athletic activities at Evergreen high school, where he is also teaching. And his big brother, Harvey, is mentor of Fallston high school, which is located up in his neck of the woods.

"Pinky" Williams coached at Belwood, which is also in Cleveland county, last year, but business has lured him away from his coaching post. Paul Brinkley, famous for his chuckle and fighting spirit, landed a job as coach and teacher at Arcadia, which is near his home.

If things don't pick up we are going to stop trying to predict winners in the football games. Out of the five guesses last week, only one was correct—Carolina beat Georgia Tech, one was a tie, and three were losers.

In accordance with the proverb, or something, we try again. And by the way, we noticed that a certain sports editor of a daily paper in the state made the same mistakes last week. The Carolina-State game should be a close affair. Both teams looked great last Saturday, with the Tar Heels trouncing Georgia Tech, the masters of Duke, while Coach Anderson's Wolfpack went on a northern raid to take Manhattan into camp. Carolina will win in this battle between the two state institutions by a narrow margin.

Wake Forest should add the second victory of the year to their string when they meet Presbyterian. A homecoming crowd should inspire Duke to change their ways and defeat Tennessee at Durham Saturday.

COLUMBIA MAN MAKES MONEY "WAKING UP"

Uses Science in Arousing Sleepy Students; Business Good, He Says.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—Harold Jesurun '37, Columbia University student who attracted wide attention last year when he instituted a "waking-up" service for his fellow students, is back this year full of determination to expend his novel business.

"I'm all set for a big season," he confided to our reporter. "I've already got a lot of customers, and my new method of getting them up never fails."

The new method proved to be a phial of ammonium chloride, previously treated with sodium hydroxide to obtain the gas. A few whiffs of this and the patient is wide awake. It never fails, and besides, "it clears the head immediately," according to Jesurun.

He also gave an inkling of the novel means he uses to promote business.

"Fernado del Rio set his alarm clock for 6:30 a. m. I sneaked in when he was asleep and put it ahead to 8:30. When he failed to awaken on time the next morning, I pointed out to him the unreliability of alarm clocks, and told him how foolish it waa to depend on auch erratic devicea. He finally saw the light, and del Rio is now one of the numerous Jesurun satisfied customers."

Large Squad Out For Frosh Team

Eighteen New Men Competing For Position on Purple Kitten Five.

A large squad of freshmen basketeers have been reporting for the frosh practice held daily in the gym under the direction of Coach Yow and Elijah Diamont, a varsity man who is assisting in the early drills.

Due to conflicts with soccer practice and class work, not all of the total eighteen that have been out at some time, are able to attend every session. Practice for the freshmen is from three o'clock until four, while the court is given over to the upperclassmen after four.

Although the freshman team will not, in all probability, be as strong as the Purple Kittens last year, several of the players should develop into good ball players. Since the men have only been put through the fundamental drills, it is hard to determine just how they stack up. At present Towery, of Lattimore High, and Jarrett, of Thomasville, show much promise of becoming first rate players.

Games will probably be arranged with nearby high schools upon the opening of the basketball season. In the past two years the Kittens have made a tour of Western Carolina, playing four and five teams on the trip.

The men out for the team are: Red Towery, Lattimore; Dale Jarrett, Thomasville; Dan Sharpe, Greensboro; Holland Brinkley, Welcome; Gilmer Waggoner, Brown Summit; Jack Royals, High Point; M. O. Henderson, Asheboro; John Apple, Reidsville; Peeler, Belwood; Jones, Hillsboro; Ellington, High Point; Giles, High Point; Morgan, Farmer; Trogden, Asheboro; Ostwald, New Jersey; Hauser, Shoals; Hester, Greensboro; Buck Setzer, High Point.

Co-Ed Sports

By Edith Crowder

Hiking seems to be a favorite sport with many of the girls at High Point College. There have been several hikes during the month of October, and the breakfast have proved more popular. The Breakfast hikes were taken by twenty-six girls, who walked to the CCC camps on highway 10, making a total of twenty-four miles. Virginia Grant, manager of hiking, says "We are planning longer and better hikes and we are hoping to go on a breakfast hike soon and cook our breakfast."

The Hiker's Creed

To find a sense of the gladness of life,
To teach a love of winding road,
To find the measure of your comrades' steps,
To learn to carry your share of the load,
To love wind in the hair, and rain in the face,
To give you possession of a far-off place,
To feel yourself akin to the sky,
To find coolness in streams that go rushing by,
To smother complaints when the road grows long,
To bury fatigue in the joys of a song,
To find when you come to the journey's end
A fire and food and the comfort of a friend,
To measure yourself by the tall straight pines—
This is a fragment of the joys one finds
Who shoulders his pack and starts away
To be lord of the earth on hiking day.

Kernersville Club Outplays Locals To Win By 4-1 Count

Culler Enters Game in 4th Period to Score Lone Tally In Closing Minutes.

The Kernersville entry in the Central Carolina soccer association accomplished a feat Saturday afternoon that soccer elevens have attempted in vain for the past five years—a victory over the Panther shin-busters of High Point College in a regular scheduled game.

The final result of the sixty minutes of fighting on the local high school field was, Kernersville 4, High Point 1. But more important than the final score waa the fact that the Panthers failed in their attempt to extend their record of non-defeat to six consecutive years.

Playing without the use of their coach and center, Broadus Culler, who underwent a tonsilar operation Monday, the locals showed a complete reversal of form from that which they displayed in the opening game against the Catawba Indians last Saturday.

Disregarding the orders of the doctor, Culler took his post at center in the final period in a desperate trial to get his team clicking. Although he was not able to turn the tide, he succeeded in salvaging the lone tally of the disaster a few seconds before the final whistle.

The invaders completely outplayed the Pointers, both on defense and offense, and deserved the victory. They scored their first goal ten minutes after the start, when King placed a beautiful head shot between the goal posts after the ball had been thrown in from the side. The quarter ended with Kernersville leading 1-0.

A mistake kick by a Panther player gave the victora another tally at the beginning of the next period, with R. Hendrix receiving credit. During a wild scramble around the High Point goal territory a few minutes later, Vance rushed the goal keeper, Brinkley, to knock the ball through.

Going into the third quarter on the short end of a 3-0 count, Culler's men regained a little of their former fighting spirit, and held Kernersville scoreless during the period. Still they were off in their passing, and failed to capitalize on several opportunities to score.

The two final scores of the contest were made in quick succession in the closing minutes by R. Hendrix, of Kernersville, and Culler, High Point, to bring the final count 4-1.

The game was a rough and tumble affair, with bodily contacta frequent.

The line-up:

High Point	Pos.	Kernersville
Brinkley	G	J. Edwards
Isley	RH	Brown
Niernsee	LF	Smith
Grigg	RH	Mabe
Sherrill	CH	Harrison
Harris	LH	Nelson
Ellington	OR	Vance
Martin	IR	King
Intrieri	C	J. Hendrix
Koontz	IL	Stroud
Giles	OL	R. Hendrix

Substitutions: High Point — Smitr, Elder, Waggoner, Gray, and Culler. Kernersville—Bennet and Wilson.

Scorers: High Point — Culler. Kernersville — Vance, King, R. Hendrix, 2.

Tar Heels Lead State Elevens

The Carolina Tar Heels still maintain their position in the national headlines while setting a dizzy pace for the conference and sectional leaders as a result of a decisive triumph over the highly touted Georgia Tech football eleven. Other state teams, with lesser headlines, also did much to make the sports page the North Carolina page.

A homecoming crowd of 20,000 went cheerfully wild after the Chapel Hill eleven with a powerful display of varied offensive tactics passed, punted and gouged their way through a baffled Georgia team to score in every period after the first, winning 19 to 0. By virtue of this decisive game the Carolina team holds the place of potential leaders of all Southern teams.

Another Big Five title contender, Wake Forest, also upset the prognosticator's dope by slipping over an extra point on the George Washington Colonels to win their first game of the season, 7 to 6.

But the North Sate gridiron fans were very agreeably surprised when the State Wolfpack, despite contrary predictions, showed fine form in an inter-sectional game with the powerful Manhattan College and took the upper hand in a rough and ready contest to completely humble the New York team, 20 to 0 before a crowd of 18,000.

Davidson completely outplayed a Citadel eleven in the first half of a game played on the home field Saturday only to give way in the second half to a harder fighting team, tieing the South Carolina team for the second time in as many years, 7-7.

Other national scores found Louisiana blasting Vanderbilt's Rose Bowl hopes by a 7-2 victory; the Army took Yale from the unbeaten ranks while Mississippi was being toppled from the same position by Marquette University. A smoth Alabama team upset Georgia for the Bulldogs' first defeat. Michigan State came back into the winning column while Illinoia wept down before an Iowa team. Auburn won national fame through their very much unlooked for defeat of the powerful Dukc Blue Devil Rose Bowl contender in a Friday game.

QUARTERBACK WASHES BABIES IN SPARE TIME

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Walla Walla, Wash.—What's a slippery football to a quarterback who works his way through college by running a cake of soap for yardage on babies' backs?

Nothing whatsoever, say those who have seen Phil Green, Whitman college'a varsity quarter, in action in the nursery and on the gridiron.

Green pays his way at Whitman by performing the duties of a nursemaid — a job entailing scrubbing his young charges as well a sputting them to bed.

When Green came to Whitman a year ago, he read an advertisement seeking a girl to take charge of children and do general housework. He proved his saleamanship by calling on the inquiring housewife and getting the place.

When he returned to college this Fall, he took the job again. Sunday mornings he dresses the children, rushes them off to Sunday school and then goes into the kitchen and helps prepare the dinner.

To solve the small school's problem of obtaining enough football material, five Iowa high schools of small enrollment have formed a conference and agreed to develop teams of six rather than eleven players.

Clifford Odet's play, "Waiting for Lefty," a controversial aubject in Massachusetts during the last year, will be produced by the Dartmouth college players in December.

QUERY RAISES ROW ON PENNSYLVANIA CAMPUS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa. — A questionnaire skirmish recently embroiled men and women on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

The Daily Pennsylvanian started it by asking the men whether they preferred pretty girls or smart ones, slinky or fluffy evening dresses, and other questions of importance in higher education.

The girls countered with a questionnaire for women students which began:

"Do you like intelligent men or the typical college boy?"

ROWING DRAWS MORE MEN THAN FOOTBALL

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Princeton, N. J.—For the first time in the history of Princeton, more freshmen are interested in rowing than in football. A check of the class of 1939 showed 112 freshmen out for crew while 91 football aspirants reported for practice.

Last year football attracted 90 men and crew only 73. Prospects for both freshman crew and football are excellent.

Football's longest run from scrimmage was made by Wyllys Terry of Yale, against Wesleyan, November 4, 1884. Terry ran 115 yards for a touchdown, starting from five yards behind his own goal line. The feat could not be duplicated today. It has been impossible since 1912, when the old 110-yard field was shortened to the present 100-yard length.

COLLEGE GRADUATE IS HELD IN HANKOW PLOT

Lafayette Man Involved in Communist Plan to Take Chinese Government.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Easton, Pa. — Eugene Brinson, Lafayette '3I, is being held prisoner by Chinese authorities at Hankow on charges of "assisting Communists to imperil the Chinese government, bribing officers, and attempting to procure the escape of a convict" college authorities here have been informed.

Details of an alledged international plot, which it is thought included Brinson, are as yet very meager. The early information cabled to this country told how Brinson and a friend, Carl J. Lemcke, were detained when it became certain they were attempting to work the release of Joseph Walden, also known as "Dr. Rivosh of Berlin," believed to be a native of Latvia and an agent of the Ogpu, the Soviet secret political police, from a Chinese prison. Walden was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for episonage.

According to a reliable source, the plot to set Walden free was discovered when a Japanese gunboat on river patrol in the Yangtse intercepted a radio message from the Soviet steamship Sever, en route from Shanghai to Vladivostok.

Brinson and Lemcke, it is charged, had planned to bribe the assistant warden of the jail in Wuchang, where Walden is being held. Wuchang is directly opposite Hankow on the Yangtse. In this way the pair intended to gain admittance to the jail, let Walden leave and have Lemcke remain behind in his place. Once Walden was safely out of Chinese territory, Lemcke was to have effected his own release by a mere declaration of his true identity.

Two other men said to be involved in the plot are Brain Nadis, a Soviet Russian and a typewriter salesman by occupation, and an Englishman whose identity was not revealed.

Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard Law School and one of the giants of American jurisproudence, was once blacklisted by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

X-RAY MAY BE USED TO PRODUCE BLONDS

Scientist Says Color of Hair and Complexion May Be Changed.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Syracuse, N. Y.—If you're a red-head and don't like it, or a brunette who craves blonde tresses, don't give up hope. Peroxide isn't the only recourse for present developments in the X-ray field have led scientists to believe that X-ray may be used to change a person's complexion and the color of his hair.

The matter was discussed here recently at the annual meeting of the Western New York X-Ray technicians. Dr. Alden J. King, professor of radiological research at Syracuse University, recounted development of a radioactive substance which he said had properties similar to and more powerful than radium and which promised some success in the reatment of cancer.

The potentialties of the X-ray, he said, in changing the form of germ cells and producing types, might even extend to changing the complexion and enabling the growing of tropical plants in the North.

FINDS UNCLE'S BODY IN MED LABORATORY

Student's Long Search Ends in Anatomy Lab at Medical School.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn. — A search lasting several weeks ending recently for Into Karimo, University of Minnesota student, when he found the body of his uncle, Herman E. Karimo, in the anatomy laboratory of the Minnesota medical school.

The youth had been unable to locate his uncle at the beginning of the Fall term and had appealed to police for aid. Detectives assigned to the case found Herman Karimo had changed addresses under an assumed name and had committed suicide September 4. The body lay unclaimed in the county morgue until September 17, when it was removed to the university.

The matter was discussed here recently in the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in Washington, by Edgar L. Gilbert, professor of pathological research at Syracuse University, representing the department of pathology and bacteriology.

The possibilities of the new discovery, it was said, are far reaching. Not only could a person change the color of his hair, but could change the color of his eyes, even the color of his skin.

ROWING DRAWS MORE MEN THAN FOOTBALL

By Associated Collegiate Press

Princeton, N. J. (C.P.) Rowing has more men than football, according to Princeton's athletic director, Matthew J. Hall. There are 35 men on the football squad, while 36 men are required for the varsity crew.

Last year football attracted 60 men and crew only 75. Prospects for both varsity crew and freshman crew are good.

Football's longest run from scrimmage was made by Wyllys Terry, Yale, against Princeton, November 6, 1915. Terry ran 55 yards for touchdown, starting from five yards behind the scrimmage line. The ball could not be measured today. If the line-of-scrimmage were 60 yards from the goal-line, Terry's run would have been 110 yards.

Four Groups Combine For Fall Party

All Literary Societies on Campus Contribute to Joint Program.

PARTY FOLLOWS

Traditional Halloween Entertainment Used in Gathering at Woman's Hall.

An atmosphere of fun, laughter, and mystery prevailed over the entire campus on Halloween night when the four literary societies joined in their first union meeting by celebrating All Saints' Eve with a fall festival. As is customary, ghosts, witches, elves, and imps wandered under their harvest moon, casting their charms and spells.

The members of the literary societies, in many various disguises assembled in the auditorium for the program. The dimned lights, jack-o-lanterns and masqueraders furnished an ideal setting for the program in which each society was represented.

The first number was a talk on "Halloween," by Kat Brown, an Artemesian, in which she very interestingly told of the changes in ways of celebrating Halloween, describing the various superstitions of the spells invoked for prying into one's future. Josie McNeil, a Nikanthan, dressed as a small girl, gave a reading, exhibiting terror at the "spookiness" of the occasion. The Thaleans were represented on the program by Vaughn Boone with his guitar as he carried the audience back to the "wild and wooly west" by singing "Home on the Range" and a medly of western songs.

Betty Auman, majo.t of the Artemesian Literary society, delighted her listeners with a weird reading, "The Goblins." From the brew of the witches or the den of black cats, the Akrothinians produced Max Rogers, who, in a charming manner, gave a reading which was obviously an imitation of Professor Rulfs. Wayne Hornaday, accompanied by Charles Oswald, then sang, "Evening Star." The concluding number on the program was a minstrel presented by members from the four societies. Violet

Church Meets In Henderson Today

Several From College to Attend Sessions of M. P. Conference This Week.

[illegible] from the College will [illegible]e 108th session of the [illegible]arolina Annual Conference [illegible] the Methodist Protestant Church which started today in Henderson and will close next Monday. Dr. Humphreys will speak Friday morning when the program is given over to High Point College.

Miss Mary E. Young, Mrs. P. S. Kennett, and Helen Bates, '39, will go down to appear on the Woman's Missionary program Thursday night.

Rev. T. Glenn Madison, College alumnus, is to preach the conference sermon this morning. Rev. Luther Medlin, pastor of the First M. P. church in Henderson and conference host, graduated from the College in 1932.

Others who probably will go down for some sessions of the conference are: Drs. P. E. Lindley and P. S. Kennett, Lee Moser, Leo Pittard, and Sulon Ferree, of the class of '36; Ferman Wright, '37; J. E. Garlington, '38; and Wilbur Walton, '39. Some of the students, who are all ministerial students, will take conference courses and apply for work. Dr. Kennett is keeper of the archives for the conference.

Dr. R. M. Andrews, of High Point, first president of the College, is president of the conference; Dr. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, has been secretary of the organization for twenty years; and Mrs. J. H. Allen, of Reidsville, is treasurer.

Duke University To Be Host To Fall Convention Of College Journalists

Weisner and Hartman to Attend Meeting of North Carolina Collegiate Press Association Which Convenes in Washington Duke Hotel Tomorrow Afternoon.

Alton Hartman and W. W. Weisner will represent THE HI-PO at the fall convention of the North Carolina Press Association, which opens tomorrow afternoon in Durham with Duke University publications acting as hosts.

An especially attractive program, under the guidance of Philip M. Russell, business manager of the Duke Achive, monthly literary magazine, has been arranged for the collegiate journalists. Russell is treasurer of the state association.

Approximately 75 delegates are expected to attend the convention from the following colleges: North Carolina State College, Davidson, Wake Forest, Woman's College, Meredith, Guilford, High Point, Eastern Carolina Teachers' College, Queen's-Chicora, Flora McDonald, Atlantic Christian, Appalachian, and Duke University.

Registration will start Thursday, November 7, between 2:30-5:00 p. m. at the Washington Duke hotel, which will be convention headquarters. Before the regular sessions of the meeting begins, a special organ recital at Duke chapel has been planned for the delegates, with Mr. Edward M. Broadhead at the organ. This will start at exactly 8:15 tomorrow evening.

After the regular business session of the association Friday morning, in which various committees will be appointed, four discussion groups will be formed, each under the leadership of a prominent figure in journalistic fields, who will head the discussion of problems pertaining to collegiate publications.

Mr. Andrew M. Beck, of Edwards and Broughton Printing company, of Raleigh, will address the business managers of all publications. Professor Herbert W. Sugden, who has charge of the new journalism course at Duke, will speak to the editors of the newspapers. Mr. Edward Fowler, of the Seeman Printing company, will take the editors of magazines under his direction. The editors of annuals will listen to Mr. Arthur Sickles, of the Lassiter Printing company.

More discussion meetings will be held after the group discussions and that afternoon between 4:00-5:00 p. m. an informal tea will be held in the old East Duke building on the East campus. This will take the form of a reception for the delegates, and that evening the semi-annual banquet of the association will be held in the Washington Duke hotel. Mr. W. L. Brown, of Davidson, president of the association will act as presiding officer with Mr. Henry R. Dwire, director of public relations of Duke University, as the speaker of the evening. A dance will follow the banquet, starting at 10:00 p. m. and terminating at 12:00 p. m.

Saturday morning the final business sessions will be held, with committee reports and statements of progress by members of the association. After a consideration of new member applicants, the convention will adjourn.

METHODIST STUDENTS TO MEET FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE FRIDAY

Local Delegation of Six Expected to Attend Concave at Greensboro.

High Point College has been assigned a quota of six delegates for the fourth annual meeting of the North Carolina Methodist Student conference, which convenes Friday at College Place Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Greensboro. The meeting will last three days.

At present Elise Kilpatrick, Helen Hunter, Odell Brown, J. N. Thomas, Mrs. Elise Clark, and A. R. Bookout are planning to attend from the College, although the final delegation may not include all of these students.

The theme of the meeting will be "The Student Faces Life." Prominent educators and theologians will address the 150 student delegates from colleges throughout the state. Miss Louise Goodman, of Concord, a senior at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina is president of the conference.

Among the conference speakers will be Dean Elbert Russell, Dr. H. E. Myers and Dr. Frank S. Hickman, of the school of religion, Duke University, Durham; Dr. W. C. Jackson, dean of administration at Woman's college; Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford College; Dr. Boyd McKeown, of the Methodist Student movement, Nashville, Tenn., and Rev. J. Marvin Culbreth, pastor of First Methodist church, Henderson.

In preparing the convention program Miss Goodman, the president, has been assisted by the general officers of the conference. The dean of the conference is Rev. Carl H. King, of Greensboro, executive secretary of the board of Christian education, Western North Carolina conference. Miss Idalene Gulledge, of Greensboro, is director of the Inter-Conference Wesley foundation. Other officers of the conference are as folows:

Clary Thompson, of Campbell College, Phillips Russell, of the University of North Carolina, Miss Anne Batten, of Queens-Chicora College, and John Triplett, of Appalachian State Teachers' College, the four vice presidents; Miss Ruth Kiker, of East Carolina Teachers College, secretary; Charles M. J. ELWOOD CARROLL TALKS TO STUDENTS AT CHAPEL PROGRAM

Greensboro Minister Speaks on "What Kind of Men America Needs Now."

The Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Greensboro, spoke to the student body in the regular chapel exercises last Friday morning. Mr. Carroll graduated from High Point College with the class of 1929. He was a leader in many campus organizations and athletics, and was selected as the best all-around man in his class.

The theme of the program Friday morning was "Be Strong, Prepare For Life." Miss Margaret Sloan sang the Ambrose arrangement of Babcock's "Be Strong, Tomorrow Comes the Song."

Mr. Carroll spoke on "What Kind of Men America Needs Now." He said that we are in a time of transition. The depression shook our whole design of living, and the world of thought and theology has changed.

There are three types of Christians: The conservative group, the individualistic group, and those who fill Christianity with spiritual meaning. Mr. Carroll stated that the inherent causes of war, depression, and all the problems which the theologians are dealing with today, are selfishness, ignorance, and indifference.

The speaker brought out the fact that there were three fundamental characteristics the kind of man America needs now should have. First, he needs to have a community mind and spirit. Men of other professions should be tested to find out what degree of community spirit they possess as well as preachers and teachers. Selfishness, our monster enemy, keeps us stagnant. If we want to grow we must give freely. Second, he needs to be a clear-thinking man who will see all the problems involved clearly. He should be able to see the falsehood of modern propaganda. He should dedicate himself to the task of building a better world. Third, he must lay hold upon God. If he is a Jew, he must be a good Jew; if he is a Catholic, he must be a good Catholic; or if he is a Protestant, he must be a good Protestant.

Mr. Carroll ended his address by reading the poem, "God Give Us Men," as a prayer.

Lambe Named To Feminine Lead In Play

Cast Complete For Forthcoming Production of "Three-Cornered Moon."

OTHER PLAYERS

Drama To Be Presented Late In November; Rulfs is Technical Manager.

Mildred Lambe, '38, of Asheboro, has been chosen to play the feminine lead in the College Theatre's forthcoming production of "Three-Cornered Moon."

The play has been in rehearsal for some two weeks, but until recently both Miss Lambe and Dorothy Jones, '39, have been under consideration for the role, that of Elizabeth Rimplegar. C. B. Owens, director of dramatics, has finally made a definite selection of Miss Lambe. She will portray the bored and indolent young girl who "finds herself" after the family bankroll vanishes in a wildcat stock deal. Opposite her will be Paul Owen, in the role of steady, unimaginative young Doctor Stevens.

The part of Donald, who thinks he can write, is in the hands of Max Rogers. It is a role requiring tactful handling and some exaggeration. Kenneth, Douglas, and Ed, Elizabeth's three brothers, will be played by Ed Stirewalt, '39, Robert Rankin, '38, and Dwight Morgan, '39.

Sarah Forrest Thompson, '39, has the difficult role of Mrs. Rimplegar, the ineffectual mother of an eccentric, squabbling family. She simply doesn't know what it's all about, and they rejoice in telling her so. Even Jennie, the dumb Czecho-Slovakian maid of all work, bulldozes her, and the only person at all in sympathy with her is Kitty, whose rudimentary mind is centered on Kenneth Rimplegar. Nell Bess and Patty Redman, both of the class of '39, will play Jennie and Kitty.

The play, which will be produced some time in November, is in three acts, and requires only one setting throughout. D. J. Rulfs is in charge of the technical work.

Juniors To Hold Beauty Contest

Co-Ed Pulchritude To Be Judged As Feature of Broadcast November 15.

Members of the junior class today began advance sale of tickets for the Junior Broadcast to be given in the College auditorium on November 15.

Alton Hartman, president of the class, and Charles Ridge, vice president and chairman of the executive committee, last night attended rehearsals at Thomasville of the program to be given by Francis Holmes and his Colored Orchestra as the main feature of the broadcast. The two class officers assure the College that the program by the professional troupers will be the best that is available for the money. Holmes will bring a band of eight men, some of whom have had ten to fifteen years experience as musicians. He will also bring a Negro tap dancer who will be a valuable addition to the program. The orchestra's featured instruments are the trumpet and the trap drum, which is handled by Holmes himself.

A local feature to be added to the professional entertainment will be a co-ed beauty contest. Each fraternity and sorority on the campus, and each literary society will select one representative to compete in the contest. The judges will be residents of the city of High Point.

M. A. Hartman, sports editor of THE HI-PO, will appear before the "mike" with a list of prognostications for the current athletic events, and with a survey of general sports news.

The junior class will provide an announcer who will preside over the events of the night in the best radio manner.

Myers, Garlington Named To Offices At Student Ministerial Convention

Local Students Get Vice Presidency and Treasurer's Position at Business Session During Meeting at Catawba; Pittard Retires as President.

J. E. Garlington and S. W. Myers, of High Point College, Saturday were elected vice president and treasurer, respectively, of the North Carolina Student Ministerial association at the annual convention, which was held at Catawba College. Leo Pittard, of High Point, was president of the organization for the past year and presided over the convention.

Devotionals led by Presbyterian Junior College followed registration Saturday morning. A. K. Faust, dean of men at Catawba, welcomed the delegates in behalf of the host school, and Pittard responded for the visiting delegates.

Following the opening ceremonies, a group discussion was led by the Rev. George T. Fitz, pastor of the First Reformed church in Salisbury.

The afternoon session was opened with a devotional service led by the Catawba student ministers, replacing the Guilford delegates, who telegraphed that they were unable to be present. After a brief business session, the Rev. Joshua Levens, pastor of the Reformed church at Upper Davidson, addressed the convention on "Listening to His Guidance Always." The Rev. J. Banks Peeler of the First Reformed church at Burlington also spoke during the afternon, using "Sensitive Souls" as his topic. Dr. D. E. Faust, head of the religious education department at Catawba, led a group discussion on "The Bible and Spiritual Deepening."

The Y. W. C. A. of Catawba gave a program of entertainment during the afternoon for the visiting ministers.

Walter Dixon, of Davidson College, was elected president of the association at the business session, succeeding Pittard. Garlington was named vice president, Lochland Vass, of Davidson, corresponding secretary; Paul Strauch, of Catawba, recording secretary, and Myers treasurer.

The two local officers, Garlington and Myers, are both members of the College Ministerial Association and the Thalean Literary Society. Myers, a junior, is circulation manager of THE HI-PO, and Garlington is sophomore representative on the Men's Dormatory Council.

The state association passed a resolution asking that a constitution be drawn up and presented for the approval of the entire organization at the next meeting. Heretofore the association has had no written constitution.

The ministers decided that several district meetings will be held in the future before the annual conveniton of the state-wide association.

Davidson College was selected as the meeting place for the next convention, which will meet sometime early next fall, the exact date to be set by the host school.

The banquet Saturday night was the concluding feature and the high spot of the day's activities. Pittard officiated at an impressive installation service for the newly elected officers, and the Rev. E. A. Dillard, pastor of the Tenth Avenue Presbyterian church, Charlotte, delivered the address of the evening.

DEBATE TRYOUTS WILL BE FINISHED AROUND NOVEMBER TWENTIETH

Phi Kappa Delta Query to be Used; Two Veterans Back From Champion Squad.

Tryouts for places on the College debating squad will be held on or around the twentieth of this month, it has been announced by C. B. debating coach.

A meeting was held on last Wednesday evening for all men interested in competing for places on the squad. Some 10 or 12 men responded, and were given a statement of the query and information as to the securing of material. The question under discussion is the annual Pi Kappa Delta query, in this case—Resolved: That Congress should have power to over-ride by a two-thirds majority vote decisions of the Supreme Court declaring laws passed by Congress unconstitutional.

The squad this year has its work cut out for it, especially if it is to reach as high a mark as last year's debaters. The team last year not only made a successful Northern trip, but captured first place in the state at the tournament in Hickory. Mr. Owens did his advanced work in the school of speech at Northwestern University. John M. Erickson, who turned out the winning team last year also received his training there.

Wilbur Hutchins and Aubert M. Smith, two of last year's four platform aces, are not available this year. Hoyt Wood and Lincoln Fulk, the other two, are both at the College, and will probably be in the competition.

Mr. Owens made a quick trip to Chapel Hill Saturday in order to secure material from the extension library of the University of North Carolina. He will allow, he states, six minutes for constructive speeches in the forthcoming tryouts, and two minutes for rebuttal.

Correction

It has been pointed out to THE HI-PO staff that the name of Louise Jones, a sophomore, of High Point, was omitted from the list of students who pledged Theta Phi sorority last week. Miss Jones' name was inadvertently left out, and THE HI-PO is glad to make this correction.

HIGH POINT TO JOIN STUDENT FEDERATION FOR PEACE PROGRAM

Armistice Day To Be Observed at High Point College With Peace Program.

High Point College will cooperate with the National Student Federation in presenting a peace program on Monday morning, November 11. This is part of a national student observance of Armistice Day.

Correspondence concerning this program has been under way for some time, and plans for a suitable "bill-of-fare" laid by a committee from the Student Council. The program will consist of special music, appropriate devotionals, and student speeches. The speeches will be brief, and will concern the various aspects of war. Representatives from the four campus literary societies have been chosen to deliver them. They are as follows: Thalean, Hoyt Wood; Nikanthan, Dorothy Bell; Akrothinian, Alson Gray; Artemesian, Nancy Parham. During the program two minutes will be dedicated to those whose lives were sacrificed in the Great War.

The faculty will be invited to attend the Monday morning meeting, and some of their members are expected to assist in the program. Miss Idol has consented to appear and read a brief and pertinent poem. Dean Lindley will probably assist in or conduct the devotionals.

A. L. Fulk will preside, as usual. The program is in the hands of a committee consisting of Allen Austin, Lois Hedgecock, and Dorothy Bell.

Lindley Starts Move To Organize Musicians Here

Dean Issues Call To Students Playing Instruments; Band To Be Formed.

A call to all students who play musical instruments or who would like to learn has been made by Dean P. E. Lindley for the purpose of organizing a band at the College. The school has been without such an organization for several years, but it is believed that there is now sufficient talent in the College to organize one. The first meeting of those interested was scheduled to be held this morning.

HORSE SHOE CONTEST

Afternoon To Be Given Over to Varied Athletic Program; Clubs to Receive.

With only one speaker yet to be selected for the morning program, plans for the annual Homecoming Day November 23 are rapidly nearing completion, according to Charles Robbins, Jr., president of the Alumni Association and chairman of the executive committee.

The program will be officially opened with a devotional service to be conducted by the Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, '28, of Greensboro. This service will be followed by a hymn.

A welcome in behalf of the College will be given by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, and another for the students by A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student government.

Three talks of not more than five minutes each will be made by representative alumni during the morning, replacing the long address which is usually made upon this occasion. The Rev. J. Clay Madison, '32, will make a brief talk introducing the three speakers. Dr. Glenn Perry and Miss Doris Keener have accepted invitations to make two of the speeches, and the other will be selected in the near future. Miss Dorothy Hoskins, one of the composers of the College Alma Mater, wil sing a solo.

Following an introduction of every class represented at the [illegible] will be held for all former students of the College. A luncheon honoring all alumni will be given by the College at 12:30 o'clock.

The afternoon program will be mainly devoted to athletic events and an open house by each of the social clubs. An unusual feature will be a competitive horse shoe pitching contest among the alumni. Exhibition tumbling will be

Miss Pirtle Is House Hostess

Seniors Turn Over Home Economics Practice House to Junior Co-Eds.

A change of personnel occurred in the practice house last weekend when the seniors turned over the duties of the house to the juniors and took up their normal lives again.

Alice Nesbit, last hostess during the senior sojourn, served her last meal Friday noon. Lillian Varner, Dorothy McCollum, and Christine Latham, cook, maid, and hostess, respectively, performed their duties for the last time, cleaned up the rooms so that they would meet the approval of Mrs. N. P. Yarborough's all-seeing eye, and moved out.

On Friday afternoon the new occupants began moving in. Mrs. Yarborough, in charge of the house, talked to the girls Saturday concerning their duties for the following six week.

Elizabeth Pirtle, hostess for the first ten days, plans the meals, does the buying, and has general supervision of the house. Catherine Farlow, only senior in the house, is cook for the first period. Gladys Maxwell is maid, and in addition to serving the formal and company dinners, she is responsible for keeping the dining room and living room in flowers and in order. Mary Margaret Bates, host, has the additional duty of washing all the dishes and keeping the kitchen in perfect order.

The girls had their first meal at noon Monday and will eat in the practice house for the last time at noon on December 16. During this period each girl will be hostess, cook, maid, and host for a period of ten days each.

A LESSON IN SELF-GOVERNMENT

Officials of the student government council Monday took long-warned action in enforcing the regulation requiring all freshmen at the College to wear the specified purple and white caps. And again the council was confronted with the same unhealthy situation that developed during [illegible] both cases a decidedly poor spirit of cooperation and sportsmanship was shown by many upperclassmen who became hypercritical of the action of the council which they themselves elected.

It should be emphasized that the officials who appeared before the student body Monday did nothing more than act as spokesmen for the student council. The punishment itself was specified by a motion unanimously carried in a council meeting, and to those officials was delegated the admittedly unpleasant task of carrying out the council's demands. The manner in which this duty was performed is entirely beside the point; what does matter is that the council, in carrying out expressed demands of the student body, failed to get the backing of a large number of students who were formerly so insistent in their demands that action be taken in enforcing the rules.

Another point apparently in need of some reemphasis is that the student council is a governing body, not a milk-sop figure-head assembled only to get its picture in the College annual. The administration in delegating unusual powers of government to the students themselves has necessarily empowered the council, as the organ of student government, with the authority to enforce regulations, by expulsion if necessary. It is not to be desired that the council be flagrant with its disciplinary authority—it has other and more important functions to perform—yet when action is necessary the council should feel free to act. And unless the council gets the backing of the student body, self-government at High Point College will be a failure. That is the paramount issue on this campus today.

Again, just as was the case during the tumult over freshman initiation, the sportsmanship of the members of the first year class recommends itself to congratulations. Again it was the upperclassmen who created an entirely unnecessary disturbance, and disrupted the course of orderly government. Apparently it is the upperclassmen who need a course in orientation and a few lessons in one of the fundamental aims of education, cooperative self-government, before the fine spirit of the freshmen, the hope of the College, becomes undermined.

HANDS OFF

"We will continue to make barbed wire to keep American cows where they belong," says James B. Harris, manager of the Zanesville Fence and Post Company, in response to inquiries in regard to selling wire for use in foreign wars. "We don't intend to have anything to do with wars, especially foreign ones."

This is one of the many and various responses to President Roosevelt's request that America maintain complete neutrality in regard to the present Italo-Ethiopian conflict. It is a sane and commendable response, a decision to be respected. For it is only by keeping our hands off that we can manage to keep from becoming involved in unpleasant circumstances and possibly in the war itself. Too often has the United States been entangled in unsavory and avoidable situations because of the greed of her manufacturers and merchants.

The United States is not a member of the League of Nations; if she were, she would be at present under bond to boycott Italian products and to steer clear of relations of both belligerents. As it is, the matter lies with the individual American concerned with foreign trade. The government can only strongly urge that the "hands off" policy be followed.

Already Japan is becoming distinctly pro-Ethiopian because of its extensive cotton trade with the country. It is to be hoped that Americans in foreign trade will not become involved in the present combat. Only through strict neutrality can our country be completely free from the possibility of entanglements.

This Collegiate World

To the casual onloker a freshman girl may seem to be a great deal like a senior girl. But open up their heads and what do you find? Down at Ohio State University the dean of women found some very interesting dissimilarities in ideas between lower and upper class girls.

The dean queried the girls as to the most desirable qualities girls should possess.

Next to good family, the upperclass women demanded good morals, but the freshman girls—save the mark! voted good morals into fourteenth place! The freshies thought good social traits the most desirable qualities and offensive personal habits, the worst.

Slang is perfectly all right, declares Dr. W. C. Spencer, president of a Baptist College, Franklin, in Indianapolis.

Mr. Spencer must believe what he says since he went so far as to defend slang before a group of ministers. Several benefits of slang, according to the prexy:

It provides short cuts in expression; it makes a demand on imagination; it adds vividness and picturesqueness. Slang has even crept into legal parlance, he points out, since a bill in the New York legislature refers to "joy riding."

—o—

College editors will say "Hallelujah" at the recent written statement by President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin. Probably many college prexies will not agree, but, writes President Frank:

"When university authorities maintain a censorship of a student newspaper, it ceases to be a student newspaper and becomes an administration newspaper. In which case, why not publish an official paper and be done with it?"

—o—

There have been a lot of good things said about fraternities and have been many bad things. Probably the most extreme statement we have found, however, comse from a professor at the University of Iowa. It happens to be on the adverse side of the issue.

Says he: "Their luxury, political maneuvering, caste spirit, moral flabbiness, unwholesome alumni relationships and the false scale of social values which they impress upon the whole student body makes them on the whole a demoralizing, not to say vicious element in college and university life."

—o—

This fall the topic of subsidization of football players has become more acute than ever before. You read, no doubt, the remarks of Governor Davey of Ohio, in which he informed the world that state jobs were keeping the players in school. Major John Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, came right back and declared the practice should be extended.

Said the Daily Student, paper at Indiana University: "It is probable that no student works harder or gives more of his time to his University than the athlete." This editor sees nothing wrong with the practice of making special efforts to get jobs for players.

And the editor of the Minnesota Daily, where the national champion football team lives, has come out in an editorial charging hypocrisy in the official attitude toward the game. Either football should be de-commercialized or all pretense about amateur standing should be dropped and it should be professionalized openly and thoroughly, he believes.

—o—

Educational note: Schools for vetinarians are growing in the middle west. Even some girls are entering. The reason is that jobs are obtainable in the "profession."

OHIO CO-EDS FOUND WANTING IN MANNERS

University Student Conducts Odd Experiment to Prove Co-Eds Impolite.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, Ohio. — The average male student is so much more polite than the average co-ed that it's far from funny.

According to the standards of good manners laid down by the Emily Posts of the land, young women should smile and whisper "thank you" in response for small favors. Maybe some young women do, but co-eds do not, at least they don't at Ohio State.

An ambitious and curious young man at that school stood beside a much used door last week and opened it for everyone who approached.

Only two out of every 15 co-eds said "thank you" for the favor, while only one out of every 15 men neglected to do so. Most of the co-eds, the experimentor reported, seemed to feel that the door was opening of its own accord, probably in deference to their beauty.

ROOMMATE BLUES

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—Most students are inclined to bear the foibles of their roommates in more or less anguished silence, but a University of Wisconsin co-ed burst into articulate annoyance recently, and in a communication to the Griper's Club, student paper column, set forth the woes of all roommates everywhere.

"My dear, dear roommate," she wrote, "we have now enjoyed each other's delightful company for three whole weeks. When I first met you, that beautiful maiden's smile of yours, your ever-gay disposition, your happy-go-lucky air assured me that our school life together would be semester after semester of bliss. Certain minor things have come up that irk me. I have tried to tell them to you time and again, but when I see you go blothely through the day, a personification of a ray of sunshine, I haven't the heart to take the chance of spoiling your happiness. So, my beloved roommate, I am taking this opportunity to get these irksome things of my mind, out of my hair. I know you won't read this, and even if you do it will do no good. At any rate, sweetheart, here is what I increasingly can't stand.

"(a) Wipe that perpetual silly grin off your kisser.

"(b) When I lend you silk stockings I expect them back. Christmas is a long way off.

"(c) Who cares how popular you were in your home town? The fact is that my boy friend is sick of forever fixing you up with dates, consequently making himself Man to be Avoided No 1 among his friends.

"(d) Give me at least a 50-50 chance at the candy I get from home.

"(e) If you can't stand having your clothes in order, at least let them accumulate on your own bed and chair.

"(f) I know that because of your country peaches and cream complexion you don't use cosmetics while I do. But do you have to make this fact the principle theme of conversation whenever we double-date? Lovingly, Alias Sally."

WRITING RACKET

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—"Insidious advertisements" which claim to teach people to write constitute "one of the worst rackets of the present day," Mary Ellen Chase, novelist, recently told a class of Columbia University extension students. Thousands of people, a high percentage of them young men and women, are being mulcted by the "racket," Miss Chase declared.

Considerable ability, plenty of time and patience and an independent income were classified by the author of "Mary Peters" as important prerequisites for a literary career.

CUTTER ASKS STUDENT SUPPORT OF NYA AIMS

North Carolina Youth Director Seeks Cooperation From Collegians.

By Walter Cutter, Executive Assistant Director National Youth Administration of North Carolina.

Raleigh.—The beginning of the functioning of the National Youth Administration's program has a timely significance for every college student. The general state of our national affairs, economic and social, makes it imperative for every individual, in or out of college to apply his best thought to the solution of those problems which confront us today.

It is certainly true that what is needed more than any one thing is a revival of self-dependence, which dependence is likely to be lost in time of national stress. The government's intervention in the field of youth activities reveals clearly the need for thought about tomorrow, lest we should develop a habit of receiving outside aid, and lose this virtue of self-dependence.

The program of the Youth Administration has a number of departments. There is the general program of student aid, which includes aid to students from 16-25, below the college level, aid to college students, and aid to graduate students. Further, two general classes of projects may be put into force, manual projects for those having practical skills, or who can develop such skills, and research, statistical and technical projects for those having the requisite training and possibilities.

A whole section of the Federal Government's educational effort is devoted to adult education of many kinds; a systematic attack on illiteracy; workers' education; dramatic activities and nursery schools. Teachers and directors in these programs will be utilized for youth groups wherever possible.

College students are being asked to cooperate in the general objectives of the Youth Program in a numbcr of ways. First, by holding intelligent, purposeful discussions as to how best the benefits of college training can be made available to communities through college-community participation. Secondly, by presenting workable plans, programs, etc., for youth in and out of school, a phase of such plans being the achieving of solidarity among all youth in the state. Third, by helping to interpret the significance of social trends to students of today, by having faculty-student forums, etc.

From time to time other practical suggestions will be made, as such suggestions are shown to have been valuable in other colleges. Meanwhile the Youth Administration invites the enthusiastic support of every North Carolina college student.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDY ON ATHLETES CHARGED

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa.—A new angle on the perennial charges of professionalism brought against college football players was dug up recently by Milton Prensky, a senior in Teachers College, Temple University, when he declared in a speech here before the city community council that "certain college football teams were being subsidized by the government through National Youth Administration funds."

"Members of football teams seem to get the preference for this student aid rather than others who need the money more," he declared. "There is also the problem of state senators telephoning the administration officials to be sure and fix a job for their particular student friends."

Prensky's charges were denied by NYA officials.

A decided swing against the New Deal in the last 15 months among members of the Yale class of '24 is reflected in a recent poll. Sixty-nine per cent of the class voted against the President while 15 months ago 68 per cent favored New Deal policies.

HIGH POINT'S OUTSTANDING DEPARTMENT STORE

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—A reporter who used to work on The New York American told me this story, down to the last detail, and I am passing it on for what it is worth, just as I heard it.

The reporter, who is a reliable and responsible person, was an eyewitness at the scene. To my mind it is an interesting sidelight on the makeup of two of our best known national figures, Wm. Randolph Hearst and Arthur Brisbane. Also, it points a moral to the effect that one must never stoop to recover a fallen sweet, not only because the sweet may be germ-covered because of its fall, but because at the time of stooping it might turn out that Mr. Hearst and Mr. Brisbane would like to pass by. . . .

One raw, wintry afternoon several years ago, a copyboy in the city room of The New York American, finding that he had all of ten free minutes to himself, decided to spend the time in getting and eating a piece of candy from the stand just inside the entrance to the building. He had the money in his pocket, and the craving for candy he had been born with, the true sign of a genuine copyboy. He went downstairs to the candy-stand, a faint smile of anticipation on his face, his head—chocolate filled, so to speak.

At the stand he spent a long time in weighing the merits of gumdrops versus rum toffee, and then reverting to his original idea, hovered undecided between a Hershey bar and a bar of Nestle's chocolate. Finally he bought an O Henry. Carefully he rolled back the paper wrappers, and holding it in his fist, as a child holds a half peeled banana, bit heartily into the candy. Chewing happily he walked idly to the door.

It was a beautiful day, he thought. West Street was three inches deep in snow and sleet. The wind rushing down the street jabbed each passerby viciously in the nose, turning it blue with cold. But still, he thought, looking at his candy, it was a beautiful day.

A limousine of enormous proportions was approaching. He glanced at it, then down at his bar again. Turning to go inside he took another bite. Three or four idlers around the doorway, shifting their regard from the boy, turned to look at the limousine which had just stopped in front of the building.

As they watched, a chauffeur in a smart greatcoat got out and hastened to open the rear door. Out came a large bear followed by another one. They straightened up and became two men in enormous fur coats. Majestically they steamed toward the entrance, their breaths turning to clouds of vapor in the frosty air.

The idlers hastily made gangway for the fur coats, guessing instinctively who was in each. The coats stepped through the doorway, talked toward the elevator, and stopped! There was an obstruction in their path.

The boy was the obstruction. A second before, in seeking for a new hold on his candy, he had lost control of it and it had fallen to the floor in the path of the approaching pair. Mr. Hearst and Mr. Brisbane. Unaware of their approach, or as a matter of fact of anything but his fallen candy, he stooped over to retrieve it, stooped and stopped two of America's most eminent journalists. Stopped them dead in their tracks!

If the Japs had, at that moment as Mr. Brisbane had been suggesting for years they might, appeared over New York City in an aerial raid, he would not have shown half the surprise that he did at sight of the boy in his path. Mr. Hearst's face on the other hand merely assumed an expression of inscrutability. What went on behind those massive features no one will ever know exactly, but the event that followed swiftly is evidence that Mr. Hearst was fashioning a Jovian thunderbolt and that the moment was pregnant with fateful meaning for the copyboy.

He waited, while the boy recovered his candy, and then as the boy looked up, gave him a ponderous glance. Turning he stepped into the elevator and with Mr. Brisbane was conveyed aloft. The boy stood openmouthed, looking after them, his jaw slack, his eyes wide with fear.

In the city room Mr. Hearst summoned the editor. He described the boy. The editor admitted the boy was an employee of the paper and wearily sick at heart, sent another copyboy after the offender.

And there in the city room, with Mr. Brisbane looking on, Mr. Hearst loosed his thunderbolt. He fired the boy who stooped for a bar of candy.

Pennsylvania Launches Drive For Huge Amount

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa.—Plans to raise $10,000,000 for the University of Pennsylvania have been announced the drive to begin next fall and to be concluded in 1940, the university's 200th anniversary year.

Three general objectives have been outlined by President Thomas S. Gates:

"First, to raise endowment funds for maintaining a distinguished faculty at the university.

"Second to obtain funds essential for library and laboratory facilities and research in order that these scholars and sci[illegible] may be assured of the e[illegible] essential to the accompli[illegible] the best results.

"Third, to make adequate provision for attracting and maintaining a student body of the highest quality by means of scholarship funds and by improving the physical environment for student extracurricular activities."

Two Indiana campus sweethearts of the 90's have found a last resting place near a historic old sun dial on the grounds of the Greencastle institution. Their ashes were scattered in that place by their son.

The soccer team proved Saturday that their slump was only temporary by starting on the "comeback" trail with a victory over the Kannapolis Towelers. With Culler back in the line-up, the team regained confidence and fighting spirit to click in wonderful style. A tough break that Kernersville caught them in bad shape, but the locals will get a chance to square things with the record-spoilers when the teams meet for the second time on November 30 at Kernersville.

An interesting note on the game Saturday was the fact that two former Panther athletes, Carl and Chet Smith, were playing on the opposing squad. The two brothers were both members of the first soccer team organized here in 1930, with Carl as coach and Chet as captain. Carl continued to coach during the following two seasons, and was succeeded by Culler, then a sophomore, and now the present mentor.

Since leaving school the brothers have followed the same line of work, each being connected with Y. M. C. A. Chet is physical director of the Kannapolis Y and coach of the Kannapolis team, while Carl is connected with the Spencer Y.

About freshman basketball practice: Although Yow should be able to produce a scrappy frosh five this year, in our opinion it will probably not stack up with the Purple Kitten team of last year. The above mentioned squad, which boasted of five men that were to see regular service on the varsity later in the year, was probably one of the strongest first year teams ever to don the school colors. While playing with their full lineup, they easily conquered all high school teams played, and would have given many college varsity teams a close game.

Many of the basketeers this year are showing much promise of going places before the season is over. Diamont has been drilling them hard for the past two weeks, and all are improving with each practice. Tentative plans have been made for another trip to Cleveland county, with games slated against several high schools. These will serve as a test.

The audiences will miss the tumbling exhibitions (including clowns Culler and Diamont) given by the college tumbling team during the past two years at the games between the high school and college frosh fives. And why should this sport be abolished here when such a few number of sports are offered to the students? Many were interested in the game, and went out for practice as regular as the basketball players. This was necessary to keep in shape for the strenuous exhibitions.

Anyway it proved to be a great drawing card at the high schools, and we know by experience that the tumblers will miss the trips, made so enjoyable by the Cleveland county hospitality.

This column fared much better in the forecasting game last week. All results were correctly predicted in the games involving Big Five teams.

Duke Hands Local Shin-Busters Second Defeat

Kannapolis Falls Before Local Shin-Busters, 3-0

Culler's Eleven Comes Back After First Defeat by Kernersville To Trounce the Towlers.

After suffering their first loss in five years at the hands of Kernersville last Saturday, the Purple Panther shin-busters regained their former fighting spirit Saturday afternoon to defeat the Kannapolis Y, 3-9 in a Central Carolina Association game at Kannapolis.

The team in action on the field resembled the former Panther elevens, and displayed a complete reversal of form over their performance in the contest of the preceding Saturday. With the offensive clicking and passing in fine style, and the defense forming a wall too tough for the opposition to penetrate, the locals experienced little trouble in mastering the Towelers, who boasted the Smith brothers, former Panther athletes, in their line-up.

By staging the comeback, the Pointers once again became dangerous contenders for the lead in the loop. All the teams have played three games, and have seven more left on the schedule.

Culler returned to the line-up after an absence of a week to lead the collegians to their victory. Pacing the offensive attack, the diminutive center scored two of the goals and featured in the excellent pass work.

The opening goal was scored after thirteen minutes of hard defensive playing on the part of both teams, with Culler finally managing to slip one through the posts. Martin, flashy sophomore linesman, kicked the second tally a few minutes later.

Culler made another point in the second quarter to boost the total score to three points, a count which stood at the end of the first half. However, the locals were unable to pierce the Kannapolis defense in the second half, during which time both teams settled down to cautious, defensive playing.

The line-up:

High Point	Pos.	Kannapolis
Brinkley	G	E. Brown
Elder	RF	R. Clutts
Isley	LF	C. Smith
Sherrill	CH	Carl Smith
Harris	LH	Hutton
Grigg	RH	Clutts
Culler	C	Kitchin
Intrieri	IR	Griffis
Koontz	OR	Barger
Giles	IL	Jones
Ellington	OL	Clutts

Scorers: High Point, Culler 2, Martin.

Substitutions: High Point — Niernsee, Smith.

Referees: J. Griffis.

Carolina Eleven Wins Over State

A Rose Bowl invitation may yet be forthcoming to the state of North Carolina as a result of the continued irresistable Tar Heel march through last Saturday to make up one of the exclusive eleven undefeated teams of the nation.

The North Carolina University eleven, led by Jackson and Bershak, initiated the mighty N. C. State team into the ways of national championship aspirers by smashing the Wolves under a 35 to 6 passing, running and kicking exhibition before 18,000 uproarous fans. This win makes the University team the only big unbeaten team of the state, and In line with Notre Dame, California, Minnesota, Marquette, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Dartmouth, New York University, Princeton, and Syracuse, as the only other unbeaten teams of the nation, for a Rose Bowl invitation.

Duke's Blue Devils, paced by the speedy Elmore Hackney, regained their early season form before a 16,000 home-coming crowd to climb back into the winning column by completely outplaying the Tennessee Volunteers for a decisive 19-6 victory. This win puts the prognosticator's nreves on edge especially in regards to the future much publicized Duke-North Carolina gridiron battle, although Carolina will probably have the edge.

Probably the most exciting game of the week-end menu came in the immense Ohio State stadium when two undefeated teams met in a contest which constantly kept the spectators tensely expectant, leaving them exhausted and limp after the gun proclaimed the game over. With only five minutes of the game left and with the powerful Ohio team leading by one touchdown, the team which gained considerable fame five years ago, Notre Dame, again sprang into national headlines by staging the most terrific comeback of the current season to savagely pass, run and block their way through a pozzled Ohio line for two successive touchdowns, putting Ohio in the defeated column while themselves remaining in the no-loss bracket.

Army, victor over Harvard and Yale, Saturday received its first defeat of the year by bowing to Mississippi State gridiron team, 13-7. Dartmouth defeated Yale while Tulane won out over Colgate and U. L. C. A., Temple, and Baylor Universities stepped down for the first time this season into the defeated lists.

Of the Little Six teams of North Carolina, Catawba and Lenoir Rhyne won out over energetic opponents to maintain a potential record for the current season.

According to an official bulletin published by Kansas State Normal school in November, 1902, "it would be a shame if any Teachers College student should be arrested for riding a bicycle at a rate of speed exceeding the lawful limit!"

Local Team Next To Kernersville For League Lead

Pack Has Two Victories and One Defeat in Three Scheduled Games.

Kernersville, in a close soccer game with the Winston-Salem Y Saturday, again pulled out a win to maintain the top position in the Central Carolina League, having won three out of three games for the only perfect record in the league.

Kernersville, only a week before, ruined the High Point Purple Panther record which attained to six years of no defeats, by defeating them 5-1; yet High Point has again gotten in the running by running rough-shod over the hard playing Kannapolis Y. M. C. A. shin-buster team, 3-0, for the only other contest to be ployed in the Central league during the past week-end. This win places the Purple Panther squad in a tie for the second place position with the High Point Y team, making it a toss-up as to whom will be the winner of the title after the remaining seven conference games have been played off.

The High Point Y-Catawba game, the third contest of the league, scheduled for this past week-end was postponed.

The league standings:

	W	T	L	Pts.
Kernersville	3	0	0	1000
H. P. College	2	0	1	.400
High Point Y	1	1	0	.500
Catawba	1	0	1	.200
Kannapolis	0	1	2	.100
Winston-Salem	0	0	2	.000

BAREFOOT BALL IS PLAYED IN HAWAII

Albuquerque, N. M.—If you've never seen a Hawaiian football player booting the ball in a neat 50-yard spiral, you don't know what can be done with the bare foot, says Bill Baker, University of New Mexico student and former player of the island game.

According to Baker, barefoot football in Hawaii is the starting point for all boys who play football there and sometimes those who play the shoeless game elect not to graduate into regular football play as practiced in America with shoes and other equipment.

To a new fan, Baker says, the game is astonishing. Imagine a boy taking a pass from center and booting a 50-yard punt. That's a common performance. But to see a Hawaiian run and dig his toes into the ball on a kickoff, sending it over the goal for a touchback—there you really have something.

The game of barefoot football is faster than the regular shoe-clad game. Cutback plays are usually avoided because the shoeless wonders can't hold the ground for shifty work. The passing attack must be fast for the thrower is usually hounded by a pack of fast charging linemen. Punts develop quickly, because for some reason or another, perhaps because it's easier to take a bare foot in the face than it is hard leather, many of them are blocked.

The equipment used usually consists of a jersey, trousers called "sailor-makers" and a sailor's hat. Few injuries are the rule, rather than the exception, and the general motto is, "Either you can take it or you can't."

Barefoot teams play in regular leagues, organized according to the weights of the players, from 100 to 170 pounds. Although the barefoot players prefer their own style of game, they sometimes move into collegiate ranks. Mickey McGuire, Hawaiian star at the University of Wisconsin 3 years ago, could punt 60 yards barefoot.

Blue Devils Score In Last Minute To Win Battle, 3-2

Collegians Clash With Y Saturday

The High Point Purple Panther soccer eleven, with a renewed and more cheerful vigor as a result of Saturday's decisive win, is now training hard for the fourth Central league game which promises to be one of the closest and hardest fought games of the current season as the High Point College shin-busters meet the as yet undefeated High Point Y. M. C. A. team Saturday.

High Point came back last Saturday after bowing to a powerful Kernersville team the week before to show the old fighting defensive and offensive playing which made a five year record of no defeats previous to this year and took the Kannapolis Y team for a 3-0 ride. Coach Culler again took the lead in the individual scoring while setting a fine example for his team members in stellar defensive work; he was unable to play the full game in the competitive performance between Kernersville and the Panther team because of a tonsil operation.

Yesterday's game shows that the Panther eleven has what it takes to pull out a championship team as Duke, though not a conference contender, is one of the most powerful teams of the state and even though the High Point Y has so far come through with one win and one tie for no losses, the College boys, judged by their performance of yesterday, should have the edge in the predictor's dope.

This game which will be played on the fine High Point High School soccer field, will probably draw a large number of the local fans among which will be rooters for the strong, hard playing Y team as well as the Purple Panther team.

Local fans may also look forward to a game between the big Davidson College team and the local College soccerteers which will be played next week.

Culler Stars on Offense to Score Both High Point Goals in Last Half.

High Point College suffered defeat on the soccer field yesterday afternoon for the second time in the history of the sport here, as the Duke Blue Devils triumphed over the Panther eleven 3-2 by virtue of a last minute tally in a close contest at Durham.

CULLER - FORWARD

The Devils were unintentionally aided by Panther players in scoring their final goal, which came in the closing minute of the battle to break the 2-2 deadlock, giving Duke a hard-earned victory. While the ball was down in the territory surrounding the High Point goal, it either struck an unsuspecting High Point man and bounded in the direction of the goal, or one of the players made a mistake kick.

The loss was the second setback in less than two weeks for the locals, who had not fully recovered from the trouncing at the hands of Kernersville on October 26, which ended their five year winning streak.

As it was the first game for the Duke eleven since soccer has been approved there as a minor sport, the Devils made good in their official debut in the intercollegiate circles. A team was organized last year and played High Point in an exchange of games, with the Panthers winning the first 5-0, and the second ending in a 2-2 tie.

Jerry Gerrad, former running mate of Red Grange, the popular football hero a few years back, is head coach at Duke, and had his team keyed up for the contest.

The opposing coach, Culler, always the big threat for the Panthers on offense, again led the High Point attack on the field. Displaying a bewildering passing exhibition, at times almost unaided, the diminutive center managed to break through the air-tight Duke line for two goals in the last half.

Sherrill, and the two co-captains, Isley and Elder, were the outstanding Pointers in the backfield, and broke up many of the drives for goals by Duke. The Duke linemen played a superb game, holding the Panther offense pretty well in check with the exception of Culler.

Neither team was able to score in the first quarter, as the ball was see-sawed up and down the field by the oposing players. Duke got loose in the second quarter to push one marker across, taking a 1-0 lead at the end of the first half.

Each team scored one in the third period. The final quarter opened with the Big Five squad leading 2-1, but Culler came through with a wonderful kick to give the Panthers a 2-2 tie with the winners. At the critical moment the Panther defense weakened however, and the Blue Devils scored one minute before the final whistle, taking advantage of the High Point fumble.

The line-up:

YALE STUDENTS WILL GET NYA POSITIONS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New Haven, Conn.—Yale has reversed its attitude of last year and will accept Federal aid for its needy graduate and professional students, with 102 students slated for NYA jobs paying up to $40 a month, it was announced here last week.

The work will consist chiefly of research investigations in specialized fields. The reason for refusal of aid last year was said to be the fact that at that time the maximum amount offered was $15 a month. This prevented the student from seeking other employment.

Consecration Is Endeavor Theme

Christian Society Holds Its Monthly Consecration Program; New Members Join.

"The Meaning of Consecration" was the discussion topic at regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society Sunday evening. Virginia Grant was in charge.

Silent prayer followed the soft instrumental music which opened the service. The entire group took part in singing "Break Thou the Bread of Life," and in sentence prayers. After the offering Violet Jenkins sang "My Task" by Ashford. She was accompanied by her sister Marguerite, violinist, and Agnes Louise Wilcox at the piano.

Mary Margaret Bates opened the discussion with a review of a thin and unusual volume, "The Song of Our Syrian Guest." The book is an interpretation of the Twenty-Third Psalm from the viewpoint of the Syrian shepherd, and throws light on some of the less understandable passages. After the group sang "Lord, Speak To Me That I May Speak," the leader discussed briefly the meaning of consecration. Caroline Pirtle spoke on "The Test of Peace," Elizabeth Bagwell on "The Test of Joy," and Helen Hunter on "The Test of Power." The hymn "Just As I Am" was used as a fitting musical conclusion to the preceding discussions.

As is usual on the first Sunday night of each month, a consecration service was held. The customary roll call, to which the members responded with verses of scripture, was followed by the reception of a number of new members. Those joining the society were as follows: Mary Mitchell Baity, Nancy Parham, Frances Muse, Dorothy Wiggins, Kathryn Sexton, Max Rogers, and Owen Lindley.

The meeting was dismissed as usual with the Mizpah benediction.

given by the College physical education classes, and a short basketball game will be played by the varsity squad. The high spot of the afternoon will be a Central Carolina Soccer league game to be played on the local grounds. Two volley ball games will be played during the afternoon, one between two co-ed teams, and the other between two men's teams.

Iota Tau Kappa and Theta Phi will hold open house for graduate members at 1:30 until 2:30 in the afternoon; Delta Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Phi will be at home from 3:00 until 4:00; and Epsilon Eta Phi and Alpha Psi will receive their alumni from 4:30 until 5:30.

The third annual Homecoming banquet will be held in the College dining hall at 7:00 o'clock, and a dance will be held later in the evening at a location not yet announced.

"IT'S A SMALL WORLD" COMING TO CAROLINA

Spencer Tracy heads the cast of "It's A Small World," Fox Film's breezy comedy which comes to the Carolina Theatre soon. The players include Wendy Barrie, Raymond Walburn, Virginia Sale, Astrid Allwyn, Irving Bacon, Charles Sellon, Nick Foran, Belle Daube, the Frank McGlyns, father and son, Bill Gillis, Ed Brady and Harold Minjir.

"It's A Small World" is a story of stream-lined moderns who meet by accident in a head-on motor collision.

WHOLESALE CATTLE RUSTLING IS MYTH, CLAIMS TIM McCOY

"Western novels, short stories, and sometimes pictures show cattle rustlers driving away entire herds of stolen cattle. But that is merely fiction," declares Col. Tim McCoy, a genuine cowboy himself, who is now displaying his superb horsemanship and unbeatable gunplay in Columbia's "The Revenge Rider," at the Carolina Theatre Saturday.

"Even in the old wide-open days," the popular screen star continued in the interview, "rustlers generally got away with only small groups of steers. And since branding laws and inspection became a Federal government job some forty years ago they have done little of that. Instead they center their rustling activities on beef steers which they need for steak, and on unbranded calves. The steers they can eat, and the calves can be branded and successfully sold."

Twenty-one Bucknell University women are listed in the newly-published American Women official "Who's Who" among the women of the nation.

FOUR GROUPS COMBINE FOR AUTUMN PARTY

Jenkins took the lead with Virginia Grant, Tasker Williams, and G. G. Holmes, dressed as negroes and cracking many humorous jokes.

After the program, Hoyt Wood invited everyone to the girls' dormitory to continue the merriment of the evening.

The profusion of ghosts, gypsies, witches, cowboys, clowns, Mexicans, masked and unmasked gathered in Woman's Hall which was timely decorated with autumn leaves, cornstalks on pumpkins around an open fire, an ideal festival background. The "guests" engaged in roasting peanuts and chestnuts, popping corn and eating lollipops and apples. Blood-curdling screams were an evidence of ghost story telling and many enjoyed group games on the campus.

But all too soon the owls stopped screeching, witches flew to their worlds of fancy and All Saints' Eve came to an end.

Students Fight Propaganda In Movies, Comics

Collegians Picket "Red Salute," Scorn Orphan Annie in Propaganda War.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

An articulate, concentrated protest against propaganda in two of the mediums most recently adapted to it, the screen and newspaper comic strips, has been increasingly evident in college communities, an Associated Collegiate Press survey shows.

Most bitterly protested has been the movie "Red Salute," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Young, with most of the newsreels and such comic strips as the Chicago Tribune Syndicate's "Little Orphan Annie," coming in for heavy criticism and action that has often resulted in boycott.

"Red Salute," which is said to deride student anti-war sentiment and to attack the right of free speech by students and professors, has been picketed on campuses from New York to Chicago, and has received cancelled bookings in other places. Eighteen C. C. N. Y. students were arrested for picketing the film in New York, and in Madison, University of Wisconsin students came to blows when pickets were attacked by a group of athletes.

"Students will not be lied about or kidded out of their opposition against war, and the picket lines in front of theaters showing 'Red Salute' in college towns throughout the country have shown movie makers that they had better stick to romance instead of Hearstian lies about undergraduates," says the Penn State Collegian.

Commenting on the action of John Cleudenian, editor of the Huntington, W. Va., Herald-Dispatch, in throwing "Little Orphan Annie" out of his columns, the Minnesota Daily has this to say:

"Considering that comic strips were primarily intended for the kiddies, one can easily see that their purpose has well nigh gone astray. More action like that taken in Huntington against artists who endeavor to advance their pet ideas or instill the glory of war, or the mechanism of underworld organization, would be advisable in order to protect at least the funnies from the nuisance of propaganda."

The University of Minnesota has its own newsreel theater.

College, treasurer; Miss Jo Marie Thompson, of Greensboro College, publicity chairman.

Delegates to the conference will register at College Place church from 4 until 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, November 8. Conference activities will begin with a formal banquet in South dining hall at Woman's College at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening. Dr. Frank S. Hickman will deliver the keynote address. After the banquet there will be a fellowship hour in the Y. W. C. A. hut on the college campus.

Interest and discussion groups are to meet at College Place church next Saturday morning and afternoon. Greensboro College will give a tea for the conference delegates at 4:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Miss Anne Garrard, dean of women at Greensboro College, will be in charge of the arrangements. The Wesley Players of Woman's College will present a pageant, "Seek and Ye Shall Find," in the main auditorium of College Place church at 8:45 o'clock Saturday evening.

At 10 o'clock Sunday morning, November 10, there will be an installation service at College Place church for the new officers of the conference, with Rev. Carl H. King officiating. Rev. B. C. Reais, pastor of College Place church, will conduct the communion service. The conference will close with the sermon by Rev. J. Marvin Culbreth at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning.

Junior Class Co-Ed Parade Comes Friday

Beauty Contest to be Feature of "Broadcast" Sponsored by Class of '37.

HOLMES PLAYS

Lexington Negro Orchestra to Furnish Music for Major Social Event.

A number of representatives have been chosen by campus literary societies and social clubs to appear in the beauty parade which is to be a feature of the Junior Class "Broadcast" Friday evening.

The evening's program is built around Francis Holmes and his eight-piece negro orchestra, which the class is importing from Lexington. Holmes and his orchestra are in private life solid, respectable tradesmen and working men. One of their number is a high school principal. But that does not keep them from turning out "hot music." They promise to "go to town" on such old favorites as "Goofus" and "The Saint Louis Blues" without neglecting so new a number as "Lulu's Back In Town."

Among the other attractions of the evening is a tap-dancer who will accompany the orchestra. In addition to his dancing and their music, they furnish a running fire of humorous comments on people and things—some of them connected with the College.

Alton Hartman and Charles Ridge, president and vice-president of the class of '37, have made two trips to Lexington to attend rehearsals of the orchestra, and bring back more than favorable reports of their performance. Tickets are on sale by all members of the class.

Julia Coe, a junior, of High Point, has been selected to represent the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity in the competition for the title of "Miss High Point College"; Delta Alpha Epsilon has chosen Myrtle Matthews, of Enfield, a sophomore; Pattie Redman, a High Point freshman, is Iota Tau Kappa's nominee; Gladys Maxwell, a junior, of Hendersonville, will represent Sigma Alpha Phi; Dorothy Jones, of High Point, a freshman, is the choice of the Akrothinian Literary Society; the Nikanthans' representative is Elizabeth Hoffman, a freshman, of High Point; Hazel Welborn, also a day student, and a senior, is the selection of the Thaleans; Katherine Brown, a senior, and an Artemesian, will represent her literary society in the competition.

The junior class has laid plans to make the beauty contest "the real McCoy"; two judges selected to choose "Miss High Point College are Thomas E. Dodameade, local artist and photographer, and

FRESHMEN GET CHANCE AT CAMPUS SUBJECTS IN THALEAN MEETING

New Men Make Good Showing at First Appearance in Literary Society Thursday.

Several freshmen of unusual ability were revealed as they discussed the different phases of life on the campus, at the meeting of the Thalean Literary Society last Thursday.

The program was opened with "My First Impression of High Point College," by Wilbur Walton. Instead of giving the usual cut-and-dried remarks expected from a freshman, Walton displayed an unusual sense of humor in his description of his first, and painful, impressions. He held himself, a home-sick boy hundreds of miles from home, waiting a whole week before he met anyone, up to his audience—not as an object of pity, but as a target for laughter. The audience, listening to his tragic-comic story, experienced much the same feeling one gets from watching a fat vegetable vendor pelted with tomatoes—the scene is comedy to the watchers, but it is tragedy to the fat man.

The Thaleans have for some time

MISS PARHAM IS NAMED TO HI-PO STAFF

Freshman Co-Ed From Henderson Gets Position on Reporting Staff.

Nancy Parham, '39, of Henderson, was Thursday appointed to the editorial staff of THE HI-PO.

Miss Parham will be particularly remembered as winner of first place in last year's oration-essay contest. The contest is an annual affair, sponsored by the College for the benefit of high school seniors. She was awarded a scholarship for excellence in writing and speaking on the subject of her expectations in regard to college. She has served a hard apprenticeship in the field of amateur journalism, as she was connected with her high school's newspaper. She also worked for some weeks with THE HI-PO staff before her official appointment.

Since Miss Parham has been at the College she has been active in the Artemesian Literary Society, which she joined on October 4. She represented this society in the Armistice Day program on Monday morning, and had the distinction of being the only Artemesians Give Program on Various Phases of Nature; Music Included.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its regular meeting in the College auditorium last Thursday night, November 7. The general theme of the program was nature.

First on the program, Irma Gray Hornaday gave a report on sacred animals. Next came "The Language of the Birds," by Dorothy Wiggins. Christine Carroll then played two selections on the piano, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

Virginia Dixon then read two poems, "Wild Animals I Have Met," and "The Feast of the Monkeys." Pattie Redman gave next "When Night Falls on the Jungle."

Hyacinth Hunter gave a review of "Illigerian Springs," by Ann Bridges, which closed the program.

After the program, the society discussed the question of buying individual stationery for the organization.

Brame Attends Meet of State P. E. Teachers

Women's Physical Education Director Attends Session Held in Durham.

The thirteenth annual convention of the North Central District Teachers' Association was held in Durham, N. C., on November 8 and 9. Representatives from High Point attended the meeting for Physical Education instructors, on Saturday morning.

Professor Olicer Cornwall, of the University of North Carolina, spoke on The Fundamentals of Physical Education. He mentioned the various kinds of physical education offered in colleges, high schools, and grammar schools, and stressed the methods of developing an interesting program in that field.

Resolutions submitted by the Curriculum Revision Committee on Physical Education were read and discussed. These resolutions were the results of investigation on the part of a committee which is trying to promote growth and interest in the field of physical education. They provided that all high school instructors should be majors in the department, and that all teachers intending to teach the subject in grammar schools should have done 16 hours in theoretical and practical physical education courses. The aim of the committee is to obtain a state director of physical education who will have the authority to enforce these rules or resolutions.

Last year a state law was passed (through the efforts of the committee) providing that all standard schools should have at least 30 minutes a day of physical education, to be taken during class time.

The results of these matters are expected in due time to have a direct effect upon women's athletics in colleges. They are expected to make the future College woman more interested in the development and promotion of physical education. They are, too, believed to be a definite step toward giving the colleges better material to work with in the physical education field.

At this meeting Miss Brame, head of the College department of physical education for women, discussed with Miss Beard of the University of North Carolina, the possibility of volley ball and basket ball games to be played for pleasure between the High Point College women and the teams of the Woman's College. Further arrangements will be made in the near future, and dates will probably be set for such contests.

College Journalists Meet In Durham For Thirtieth Semi-Annual Conclave

Representatives From HI-PO and ZENITH Attend Sessions of North Carolina Collegiate Press Convention Held Under Sponsorship of Duke University.

Five delegates from High Point College last week attended the thirtieth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press association, which met in Durham under the sponsorship of Duke University.

W. W. Weisner, editor of THE HI-PO, and Alton Hartman, sports editor, registered Thursday afternoon and attended every session of the meeting. Edgar Snider and Lois Hedgecock, editor and manager of THE ZENITH, Allen Austin, business manager of THE HI-PO, were visitors at the discussion group meeting Friday morning.

The first formal session was held Friday morning, when words of welcome were given by Lamont Brown of Davidson, president of the association, and Phil Russell, of Duke, treasurer of the organization and chairman of the arrangement committee.

Following the appointment of committees for the convention, Dr. Walter Cutter, of Raleigh, director of the National Youth Administration of North Carolina, appeared before the assembled journalists and made an appeal for support of the aims of his bureau.

Group sessions at which editors of newspapers, yearbooks, and literary magazines, and the business managers of all publications discussed their problems were held following the opening session.

Professor Herbert Sugden, instructor in journalism at Duke, addressed the editors of newspapers and conducted an open forum discussion of their problems. Andrew M. Beck, prominent engraver, of the Edwards and Broughton company of Raleigh, addressed the session of business managers of all publications. Edward Fowler, of the Seeman Printery, of Durham, spoke before the editors of literary magazines. Arthur Sickles, of the Lassiter Printing company, Charlotte, lectured to editors of college annuals in another of the group meetings.

Henry R. Dwire, Duke's director of public relations, was the main speaker at the semi-annual banquet held in the Washington Duke hotel Friday night. He spoke on the important part played by publications in building up college traditions and in undergraduate life. Frank Pierson, secretary of the Durham Chamber of Commerce, entertained the delegates with a number of sleight-of-hand tricks following the dinner. Several selections were sung by the Duke male quartet.

College Band Plans Under Way For Year

Volunteers For Musical Organization Number Nearly 20, Playing Many Instruments.

PAYNE HEAD

Miss Sloan Calls For Those Interested in Organizing Orchestra.

Nearly 20 people responded last week to a call issued for volunteers for a College band. Plans for organization are now under way.

High Point College has at times in the past "pointed with pride" to its musical organizations, instrumental and vocal. Its choir, under the direction of Miss Margaret Sloan, possesses an enviable record, looking back over Northern trips, and jaunts to Florida, bus trouble, and radio triumph; its prospects, too, are favorable, presenting this year to the eyes of its members another Northern journey. But for the past two years, interest in instrumental music, and particularly in a College band or orchestra, has been on the wane. This year, a number of energetic souls with a desire or a talent for playing musical instruments are striving to revive it.

At the request of these energetic souls, Dean P. E. Lindley called for volunteers from the ranks of the students. About 17 responded, and tentative organization has begun with Joseph Payne, of High Point, a junior, in charge. The names of the prospective musicians, with their instruments, follow:

Cornets: Cooper, Lindley, Bolin, Ferree; Trombones: Austin, Payne, Johnson; Baritones: Mattocks; Altos: Stirewalt; Drums: Cox; Basses: M. Rogers; Saxophones: W. Rogers; Clarinet: Taplin; Flute: Welch. Gibbs and Pittard are classed as "miscellaneous."

Monday morning Miss Sloan called for candidates for a College orchestra. College prospects for musical organizations are on the upgrade.

PIRTLE ENTERTAINS AT FORMAL MEAL IN HOUSE LABORATORY

Closes Period as Hostess With Dinner in Home Economics Practice House.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Spessard and Mr. N. P. Yarborough were guests of Elizabeth Pirtle, hostess, at a formal dinner in the Home Economics practice house last night. A four-course dinner, consisting of fruit cocktail, a meat course, salad, and dessert, was served.

Miss Inez Ridge, 35, of Lexington, Mr. Allan Surratt, of Thomasville, and George Ingle, '36, were guests at dinner on Sunday.

Miss Pirtle ends her period as practice hostess tomorrow with dinner. Catherine Farlow takes on the duties of hostess ten days beginning Friday morning, and turns the cooking over to Miss Pirtle. Gladys Maxwell and Mary Margaret Bates exchange duties as "host" and maid.

During Miss Pirtle's "reign" in the practice house, she had also as her guests: Lillian Pearson, '39, of Alabama, on last Tuesday night; Gray Jackson, last year a student at the College, and who would have been in the practice house this year if she had returned to school, for dinner Friday night; and Mary Frances Gerringer and Caroline Pirtle, both sophomores at the College, for a waffle breakfast Sunday morning.

The course in house management is required of all home economics majors and consists of a six-weeks' residence in the house, at which time the girls do all the cooking, meal planning, cleaning, and other duties necessary for the management of a well-ordered home.

SYKES SPEAKS AT COLLEGE IN CHAPEL FRIDAY

Central Friends' Pastor Talks on "Where Is American Youth Headed."

T. A. ("Tom") Sykes, of the Central Friends' Church, spoke at the regular chapel service Friday morning. His remarks were concerned with the question: "Where is American youth headed?"

As an opening wedge he used the amusing story of an aged and rheumatic Englishman who was given by a Quaker relief agency a plot of ground for gardening in a waste district in England. When the old man was complimented by the Bishop on "the good work you and the Lord have done," he replied, "You should have seen it when the Lord had it by Himself!" We must realize, said Mr. Sykes, that if we do not work with the Lord, things will get rougher.

Particularly did the speaker stress his feelings of admiration for "Youth Action." Action on the part of the youth of a country, even when it is not the wisest action, he said, is to be commended. "It means," he declared, "that youth is doing something." "I wish," he said further, "that we ministers could instill into our congregations the enthusiastic spirit of youth." He mentioned Lenin, Mussolini, and Hitler as public figures who have captured the attention of youth, apparently permanently.

In the course of his discussion, Mr. Sykes read in its entirety the creed of the United Youth Movement of America, a union of the youth of American Protestantism. Included in the purposes of this organization were the instilling of Christian motives and action into the quests of youth, the vital transforming of life through new interpretations of Christian habits, the creation of a true Christian society.

He went into details concerning the present German persecution of the Jews, and warned that America may be on the verge of a similar movement. He urged that the youth of America keep clear heads under such circumstances, in order not to be swayed by mass opinion.

In conclusion Mr. Sykes spoke of the relation of youth to war. He reminded his hearers of the coming observance of Armistice Day, and expressed a hope that it may be a long time before another such day will be needed. "It will not be long before we will be thinking of Christmas presents," he said. "May you decide to dedicate your own minds and bodies to God, to the betterment of your fellows. I pray that American youth is headed for the patriotism of peace!"

Methodist Protestant Conference Holds Annual Meet at Henderson

Several Parents of Students, and Many Alumni Attend Session of Annual Conference of Church; Two College Students Given Work for Coming Year.

The 108th session of the North Carolina Annual Conference which convened in Henderson, came to a close Monday after the report of the stationing committee was read.

Among the preachers whose sons and daughters are attending High Point College are G. L. Curry, who was moved from Tabernacle Church to Spring Church charge in the eastern part of the state R. S. Troxler, who was changed from Cleveland Charge to Glen Raven, near Burlington; R. A. Hunter was returned to Forsyth charge near Winston-Salem; C. W. Bates went back to First Church, Winston-Salem; C. E. Ridge again serves Shiloh charge near Lexington; M. C. Henderson returns to Richland charge near Asheboro; and G. B. Ferree goes back to West Forsyth.

A large number of graduates of the College received appointments this year. Oscar Easter, '35, was sent to Creswell charge; Luther Medlin, returned to Henderson; J. Elwood Carroll, '28, went back to Grace Church, Greensboro; W. M. Howard, '33, will serve Moriah Church and continue his studies at Westminster Theological Seminary; C. P. Morris, '33, was sent back to Danville, a new church, and will continue his work at the seminary again this year; Aubert Smith, '35, moved from Kannapolis to Liberty, where he will preach in addition to his work at Duke University; T. J. Whitehead, '28, returns to Mt. Hermon charge; J. B. Braxton, '29, goes back to Mt. Pleasant Church; J. Clay Madison, '30, returns to First Church, High Point; Herman Yokely, '34, was sent to Connelly Springs and he will continue work at the seminary; T. G. Madison moved from First Church, Thomasville, to Cleveland charge; C. G. Isley moved to Abermarle; and Kenneth Holt was sent to Anderson, Yarborough.

Two of the College Ministerial Students were given appointments: Lee Moser returns to Spencer-China Grove; and Lee Pittard goes from Chase City to Brown Summit.

High Point College Joins In Student Peace Movement With Armistice Observance

Four Students, One Faculty Member Appear on Program as College Keeps Step.

STUDENTS SPEAK

Miss Vera Idol Reads "Spires of Oxford" in Connection With Program.

The High Point College faculty and student body joined the throngs of colleges and universities over the entire United States in the stressing of peace in the Armistice Day Celebration Monday.

The entire program was one with peace as the theme; showing the horrors and insanity of war. After the devotionals, which were conducted by Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of the College, A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student body, explained that the students and faculty had met to commemorate the great day of memory and to dedicate themselves to "peace on earth and good will to men." To further this point of peace, there were four speakers, who were not only representative of each of the four literary societies on the campus, but also of the four classes.

Miss Nancy Parham, an Artemesian and a freshman, pointed out the "Danger Points" in regard to the United States and the prevailing conditions. "The affairs of the world are probably more shaky, and war clouds are hanging lower, than at any period since the dark days just preceding the World War," she said. "The conditions in Italy and Ethiopia, although they may seem remote to the United States, are no more remote than twenty years ago when war broke out and the U. S. was drawn into the conflict." She stated that we must face the points of danger, even though we know that America wishes to remain neutral and peaceful, but in conclusion she left the question—"Will Americans realize that nothing came of the last war, and be the great example of other nations in obtaining world peace?"

Alson Gray, a sophomore and a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society, discussed "Armaments," saying that armaments are not a means of world peace, but they "brand us as hypocritical, for they are weapons of war. "How can a state of security be reached if those around us are fully armed?" he asked. He gave statistics as to the direct and indirect expenses of the world war, and stated that money could not have been spent to end war, because immediately after it closed, preparation began for future wars. He, in concluding,

Twenty-Nine Women Join Athletic Association in Impressive Ceremony.

The Woman's Athletic Association received 29 new members Monday evening. Of the group 24 were dormitory residents, and 6 day students.

The new women were received with a brief and impressive ceremony. As is the custom of the organization on such occasions, each member and pledge wore white. The president reported that all candidates present had officially qualified for membership by gaining the 25 points required for eligibility, and that the Woman's Athletic Council had approved each separately by unanimous vote. She administered the oath of membership to the new women.

The reception ceremony took place in the attic of Woman's Hall, where the women are planning to prepare a clubroom for the organization. Following the Social Clubs Begin Process of Initiating New Members; Laughs Follow.

By Nancy Parham

Although the greater part of the initiation of the new members into the Greek letter social clubs on the campus is entirely concealed from the public eye, a few unusual events are evidence that initiation is taking place, and that those new members are living under circumstances as bad as, if not worse than, those experienced by the freshmen a few weeks ago.

Outstanding from the rest of the student body are the few boys proudly wearing black shirts and red ties. On their backs can be seen large red letters emblematic of their social club, while the old members pursue them with the obscure query: "Are you a flea?"

Vague sounds coming from the direction of McCulloch and Roberts halls at all hours of the night are indications that some are engaging in energetic practices of which they tell no tales.

Last Friday night several fair damsels at Woman's Hall were busily engaged in alternately looking from the attic window out over the campus, and, seemingly, walking out to enjoy the night air. Their real reasons were re-

FRESHMEN APPEAR ON PROGRAM OF SOCIETY

Debate Won by Stirewalt and Hauser; Craver Gives Talk on Photography.

An all freshman program featured the meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society last Thursday night as the yearlings took over every place on the schedule.

The outstanding number on the program was a debate on the query, Resolved: That Colleges Do Promote a Feeling Toward World Peace. Ed Stirewalt and Porter Hauser, arguing the affirmative side of the question, were given the decision of the judges. George Crowell and Wayne Hornaday comprised the negative team.

George Craver was the only other man on the program who appeared Thursday night. He gave an interesting talk on photography, illustrating his remarks with a demonstration of the parts of his camera, which he exhibited before the society.

The annual Thalean-Akrothinian volley ball game, always an outstanding intra-mural sports event, was set for Thursday night. Haughtaling is playing coach and manager of the Akrothinian team.

Editor this week: Bell

A LICK AND A PROMISE

Last week we expressed a marked disapproval of the unhealthy situation which had arisen as a result of the Student Council's attempt to enforce rules concerning the wearing of freshman caps. This week we feel impelled to cast further stones.

Since Monday of last week a number of things have happened which should have completely cleared up all difficulties of the situation. We are deeply grateful to the president of the College for his sane investigation into the disagreement, for his friendly praise of the freshman class in general, and for his whole-hearted support of student government. He witnessed very definitely what most of us knew—that he has confidence in the students, and that his advice is unselfish and unbiased.

We would commend, too, for his explanation of his previous remarks, the president of the student body. Although he had intended no offense in his diatribe against those failing to wear the caps, he was man enough to explain his action, and to make clear the absence of personal implication from the speech made some days before.

Another student deserves mention for his public acceptance of the explanation given, and particularly for his quick rally to the standard of student government. His motion requesting a further pledge of loyalty to that standard was made in the spirit High Point College needs. The same spirit was evidenced in the response the student body made to his motion. The same spirit was at work in each freshman who took his punishment and returned to wear the badge of his loyalty.

But there is total absence of true loyalty in the attitude of the person who recognizes neither the wishes of the student body, the decisions of the Student Council, nor the administration's approval of those wishes and decisions. He who by his own declaration considers himself superior, not only to the small excutive body known as the Student Council,, but to the entire student body as well, has no place in the College. He can be taught nothing. He who, under a sentence of suspension, returns to the campus and to the classroom in defiance of the Student Council's wishes, insults his class, every member of the student body, and the administration as well. He is completely lawless, and should be outlawed.

THE HI-PO submits that not by open defiance, but only by cooperation for progress, can we continue in student government. It heartily condemns the spirit which has recently showed itself, and follows the action of the student body last Monday in pledging its complete and active support to the cause of student government at High Point College.

DUKE DOES RIGHT BY JOURNALISTS

Since it was but recently that we assisted in making arrangements for a Press Convention ourselves, it is with some knowledge of the work involved that we congratulate Phil Russell and his cohorts at Duke University on the splendid success that they achieved with the meeting last week.

With each convention, the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association becomes an organization increasingly important in college circles of this state. The newspapers, magazines, and annual of any college are inherently among the most influential organizations on the campus, and a meeting which seeks to improve these publications is bound to be of interest to all college students. The state conventions bring together men and women who are intimately in contact with the best thought at colleges large and small, and serves to unite the efforts to achieve ideals that are dear to students in general.

We look forward with anticipation to the next convention at Raleigh in May, and we expect steady growth of the association during the years to come.

One of the most intelligently edited and scholarly written publications in the field of youth is the "Reformatory Pillar", a three column, eight page weekly published by inmates of a boys' reformatory in Minnesota.

It is quiet and conservative, even the humor column is rather reserved. The movie reviews are really critical. Much space is devoted to sports, of course, but just as much to European diplomacy.

Permit us to quote two paragraphs from the editor's personal column and if they don't tie a sudden knot in your throat, your shell is very hard:

"We thought our worries would be over when our parole was granted. Now we find they've just begun. Principal one among them is Old Man Depression, who, though getting older and feebler, is, we are told, still around shaking a threatening cane. However, we think he's just a bogey-man.

"We heard a 'Bang' outside the walls the other day and knew another pheasant must have hit the ground. Ho-Hum."

—o—

We trust you give appropriate thanks.

National style barons, says a news item, have "granted" college girls one special concession which their less educated sisters may not enjoy: they may wear their college colors brightly enameled on their left thumb nails.

—o—

There are two, and just two, reasons why freshmen flunk out of college—says Dr. L. L. Click of the University of Texas.

1. Either freshmen get too scared of their studies.

2. Or they don't get scared enough and go to sleep.

—o—

Along with every other profession, the profession of being a college student is overcrowded, says no less an authority than the New York Times, after a survey of 67 colleges and universities.

The surveyer makes the assertion that only 30 per cent of young college men and women are capable of thinking for themselves, which means that the other 70 per cent are just being "carried along."

—o—

Bright light from the columnist in the paper at the University of Illinois:

"Sing Sing ought to get a game with army to prove that the pen is mightier than the sword."

—o—

An enterprising professor at Northwestern University put a list of questions with suggested answers before a large group of high school and delinquent boys. To the question, "Which is the most serious offense?" most of the boys answered, "Stealing your mother's wrist watch to pawn it."

—o—

For the workingest college student in the world we nominate a certain junior at Miami University. This man is carrying 20 study hours a week and auditing one course. To support himself he works 50 hours a month on the NYA, is an assistant in the physics department, grades papers for the mathematics department and works from seven to midnight every day in the office of a taxi company!

—o—

After an egg-laying contest in the city the paper at Michigan State carried the following headline:

EGGSELLENT EGGSPOSITION
EGGSEEDS EGGSPECTATIONS
Eggstraordinary Hens Eggstend Themselves—

(The editor's excuse, we presume, was that the writer's brains were scrambled.)

Yale undergraduates can now own and operate cars—providing they get written consent from family and dean.

Indication of returning stable business conditions is seen in the increasing amount of gifts to colleges and universities.

The Vogue

The more we hear about the searching party Friday night the more we wish we hadn't made public our resolution to reform. What a juicy story we could have made of it—called it the Fraternity Snatching, or How Maw Helped Along. We would even feel tempted to quote one big senior man who hinted that the missing ones had gone on a bridge party. We wish we had been on hand to follow the progress of the posse with our flashlights, or even get a picture for our readers.

What the skirt barn needs is the same kind of sleuthing they have in the dining room. The snooper, a la Shamrock Jolnes, deduced from three empty cups and a number of pitchers that three persons had drunk all the milk missing from the kitchen. The same sleuth might figure out how many pineapple sandwiches Mitch actually ate last week.

We nominate for the world's most practical man the fellow who put a solitaire on the left hand of his girl friend as soon as she successfully negotiated the perils of six weeks in the home economics practice house. No sodium bicarbonate for him!

We nominate for the world's most truthful man our crstwhile fellow-student Tommie. Confronted with the bare-faced question "Are you married?" while making application for entrance into the Methodist Protestant conference, he stammered, was embarrassed—and finally admitted that he had taken the fatal step with his golden-haired big moment. What a sensation!

We nominate for the beauty queen to be selected Friday night the Tittering Terror, because of her graceful carriage. She's so light-headed she practically floats through the air. We are considering changing her nickname to the Chattering Chimpanzee, because she's always jumping from he to he.

We heard a new expression the other day—"a flock of beers." What, gentle reader, could be more beautiful than a little flock of pale and foaming beers grazing slowly along a counter, followed by the tiny pretzels, barely able to stand alone? We could write a poem—an idyll! Soch fon!

CLAIMS GHOST TALES NOT ALWAYS FICTION

New York Scientist Unwilling to Deny Existence of Supernatural Beings.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — There may be ghosts.

Perhaps there aren't, maybe it's all superstition, but Dr. Alexis Carrel, the Nobel prize biologist who has kept a chicken's heart beating in a bottle since 1912, says that he at least is unwilling to deny it.

Thought transference, intuition and clairvoyance are ligically provable phenomena, says Dr. Carrel, and maybe, after all, there are ghosts, and maybe little people in the trees in the full of the moon.

"The existence of telepathic phenomena, as well as other metaphysic phenomena, is not accepted by most biologists and physicians. They are hidden in the enormous mass of superstitions, lies and illusions accumulated for centuries by mankind . . . . it is nevertheless a fact that they are a normal, although rare, activity of the human being."

Only persistent laboratory experimentation can tell us, Dr. Carrell believes, whether there are ghosts and "little people in the trees," or not.

"No one can say there aren't. No one can say anything until he can prove it."

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF THINKER'S DEATH

Philosophy Students Commit Suicide to Celebrate Schopenhauer's Death.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. — Existence of a suicide club among students of philosophy at Sarajevo, members of which were sworn to kill themselves each year on the anniversary of the passing of the German thinker Schopenhauer, was revealed here by the death of a student named Paul Seltbauer.

Seltbauer's body was found in a wild gorge some miles from town a few days after his disappearance. He had stripped naked in a nearby cave, burned his philosophic writings, cut the veins of both wrists, thrust a knife into his chest and hurled himself into the gorge.

A note proved he had committed suicide on the exact anniversary of Schopenhauer's death 75 years ago. Police discovered that a small circle of keen philosophy students had sworn to keep silence for the whole day on each anniversary of Schopenhauer's death and to commit suicide in a certain order.

A student named Avdo Srnitch was first on the list. He killed himself last year. Seltbauer was third, but "went out of turn."

YOUTH "CAN TAKE IT," SAY OHIO OFFICIALS

Educators Refute Statement With Proof That Students Brave Rough Storms.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, O. — Modern youth can "take it."

At least that's the verdict of prominent Ohio State officials who were asked to comment on published statements of Dr. William P. Tolley, president of Allegheny College, to the effect that young people "Can't take it because they have never been trained to do it."

The colleges and universities are full of students who are proving their ability to weather tough going, the Ohio State educators said. They cited examples: a boy who works from six to midnight every night in an out-of-town industrial plant; a student with no income whatever, entirely dependent on a board-and-room job (there are lots of these, and they don't all have jobs for both board and room) and student members of police and fire departments.

According to Dr. B. L. Stradley, Ohio State examiner, modern young people aren't going to college merely to be going. "They are coming to learn and to improve themselves," he said.

HIGH POINT'S OUTSTANDING DEPARTMENT STORE

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—In the third year of the New Deal most division chiefs in Washington are found to be of the opinion that the day of the old style government clerk and government official is over, that the college trained man and woman will eventually replace them in all positions of any importance.

The emphasis is not so much on youth as it is on the possession of a broad background to supplement training or information in a particular field. And it is felt by bureau heads that such a background is most frequently found among college trained applicants for government jobs.

One reason for this may be that in Washington today bureaus often change overnight, take on new names and new functions in order to meet special emergencies. Entirely new staffs to do the new work are not available. What government officials usually think is preferable is to have people on their staffs whose equipment is equal to making lightning changes from one type of work to another, as their sections take on new duties.

Another reason is that the wider the field of knowledge of an employee, the more likely he will be to get inspiration for the solution of different problems and tough assignments. It may sound a bit far fetched but there have been some hard nuts cracked, some seemingly hopeless tangles unraveled because someone remembered something Plato wrote or Johnson said that strangely enough contained in it the kernel of an idea from which the solution of an official problem or a departmental delemma was evolved. And bits of college-taught psychology, sociology, and economics have raised their welcome heads in strange corners in many bureaus and saved the day time and time again.

For these and other reasons government chiefs, especially in the new bureaus, are showing an increasing preference for college people. However, they want college graduates with both feet on the ground. They're strong for burning enthusiasm and glowing idealism but not beyond the point where it becomes entirely divorced from realities and probabilities. There are mountains, they point out to new young college people they hire, that cannot be moved in a day, nor by the most direct method.

The WPA, the NRA, the AAA, the new Social Security Board and the National Labor Relations Board being formed, can be counted on to show a strong predilection for college people, whenever adding personnel. In the old line departments the Children's Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior are outstanding for the emphasis placed on college training in considering applicants for jobs.

Of course, whenever out and out technicians and professional people are required, such as physicists and chemists for the Bureau of Standards, engineers for the PWA, etc., college trained have almost complete preference, even when it is possible to pick up the required training in industry.

One type of college person that comes to grief here however is the young man or woman who projects classroom data into the office too obviously. Division officials prefer academic theory checked against day by day observation. They do not, by the way have any objection to anyone making an academic theory out of experience gained through government work. It happens constantly. It is not an exaggeration to say that a whole series of new postulates about prices could be worked out as a result of the data accumulated by young people associated with AAA price maneuvering. And the contributions to sociological research of FERA field people, all of them college trained, is comparable to the best research being done in that field by academic bodies.

There may be a shift in the trend, a shift away from the growing emphasis toward employing college graduates. If there is the result will be a slowing down of governmental machinery. It will become fumbling and certainly will be less capable of meeting emergencies or creating precedents. But bureau heads scarcely think this will happen. On the contrary, they think the time is rapidly approaching when we shall do as the English do, specifically train college people interested in doing government work for government service as a career.

Purple Kittens To Play Five Straight Games Against Cleveland High Schools

Frosh Cagers Opened Season Last Night in Contest With Belwood High; Meet Polkville Tonight.

After nearly three weeks of practice, the Purple Kitten basketball squad left yesterday afternoon on a trip to the western part of the state where they will play five high school teams on five successive nights.

The frosh opened their season last night with an encounter against the Belwood high cagers at Belwood, and will travel over to Polkville today for the second engagement with Polkville. Thursday night they play Lattimore, and Piedmont on Friday. The final game of the trip will be staged at Fallston Saturday when Yow's squad meets the Fallston High team, coached by Harvey Warlick, a former High Point student.

This will be the third year that High Point teams have played exhibition games with high schools in Cleveland county. In the past two years, large crowds have attended all the games. So far the Kittens have not lost any games to the high school squads, but many of the contests have been hard fought. They will probably find the going tough this year, with five straight games against tough teams on the schedule.

Two of the players making the trip will get a chance to play against their alma mater. Peeler, diminutive forward, formerly a student at Belwood, will probably be in the line-up against that team. "Red" Towery, a former Lattimore star, will no doubt take the floor against his former teammates tomorrow night.

The players making the trip along with Coach Yow, and Diamont, assistant coach, are: Towery and Setzer, centers; Jarrett and Peeler, forwards; Trogden, Welborn, and Hester, guards.

SPORTSCRIPTS

By Alton Hartman

Chapel Hill, Nov. 9—After taking the air way from Durham to Chapel Hill Saturday morning, the two HI-PO representatives were expecting to witness a football game, but the contest turned out to be little more than a scrimmage contest, or a track meet with Don Jackson, Hutchins, Little and other Tar Heels doing the sprinting while the V. M. I. Cadets served only as the hurdles.

—o—

It was just another chance for a display of the Carolina strength, and a step nearer to the completion of an undefeated season with its possible reward of a Rose Bowl bid. The Virginians put up a game fight, but were outclassed as the Tar Heels tarred them (without the feathers) by the score of 56-0. Even then, Snavely played the second, third, and fourth string teams a large part of the time.

—o—

A very small crowd, estimated around eight thousand, attended the game. Most of the football fans, anticipating the set-up, were probably saving for the important clash with Duke next Saturday. Still the crowd was a colorful one, with all the collegiate yells. The student body has plenty of enthusiasm and confidence in their team. While spending the night on the campus (thanks to the hospitality of a former High Point student and a hometown sophomore who seems to be able to secure tickets on the fifty yard line with ease) numerous discussions were heard concerning expenses of a western trip.

—o—

Personally we would like to see the Tar Heels receive the bid. If they complete the season without losing a contest, they should have a good chance to represent the East in the annual classic. Notre Dame has lost now, and certain rules will prevent some other strong teams from accepting if invited. Duke appears the only barrier to a successful season for Coach Snavely's eleven as the Thanksgiving tilt with Virginia, who was tied by V. M. I., should be pushover.

—o—

Back on the High Point campus we find that the freshmen cagers are making plans for their invasion of High schools in Cleveland county. They will probably run into some tough opposition in the five games, and will get a chance to show what they have. And a word of warning to Coach Yow and the players: Watch the waistline while away from the college dining hall. Those Cleveland meals are all feasts . . . . maybe it's a trap for the gullible collegians.

—o—

The batting average is picking up—another perfect week of prognostications. This time we are picking Carolina to win over the Duke Blue Devils in the only Big Five contest in the state. But the Devils will be out to trip the Tar Heels, and anything might happen in the game. Da-North State eleven to triumph over V. M. I. when at Lexington Saturday.

N. C. State will make a successful invasion of Richmond; Wake Forest will get "hot" down in Florida to win over Miami University by a narrow margin.

CO-EDS' DREAM

Madison, Wis. — Specifications for yet another in the endless list of model college youths have been drawn up by University of Wisconsin co-eds, and here they are:

The No. 1 gentleman friend smokes a pipe, uses no conscious line, dances well, drinks only in moderation, doesn't try to get a date at the last minute, and restrains his rampant emotions.

Most growned on were two rare species: the collegiate type and the cigar-smoker.

League Standings Are Unchanged In Fourth Round

Kernersville Still On Top in Circuit With Panther Eleven a Close Second.

Kernersville, nemesis of the Purple Panther soccer eleven, again pulled out a win in their fourth Central Carolina League when they battled with Catawba College to maintain an impressive lead over their five colleagues, having no losses for the current season.

The High Point College shin-busters, by virtue of their impressive defeat of the strong High Point Y team, still maintain a strong second runner up position of second in the league standing, having won three out of four Central Carolina games, and with a return match yet to be played with the leading Kernersville team the final leadership is still on ice.

The third contest of the week-end found the two celler place holders fighting for fifth position when the Kannapolis Y team met the Winston-Salem crowd in a hard and interesting game with the Kannapolis outfit finally taking the large end of the score to clinch the next to the last place.

The fans may look for another shake-up in the league standings Saturday when Kannapolis meets Catawba; also when High Point College meets Winston-Salem; and when Kernersville meets the High Point Y.

The league standings:

	W	T	L	Pct.
Kernersville	4	0	0	.800
H. P. College	3	0	1	.600
High Point Y	2	1	1	.500
Catawba	2	0	1	.400
Kannapolis	1	1	2	.300
Winston-Salem	0	0	0	.000

Loulsville Editors Propose That University Buy Good Football Team.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Louisville, Ky. — Honest, straightforward—and astounding—is the solution of athletic worries proposed by The Cardinal of the University of Louisville: "Why Don't We Buy a Good Football Team?"

Instead of joining in the charges of professionalism broadcast this year as every year by college editors, instead of adding their moans to the cries of defeat that surround every losing team, the editors of The Cardinal offer what is to them the only answer: "Why Don't We Buy a Good Football Team?"

"It is apparent to all followers of the game that college football is perhaps the leading commercial investment of institutions of higher learning," says The Cardinal. "There are fewer and fewer schools which, like the University (of Louisville) cherish the fond illusion that gridiron stars dash forth on the field after gruelling hours of practice to do or die for love of dear old Alma Mater, with the dollars that trickel into the University's coffers only an incidental consideration. Football where it is played hardest and best is frankly a business proposition.

Panthers Seeking Revenge In Contest With Duke Squad Here This Afternoon

Play Davidson Wildcats Friday Afternoon at Davidson; Winston-Salem Foe in League Tilt Saturday.

The Purple Panther soccer eleven will be seeking revenge for the defeat handed them earlier this year by the Duke Blue Devils, when the two teams collide in their second encounter on the local high school field this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In the first contest at Durham, the Blue Devils stopped the Pointers, 3-2, in a close and hard fought game. Today's game will be the fourth meeting of the rival squads. In the two games played last year, one went to the Panthers and the other resulted in a 2-2 deadlock.

The local squad is reported in good shape for the contest, and will probably be at their best in the contest against Coach Gerrad's eleven.

The High Point Purple Panthers have shown power, courage, and fight in the inter-collegiate and league battles so far this year despite their first defeats in five years and fans should look forward with expectancy to the fourth inter-collegiate game of the season which takes place at Davidson College on Friday afternoon against a potential Wildcat eleven, as well as to the fifth Central Carolina game Saturday against Winston-Salem on the High Point High School soccer grounds.

Inspired by the energetic offensive and defensive work of Broadus Culler, powerful center, the Panther shin-busters regained their old fighting spirit and skillful playing to down the heretofore unbeaten High Point Y team by a close yet decisive score of 3 to 1. The playing of Saturday and the playing Tuesday against Duke shows that the High Point College boys still have that power that built for them a five year unbeaten record and the coming contests should furnish the spectators thrills and excitement aplenty.

The Davidson eleven, although having never been scheduled against the Pointer squad before, is said to have one of the most powerful teams of the state and the local eleven has been training hard accordingly in the hope that they will be able to furnish the Davidsonians a welcome which they will never forget.

The Davidson game, Friday, will also serve as a practice tilt or warming up for the Central Carolina Soccer league game which will be contested here against a hard-playing Winston-Salem team Saturday. Winston, though having no magnificent percentage, will, nevertheless, furnish the locals some competition which is not to be trifled with and very likely the fans will find the game of Saturday worthy of their notice also, making a sort of double treat for this week-end.

Shin-Busters Take Circuit Contest From Local Triangles By 3-1 Count

The Panther eleven again clicked with machine-like precision last Saturday as they marched to a 3-1 triumph over the local Y. M. C. A. soccerites in the first battle of the year between the two Furniture City clubs on the high school field.

The contest was the fourth of the ten scheduled games in the Central Carolina league, and gave the fans a good exhibition in the shin-busting game. By virtue of their victory, the collegians tightened their hold on second place, close behind the league leading Kernersville team. The Y holds third place with two wins, one tie and a loss in four games.

After kicking off at the start of the game, the collegians scored in the early part of the quarter. Culler, playing at center, kicked a fast one through for the initial tally, and was followed by Koontz, junior lineman, a few minutes later with the second Panther goal. The Triangles tightened on their defense in the second quarter and held the Pointers scoreless, with the half ending 2-0.

The Y made good a penalty kick in the third quarter for their lone tally. Culler came through in the last period with a slow kick to run the score up to 3-1.

Sherrill, Harris, and Elder played a good game on defense for the Panthers, while Culler and Koontz were outstanding on offense.

The second game of the series between the two rivals will be played on December 14, and the Triangles will probably be out for revenge on that date for the initial defeat.

The line-up:

H. P. College	Pos.	High Point Y
Niernsee	G	R. Clark
Isley	RF	Singerfield
Elder	LF	Hix
Sherrill	CH	Ridge
Harris	LH	Reilly
Grigg	RH	Rothrock

R-r-ring go the alarms and hands reach gropingly to turn them off. Suddenly someone jumps reluctantly out of bed to to see what the weather is like. . . . Occupants of cold rooms rush about on chilly, squeaky floors and pull down windows with a bang, slam doors, yell to and fro from one rom to another. . . . Several times a week, in the middle of the night (five a. m.) it occurs, in order that some girl may get a point a mile for hiking.

Gro-o-ans and laments arise from the beds of the non-participants who are trying to sleep—and to no avail. . . . The poor dear faculty members mutter genteel curses and try to be patient through it all. And still we must all admire the spirit of these hikers, and envy their peppy smiles as they come swinging in just in time for breakfast.

Last week all the girls seemed to be hiking continually—to get twenty-five points before the week-end. Some succeeded, and some didn't. You see, a woman must have those points before she can become a member of the Woman's Athletic Association (briefly, and affectionately, W. A. A.) W. A. A. is a really outstanding woman's organization on the campus. It takes work to get into it, and work to stay there, but the members say it's worth it. Few girls care to leave the College without being able to say that they belonged.

W. A. A. may be the campus infant, since it only began last year. But it is a lusty infant, and it gets things done Old students will remember that its members staged some really vigorous intra-mural tournaments last year, that it wound up that year with a banquet that had the distinction of having as its only male guests the members of the general athletic Association, and the president of the College. And the director of the physical education for women supplied the cup for intra-mural sports.

Come on, girls, get to work and start collecting points for eligibility for the first of next semester. Remember, you get credit for all you do. Come out for volley-ball, join in the hiking, get a letter, and get a lift with the W. A. A.! Every woman is urged to come out for woman's sports at High Point College!

Carolina Eleven Continues March

Slowly, but surely, old man Destiny is tightening his hold unmercifully on the exclusive clubs of unbeaten football teams, coldly cutting the membership down, excluding at least one member each week-end. Notre Dame, a favorite member last Saturday with a Rose Bowl invitation just out of reach, failed to make that final decisive grasp only to see the outstretched bid tantalizingly drawn away, leaving the University of North Carolina and nine other powerful elevens as members of the fraternity.

For the first time in 34 years Notre Dame's fighting Irish team, while standing near the top in football circles, went down to defeat at the hands of the supposedly weak Northwestern team while battling before a crowd of 35,000 spectators in South Bend, Ind., 14 to 7. This defeat came as the most surprising upset of the season, even in this year of numberless upsets, as Northwestern had shown very little potentiality this season, having won only one Big Ten conference tilt, while the South Bend team had shown talent and power while taking care of their current schedule with no defeats.

The Carolina Tar Heels gloriously continued their victory march toward national fame by sadly humiliating the quizzical V. M. I. team with a heavy one-sided score, 56-0. The Virginia eleven proved to be very little competition for the undefeated and untied North Carolina team and served only as a whetstone to the hungry appetite of the football fan to witness the Duke-Carolina game which takes place Saturday.

State, only a week after bowing to the Tar Heel eleven, found time to redeem itself slightly by triumphing over V. P. I. in a closely contested game, 6 to 0.

The Duke Blue Devils, despite their two big defeats, proclaimed themselves still strong opponents with a bag filled with possible upsets in the conference and Southern competition when they loosened a speedy and deceptive attack on the Davidson Wildcat team to defeat them 26 to 7.

In the far west we find that California retained its membership in the undefeated club; Princeton, Dartmouth, New York U., and Syracuse in the east kept the western team company; while Minnesota and Marquette in the mid west and North Carolina in the south remained brothers.

The Pitt Panthers completely routed the West Point Cadets by their hot barrage of kicking, passing and running to defeat them 29 to 6. Ohio State won over Chicago U. while Alabama crushed Clemson in a home coming game, 33-0.

In the smaller conference of North Carolina we find the all-powerful Elon team continuing its title march by trouncing the Lenoir Rhyne Bears.

"STIFFS" ARE "HICKS" AT MEDICAL COLLEGE

West Virginia Janitor With Flair for Latin Renames Lab Cadavers.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Morganton, W. Va. — Medical students at the University of West Virginia refer to their cadavers as "hicks" not, as is the almost universal custom, as "stiffs," and therein lies a tale.

It seems that in the old days the cadavers were entrusted upon arrival to the one and only university janitor, a campus character who spent much of his time loitering in the class rooms. One day he heard a professor of Latin, who was discussing the Aeneid, use the phrase "Hic jacet" (here he lies.)

Thereafter, upon the arrival of each new cadaver, the janitor would discourse as follows: "Hick jacket, this man has come to an untimely death. The vox populi cuticorpal cutaneous pressed down on his advelorum and caused his quietus."

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE JOINS IN STUDENT PEACE MOVEMENT

challenged the students, as the future administrators of the government, to pledge themselves to disarmament as a vital step in establishing world peace.

Dorothy Bell, of the junior class, and representative of the Nikanthan Literary Society, introduced her discussion of the "Insanity of War" by Wordsworth's "Of old, unhappy, far-off things, and battles long ago," and stressed that although there had always been war "Will man ever speak of battles as old, unhappy, far-off things, will he be able to look into the future and see no more battles, will he analyze his own mind, and uproot from it the insanity of war?" She pointed out the foolishness of war, that men today are reaping the crops sown in the last war. She read in conclusion Edna Millay's poem "Conscientious Objector," using it as a creed for the pacifist.

Hoyt Wood, a senior and a Thalean, concluded the discussions by his "stand of Youth." "You see the insanity of war, and youth can exact more influence than any great advocates the world has ever known if they will unite for peace," he remarked, "Are you as young people willing to go out of college and fail to realize that you have a right to plan a future?" He stressed that youth must build up public opinion that will prohibit war, and then he read the prayer of Mark Twain, showing that the American youth are in sympathy with it. They desire peace; so they must stand up for it.

In connection with the celebration of peace, Miss Vera Idol, head of the English Department, read Winifred Lett's poem "Spires of Oxford," after having explained the conditions under which it was written.

A few minutes of the time preceding the student program, was given to the local U. D. C. chapter for the presentation of a cross of service to W. W. Burgess, local World War veteran.

administering of the oath, the women retired to the upper clubroom, where they witnessed a brief program by a number of Coach Yow's tumblers. Proceeding from those to less simple exercises, they finally went into difficult flips, rotating hand-stands, and other far from simple feats. The men praticipating were Wilson Rogers, '37; Sulon Ferree, '36; "Geper" Watkins, '38; William Barnhouse, '37; Occo Gibbs, '38; Samuel Meyers, '37; and Elijah Diamont, '36.

There have been no outward signs of initiation in the women's social clubs, but it will probably be in the next few weeks that the pledges will "get it in the neck." The social club pledges this semester, according to Pan-Hellenic ruling, come from the ranks of old students.

prided themselves on the modesty of their members. Owen Lindley upheld this tradition by refusing to give in his discussion of "Dating Technique Used on This Campus" one single incident from his own experiences with the fair co-eds.

Tennyson's often quoted statement, "It is better to have loved and lost," was used as the general theme of Dwight Morgan's talk. He showed the contrasts between those who have loved and lost and those who have never loved. The main advantage, he stated, of love is that love tends to bring out the best in a person and helps to add the better qualities to his own life and the lives of those about him.

"Campusology," by Gene Holmes, was a verbal "Vogue." First one and then another member of the society blushed painfully as his own follies and fancies were made public for the first time. Then came the climax of his part of the program—a collection of cigar-store ads arranged into a romance concerning the lives of Bull Durham and the enchantress Fatima. Holmes showed a real aptitude for speaking in public.

To Gilmer Wagoner was given the unfair proposition of contrasting high school and college life—unfair in that he has not yet learned all there is to know about college. Realizing his limitations, he spoke from his experience up to this point, his main point being that "College life is far above the level of high school, particularly in that the professor only assigns the work, and depends on the student to get it himself."

THIRD ANNUAL HOMECOMING SATURDAY

Miss Hoffman Chosen Beauty Queen As Junior Class Puts On 'Broadcast' Friday Night

Freshman Co-Ed Is Selected Over Eight Other Contestants for Title.

"STATION H. P. C."

Harmones and Holmes' Orchestra Appear on "Radio Program."

Elizabeth Hoffman, of High Point, a freshman and the representative of the Nikanthan Literary Society, was made "Miss High Point College" Friday night as a full auditorium listened in on the junior class broadcast from station H. P. C. and actually witnessed a Beauty Parade sponsored by the Greek letter social clubs and the literary societies on the campus. Miss Hoffman is a brunette and was becomingly attired in orchid taffeta.

Station H. P. C. went on the air at 8:30 and the big broadcast of the evening was started with the Four Harmones and Little Caesar and his guitar, negro singers. These radio artists are a team patterned after the four Mills brothers and are from Greensboro where they are noted for personal and radio performances. In their first group of songs they sang "Nagasaki," "How'm I Doin'" and "Rhythm Is Our Business."

The second feature on the program was Francis Holmes and his well-known negro orchestra, who delighted the audience with many dance hits, familiar tunes, and medleys.

The entire program was a merry-go-round of rhythm, blues, tapdancing, and orchestra music, alternately by the Holmes outfit and the Harmones.

The main event of the evening was the beauty contest from which "Miss High Point College" was chosen. To the soft music of "Solitude," played by the orchestra the nine lovely representatives walked across the stage. The contestants were Miss Hoffman, of the Nikanthans; Dorothy Jones, Akrothinian society; Myrtle Matthews, representing the Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity; Julia Coe, representing the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity; Gladys Maxwell, of the Sigma Alpha Phi sorority; Dorothy Perry, of the Theta Phi sorority; Hazel Welborn, representing the Thalean society; Mary Tice, of the Alpha Theta Psi sorority; and Catherine Brown, representing the Artemesian literary society. The latter three were in the finals after the judges had eliminated five. The judges were Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, Thomas E. Dodameade, and Roy A. Arnette.

One of the tremendous hits of Holmes' orchestra was "Dinah" as Frederick Holt moved his feet to the rhythm of that number. Other headliners of the orchestra were "Lulu's Back in Town," "Sweet Sue," "Star Dust," and "Dark Town Strutters Ball." Among the requested tunes were "Three Little Words," by James Massey for Inza Hill; "Fare Thee Well Annabelle," by Elbert Lane for Nell; "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," by Lee Sherrill for Julia Coe; "Bugle Call Rag" dedicated to the beauty contestants; and "Mamma Don't Allow No Swinging," dedicated to the junior class.

The Harmones returned to the mike with "Accent on Youth," "Shine," "What's the Reason," and "I'm In the Mood for Love." They concluded their program with "Miss Otis."

In its last group, the orchestra played "Stormy Weather," "I'm Living In a Great Big Way," "I Got Rhythm," and "St. Louis Blues."

The junior "Broadcast" was planned by a class committee headed by Vice President Charles Ridge as a class project to raise money to pay toward completion of the gymnasium and to provide funds for the annual banquet in honor of the seniors next spring.

College Annual Makes Progress

Junior, Senior Statistics Are Compiled; Snider Presents Budget to Students.

The staff of THE ZENITH is completing the statistics on junior and seniors for the 1936 edition of the College yearbook. Edgar Snider, editor, appeared before the student body Monday morning and presented the budget for the current annual. He stated that the book will be issued without further cost to students, although a large portion of the budget must be raised by advertising and sale of annuals to outsiders. The statistics blanks were also distributed to upperclassmen at this meeting.

A large number of both individual and group pictures have been forwarded to the engravers, and proofs will probably be received by the staff within a short time. According to Snider's announcement, only one individual picture remains yet to be made, and about ten group pictures which necessarily must be made later in the year.

The yearbook staff is promising an annual this year which will be original in layout and cover design, while losing none of the essential features of a good yearbook. The book will be unusual, but not radical. The staff expects to circulate the 1936 ZENITH around May 1, as was the case last year.

Magazine Basis For Nikanthans

Co-Ed Society Takes Program From Current Issue of Scribner's Magazine.

The program for the Nikanthan Literary Society last Thursday evening was taken from the November issue of Scribner's magazine.

After the necessary business was transacted Helen Bates opened the program by reviewing Scribner's magazine as a whole. Nina Graham Crawford gave some excerpts from the article, "Across the Busy Years—When the War Came." Virginia Curry based her talk on Charles G. Muller's article, "Are Today's Children Different?"

The "Nikes," a newly organized toy orchestra, directed by Agnes Louise Wilcox and composed of Misses Elizabeth Hoffman, Polly Parker, Iris Welch, Lena Hunter, and Vesta Troxler, played "Walking in a Winter Wonderland" and "Night Riders."

Elizabeth Cullum told an interesting true story written by a young girl, telling of her struggles in New York, to try to gain musical fame.

The Nikanthans were joined by the Thaleans to listen to the broadcast of the "Four Harmones and Little Caesar" over WBIG and the program was discontinued.

BARNHOUSE IS NAMED ADVERTISING MANAGER

W. C. Barnhouse, a junior, of Belle Valley, Ohio, has been appointed advertising manager of THE HI-PO, it has been announced by Allen Austin, business manager.

Barnhouse worked in the circulation department of the newspaper during his first two years at the college, and he has been acting as local advertising manager for most of this year. He is a member of the Student Ministerial Association, and of the Akrothinian Literary society.

John Apple, '39, of Reidsville, has been appointed to the circulation department as an assistant to Samuel Myers, head of that division. Apple is an Akrothinian.

Society Discusses "Broadmindedness" at Regular Meeting; Four Talk.

The Thaleans discussed "Broadmindedness" in their regular meeting last Thursday night.

The program opened with Austin giving the "Meaning of the Topic." He stated that there are two undesirable types of minds as there are two undesirable types of streams. The stream that cuts the deepest and carries away the soil of the farm is the narrow stream, while the stream that spreads itself out over the whole farm is not worth anything for water power. His ideal as expressed in this figure is to be neither the deep soil removing type nor the wide, shallow, useless type, but be the one that is broad enough not to remove the soil and yet that is narrow enough to be of some use. Too much broadmindedness is just as bad as too much narrow-mindedness. For the one that is spread over so much territory has no depth. that , bnom is the time for all "Narrow-mindedness in Social Contacts" by Gurlington expounded the theory of the race as a whole and not either of the two sexes.

"Choice Motion Pictures I have Seen" by Williams was interesting until he tried to cram too many pictures into the time alloted. His choice of pictures were of the musical-comedy and the murder-mystery types. However he placed Cleopatra in the group of his choice pictures.

Guilford Man In Speech On Bible Story

Religious Education Department Head Tells of First Printed Bibles.

SPEAKS ON TYNDALE

Speaker Gives Bible History From Tyndale to King James Version.

Dr. Samuel L. Haworth, head of Guilford College's department of religious education, was the speaker Friday morning in a special chapel program celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the printing of the English Bible.

Dr. Haworth began his discourse with a brief history of the life of William Tyndale, a young Englishman who, after studying at both Oxford and Cambridge, took holy orders. "Tyndale," said the speaker, "was young, intellectual, and a radical. His radical tendencies involved him in disputes with the older men in the church. He is quoted as saying to one of these older men, concerning the need of a Bible in the vernacular: 'I am determined that the boy that follows the plow shall know more of the scriptures than you know!' With this purpose in mind, he moved to London. But he found London in a fog of superstition. Finally, in desperation, he moved to the Continent, determined to carry on his work from there."

On the Continent Tyndale began the actual work of translating the New Testament. He had certain advantages over Wyclif, who had earlier attempted such a work, for Tyndale had access to the Greek Testament, rather than the Latin Vulgate alone. "For," said Dr. Haworth, "it has been said that the Church arose from her medieval sleep with the New Testament in its hand." He continued with the story of the ecclesiastical objection to a Bible in the vernacular, of Tyndale's smuggling of his work into England and the hands of the common people, of his being branded as a heretic and finally strangled and burned.

The speaker followed up the Tyndale story with a brief de-

Two Marriages Are Announced

Miss Chandler Becomes the Bride of Larry Yount; Strickland - Voncannon Rites Revealed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Chandler, of High Point, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Holman, to Mr. Larry Yount, of Reidsville, N. C., on Sunday, November 10, 1935, at Martinsville, Virginia. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles M. Wales.

They were accompanied to Martinsville by Miss Edith Crowder of High Point and D. Kermit Cloniger of Lincolnton, N. C.

The bride, a striking brunette, was attired in a handsome tailored dress of rust with which she wore brown accessories. She is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chandler, 708 Hillcrest Drive, Emerywood, and graduated with the class of 1934 at High Point high school, after which she attended Greensboro College where she was a member of the Emerson Literary Society.

Mrs. Yount has always resided in High Point where she is well known and a popular member of the younger social set.

Mr. Yount is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C Yount of Reidsville. After attending the University of North Carolina for one year he entered High Point College where he graduated with the class of 1935. He was president of his class for both junior and senior years, also president of the Delta

Annual Homecoming Day Has Proved Popular With Alumni and Students

Yearly Event Started Two Years Ago Has Drawn Majority of Graduates Back for Reunion; Buffett Luncheon, Banquet, and Dance Have Become Standard Features.

In the two years of its existance, the annual Homecoming Day has become one of the most popular events on the College calendar with both alumni and students. A large majority of the graduates have attended this event for the past two years.

The first Alumni Day in the history of High Point College was held on November 25, 1933 under the direction of a committee of graduates headed by Charles Robbins, present alumni president. The other members of the committee were Miss Rosalie Andrews, Edwin Hedrick, the late Riley Martin, Mrs. Martin, Anne Robbins, Coach C. Virgil Yow, and Professor J. Hobart Allred of the department of modern languages. Robert E. Williams, '34, then president of the senior class, was student representative on the committee, and acted as general liason officer between the graduates and those still in school.

The Rev. T. J. Whitehead, '30, presided at the morning program of the first Homecoming Day. After a welcome by Dr. Humphreys, the Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, '28, delivered the main address of the morning, using as his topic, "Learn to Laugh." Coach C. Virgil Yow, who, that same fall, had led an extensive sports publicity campaign for the College, spoke to his fellow graduates on the rapidly expanding Physical Education program then in its beginning.

A show of the classes was made, and each of the seven groups who had graduated was found to be represented. The buffet luncheon in the College dining hall at noon, a feature which has been accepted as a standard feature of Homecoming, was inaugurated at the first Alumni Day. During the afternoon and evening, exhibitions were given by two co-ed soccer teams and the College tumbling squad.

In the afternoon, an array of former Panther football stars battled an improvised undergraduate team to a scoreless tie on the high school field. Since football is no longer on the College sports program, this feature of Homecoming has been abandoned because of the possibility of injuries to untrained players.

Following a barbecue supper in the dining hall, the first of the alumni-sponsored dances was held at the High Point Country club.

Last year the second annual Homecoming was held on November 24 with an attendance surpassing that of the previous year. Again the program for the day was arranged by a committee headed by Charles Robbins.

The Rev. J. Clay Madison, '30, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church in High Point, delivered the main address of the Orchestra, Band Have Rehearsals

Two New Musical Organizations Are Organized and Begin Practice Here.

Rehearsals are now underway for both an orchestra and a band at High Point College. The school has been without either of these musical organizations for the past several years, and it is expected that they will add much to the campus life.

Band practice began last week with Joseph Payne, a junior, in charge, and this group is expected to be in shape for public appearances during the basketball season. Dean P. E. Lindley issued a call for volunteers for the band at the request of several several students who are interested in the matter. Those answering the call, and their instruments are as follows:

Cornets: Cooper, Lindley, Bolin, Ferree; Trombones: Austin, Payne, Johnson; Baritone: Mattocks; Alto: Stirewalt; Drum: Cox; Basses: M. Rogers; Saxaphone: W. Rogers; Clarinet: Taplin; Flute: Welch. Unplaced: Pittard and Gibbs.

The first rehearsal for the College orchestra was held Monday night under the direction of Miss Margaret Sloan, head of the music department. A number of students with some experience in high school and college orchestras appeared for the initial practice. For the past two years, the choir has carried the sole burden of supplying music for the students at the College, but this year an influx of new talent and a revival of interest in instrumental music seem to indicate that musical organizations are looking up.

Debaters Will Speak Tonight

Tryouts For Varsity Squad To Be Held Tonight; One Veteran to Speak.

Tryouts for the varsity debating squad will be held tonight at 7 o'clock, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, forensic coach and head of the speech department.

Only one man from last year's state champion team will try out for the squad this year, THE HI-PO has learned. One other man, A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student government, is in school, but he has been forced to give up his debating activities because of the pressure of his other duties. Hoyt Wood, the only man available will speak tonight, along with several upperclassmen who have had society debating experience and a number of promising freshmen.

The other two members of the 1934-35 debating team, Wilbur Hutchins and Aubert Smith, received their diplomas in June and are now rooming together in Durham while studying at Duke.

The query for debate is the Phi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: That Congress Should Have Power to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional.

Requests for debates have already come in from North Carolina State College and from Winthrop College in South Carolina. Mr. Owens expects to arrange a long itinerary for the team later in the season. The debaters last year under Mr. Erickson returned from a jaunt through the midwest to win the state championship at the tournament in Hickory. Interest in debating and oratory has been greatly increased since speech courses were added to the curriculum of the College last year.

Alumni Committee Completes Plans for Full Day of Activity Here.

DANCE AT SHERATON

Annual Banquet To Be Held in College Dining Hall as High Spot of Day.

The third annual Homecoming Day for alumni and former students of High Point College will be held on Saturday, November 23. All major plans for the occasion had been completed by Monday night with only a few minor details to be worked out, according to Charles Robbins, Jr., president of the Alumni Association and chairman of the arrangement committee.

During the past few weeks a committee of alumni residing in High Point has contacted almost every graduate of the College in an effort to secure a record attendance for this Homecoming. Many positive replies indicating attendance have been received from the questionnaires sent out several weeks ago. The response for a request for support of the alumni athletic loan fund and a subscription to THE HI-PO has also been favorable. Contact with several alumni residing in this vicinity has been made by telephone this week.

Miss Lucille Brown, of High Point, has arranged the program for the morning session. She has secured two former students, Dr. Glenn Perry and Miss Doris Keener, to make five minute speeches to replace the customary long address. A favorable reply is expected from a third, Rev. Luther Medlin, who has also been invited to speak. William Hunter, 30, of Greensboro has been selected to introduce the speakers instead of J. Clay Madison, who will be unable to be present because of illness. Miss Dorothy Hoskins, one of the composers of the College Alma Mater, will sing a solo during the morning program.

The Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, of Greensboro, will conduct the devotionals at the beginning of the session. A welcome in behalf of the College will be extended by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, and another for the students by A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student government.

Following an introduction of the classes represented at the Homecoming, a business meeting of all former students will be held in the auditorium. A luncheon honoring the alumni will be given by the College at 12:30 o'clock.

The high spot of the afternoon program will be a Central Carolina Soccer league contest between the varsity squad and the Kannapolis Y team, which is coached by Chester Smith, a graduate with the class of 1931.

A novelty number on the athletic program will be a competitive horse shoe pitching contest among both graduates and students. Coach C. Virgil Yow has also arranged a tumbling exhibition by the physical education classes and a short basketball game to display the varsity talent. A volley ball game between two co-ed teams will also be played during the afternoon.

Running concurrently with the athletic program wil be a series of open houses for graduate members of each social club on the campus. Several of the Greek clubs have made special preparations for Homecoming, and have issued separate invitations to their former members to be on hand for the Homecoming Day exercise.

The annual alumni banquet will be held in the College dining hall for the first time this year. Following the banquet a dance will be held in the Sheraton hotel ballroom to which both students and alumni have been invited. Co-eds residing in Woman's Hall will be allowed to attend.

HOMECOMING AS AN OPPORTUNITY

Linking students and graduates as does no other occasion, Homecoming Day at the College in a brief period of two years has become an institution of savory traditions. The morning program with its pleasant experience of familiar faces at the speaker's stand, the athletic contests, the luncheon, the banquet, the dance—these are events that are anxiously awaited from year to year by all who are privileged to attend. Homecoming Day truly has entrenched itself into the hearts of the graduates who look backward upon the days when they frequented the halls and the campus in pursuit of learning—and perhaps love.

Reminiscences of past experiences and ex-campus personalities is inherently one of the most pleasant features of any reunion. Were no other form of entertainment offered, the meeting of men and women who can tell of cows in the chapel, of Fords in the foyer, of beds atop the flagpole, and of eccentric faculty members, would draw numbers of former students at any set time. Each social club, each literary society, each publication staff has former members with stories peculiar to these organizations; each class has a stock of yarns of its own particular period in the history of the College.

Union of students and graduates for a common purpose is a more serious aim of Alumni Day. In general, the hopes of the graduates are the hopes of the students with the weight of perspective and independence added. The majority of alumni and undergraduates alike have aspirations of new buildings, enlarged athletic programs, increased enrollments, and a more tolerant social life. Unless Homecoming day does something to further these aims, it is at least abstract in its benefits. But there are alumni who have shown a willingness to work for the College, to cooperate with student organizations, and to boost their alma mater in their respective communities. It is for these that Homecoming will be the greatest triumph. To them it will be more than a reunion; it will be an opportunity to reunite efforts to build a great educational institution at High Point College.

WE ARE SORRY

Even on the most happy occasions there are reasons for regrets; there is almost no time when there is not something, colossal or infinitesimal, for which to be sorry. Sometimes we are sorry for some inadvisable action of our own; again we suffer because of what someone else has failed to do; and at still other times we are not wholly happy because of the clash between our interests and the interests of someone else. So, as Homecoming Day, with its young but lusty traditions, its happy associations, and its helpful relationships, approaches, we can still find it in our minds to say that we are sorry.

We are not regretting the fact that the old grads are to descend in large numbers upon the campus; we are looking forward to having them here. We certainly are not sorry because they are to have their banquet on the campus this year; we think that is the logical place for it. We will probably survive missing a few classes on Saturday for the sake of these predecessors of ours; certainly most of us don't mind that. We are not even sorry that there are to be alumni speeches during the course of the morning; we will no doubt enjoy listening to them.

But we do feel a definite lack in the program of Homecoming Day, a lack that has been apparent in the two preceding ones. Despite our student petitions, despite our unflagging interest in the question, despite the fact that we force the alumni off the campus for part of their "homecoming," the situation remains the same. We can only say that we are sorry—we wish that the Homecoming dance, like the alumni banquet, could be held on the College campus. We wish that we could make our graduates feel freer and more at home.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Give the college editors of America their way and President Roosevelt will be re-elected without turning a wheel.

Or so it appears from a recent magazine study of political attitudes of collegiate scribes.

Four hundred and eight editors were for Roosevelt, 52 for Borah and 26 for the publisher, Frank Knox.

The vote by the same editors for political parties was 386 for the Democrats, 183 for the Republicans, 45 for the Socialists and 10 for the Communist party.

—o—

What! A communist student editor! How does he get away with it?

—o—

Mr. James Wechsler, last year's editor of the Columbia University Spectator, has just published a new book entitled "Revolt on the Campus." In the first pages of the story, Jim tells of the death of the old era in college when pajama parades, midnight duckings and suchlike pranks occupied the minds of colege students primarily.

Then he shows the change to more serious thinking.

Now for the main, Jim is probably correct. But there comes to mind a little tale of a little escapade this summer on the part of two students in a small college in St. Paul, Minn. We cannot tell the name of the school, as you will realize.

—o—

These boys, Bill and John, were "bumming" through the east. Both were talented men, writers of some distinction, but, alas, occasionally addicted to spiritous liquors. They submitted to this vice upon the night of their arrival in Washington, D. C.

Despite their unshaven condition, despite the fact that midnight had come and gone, they decided to call on the president.

It was just as they had made it over the White House wall that the secret service men pounced upon them and shook them so that their teeth chattered and they suddenly became sober.

"What the bad word, bad word, are you two doing here?" they demanded roughly.

Bill and John thought painfully, then one of them found the reason for their presence:

"Uh, we thought we would come and see F. D. putting out the milk bottles."

Bill and John spent three days in solitary confinement on beans and bread, were fingerprinted and photographed and told if they ever came back to the capital, both would get two years in prison. They were only too glad to assure their captors of their permanent love for the Northwest.

In just a minute now I'll be through—

The day they reached home, John discovered he had won a scholarship to Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.!

And what's more, he's there now.

—o—

Perhaps it's the climate.

Anyway, romance seems to have a hard time at Harvard.

A "Harvard Men's Guide" has been published there, listing for the benefit of the students, names of all the "recommended" debs in Boston. Was Harvard interested? Not one book was sold.

Said the Harvardites: "What is the guide? What is a deb? Furthermore, where is Boston?"

STATE OF MIND THALEAN THEME

Perhaps the high light of the program was Dorsett's talk on "To Lead or Be Lead." He stated that there are two types of people, those who are born to be leaders and those who are born to just follow. The leaders are also good followers whereas most of the followers, who do nothing but follow, can never make good leaders. In closing he challenged the members to prepare themselves to be leaders and not just plain followers who can do nothing but follow.

Memories of H. P. C.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN:

Charles Robbins, Pat Thompson, Frank Walters, and Cecil Waltham sang "I Ain't Got a Dime" in the auditorium and didn't know how to end the song?

"Boob" Hauser called from Section A every morning during fall football practice, "Everybody up for football practice! Everybody up for football practice!" and he called loud enough to be heard in Section K?

Duke Nygard slept with his head under the cover and his feet out in freezing weather?

The cow was put up in the tower one night and broke up chapel next morning?

Hart Campbell and his little black mustache slayed the girls of High Point?

The bell in the tower rang out at 2:00 a. m. one morning and it was thirty minutes later before Professor Yarborough found a rope tied to the tree in front of McCulloch Hall from whence it was being yanked?

Ralph Mulligan outran the entire A. C. C. team for a touchdown?

Ruth Woodcock wisecracked at everyone, including Miss Young?

Emma Lee and Henry fell in love?

Allen Hastings would not speak to a girl on the campus?

Nick Sansone changed clothes four or five times a day, as he had twenty suits?

The Panther Pack was the pride of all H. P. C. students?

Ed Hedrick and Clyde Pugh raised two hundred and fifty dollars in town for football awards?

"Lindberg" told Coach Boylin at the Newberry game, "I don't know what they were trying to do, but they didn't do it?" This was just after High Point had held Newberry on the one foot line for four downs, and Boylin had sent the bus driver down to the goal line to see how much the ball lacked being over. He forgot to come back until the ball went over to High Point.

Edwin Hedrick was the best dressed man on the campus?

Dick McMannis was a big newspaper man at High Point and edited a prize-winning HI-PO?

Charles Brooks led the student body in yells and the ease with which he seemed to bring forth all they had in them?

Whitehead was a small fellow around the waistline?

Coy Williard read Spanish so fluently?

Clyde Pugh was the big business magnate on the campus?

T. Olin Mathews poured forth his ideas about women in five different languages?

"Freshman" Holt led his section in a water fight?

Wade Fuquay spent every other week-end on the Guilford College campus?

Ernie Blosser had a girl in the dormitory and one in town, and how he got by with dating both?

Burke Furches threw those bullet-like touchdown passes?

Grace Barnette fell in love?

The Vogue

ABSOLUTELY ANONYMOUS

We always strive to be open-minded and fair, but our sense of fairness was put under a severe strain last week. You may remember that we got nasty at the expense of our old friend, Lois Pressley. Well, when she came across with a courteous, but somewhat slamming letter, we debated whether to publish it or not. Finally our sense of humor won—and we're giving you a laugh on us this week. Here's the letter:

Editor The Vogue,
The HI-PO,
High Point College,
High Point, N. C.
Dear Ed:

In view of the fact that President Roosevelt is planting many trees all over this fair land of ours, I am willing to concede that it might be a good idea to change my nickname from The Tittering Terror to The Chattering Chimpanzee. But I think it hardly fair that I should be the only victim, when there are so many people, not far off, who might also be given names synonymous to those of the monkey family.

Affectionately yours,
The Chattering Chimpanzee
(Formerly Tittering Terror)

We are seriously thinking of adding her to the staff of this column, but if we do, we won't tell you. In fact, the entire editorial staff of THE HI-PO is tired of the old stock query: "Who wrote the Vogue this week?" You may see by the heading of the column that its author or authors will remain strictly anonymous.

The male recipient of the attentions of last week's searching party has expressed his intention to go into a monastery. Knowing him as we do, we repeat that classical command: "Off, get thee to a nunnery, go!"

We hear that Egghead wrote to one of our co-eds this week—a special! And the co-ed, properly thrilled, tore open the envelope with trembling hands only to read these words: Write, ... yuh! (Anyone knowing Egghead can supply the missing word).

The Jenkins gals went sightseeing Sunday, and brought back—of all things—raw turnips. Why, Maw!

Politicians of the Hugh S. Johnson school would have thrilled at the atmosphere around Section A., McCulloch Hall last Sunday—it smelled of dead cats. It seems that the spirit of Hoyt Wood's pussy has entered feline heaven, leaving the body behind to become dust on the basement floor. But Uncle Henry became nauseated (the newspaper men could take it), carried out the cat's cadaver—became still more nauseated.

We need collaborators. Contributions for this column may be left at THE HI-PO office, but we do not guarantee to publish them. Why not try to be funny—you couldn't be worse than we are!

ANNUAL HOMECOMING DAY POPULAR EVENT

morning, and William Hunter, '30, of Greensboro, president of the Alumni Association for that year, presided over the events of the day.

A soccer contest replaced the football game of the first Homecoming on the afternoon sports program. A powerful Panther ball-driving machine ran over the alumni kickers by a 3-1 score. This year the graduates will engage in no athletics more strenuous than horse shoe pitching, but will admire the varsity soccer and basketball squads from the sidelines.

The annual alumni banquet last year was held at the Emerywood Country Club with Dr. G. I. Humphreys delivering the principal address before more than 50 couples assembled around the table. He told the alumni that the backing which the old students and graduates offered during the bleak years of the depression was largely responsible for the showing the school made during that period.

The second annual Homecoming dance followed the banquet at the Country club, and for the first time, co-eds residing on the campus were allowed to attend provided they had permission from home.

Two graduating classes have added a total of seventy men and women to the alumni ranks since the first Homecoming Day was held two years ago. The increasing popularity of Alumni Day with the graduates, especially those who were members of recent classes, is expected to result in a record crowd for the third Homecoming Day Saturday.

Alpha Epsilon fraternity and held many other important campus offices while a student here.

Mr. Yount is associated with his father in the firm of Kiker & Yount, bridge and road contractors, and is now located at Pittsboro, where the young couple will be at home at the Blair Hotel after November 20.

Announcement has also been made of the marriage of T. E. Strickland to Ernestine Voncannon in Danville, Virginia on September 2. Miss Voncannon is a member of the senior class at the College, and is connected with the choir and the orchestra. She is a member of the Artemesian Literary Society and the Alpha Theta Psi sorority. Strickland was a member of the class of '38 last year, and he is expected to resume his studies the second semester. He will become a minister, but at present is employed at the Post Office in High Point.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—Every time two or more editors of college papers get together for a discussion, if the session lasts long enough, one of them is bound to bring up the name of Reed Harris.

"What," one of them eventually asks, "ever became of that fella Reed Harris, who raised such a fuss when he edited The Columbia Spectator?"

The answer is that he came to Washington in due time and today, after several promotions, is Assistant Director of Federal Writers' Projects, under Director Henry G. Alsberg. The Federal Writers' Project is that part of the works relief program designed to extend aid to ex-newspaper men and writers on relief by creating useful projects suitable to their talents. At the present time Harris is helping to get the largest writing project, the American Guide, an improved type of Baedeker for this country, under way in all 48 states.

The versatile Mr. Harris is also serving in the capacity of Executive Editor of a section of the WPA called Reports and Bulletins. This section gathers information on the status of the program by means of reports sent in from every state. These reports, narrative more than statistical in type, are a source of information for both the administration and the press.

The former editor of The Spectator left Columbia College in 1932, it may be recalled, as President of Phi Gamma Delta and author of "King Football," and in the opinion of President Nicholas Murray Butler was Public Enemy No. 1 to 10 inclusive. Harris spent the next two years at four different jobs, sort of accumulating the first four cheques of what may yet turn out to be an interestingly chequered career.

The first two jobs were on The New York Times and The New York Journal. Harris did general reporting and news of the colleges and universities. He was one of a dozen men fired from The Journal at one fell swoop, in one of those mass firings that give life on a Hearst sheet its piquancy. He is still proud of the fact though that whereas the others separated from The Journal on this occasion were given only two weeks salary as a parting gift, he was given three weeks salary. He doesn't know quite why this was done, but he likes to think it was some special mark of distinction, not just an error on the part of the business office.

Next he worked as an editor for a small publishing house in New York. A fairly brief spell of that, and then he became production manager of a fair sized advertising agency. It was from this job that Henry Alsberg rescued him, to bring him to Washington as Assistant editor of "The Project," the now defunct publication of what was then the Works Division of the FERA.

That was a year ago this month. In the past year he has made considerable progress, moving up 3 grades in government service. He is knee deep in plans and details with his chief, for putting 6,000 writers, cartographers, editors, and scientists of various kinds to work on the American Guide, for getting other projects outlined that will follow the Guide, and is at the same time keeping an eye on the reporting system of the Reports and Bulletins section.

Harris often thinks back over the events of his undergraduate days, when he had one to a half dozen campus campaigns going at once, was anathema to the football team and its supporters, was the favorite bogie man of the alumni, and was the subject for a great deal of curious speculation among college editors.

One of his favorite off-hour interests is still this business of undergraduate journalism. He likes to hear about the crusades of the college sheets from time to time, of disputes between editors and outside busybodies. And of course, most of all he likes to read from time to time about what was once his own baby, The Columbia Spectator, and about whatever powers the "Spec" may happen to be making unhappy at the moment.

Shin-Busters Beat Duke; Gain Tie With Davidson

Locals Beat Blue Devils By 4-1 Mark

Panthers Gain Revenge for Defeat Handed Them at Durham Earlier In Season

Playing on a wet and muddy field at the local high school, the High Point College shin-busters marched to a 4-1 triumph over the Duke University eleven Wednesday afternoon to gain revenge for the defeat suffered the week before at Durham.

Both teams were handicapped in their playing by the bad condition of the field. The players took several spills as their cleated shoes failed to hold on the slippery ground and many were soon covered with mud and dirt. A strong wind also added to the uncertainty of the game.

The Blue Devils found the Panthers to be a tougher foe in the contest than in their first encounter at Durham. Although the invaders outplayed the Pointers in the first quarter, the locals came back in the second quarter to gain the lead, 2-1, which they held at the end of the half.

Koontz scored the first goal ten minutes after the opening whistle. The Duke goal keeper made a desperate attempt to block the drive, but the force of the ball carried him behind the line for the tally. Morris, Duke ace, evened the count 1-1 a few minutes later with a nice kick through the Panther goal.

The invaders barely missed gaining the lead at the opening of the second quarter, when Niernsee, High Point goal keeper, fumbled the ball near the goal line. However, he recovered before any of the opposing players were able to rush him. Martin scored the second High Point goal to give the Panthers the lead 2-1.

Neither team was able to score in the third period, but Culler, who had been held in check after receiving a bad spill in the early part of the game, opened up with a brilliant offensive attack to account for the other two goals. After the ball had been worked to the goal by excellent pass work on the part of the whole team, the flashy center rushed the Duke goal-tender to gain a point. A moment later, he completely dazzled the visitors with a tricky exhibition of dribbling, weaving through the Duke defense from midfield to score.

All the men in the High Point backfield played a good game, and broke up numerous plays. The linemen, however, failed to capitalize on several opportunities to score, especially in the first quarter.

Substitutions were numerous on both teams due to the hard playing on the sticky field.

The lineup:

High Point	Pos.	Duke
Niernsee	G	Prindle
Isley	LF	Fuller
Elder	RF	Kroushager
Sherrill	CH	Thomas
Griegg	LH	Lamb
Wagoner	RH	Mervine
Koontz	OL	Garden
Intrieri	IL	O'Brien
Culler	C	Ambler
Martin	IR	Morris
Ellington	OR	Hinch

Substitutions: High Point—Peeler, Gray, Brinkley, Haughtaling, Kearns, Holmes. Duke—Fehling, Beatty, Huiscamp, Rollins, Horneffer, Wolf, Bender.

Scorers: High Point—Koontz, Martin, Culler (2). Duke—Morris.

Referee: Hartley.

Tar Heels Lose Chance For Bid

The inevitable has happened! A much touted University of North Carolina gridiron eleven following the trail of Notre Dame, Army and others, saw a hitherto formidable Rose Bowl invitation fade tantalizingly into the unknown as they bowed to a humiliating, twice beaten Duke Blue Devil team before a capacity crowd in the big Duke stadium, Saturday 25 to 0.

Showing a forward wall that was was thought only Carolina had, the conference leading Dukes showed such a penetrating variety of tactics both on the offense and defense that the 46,000 fans were practically stunned as the Blue Devils took over touchdown after touchdown.

Two other hitherto unbeaten and untied football teams—Marquette, and Syracuse—joined the ranks of the majority as Temple and Colgate, respectively, squashed the prognosticator's dream to place the two gridiron leaders on the light end of the score for the first time.

While, Duke, Temple and Colgate were pulling upsets, California in the far west, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian in the southwest, Minnesota in the middlewest and Dartmouth, Princeton and New York University were protecting perfect records with comparative ease, accounting for the as yet seven unbeaten teams of the nation.

Though no unbeaten record was at stake, 80,000 nerve-taut fans spectated one of the most exciting, yet the closest game of the current season as Notre Dame put over a touchdown with barely 30 seconds to go and gained a 6-6 tie with a hopeful Army team.

West Point, leading by virtue of a beautiful 41 yard touchdown pass from Monk Meyers to Ed Grove, just when victory seemed firmly in the grasp of the Soldiers, woefully saw Nemisis before them as an incompleted Notre Dame pass to Milner on the two yard line was declared complete on interference by Ed Grove, Army halfback. With a half minute to go, big Larry Danbom, Notre Dame substitute half back, dove over for the tieing touchdown.

Meanwhile, Dartmouth, finding a real effective passing attack for the first time, trounced the Cornell team, 41-7, and New York University, almost as impressive, walloped Rutgers, 48-0. Princeton handled Lehigh lightly but won 27 to 0.

Minnesota, undefeated in 23 successive engagements, took Michigan's Wolverines apart, 40-0. Ohio State nosed out Illinois, 6-0, in an attempt to keep their record clean for a Big Ten leadership tie with Minnesota.

Getting back to the South and North Carolina, we find a potential State Wolfpack team ekeing out a 6 to 0 victory over a courageous University of Richmond team in a game which was filled with scoring possibilities for the Raleigh team but the Wolves were only able to slip through once. Davidson, capitalizing on its varied opportunities trounced the V. M. I. cadets for the fifth straight time, this time 14 to 6. Lenoir Rhyne gave way to Carson-Newman, 14 to 0 in an out of state battle, while Appalachian triumphed over Tusculum, 6 to 0.

Purple Kittens Win Four Out Of Five Games With Cleveland County Schools

Rogers Appointed Captain Net Team

Wilson Rogers, popular High Point College junior, has been appointed captain and manager of the 1936 tennis team, it was announced to a HI-PO reporter by members of the college athletic board, Monday. Rogers succeeds Al Primm, '35, racqueteer star, as runner of the team.

Entering the College in the fall of 1932 as a freshman, Rogers came into prominence at once as a racquet wielder of some promise, entering fall competition with such zest that when spring and the tennis season roled around his name was listed among those listed for varsity playing. Last year he again entered the fall and spring tournaments, winning out in the spring B tournament, to again find a berth on the Panther tennis squad. This fall also found Rogers in the midst of a tennis tournament as he went to the quarter finals where he was eliminated by Jarrett, promising freshman player.

With two hard years of tennis competition behind him, Rogers promises to make one of the best leaders the racqueteers have known, being popular with the players and the fans and naturally endowed with the qualities of leadership which are important in a position of this sort. He is a member of the I. T. K. social fraternity, the Akrothinian literary society and varsity basketball team. The new captain hopes to make this coming season the most successful one that the College has known since its origination.

Attendance at Williams College has fallen to 100 daily. The service is no longer compulsory.

The directive principle of education should be directed toward a more efficient parenthood, says Dr. William A. Shimer, secretary of the United Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Fallston Wins Over Frosh in Fifth Battle; Towery Leads Scoring Attack for Locals

The Purple Kitten basketball squad opened the court season this past week with a trip to the western part of the state where they won four games and lost one.

Playing five tough high school teams in five consecutive nights proved to be too much for the first year men and they weakened in their last game, which came on Saturday night, to lose to a fighting Fallston High five by the score of 21-17. All of the teams played furnished tough opposition, and many of the games were closer than the scores indicate.

Although the High Point outfit failed to make a clean sweep of the games, as they did last year by winning four straight, the opening round of play was considered a success. Many of the players have shown wonderful development during the training period under Coach Yow and Assistant Coach Diamont. The team worked together well in the first four games, using effective passes to overcome the high lads.

Towery, flashy center from Lattimore who had the satisfaction of leading his teammates to a victory over his former running mates at Lattimore High, appeared to be the outstanding player on the trip, while Jarrett, of Thomasville, showed up well at one of the forward posts. Hester, at guard, was handicapped by an arm injury received in the opening game, but remained in the lineup to play a stellar guard game.

Belwood High lost to the locals on their opening night by 44-13. With Jarrett and Towery hitting the basket at will, the frosh showed up well in the opening game of the year. Wllis lead for the high school.

A large crowd of fans witnessed the Kittens down the Polkville squad in the second night of play by the score of 32-11. Mauney, playing at forward, led the offensive attack for the home team with 6 points, while Towery, with 19 points chalked up to his credit, and Jarrett, with 10 points, were the big guns in the Kitten drive.

On Thursday night the Lattimore High five fell before the Pointers by a 31-13 count. Towery and Jarrett again led for High Point, while Beam proved to be the outstanding player for Lattimore.

Continuing their conquest, the Kittens moved over to Piedmont the following day to trounce that squad 33-19 on Friday night. Williams and Falls played a good brand of ball for the losers, although they were fighting against a superior team.

Tired of traveling and playing, the High Point team seemed to lose their pep by Saturday night in the engagement with Fallston. Still that is not the only cause of the defeat, as the high school squad put out a good team that outplayed the frosh to deserve the victory. The game was quite a contrast to the one last year

Society Teams Renew Rivalry

Two growling literary societies will take the floor tomorrow night in a fight to the finish volleyball game as the Thaleans, losers of last year's series, plan to wreak unmerciful revenge on the '34 champions, the Akrothinians.

The Akrothinians presented the challenge and with "Honey-bunny" Haughtaling as captain and coach hope to repeat the victory march of last year though with a larger score, having pulled out the previous match with only two or three points to spare. Both teams have well prepared themselves in contemplation of a hard match, learning to skilfully set the little ball up as well as drive and serve it.

Fans should lok forward with interest to this match as we find some of the College's "big" men getting together to furnish all forthcomers with thrills and laughs. Be there at 8 o'clock sharp!

A recent poll of Barnard College freshmen shows that a Phi Beta key is a 17-to-1 favorite ambition as against "siren of the stag line."

Kannapolis Tilt Tops Sport Card

The High Point College shin-buster team, holding a close second place in the Central Carolina league, will take on Kannapolis Y here Saturday in a return game which will be the fifth league game of the year and will also serve as the climax of a day of campus activity in honor of returning alumni.

This game which will be played on the High Point High School grounds promises to be even closer and more interesting than the one played in the Cannon city. The locals pretty badly crippled up by the hard game last Friday with the rough and ready Davidson team, which ended in a 3-3 tie, have gotten pretty well back into shape and though Niernsee, veteran goal tender, may not be able to play a full game because of a strained ligament of the leg, Coach Culler hopes to have the rest of his Panther teammates in there fighting with the spirit which brought them a 4-1 victory over Duke a week ago.

Also on the program of Saturday afternoon, which is to be rather full, there is included a most unusual feature consisting of a competitive horseshoe pitching contest between the alumni and present students. Exhibition tumbling will be given by the College physical education classes, and a

Everything is all set for the return of the old grads. The athletic program for the day has been arranged, and a change in the schedule of the Central Carolina Soccer Association has been made in order to secure a home game for the afternoon. The visiting team, Kannapolis Y, will have two former Panther shin-busters on the field against the Pointers. They are the Smith brothers, Carl and Chet, both of whom were leaders in the sport during its early history here.

—o—

The program will offer plenty more. The horse shoe pitching contest should furnish unusual entertainment. Reports are that John Morgan will be a strong contender for the title. This is something new on the Homecoming program, and several good pitchers may be discovered.

—o—

Although there has not been any organized tumbling squad this year, the tumblers are expected to give an exhibition of acrobatic stunts during the afternoon. The basketball game, and the two volley ball contests, for the girls and boys, will round out the athletic program.

—o—

A good football game is what we need to make the program complete. At the first Homecoming Day three years ago, the alumni and student elevens fought to a scoreless tie on the local high school field. However these games are no longer advisable because of the lack of training and equipment on the part of both teams that would participate. Players often receive serious injuries in such contests.

—o—

The best way to fill in this gap is to get a football game at High Point, and now is the time for the alumni interested in the question. Imagine Homecoming Day at High Point College in 1960.

—o—

The frosh cagers turned in fine performances last week, considering their tough schedule. Five games on consecutive nights played away from home will put an extra strain on the best of teams, even while in mid-season form. We believe that the Kittens would have licked Fallston if the game had been played on Tuesday night.

—o—

The Kittens piled up a total of 158 points against 76 for the opposing squads. Towery accounted for the most of these, hitting the hoop for 74 points, while Jarrett gained 50 during the conquest.

—o—

This column broke even in the prognostication game last week. Duke again helped to spoil a perfect forecast by smashing Carolina's Rose Bowl hopes with a 25-0 victory before the 46,000 fans that packed Duke Stadium.

—o—

And now we see see no reason why the Blue Devils should not win over N. C. State in Raleigh Saturday to clinch the Big Five title and Southern Conference championship.

Wildcats Tie Panther Team In Hard Game

Game at Davidson Ends With Two Teams Deadlocked by the Count of 3-3.

Fighting with a true Panther spirit, the High Point College soccer team played a Davidson Wildcat eleven to a 3-3 tie Friday afternoon at Davidson for the fourth inter-collegiate game of the year.

The game, personally avowed by the players as the hardest contest of the year, was filled with action from the starting whistle to the final gun. The Panthers, exhilirated by the impressive win over a hard-kicking Blue Devil team Wednesday, confidently started a fast clicking "dribbling" and passing attack only to be checked constantly by the determined Wildcats, finally chalking up the first score of the afternoon when Martin, flashy sophomore, caught a perfect pass from Culler, coach and center, to put the ball safely through the goal posts.

The whistle blew again as in the same quarter the Davidson shin-buster eleven this time started the offensive attack to parry back and forth with the High Point boys, finding the weak points here and there, slowly forcing their way to a position for scoring and, as Donnigan, Wildcat star, booted the ball for the goal, Niernsee, lanky goal tender, found himself the victim of such a furious onslaught that he was unable to get rid of the hot ball, tieing the score 1-1 in the first quarter.

Returning to competition after a brief rest period, the two teams settled into a cautious defensive game, each team doing its best to hold the ball, as they looked for an opening which would take them closer to the enemy goal;" this time Culler again found the weak hole to quickly break the tie. Yet, as in the first quarter, a score by the locals seemed to give the Wildcats the needed goad to make them spring into a hard-kicking, running and passing attack which was uncheckable, again tieing the score.

Ellington, flashy Panther freshman, receiving splendid cooperation from his teammates in the first quarter of the second half, found the Davidson goalie off guard to pound the ball between the posts to again break the dogged tie which followed the locals throughout the game. But again the Wildcats had received the necessary stimulus and Bell, Davidson center, ended the scoring by pushing the ball just beyond reach of Intreri, substitute goal tender.

The final quarter found both teams determinedly fighting for the winning advantage, yet not venturing far enough on the offensive to bring out the winning tally, the game ending with a 3-3 tie.

The Panther team, holding a close second place in the Central Carolina league, was unable to meet the Winston-Salem shin-busters Saturday due to unfavorable weather conditions.

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

Co-Ed Sports

By Marguerite Jenkins

With the women's intra-mural volley-ball tournament only two weeks away, we are all beginning to wonder about a number of things:

Where is the Senior team?

Are the Juniors as good as they were last year?

Do the Sophomores have something up their sleeve?

What are the Freshwomen like?

It seems that the tournament will prove most divided and interesting, as the teams seem to be fairly well balanced. Each class will play three games. Every girl playing on the first team of her class will earn 100 points toward a letter. The winning team may get a trip to Chapel Hill to play the "inmates" of the famous "Co-ed Shack."

HIGH SPOTS

Mary Tice, Mary Mitchell Baity, and Hyacinth Hunter have improved their volley ball serves one hundred percent.

One of the wildest times at practice comes when the various sets of sisters take the court. Virginia and Mildred Grant, Margaret and Virginia Dixon, Peg and Vi Jenkins: all on the court at the same time. And do they burn each other up? They're bound to stay good in volley ball to forestall those "sisterly" comments.

Outstanding freshwomen players seen on the volley ball court are Hoffman, Redman, and V. Jenkins.

Phillips, Cameron and L. Hunter are among the strong and outstanding players on the sophomore team.

The junior team seems to be built around Holt, Dixon, and Welch.

when they were overwhelmed by High Point, 70-12.

Biggerstaff, Fallston guard, proved to be poison for the Pointers, breaking through their defense to account for 15 points. Royster, center, and Wright, forward, also played a good brand of ball.

Large crowds attended all the games, although the basketeers were not accompanied by the tumblers as in the past years. Polkville again was the largest drawing card.

The lineups:

Substitutions: High Point — Towery, 11; Crowell.

The delicate members of the sophomore class include Bivins, M. Jenkins, Phillips, and Tice. They take a great interest, however, and recently several of them have been observed completing serves. Even the weaklings learn through much practice!

It has taken much time and patience on the part of the coach to make some of the players realize that the object of the game is to keep the ball in the air. They practically sat on it for the first few practices.

About fifty-two girls have reported for practice.

Romance Revealed In Early Growth High Point College

(From THE HI-PO of Nov., 1933)

High Point College, although comparatively young, has had a somewhat colorful history. Conceived in the minds of a group of Methodist Protestant ministers and born on the biggest mud flat in Guilford County, it has become in the ten short years of its existence one of the beauty spots of the City of High Point. Those ten years have seen many students come and go. Many now hold responsible positions in the educational and industrial life of the state and nation.

The cornerstone of Roberts Hall, the first building, was laid in the summer of 1922, and the schol officially opened in September, 1924. One hundred and thirty-two students were enrolled the first year. Of this number 15 were sophomores, 101 were freshmen and the rest specials. Only junior college work was offered. For the first ten days of school, rain poured incessantly, and the campus became a sea of mud. There were no walks at the time and, until boards were laid between the buildings, the students were forced to struggle to and from classes as best they might.

At the time the dormitories were not fully completed, and the male students were forced to room in town. The girls were accommodated in the unfinished Woman's hall. Later in the fall the dormitories were completed and the men were enabled to move out to the school.

Dr. R. M. Andrews was the first president of the college. Under his regime the enrollment increased from 132 the first year to more than 300 in 1930. The civic clubs of High Point donated funds to build concrete walks between the various buildings and the street. Athletics, after getting off to a rather poor start, soared to the top of what was then the Litle Five Conference.

Among the first organizations on the campus were the Thalean Literary society, the Christian Endeavor society, and the Artemesian Literary society. "The Torch," the college's first publication was begun in 1925. That year also marked the first attempt at dramatics here. The curriculum was extended to include third-year college work.

In February, 1926, the College was plunged into mourning over the death of Dr. C. L. Whitaker. He had served as librarian since the opening of the school, and had been instrumental in organizing the college itself.

That year, for the first, the college offered a complete four-year course. The first graduating class received diplomas in the spring of 1927. In that year THE HI-PO succeeded "The Torch" as the school's publication. The new paper was published weekly, whereas "The Torch" had come out once a month. The first editor was Charles Brooks, and the first business manager was Theodore Antonakos. The Zenith, college annual, also appeared for the first time in 1927. Professor C. B. Hlouck acted as faculty advisor for both publications.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys accepted the position as president of High Point college upon the resignation of Dr. Andrews in the summer of 1930. That year saw the college debating team defeat the team from Northwestern University in the local auditorium. In the spring of the same year the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association held its semi-annual convention at High Point. At this meeting THE HI-PO was chosen as the best college newspaper in the state. C. Richard McManus was editor of the paper at that time, and J. Clyde Pugh was business manager.

In 1932 the long promised gymnasium became a reality. Its construction was made possible by donations from various clubs and business concerns. The building was named the Harrison Gymnasium after N. M. Harrison, who was instrumental in obtaining it for the college.

Famed soloists and some of the world's finest musical organizations will be heard by an immense music appreciation "class"—2,000 strong—offered at Northwestern.

Standardized education, with little allowance made for the individual, is contributing to criminal delinquency, says Lehigh's Dean Dr. Max McConn.

A survey of the 34 men who have captained University of Vermont football teams reveals most of them are outstanding successes.

Greatest "thief" in football annals was Princeton's Arthur Poe, who wrenched a ball from the arms of a Yale runner November 12, 1898, and ran 100 yards for the day's only score.

Princeton students can now cut as much as they like, so long as their "standing remains unimpaired."

Seismologists at Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., were accused of causing an earthquake the other day. One irate householder threatened suit for damages.

"Whoopee," alleged by-word of the dear old "collegiate" days, has been revealed as just another word of British origin.

Arle Davis of Oklahoma kicked 23 extra points from placement in one game—Oklahoma vs. Kingfisher, in 1917. Balance sheet: Oklahoma 179, K. F. 0.

Three Speakers Appear At Opening Session Of Alumni Day Celebration Saturday

Dr. Glenn Perry, Doris Keener, and Clayton Glasgow Make Brief Talks.

HUNTER PRESIDES

Miss Dorothy Hoskins Sings Solo as Concluding Feature of Program.

The first gathering of the alumni on Homecoming Day was held at 11 o'clock in the College auditorium, with Aubert Smith, '35, in charge.

The devotionals were conducted by Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, '28, who read a portion of scripture and had prayer, closing with the Lord's Prayer, and followed by the singing of "Come Thou Almighty King."

William Hunter, '29, presented the speakers for the occasion. Dr. Humphreys, as the first speaker on the program, welcomed back the graduates and former students. He told them that they should be proud of the College because of the fine record it has made in the first twelve years of its existence. The years hold ahead for all the alumni and students, not only a great challenge, but also great achievements. Before another gathering of the alumni, another building, the Library, wil be seen on the campus, and before another Homecoming Day, it is hoped that football will be a major sport of the College.

A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student body, welcomed the alumni for the student government.

The first of the three speakers for the morning program, Dr. Glenn Perry, '29, was presented by Mr. Hunter. Dr. Perry took as the theme of his talk, Elbert Hubbard's 12th commandment, "Don't take yourself too darn seriously." He said that they were just grains of sand on the beach and they shouldn't try to put themselves up as standards, nor criticize others for doing better than they could do.

Miss Doris Keener, second speaker, spoke on "What College Spirit Means To Me." She said that college spirit wasn't a required course, but a college student received more benefit from it than almost anything else. The alumni meet every year, continued Miss Keener, in order to stir up college spirit and help them build a bigger and better High Point College.

E. C. Glasgow, '30, third and last speaker, told about what college had meant to him. He said that college had brought about a considerable change in him; a change in mind and attitude, and a change in religion. He felt that he owed a lot to the College and he would never cease to be a part of it.

Miss Dorothy Hoskins, '29, sang "Lest We Forget," accompanied by Miss Alma Andrews, '34.

At the conclusion of the program, the members of the various classes were asked to stand in turn in order to find out what percentage of each class had returned.

A business meeting of all old students was held after the meeting adjourned.

Miss Idol Is Book Week Speaker At Junior High

Miss Vera Idol, head of the College English department, recently spoke to the students of the High Point Junior high school on "Reading For Fun," in connection with National Book Week.

Miss Idol spoke of the reasons for reading as being for instruction or information and for fun and enjoyment. Since literature is a fine art, as music and painting, it should be read mainly for enjoyment. All good literature is an interpretation of life and so to understand it, one must know the times in which it is written and the philosophy on which it is based.

High Point Will Have Two Names In Publication

Fulk and Hedgecock Are Selected For Places in Collegiate Who's Who.

A. Lincoln Fulk and Lois Hedgecock, both seniors from High Point, have been selected to go into the collegiate Who's Who publication issued at the University of Alabama.

Alabama has issued a bluebook of the outstanding students from colleges and universities for the past several years, but High Point has not hitherto been represented. The publication contains the names of not more than one per-cent of the students attending the schools represented.

Fulk and Miss Hedgecock were selected because of their membership in the Order of the Lighted Lamp, local honor society. Both were charter members of this organization, and are at present its only representatives in school.

Fulk is president of the student body, a member of the College Ministerial Association and the debating squad. He transferred from Campbell Junior College at the beginning of his sophomore year. Miss Hedgecock is business manager of THE ZENITH, College annual, and is president of the Nikanthan Literary Society, a representative on the student council, and a member of the absences committee.

MILLS HOME HEAD IS SPEAKER AT COLLEGE DEVOTIONAL MEETING

Dr. I. G. Greer Talks on Orphanage Work at Friday Chapel Service.

Dr. I. G. Greer, superintendent of the Mills Home at Thomasville, and a former instructor at Appalachian State Teachers College, was the speaker at the chapel service last Friday morning.

Dr. Greer used a general Thanksgiving theme for his speech and specifically talked on the case for orphanages in North Carolina.

"Everything is important that is connected with life," the speaker said in opening, "and nothing is important that is divorced from life." The preachers who teach theology instead of Christ and the teachers who teach textbooks instead of people are missing their marks, he said. The Christians who contribute toward support of orphanages are doing good "even unto the least of these."

The speaker told something of the history of orphanage work in this state leading up to the founding of the institution which he heads. The first home for orphan children was founded in 1878 at Oxford by J. H. Mills, who later opened and gave his name to the Baptist institution at Thomasville. There are now thirty-four orphanages in the state caring for several thousand homeless children.

"An orphanage is a melting pot for children from every conceivable kind of heredity and environment," Dr. Greer said. "The children come out of the tragedies of life, but they bring their own habits and their own dispositions. A child who has cursed and stolen before entering an orphanage will want to continue swearing and stealing, just as a child who has learned to pray will want to continue to pray." The speaker paid tribute to the work that orphanages have done in turning out such a high percentage of good citizens into the religious and cultural life of the state and nation.

Dr. Greer related several humorous and pathetic incidents of his long experience in orphanage work bearing out his contention that these institutions deserve the continued and whole-hearted support of churches and fraternal organizations.

LYCEUM PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

The Twin City Glee Club, Winston-Salem musical organization, will appear at the College in the third Lyceum program next Tuesday evening, it has been announced by Dean P. E. Lindley.

This group of singers, who have achieved a good reputation as entertainers in this section, is under the direction of Philip Jeffries. THE HI-PO has been unable to learn any of the details of the program to be be presented here.

The glee club will appear in the last of the lyceum programs before the Christmas holidays. The series will be resumed in January with a scientific demonstration by Elliott James.

MUSICIANS IN TWO MEETINGS SHOW PROMISE

Many Experienced Players Report for College Orchestra Rehearsals.

After its second rehearsal, the College orchestra, under the direction of Miss Margaret Slan, head of the Music Department, shows promise of playing an important part in the cultural life of the campus.

Excellent response has been received from those students who have had experience along this line. Those who have reported so far for rehearsals and their instruments are as follows:

First violins—Ernestine Strickland, Vera York, Andy Basalyga, and Marguerite Jenkins; second violins—Sallie Ruth Shuford, Max Rogers; cello — Elizabeth Hoffman; trumpet—Arnold Boland; flute—Iris Welch; clarinet — Sophia Taplin; saxophone — Violet Jenkins, Wilson Rogers; horn—Edward Stirewalt; baritone — James Mattocks; trombone—Joseph Payne; piano—Agnes Louise Wilcox.

Miss Sloan expresses her belief that this organization should prosper and do excellent work this year. No public appearances, however, have been announced at the present time.

The band, also recently organized, has been rehearsing also, but no further information could be learned concerning its progress.

Patrick Speaks To Artemesians

High School English Teacher "Mis-quotes" to Members of Society.

The members of the Artemesian Literary Society met in the College auditorium for their regular meeting last Thursday night. The chorister and chaplain conducted the opening exercises, after which the secretary's minutes were read and approved. Lillian Pearson was elected by acclamation to succeed Ernestine Voncannon as pianist.

Several matters of business were brought up and discussed, among them the proposed project to have the four literary societies on the campus build a walkway from the boys' dormitory to the gymnasium. This proposition was accepted by the Artemesians.

The first number of the program was a solo, "Trees," sung by Violet Jenkins, who was accompanied by Marguerite Jenkins. The "interesting personality of the evening," M. L. Patrick, of the local high school faculty, was then introduced. Mr. Patrick has a hobby of collecting quotations and "mis-quoting them. He "mis-read" about a hundred of his original quotations, most of them being spiced with humor. Marguerite Mann told of a magazine article, "Gems Can Talk," in a very interesting manner. As the theatre study, Marjorie Elkins told how Russia filmed "Gulliver's Travels" with puppets. A book review of "Amy Lowell" was given by Ruth Lee.

The debate scheduled for the program was postponed until the next meeting so that the members could attend the Akrothinian-Thalean volleyball game.

THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

A Custom—For more than half a century there has been an annual presidential proclamation calling on the people of the United States to assemble in their accustomed places of worship and give thanks to Almighty God for His blessings of the year upon us as a nation. But, before President Lincoln began what continued yearly as a custom, other presidents had at times issued such a call. So that, in a sense, we can say that Thanksgiving has been a national recognition of a beneficient providence. God's goodness and mercy in our experience as a nation have been called to our attention and we have been urged to duly acknowledge them and render thanks.

Once again we are challenged by the annual occasion now upon us. Shall we not as college students as well as citizens, face up with the significance of Thanksgiving? Shall we not measure its implications and with real understanding enter into the meaning of the national event?

A Privilege—For it ought to mean more than just an accustomed event for annual observance. It ought to be for each of us a real privilege. If possible, we should join in public worship that links us up with our fellow citizens in a great act of giving thanks. If deprived of such public worship, we should at least enter into the spirit of its purpose. How can we do either or both well? Simply by thinking — for if we really think we will certainly thank.

Students of High Point College — for the land in which you live; for the home from which you come; for the chance which you have to develop mind, body, and spirit; for the place which you shall be called to fill in the new social and economic era that is being born; for fellowship and friendship, for life itself—give thanks—be glad—and take courage!

"O give thanks unto the Lord; For He is good; His mery endureth forever."

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits."

Dr. G. I. Humphreys

Hipps Speaks To Student Ministerial Association

High Point Pastor Talks on "Consecration" at Regular Wednesday Meeting.

The Rev. J. P. Hipps, pastor of the Main Street Methodist Episcopal church, this city, spoke to the Student Ministerial Association at its regular meeting last Wednesday afternoon. The speaker was introduced by Furman Wright, president of the organization after the chaplain had read the Fifteenth Psalm and offered a prayer as a devotional service.

Mr. Hipps spoke on "Consecration," using a part of the fourth chapter of Corinthians II as the basis of his talk. He stressed the importance of the minister's being thoroughly consecrated to the task to which he has been called. He compared the minister to an earthen vessel in that both must be clean, filled, and submissive to their owners before they can be of much use. The pastor must be cleansed from his sins, filled with the Holy Spirit, and submissive to the will of God before he can accomplish the task which he is endeavoring to perform.

Lee Moser, a former president of the association closed the meeting with the benediction.

ONE DAY GIVEN FOR THANKSGIVING HERE

The student body and faculty of High Point College tomorrow join the rest of the nation in celebrating Thanksgiving Day. Only one day has been allowed by the administration for this holiday, and according to the usual custom, double cuts will be given for cuts on days immediately preceeding and following the celebration.

A large number of High Point students living in the city or nearby are planning to spend the holiday at home, but the annual Thanksgiving dinner will be served in the College dining hall for those unable to get away.

Christmas holidays begin three weeks from tomorrow, on December 19.

SEVEN PLACED ON TENTATIVE DEBATE SQUAD

Initial Tryouts Held Friday Draw Field of Ten; Further Eliminations.

A tentative intercollegiate debating squad of seven was selected from the ten men who participated in the tryouts held last Friday night.

Those getting the nod from the judges were Leo Pittard, '36, J. E. Garlington, '38, Edward Stirewalt, '39, Dwight Morgan, '39, Sulon Ferree, '36, and A. L. Fulk, '36. The latter two were members of last year's state championship debating team and both have several years' experience in collegiate debating.

Further elimination from this tentative group will be made as a result of trial debates, and the final varsity squad will consist of four regular debaters and one or two alternates, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, forensic coach.

The query used in the tryouts was the query selected by the Phi Kappa Delta fraternity, national debating organization. The question is Resolved: That Congress Should Have Power to Over-Ride by a Two-Thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional, and will be used by most of the colleges during the approaching debating

Miss Bates Is House Hostess

Home Economics Practice House to Close December 16 Until 1937

Changes occurred in the practice house again last Monday at noon, when Mary Margaret Bates gave up her dutes as maid to become hostess for the following ten days and Catherine Farlow gave up the duties of hostess to descend to the lowlier position as maid. Elizabeth Pirtle and Gladys Maxwell exchanged duties as cook and host, including the dish-washing.

Last night Miss Bates had her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, for Dinner.

During Miss Farlow's hostessship she has as guests: For her formal dinner, Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Hinshaw and Miss Frances Mendenhall; company dinner, Miss Mary Bolin, Roy Hoover, and Howard Turner; other guests included Vadalie Farlow, '37, Juanita Hayworth, '36, Miss Keron Canady, '35, Miss Inez Ridge, '35, and Professor N. P. Yarborough.

One more change will occur on December 5. The girls will continue in the duties until December 16. Then practice house will be over for two years or until the freshman home economics majors are juniors, and the sophomores are seniors.

Mrs. Yarborough, supervisor of the house, has her meals with the girls and is usually on the campus where she can be reached if needed, but, during the last period, she left the young women to themselves over a week-end. It might well be reported that no casualties occurred in her absence.

The girls had a meal's vacation

Many Graduates Return For Festivities Of Homcoming Day Celebrated At College

Every Class Represented at Third Annual Alumni Day Celebrated Here.

THREE SPEAKERS

Banquet in Dining Hall, Dance at Hotel Conclude Full Day of Activity.

The third annual Homecoming Day at High Point College last Saturday attracted a large number of the graduates and former students in spite of the discouragement offered by the Weather Man.

The morning program opened shortly after 10:30 o'clock with a devotional service led by the Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, '28, of Greensboro. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, in making a brief welcome to the former students, related something of the history of the institution and compared its record during the twelve years of its existance with that of other colleges. Almost four hundred graduates have gone out from High Point, Dr. Humphreys said. He promised completion of the Wrenn Memorial Library by graduation day, and sounded an optimistic note for the return of football here next fall should the athletic field be completed before that time.

A Lincoln Fulk spoke a word of welcome in behalf of the student body, and William Hunter, '30, former alumni president, responded to the welcomes and introduced the speakers for the day.

Dr. Glenn Perry, '29, was the first alumni speaker, and he followed by Miss Doris Keener, ex-'34. Clayton Glasgow, '30, principal of the Allen Jay high school in Randolph county, was the final speaker on the program.

Following a solo by Miss Dorothy Hoskins, of Thomasville, an introduction was made of the representatives from each graduating class. Every class, beginning with the first, 1927, was found to be represented.

A short business meeting of all former students followed the program. The graduates went on record as favoring a return of football to the intercollegiate sports program of the College.

The College was host at a buffet luncheon in the dining hall at 12:30 o'clock. A horse shoe pitching contest in front of the gymnasium served as a light post-luncheon recreation. John Morgan, '33, emerged victorious over the opposing visitors and students.

A Carolina League soccer game with the Kannapolis Y team at 3 o'clock was the main event on the afternoon sports program, but only a small crowd attended because of the cold weather. The Panthers won 3-1. Following the kicking exhibition, the Purple Kittens met the Fairgrove high team in a basketball contest in Harrison Gymnasium. The game ended with the score tied at 22 all, and the extra quarter was not played because of the varsity-B game which followed. The Panther regulars defeated the number two men 29 to 9.

The annual alumni banquet came at 7 o'clock, and was held in the College dining hall for the first time since Homecoming Day was originated here. Charles C. Robbins, Jr., president of the Alumni Association presided, and Dr. G. I. Humphreys delivered

The campus social clubs were open to receive their former members throughout the afternoon. The fraternities and sororities held their official open houses at designated times in order not to draw too many away from the other events of the afternoon.

An alumni dance at the Sheraton hotel, with music furnished by Neese's Lotus-Eaters concluded the Homecoming Day celebration.

Arrangements for Homecoming Day were made by a committee headed by Charles C. Robbins, Jr., president of the Alumni Association. He was assisted by Miss Rosalie Andrews, Coach C. Virgil Yow, Miss Lucille Browne, Ed Hedrick, and Ray Dixon.

Four Societies May Build Walk For Gymnasium

Plan Started to Construct Walkway and Steps Before Cage Season Starts.

A movement has been started on the campus to have the four literary societies at the College combine in paving steps and a sidewalk in front of Harrison gymnasium before basketball season starts.

The Artemesian and Akrothinian societies unanimously passed on the suggestion at their regular meetings last Thursday night, and favorable comment has been heard from leaders of the other two societies, who are to take the matter up at special sessions this week. This plan, if adopted, would replace the projects which are given annually at the Artemesian-Akrothinian and the Thalean-Nikanthan society days. According to the plan as outlined, members of the two men's societies would do much of the actual work of construction in order to save money. The final cost to each society would be about the same amount that is usually put into a society day project, but this money would have to be raised earlier in the school year than is the custom.

A similar plan of a combined project for the four classes was started last year by Dr. Humphreys to raise money to install heat and dressing roms in the gymnasium, and met with the general approval of the students. With the building of the walk and steps the gymnasium will be virtually complete. Additional lights ers were installed last winter to care for the turnouts at the basketball games after heat had been installed.

COLLEGE DEAN SPEAKS TO STUDENT GROUP AT GOVERNMENT MEETING

Dr. P. E. Lindley Accepts Council's Invitation to Speak to Students.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of the College, spoke at the student government meeting Monday morning at the invitation of the council.

Dr. Lindley urged the students to make the most of their cultural as well as intellectual opportunities while in college. He told something of the outstanding speakers who have been scheduled to appear at the chapel exercises during the year, and particularly urged that his listeners be present at these meetings. He also asked that the students get the benefit of the lyceum course that has been scheduled.

"The college student is the only person in the world who pays for something and then refuses to accept it," he said. "A man who has forgotten a cheap necktie will phone forty miles to ask the merchant to save it for him, but no student has ever been known to request that a chapel speech or a lyceum program be repeated for his benefit."

Dr. Lindley also stressed the need for sound scholarship among college students, and he asked that they apply themselves to get the greatest benefit from the opportunities at the College.

The speaker related incidents from his own college career, and said that he chose teaching as a profession because he liked to go to college better than anything else he had ever done.

"When I was in college," he said with humorous irony, "I had no more sense than to attend lectures and speeches, I had nothing better to do than to take notes on these speeches, and I had no more sense than to study."

Returning to the subject of chapel services, Dr. Lindley requested that the students enter into the singing of hymns with some enthusiasm and understanding of the song. He pointed out the value of learning the first principals of music.

Three Speakers Appear At Opening Session Of Alumni Day Celebration Saturday

Dr. Edwin Perry Ho. In Banner and Hayden Hu- ...ger Make Brief Talks.

HUNTER PRESIDES

Miss Dorothy Hamblen Sings Solo in Concluding Feature of Program.

The first gathering in the annual Alumni Day celebration was held in the College Auditorium at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Dr. Edwin Perry Hoyle, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Hayden Banner, editor of the High Point Enterprise, were the principal speakers. Miss Dorothy Hamblen sang a solo, and Dr. Hunter presided.

A. Lincoln Polk and Lula Hedgecock, members of the High Point Faculty, were also present at the meeting. Mr. Polk's brother, Walter Polk, was a member of the College band in the thirties.

Addresses and musical numbers by the original members of the College band were also featured on the program. Miss Annie Lowrey Brown, and High Point Alumnus, was present at the meeting. The outstanding musician was the first student to graduate in music in the thirteen years of the college's existence.

Polk and Miss Hedgecock were members of the band when it was led by Heber B. Ha...kins, who was also present at the meeting. Hawkins is still in the profession, and was a weapon to make representations to others.

Polk is president of the student body, Miss Brown is the first and Hedgecock assistant to the Dean of women. Miss Hedgecock and from Campbell Junior College, Buies Creek, where she received her junior college diploma.

Miss Hedgecock is also a graduate of Greensboro College for Women.

Miss Brown graduated from the College in 1926, and is married to Mr. Brown, a prominent citizen of High Point.

HILLS TO BOOK HEAD H SPEAKER AT COLLEGE DEVOTIONAL MEETING

Dr. L. B. Crews Talks on Devotional Meeting at Friday Chapel Service.

Dr. L. B. Crews, superintendent of the Methodist Protestant Church, and a recent instructor in Religious Education at Duke University, was the speaker at the chapel exercises Friday morning.

Dr. Crews chose as his subject the devotional meeting, and discussed the importance of the devotional meeting in the life of the student body.

Dr. Crews is a graduate of Duke University, and has been a leader and outstanding worker in North Carolina.

The devotional meeting is held in connection with the time spent in the chapel exercises. It is held by interested men in devotional fashion.

The president of the student body, Lawrence Hill, and the vice president, Miss Dorothy Hamblen, presided over the meeting. The devotional meeting was held in the auditorium.

The attendance in the chapel exercises is very good, and it is hoped that held in building out at the beginning of the year. The devotional room and in the beginning of the year, and that there will be a large attendance throughout the year.

Patrick Speaks To Artemesians

High School English Study an "Eye-opener" to Many, He Says in Speech.

The members of the sophomore literary society met in the Artemesian hall Monday night at 7:30 o'clock for the regular business session and program.

Mary Patrick, pastor of the Methodist church, was the principal speaker on the program. Mr. Patrick spoke on the subject, "Eye-openers in High School English." He told of the many interesting things that he had learned in his study of English. He believes every one in his beginning English class should take a course in English.

Mr. Patrick is a graduate of the College, and is a member of the Methodist church.

The president of the society, Miss Lucille Bowers, presided over the business session. Miss Bowers announced the program committee for the year. The committee is composed of Miss Mary Bailey, Ray Brown, and Miss Elizabeth Hedgecock.

Miss Bowers announced that the society would have a party in the near future.

FINAL PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

The Penn Day Glee Club, Charles Agnew, director and pianist, will appear in the College at the third and final program next Tuesday evening, and have been approved by the C. L. A. C.

The club, which began, and developed under the direction of Agnew, has been organized for the purpose of representing the College in the Penn Relays. The 1935 Penn Relays will be held on April 26 and 27.

The club is composed of fifteen members, and is accompanied by Agnew at the piano. Agnew is a graduate of the College, and attended the College for three years.

The program will consist of solos and ensemble numbers. The solos will be by Agnew, and the ensemble numbers will be by the entire membership of the club.

MUSICIANS IN TWO MEETINGS SHOW PROMISE

Many Represented Players Present Up, College Orchestra Reassembles.

After an event scheduled, the College orchestra met for the first time in its history. Professor Agnew, director, has been busy since beginning in singing as to the organization of the orchestra.

Many musicians have been attending the meetings, and the number and experience shows the orchestra is going to be a success. Many musicians are needed for instruments and there is room for more players.

Four college musicians, Hedgecock, Bowers, Hamblen, and Hamblen, have been selected to play in the College orchestra. Miss Hamblen is the pianist, and Miss Bowers is the violinist.

Miss Hedgecock is the saxophonist, and Hedgecock is the trumpeter.

Professor Agnew has been very much encouraged with the progress of the orchestra, and is hopeful that the organization will be a success.

THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

A Cordial—For Hearty Invitation Is Extended to Students to Attend Services.

The Thanksgiving message of the United States to the people of the nation, designated the observance of Thursday, November 28, as a day for Thanksgiving and prayer.

A CURE FOR CHILDISHNESS

Of course we have a few children at High Point College; every school has its quasi-humorists, its smart-alecks, sometimes known as rah-rah boys or dumb co-eds, by the outbreaks of the above mentioned types is the defacing of notices posted on the bulletin board, or the placing of irrelevant material upon the board for no real purpose. The busy student who stops to read the serious notices is apt to be annoyed at the ridiculous remarks penciled thereon, and at the unsanctioned names added to the program or to any other official announcement of some organization.

As a cure for this particular form of childishness, we offer the suggestion, made by a junior, that the bulletin board be fronted with glass, a padlock added, and a committee be appointed to pass upon all notices that are to be posted. We believe that this would not only bring the bulletin board nearer to its true purpose, but would also do something to relieve the noisy congestion in the hall between classes. There are plenty of legitimate outlets for energy on the campus without centering so much upon one poor, helpless bulletin board.

SALUTE TO ANOTHER MUSE

It has long been an accepted tradition that a college community maintains a standard of culture higher than that of an industrial or agrarian center. It is taken for granted that a college will attract distinguished visitors, that it will maintain well-known scholars, and that it will foster the fine arts. As a result of these premises, the name of any established university or college village carries a connotation of intellectual superiority—call it sophistication if you must. Think of New Haven, Cambridge, Princeton, Chapel Hill, or even the village seat of some smaller school and you are apt to think of writers, historians, scientists, philosophers, and musicians in connection with the spirit of these places.

And since the College has a traditional obligation to add something to the cultural life of the city of High Point, revived interest in music here as manifested in the organization of a band and an orchestra. No liberal arts college should be coldly materialistic, teaching students the bare technique of preaching a sermon, running a business, or teaching school and adding nothing to their appreciation of the arts. We feel that High Point College, with its lyceum course, its a capella choir, its dramatics department, and its talented faculty members, is doing its part for the community which has done so much to bring it into being. And so we are glad that yet another art is being fostered on the campus to further the reputation of the College for brlnging the best things to High Point.

YOUNG HIGH POINT COLLEGE

During the course of his welcome to the returning alumni, the president of the College made the suggestion that High Point College during the twelve years of its existance has far outstripped the advance made by almost any other institution during the first decade or two of its history. Dr. Humphreys pointed to the increase in enrollment and the expansion of the physical plant as indications of the almost immediate success of this Methodist Protestant College at High Point.

Before kicking about what you think are the unquestioned deficiencies of High Point—and every school has them—you might be just a little more tolerant because of the extreme youth of the College. If there are inadequacies in the buildings and in the curriculum, and if the social program is incomplete, remember that you have retribution in the opportunity for adding something to the school. Contribute toward a worthy project, or volunteer your services for construction of some needed improvement, and you have done something to make a better College for those who are to follow after you, perhaps your own children. In the years to come, the present members of the student body will be looked upon as early figures in the history of High Point College, and you have therefore a much better chance of being remembered for your services here. Ours is the opportunity and ours should be the spirit of pioneers.

OUR TORY COLLEGE EDITORS

From Student Life

The magazine, "Pulse of the Nation," recently conducted a poll of college editors to determine their political affiliations and their choice for President in 1936. The editors turned out to be predominantly Democratic and picked President Roosevelt for their candidate.

The men who received votes interested us. College editors being what they are, ballots were of course cast for Mae West and Adolf Hitler. That didn't surprise us. What did surprise us was the generally conservative tone of the selections. Of the 10 men who received over 2 votes, Norman Thomas is the only one whose name is connected with any particular left-wing tendencies. And, ironically enough, Mr. Thomas shares fourth place with Mr. Hoover.

Also interesting is that the college boys picked few new names, they went for such familiar wheelhorses as Borah, Glass, Ritchie, and Smith.

There were 386 Democratic editors, 183½ Republicans, 45 Socialists, 20½ Communists, and 11½ "Miscellaneous."

Whether this poll means anything we do not know. [illegible] is not really radical. Perhaps it indicates that the editors merely answered the first thing they thought of. Certainly college editors do not speak for young people as a whole.

We don't know, though. Most college editors are seniors and, as such, are pretty darn smart. We don't know of anybody who knows more than a college editor.

HONORARY FRAT IS DISBANDED AT INDIANA

Movement Started to Close Unnecessary Social and Honor Groups.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Greencastle, Ind.—Beginning of a general movement for the abolition on the Indiana University campus here of honorary fraternities that fail to justify their existence, and perhaps of social fraternities also, was predicted by student leaders following the announcement recently that members of Phi Delta Gamma, honorary journalistic, debating and dramatic fraternity, had decided to disband.

The action was commended by Dean C. E. Edmondson, who said, "If the members of Phi Delta Gamma felt that their organization was not doing any constructive work and was, therefore, not justified, they did the wise thing by disbanding. Undoubtedly there are other organizations on the campus that are not justified."

Members of the fraternity were influenced by general campus criticism of the organization, accused of performing no function not adequately handled by Theta Alpha Phi, Tau Kappa Alpha or Sigma Delta Chi, serving the same fields, dramatics, debating and journalism, respectively, that were purported to be served by Phi Delta Gamma.

The Daily Student, Indiana Paper, has long advocated a clean-up of honorary organizations.

The Women's National Republican Club has announced an "anti-New Deal school of political science" for young women of New York.

It is all gentle spoofing, no doubt, but most entertaining—this story the columnist in the student paper at the University of Illinois is telling.

A state senator, returning from the capital to his home town, was met at the station by an angry constituent who berated him for not cutting down the funds allotted to the state university.

"Don't you know," crackled the citizen, "Don't you know that at that school, men and women students have to matriculate together. Yessir! Furthermore, they have to use the same campus!"

This is the second time lately we have gotten onto the question of Minnesota prisons and there is no excuse for it. Except—except that we felt we just had to tell you the discovery made by extension course directors at the university of Minnesota.

We feel you should know that prisoners average higher in their correspondence courses than the day students on the campus who take the same courses! Seventy per cent of the convicts have A's or B's consistently.

You will realize what a tremendous event it was when Dartmouth beat Yale for the first time in history, when you learn that the whole editorial column in "The Dartmouth", generally rather staid and detached, was written in poetry, mind you, but enthusiastic, and evcrything rhymed:

It began:

"Listen, my children and you shall hear
Why Dartmouth cohorts raise cheer on cheer.
They've reached the end of a long, long trail—
Dartmouth has finally beaten Yale!"

Right alongside of that paragraph you should put this one. Oswald Villard, the great liberal writer, has been telling how the college press is improving, particularly in an editorial way.

The Yale News, says he, is the ideal college paper. Why? Because it does not hestitate to print editorials criticizing the president and college administration.

(Wonder if Mr. Villard has ever read the Columbia Spectator, or any one of a dozen other college papers that outshine the Yale News on that score.)

Culinary note:

Just discovered at the University of Washington that a college man there has just one chance in 400 of marrying a girl with home economics training.

Fairly interesting. Now if they will show the girls what chance they have of marrying a college man who can get a job and support them, we might have something.

John da Grassa, president of the American Football Institute, declares with vehemence that gambling on football games has become a national mania and is involving thousands of young high school students at the moment. To check all this, he would put a stop to the practice of sports writers "predicting" the outcome of games everywhere.

"Favorites" in horse racing, win about 35 per cent of the time, he says. Boxing favorites win 50 per cent of their contests, while in football, the favorites win about 85 per cent of the time.

STUDENTS RALLY TO STANDARDS OF PEACE

Demonstrations Generally Quiet With Little Disturbance at Colleges.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York—College students all over the country rallied last week to give the most impressive peace demonstration in American collegiate history.

Gathered in groups ranging from one or two hundred to well into the thousands, the men and women who would be asked to bear the brunt of 'the next war" reaffirmed their intention to do everything within their power to prevent armed conflict between the nations, and to stay out of it if they cannot prevent it.

The demonstrations were quiet, free from violence or disturbance in most instances, although anti-pacifist groups did make their presence felt on some campuses. Pamphlets ridiculing the demonstrators for peace were distributed in some places, and counter-rallies were staged. Five hundred members of the Boston University R. O. T. C. attended a mass metting, on orders from their commanding officers, who stated, however, it was their intention to "show that soldiers, too, seek peace."

In contrast to similar demonstrations in previous years, the demonstrations were for the most part well-ordered, quiet, and in deadly earnest.

John Hopkins university recently accepted a gift of 300 books from the Italian government. An expected anti-Fascist demonstration by students failed to materialize.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—After several unhappy months during which it took it on the chin several times from organized labor, made vain efforts to perform quickly some of the wonders its excess of ballyhoo led people to believe it would perform, and generally met reverses in formulating plans, the National Youth Administration is at last beginning to see a reasonable amount of light ahead. Its progress is still painfully slow, but there's been enough progress made to make it worth talking about.

Figures compiled show that one phase of the NYA program, its student aid function, is operating nicely, with some 1602 colleges and universities providing 104,501 under-graduates with financial aid, besides extending aid to 4500 graduate sutdents in 177 schools. This part of the program continued by the NYA from the similar program of the FERA's Emergency Education Division, surpasses from the standpoint of students aided the similar work done a year ago by the division.

The general impression that the NYA program is mainly for young males is erroneous, especially in connection with student aid. Better than 50 per cent of the students receiving such aid are young women.

The other sections of the program are not faring anywhere near as well as student aid. The huge nationwide project approved by the NYA to provide jobs for 200,000 young people at a cost of $22,000,000, is still and has been for some time on the desk of Comptroller-General McCarl.

Opinion at NYA headquarters is that it will be released by McCarl very shortly, but no one knows just what that means. When put into operation the project will employ 94,000 young people on local projects in public service capacities, 55,000 as recreational leaders in urban centers, 20,000 leaders for rural areas, 4,000 on public records, and another 15,000 will be given work as assistants in traffic checks, parole, and delinquency, sanitation, health and welfare activities, leaving 10,000 for miscellaneous jobs. WPA wages will be paid on all the local units of this nation-wide project. It is thought that about 40 per cent of the jobs planned will be suitable for young women.

Early hopes for an apprentice program whereby employers could be induced to take on young men and women and train them for skilled jobs, dashed by the opposition of organized labor, are coming to life again. In various sections of the country labor, having gotten over its first fear of the unknown in the NYA's apprentice plans, is withdrawing its opposition. Slowly the number of apprentices taken on by employers through NYA aid is mounting, while labor watches carefully to see how it works out.

Probably one reason labor is now less suspicious of the NYA is because of the stand NYA officials have taken against expoitation of young men and women by employers seeking to depress wages. Officials know of many cases in which employers offered work to young jobseekers at a miserable wage, which the jobseekers were willing to accept. In such cases NYA placement people have strongly advised their young clients against giving impetus to future exploitation by accepting such wages.

Working with limited funds, some $50,000,000 with which it is hoped to give work, student aid, or educational facilities to three million youths on relief plus other young people not on relief, the NYA of necessity has had to remain a paper organization using available facilities wherever possible possible, "wangling" things by hook or by crook. Many of its weaknesses are directly traceable to lack of funds. Others arise from the fact that it is no mean task to find means whereby millions of young people can be given decent economic status in society when millions of their elders, many with superior training and skill, are unemployed. Aubrey Williams, NYA chief, states his position with admirable candor when he says forcefully:

"As to private industry. We cannot hope to inject hundreds of thousands of new workers into an industrial machine which is still spewing out experienced workers."

STUDENT REMAINS IN TRANCE THREE DAYS

Professor Hypnotizes Student and Is Unable to Bring Him Back.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Atlanta, Ga.—Charles Hudson, Emory University student, spent three days in a hypnotic trance recently when the professor who had inadvertently hypotized him was unable to bring him out of it.

Prof. W. G. Workman of Emory's phychology department attempted to hypnotize a student for demonstration purposes during a lecture. He was unsuccessful, and was about to give up when he noticed that Hudson, watching, had gone into a rigid trance. When he refused to respond to normal treatment, Prof. Workman prescribed exercise and normal activity, and for three days Hudson was walked about the campus, taken for rides, to the movies.

Suddenly, on the third day, he blinked and asked what had happened.

SAYS SHARK HUNTING IS EXCITING SPORT

Hawaiian Student at New Mexico University Describes Technique.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Albuquerque, N. M.—Any hunting that is available in America is fairly tame compared with the exciting sport of hunting sharks from an open boat, according to Bill Baker, Hawaiian student at the University of New Mexico.

Favorite method of Hawaiian shark-hunters, says Baker, is to attract a few sharks with a bait of dead pig or a cow's leg, shoot them with rifles or pistols, watch them fight among themselves for a while and then haul 'em aboard with harpoons.

Once aboard, the fish are cut open and contents noted. Tin cans, bones, bottles and even old clothes are sometimes found.

Says one Mississippi College coed, the best reason for coming to college is her's: "I came to college so I could make more money so I could go to more places and see more things."

BEAT KERNERSVILLE

Locals Defeat Kannapolis Shin-Busters By 3-1 Mark

Players on Both Teams Handicapped by Strong Wind and Cold Weather; Small Crowd.

In a game greatly hampered by a strong wind and intense cold weather, the Purple Panther shin-busters of High Point College trounced the Kannapolis Y Towelers by the score of 3-1 Saturday afternoon on the college field. Although the main feature on the afternoon program of the third annual Homecoming Day, only a small crowd witnessed the contest.

Neither team was able to play up to par because of the bad weather. The Panthers kept the ball in the Kannapolis territory the greater part of the time in the first half, but they lacked that final punch in their offensive drive, and failed to tally during the two initial quarters. Kannapolis had their hands full guarding their own goal from the Panther thrusts, and never threatened to score. The half ended with a 0-0 tie.

Early in the third quarter Culler, playing his usual game at center, broke through the enemy line to place a kick through the goal for the initial tally of the contest. Apparently finding themselves after playing in the cold for one half, the Panthers opened up on their offensive to score another, with Koontz, flashy lineman, doing the booting.

Going into the fourth quarter on the long end of a 2-0 count, Culler scored another soon after the whistle to run the lead up to 3-0. Then the teams settled down to hard, but at times erratic, playing until the close of the game, when Kirchin broke through the High Point defense to give the Towelers their lone tally of the contest.

The game was the high spot of the afternoon program of sports which included with the game, a tumbling exhibition by the College team, a basketball game between the freshman squad and Fairgrove High, and an exhibition contest by the varsity and reserve squads. A volleyball contest wound up the sports card.

The Smith brothers, Carl and Chet, both High Point graduates and former Panther shin-busters, appeared in the opposing line and played a good game against their alma mater. Kirchin was their outstanding offensive player.

Intrieri, playing at the goal in the place of Niernsee, who is out with an injured knee, turned in a stellar performance. Culler and Koontz featured on offensive. Ellington, an end, also did some excellent blocking and passing.

The line-up:

High Point	Pos.	Kannapolis
Intrieri	G	Fink
Isley	LF	C. Smith
Elder	RF	J. Hutton
Sherrill	LF	Barger
Grigg	CH	Smith
Harris	RH	R. Clutz
Ellington	OR	Barnett
Martin	IR	Kirchin
Culler	C	MacDonald
Peeler	IL	J. Craig
Koontz	OL	Griffith

Scorers: High Point—Culler, 2; Koontz. Kannapolis—Kirchin.

Substitutions: High Point — Giles, Holmes, Haughtaling, Gray, Smith. Kannapolis — C. Clutz, Hilton, Harman, Williams.

SOCCER SQUAD OUT TO SCALP KERNERSVILLE

Prevading the week's athletic program with a sort of tense and expectant air is the seventh and all important Central Carolina league game with Kernersville Saturday when the Purple Panther soccer quad goes on the field in an attempt to wreak vengeance on the team which was the cause of their initial loss for this season and the five previous seasons.

This game which is to be played on the Kernersville soccer field is being looked forward to and prepared for as no other previous game has. Having for five years gone without a single loss, the High Point College Shin-buster lads began the current season by winning over Catawba in what was supposed to be the beginner of the sixth year of no losses, only to be emphatically set-back on the second league game, with Nemesis personified by the Kernersville boys. Saturday the High Point men again meet the now league leaders, Kernersville ,in a game on which hinges, probably, league leadership.

The standings of the league now after two months of play find Kernersville still leading the

They have returned and left another time. But the old grads and students made merry as ususal during the entire Homecoming Day and far, far into the night.

—o—

The sports program offered during the afternoon was both interesting and varied. Coach Yow and the others who helped in putting it across should be commended upon their work. Despite the cold weather the crowd wandered around the campus, following each event as it took place. Something new on a program of this kind was offered in the old game of horse shoe pitching. Although the matches were interesting, the invincible alumni team of Morgan and "Roundhead" proved to be too strong for the student teams.

—o—

Basketball fans were offered their first taste of the indoor sport when the two contests were played. Both the reserves and the varsity squads showed plenty of fight and pep in their exhibition contest. Although it is too early in the season for the players to perform in top shape, they all showed up well and worked together smooth considering everything.

—o—

If plans for the trip to Virginia and Maryland go through, the basketeers will act plenty of practice and experience early in the season and should be in excellent condition for the opening of the North State conference race immediately after the holidays.

—o—

Hats off to Coach Walker and his Elon football eleven! The Christians ran roughshod over the helpless Guilford eleven, 65-0, last Saturday to capture their third conference crown in as many years. It seems that Coach Walker's charges have a monopoly on the North State football crowns. Congratulations to you Christians. (But watch for the Purple Panthers on the basketball court).

—o—

The winner in another conference appeared during the past week when the Duke Blue Devils, after upsetting the Carolina Tar Heels and spoiling their Rose Bowl dreams the previous week, won out over N. C. State in their final game at Raleigh. By virtue of their 7-0 victory, the Wademen became 1935 champions of the Southern Conference as well as "Big Five" champs. This column predicted at the meginning of the season that Duke would end on top of the heap in the state race.

About a month ago the Panther soccer team tasted defeat for the first time in five years when Kernersville beat them by the score of 4-1 on the high school field. Many alibis were offered—Culler was out with an operation, Peeler out with an injured leg, and the whole team had its off-day. Saturday the shin-busters have a chance to prove the validity of these alibis. Many who saw the contest believe that the Pointers can win over the tough league squad. The players themselves are anxious to meet their conquerors with high hopes of gaining sweet revenge. A decisive victory over Kernersville Saturday would help a lot in healing the old wound, while another defeat would make matters worse.

The Panthers will win over Kernersville Saturday.

Akrothinians Trounce Thaleans In Inter-Society Volleyball Contest

The two men's literary societies so far forgot their dignity and learned pastimes that they stooped to the utter vulgarity of doing manual labor disguised under the name volleyball last Thursday. The Thaleans, evidently more used to using their heads, bowed to the hand-ier Akrothinians for the second time in as many years and despite the fact that they had as a member of their team one of the "biggest" men of the College were unable to earn by the "sweat of their brow" even one game out of three.

These games, which started at seven-thirty, were well supported by the brother members of the players as well as the feminine members of the sister societies. After a few practice serves and set-ups "Honey-bunny" Haughtelng, coach of the Akrothinian sextet and referee of the series, blew the starting whistle as the Thalcans served the initial ball. Naturally tense, the two teams, at first, muffed many easy shots and not until three or four minutes had passed did the participants settle down into machine-like movements as the back line set the ball up in order that the front line might have opportunity to continually drive.

The Thaleans, with Garlington as star, failed to give their leader the needed cooperation and so lost out from the first. On the other side of the net the Akrothinians showed more team work and more precision in both setting up and driving, having no special player as the main spring, thereby able to show the Thaleans even more steam than last year when a win was gotten with only a few points to spare. The friendly rivalry between the two societies will probably be carried on later in the year when a basketball series will be arranged.

Purple Panther Basketeers Begin Drills Early In Preparation For Coming Season

Large Squad Reports for Opening Practices; Captain Ronyecz Only Regular Not Back.

Heralding the approaching season of indoor sports, varsity basketball drills began at High Point College Wednesday afternoon, with 12 candidates reporting for the Purple Panther team. Others, including several regulars, are expected to report later.

With all of the regulars from last year's squad returning except Captain Ronyecz, stellar guard lost by graduation last spring, prospects are bright for a strong quint at the Methodist Protestant institution this year. The Yowmen, losing only to Elon and Guilford last year, captured second place close behind the Elon Christians in the North State conference race. A more experienced aggregation will represent High Point this season, with several sophomores back who made the squad in their freshman year.

Coach C. V. Yow, who is beginning his fourth year as basketball mentor at High Point, will drill his men in the fundamentals in the early practice sessions. The first of the pre-season games with the Y and industrial teams will be played within two weeks, it has been announced by the officials.

The men reporting yesterday were: Rogers, Brinkley, Peeler, Harris, Intrieri, Diamont, Koontz, Grigg, Bass, Watkins, Kearns, and Towery. Those to report are: Culler Martin, Elder, Humphreys, and Booth. A "B" team will be formed of those who are unable to make the varsity, making three teams on the campus with the varsity and freshmen.

Plans are being made for a Northern trip during the early part of the Christmas holidays for the basketeers. Although the itinerary has not been completed, the Panthers will play several teams in Virginia and Maryland.

No games will be played with North State Conference aggregations until after the holidays. The complete schedule for the year will be released in a week or two, it has been announced by Coach Yow. The season will be brought to a close with the first annual North State conference tournament, which will be held this time in the Harrison gymnasium the last of February.

HOMECOMING SPORT EVENTS FURNISH VARIED FEATURES

Central Carolina Soccer Tilt Between Varsity Squad and Kannapolis Heads Program; Alumni Team Wins Horse Shoe Pitching Contest; Exhibitions in Tumbling, Basketball and Volleyball.

Headed by the Central Carolina soccer tilt between the Panther eleven and the Kannapolis Y team, a varied and interesting sports program, featuring besides soccer, horse shoe pitching, tumbling, basketball and volleyball, was given for the alumni and students during the annual Homecoming celebration last Saturday afternoon.

Although the extremely cold weather cut down on the attendance at the soccer game and horse shoe pitching contest, the only conteets held in the open, most of the events were witnessed by a considerable crowd of students and old grads. Many former Panthers watched from the sidelines, perhaps with an envious eye, as the freshmen, reserve and varsity basketball squads performed on the court. The alumni-varsity basketball contest was canceled, but ex-Panthers played against Panthers on the soccer field, as the Smith brothers appeared in the Kannapolis lineup.

The horse shoe pitching contest, the only event involving the alumni and student teams, was first on the program and came immediately after the luncheon in the dining hall. Experience and age won out in the fight with strength and youth, as the alumni team, composed of John Morgan and Paul Brinkley, trounced first the Sherrill-Ingle combination, and then came back even stronger to win over the second student team, Isley and Massey, making a clean sweep of the games.

Following this contest, an exhibition of acrobatic stunts was presented in the gymnasium by former members of the college tumbling team. Only a few performers were obtainable, and the performance was necessarily restricted to those stunts requiring little practice and a few men. The lack of an adequate number was due to the fact that tumbling is not included in the physical education program this year.

In the first of the basketball games, which was held at the same time as the soccer game, the freshman and Fairgrove High squads fought to a 22-22 draw. The visiting lads held the edge over the frosh during the first half, the period ending with them in the lead, 13-8. With Hester, who was shifted to a forward position, and Jarrett, leading the attack, the Kittens came from behind in the last minutes to gain a tie.

Towery, the outstanding player on the squad who led the Kittens during their invasion of Cleveland county, did not appear in the contest, but has been moved up to the varsity squad. Hester, with 10 points, and Jarrett, with 6, were outstanding on offense for the Kittens, while Black,

BLUE DEVILS TAKE CONFERENCE CROWN

The powerful nemesis of a hopeful N. C. U. team, the Duke Blue Devils, clinched the 1935 Southern conference championship title as well as the top rung of the state football ladder when Ace Parker, stellar Blue Devil back, raced 40 yards to score against N. C. State College in an otherwise close game Saturday.

This winning score came on the third play of the second quarter, just after the always alert Jack Hennemier, Devil center, had snagged a pass heaved by Eddie Berlinski of State. On the first down Parker popped through his left tackle, cut toward the sidelines, sprinted like a deer and scored without being scratched after leaving the line of scrimmage.

In the national field of gridiron contests we find the once abundant list of undefeated teams being whittled faster and faster to an almost minute nub as Rose Bowl, conference or state hopefuls join the ranks of the conquered. California's Golden Bears were lopped off the national championship list Saturday as Princeton, Minnesota, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian roared along the undefeated trail unchecked.

A crowd of 90,000, the day's largest, saw Stanford's Indians ruining California's hopes of an unbeaten season, a Pacific coast conference title and a berth in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day. Scoring twice in rapid succession in the first quarter, the Indians won 13 to 0.

Despite a heavy snow storm, Princeton's unbeaten Tigers demonstrated their right to high national ranking by crushing Dartmouth into the oblivion of a once beaten team, 26 to 6 before a capacity crowd of 58,000.

Minnesota, walloping Wisconsin, 33-7, wound up its third consecutive season with a string of 17 victories in a row and no defeats in the last 24 games. But the Minnesota eleven will have to share the 1935 title to the Big Ten championship with Ohio State whose Buckeyes climaxed an unbeaten conference campaign with an easy 38 to 0 rout of Michigan.

Yet withal these verifications of the prognosticator's predictions we find an even larger number of upsets to the predicting one's dope. Northwestern got no better than a scoreless draw with Iowa; Illinois bowed to Chicago; picture with a 7-0 loss; Iowa took and Purdue stepped out of the Kansas over the jumps, 12-12, while Missouri was tieing Kansas State in a 7-7 deadlock.

In the East Yale defeated Harvard, 14-7; Columbia walloped Brown, 18-0; Colgate won over Rutgers, 27-0; West Virginia shellacked Washington and Jefferson, 51-0; and Army, getting ready for the Navy game, took Vermont in stride, 34-0.

Elon took care of the Little Six conference by absolutely swamping their arch rivals in a 56-0 track meet when they met the Guilford Quakers Saturday at Greensboro.

Niernsee Lost To Panther Booters

Frank Niernsee, collegiate tennis champ, soccer and basketball player, will be out the remainder of the soccer season with an injured knee, it was recently learned.

The flashy sophomore goal keeper received the injury in the Davidson game on November 15. Water has collected on the knee, and the doctor put the injured limb in a cast last week.

Both the soccer and basketball teams will feel his loss keenly. He will not be able to start basketball training before the holidays, but should report for duty immediately after if the knee responds to the treatment correctly.

Princeton, N. J.—In the opinion of the serious-minded class of 1940 at Princeton, things to be desired at that university are music with dinner and dinner without scrambled eggs, larger cream pitchers at all times, the addition of co-eds and abolition of classes.

Otherwise, say the frosh, the place is all right.

Leaflets advertising a Nazi book were found inserted into a standard German text at CCNY recently. They were removed and ordered destroyed.

Co-Ed Sports

By Marguerite Jenkins

With the dates of our intramural volleyball tournament approaching, we might do well to begin to think of some sound sportsmanlike philosophy to apply during the course of the games. We often find such philosophy expressed in verse—not too good verse—but verse which aptly phrases the code of the good sport:

When the Great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He writes not that you won or lost—
But how you played the game.

Then, too, there are good expressions of the same attitude in prose.

The Code of Honor of a Sportsman is that:
He keep the rules,
He keep faith with his comrade,
play the game for his side,
He keep himself fit,
He keep his temper,
He keep from hitting a man who is down,
He keep a stout heart in defeat
accepted with good grace,
He keep a sound soul and a clean mind in a healthy body.

Our main purpose in having woman's athletics is to promote good sportsmanship on the athletic field and in social and scholastic life. The volleyball tournament starts the first week in December. There are a number of questions to be answered if we are to "get going" in the right frame of mind. What is good sportsmanship? Am I a good sport? How does my attitude affect my team? Can I improve it? All of us can be good sports and possess the attributes of fair play. We need extra effort to promote fine sportsmanship among

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

The varsity squad trounced the reserves, or "B" squad, by the score of 29-9 in an exhibition contest following the freshman battle. Intrieri, playing at forward instead of customary guard position, showed up the best in the early scrimmage. He scored 11 points while in the contest. Red Towery, a freshman cager moved up to the varsity, proved his worth by scoring 6 points and playing a good game otherwise. All the reserves were well guarded and got few chances at the basket. Humphreys led his squad in scoring with 5 points, while Diamont secured 3 and Rogers 1. Yow used a total of 16 men in the game, 9 on the reserve and 7 on the varsity. Intrieri, Harris, Brinkley, Towery, Elder, Culler, and Martin played on the varsity. For the "B" squad were: Diamont, Grigg, Koontz, Peeler, Booth, Rogers, Watkins, Humphreys, and Kearns.

Medical Student Is Able to Finish Education With $71,000 Bequest.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Detroit.—Two weeks ago he was supporting himself on the meager profits of a news stand in downtown Detroit, but today William Dix, 27, is ready to finish his medical education at Harvard. He has $71,000 for the purpose.

Dix was totally unprepared for the good news that came to him with a notice that an uncle has left him the fortune. He said he didn't know what to do with the money except to repay his landlady for some of her kindness and finish his medical education.

Several years ago he completed four years of pre-medical work at the Cincinnati School of Medicine, but there were no immediate means to finance his further education.

Two years ago Dix's father died, and his mother died two months later. His uncle, the late Dr. Robert C. Miller, offered to help him then, but he decided to make his own way.

He'll be "careful" of the $71,000.

One more week of practice for the tournament. Come out and show some real spirit and loyalty for your class!

We are wondering what is going on up in the attic of Woman's Hall. The W. A. A. is doing a lot of work up there. Let's hope we'll all soon be able to learn what it's all about.

Just a little reminder for those working for points: five may go hiking with a member of the athletic council. Credit will be given with each mile. Hiking points must be handed to Virginia Grant not later than three days after the hike.

Have you noticed that the volleyball net has been repaired, and that we have some new equipment? Mr. Gunn made this possible. Hurray! No longer do we have to be standard-bearers!

Minneapolis, Minn. — Prisoners at Minnesota's Stillwater penitentiary who are enrolled in University of Minnesota extension courses have a higher scholastic average than day students taking the same courses.

Although the greater number of the prisoners enrolled have had only one or two years of high school training, their grades show that 70 per cent or more have a consistent marks of A or B, with the subjects studied falling about half and half between university and high school courses.

The are allowed to study only between 6 and 9 p. m., but 20 out of 28 prison students received A's and B's during October, and there were no D's, E's or F's recorded.

This set-up as enumerated here should give the Kernersville men considerable worry and place them under a strain because they have practically everything to lose and nothing to gain in Saturday's contest while the Furniture City boys have everything to gain. Because of this fact the numerous fans are looking forward to another one of the many upsets of the year.

The debating season will not get under full swing until after the Christmas holidays, although one or two practice contests may be held in December. Requests for meetings have been received from the squads of several colleges, and the schedule may include one long itinerary similar to last year's mid-western jaunt.

Third Lyceum Featured By Negro Choir

Twin City Glee Club Appears In Third Program of College Lyceum Series.

VARIED PROGRAM

Negro Spirituals, English and Irish Folk Pieces Are Sung by Choristers.

The Twin City Glee Club, under the direction of Phillip W. Jeffries, appeared last night in the third College lyceum program of the year.

The glee club consists of ten male Negro voices. They sang selections ranging from the customary Negro spirituals to English folk songs and classical choir numbers. The program opened with "Oh, Hail Us Ye Free," by Parks, and "Swing Along," by Cook.

After a brief intermission, the choristers came back to sing Parks' arrangement of Riley's poem, "Little Orphan Annie." This poem has been especially adapted to Negro voices and is called "The Goblins." A second Parks number, "The City Choir," was followed by the old English air, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." A diminutive member of the glee club with a flair for dramatics added novelty to the next number, "Exaltation," by Dett.

A Negro quartette sang the Irish favorite, "Mother Machree," and the Southern spiritual, "Waiting For God," in the second part of the program. A double quartette sang Shelly's "De Copper Moon," and Tosti's "Goodbye."

The most popular part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a group of Negro spirituals sung by the entire club. Novelty was added to these selections by the various members of the club who came to the front to lead the songs. Several of the leaders added dramatic as well as vocal effects to the numbers, drawing encores from the delighted audience. Especially popular with the listeners was the smallest member of the club, who added wing-flapping effects to the spiritual, "I Belong to the Bloodwashed Army." Other numbers given in this part of the

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City.—Teachers applying for jobs in New York City schools are contemplating writing a new ditty which will have a title which goes something like this, "The Board of Examiners Will Git Ya If Ya Don't Watch Out."

And especially this new song will be chanted by the college and university graduates who hold masters and doctors degrees, for the board has a new pronunciation examination that is a "beaner", if we are to judge from some of the results given in a few of the tests.

Here are a few of the new additions to lexicology made by the examinees:

Manger rhymes with anger.

Assuidity should rhyme with liquidity.

Lamentable accented on the second syllable.

Maniacal is accented on the first syllable.

And, in the field of word definitions, their new contributions included:

Noisome has to do with clamor.

Littoral with unpoetic language.

Temerity with lack of courage.

Machinations are a form of labor-saving machinery.

Fatuous is related to corpulency.

Commenting, the report of the board said: "Apparently the explanation of a marked weakness in vocabulary is to be found in a habit of reading carelessly or inattentively, or perhaps in the lack of habit of reading at all outside of the limited field of elementary subject-matter."

Lindley Speaks To Students At Chapel Service

College Dean Talks at Assembly Friday on "Help That Really Helps."

Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of the College, spoke at last Friday's chapel session on "Help that Really Helps."

In answering the question as to what kind of help really helps, as to what type of assistance is kindest and most enduring, the speaker said that the desire to help should be at the heart of every individual.

"Will giving him what he wants be a really good thing?" Dr. Lindley suggested that altruism can be wrong instead of right, not in motive, but in effect. He described those parents who coddle a child, do everything for him, forget that he is growing up, so that by the time he leaves home he is unable, not only to act for himself, but to think for himself. The dean suggested that a thing is good only as it is directed by wisdom.

"The things that mean most," declared Dr. Lindley, "can never be given away." He further stated that all one person can give another is an equipment, and that making a successful gift of any type is a very difficult matter. He appropriately quoted lines reading,

"I ask thee for a love that understands
When to stretch out, when to withdraw, its hands."

All love, concluded the speaker, should wish to help, to give good and helpful gifts. And the only good gift, he believed, is the gift which adds to the good qualities of a man.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HOLDS SONG SERVICE

Society Observes Monthly Consecration Night With Hymn Service.

The program for the Christian Endeavor Society last Sunday night was in the form of a song service. The call to worship, "Come Thou Almighty King," was sung, followed by the singing of "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" as a prayer. Virginia Grant read the revised version of "The Lord Is My Shepherd" while Agnes Louise Wilcox played the tune. "Let the Words of My Mouth" was sung, after which Helen Hunter read the poem, "Be Strong," accompanied at the piano by Miss Wilcox.

For sentence prayers the group was divided in four sections and sang the four verses of "Just As Am." "We Give Thee But Thine Own" was sung as the offertory. Three verses of "Mid All the Traffic of Our Ways" were sung, and the fourth verse was hummed by the girls and whistled by the boys.

In keeping with the season, Come Ye Thankful People Come" was sung. Verses of "For the Beauty of the Earth" were sung alternately by the girls and boys.

Since it was consecration night the roll was called, and instead of responding with the usual verse of scripture, each member gave the title of his favorite hymn.

"Abide With Me" was sung as the closing prayer and the meeting was dismissed with the Mizpah benediction.

QUERY RAISES ROW ON PENNSYLVANIA CAMPUS

Philadelphia, Pa. — A questionnaire skirmish recently embroiled men and women on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

The Daily Pennsylvanian started it by asking the men whether they preferred pretty girls or smart ones, slinky or fluffy evening dresses, and other questions of importance in higher education.

The girls countered with a questionnaire for women students which began:

"Do you like intelligent men or the typical college boy?"

Editors of college newspapers, magazines and yearbooks are overwhelmingly in favor of the re-election of Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt, according to a recent poll.

MISS MAXWELL TO BE NEXT HOUSE HOSTESS

Yarborough and Rulfs Will Be Guests at Formal Dinner This Evening.

Guests for a formal dinner in the home economics practice house this evening will be N. P. Yarborough and D. J. Rulfs, of the College faculty.

Mary Margaret Bates, present hostess, had her "company dinner" at the noon hour last Sunday. The guests were Dwight Dixon and Thomas Cox of Greensboro, and Helen Bates, '39.

Last Friday evening Miss Bates was hostess at a chicken and waffle supper at which her guests were Harry Allen of Reidsville and Chapel Hill, Paul Owen, '37, and Dot Bell, '37. As her guest earlier in the day Miss Bates had Virginia Massey, of Pleasant Hill, a graduate of the College with the class of '35, who had lunch with the home economists.

Friday morning after breakfast the last change will occur in household duties. At this time Miss Bates will give up her hostess rights to Gladys Maxwell and take up the cooking end of the housekeeping, which Miss Maxwell has had in charge for the past ten days. Catherine Farlowe and Elizabeth Pirtle will exchange duties as maid and host.

The practice house will close on December 16. Mrs. N. P. Yarborough, head of the department of home economics, is supervisor of the house.

WOMEN LAWYERS HAVE PLACE IN PROFESSION SAY FAMOUS JURISTS

Legal Calling Has Much to Learn From Women According to Lawyers.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—There's plenty of room in the legal profession for women, and the bar has much to learn from women lawyers.

That is the opinion of Miss Agnes Craig, first woman municipal court justice to be elected in New York City and Magistrate Anna M. Kross, two of the most successful woman lawyers in America.

"Judges look at a woman lawyer, first as a woman, and then as a lawyer," says Justice Craig. "There is one thing she can teach them, and that is dignity. She must not assume the attitude of a man, either in dress or manner of speech. But she must try her cases in a manly fashion, by which I mean simply that she must be thoroughly prepared and capable.

"Eighteen years ago, when I began practice, there was curiosity about any woman who went into law. Today there is less curiosity, but there is the attitude that every woman who steps into a courtroom must prove her individual worth. She must ask no favors because she is a woman, she must expect no encouragement from men. But if she is able, she will reflect credit on herself and her profession."

X-RAY MAY BE USED TO PRODUCE BLONDS

Scientist Says Color of Hair and Complexion May Be Changed.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Syracuse, N. Y.—If you're a red-head and don't like it, or a brunette who craves blonde tresses, don't give up hope. Peroxide isn't the only recourse for present developments in the X-ray field have led scientists to believe that X-ray may be used to change a person's complexion and the color of his hair.

The matter was discussed here recently at the annual meeting of the Western New York X-ray technicians. Dr. Alden J. King, professor of radiological research at Syracuse University, recounted development of a radioactive substance which he said had properties similar to and more powerful than radium and which promised some success in the treatment of cancer.

WALK PROJECT APPROVED FOR HARRISON GYM

Four Literary Societies Vote to Combine for Walkway, Steps Project.

With final approval given by the Nikanthan and Thalean literary societies, plans are going ahead for the construction of a walkway between McCulloch Hall and Harrison Gymnasium. Work will be started before the Christmas holidays, and the entire project is expected to be completed before the beginning of the basketball season.

The walkway, which will lead out from the gymnasium and connect with the walk behind the men's dormitory, and which will include steps from the driveway to the ground in front of the gym, is being built as a combined project of the four literary societies. In order to keep the cost of construction down to a minimum, the members of the men's societies will haul the sand for the contractor and perhaps assist in other ways. Loose brick furnished by the College will be used as filler in the steps.

This project will replace the two gifts which are usually made at the annual Thalean-Nikanthan and Akrothinian-Artemesian society days. The four classes last year combined in a similar project to install heat and dressing rooms in the gymnasium, and with the building of a walkway the original plans for the building will be virtually fulfilled.

FLORIDA UNIVERSITY TO TRY NOVEL PLAN

Freshmen Will Be Subjects of Educational Experiment at University.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Gainesville, Fla.—Freshmen at the University of Florida who are mid-way through their first term are subjects of a new experiment in higher education. The enrollment of the class of 1939 marked the launching of Florida's new General College, organized to administer the work of the freshman and sophomore years from a point of distinctly new departure.

Avowed purposes of the new undertaking are to offer an opportunity for general education and to provide the guidance needed by all students in order that the choice of professional work may be postponed until the student knows better his capacity and disposition to undertake work that will be profitable to himself and society; to broaden the base of education for the students who are preparing for advanced studies in colleges and professional schools in addition to their two years of work in the General College.

To satisfy the needs of those who have only a limited time to give to college training and consequently should concern themselves with general viewpoint and major understandings, instead of introductions to special subject matter fields which they may never enter and to provide for the constant adjustments required in higher general education incident to the changing conditions of modern life.

Subject matter of the various courses and the methods of the presentation are to be constantly varied in order to awaken the interest of the student, stimulate his intellectual curiosity, and cultivate the attitude necessary for enlightened citizenship.

Cane Rush Slows Down

Columbus, O. — Class prestige doesn't mean much to Ohio State students any more, oldsters moaned last week when it became apparent that the cane rush, traditional frosh-soph battle, wasn't causing much excitement.

Most-evident attitude of students questioned by an Ohio State Lantern reporter: "I may be there, if I don't have to work, or if I don't go hunting."

SORORITY HAS FORMAL BANQUET AT SHERATON

Sigma Alpha Phi Uses "Treasure Island" as the Theme for Annual Affair.

Saltines, salter remarks, and still more salty atmosphere, were among the features of the sixth annual banquet of the Sigma Alpha Phi sorority, held last Friday evening at the Sheraton Hotel.

The theme of the banquet was the recently popular song "Treasure Island," with a further background of Robert Louis Stevenson's novel. A miniature island, with palms and hills, was one of the features of the decoration, and menus and programs were in the form of small black anchors, lettered in gold. Even the toasts were saltily phrased.

Pattie Bartee welcomed the guests with "Sail Away to Treasure Island," and Mary Parham took them away from the more prosaic things with her "Farewell to the Admiral Benbow." Miss Vera Idol replied with the injunction that the merry crew "Up With Your Anchors, Draw Your Sails, and Sail!" Margaret Smith's salute to the "Buccaneers at the Helm" was answered by Mrs. H. L. Spessard with thanks to "The Crew We Guide." Gladys Maxwell hailed the graduate members as "Seadogs and Mutineers," and Virginia Massey returned the salutation with interest in her tribute to "Seafaring Lads." Cornelia Howard described "Treasure Island, its Pirates, Treasures, and Cannibals," and Pattie Bartee brought the program to a close with a confirmation of all that had gone before, and wished for all the crew fine weather in the future. The affair closed with the chanting of John Silver's old seasong concerning the "Fifteen men on the dead man's chest."

TWO PENN STATE MEN DEVOTED TO ANCIENT SPORT OF FALCONRY

Freshmen Hunt With Bird After Manner of Sport in Middle Ages.

State College, Pa.—Devotees of one of the most unusual of all sports—the ancient art of falconry—are Frank and John Craighead, twin brothers who are freshmen at Penn State. They have been training and hunting falcons since boyhood, and they brought "Ulysses," peregrine hawk who is their present star performer, to school with them this fall.

Ulysses, although now living in comparative domesticity, has the same blood in his veins as the falcons of four and five centuries ago, when the birds were so highly prized that only a noble could own one. The brothers would match him against any falcon that ever lived, they say.

"What do you feed him, seed and things like that?" the twins were asked.

"Meat, beef," they said. "It makes him strong." It isn't merely a matter of putting the meat in the birdhouse, placed in the yard where the boys can keep an eye on the falcon from their room, filled with photographs of former pet hawks. Ulysses has to work for his food. One of the boys stands some distance from the perch, holding the meat in a gloved hand, and Ulysses takes to the air to make a dash for it. He must do this every time he's fed. It's good training for the business of "Coming to the lure" when he goes afield.

Ulysses does his hunting at a speed that would put him past a lot of airplanes, according to the brothers. Beginning to drop, he "stoop" on his prey from several hundred feet above, the hawk may be moving 180 miles an hour by the time he strikes, sends it tumbling dead to the ground with a blow from his balled talons. The game down, he flies back to his gloved master for his reward, a bit of meat.

Ulysses takes only game on the wing. The twins have had hawks trained to take rabbits and other game larger than themselves. Before coming to Penn States they freed Comet, a scarred veteran who had caught rabbits and squirrels.

Campus Holiday Is Featured By Turkey Dinner

Football Games Draw Many Students on Thanksgiving; Guests at Dinner.

A large number of student remained last Thursday to enjoy, with faculty guests, the turkey dinner which is always a feature of Thanksgiving at the College.

As only one day was allowed for the Thanksgiving holiday, very few students left the campus. Their number was almost supplied by the non-resident faculty members, who, according to custom, were guests in the College dining hall, with their families. Among the guests were Dr. R. M. Andrews, former president of the College, Mrs. Andrews, and their daughter and son Alma and Robert. Edith Guthrie, '34, and Virginia Massey, '35, both were visitors at the College for the entire week-end. Following the meal the off-campus guests were invited to go on a tour of inspection in Woman's Hall, where the rooms had been "swept and garnished" for the occasion.

Not all the students, however, remained on the campus. Some of them attended the Carolina-Virginia gridiron track meet at Chapel Hill. Others who remained broke out into loud rejoicing when the score of the game was determined—notable among the rejoicers was Miss Louise Adams, who received her Master's degree at the University.

A number of other students spent quiet days at home, according to their versions. Little data on the day students is available. Unique among the celebrators of the day were Marguerite and Violet Jenkins, who, instead of going home, entertained their parents, who drove down from Maryland, at the College.

One of the features of Thursday's dinner was a special table for the faculty children, who appeared to enjoy the day hugely.

ANDREWS SPEAKS TO STUDENT MINISTERS

Church Conference President Speaks on "The Minister as Contact Man."

Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the North Carolina conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, and a former president of the College, spoke to the student Ministerial Association at its regular meeting last Wednesday. The speaker was introduced by Ferman Wright after the chaplain had read a Psalm and offered prayer as a devotional service.

Dr. Andrews spoke on "The Minister as a Contact Man." He stressed the importance of sincerity.

"Believe you have a message that everybody needs;" he said, "put it across in such a way that the people will believe they need it, and that you mean what you say. Make a demonstration; you must prove that you have a little better religion than you preach.

"Have something to say when you get in the pulpit. Know how to say it, and above all, quit when you have said it."

"A church is very largely estimated by its pastor. If he is a good one the people will appreciate his efforts; if he is not the people will not go to hear him."

Ferman Wright, president of the organization, closed the meeting with the benediction.

HUNG BY PROXY

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Durham, N. C.—Aroused by an article he had written, Duke University students hung Dan Parker, veteran sportswriter for the New York Daily Mirror, in effigy and then burned the "body."

A column by Parker, entitled "North Carolina Burns Up Duke," was reprinted in the Chronicle, student paper. The students, already at a high pitch of excitement over the impending North Carolina game, found the article annoying. A gallows was immediately erected and Parker given the leading role in a lynching by proxy.

Drama To Be Produced On December 13

"Three-Cornered Moon" To Be Produced as Year's First Dramatic Offering.

CAST GIVEN

Comedy by Tonkonogy Had Long Run on Broadway; Approved by Critics.

Friday, December 13, has been definitely selected for the production by the College Theatre of Gertrude Tonkonogy's comedy of modern life, "Three-Cornered Moon."

The play, which will begin at 8 o'clock, is the serio-comic story of a Brooklyn family, the Rimplegars. They are a rather queer family, with violent reactions to trivial things, and at the beginning, bored with everything in general. Mrs. Rimplegar, played by Sarah Forrest Thompson, '39, is described as a "dazed, rattle-brained woman whose gestures are uncertain and reactions belated." She has a helpful complex, but the things she does are more hindrances than helps. It is she who, intending to make them rich, buys wildcat stock which takes all their reserve funds and leaves them in a "hot spot."

Kenneth and Douglas, the two older sons, played by Hoyt Wood, '36, and Robert Rankin, '38, are forced to wake up to their inadequacies, while Elizabeth Rimplegar (Mildred Lambe, '38) tries to get a secretarial job. The plot becomes really complicated when the working Rimplegars, Ed, the youngest, included, refuse to contribute any longer to the support of Elizabeth's novelist friend, Donald, played by Max Rogers, '39. The complications grow when into the Rimplegar hot-bed of artistic temperament, scanty meals, and mutual misunderstanding is precipitated Paul Owen, '37, in the role of Dr. Stevens, the young physician who rents a room from the financially distressed family.

Other characters are Kitty, Kenneth's guiding star, played by Pattie Redman, '39, and Jenny, the Czecho-Slovakian maid, played by Nell Bess, '39. Dwight Morgan, also a freshman, plays Ed.

Sets for the play are in charge of D. J. Rulfs.

The play has to its credit a long run on Broadway. Some of the favorable comments of New York periodicals follow:

"A chatty study of a slightly cockeyed household, done with much relishable understanding.—Ends in a veritable roar of laughter.—Gags and plain nit-wittisms flying off at all angles.—Sort of beautiful inanity that makes the stage groggy now and then with the buzz of a madhouse."—New York Evening Journal.

"It is a harum-scarum lark danced on the surface of a down-at-heels table. It is a whirlwind of impudent irrelevancies—a demented antic—a romp"—New York Times.

"A happy comedy—boasts the virtue of seeming not to be written to fit any set pattern."—New York News.

RAISES FEDERAL AID TO COLLEGE STUDENTS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn.—Had it not been for federal aid given university students, many of them would now be a part of the "missing generation," says Dean Malcolm M. Willey of the University of Minnesota.

"Denied the chance to enter colleges and universities, there are thousands upon thousands of youths in this country who, now doing nothing, would normally have trained themselves for business, agriculture, and the professions—they are the missing generation," Dean Willey explains.

In the fact that federal aid has prevented a disastrous increase in the ranks of the "missing generation," Dean Willey finds ample justification for the program.

THE FRUITS OF COOPERATION

It is noteworthy that the walkway and steps for Harrison Gymnasium are to be built through the combined efforts of all four of the literary societies on the campus. This is an appropriate follow-up of the combined project of the four classes by which heat and dressing rooms were installed in the gymnasium last year.

We are pleased with the growth of cooperation at the College during the past two years, and the success of these two projects leads us to suggest that combined action be made the permanent policy of all organizations giving annual projects to the school. It is not to be denied that the annual gifts of the individual classes and of the brother-sister literary organizations have not been of value or that they have not been appreciated. The campus, the library, and each of the buildings have benefitted from the benevolence of these organizations in years past. But in a college the size of High Point, the material contribution of any individual organization must necessarily be small. By pooling their resources, however, the organizations are able to donate some improvement of real value.

The present freshman class is the only class not bound by last year's agreement to combine four senior projects for completion of the gymnasium. The class of '39 has almost four years in which to think over the problem of a class project, but we suggest that they follow the precedent of last year and combine with the three classes that follow after them and donate some worthwhile gift to their alma mater. The literary societies will be free to act in the matter of a project again next year, and we believe that they are "sold" on the policy of combined effort.

IN THE NAME OF PATRIOTISM

In recent months several state legislatures have passed acts requiring children in the public schools to salute the American flag, give an oath of allegiance to the constitution, or show some other outward indication of patriotism. As well might be expected, the enforcement of these laws has met with strong resistance from people having scruples against oaths and salutes. Parents have been fined or imprisoned and children have been expellel from school or even sent to reformatories for refusal to confirm to the dictates of the lawmakers. Is it likely that the patriotism of anyone involved in these controversies has been improved? Is a child's love for a flag likely to be increased by forcing him to salute it under threat of being sent to a reform school?

Acts requiring pledges of allegiance and salutes to the flag stand with teachers' loyalty oaths, investigations of radicalism, and anti-evolution laws as monuments to the foolishness of certain state legislatures. All alike have met with ridicule and have been strongly opposed by thinking educators who know that these laws interfere needlessly with the true aims of education. A salute to the flag or an oath of allegiance, unless they are outward indications of real inward emotion, are merely perfunctory actions smacking of jingoism, or false patriotism. As well might one try to instill knowledge by the proverbial awl-and-hammer method as to attempt to create patriotism by compulsory flag salutes!

So far North Carolina educational institutions have been free from legislative interference. The two or three men who have raved about the alleged radical tendencies at our state colleges have met general ridicule and have received no attention from the legislators. As far as we know, no efforts have been made to pass any "patriotic" acts. We believe that our own lawmakers are too intelligent to fall into anything so ridiculous.

LOYALTY PLEDGES ARE SCORED BY EDUCATORS

Valentine, Angell Denounce "Loyalty Oaths" and Athletic Ballyhoo.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Rochester, N. Y. — "Loyalty oaths," and the "ballyhoo of collegiate athletics" were denounced here by educational leaders gathered for the formal induction of 34-year-old Alan Valentine, former master of Pierson College at Yale, as fourth president of the University of Rochester.

Dr. Valentine, who was a star athlete at Swarthmore and a member of the Olympic team at Paris in 1928, spoke out against over-emphasis of intercollegiate athletics. President Angell of Yale, speaking at a luncheon which folowed the induction, denounced the compulsion of loyalty oaths as "transforming education into propaganda."

"There are those who would judge a university by the number and extent of its columns in the public press," Dr. Valentine charged. "They reflect too clearly the temper of American life today.

"The fine art of ballyhoo is not one of our more attractive national talents and is wholly adverse to the values for which a university should stand. There are kinds of publicity which are worth less than nothing because they appeal only to those cheaper instincts which we do not seek to encourage."

TEN MILLION TURNED OVER TO NYA BUREAU

Comptroller Countersigns Draft for Huge Amount; Program Outlined.

The Comptroller General has countersigned a Treasury warrant in the sum of $10,000,000 in favof of the National Youth Administration with which to finance work projects in the 48 states, District of Columbia, Alaska, and Hawaii, it was announced this week by Aubrey W. Williams, Executive Director, the National Youth Administration.

The authorization provides for projects which will give jobs to youths between the ages of 16 and 25, 90 percent of whom must come from relief families.

The warrant authorizes expenditures for the following purposes:

(1) Youth community development and recreational leadership, $6,090,000;

(2) Rural youth development, $2,084,600;

(3) Public service training projects, $1,324,000;

(4) Research projects, $502,000.

The National Youth Administration will allot to each State such percentage of each of the above listed sums as the youth relief load in the State warrants. State Youth Directors will select such projects as fall within the terms of the authorization for the expenditure of Federal funds and which will provide jobs for the largest number of needy youth.

TWO GAMES PLAYED IN VOLLEY BALL TOURNEY

Seniors Lose to Sophomores and Juniors; Freshmen to Meet Juniors Today.

The seniors and the sophomores opened the volleyball tournament on Monday afternoon. Although the game was rather interesting, the seniors were beaten to the tune of 36-15. Splendid teamwork and hard serving was exhibited by the sophs. Outstanding players for the seniors were Grant and Willard; for the sophomores, Phillips and Cameron.

Tuesday evening the senior lassies once again tasted defeat, losing to the juniors by the score of 26-30. The seniors started to gain in the last few minutes of the game, but they were unable to overcome an earlier handicap. The serving was good but both sides fumbled frequently. Holt was the outstanding player of the entire game.

This afternoon the freshman coeds will make their first appearance in the tournament when they meet the junior team. The contests will continue for several days.

Two Princeton freshmen stated their political preferences as Nazi in a recent poll.

Ten times as many students are using their college libraries now as in 1925.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

A lot of earnest young American campus debaters are having sad experiences meeting the present Oxford and Cambridge teams which are touring the country.

English debate tactics never seem to change, but unfortunately their American opponents never get wise. It is a common assertion that the Oxford Union provides the best debate training in the world, although it seems to consist of an ability to charm the audience, to maintain complete nonchalance, to spin merry tales.

American students, on the other hand, bone up for weeks, outline their case concretely and spew forth facts and figures at a terrific rate—all of which the Englishmen wave airily aside as so much amusing rubbish.

—o—

We know of one case, however, where the Britishers did not ignore statistics. In fact, they made tremendously effective use of them and won their debate hands down.

One of their team arose to his feet and with a rather weary air said, "We knew our opponents would simply devastate all of us with their statistics. We have decided we can best answer them with statistics of our own, which we will now give to you."

Whereupon he unwound a long, long roll of paper until it touched the floor, then gathered it all up and tossed it over the footlights!

—o—

Now that the brave deeds and words of Will Rogers are being systematically unearthed for those who loved the man, we might quote the quip of Will's which is the only one we remember:

It came after he had been granted an honorary degree at some college. Said the comedian: "I knew they gave college degrees for nearly every kind of ignorance, but I didn't know they gave any for my kind."

—o—

Dean Ackerman of the Columbia school of journalism—in quite serious vein—agrees with Will.

The Dean made his report to the president of Columbia the other day and declared that a college degree is a useless criterion for determining the fitness of a newspaper man. He made a powerful attack on the whole American system of awarding credits to anyone who can simply fill certain quantitative requirements.

—o—

College prexies, it seems, are just as divided as college students over the question of pacifist activities on the campus. At the recent meeting of the Association of Urban University Presidents, a resolution condemning such activities lost by a vote of 18 to 4.

The question is not dead, however. We predict something of a bombshell in educational circles in the next few weeks when the president of the University of Minnesota lets go a speech he is carefully preparing. For months he has been gathering evidence of the "exploitation of college students by outside pressure groups." He includes, apparently, both pacifist and military, agnostic and religious, reactionary and Communist.

—o—

We admire the spirit of the student in a big school who got awfully tired of never finding a chair in the library. Eventually he walked up to the clerk in the "reserve" room and uttered this serious plaint: "Excuse me, miss, but could I possibly reserve a couple of seats for next Friday night?"

—o—

Furthermore, heretical tho we may be, we admire the spirit of the boy at the University of Southern California who nicely answered a query put by his instructor. The man had said, "What do you suppose the Eskimos do to keep from starving in the long winter months?"

"They eat," said the lad.

Colleges and universities throughout the United States expect improved financial conditions during the 1935-36 school year, according to the department of interior.

A sense of humor is recommended as a philosophy of life by Dr. C. Clothier, Rutgers president.

Cancer Cure Is Believed Found

Cornell University Instructor Makes Important Discovery In Lab.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ithaca, N. Y.—What may prove to be another milestone on man's long road toward a cancer cure has been uncovered by Dr. W. F. Bruce, instructor and research worker in the chemistry department of Cornell University, who has isolated a new material called the most active substance now known for the production of cancer.

This new substance—a hydrocarbon called methylchloranthene—was discovered while Dr. Bruce was pursuing an investigation begun by English scientists. They had discovered that the skin cancer so prevalent among workers with coal tar is caused by a particular hydrocarbon occurring naturally in the coal tar.

"It is necessary," says Dr. Bruce, "that a rational idea of the cause of cancer be obtained before a cure can be instituted. Positive proof of the ability of the new substance to initiate cancer has been demonstrated.

"From the medical point of view, the field of cancer research has been characterized by a leading investigator as 'hard and stony ground.' Therefore, the work of the organic chemist would appear to offer a new and encouraging method of approach to the problems of this field."

Although blind for 25 years, Perry Hale, Yale All-American in 1900, hasn't missed a game since the day the doctor told him he never would see again.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—Louis Carter, more poplarly known as Jay Franklin, who is the Resettlement Administration's press relations chief, has with his assistant, Kenneth Clark, been very successful in handling the newsmen that come to Resettlement's executive offices in the Department of Agriculture's new South building. Reporters searching for some live item on the Resettlement program are taken into Carter's office and there given semi-confidential information on some phase of the work, information that is interesting but not damaging, but which resembles inside stuff closely enough to boost the reporter's status with his editor. Satisfied, the newsman goes off, feeling that what he has is more important than anything he might have dug up through a series of questions on the program as a whole. . .

Ex-President Hoover, in his speech before the Ohio Society of New York, in speaking of Washington's New Deal planners and administrators, referred to them as "starry-eyed youngsters." The phrase implies an excess of idealism combined with naivete. The average age of the key men in this group is probably close to 40. Moreover, these "youngsters", after three years spent under a barrage of outside criticism are anything but "starry-eyed." They are very much aware of the shortcomings of their own planning.

Part of this awareness comes from the fact that they're capable of regarding their own work with a critical attitude. And part of this awareness is the result of internal criticism their plans have received from within their own administrations. It seems that their assistants, even younger than they, are always pointing out weaknesses in administrative structure, the critical attitude apparently being the strongest among those with the fewest years. The eye turned upon each new development of their chief's program by each of these young assistants in the different emergency agencies is more likely to be a jaundiced eye than a "starry" eye. . .

In 1930 The Daily Cardinal, student daily of the University of Wisconsin, had for its editorial chairman a very outspoken young man named Forrest Allen. A very able writer, capable of first rate editorial satire. Allen throughout his senior year was about as popular with the faculty as a pay cut before Christmas. Anything done by the conservatives on the faculty that Mr. Allen didn't approve of was promptly followed by a stinging editorial in The Daily Cardinal. And there wasn't very much they did that Mr. Allen approved of.

Today Forrest Allen, whom several of his adversaries on the faculty once hopefully believed would come to a bad end, is rumored to be drawing down a salary of $8,000 a year, as an Assistant Coordinator of the TVA, under David Lilienthal. If things had gone against Allen in this fashion, any more than they did, he would probably today be in the Junior Cabinet, repenting the evil of his ways.

CONTROVERSY CENTERS AROUND '36 OLYMPICS

Collegiate Editorial Opinion Divided on American Participation at Berlin.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis. — Opposition to United States' participation in the 1936 Olympic games to be held in Berlin is being strongly voiced by college editors throughout the country in spite of an announcement by the American Olympic Association declaring definitely for entrance, an Associated Collegiate Press survey reveals.

It is considered likely, however, that the mass of American students, and particularly, of course, student athletes, are in favor of participation. Prevailing opinion is that those groups opposed to U. S. entrance are the most articulate.

Columbia University has been one of the leaders in the movement to keep American athletes out of the games, and a number of student councils have adopted resolutions against participation.

"The storm of protest that has greeted the decision to hold next year's Olympic games in Berlin," says the Long Island University student paper, "is a tangible reminder that the American people will not remain silent in the face of mistreatment of a religious minority. Nazi protestations to the contrary are belied by the reports in the press of continued persecution of Jews, Catholics, and discontented minority groups. It is ridiculous to suppose that the Hitler regime will forego such persecution, an integral part of its fascist regime, simply because it has to play host to a few hundred athletes."

The Daily Princetonian disagrees. According to this paper, the announcement by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Association, that the United States will positively enter the games "comes as a satisfying relief to intelligent Americans who feared that bigoted political prejudices and old world hatred might muster force enough to make the country's entrance a matter of bitter controversy."

"The sportsmen of this country are unanimous in their desire to enter the games and will not tolerate the use of clean American sport as a vehicle to transplant the bitter feelings, engendered in this country by individuals who have never learned the lessons of amateur sport," says the Princetonian.

Editorial writers of the Reveille, Louisiana State publication, don't think so.

"The agitators for withdrawal are supported in their denouncement of Nazi despotism in sports as well as politics," says the Reveille, "by the narrow requirements imposed for membership on the German teams. According to some reports, Negroes, Catholics, and Jews are barred, and some Protestants excluded under the ruling that all German Olympic athletes must be Nazi club members.

The question isn't so clear-cut as all that, says The Rice Thresher, Rice Institute, Houston, Tex., but lies between diplomacy and ideals. "If the American athletes are to adhere strictly to their belief in true sportsmanship, we don't see any other move but to withdraw. But that is where the diplomatic side enters. Suppose we did [illegible]? Such a stand would have a definite bearing both on international and domestic political and social harmony.

"The American athletes are definitely faced with the choice between diplomatic practicality and the support of ideals."

MARK TWAIN'S PRAYER ON WAR IS PUBLISHED

Writer Requested That "War Lord's Prayer" Be Printed After Death.

Thirty years ago Mark Twain, beloved giant of American letters, wrote the "War Lord's Prayer," with instructions that it be published after his death.

"I have told the whole truth in that prayer," he said, "and only dead men can tell the truth in this world. It can be published after I am dead."

Here's his prayer:

"O, Lord, our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriotic dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the groans of the wounded, writhing in pain; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their little children to wander unfriended through wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sun flames of summer and the icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet .We ask of One who is the spirit of love and who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all that are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory, now and ever. Amen."

Columbia University received gifts totalling $45,216 during October.

LEAGUE LEADERS TOPPLED BY PANTHER BOOTERS

Kernersville Falls Before Locals, 3 - 2

Pointers Gain Revenge For First Defeat Administered By League Foe.

Loser in two games this season for the first time in the history of the sport here, the High Point College shin-busters rose to great heights Saturday afternoon to defeat a fighting Kernersville eleven by a 3-2 count in a Central Carolina soccer tilt on the Kernersville field.

Two minutes before the final whistle, Broadus Culler, versatile Panther athlete and coach of the soccer eleven, booted a beautiful kick through the enemy goal to break the 2-2 deadlock and give his team a hard earned victory.

The two teams, arch rivals since their first encounter here last month when Kernersville snapped the Panthers winning streak at five successful years, put on one of the greatest exhibitions of the shin-busting game ever witnessed as a small crowd of loyal, shivering fans cheered them on, offering encouragement at every play. Putting on full steam at the beginning of the contest, the players never let up for any length of time during the entire sixty minutes of play.

The victory put the Panthers into a tie with their opponents for the league leadership in the Central Carolina circuit. Both teams have gone through their league schedule so far with the loss of only one game. In each case this defeat was administer-

Football Season Draws To Close

As the 1935 football season draws to a close more and more of the Rose Bowl aspirants are being dropped by the wayside, leaving only a limited few for the powerful Stanford eleven to choose from. Sinking valiantly into oblivion during the past week-end was the hopeful Texas Christian team, losing to the potent Southern Methodist eleven for the first loss of the year.

In a game which was packed with hair-raising thrills, keeping the 36,000 fans constantly on edge, the Southern Methodist team took a risky gamble during the fourth quarter with the score standing 14-14 and won. It was fourth down and four yards to go, the quick-witted Mustang quarterback elected to pass. Bob Finley faded back with the ball while Bob Wilson raced down the field. He caught the pass. Tacklers were in front of him. He tore through them for a touchdown. The Christians had lost the game.

With no title at stake one of the most interesting games of the week-end proved to be the annual service game between the Army and the Navy aa 81,000 fans looked on. The Cadets springing to the attack with characteristic quickness showered such an overpowering barrage of touchdown shrapnel on the bewildered Navy lads that even the fans didn't realize that the game was won in the first twenty minutes of the battle. Yet the battle was much closer and harder fought than the score would at first affirm. Coming back the second half, the Sailors launched a savage counter attack which proved to be unsuccessful because of penalties, intercepted passes and fumbles.

Other eastern teams stepping out in grudge battles and what have you, also provided thrilling interest to many fans. Princeton ran roughshod over their arch-rivals Yale to gain a 38 to 7 victory. Holy Cross, showing characteristic power took Boston College for a 20 to 6 ride; while Columbia eked out a 13 to 7 victory over Dartmouth.

In the South, Georgia Tech provided some interesting color to the football situation by thundering with its might to a well-deserved victory over its neighboring enemy, the Georgia Bulldogs, 19 to 7. Auburn also overpowered one of its Southern enemies by a 27 to 6 score when they met Florida; Mississippi beat Mississippi State 14 to 6.

North Carolina closed a successful season on Turkey day by completely awamping their proverbial enemies, 60 to 0. Losing only one game throughout the season, the Tar Heel team proved to be one of the most powerful teams of the country, narrowly missing the Rose Bowl invitation.

Squad Is Rapidly Rounding Into Shape; Schedule for Year to be Released Soon.

Opening a season which, it is hoped, will be the most profitable ever seen here at High Point College, the Purple Panther basketball quint takes the floor in the first practice tilt of the year against a hard-playing, well oiled Unique Furniture team in Winston-Salem Saturday night at 7:30.

This game will also serve as a warming up contest for a non-conference game, but a game which has been looked for for the last three years—a game with the powerful Big Five team, Duke University, which will be played in the willing floor of the Duke gym, here, Wednesday night of next week.

With this ambitious schedule confronting the Panther basketeers, Coach Yow has been whipping the seemingly abundant material into shape as rapidly as possible, stressing the fundamental principles of defensive and offensive floor work.

The prospects for a successful season seem to be bright, as only one of last year's varsity men has been lost to the '35 team, "Bobo" Ronyecz, captain and stellar guard of last year's team, and with a full team of lettermen back, the coach's biggest worry will be the danger of over-confidence.

Broadus Culler, star of last year's team, will again serve as a nucleus of the present team as the locals meet the Twin city team Saturday night. Intrieri, Harris, Rogers, Martin and Humphreys will also probably ace action in the week-end game. Niernsee, star center will be unable to take part in the competition because of an injured knee received earlier in the year.

The abundant basketball fans of High Point are looking forward with interest to the outcome of the two pre-season games in order to judge the more accurately the probable outcome of the Little Six conference race this year.

Twin City Squad Next League Foe

Fired with an even greater fighting spirit after the important win over the powerful Kernersville eleven last Saturday and the hard game with Davidson yesterday, the Purple Panther soccer team hopes to clinch even tighter the hold which they have, along with Kernersville, on the top place in the Central Carolina league when they meet Winston-Salem in the eighth league game of the season at Winston Saturday.

Winston, though holding the cellar position in the league, has plenty of power and fight and should furnish the locals plenty of competition on the home field and as this is the initial meeting of the two shin-buster teams this season, the boys have trained well for the Saturday event, hoping to roll up a score which will meet the requirements of a league leader.

Yesterday's game, serving as a practice tilt for the week-end tilt, showed that the High Point College fellows still have that steam and power, both defensive and offensive, which has given them soccer leadership for five years. A win over Winston and High Point Y will give the Pointers the right to meet Kernersville in their game for the championship battle.

More Boners!

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbia, Mo.—There may be something to the American theory of universal college education, and then again—

Here are some of the answers that turned up in a recent University of Missouri quiz:

Q. What experiment led to the establishment of the Mendelian law?

A. Cutting the tails of mice and breeding them.

Q. What do we learn from astronomy concerning our physical universe?

A. Many astronomers have tried to discover ways so that we could actually ketch a star but as yet it is a impossibility. They have also discovered that the clouds are coming down closer and that some day we might actually be able to discover just what a cloud is composed of.

Q. What was Peter Lombard's theory of the universe?

A. Peter Lombard thought the earth was a sphere and that he had absolutely gone all over every point and that he couldn't possibly be wrong.

Q. What is the best-known prescientific theory of the origin of the earth?

A. The story in the Bible. The difficulty of this theory is that it would be a mighty strenuous job to create a world in six days.

The pre-scientific theory is that the earth broke off the sun. The difficulty is that the sun is not explained.

Buffalo, N. Y.—If each person in the U. S. was limited to a $5,000 income a year and the excess redistributed, the average income would be increased by just $100, according to Dr. Ralph C. Epstein, Dean of the University of Buffalo School of Business Administration.

Beyond that, there is not enough to go around, said Dr. Epstein.

SPORTSCRIPTS

By Alton Hartman

We no longer have any doubts as to the ability and the fighting spirit of the Panther shin-busters. On Saturday afternoon they proved satisfactorily to us that they did have an off-day in their first encounter with Kernersville, and that their alibis were good. But in order to gain the victory over the league leaders, the locals had to fight from start to finish, take advantage of every break, and use plenty of teamwork. It is only fair to both sides to say that the losing team fought a game battle and gave the Panthers plenty of competition in the sixty minutes of play. Both teams were primed for the all-important contest, and gave the few fans present perhaps one of the best exhibitions of the game they had ever witnessed.

—o—

Not only did the Panthers gain revenge for their previous defeat at the hands of Kernersville, but they climbed into a tie with their rivals for first place in the Central Carolina Soccer Association. Each team has lost only one game, and unless some of the other squads in the circuit win over High Point or Kernersville in one of the remaining games on the schedule, a post season game will be necessary to determine the title winner. The local Y eleven, always a tough foe, or some of the others might trip one of the league leaders. However, they are now favored to finish the season without further losses as they have already won over all the other teams in the league they are to meet.

—o—

A championship game between these sworn rivals would furnish plenty of thrills and good kicking and would no doubt draw an unusually large crowd for a soccer contest.

—o—

There is an interesting story behind the arrangements for a pre-season game between the Purple Panther basketeers and the Duke Blue Devils. It seems that the athletic officials at Duke University were impressed by the brand of ball played and spirit of sportsmanship shown by the High Point soccer eleven when they encountered the Blue Devils on their home field this fall. The Panthers lost in a close and hard fought contest. Still they gained the respect of their opponents, whom they licked the following week in another game at High Point. Very favorable comment upon the shin-busters. Not only has soccer helped to fill in the place of football on the fall athletic calendar, but it has gained recognition for High Point College that will be helpful in other sports.

—o—

The example set by the shin-busters would be a good one for all High Point teams to follow. Other teams are going to remember us for our attitude in the struggle. It is a lot easier for the coach and athletic officials to arrange an attractive schedule, one that contains games with larger schools, when they are representing teams that are characterized by the desirable qualities of sportsmanship and a fighting spirit.

—o—

Another football season draws to a close. The popular gridiron sport experienced a successful year, both in this state and over the nation. Smart, well-coached elevens pldyed before large crowds in the staduims every week-end. And another section of the country, the Southwest, came into prominence as a producer of good football teams. Two strong teams, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, fought it out Saturday, with S. M. U. taking the laurels which drew a Rose Bowl bid from Stauford.

—o—

And that ends a lot of talk and speculation on what team would play in the annual classic.

Architects Find Shortage Of Technical Assistants

New York.—There is an acute shortage of technical assistants in architecture, due probably to the recent revival of building activity, and architects in normal private practice are finding it difficult to obtain needed help.

So says Lucian E. Smith, chairman of the Architects' Emergency Committee of New York in a recent report to the American Institute of Architects.

"Federal and municipal projects have unquestionably been retarded because of the lack of proper technical direction," Smith said, "as the architect only can do this sort of planning."

Youth Bureau to Act Only as Fiscal Agent, Says Advisory Chairman.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Baltimore, Md. — The National Youth Administration is absolutely free of any intent to interfere politically in the nation's educational system, recently declared Charles W. Taussing, chairman of the advisory council of the NYA.

"I want to emphasize the fact that we are acting only as fiscal agents in our relations with the educational world," Mr. Taussig said. "It is our firm belief that formal education should be left to the educators and that the Federal government has no business in this field. Malicious propagandists sometimes try to make it appear otherwise."

Statistics indicate that 200,000 children now attending school in the United States will probably become criminals.

World-wide education is the greatest factor for peace, says Harvard's Dean Roscoe Pound.

Locals Beat Wildcats In Hard Battle

Only Small Crowd Watches Contest; Extremely Cold Weather Handicaps the Players.

Another foe from the Big five Circle fell before the fighting Panther shin-busters yesterday afternoon as they turned back the invading wildcats of Davidson college by the score of 1 to 0 in a close and hard fought battle on local high school field.

The victory gave the Pointers the edge in the series between these two teams. In their first encounter on the Davidson field last month they battled to a 3-3 tie when the Presbyterians rallied in the last quarter to escape defeat in their opening tilt. The two teams have been evenly matched in both games.

Culler, the scoring ace on the team that he also coaches, again provided the margin of victory when he scored the lone tally of the contest in the third quarter on a penalty kick from the goal area. The free kick was given to the Pointers after a Davidson man had overguarded Martin from behind. With only the opposing goalie to prevent him from making the goal, Culler drove the ball, hard and fast, slightly to the side of the keeper for a score.

This was the first break in the tight defensive battle put up during the entire first half by the two teams. Both appeared about evenly matched as they see-sawed the ball up and down the field without effectively breaking through the last line of defense put up by the enemy. Several times the forwards carried the ball down within striking distance of the enemy goal, but lacked the final punch and fight necessary to break through.

To intrieri, the High Point goal keeper,, goes credit for preventing at least two scores by the opposition in this half. The diminutive athlete made great stops of two drives that seemed to be certain goals.

After a rest, cut short because of the extremely cold weather, the teams took the field, defending the same goal as at the opening of the contest. About the middle of the period Culler came through with his tally which was to decide the game.

Throughout the rest of the third period and in the fourth both teams threatened to score several times, but in each case the backfield men tightened up on their defense to prevent any passing. The game ended with the visiting Wildcats still fighting desperately to catch up with the leading Panthers.

Sherrill played a bang-up game in the backfield, breaking up several advances of the opponents, and playing the ball at every chance. Elder and Isley were also strong on defense. Culler featured on offence; Intrieri played a big part in the victory through his defense of the goal.

The whole team clicked well, and showed wonderful passing skill at times.

Bell and Armstrong, on the line for the invaders, showed up in good style for the losers.

The lineups:

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

KERNERSVILLE FALLS ... FORE LOCALS, 3-2

ed by the other team, as they have split in their exchange of games.

But the revenge gained meant as much to the local club as the tie for first place. Smarting under the defeat handed them by the league leaders, the Pointers were determined to even things up with thir previous conquerors. The Kernersville and Duke defeats, the latter coming a week after the first, stand as the only losses on the otherwise undefeated record of the Panthers since the establishment of the game.

Receiving the lower goal which gave them an advantage in the first quarter, the Panthers immediately got the jump on their rivals at the opening of the game. After repeated attempts, they scored five minutes after the whistle when Peeler, back in the lineup after absence because of injuries, gave a perfect pass to Koontz who booted it through. The losers were kept on defense during the entire quarter by the Panthers' offensive threats.

The tables turned in the second quarter when the home squad opened up with a daring attack on offense. R. Hendrix finally kicked a goal to even the count at 1-1. The half ended with this score standing.

Culler, shifted back to offense upon the appearance of "Owlhead" Elder, star fullback, put the locals in the lead again soon after the opening of the third period when he scored a nice shot after much weaving and dribbling.

The Kernersville team got the one big break of the game in the last quarter which enabled them to tie the count. With seven minutes to go, Intrieri, High Point goalie, made an unintentional foul and King made good the penalty kick to tie the score. It appeared that the Panther rooters would have to be satisfied with a tie until Culler came through again to break the deadlock.

Peeler, Smith, and Grigg featured in several of the High Point attacks. The whole team worked as a well organized unit, displaying the best form of the year.

The lineups:

High Point	Pos.	Kernersville
Intrieri	G	J. Edwards
Culler	LF	Willard
Harris	RF	Brown
Grigg	RH	Harrison
Sherrill	CH	Smith
Smith	LH	Nelson
Ellington	OR	Vance
Martin	OL	Maultsby
Giles	C	J. Hendrix
Koontz	IR	King
Peeler	IL	R. Hendrix

Substitutions: High Point—Elder. Kernersville—Wilson, Stroud, Bennett.

Scorers: High Point—Koontz, Culler, 2. Kernersville—R. Hendrix, King.

"Three-Cornered Moon" On Stage at College Friday

First Drama Production of Year to be Presented Under Direction of Owens.

PLAY IS FAVORITE

Parker is Assistant Director of Production; Sets Constructed by Rulfs.

Final rehearsals for the College Theatre production, "Three-Cornered Moon," are being held tonight and tomorrow night. The play will be presented on Friday evening at eight o'clock.

The set, constructed by D. J. Rulfs and his small staff of helpers, has been completed, and was erected Monday. The stage is set to represent two rooms in the Brooklyn home of the Rimplegar family. Besides the home the Rimplegars have large appetites, scanty food, family pride, decent educations, deflated purses, and a lodger. Kenneth, played by Hoyt Wood, has a girl friend (Pattie Redman); Douglas, Robert Rankin, has a Harvard accent and an aversion to any kind of work; Elizabeth, played by Mildred Lambe, has a bored attitude, and a novelist on her hands; Ed, the youngest Rimplegar, played by Dwight Morgan, has a job as a life-guard; and poor Mrs. Rimplegar, whose role is in the hands of Sarah Forrest Thompson, has nothing but trouble. Beyond these, the possessions of the Rimplegars are few, but they do still have Jennie, who came from Czecho-Slovakia, and who should be in an institution for the feeble-minded, but who can cook.

The play is under the direction of C. B. Owens, head of the departments of speech and dramatics. It had a long run on Broadway, and excited much favorable comment. Its author is Gertrude Tonkonogy.

Pauline Parker, of the advanced class indramatics, is assistant director of the production. The admission will be twenty-five cents to all comers.

'Y' Holds Open Forum On Alcohol Control Problem

Discussion Centers Around Effects on Human Body and Failure of Prohibition.

An open forum discussion of the alcoholic problem featured the meeting of the College Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening.

About fifteen men were present, and all took part in the program. The program centered around two main subjects, the effects of alcohol on the human body, and the problem of liquor control since repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. President Sulon Ferree, Millard Isley, J. E. Garlington, Samuel Myers and Leo Pitard were the leaders of the various topics discussed at the meeting.

Joan Crowder Is Elected Class Mascot by Juniors

The Juniors elected little Miss Joan Crowder mascot of the class at a meeting Monday morning. She will continue to act as mascot until after the class graduates in the spring of 1937.

CHOIR PLANS TO GO NORTH DURING YEAR

Annual Tour Will Probably Carry Singers to New York; Quartette Appears.

Plans are now underway for a northern trip to be made by the A Capella choir this year.

Mr. N. M. Harrison, business manager of the choir, has announced the proposed route over which the group will travel. At present the plan is to go first to Henderson, N. C., then to Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Pa., and Newark, N. J. On the homeward trip, the group will appear at Wilmington, Delaware; Snow Hill, Md., Norfolk, Va., Williamston, and Rocky Mount, in North Carolina. The trip will probably cover a period of ten days. Mr. Harrison has also stated that he plans for the choir to take one entire day for sight-seeing in New York City.

The entire choir has not yet made a public appearance this year. However, Miss Sloan selected a small group from the choir who appeared before the Musical Arts Club at the Emerywood Country club Monday night. The double quartette sang at the regular Sunday morning service at the First Methodist Protestant Church on November 25. This group will appear at the School for the Blind in Greensboro tomorrow. No date has been announced for the first program in which the entire group will sing for the general public.

Mode of Life Is Thaleans' Theme

Talks on Literature, Music, Travel Made at Weekly Meeting of Society.

"Living in a Great Big Way" was the theme of the Thalean meeting last Thursday night.

Royce Gibbs opened the program with his "Contrast Between Living and Existing." In his talk he defined living as a continuance in the activity to lead a vivid, comfortable and profitable life, and being in possession of the enjoyments of earth and its contents. He defined existing as to maintain one's self at a standstill. He closed with the following appeal:

"Are you going to exist and get by, or are you going to seize those opportunities which lie before you by "Living in a Great Big Way"?

Pittard made an appeal for a the past in order to better ungreater knowledge of literature of derstand the way things of today were acquired. This idea was presented through the medium of "How does a growing knowledge of the literature of the past help one to appreciate living?"

Holmes in his "How does an understanding of contemporary literature help one to enjoy life?" stated that by having this knowledge we may know the thoughts and feelings of our times and that we could realize that the authors were real people as we.

"Is Travel Worth the Time," by Briles, expounded the theory that one who has traveled a great deal cannot be said to be uneducated, provided he has taken note of what he has seen.

Waggoner, in his "What is the Value of a Deep Appreciation of Music?" brought forth the idea that an appreciation of music is necessary for one to gete the most out of life and to "live in a great big way."

Dickens' Christmas Carol To Be Read By Miss Idol

MOVE TO SEND DELEGATES TO MEET STARTED

Committee Plans to Send Representatives to Student Volunteer Convention.

Plans have been started to send a delegation from High Point College to the twelfth quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement to be held in Indianapolis December 28 through January 1.

A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student government, Monday appointed a committee to act with Dean P. E. Lindley in working out ways and means to send several representatives to the convention. The Student Government Council Monday voted to appropriate money from the student activities fund to pay the registration of as many as four delegates, while those attending will probably pay the rest of the money themselves. Those who were named to the committee are as follows: Inza Hill, Allen Austin, Alton Hartman, Leo Pittard, and J. E. Garlington.

No one from High Point College attended the last meeting, which was held in Buffalo four years ago, but the College was represented at Detroit eight years ago. Miss Mary E. Young, at that time Dean of Women, attended along with several students.

The Student Volunteer Movement is the only international, interdenominational organization of its kind in the world. Meeting once every four years, the conventions attract students and famous speakers from several countries.

The Indianapolis convention will open on December 28, and will feature speeches and seminars led by world famous theologians, philosophers, and missionaries. Among those who have been scheduled to appear on the programs are the following:

William Temple, Archbishop of York; Reinhold Niebuhr, Professor of Applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary; T. Z. Koo, a Chinese Christian leader; Basil Mathews, Professor of Missions in Boston University School of Theology; Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese author and political writer; Richard Roberts, Moderator of the Unfted Church of Canada; Gonzalo Baez Camargo, Secretary of the National Christian Council of Mexico; Eleanor T. Calaverly, Instructor at the Kennedy School of Missions, Hartford Seminary Foundation; E. Fay Campbell, General Secretary of the Yale University Christian Association; Conrad Hoffman, Secretary of the International Missionary Council's Committee on a Christian Approach to the Jews; and E. M. Dodd, Head of the Medical Department, Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. According to information received at the College, some of these people will speak from the platform, most of them will lead seminars, and all of them will keep hours free for personal conferences.

Duke Team Defeats Panther Cagers

BLUE DEMONS DOWN YOWMEN BY SCORE 50-22

Second Period Rally Comes Too Late to Give Locals Contest Over Dukes.

Fighting against overwhelming odds, the Purple Panther cagers bowed in defeat last night before a smooth clicking Duke University outfit by the score of 50-22 in the second pre-season game of the season played on the Duke court.

The encounter revealed the fact that the locals are off-shape, and badly in need of more practice. Coach Yow will have to polish off his machine before North State conference competition starts after the holidays.

The Panthers were unable to find themselves during the entire first half against a heavier, and taller team. Although many attempts were made, they were able to find the range of the basket for only two field goals in this period. Their floor work and passing were also below par, as they were not able to handle the ball well.

Meanwhile the Blue Devils, who appeared in much better shape, were shattering the Panther defense to break through for easy crisp shots. With their two forwards, Huiskamp and Kunkle, leading, the winners rang up 11 points in the first eight minutes before the Panthers were able to tally.

After eight minutes of play, Martin made good a free throw, when he was fouled by Cheek, for the initial tally. "Red" Towery, replacing Booth at center, and Intrieri secured the two field goals, and the half ended with the Blue Devils leading by the count of 34-5.

The Panthers entered the battle after the rest period with a new vigor and began to fight their opponents on even terms. Culler, who played guard in the first period, was shifted to forward with Harris, while Intrieri and Elder appeared at the guard posts. Towery continued to hold down the center position. While the guards were effectively bottling up the Blue Devils, Culler got loose to score five points, a foul shot and two action goals, within five minutes after the whistle.

Intrieri gave the locals four more points a few minutes later in the contest, when he bagged two long shots in quick succession.

The two squads on the floor during the entire second half were about evenly matched. The Panthers appeared in much better form and scored 17 points against 16 for the Blue Devils.

Coach Cameron used a total of twelve men during the contest, with an entire new squad playing at times in the second period. Among these reserves was "Ace" Parker, the Duke star on the football field during the past season. The ten making the trip for High Point saw action, with Martin, Elder, Harris, Intrieri, Culler and Booth playing most of the time.

Riley and Edwards were removed from the game in the last period for excessive fouling.

ZENITH PLANS CONTEST HERE FOR PICTURES

Several Prizes to Be Awarded In Snapshot Contest Sponsored by Annual.

THE ZENITH will soon sponsor a snapshot contest for amateur photographers at the College, it has been announced by Edgar Snider, editor of the annual.

The winning pictures will be printed in the feature section of the College annual, and, in addition, the students making the best pictures will be rewarded. There will be a cash prize of $3.00 for the best snapshot, four other prizes of boxes of stationery, and six prizes of one hundred personal cards.

The cameras for the contest will be furnished by THE ZENITH, Snyder announces, and films will be placed on sale in the College Book Store. The cameras will be furnished without cost to the students, and the only expense connected with entering the contest will be the cost of the films, and a five cent charge for having the picture developed at the Stone Photo company. All pictures will be returned to the student after THE ZENITH has finished with them.

Snyder points out that pictures made of favorite groups, campus scenes, or novel poses will be valuable souvenirs in later years, whether they win one of the prizes offered or not. Subjects for the pictures to be entered in

Congressman Umstead Talks On Security Act In Chapel

Representative From Sixth Congressional District Explains Provisions of Federal Social Security Law In Chapel Talk At College Friday.

The Federal Social Security Act was the topic of remarks made during the Friday chapel period by William B. Umstead, member of Congress for the Sixth Congressional District.

The act, explained the legislator, is divided into several sections, embracing different classes. The first two items, pensions and benefits, are concerned with old people without means of support. The pensions are to be paid to persons over 65 who are infirm or dependent. The government aids such persons to the extent of 15 dollars a month, provided that the state has made similar provision. The benefits are concerned with those who are growing older, and who are likely to fall into the pension class. For them provisions are made by taking a certain percentage of salaries of workers, and the same percentage from the employer. So, when the worker becomes too old to be of use, he is provided for.

Other divisions of the measure take in unemployment insurance, which is worked on a system similar to the scale for the old-age benefits. Perhaps one of the most important provisions is the one which provides for indigent children, and for the dependent mothers. The children will be provided with suitable food and clothing while their parents are without employment, or without sufficient means to supply such necessities.

Mr. Umstead, who seems to be very much in sympathy with the measure, described it in simple language, taking each item separately. He concluded by saying: "I do not believe that there is anyone who is so inhuman as to refuse to give this thing a trial; I do not believe there is anyone who can fail to see the need for such a measure. Of course, the legislation will have to be constantly improved, as conditions change. But it is not a partisan measure. It is designed to help the unlucky portion of the American people, to make them socially secure."

ARTEMESIANS LISTEN TO DEBATE ON MUSIC AT REGULAR MEETING

Judges Decide Jazz Wins Over Classical Music; Other Features Given.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its regular meeting in Roberts Hall last Thursday night. The chaplain conducted the devotionals and the chorister performed her duties.

A very interesting debate, the query being Resolved: That Jazz is More Enjoyable Than Classical Music, was the main feature of the program for the evening. Margaret Smith and Marguerite Jenkins upheld the affirmative, while Olgo Marlette and Jacqueline Kinney took the negative. Although the debate was probably the most closely ragued in the society this year, the judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Miss Vera Smith, a visitor, sang a vocal solo as a special feature of the meeting.

Mary Frances Gerringer gave an interesting account of the "Last Bible," as given in the current issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. Nancy Parham gave a review of a new book, The Unpublished Poems of Emily Dickinson, and read a few of the most popular poems from the work.

The humorous part of the program consisted of a group of "idiosyncrasies" given by Frances Muse, who gave many peculiar characteristics and individualities of people.

AKROTHINIANS TALK ON CURRENT TOPICS AT WEEKLY MEETING

Political and Social Problems Analyzed by Four Speakers on Program.

Modern political and social problems came in for a thorough discussion at the meeting of the Akrothinian Society last Thursday night.

John Thomas opened the program with a talk on "Canadian Communists: The Doukhobor Experiment." The speaker traced the origin of that strange politico-religious sect, the Doukhobors, back to Russia, and told of their persecution in that country and their subsequent migration to Canada. He told something of their beliefs and customs, the people themselves, and their treatment at the hands of the Provincial government. His talk was based on an article in the November issue of The American Journal of Sociology.

Dan Sharpe followed with a talk on the theme, "This Terrifying Freedom," from the November issue of Harpers. He presented the alarmed viewpoint of some of the present-day social trends.

The New Deal's foreign policy was presented and analyzed by Harry Ershler. The speaker compared the theories behind Roosevelt's domestic policies with those behind his relations with foreign powers. He talked on the outstanding acts and treaties put over by the current administration in an effort to accomplish definite aims in the field of international affairs. Ershler's speech had its basis in "F. D. R.'s New Political Issue," from the November issue of Review of Reviews.

A talk on "America the Conservative," given by Willis Kerr, wound up the program for the evening. Basing his talk on an article in the Novenber Readers Digest, Kerr pointed out that the United States is at heart a conservative nation, slow to move into new positions except in times of emergency and eager to get back on tried grounds after the crisis has passed.

"History has proved that it is necessary to send in a liberal administration about every sixteen years in order to get needed governmental reforms," Kerr said, "it has also seemed desirable to return the conservatives to power after a short time to consolidate the gains made and to keep the liberals from going off on a tangent."

Twenty-six Greek manuscripts of the New Testament are owned by the University of Chicago. It is the second largest collection in the country.

Freshman Co-Eds Take Volley Ball Crown With Victories Over All Other Classes

Saturday night climaxed the women's intra-mural volley ball tournament, with the freshman women taking the cup by a large margin, having defeated all comers.

The tournament has the distinction of having been played through without arguments among players, questioning of decision, or other unsportsmanlike beahvior. Monday's and Tuesday's games were reviewed in last week's issue of the HI-PO. The other games follow in this column:

THURSDAY

The senior and freshmen women clashed, the freshmen taking the game with a score of 38-37. At the end of the half, the score was 23-6 in favor of the frosh. The seniors rallied in the last minutes of play to add heavily to their score, but were still completely outclassed. Outstanding players: Freshman—V. Jenkins, Seniors—V. Grant. The line-up follows:

Seniors	Freshmen
Willard	Lindley
Varner	V. Jenkins
McNeil	Wiggins
Tanner	H. Bates
Farlow	Watkins
Fritts	Marlette
Welborn	V. Dixon
	Hoffman

Substitutions: Freshmen—Cullum, Muse, Baity and Parham.

FRIDAY

Juniors and sophomores met to see sophomore team-work take the game with a score almost double that of their opponents. The score at the half was 20-11, and the final score, 42-24. Jenkins, sophomore, and Holt, junior star and captain, were outstanding—with perfect passwork and forceful serves taking toll for both sides. This game brought the sophomore and freshmen women to a tie, each having won two games.

The line-up:

Juniors	Sophomores
Hill	Cameron
Holt	Phillips
H. Hunter	Lackey
Willcox	Hendrix
Welch	Phibbs
Kilpatrick	L. Hunter
M. Dixon	M. Jenkins
Troxler	Gerringer

Substitutions: Juniors— Parker, Fuller, Bell. Sophomores—Dameron, Smith, Hurley.

SATURDAY

Freshmen women triumphed over sophomores to win the tournament, the volley ball cup, and probably a trip to Chapel Hill—all to the tune of a 32-25 score. Freshman strategy and passwork had the hard-fighting sophomores baffled throughout the game, although they played a better-than-average game. Hoffman, Watkins, Lackey, and the "Jenkins gals" were outstanding.

Sophomores	Freshmen
Smith	Lindley
Pirtle	Wiggins
Cameron	Bates
Elkins	Watkins
Dameron	Marlette
Phillips	Cullum
M. Jenkins	V. Jenkins
L. Hunter	Hoffman

Substitutions: Freshmen—Dixon, Parham; sophomores—Lackey, Hendrix, Phibbs, Tice.

SCHOOL SPIRIT AT HIGH POINT

We recommend patience to those who decry the supposed lack of spirit and activity at High Point College. The best part of the school year is yet to come. It cannot be denied that the absence of football from the fall sports program leaves a gap that is impossible to fill adequately with any other activity. Although the High Point soccer teams have achieved a record of success that is probably unequaled by any school in the South, a great majority of the students here still listen to the exploits of the shin-bunters with unstifled yawns, and apparently they will continue to do so. Taken upon a state wide scale, soccer is distinctly a minor sport, and efforts to develop a major interest in the game at High Point are handicapped by outside emphasis on football.

Soon, however, we enter into a season devoted to basketball, a sport in which High Point College competes with other schools on a more or less equal basis, and receives due credit from the daily newspapers. For the past several years basketball has had enthusiastic support on the campus, and school spirit has reached a fever pitch at crucial games. And with prospects bright for the best season yet, it is likely that basketball will arouse more interest than ever.

Nor is the arrival of the basketball season to be the only factor in the revival of spirit which we predict will come here. Drama fans will have their first opportunity to see campus talent on the stage when the College Theatre presents "Three-Cornered Moon" Friday night. Debating, another activity that has enjoyed particular success and attracted considerable attention throughout the history of the College, will get under way soon, giving forensic followers a chance to hear their favorite orators in action.

Further lyceum programs, more social events, and the continuation of activity by campus organizations will all make their contributions to the winter program. Be prepared for a boom in school spirit at High Point College.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION

Intense interest has suddenly been aroused in the proposal to send a delegation from High Point College to the quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays. Little was heard about the matter until the visit to the campus of Miss Stewart last Saturday and the appointment of a committee to look into the matter Monday morning. Now the convention has entered into the class of select subjects for discussion by College students; several have offered to defer part of their own expenses to the meeting, and the student council has voted to pay as many as four registration fees out of its activities fund.

The Student Volunteer Movement is the leading international organization of students covering all denominations; in fact it is the only organization in its field. Nor is the Student Volunteer Movement exclusively devoted to religion. Social, political, and economic problems, which should be of interest to youth, come in for discussion at its meetings. Philosophers and medical missionaries appear on its programs along with leading church men.

High Point College was not represented at the last meeting, but the students who attended from here eight years ago reported it to be one of the greatest experiences of their college careers. Since the convention takes place but once in four years, each student has only one chance to attend this outstanding meeting. To the students who are in school this year, it is now or never.

We believe that the current enthusiasm for the convention is a healthy sign, and that the convention date will find a delegation from High Point College in Indianapolis eager to sit at the feet of the distinguished teachers who will be gathered there.

CONCERTED MOVEMENT

(From The Daily Tar Heel)

The extraordinary tense situation which the world has faced for the past six years has given rise to concerted effort on the part of a relatively small but active percentage of the youth of the country to gain some insight into the problems which they will soon be in a position to youthful rumblings find their encounter. The American counterport all over the rest of the civilized (soi-disant) world. The interesting fact to note is that where youth movements have been spontaneeous, they have been instigated not by conservative elements, but by the radical and liberal wings.

It is perhaps expecting too much to have the status quoers take an ACTIVE interest in their political and economic setup; but it is not incompatible for intelligent conservatives to study and take steps to remedy a deplorable situation.

Any action that the conservatives have taken arose from some radical impulse or activity. The American Liberty Leaegue defends the Constitution and fights "un-American" activities. That ing conservative group. The organization is the outstandgroup which functioned on the campus under that name last year is no more. Their main activity was to bring Davy Clark here.

But such things as anti-war movements, even though they have the endorsement of conservative organizations, are the result of stimulation by left wing groups. Conservative youth seldom stands on its own feet: its position is defined in the glowing, sloppy, sentimental terms of the older generation.

The fact that solutions to grave problems must be found makes it necessary that youth movements be formed. Conservatives as well as radicals must participate if any action is to be effective. Toward the end of joining the two factions, the American Student Union is in the process of formation. The services that an organization of this type can perform both for the individual and American societey is unlimited. It must be successful.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

(From the Florida Flambeau)

IS EDUCATION JUST A "HAND-OUT"?

The case for academic freedom again was brought to the fore by John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioer of Education, in an address before a session of the Missouri State Teachers' association recently.

"It should be the primary concern of our professional educational organizations," he said, "to safeguard our educational system from the straight-jacketing influence of alien doctrines of suppression and censorship."

The situation in most of our schools is, indeed, deplorable. Only this week the recent "communism row" at our capital city in Washington reached its climax when comptroller-general J. R. McCarl ruled that teachers who receive government pay checks first must sign statements avowing that they have not "taught or advocated communism." The incongruous thing about the whole matter is that the office declines to give an interpretation of the use of the word "taught," which has been the main bone of contention in the entire controversy.

This is only one instance of many which shows how much the schools are influenced by outside factors. Dr. Theadore Irion, dean of the school of education at the University of Missouri, says that if teachers continue a laissez faire system, permitting outside forces to control what is taught in schools, education will continue to be the tool of selfish interests.

It is time that we were waking up to the fact that we have been teaching blind loyalty in our schools instead of trying to develop a critical attitude. A citizenship creed which was drawn up by a committee appointed by the American Bar association seems to express the general view which we have been trying to indoctrinate. It reads: "I believe we Americans have the best government that ever has been created—the freest and the most just for all people. The schools of America should no more consider graduating a student who lacks faith in our government than a school of theology should graduate a minister who lacks faith in God."

We have been preaching this doctrine without presenting adequate facts about other systems as well as our own. If we only "hand on" in classes what has been "handed down" to us, without stimulating the habit of critical thinking, our educational system is doomed to narrowness and bigotry.

College Editors Against Faculty

Journalists Say Advisers Usually Wind Up As Autocrats on Papers.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

NEW YORK—American college editors want no control by faculty members, no matter how far it may be from actual censorship.

That was the opinion vigorously expressed at a conference of more than 50 editors held recently in New York under the auspices of the National Student Federation of America.

"Faculty advisers," said one editor, "usually wind up being autocrats instead of advisers," and the subsequent discussion brought out a smouldering resentment against existing forms of faculty control and a wide demand for more freedom of the under-graduate press in many directions.

Other sore points were the matter of remuneration of editorial and business staffs and varying methods of choosing workers for top staff positions.

The editors were told they ought to be increasingly aware of their opportunities for moulding intelligent opinion along social, political and economic lines.

The so-called "Vassar point system" for remuneration of business staff members, which calls for distribution of a certain number of points for each advertisement sold, and division of the profits at the end of the year in proportion to points amassed received general approval.

General and outspoken disapproval was registered with the common methods of appointing students to fill ranking staff positions. Not the student body at large, nor the English department, nor the dean should have the right to name editors and business managers, the delegate editors maintained, holding that they should be elected by either the staff or the outgoing board of control.

Francis G. Smith, Jr., editor last year of The Daily Princetonian and president of the Association of College Editors, urged the delegates to pay more attention to what liberals and radicals on their campuses say, than to the conservatives.

"Coincident with a healthy change in the undergraduate outlook in the last few years," he said, "certain college newspapers have exerted a vital force on campus opinion through intelligent comment on American politics and economics."

Freedom of speech and the press in colleges must be carefully guarded, he asserted, because "university administrations today are more apt to suppress freedom of the press than formerly."

James A. Wechsler, editor last year of The Columbia Spectator, told the editors that attacks by certain newspapers and patriotic societies on communism in the colleges was the "first indication of approaching fascism."

"The attack by so-called college patriotic societies on liberal students at peace meetings is also similar to the activities in Nazi Germany," he asserted.

In better circles it is known as being a sychophant, although upon many college campi, the phrase "apple polishing" neatly covers the same ground.

We think we have discovered the ultimate in refined apple polishing.

In one of our state universities, which the Rockefeller foundation would, no doubt, list among the 10 best, a young man labored long and hard upon a thesis for his M. A. One of these things: "The Influence of Sixteenth Century Philosophy Upon So and So." The examining committee turned down the poor boy because one member violently dissented with the majority report. Feeling certain he had covered the ground very well, the cagey boy made quiet inquiries as to the dissenter's reasons. He found:

That the professor had objected to the paper because, in the bibliography, the writer had not included mention of a five-page paper on the subject written by the professor some 20 years ago.

The boy rewrote the thesis, cited and quoted from the paper, and passed the examination nicely, thank you.

Thirteen of 14 house mothers in sororities at the University of Michigan have gone on record to the effect that their pretty charges are not a bit exhausted on Saturday mornings, after Friday night's festivities.

This is probably important since the august Michigan Daily tells about it on page one. We feel sure if everyone will just think hard a moment we will discover the significance of the story. On the other hand it may be that the editors of the Michigan Daily like the editor of this column, just had a hole to fill in the day's copy.

An obliging correspondent tells of a young student at a state university in the South who had a merry time making a "B" average. His family was voting right, says the correspondent. Then he transferred to a private college and his marks went steadily down until, in an effort to recoup, he plagiarized another's work and was expelled.

In this little problem, you must understand, the student's ability is the constant, and the academic standards are the variables.

Now to complete the problem, you have to name the state university involved.

Peace notees:

At the University of Kansas, while a peace demonstration was in progress, scoffers constructed a snow man, hung a placard about its neck which said "Down With Pacifism."

In New York school children paraded down the streets bearing a clay replica of a scaly dinosaur.

Placards said, "All Armor Plate, No Brains." "This Animal Believed in Preparedness, He is Now Extinct."

Averaging a full point higher in their grades than their non-working fellows are students receiving NYA assistance.

AROUND WASHINGTON

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—One of Harry Hopkins' brightest young men is 27-year-old Dallas Dort, head of the Works Progress Administration's newly enlarged Division of Investigation. Dort, as division head, is charged with investigating all complaints made of misuse of any part of the $4,800,000 work relief fund. In the entire works set-up there is probably no more involved and complex job. The boss of the new "W" men, however, is enthusiastic about the work.

"It's darned interesting," he says. "There's something popping up every minute."

The things that "pop up" range from complaints of selling of jobs by officials to relief to direct misappropriation of funds or misuse of WPA equipment. Every complaint is investigated at first hand by a "W" man sent out from some one of the division's 15 regional offices. If the division thinks they have sufficient evidence to convict the evidence is turned over to the Department of Justice, or sometimes to local authorities for prosecution.

In order to be considered eligible for appointment as a "W" man an applicant must be either a lawyer, a trained accountant or an engineer. If you're a double or triple threat man, that is, if you have either two, or all three kinds of training, so much the better. Former Secret Service men, or former G-men, with the aforementioned requisites, are especially eligible. The present staff has a large number of former Secret Service men and former special agents of the Department of Justice on it. All in all, more than 50 additional investigators have been hired by Dort in the past two months.

Dort, himself, is by training a lawyer. After taking his A. B. at Princeton in 1930, he entered Michigan to study law. In 1933 he left Michigan, with an LL. B. degree. At Princeton he was a member of Key and Seal. At Michigan he was affiliated with Phi Delta, a legal fraternity.

For a short time he was in business in California, managing a hotel. In the fall of 1933 he came to Washington and was hired by the FERA to help the Compensation section work out plans to make restitution to FERA workers injured while employed on work relief projects.

From that post he was transferred to the job of keeping tabs on the administrative end of various statistical projects launched under the CWA program. This was no small responsibility, since under the CWA statistical projects, formed an important part of the white collar section of the job-giving program.

About a year ago Dort began running the FERA'S Division of Investigation. At that time many of the component parts of the FERA had their own individual investigators, aside from their regular field men who checked on the progress of the program. With the launching of the WPA these units were coordinated into the present division, headed by Dort.

At 27, with a $4,000 yearly salary, and the status of a WPA division chief (which incidentally would call for a much larged salary in almost any other New Deal agency) Dallas Dort is just beginning to go places. His youth, coupled with a faint suggestion of shyness, gives him an appealing and extremely likeable personality.

That comparative oldster, Dr. Tugwell, if he ever met Dort, might well be imagined as saying, "Yes, sir, I was as young as that once."

Random note . . . Somewhere in this fair land of ours is a young G-man, possibly hot on the trail of a public enemy, while unbeknownst to him another young man, employed by the Government here, is considering having a second G-man put on the trail of the first one. For it seems that the G-man, suddenly ordered away to parts unknown, forgot to return to the aforesaid young man, his former roommate, seven dollars he borrowed from him. Moreover, he also borrowed the roommate's valise. The roommate says the G-man did not behave with criminal intent, but merely in keeping with the habits he observed in him when they roomed together in college. He says J. Edgar Hoover ought either to recall the culprit, or send somebody out to bring him in.

"Karpis can wait," he said, in effect. "I want my suitcase back, and my seven dollars!"

ALL-STAR PLAYERS SELECTED AT CLOSE OF CO-ED TOURNEY

Committee of Captains and Managers Draw Up Honor Combination From Stars In Women's Volley Ball Tournament; Frosh Cop Most Positions.

With the culmination of the intra-mural voley ball tilt, it seems fitting to check up and give honor where it is due. A student committee has selected an all-star volloy ball team from the women of the various classes. The list of choices follows:

R. Hendrix, E. Hoffman, Holt, M. Jenkins, V. Jenkins, Marlette, Phillips, Watkins.

Honorable Mention: Cameron, Gerringer, Lackey, L. Hunter, Wiggins.

This selection was made by a committee composed of the captains and managers of the class teams, and approved by Miss Brame, director of physical education for women.

M. Jenkins, sophomore, has displayed throughout the tournament good passwork and ability at the net.

V. Jenkins, freshman, has a strong serve and can receive the hardest passes.

Holt, junior captain, is the backbone of her team, and especially capable at playing at the net.

Phillips and Hendrix, sophomore combination, were noted for fine passes and whole-hearted cooperation.

Marlette and Watkins duplicated this combination for the freshmen.

Hoffman, '39, has a powerful serve, and tricky pass ability.

The All-Star Team is the product of persistent and diligent work. High Point women should take this team as a symbol of the recent progress in physical education for women—and as concrete evidence of the spirit of good sportsmanship.

Local Team Takes Lead In Central Carolina Loop

Booters Meet Triangles In Important Game This Afternoon; Title At Stake

Locals Close Season With League Contest Against Catawba Here Tomorrow Afternoon.

The High Point Purple Panther soccer squad, now the nominal head of the Central Carolina league as a result of the Kernersville-High Point Y draw Saturday, takes the field today in an all-important battle against the Kernersville nemesis, High Point Y, on the High School grounds before meeting Catawba College in a second battle tomorrow afternoon.

Kernersville, first beating the local shin-buster team earlier in the season, held the league leadership up until two weeks ago when in a second battle the High Point men completely revenged themselves in a 3-2 win, putting both teams in a tie for the head position. But Saturday, the Kernersville bunch, still recuperating from the Panther game, came to High Point only to lose by one point the league leadership as the local Y valiantly played them to an humble tie.

Today's game is looked to with apprehension as Coach Culler's team comes up against one of the hardest playing elevens in the league and although the High Point College boys have triumphed over the Y team in a previous game, it is expected to be one of the closest games of the year.

After the impressive win last week over the growling Wildcat elcven, the Panthers have been holding comparatively few practices as many of the boys have been concentrating on basketball practice, yet the team as a whole seems to be in pretty good shape

North State Conference Athletic Association Meets Here Saturday

Plans for Basketball Season to be Completed in Meeting.

The annual winter gathering of the North State Conference Athletic Association will be held here at the College on Saturday, December 14, it was announced by David E. Faust, of Catawba College, secretary-treasurer.

Preceding the conference gathering, B. W. Hackney, Jr., secretary of the Basketball Officials association, will meet with the basketball coachcs at 1:30 o'clock to assign the officials for the conference basketball games.

At 3 o'clock the conference will convene to work out the 1936 baseball schedule and also to rule upon the eligibility of an Elon College football player. Elon has won the North State Conference football title, but Catawba College has protested the eligibility of one player. Upon this ruling will probably depend the championship.

The conference will also make plans at that time to hold its first annual basketball tournament in High Point the last week in February.

The basketball tournament is an experiment. If it succeeds here, it will probably continue in this city. If it is a financial failure, it will likely be shifted to another community or be discontinued.

When physical education was made non-compulsory at the University of California, enrollment in the department jumped 1,800.

FRESHMEN WIN FIFTH BATTLE

Showing characteristic speed and power, the High Point Purple Kittens, led by Hester and Jarrett, freshman forwards, rang up their fifth win of the season as they completely outplayed a persistent Eli Whitney High School quintet on the Eli Whitney court to win 33 to 22 last Friday night.

Taking the lead from the start, the yearling team showed improvement even over the playing of the five day Cleveland county compctition as the two freshman forwards clicked in almost postseason form, taking passes from the alcrt guards to keep the High Point team well ahead during most of the game.

The game showed some fine defensive work as well as stellar offensive playing on the parts of both the local team and the Eli Whitney quint. The first quarter saw two pretty evenly matched teams take the floor, the Kittens taking an impressive lead only after fifteen minutes of play. Beginning with the second quarter the five boys began a passing attack which was almost unstopable, each member getting a chance at the basket—as a result the individual scoring was practically the same with Hester, showing a little more speed and flash, ekeing out a five point lead over his teammates to carn the position of high scorer.

The Eli Whitney team made a valiant attempt in the fourth quarter to overcome the Purple Kittens lead as [illegible]hitney forward, rang up several tallies, but the tight defensive work which has been a part of the High Point winning machinery, again began timing to completely close up the enemies' scoring chances.

PANTHERS WIN CONTEST FROM WINSTON CLUB

Kernersville Tied by Local Y Squad to Give Pointers Narrow Lead.

Taking a 4-1 victory over the Winston-Salem club, while Kernersville, the other claimant to the league lead was held to a tie by the High Point Triangles, the High Point College soccer eleven forged into league leadership by a narrow margin in the Central Carolina Soccer Association Saturday afternoon.

High Point College and Kernersville went into this round of play in the circuit tied for first place. Last Saturday the Panthers eked out a close 3-2 victory over the Kernersville bunch to gain a tie with them for the lead. Both clubs had lost only one scheduled game, the loss being inflicted in each case by the other team. Should the collegians finish the season undefeated, they will claim the title by a narrow margin. However, on their schedule remains the local "Y", who upset Kernersvillee yesterday and is always a tough foe.

The game yesterday, which was played on the Winston grounds, was the first encounter between the two clubs this year. The first contest, which was scheduled at High Point, was forfeited to the locals. The Pointers experienced little trouble, however, in downing them in their first meeting.

Coach Culler put the Pointers in the lead three minutes after the opening whistle when he made a beautiful kick through the enemy goal. Martin missed a hard try at the goal a moment later. However, he made the second goal shortly after the opening of the second quarter. Intrieri stopped a terrific drive at the Pantheir goal in this quarter. Culler fingers for the third count at the drove one through the goalie's close of the half. The score then was: High Point, 3; Winston-Salem, 0.

Players on both teams made frequent fouls in the beginning of the third quarter.

Heels made the lone tally for the losers in this quarter, although Brinkley tried hard to prevent the score. Harris, flashy Panther lineman, retaliated with a terrific drive to bring the score to 4-1 which still stod at the end of the game.

Elder, Sherrill and Smith featured on defense for the locals, while Culler, Harris and Martin were outstanding on offense.

The line-ups:

High Point	Pos.	Winston
Intrieri	G	Snyder
Elder	RF	Rothrock
Harris	LF	Cox
Grigg	RH	T. Besson
Sherrill	CH	R. Nail
Smith	LH	Grubbs

Basketeers Trounce Unique Furniture In Opening Pre-Season Battle, 36-20

Harris and Culler Lead Offensive Attack; Twin City Club Held to Four Field Goals.

Although showing a lack of practice customary to pre-season games, the Purple Panther basketeers opened their 1935-36 season Saturday night with a 36-20 victory over the Unique Furniture Club, of Winston-Salem, in a pre-season contest, on the Twin City "Y" court.

Taking the lead in the early minutes of the contest, the Yowmen had the situation well in hand throughout the remainder of the battle. Even then the victory was none too impressive, and the squad showed clearly the need of more practice before tackling a tougher foe.

HARRIS—FORWARD

Practically the same line-up that the Panthers boasted last year took the floor against the Twin City squad. Martin, and Harris, both sophomores who saw service on the squad last year, were at the forward posts, while Culler, a veteran of three year's experience, was shifted to guard with Intrieri, another sophomore. Booth, junior, appeared at center. Although getting off to a slow start, this combination clicked well at times, showing a passing and shooting attack similar to that employed last year in subduing two Big Five opponents and capturing second place in the North State conference race close behind Elon.

This offense attack, which came about the middle of the first half, was led by Harris and Culler. Both men played a good floor game and made good on the passes given by teammates. Harris sank

Culler Named Captain Panther Pack; Finishes College Career This Year

Broadus Culler, versatile three-letter Panther athlete who will finish a colorful record here with this year's campaign, has been named captain of the Purple Panther basketeers for the 1935-36 season, it was announced Monday afternoon by Coach C. V. Yow.

The new captain came here in the fall of '32 from the High Point High School, where he made the All-State high school team his last year on that five. He became one of the main cogs in Yow's machine his first year, and has made a great record during his three years on the team. Coaches have picked him on the conference team every year, generally by a unanimous vote.

His first year here, Culler, sometimes called "Little Wonder" averaged over eighteen points per game for 21 games, a record which will compare favorably with that of any collegiate basketeer. Even though he did not average as many points during the following two years' play, he developed a lot in floor play, passing securing rebounds, and crashing for the ball.

Besides ranking as one of the best players ever to don the uniform of the Panther cagers, Culler is an outstanding soccer and baseball player. He is serving as coach of the varsity soccer eleven for the third year, and has made quite a record as mentor. Recognized as one of the outstanding soccer players in the state himself, he takes care of the center position in addition to coaching.

After a fair season his first year on the baseball field, Culler

CAGE TEAM TO TRAVEL NORTH

Runners-up in the last year's Little Six conference race and with wins over Davidson and Wake Forest, Big Five teams, during the past year, the High Point Purple Panther basketball squad, with hopes for an even better season this year, Saturday night takes on the powerful Chatham Blanketeers in a game which will serve as the prelude to a heavy five day holiday schedule.

The Chatham Blanketeers are reputed to have one of the best semi-pro basketball quints in the state and when the local squad takes the floor against them Saturday night the Yowmen will have to show more speed and power on both the defensive and offensive sides of their basketball machinery than they have shown so far in the pre-season games, in order to come out on the big end of the score.

Furthering the pre-season schedule, the Panther team checks out from the campus Tuesday morning, the 17th, to travel to Ashland, Va., where it is hoped they will be able to take on Randolph-Macon that night; the next day, the 18th, their travels will be extended to Baltimore, Md., where they meet the University of Baltimore in the second tilt; Western Maryland College will provide the competition for Thursday night at Westminister, Md. For Friday and Saturday games are still pending, although plans are being made to play Richmond in a second game on the return trip.

SPORTSCRIPTS

By Alton Hartman

Although by no means intended for a friendly act, the local local Y soccer eleven did the Panther kickers a good turn last Saturday when they tied the Kernersville team in a league contest. According to the point system used in the Central Carolina Association, a win counts as two points, a tie as one point, and a loss as none. High Point College and Kernersville had the same number of points, each having won six of their seven games played in the league. But in their eighth game last Saturday, the Panthers gained 2 points while their rivals for the lead only secured 1 point with their tie. A narrow margin, but enough to win the title if they can hold it the rest of the season.

—o—

High Point Y and Catawba remain as the only barriers to the league title for the Panthers. The hardest game will no doubt be against the Triangles this afternoon. In the past the Collegians have always won in their series, but the margin of victory was generally rather slim. The Triangles are a tough lot to handle, and proved their strength last Saturday. And they will not let up today, but will go into the contest determined to trip the Panthers just as they stopped the other league leader. Playing two games to fiuish their schedule this week will put an added strain on the shin-busters in their fight for the crown.

—o—

Next year we would like to see a soccer conference formed by the colleges in this state. The subject was brought up and discussed at the Inter-Collegiate Athletic conference in Greensboro last fall, but no definite action was taken. It is now an approved sport at four state schools, Duke University, Davidson College, High Point, and Catawba. Interest has been shown in the sport at Lenoir Rhyne, and Guilford, and these schools may be represented by a team within the next season. The competition would be keen, and the state championship would be officially determined. High Point and Duke appear as the strongest teams in the state this year, although Davidson has given each a tough battle, having tied the Panthers in their first encounter. The Blue Devils and Panthers broke even in their series of two games, each winning on their home ground. Another should have been arranged between the two squads, with the win-

Two Mixed Teams Clash In Volley Ball Engagement

"Green" Team Takes Contest From "Purple" Volleyers in Unique Game.

Immediately folowing the playoff of the women's volley ball tournament Saturday night, the Purple and Green teams, mixed aggregation of volleyers, made their initial appearance on the court. This is the first time that the men and women have participated together in sports.

During the first few minutes of the game the men were a bit backward, probably because of the unusual partners and opponents they had. As the game progressed good teamwork was shown, men and women passing the ball and smashing it over with fine co-operation. Loud and enthusiastic applause from both student and faculty spectators indicated full approbation for mixed games.

Both teams showed real skill, especially in the last minutes of the unusual contest, but the Green team triumphed, the final score standing at 38-26 in their favor.

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

Olympic Boycott Asked By Prexys

College Heads Petition Amateur Athletic Union to Withdraw From Games.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

NEWARK,. N. J.—Forty American educators, presidents of colleges in 27 states, have joined in a request to the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and the American Olympic committee for withdrawal of American participation in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin.

Announcement of the educators' stand was made by Frank Kingdon, president of Dana College, Newark. It was accompanied by a statement setting forth reasons for requesting American withdrawal and signed by the forty college presidents.

"It is out considered judgment," the statement says, "based upon the record of events that have transpired in Germany for the past two and a half years, that the inequalities and discrimination practiced against Jews, Catholics, Protestants, labor, Masons and all independents are perpetuated in the field of sports and in the Olympic games.

"We believe further, that these games are being used by Nazi Germany as an instrument for the propagation of her ideals, which represent the destruction of democratic and progressive society . . . "We believe that the Americans should refuse to take part in the games, and that such refusal will serve to elevate and preserve sport and the sporting spirit."

ANGELL CHARGES GRID GAME 'BIG BUSINESS'

Yale Prexy Says Gate Receipts Count Above Everything In Most Schols.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Football is big business in over 70 per cent. of American colleges, according to President James Rowland Angell, of Yale, who charges that in these schools it is the crowd—the winners—the receipts—that count above everything else connected with the game.

Should college football, with its sub-rosa subsidization of players, lose out in the competition for popularity with the professional teams, and follow college baseball into obscurity, there are three possible solutions for schools that refuse to countenance any but strictly amateur procedure, Dr. Angell says.

The three ways out cited by the Yale president are: Endowments rendering the athletic program independent of gate receipts; discontinuing some or all sports as financial responsibilities of the colleges and leaving them up to the students; or the abandoning of the whole program of "college sports as public spectacles" with a return to the informal games of the pre-Victorian era.

STUDENT FORCED IN FROM TENT BY COLD

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Compared to his wall tent with its kerosene lamp and sturdy army cot, John Clendenin, Penn State freshman, doesn't think much of the room in town that snow and colder weather have forced him to move into.

Until just the other day Clendenin was camping in the woods outside of town, doing his own cooking on a small wood stove, and studying by lamp-light with no sound to disturb him except the rustling footsteps of an occasional small animal.

"It's not so bad here," Clendenin said at his new residence, "but I liked my tent better. I wasn't so cooped up."

He will go back to the woods in the Spring, Clendenin said.

five field goals and two fouls for twelve points to lead the team, while Culler secured seven points on two field goals and three fouls.

The Pointers also put up a good defensive battle in the first period, allowing the opposing team only one field goal, a toss by Hayworth. The Unique club only made four of their thirteen free tosses good in this half, to wind up with only six points at whistle, while the Panthers had accounted for 19.

An entirely new squad replaced the starting men for High Point at the beginning of the second half. Rogers slipped in a crip shortly, and Elder followed a little later with a long shot. Cooper, a High Point boy, secured the second field goal for the Furniture five ten minutes after the start of the period. Diamont played a good game for the Panthers during his stay in the contest, scoring four points on action shots.

With only five minutes to go, the original line-up went back in the contest and ran the count from 27 to 36. Harris, Booth and Intrieri scored in this interval. Johnson, lanky Unique center, got a goal just a few seconds before the final whistle.

The Twin City team secured only four field goals in the entire game. However, they were fouled frequently and got 23 free tosses, while the Pointers only had 13 free trials at the basket. Martin fouled out in the last minute, while several men had many fouls. Cheek, who saw action on the Elon squad last year against the Yowmen, was removed in the first half because of excessive fouling.

ner being accepted as state champion. However it is probably too late in the season and many players have already donned the basketball uniforms.

Elon may lose their North State conference football crown when the Conference Athletic Association meets here Saturday. The Christians breezed through all conference opposition this year to win the title for the third consecutive season. But now Catawba claims they used an incligible player in doing this. The officials will decide upon the cligibility of the Christian player, and their decision may change the final standings in the conference. . . . No play football; not part in squabble.

—o—

And speaking of football, we agree with the Enterprise sports editor, Frank Barfield, when he says that this town is badly in need of a municipal stadium for football contests and other events.. A modern stadium would prove of benefit to the College, high school, and the town as a whole. We have the natural place, but when will we complete the work started? It's just bringing the same question up again, but maybe that will help in getting football back.

—o—

In looking over the basketball schedule of some of notice that several are playthe North State teams, we ing Big 5 teams this year. Although Big Five basketball is recognized as being superior and faster than that of the little schools, some of the North State teams are capable of giving them a tough battle. High Point should have some of the larger schools on their schedule this year, if the fact that they were able to furnish some competition last year for their Big Five opponents means anything.

Panther Five Beats A. C. C. Team In Contest At Wilson

Culler Tops Scoring as Purple Quint Wins Over Bulldogs by 33-22 Score.

PANTHERS SECOND

Locals to Meet Loop-Leading Appalachian Mountaineers at Boone Friday.

Although still unable to hit the fast pace set by the Panther cagers last year, the Purple and White aggregation defeated the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs last night at Wilson by the score of 33-22 to win their second North State Conference victory in three starts this season. The Yowmen are now second in conference standings, with the Appalachian Mountaineers, who upset the Panthers in their initial loop tilt, and the Catawba Indians tied for the top position. Ten more conference games remain on the local's thirteen game card, with five on the home court.

Appearing before an enthusiastic home audience for the first time in a conference contest this season, and saluated by their own band, the Bulldogs made a desperate attempt to stop the fast stepping White and Purple quint. Taking the lead at the opening whistle, they held a 6-0 margin at the end of six minutes play. By the middle of the period the Panthers rallied and forged ahead, only to have the Christians cut the lead down to 14-13 at half time.

Led by Captain Culler, who scored four field goals in this period, the locals improved in their offensive attack in the second period, to ring up 19 points while they were holding their opponents to four field baskets and one foul toss, a total of 9 points.

Culler, with 13 points, was high scorer of the contest, while Scott, Bulldog forward, led his squad with 7. The remainder of the High Point tallies were well divided among the rest of the players.

CHAPEL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED FOR YEAR

Senior Investiture Service to Be Held on April 3rd; Speeches Follow.

The schedule for Friday chapel exercises has been announced for the rest of the year by the administration.

The program of January 17 will be in charge of Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, and Miss Idol will be in charge on January 24. There will be no chapel exercises on Friday, January 31, which comes during mid-term examinations.

Dr. P. S. Kennett will have charge on February 7 and 14; Mrs. White on February 21 and 28; Miss Sloan on March 6; Mr. Ford on March 13; Mr. Spessard on March 20; and the Student Government Council on March 27.

The annual senior investiture service will be held on Friday, April 3, and addresses will be given to the senior class and students each Friday thereafter by visiting speakers until the close of school. However, there will be no program on April 10 because of the Easter recess.

MINISTER IS SPEAKER FOR CHAPEL HERE

Dr. Haeflinger Speaks on Industries of Florida in Chapel Exercise.

Dr. H. J. Haeflinger, prominent Methodist Episcopal minister of Lakeland, Florida, spoke to the student body at the regular chapel period Friday morning.

Instead of the religious program which he suggested the students expected, Dr. Haeflinger told them about Florida, "the land of sunshine and flowers." "We have been aware," he said, "for the last few weeks, that we are not in Florida." He followed with some instances of the pleasant Floridian climate. In St. Petersburg, he said, a daily paper is given away every day that the sun does not shine. The record has been remarkable, the papers going without charge only three or four times out of six or eight years.

"The industries of Florida," stated Dr. Haeflinger, "are very limited." There is not much farming land there because of the level country and small elevation.

The mining of phosphates is the largest industry, but the citrus fruit industry, according to the speaker, is most interesting. Citrus groves cover a very small part of the state; yet the production is very large. It takes some time to plant the trees and bring them to the bearing stage; consequently, it is some time before the production is large enough to pay for itself.

Dr. Haeflinger said that orange growers are more willing to sacrifice in order to let people enjoy their oranges than are the apple growers of the North. They feel that oranges are essential to health and often sell the fruit at a sacrifice rather than see people without it.

The speaker ended his message by wishing for the whole student body and faculty a very happy and successful new year. "The year may not look so promising to some," he said, "but the fact that the new day brings new thoughts, new faiths and new ambitions makes it exciting and promising. In conclusion, he added the thought that some students are majoring in English, others in mathematics, some in business—but that the student who fails in spirituality has failed entirely.

Dr. Haeflinger was invited to speak by H. L. Spessard of the business department, who was in charge of the program.

PRISCILLAS TO HAVE BANQUET NEXT MONTH

Annual Formal Dinner of College Home Economics Students Comes Feb. 14.

The Modern Priscilla Club made plans, at the last meeting, for the annual formal dinner to be held this year on February 14. The dinner is the major event of the year for the home economists. All the planning and cooking are done by the girls themselves. Each girl in the club has the privilege of inviting someone to the dinner. Several faculty members, usually from the science department, complete the list of guests.

The program for the meeting was impromptu, consisting of talks by Christine Latham and Cricket Varner on "Why I Want to Be a Housekeeper"; Jacqueline Cameron and Elizabeth Phillips on "Why We Want to Be Dietitians"; Becky Finch on "Why I Want to Be a Designer," and Dot McCollum on "Why I Want to Be an 'Old-Maid Schoolteacher.'"

Following the program the greater part of the business was concerned with plans for the dinner and the appointment of various committees for that occasion.

Elizabeth Pirtle and Elizabeth Phillips were hostesses for the meeting.

SWEATERS PROVIDED FOR CHEER LEADERS

The four Panther cheerleaders have been furnished with white sweaters through the cooperation of the Student Government Council, the Athletic Council, and THE HI-PO. These sweaters are to be worn only at athletic contests, and they will be passed on to the new cheerleaders from year to year. The sweaters are solid white without letters, although the two co-ed cheerleaders have placed the insignia of the Woman's Athletic Association upon their garments. The cheerleaders, who were elected early in the fall, are Dot Perry, chief, Royce Gibbs, Robert Rankin, and Virginia Dixon.

Two Installed In City Union

Ruth Hendrix, Sulon Ferree Take Part in Installation Services.

Installation services for the Christian Endeavor City Union of High Point were held at Springfield Friends' church on January 7. Miss Clara I. Cox, pastor of that church, was in charge of the service.

Miss Cox began the service with a brief and inspiring talk, using as her theme, "Ye Are My Witnesses." After the talk she installed the new officers of the Union.

Roscoe Briley, of Welch Memorial Methodist Protestant church, was installed as president, while two High Point College students took their places in major office; Ruth Hendrix, '38, is recording secretary for another year, while Sulon Ferree, '36, is corresponding secretary.

Announcements were made concerning the Christian Endeavor Conference to be held at Welch Memorial church January 13 for the purpose of discussing ways to improve the Union. The silver loving cup given for the largest percentage of attendance at the meeting went to Lebanon Methodist Protestant church.

Members of the College Christian Endeavor society attending the meeting were Miss Mary Young, Mary Margaret Bates, Leo Pittard, Sulon Feree and Paul Owen.

College Newspaper to Circulate Institute of Government Pamphlet.

STATISTICS GIVEN

North Carolina Leads South in Highway Death Rate for Gasoline Burned.

THE HI-PO this week is distributing on the campus two hundred copies of a pamphlet published by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill in behalf of greater highway safety in this state.

The introduction to the pamphlet is written by Albert Coates director of the Institute of Government, and his campaign has the endorsement of prominent citizens throughout the state.

The pamphlet is entitled "Death Takes No Toliday," and it gives startling figures on the highway accident toll in North Carolina. One and one half times as many North Carolinians are killed and injured on the highways each year as were killed or wounded from this state in the entire World War. Thirty million dollars worth of losses result from North Carolina's highway accidents annually. The rate of highway deaths per 10,000 gallons of gasoline consumed is higher for North Carolina than for any other state in the South. Statistics are also given on the time at which accidents occur, the type of roads, the condition of the automobiles, and the law violations responsible for accidents.

The pamphlet also contains the public laws of North Carolina relating to automobiles, the laws and guide rules for motorists, and the Uniform Driver's Liccnse Law of 1935. The little book concludes with a reprint of "—And Sudden Death," the sensational article on highway accidents by J. C. Furnas which was first published in The Readers Digest, and which has since been printed in thousands of copies by insurance companies, police departments, state highway bureaus, and other organizations interested in reducing the toll of deaths from automobile accidents.

BAD WEATHER STOPS WALK CONSTRUCTION

Construction of the walk and steps leading to Harrison Gymnasium will be started as soon as weather conditions and the basketball schedule will permit, it has been announced by Allen Austin, chairman of the joint society committee in charge of this project. The walkway, which has been made possible as a combined project of the four literary societies on the campus, was to have been constructed and ready for use at the close of the Christmas holidays, but weather conditions for the past several weeks have made work on the job impossible.

C. E. Society Holds Meeting

Christian Organization Active on Campus Since Christmas Holidays.

Among the major activities on the campus since the Christmas holidays have been the various meetings and parties given by the College Christian Endeavor society.

On Wednesday night, January 8, prior to and in preparation for the business session Friday, the executive committee of the society held its regular monthly meeting. It was of special interest to note that every committee chairman not making his monthly report in person sent a comprehensive written report covering the activities of his committee.

At the business meeting of the entire society, on the following Friday, the group was concerned particularly with ways to improve the regular Sunday evening meetings. Little other business was transacted. A lively social, based on the passing of the various months of the year, afforded entertainment for the remainder of the evening.

"Growing Signs of Brotherhood" was the topic which held the attention of those who attended the regular program on Sunday evening. The session opened with an instrumental prelude and a call to worship. After sentence prayers, Virginia Grant, the leader for the evening, introduced the subject and Wilbur Walton read a brief scripture lesson.

Large Number Of New Books Is Added To High Point College Library Shelves

A consignment of some 50 new books has been received in the library since the Christmas holidays. This group of new volumes, embracing subjects from new information on diet to cheap and effective stage lighting, has been catalogued and is now ready for circulation.

Fiction has only a small part in the collection, but the novels received show diversity of subject and treatment. Silas Crockett, by Mary Ellen Chase, is a story of the American shipping trade, the last days of the clipper ships, a Yankee shipmaster and his descendants. Joseph Hergesheimer's Java Head comes up to the author's usual standard of excellence in clearness of characterization and powerful description. Vein of Iron is the latest publication by that romanticist, Ellen Glasgow, and has been favorably reviewed by a number of literary organs. Perhaps most unusual among the fictitious narratives is Ruth McKee's story of The Lord's Anointed. It deals with the early missionaries to the Hawaiian islands, and with the experiences of one who "breaks away."

Stage and speaker's platform are well-represented in the group. Principles of Effective Speaking, by Sanford and Yeager; Hubert Heffner's Modern Theater Practice, a comprehensive work on play production; Lighting the Stage, by Knapp; Sheldon Cheyney's history of stagecraft, Three Thousand Years of Drama; all are included.

For the chemist, physicist, housekeeper or the aspirant to such positions, the collection contains The Chemical Formulary, by Bennett; Stock and Stahler's Quantitative Chemical Analysis; Physics of the Home, by Osborne; The Boston Cooking School Cook Book; Economics of Household Products, Reid; and Bogert's Diet and Personality.

The aesthetically minded may find something of interest in Melwon's First Book of Embroidery Design, or in Russell's practical Art Training Through Home Problems. Four Famous Greek Plays rubs bindings with a collection of Six Soviet Plays, compiled by Eugene Lyons. while Greek Byways Principles of Greek of Art, and The Ancient World strive to remind the student of the events of antiquity.

Biography "has its inning" also. Robert J. Burdette, famous humorist and reformer, is pictured by his wife in the biographical volume Burdette. The always interesting "T. R." is portrayed in a simple biography entitled From the Ranch to the White House, while the beloved American Will Rogers is described by Patrick Joseph O'Brien as an "ambassador of good will and a prince of wit and wisdom." Old Jules, by Mari Sandoz, is a daughter's story of her sturdy immigrant father and his struggles to build an American home; a character study of an unusually vigorous and unyielding type. Richard Halliburton's Glorious Adventure is another of his travel sketches written in his intimate, inimitable style. Michael Pupin's autobiography, From Immigrant to Inventor, is also among the books recently added to the shelves.

Books of interest to students in the business department are Readings in Marketing, by Clark, and Stuart Chase's Government in Business. But the field of education is by far the best represented field in the new books received. In the field of children's literature come Children's Readings, by Terman; Watkins' Silent Reading for Beginners; and Discovering North Carolina, by Miss Nellie Rowe. The Rowe volume is designed to teach young North Carolinians things they should know about their state, and is written by the librarian of the public library in Greensboro, and is printed by the University of North Carolina Press. Others are The Unified Kindergarten, by Parker; Dynes' Socializing the Child; Some Primary Methods, by Sloman; Progressive Primary Teaching, by Stormland; Rugg's The Child-Centered School; Clouser's Educative Experiences; Geography in the Elementary School; by Thralls; Branom's A Teacher's Geography; Steven's The Activity Curriculum in the Primary Grades; And Gladly Teach, by Bliss Perry; and Activities in the Public School, by Gustin and Hayes.

Additional volumes are My Country and My People, a brief sketch of the Chinese situation, by Yutang Lin, and Kimber's Anatomy and Physiology for Nurses.

Local Students Give Reports From Student Volunteer Meet

Garlington Is Spokesman for Group in Chapel Speech on Indianapolis Meeting.

THREE ATTEND

Gibbs Gives Report to Christian Endeavor Society; Ridge to Thaleans.

The Monday morning chapel period was given over to listening to reports from the college representatives who attended the Twelfth Quadrennial Convention of the American Student Volunteer Movement, which convened in Indianapolis, Indiana, from December 28 through January 1.

J. E. Garlington, '38, was chosen as spokesman for the delegates, the other two of whom were Oceo Gibbs, '38, and Charles Ridge, '37. Through Mr. Garlington the delegates reported the convention as an outstanding and memorable experience, as Christian leaders from all parts of the world and delegates from almost all races and denominations met to discuss some of the livest problems now confronting the Christian world community.

All the delegates have been heard in enthuiastic reports since they returned—Gibbs speaking to the Christian Endeavor society, and Ridge to the Thalean Literary society. They have discussed the trip, the convention, its seminars, speakers, fellowship and features of additional interest. The talks have been enlightening, revealing many features of student attitudes and the atmosphere of this great interdenominational and international conference.

Among the speakers and leaders of the various seminars at the convention were John B. Mott, leader of the Movement; Robert E. Speer, another founder; I. Z. Koo, leader of the Chinese delegation; John A. Mackay, and Kagawa, the great Japanese Christian, who is famous wherever the name of Christ is known. These leaders were the motivating forces of the convention, discussing with other delegates means of relieving the chaotic state of the world mind.

The seminars were the central factors of the convention, although numerous lectures and relevant films were heard and seen as well. Enrollment in four different seminars gave the College delegates opportunity to learn much about how Christianity is facing world problems. Mr. Gibbs was fortunately enrolled in the group discussing "Christian Fellowship and World Peace."

The convention was in three main divisions: Platform hours for sequence of addresses, special features, such as plays and an international tea, and the already-mentioned seminars for intimate exchange of thought.

A New Year's Eve party was the main feature of the last evening of the convention, delegates celebrating the overcoming of barriers to friendship and hoping that it would extend into the new year.

While in Indianapolis the College delegates enjoyed the hospitality of Dr. W. L. Spratt, a Methodist Protestant minister of some prominence in the city.

DEBATE TEAM TO GET INTO ACTION SOON

Negotiations Under Way for Contests Next Month; Tournament in March.

Negotiations are under way for a debate here with Lafayette College of Pennsylvania around the first of February, it has been announced by Professor Cullen B. Owens, College debate coach.

Owens plans to hold a series of discussions and seminars with the seven men who have been placed on the tentative squad before the local team enters active debating. Each of the men will deliver another speech on this season's query before the end of this month, Owens announces, and a temporary team will be selected to take part in the debates scheduled for the early part of the season. Every man on the squad, however, will have an opportunity to participate in contests throughout the season.

The question to be used this year is the Phi Kappa Delta query, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Over-Ride by a Two-Thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional. Mr. Owens points out that this question is particularly pertinent because of the current controversy over several recent decisions of the Supreme Court nullifying New Deal legislation. Newspapers and magazines are now devoting much space to this question, furnishing ample material for debate on both sides of the subject.

The Southeastern Forensic Tournament, always the high spot of the season for the local debaters and orators, this year will be held at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, South Carolina, on March 5, 6, and 7. During February, however, non-decision practice debates will probably be held with North Carolina State College, Lenoir Rhyne, Guilford, Wake Forest, and possibly other schools. Last year the High Point debaters won the state championship at the tournament held in Hickory.

The members of the squad selected late in November are Leo Pittard, '36, J. E. Garlington, '38, Edward Stirewalt, '39, Dwight Morgan, '39, Sulon Ferree, '36, A. L. Fulk, '36, and Hoyt Wood, '36.

Talks Are Heard By Akrothinians

Rogers Speaks on Life of Mark Twain. Rankin on Kagawa.

A brief program consisting of three talks by members of the society featured the first meeting of the Akrothinians after the holidays last Thursday evening.

Wilson Rogers gave a review of the life and works of Mark Twain, basing his talk on an article in the winter issue of the Yale Review. Nineteen thirty-five was the century anniversary of the great American writer, and the occasion was celebrated by Twain admirers throughout the world. Rogers told of his early life and the events that influenced his literary career. He related some of the humorists's sayings and opinions and gave a critical estimate of his works. The speaker gave the opinion that Twain was first a literary artist before he was a humorist.

Robert Rankin gave the second talk, which was based on the life of Toyohiko Kagawa, the Japanese "Apostle of Love," who is now visiting in the United States. He told of Kagawa's early life in Japan, his conversion to Christianity, and his success at preaching the gospel of religious, political, and economic freedom in his native land. Kagawa was a speaker at the recent convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Indianapolis, the Methodist young peoples' meeting at Memphis,

W. F. KENNETT DIES AT GREENSBORO HOME

Well Known Minister, Father of History Professor, Passes After Long Illness.

Of wide interest in Methodist Protestant circles in North Carolina is the death of Dr. W. F. Kennett, veteran minister who died at his home in Greensboro early yesterday morning.

Dr. Kennett was for many years prominent in Methodist Protestant activities in the state. For some time prior to his death, however, he had been retired from active service, and in his latter years was largely confined to his home because of illness. He was the father of Dr. P. S. Kennett, Registrar and head of the history department at the College.

SUPPORT THE BASKETEERS

With the outlook promising for a good showing for conference honors, the Purple Panthers of High Point College are now starting a long grind in our major sport, basketball. Student enthusiasm for basketball has never been lacking at the College, and this year is no exception. Turnouts at home games have been good, and the cheering has been ample and colorful.

We hope that the spirit of sportsmanship shown at the games so far will follow the Panthers throughout the season, whatever may be their fortunes. The season's beginning has been in the main successful, and it is the earnest desire of everyone at the College that this shall continue. Should reverses come, however, we no less earnestly hope that our support will not flag.

It is to be hoped that our relations with the other schools in the conference will be on a high level. In your enthusiasm for the game, do not forget to be ladies and gentlemen whether at home games or on visiting courts. Unsportsmanlike conduct or destructive actions have never added anything to the spirit of competition between any two schools. Let us keep our rivalry confined to the basketball court and direct cheers to our team, not boos to the opposition.

DEATH STALKS THE HIGHWAYS

No less deserving of youth's support than the cause of peace is the Institute of Government's campaign to reduce the carnage upon the highways of North Carolina. In this era of high speed automobile travel, accidents on the public highways have become more deadly than wars; they are just as useless, and they are certainly more imminent. Like wars, too, highway accidents exact their greatest toll from the ranks of youth. It is youth that has the greatest lust for speed, it is youth that takes the most reckless chances, and it is youth that is most prone to mix alcohol with gasoline. And it is also youth that pays the greatest price in mayhem and sudden death.

THE HI-PO is trying to do something about highway accidents by cooperating in the distribution of a pamphlet published by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill and entitled "Guides to Highway Safety." It is not pleasant to learn that North Carolina has more deaths on her highways to the 10,000 gallons of gasoline consumed than any other state in the South. You may be startled to learn that one and one-half times as many people are injured each year in North Carolina from highway accidents than were killed or wounded from this state during the entire World War. The reading of this booklet cannot but impress upon you the pre-eminent danger of death or injury on the roads at any minute. And the pamphlet will not fail in its purpose if you take to heart the fact that more than ninety percent of highway accidents are a result of some violation of the laws regulating motoring. The Institute of Government and THE HI-PO are supplying food for thought. It is up to you to digest it.

STARTING A NEW YEAR

We won't go into a psychological discussion of the efficacy of making resolutions at the beginning of a new year. There can hardly be more good resulting from making a resolution at the beginning of a month, a week, or a day. But for those who like to honor traditions, the beginning of a new year is the most accepted time for putting on more mental impetus to lead a better life, or to do more work, or to form better habits. And while you're on the subject of taking fresh starts, don't forget that new semester that is looming up just ahead. It will offer greater opportunities, and you will have the experience of one more semester behind you. Good resolutions may not be so bad, after all.

NEW DEATH RAY FOUND BY COAST SCIENTISTS

California University Men Build Powerful Death-Dealing Ray Machine.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Berkeley, Cal. — University of California scientists here have completed the set-up for man's first experiments with a really lethal "death ray," 14 times as powerful as the X-ray, and so dangerous that approach from any direction to within 50 feet is unsafe.

The ray is a powerful beam of neutrons, the ultimate particles of atoms discovered four years ago by English scientists.

The first sizeable beam of these neutrons is produced in the heart of the field of an 80-ton magnet by a method discovered by Prof. E. O. Lawrence of the University of California.

Involved, though at present unpredictable, are possibilities for the fields of medicine, chemistry and general industry. The neutrons, streaming in all directions from the big magnet, are not stopped by any known type of shield, not even by lead. They pass through the yard-thick coils of the big magnet as if it were so much paper, and nothing will perceptibly slow them down except water.

To experiment in safety the California physicists have set up a remote control panel 50 feet distant from the magnet, with a tank of water forming a three-foot thick barrier.

As easily controlled as an electric light, the beam is produced by a 12,000 volt current, "stepped up" to 4,500,000-volt beam of neutrons.

COLUMBIA MAN FINDS SLEEP HELPS MEMORY

Eight Hours Sleep at Stretch Better Than Divided Time, Experimenter Finds.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ithaca, N. Y. — "If a person memorize certain material perfectly and goes to sleep immediately afterward, he will recall more of it and also relearn the whole task more economically after a lapse of 24 hours, than if he waits even a few hours before he goes to sleep," said Dr. H. M. Johnson, professor of psyehology at the American University in Washington, D. C., in a lecture at Cornell recently.

Experiments showed that students could more easily recall and relearn material they had learned by rote and partially forgotten, if they first slept for 8 hours and then worked for 16 hours, than if they distributed rest and activity in any other way during a 24-hour period.

Two hypotheses have been advanced in explanation, Dr. Johnson said. The "hardening" hypothesis suggests that one's brain is inactive during sleep, and being free from disturbance, offers recent impressions a chance to "harden." The "reverberation" theory holds that the brain is active in sleep, in the sense that the recent excitations tend to revive themselves, or "reverberate" so that on actually rehearses the recently learned tasks and gets the benefit of additional practice.

Neither is positively feasible, Dr. Johnson said.

PRINCETON STUDENTS UNCOVER FROSH HOAX

"Ephriam E. Di Kahble" Found to be Ficticious Person Built Up by 5 Men.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Princeton, N. J. — Ephraim E. Di Kahble, Princeton freshman who furnished a nine-days' mystery to students and townspeople here, has been unmasked.

"Di Kahble" is five members of the class of '39 who had the notion that by giving their "man" a big enough build-up, they could elect him treasurer of the freshman class, to the confusion of the university authorities.

Newspaper advertisements offering $10 for a football ticket, a ride to the Yale game for a number of undergraduates, "for their company," and an ad asking for an orange and black guinea pig constituted the build-up.

A New York evening newspaper unwittingly helped the hoax along by carrying an interview with Di Kahble, but the plot fell through when student suspicion was aroused by an advertisement in The Daily Princetonian asking for old razor blades "for melting purposes."

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

When we get around to it, we are going to insert in this weekly column a department devoted to Bright Sayings of Faculty Children.

The impulse for this sudden inspiration comes from the story of the little boy and girl offspring of a radical sociology instructor in one of our universities.

Little Bob and Marie were precocious youngsters who liked to listen to mamma and papa discuss world problems over the breakfast coffee. Time came when they attended their first Sunday school class, and on that occasion the teacher began to speak of the great events in Genesis.

She told them about Adam and Eve and the serpent with his apple. "That is how sin and evil entered the world," she concluded. This statement roused Bobbie and Marie from their reverie.

"No," they both said vehemently. "Poppa says it was Capitalism!"

In addition to playing football at the University of Minnesota, students publish a quarterly literary review of merit. They did so last week.

Came a letter to the Minnesota Daily, in which the writer referred to a couple of stories in the literary sheet. Said the letter-writer:

"I noted two things that seem an especial affront to the reader. I refer to ..... 's frequent allusions to the two appendages of the sternum that grace not less prominently the superior dorsal portion of every woman's anatomy and to ....."

Tacked on below the printed letter was an editor's note:

"Mr. ..... enmeshes himself in an anatomical imbroglio in that the additiments to which he alludes are neither addenda of the sternum nor disposed tergally."

If you have any doubt that football is big business now let us quote some statements made by the ticket director at Ohio State

A staff of 2,500 workers is required at a cost of about $1,900 to put on a big football game at that university each Saturday. Specifically: 1,200 ushers, 300 gate men, 300 portal men, 150 special ushers, 100 policemen, 60 "trouble shooters" who take care of drunks, etc., and 10 ground keepers.

Then he adds 250 concession employees and 200 program sellers, 125 members of the two teams, 200 band members and the officials, managers, cheerleaders and visiting politicians to get a grand total of enough men to colonize Ethiopia.

—o—

Speaking of our national autumn pastime, we cannot refrain from telling about the new gastronomic rule now in force at one of the Big Ten schools. There the trustees passed a resolution forbidding city clubs and organizations from throwing their customary large number of banquets for the team after the football season. The boys were being kept from their studying, the trustees decided.

Some enterprising young men of journalism made a checkup after football was over. They found that out of the regular gridiron squad released from that sport, eight had gone out for basketball immediately, four for hockey and six or eight others had organized their own cage team to travel about the state.

Folks—those lads are in college to play!

This week's prize for plain speaking, brother, plain speaking, goes to Professor Ernest Lauer of Northwestern University, who got up on his feet before assembled students and castigated campus intellectuals who flinch at real action.

Said he: "We need fight. Students should be willing to go to any extreme—even to getting kicked out of school—if they actually believe in something."

RUGBY URGED AS SUB FOR GRIDIRON SPORT

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—The safety of rugby as compared to football and its small expense, together with the ease with which the game can be learned are arguments for wider adoption of the English game being offered by athletic authoritics aroused by this year's high toll of gridiron deaths.

Football fatalities this season equalled the peak year of 1931 when 46 players were killed.

Because the highest number of fatalities occurs every year among high school players, and because many high schools have dropped regularly scheduled football, rugby is advocated as an especially suitable substitute.

"It is my sincere belief that rugby can take an important place in the scholastic athletic program," says Ed Dickinson, rugby coach at Nassau College, Hempstead, L. I. "Due to injuries and the expense of equipment, a number of schools have discontinued playing American football. Although those of us interested in fostering the sport would like to see rugby develop as an early spring sport, it is evident that the game can fill an immediate fall need in those schools not playing football.

Dicksinson played for three years on the Yale varsity team, and at present plays with the New York Rugby Club. He is vice-president of the Eastern Rugby Union.

A rugby player can be equipped for about $3.50, Dickinson said, in contrast to the $75 necessary correctly to equip a football man.

Rugby is a highly individualistic game, Diekinson said. The rugby player is one of a group voluntarily cooperating to advance the ball, meeting emergency as it occurs and conceiving plays on the spot as contrasted to a football player, who is a cog in a machine, carrying out a given assignment under orders from the signal caller.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington, D. C. — The cause of liberalism, already endangered by the fact that 22 states have some type of anti-sedition or anti-Red or anti-thinking statute on their books, was injured further by the turn of events here in Washington when Comptroller General McCarl stated several weeks ago that before teachers in any public school of the District of Columbia could receive pay for teaching done, they would have to sign oaths declaring that they had not taught or advocated Communism.

This came as a blow to those here who for months had been fighting for a definition of what "teaching or advocating Communism" meant. The general opinion of the proper interpretation of the rider to the last District Appropriations bill, which contained that clause anent the teaching of Communism, coincided with the interpretation rendered by Corporation Counsel Prettyman earlier, when his official definition was sought. Prettyman made it fairly plain that the Soviet, and the tenets of Communism could be discussed, but not advocated. McCarl's blunt insistence upon an oath still left the meaning of the rider vague, but made the conservatives and reactionaries happy because they figured that an oath would scare local teachers into leaning over backward so far that the District's school children would never even learn in the classroom that there was such a country as Russia, let alone that a revolution had ever taken place there.

There is a momentary lull in the controversy, which for weeks filled the papers, provided material for dozens of editorials and scores of letters to the editors. It seems that when the day for signing the oaths came no Scopes arose among the teachers to test the legality of the oath, or to raise the question again as to what "teaching or advocating Communism" meant. It looks like a temporary triumph for General Amos Fries, the man who started the hue and cry about the teaching of Communism in the District, and a triumph for the local Hearst paper, The Washington Times. A committee, whose appointment was egged on by Fries, the Times, and the D. A. R., is now going over the textbooks used in local schools to make a report on their Americanism and on any glimmerings of radicalism they find in these books. This, despite the protests of the Superintendent of schools, Dr. Frank Ballou and scores of educators throughout the country who believe the gagging of free teaching is taking on alarming proportions, and a good part of the local citizenry.

The great body of government employees here have on the whole steered clear of the controvery. It is a matter of common knowledge that the Department of Justice takes pain to let bureau chiefs know of any radical leanings underlings may have in the said bureaus. Like the teachers, the government employees are leaning over backwards, afraid that if they show any liberal tendencies they will be classed as radicals. And the average employee never has to be told to watch his step. It's an inbred instinct that he's had ever since, as a fledgling clerk, he was told by his immediate supervisor, "no loud talking, please."

On the other hand, the youngsters not long out of college, brought here by the New Deal, are less discreet. They haven't held any protest meetings yet, but they've talked pretty freely about the whole business, written letters to the editor, and generally gotten hot under the collar whenever they read the latest statement of General Amos Fries or heard about the editorials in The Times. I say, "heard", because they don't buy The Times.

How they feel about it is very significant. It must be remembered that they came here strong for the New Deal. It's liberalism, the forceful drive of its leaders in the early days of the NRA and FERA, had them going around with crusading zeal oozing from every pore. A better day was coming, and they were happy to have a share in speeding that coming.

Now, in the nation's capital, they see General Fries, formerly engaged in the Division of Chemical Warfare of the army, successfully going over the top with Hearst's Times in a drive against the continuation of free thought in the local schools. And they're going to remember, when they go back to their homes some day, that a well organized reactionary minority could swing a job like that in what is supposed to be a haven of liberalism for academic people. How much easier to do it in some little town, they're saying, for instance, the town I, John X. Undergrad, come from! It's going to worry these young people a lot. It is worrying them.

For if Fries had said what was to be taught and what was not to be taught when the junior brainstormers took their college work, the New Deal could not have taken a single step forward, for lack of young planners. There would have been thousands of young men well versed in the laying down of a barrage, the launching of a gas attack, the workings of flame throwers and machine guns, flying and thinking in swastika formation, and other useful pursuits. But there would not have been one of them capable of thinking out a single detail of a plan to organize labor and industry in the interests of economic recovery.

YOUTH BUREAU GETS ANOTHER LARGE SUM

Comptroller General McCarl Approves Additional Ten Millions for Projects.

Comptroller General McCarl has approved an additional allotment of $10,000,000 to the National Youth Administration, it was announced this week by Aubrey W. Williams, Executive Director. This sum will be allocated to the various states at a future date for the furtherance of work projects for youths between the ages of 16 and 25.

An initial allotment of $10,000,000 for work projects was made to the National Youth Administration November 20. The treasury warrant brings the total for youth work projects to $20,000,000.

The November allotment was allocated to the 48 states and the District of Columbia on the basis of the number of youths on relief in each state as of May last. The treasury warrants outhorize the expenditure of funds for projects which fall within the following classifications:

(1) Youth community development and recreational leadership;
(2) Rural youth development;
(3) Public service training projects;
(4) Research projects.

Following regional conferences with all State Youth Directors, programs are now under way in all the states which are providing socially desirable work for a large number of youths. The responsibility for selecting the projects rests with State Youth Directors.

CALIFORNIA IS TOP SAYS ATLANTIC MAN

Wisconsin Ranked Second, Harvard Third by Atlantic Monthly Writer.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Boston, Mass.—The University of California, the University of Wisconsin and Harvard are ranked in that order as distinguished institutions of learning by Walter C. Eells, writing in the current Atlantic Monthly.

The article was written in refutation of a similar piece, by Edwin R. Embree, which appeared in the Atlantic last year. Embree, declaring that Harvard was "in a class by itself," placing it at the top of his list.

According to Eells, Embree's article was "dogmatic and annoying" and was the result of subjecting the facts to "violent and perhaps questionable treatment."

"In my study," says Eells, "the institutions were ranked in order—first according to number of departments in which they were judged to be 'adequately staffed and equipped' and second by a composite method in which a weight of 2 was assigned to each field in which an institution was judged distinguished and a weight of 1 to each field in which it was judged adequate but not distinguished.

"By the first method the University of California and the University of Wisconsin are tied for first place, each adequately staffed and equipped in 31 of 35 departments, while Harvard is third with 29. By the second (or weighted) method, California and Harvard are tied for first place, with Columbia second."

Panthers Divide Opening Home Conference Games

Appalachian Mountaineers Win Over Panthers, 28-27

Teachers Upset Locals in Opening Conference Game on Harrison Gymnasium Floor.

By sinking a goal two seconds before the final whistle, the Appalachian Teachers' basketball five won last Wednesday the first conference tilt to be played on the High Point College gym floor this year against the High Point Purple Panther quint with a margin of one point, 27-28.

INTRIERI-GUARD

Leading 20-15 at the end of the 1st half, the Panthers kept the lead up until literally the last second of the closest, the most nerve - wracking game seen here in many seasons when with the score 27 to 26, the locals leading, Rudisill, a Boone star, sank a field goal which practically brought the stands down with excitement. Desperately the Panthers took their places as the ball went back to the center but the whistle ended the game and the High Point five's chances for a perfect conference record.

Ray Intrieri, flashy Purple Panther guard, served as the nucleus around which his teammates kept the lead most of the game while accounting for five field goals himself. Culler, captain and wiry guard of the team, clinched second scoring honors by getting six points. Constantly these two veterans kept the ball in motion as they dribbled and

BASKETEERS HANG UP FINE RECORD ON NORTHERN TRIP

Locals Make Five Day Trip Before Christmas Holidays; Win Over Strong Randolph-Macon Five; Western Maryland Falls Before Southern Methodists by Score of 42-32.

In their travels through Virginia and Maryland before the Christmas holidays, the varsity basketeers proved worthy colorbearers of the Old North State on the foreign basketball courts as they played an excellent brand of ball to triumph over Randolph-Macon and Western Maryland College, the only teams encountered.

Due to the difference in basketball rules, the Panthers found it necessary to change their style of play in both contests. As played in Virginia and Maryland, basketball is a faster, rougher game than in this state, with bodily contacts, especially in the back court, more frequent without penalty. However the Yowmen made the most of the occasion, and actually beat the home teams at their own game.

The Randolph-Macon team, encountered at Ashland, Va., on Tuesday night, went down before the invading Tar Heels by the score of 34-24. The losers gained the lead at the opening whistle, but the Panthers, apparently finding themselves, began to click and were ahead 15-7 at half time. Closely guarding this lead, they had things well in hand in the next period as they swept on to victory.

Captain Culler was far the outstanding player on the court. Switched to guard to add strength to the defensive department, he played a steady defensive game, in addition to accounting for 16 points, 12 of which came as the result of action shots.

The game with Western Maryland at Westminister, Md., on Thursday night proved to be a tougher affair, although the final score showed the same margin of victory for High Point. The co-denominationalists fought fast and furious during the first period, with the Southerners holding a 19-15 edge at half time. Still playing on even terms in the second period, the locals had but a one point margin with three minutes to go, the score standing 32-31. A brilliant rally, led by Booth, Diamont, and Intrieri, put the Yowmen out of the danger zone.

Again Culler led the scoring with 12 points to his credit, while Harris and Intrieri tied for second honors with 7. Benjamin was outstanding for the Marylanders.

South Carolina History Department Gets Picture

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—What is believed to be the only picture in existence of the famous South Carolina Radical Legislature has been presented to the history department of the University of South Carolina.

The Radical Legislature was composed of both white and Negro members, and ruled briefly during the post-Civil War period.

There are 365 American students at German universities. Medicine draws most foreign students to Germany, philosophy fewest.

SHIN-BUSTERS CLOSE SEASON BY TAKING CENTRAL CAROLINA ASSOCIATION TITLE

Coach Culler's Eleven Wins First Championship in Newly Formed Soccer League.

In a pre-holiday game, December 21, the Purple Panther soccer eleven wound up a very successful season, winning the Central Carolina Soccer Association title by humbling the strong High Point Y team with a 3-1 score. The Panthers won nine out of ten conference games, bowing only once to an opponent—losing the first game of this year and in past history to Kernersville.

The team, coached by Broadus Culler, star center of the eleven, and co-captained by Isley and Elder, popular seniors, upheld with more than ordinary zeal the heritage handed down to them from five years of record playing, not only grasping the Central Carolina soccer league title but the co-ownership of the State title with Duke University.

Opening the official season on October 19, the Pointers completely overran the Catawba Indians by piling up a 5-0 score before the final whistle. From thence the Purple Panther squad marched to the local high school grounds to lose the first game in over five years, 4-1, to a well-clicking Kernersville eleven. The next week found the locals bowing for the first time to Duke in a hard fought game, 3-2, while in the same week humiliating the Kannapolis "Y" team, 3-1. The collegians then took High Point "Y", revenged themselves by a 4-1 win over Duke, tied Davidson, repeated a win over Kannapolis "Y", and tied up the league leadership by beating Kernersville, Winston-Salem then increased the High Point College wins by losing two games with facility.

With this record behind them the growling Panthers proceeded to step into the league leadership when the co-holding Kernersville shin-busters were tied by an obliging High Point "Y" team—the team which gave the Furniture city collegians the chance to completely clinch the title as they came out on the short end of the score during the climaxing game of the year.

This record speaks for itself—of the difficulties, the fighting spirit and the sportsmanlike faithfulness of the players even in the face of unfavorable weather conditions, injured men and a limited budget.

PANTHERS INVADE WEST FOR TWO LOOP TILTS THIS WEEK

Local Triangles Lose To Yowmen

Although they put up a great rally in the last half to overtake the fast-stepping Triangles, the Panthers barely eked out a 46-44 victory over the local Y. M. C. A. five in their opening contest of the 1936 season last Saturday night on the Harrison gymnasium floor.

At the end of the first half the Triangles were leading the collegians by the score of 16-10. Thomas, veteran "Y" forward, stood out in this offensive attack, gaining 10 points in this perior. However, Coach Yow sent Culler, Intrieri and Harris into the fray at the beginning of the second period, and the locals rallied with this new support to defeat the invaders.

With Towery at center and Martin at the other forward post with Harris, the team soon cut down the lead of their opponents, and at the end of four minutes play held a narrow lead. The accurate shooting of Intrieri and Martin and the excellent pass work and defensive game on the part of Culler, Booth, Harris, and Towery put the Panthers in front, 40-28, with eight minutes to go. At this point of the contest Coach Spencer's forces rallied and came near overtaking the Yowmen before the final whistle.

The College "B" team, composed of the varsity reserve players, defeated the local high school Bisons by a 21-17 count in a fast preliminary tilt before the main affair. Going into the second period on the short end of a 13-6 score, the high school team played the Collegians on about even terms for the remainder of the game. Diamont was outstanding for the victors, while E. Hartley and Meisky shared honors for the losers.

Pack Meets Appalachian Friday Night; Catawba Indians Opponents Saturday.

Returning today from a hard two-day trip invading the eastern part of the state, the High Point College basketeers, after a two-day rest, again go into action Friday as they journey in the opposite direction to meet the Appalachian Mountaineers in a revenge contest; the Panther's then conclude the week's busy schedule with a battle against the Catawba Indians at Salisbury Saturday night.

The Yowmen, striking their stride Saturday night in a well-played game against Lenoir-Rhyne, showed considerable flash and power in their eastern invasions though not yet playing with the post-season form of last season. They hope to completely revenge themselves on their Nemesis of the first conference game of the year Friday night in the Boone gym. The first game with the Mountaineers was played on the local maple-court last Wednesday when, after leading up to the last moment, the Panthers were conquered by one point.

Returning to go farther south, the game with Catawba will probably find the locals slightly tired out, nevertheless, should provide the spectators a real exhibition of real fight.

Saturday's game will also serve as a climax to the basketball playing at High Point College until after the mid-term examination.

Pack Takes First Contest of Eastern Invasion From Pirate Crew Monday.

Greenville — High Point College defeated East Carolina Teachers College here Tuesday night, 45 to 23, in a fast basketball game featured by the sensational shooting of Culler and Diamont to score 10 points each.

The teams played on even terms the first half and High Point was able to gain only a three-point lead during the first half. Carlos Hollerman featured for the teachers, getting a total of 13 points.

Yowmen Show Improvement To Win From Lenoir Rhyne

Coach Yow Shifts Line-up in Second Circuit Contest Here; Culler and Harris Lead Locals.

Grabbing the lead in the early minutes of the game, the Purple Panther Pack trounced the Lenoir Rhyne Bears by the count of 43-30 on the local floor Saturday night to gain their first North State Conference victory of the season in two starts.

CULLER - FORWARD

Juggling his line-up considerably from that he has used in previous games this season, Coach Yow had a combination on the floor that clicked far better than the one losing to the Mountaineers on Wednesday. Captain Culler, shifted to guard post at the beginning of the season to strengthen the defensive department, was brought back to a forward position, while Harris was shifted from forward to the center post. Elder, a senior basketeer, filled the vacancy left at guard by Culler.

A foul shot by Harris three minutes after the opening whistle was the initial tally of the game. The lanky center followed this with an action basket, starting the locals on their way to the ultimate victory. Harris, of the Panthers, and Ward, of Lenoir Rhyne, set the offensive pace in this period, which ended with the Pointers leading 20-12.

With the starting line-up, except Towery substituting for Harris, still in the game at the Economist Encounters Red Tape Maze in Collecting $18 From Washington.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

PRINCETON, N. J.—Summoned to Washington last August to work for one day as a consultant for the National Youth Administration, Professor George A. Graham, of the Princeton University Department of Politics, is still waiting for the $18 in salary and expenses due him. His four successive attempts to collect it have been baffled by more red tape than even a professor of politics could believe existed.

On his return to Princeton after his one day's service Professor Graham dutifully filled out his itemized expense sheet and sent it to Washington. Two weeks later he got a letter from the Comptroller General of the United States informing him that he had made several mistakes and must fill out a new account.

It seems that Professor Graham had put down all his expenses when he should have lumped all his living expenses under a $5 per diem account. He corrected the error and hopefully sent the corrected account back.

Two weeks later he received letter No. 2 from the government. This time he had to put his initials over each of the individual items and add the exact time to the minute of his arrival and departure from Washington. Moreover, a correction he had made in ink was ordered changed to typewriting.

Another fortnight passed and the long-suffering pedagogue was informed he would have to swear in as a government employe. Still game, Professor Graham went to a notary public and took the governmental oath promising "to uphold and defend the Constitution." This done, another notice went off to the Comptroller, giving notice that WPA Adviser Graham had taken oath of office and was at last an employe of the government.

There the matter rests but Professor Graham knows better, by now, than to expect a check in the next letter from Washington.

Washington and Jefferson Men Placed in Woman's College Drama Production

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Pittsburgh, Pa.—When you see a bald-headed man in the front row at an amateur dramatic production, it is almost a sure sign that his daughter is in the cast. But that will not necessarily be true at Pennsylvania College for Women late in February, for the P. C. W. thespians plan to "borrow" a number of Washington and Jefferson actors to take the male roles in a play.

The P. C. W. actors recently produced "Death Takes a Holiday," using an all-woman cast. Last week the W. and J men produced "Journey's End," calling for an all-male cast. In February the actors of the two colleges will unite to form the cast of a play to be produced at P. C. W.

An average of $10 in slugs is taken from the Northwestern University library yearly.

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

BELITTLING EDUCATION

Perhaps the most unfortunate result of Mr. Roosevelt's New Dealism, which is getting bounced around on the judicial front, is, from our point of view, a growing tendency on the part of the American public to belittle the value of education in the offices of government and politics.

Those of us who are still on the campus gather, from public oratory, that the great American public has little faith in the bright young men in Washington and worse still, in the idea that education, perhaps bedecked with a Phi Beta key, is what our governmental leaders must possess as a necessary qualification.

There is a lot of significance, however, in the public's reaction to our "government of men (college trained) instead of laws." It shows that it's not theories that we want, but clear thinking administration. It shows that youth's part in tomorrow's order won't be one of panacea-production, but rather one of meeting situations intelligently, sympathetically, and yet vigorously.

We doubt whether our new curricula, molded to the needs of a new social order, really help to supply those qualities which America demands in its leaders of tomorrow. Yet it is true that, with government making deeper and deeper inroads into our private lives, a great deal of facts and pictures of the socio-politico-economic scene must be presented, and our new curricula are certainly endeavoring to do that.

Furthermore, an aroused student interest in civic affairs has supplied, to a certain extent, many of the opportunities for training quick, clear, intelligent college students. The failure of a vast majority of our student body to participate in these activities is lamentable, but the zest of a few on each campus is a hopeful sign, nevertheless.

If America's reaction to our present "government of men, not laws" can stimulate our college students to a more serious appraisal of their preparation for later participation in our nation's affairs, the New Deal has done us immeasurable good. But if it breeds sullen resentment among the youth against our governmental system in general, then this reaction is indeed the most unfortunate of all the results of our Washington policies.

"AFTER THE DANCE" BOASTS NOVEL STORY

Field Day for Nancy Carroll, George Murphy

Songs, dances and snappy patter are just as much a part of Columbia's "After the Dance," the new film co-starring Nancy Carroll and George Murphy coming to the Carolina Theatre on Sunday, as the novel story it tells.

Music and these two stars go well together.

Nancy Carroll came to the screen from the musical comedy stage; so did George Murphy. The titian-haired young lady sang and danced her way through several of the most successful musical shows of ten years ago, when she first brought attention to herself on the screen.

As for George Murphy, he has more recently been featured in some famous musicals, notably, "Hold Everything," "Of Thee I Sing," "Shoot the Works," and 'Roberta." It was from "Roberta" that he went to Hollywood to appear with Eddie Cantor in "Kid Millions," thence to Columbia under a long-term contract.

In both his two previous films for Columbia, Murphy was featured with Miss Carroll, but in "After the Dance," in answer to the tremendous amount of fan mail he has been receiving during his short stay in Hollywood, he is co-starred with her.

Thelma Todd, Jack La Rue, Arthur Hohl, the Albertina Rasch dancers and others are featured in the film.

beginning of the second half, the Yowmen continued to hold the upper hand for the first eight minutes. Putting forth a desperate effort to halt the fast-stepping Panthers, the Bears rallied midway in the period to give the local supporters plenty of worry. Although their margin was cut down to 29-25 at one time, the Pointers never lost their lead, and finally drew away from their opponents to finish with a 13 point margin.

Although failing to show his usual accuracy in hitting the basket, Captain Culler played an excellent game, both on defense and offense, leading his team with 13 points. He was closely followed by Harris, who gained 11. Martin and Intrieri played a speedy game, with the flashy pass work of the diminutive guard outstanding.

McSwain and Ward were the spearheads in the attack of Coach Shores' charges. Ward was the high scorer of the contest, securing six action and two fouls, for a total of 14 points.

Taking the spotlight in the preliminary games, the Purple Kittens put up a show which completely overrode the loss Tuesday evening as they completely outplayed a fast Pilot High School team, 24-15. This game was of peculiar interest to the local fans because of the fact the Pilot five is coached by "Sinky" Northcutt, a former High Point College student.

The second game of the three game card also gave the numerous spectators "nerves" as the big end of the score constantly changed hands, the "B" team barely keeping the lead until the last moment when an Economy Drug store star dropped in a field goal to put the invaders ahead with a one point margin, but Grigg sank a foul toss as the game ended to knot the count, 20-20.

C. E. SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Lena Hunter and Vesta Troxler sang "Savior, Breathe an Evening Blessing," with Agnes Louise Willeox at the piano.

Instead of consisting of a number of brief talks by members of the society, the program was carried out through a dramatization which showed the obstacles of life being replaced by virtues. Those taking part were Grace Moody, Owen Lindley, G. W. Holmes, Bernadine Hurley, Vaughn Boone, Patsie Ward, Helen Hunter, Margaret Fogleman, Evelyn Lindley, and Jaequeline Cameron.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie," and repetition of the Mizpah benediction.

DANCE POSTPONED AT OHIO AFTER MIX-UP

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

COLUMBUS, O.—Because a mix-up prevented the signing of top-notch bands, an Olympic Fund dance planned for Dec. 6 at Ohio State was indefinitely postponed.

It seems that the dance committee was under the impression that the Casa Loma orchestra had been signed for the event, and did not find out until almost too late that it was unavailable.

The pioneer spirit is not yet dead in New England. Sixty-five co-eds are out for the rifle team at the University of Vermont.

passed with such effectiveness that the locals were holding the lead by eight points before the Mountain lads could find the basket and the five other players used in the contest inspired by the example of these leaders did their part in keeping the quint at least four points ahead for three-fourths of the game.

In explaining the outcome of the game, statistics show that the two teams finished with the same number of field goals but a difference of one point in the foul points as Appalachian rang up six fouls out of over twelve attempts to five out of over fourteen attempts for High Point. The game, though not over tough, was called closely by Referee Weathers and both teams showed lack of skill in foul tossing as they constantly muffed their numerous free chances—proving very costly to Coach Yow's team in their initial conference contest.

An energetic Allen Jay quint humbled a fighting Panther freshman team, in a preliminary game which served as a prelude to a more interesting and better played game between the Panther "B" team and the fast American Bakery five as the "B" team pulled the only High Point College victory of the evening.

AUTHORITIES STUDY SPECTATOR PROBLEM AT FOOTBALL GAMES

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — The problem of confining the spectators' enthusiasm at football games to the stands has become an acute one, and Eastern athletic authorities are considering drastic measures to curb the increasing tendency toward riotious attacks on the goal posts or other encroachments by spectators on the playing fields.

Suggestions have gone so far as to include elimination of the goal posts and point after touchdown, but it is not likely the rules comittee will give this serious consideration, said William S. Langford, secretary of the National Football Rules Committee.

"We still want to keep the foot in football," Langford remarked.

Lindley And White Go To Church Meet

Faculty Members Attend Meeting of North Carolina Council of Churches.

NEWBOLD SPEAKS

Ritchie Appears For Youth Movement; Lingle Succeeds Smith As President.

Dr. P. E. Lindley and Mrs. H. A. White, both of the College faculty, attended the annual meeting of the North Carolina Council of Churches in Greensboro Monday afternoon. The meeting was held at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Council is composed of representatives of evangelical protestant churches in North Carolina. Its delegates are limited, the number of each denomination's delegates being proportionate to its membership in the state. It consists almost entirely of ministers and college instructors, and Mrs. White is one of the few women members. She is a delegate from the Friends' church, while Dr. Lindley represents the Methodist Protestant church.

The purpose of the organization, according to its constitution, is to promote fellowship and mutual understanding among Christian churches in the state, to compare notes on progress and methods, to set up each year some definite objective or subject of research, hoping to improve social situations.

Two of the subjects to be given special consideration during the coming year are inter-racial relations and the alcohol problem. Dr. Newbold, who is in charge of the administration of Negro education in the state, spoke on the question of racial misunderstanding. The newly-elected president added to Dr. Newbold's remarks the statement that much of this misunderstanding is due to the callous attitude of many white Christians.

Robert Ritchie appeared as a representative of the Youth Movement in the state, asking the sup-

STUDENT UNION TAKES PLEDGE AGAINST WARS

Convention Endorses "Oxford Pledge" in Face of American Legion Opposition.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, Ohio—Despite heated opposition from within its own ranks, and in the face of "Communistic" and revolutionary" charges from the American Legion, the American Student Union endorsed the "Oxford Pledge," refusing to support the United States in any war it might conduct, at its convention here.

The union, recently formed by a merger of the National Student League and the Student League for Industrial Democracy, adopted the endorsement resolution by a 244 to 49 vote. Meanwhile, meeting at Kansas City, the National Student Federation voted, by 49 to 13, not to bear arms outside the United States.

Ed Kinney, member of the Officers Club of the R. O. T. C., CC NY, and a member of the resolutions committee of the student union, asserted that "passage of this resolution definitely labels the student union as a 'radical' organization.

Kinney and others fought the resolution on the grounds that the "Oxford Pledge" should be optional with the individual members, and that its endorsement would keep prospective members from enrolling.

American Legion heads, asking that the union delegates be requested to leave their convention headquarters in the Y. W. C. A. building here, charged that they were "known Communists" and part of "a revolutionary movement against the government." Inability to get a quorum of the Y. W. C. A. directors prevented action.

T. W. Andrews Is Speaker At Chapel Friday

High Point School Man Defines Faith As Getting At Heart of Matter.

T. Wingate Andrews, superintendent of the city schools of High Point, addressed the student body last Friday morning on the general theme, "Faith."

He said that at the age of 20, one is interested in the days that are at hand or to come, interested in the future rather than proud of the past.

He suggested that the Bible is filled with illustrations of the heroes of faith, forward-looking people who have made history throughout the ages. He mentioned Abraham, especially, who went from his house and from his country because God called him and in spite of the fact that he did not know where he was going. Dr. Andrews believes that the same call comes to every human being in the world today, and that character response more than anything will determine the sort of man or woman the listener will be.

Students, he said, may not know at present what work they will do when college days are over, but most of them have fairly clear purposes as to what they want to do with their lives. He suggested that most of the world heroes do no greatly significant acts at one particular time—they have a good start and are great because of the sum total of life.

Faith, he defined, not as credulity—for there is no particular harm in believing or not believing something—but as getting at the heart of a matter, forgetting "brass tacks." He stated that he had found a great deal of belief and little unbelief in the world. He said that it is not important to say what one believes, but to witness it.

In closing, Dr. Andrews said that young people need consecrated hearts—hearts consecrated, not to "brass tacks" and disputes as to the technicalities of religion or life work, but to doing something worthwhile. Faith with works left out is dead, he said, wishing for each of his listeners "that with faith of heart and mind and will you may have reasonable assurance that you will make your life worthwhile."

He concluded with a challenge from Tennyson, "After it, follow it, follow the gleam."

PRISCILLAS COMPLETE FORMAL DINNER PLANS

Home Economics Majors to Have Annual Dinner on Saint Valentine's Day.

The Modern Priscilla Club made on Monday night detailed plans for its annual dinner, to be held this year on Saint Valentine's Day.

Three new members were received by the club at the meeting: Virginia Curry, Helen Bates, and Olga Marlette, all members of the class of '39.

Dorothy McCollom reviewed a recent magazine article—"So You Want to Be a Designer?" The remaining part of the meeting was taken up with business. The club accepted the report of the menu committee and selected waitresses for the occasion. Suggestions were made by various committees concerning ways of making of the trunk room, where the dinner is to be held, an attractive dining room.

Lilian Varner, Lorene Koontz, and Rebecca Finch served coffee and toasted sandwiches at the close of the meeting.

Paughkeepsie, N. Y. — Under Vassar college's new group insurance plan, a $12 yearly outlay obtains for a student insurance against hospital, medical and nursing costs in excess of $10 and not to exceed $250 and for surgical operations not to cost more than $250.

Wood Elected Thalean Head Second Term

Denton Man Succeeds Lee Moser as Society President for Next Semester.

PITTARD VICE PRES.

Ridge Becomes Secretary, Moser Critic, Ferree Chaplain; Installation Tonight.

Hoyt Wood, a senior and president of the Men's Dormitory Student Government, was elected to be the next president of the Thalean Literary Society for the coming semester at the midterm election held last Thursday evening in Roberts Hall. Wood, a member of the Iota Tau Kappa Fraternity, will succeed Lee Moser, also a senior.

Wood has been on the intercollegiate debating squad for several years. He is a ministerial student and has been active as supply pastor for some time.

Leo Pittard, likewise a senior, was chosen to fill the office of vice president. Pittard is also a ministerial student and is now filling a regular pastorate at Brown Summit. He has only been with the society one semester, but his high qualities have been recognized.

Moser was elected to the third senior office in the Thalean Society; namely that of literary critic. Moser has just completed a very successful term as president. He has been with the society four years although they were not in succession.

Ridge will take Meyers' place as secretary of the society. Walton will assist him with the record keeping. Hartman was chosen to be the oracle of good news to the rest of the world in his position as press reporter. He is to be assisted by Owen Lindley, a freshman.

Sulon Ferree, also a senior and a ministerial student, was elected to fill the position of chaplain.

MISS YOUNG TALKS AT ARTEMESIAN MEETING

Freshman Counsellor Speaks on Life of Kagawa; Hobbies Theme of Program.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its regular meeting on Thursday night in the College Auditorium. The theme of the program was "Hobbies."

The main feature was a talk by Miss Mary E. Young, who, in the absence of Mrs. A. M. Rankin, Jr., spoke on Kagawa, his life and work.

Lillian Pearson played a piano solo which was followed by a talk on "We Have Hobbies," by Nelle Blonde Bess. Pattie Bartee spoke on "Strange Hobbies," in the place of Violet Jenkins, who was unable to be present.

Pattie Redman then read selections taken from the Readers' Digest on the hobbies of famous people. Marian Dickson told the Society of her hobby, which is cars. Sophia Taplin spoke on "Hobbies at Westtown," as the final number of the program.

During the business meeting, the president, Mary Parham, read to the Society an invitation from a Wake Forest literary society to send delegates to a conference celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the organization.

Committees were appointed to make arrangements for the annual Akrothinian-Artemesion Society Day, which is to be observed on March 6.

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK

Along with the rest of the student body, THE HI-PO staff next week will concentrate on one thing, the mid-term examinations which start Monday, January 27 and continue through Saturday. The next issue of the College paper will be circulated on the campus Wednesday, February 5.

Honor Roll Is Announced For Last Semester

Twenty-Four Students Placed In Honor Group Spring Term Last Year.

Twenty-four students now in school conformed to the requirements for the college honor roll of the second semester last year, it has recently been announced. This number does not include several students who graduated last spring and others who did not return to school this year.

Announcement of last year's honor roll, the first to be issued at High Point in several years, has been reserved until just before the close of the first semester for this college year. However, the names of the students attaining the honor roll for the current semester will be made at the chapel hour on February 14.

According to the regulations concerning the honor roll, only those students are eligible who have A's and B's on credit courses, and who conform to the college regulations regarding attendance and conduct.

The students who met the honor roll requirements for the second semester of last year are as follows: Elizabeth Bagwell, Mary Margaret Bates, Dorothy Bell, Howard Bradner, Nell Brower, Edith Crowder, Sulon Ferree, Laura Fritz, Lincoln Fulk, Hildreth Gabriel, Virginia Grant, Alton Hartman, Juanita Hayworth, Doris Hedgecock, Lois Hedgecock, Inza Hill, Louise Jones, Mary Nelson Kiser, James Mattocks, Dorothy McCullum, Paul Owen, Elizabeth Phillips, Elsie Mae Sink, and Julia Williard.

Owens Teaches Reading Class Next Semester

Course In Oral Interpretation to Be Offered In Speech Department Here.

Prospective ministers, lawyers, teachers—in fact, almost any persons who expect to have occasion to read in public—may find much of interest and assistance in the new course offered in Oral Interpretation by C. B. Owens.

The course has a number of specific objectives. They are, as stated by Mr. Owens, as follows:

1. The development of skill, power, and finesse in interpretation of literature, both poetry and prose.

2. The development of power of body and voice to express ideas and emotions.

3. The development of ability to extract the mental, emotional content of a selection and to get a vivid impression and give it adequate expression.

4. The deepening of emotional channels, the power to evoke emotional responsiveness in others.

5. To develop the imagination.

6. To cultivate the beginnings of dramatic expression.

Such a course is calculated to combat the lack of reading ability which is admittedly prevalent in many professions today. The course is open to Juniors and Seniors during the coming semester, and the credit hours received are three.

Another new course, one in the teaching of arithmetic, is being offered by the department of education. It is designed especially for primary and grammar-grade teachers, and will carry three hours credit. On the schedule it is designated as Education 20.

Ingle Chosen New Head For Akrothinians

Weisner Is Elected Vice President, Dawson Secretary for 2nd Semester.

OTHER OFFICERS

Installation Service for New Officials to be Held Tonight Instead of Thursday

George Ingle, a senior, of Siler City, was elected president of the Akrothinian Literary Society for the second semester at the semi-annual election held Thursday night. He succeeds Paul Owen as head of the society.

W. W. Weisner, a junior, of High Point, was elected vice president of the Society; Sheldon Dawson, of Salisbury, Maryland, was named secretary, with Robert Rankin, of High Point, as his assistant; Wilson Rogers, of Denton, was selected critic; Debro Peeler, of Lawndale, was elected marshal, and Porter Hauser, of Shoals, assistant marshal. The treasurer of the Society is elected for the entire year, and David Cooper, High Point, will continue in this position. A new chaplain will be selected at a special election tonight.

Ingle has been active in the Society throughout his four years at the College, and was voted the Consistency Medal at the end of his sophomore year. The prize is given each year to the member who is most faithful in attendance, and is considered one of the greatest honors that may be received in the Society. Ingle is a member of Iota Tau Kappa and has played on the Panther baseball squad.

Weisner is editor of THE HI-PO, a member of the student council, and a College marshal. He was critic of the Society during the semester now closing, and was secretary for the first semester last year. He is a member of Delta Alpha Epsilon.

The new officers will be inaugurated at a special meeting tonight because of the basketball game at the regular meeting hour tomorrow night. After his inauguration, the new president will appoint a program committee, completing the roster of officers for the second smeester. There will be no meeting of the Akrothinian Society during examination week.

HYGIENE CLASS GOES ON INSPECTION TOUR

Bowen's Class Travels To Raleigh to Examine Various State Institutions.

Dr. Paul R. Bowen's class in hygiene yesterday journeyed to Raleigh to examine the various state institutions located there.

Before leaving, Dr. Bowen said that the main point of interest for the class would be Dix Hill, the eastern Carolina asylum for the insane. There was also a possibility that the class would examine the state school for the blind and other institutions in the capital. An inspection of the penitentiary was impossible because of the extensive repair work in progress there.

This critical inspection of the state's institutions for the physically and mentally disabled replaced the usual mid-term examination for the members of the hygiene class.

Sarg's Puppets To Enact Twain Story Tomorrow

Marionettes to Appear at Ray Street School in "A Connecticut Yankee."

Tony Sarg will guide his famous Marionettes in the enactment of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee In King Arthur's Court at the Ray Street school auditorium in High Point tomorrow. There will be two performances, a matinee at 3:45 o'clock and an evening program at 8 p. m.

The Twain story as it has been adapted for the agile puppets consists of four acts. In the first scene, the anachronistic Yankee encounters King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. He also gets started in his long controversy with Merlin, the Black Magician and the villain of the piece. In the second act, the hero gains favor with the king by his sensational rescue of captive princesses from the Tower of Merlin. Act Three finds the king and his new favorite off on a journey through the kingdom disguised as peasants. Merlin pursues, but right prevails. The Yankee completes his triumph in Act Four with his installation as court Magician-in-Chief to replace the discredited Merlin.

A novel prologue to the play will be the presentation of Mark Twain "in person" as a puppet. He will be accompanied by his two most famous characters, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

Tony Sarg's Marionettes will be remembered at the College for their presentation of Faust, The Wicked Magician, which was given in Roberts Hall auditorium last year. Admission to the Ray Street performances will be twenty-five cents for students, and fifty cents for others.

TEXAS YOUTH GOES TO ETHIOPIAN WAR FRONT

Texas University Daily Claims Only College Correspondent in Africa.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Greenville, Tex.—J. C. Arnold, 19, University of Texas journalism sophomore, decided he wanted to be a war correspondent, in spite of having little experience, money or connections. So he got aboard the first freighter offering him a chance to work his way to Dijbouti, French Somaliland, and several Texas papers are now using his feature stories, airmailed from Addis Ababa.

According to the last word received by his agent, Boyd Sinclair, editor of the Wesley College Pilot, Arnold is staying in Addis Ababa with Count Hilliare du Berrier, French adventurer, an English airplane pilot, and a newspaperman from Lahore, India.

Arnold sailed from Marseilles, France, to Djibouti with Takio Hawariate, Ethiopian delegate to the League of Nations, interviewing him on the journey.

According to Arnold, whose school paper, The Texan, boasts of being the only college daily having a special correspondent in the war zone, Addis Ababa is law abiding, justice is swift and sure, and the main danger to life and limb lies not in war complications but in the native-driven taxis.

SUPREME COURT HUNG IN EFFIGY AT IOWA

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ames, Ia. — The six Supreme Court justices whose majority opinion doomed the AAA were hung in effigy by agricultural students of Iowa State College here immediately after the "unconstitutional" verdict was delivered.

College authorities were unable to offer information helpful to the police, whose investigation proved fruitless.

Placards on the figures, which were draped with graduation gowns in imitation of the black robes of the Supreme Court, designated Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justices Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds, Roberts and Butler.

Kagawa Talks To Many From H. P. College

Noted Japanese Christian Speaks At Chapel Exercise At Greensboro.

GOES TO DUKE

Speaks On "How Can We Know God?" Says Answer Is Beauty.

Among those who heard Toyohiko Kagawa speak at the chapel services at Greensboro College last Tuesday morning were several students and faculty members from High Point.

In his brief speech, the Japanese advanced some of the revolutionary ideas which have made him the idol of youth all over the world and earned him the title of "today's greatest Christian." His remarks were concerned with the topic "How Can We Know God?"

Kagawa suggested that we are too concerned in the theory of creative evolution to stop to think about the force of being which was responsible for the basis from which the evolution was made. Concerned with our own greatness, we forget to think about God. Nature, he said, is a great manifestation of God; we, proud in our civilization, are closed up from that demonstration of his power and too concerned with man-made things.

Like many other Orientals, Kagawa has deep faith in the power of meditation. He found it hard, he said, to explain that meditation to people of the Western world. Meditation as he sees it is oneness with God, harmony with the good. It requires physical inactivity, for movement makes us too conscious of our bodies. To walk in the woods, to sit down on a rock and become one with that rock—there is meditation as the Japanese religion sees it. He believes that in such a state there is no fear, no physical drawback to unity with God.

To know God, he said, one must search out the ways of beauty. Love, he believes, is God flowing through the consciousness. In complete surrender, in communion with the visible forms of God's goodness, in study and selflessness—there one finds and learns to know God.

From Greensboro, Kagawa continued his lecture tour to Duke University at Durham, where he spoke three times. A few students from High Point College were also present at these talks, and he was heard by the local representatives to the Student Volunteer convention at Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays.

EDUCATION STANDARDS LOWER, SURVEY SHOWS

Government Probe Indicates Conditions Have Grown Worse Since 1930.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C.—While business shows marked improvement, educational conditions throughout the country have been growing steadily worse, according to a recent government survey.

United States office of education figures showed schools in 467 districts failed to open for the last Spring term, affecting 57,000 pupils and 1,750 teachers. Enrollment increased from 25,678,000 in 1930 to 26,700,000 last year, but there were 52,000 fewer teachers.

Total expenditure for education dropped fromb $2,317,000,000 in 1930 to $1,753,000,000 in 1934.

WHO PLAYED?

Bethlehem, Pa. — What band played Military Ball?

That's what they were asking at Lehigh recently when it began to be rumored that an Allentown orchestra had been substituted, at the last moment, for Joe Haymes, presumably to the financial betterment of the dance committee.

Committee members were quick to deny it, however, deposing that Haymes had been forced to use the local band's music stands because he didn't bring his own.

IN RE: SELF GOVERNMENT

Indicative of a decidedly poor spirit was the disorderliness created at the Student Government meeting Monday morning. No one student was to blame, and it was unfortunate that a scapegoat was found on whom the sins of many were fixed. If this student did act indiscreetly, then it is no less true that the confusion was started by others, and that the ultimate victim was amply encouraged by those who should know better. If this one student is more to blame for the turmoil than a score of others it is because he has a better gift for attracting attention, even if his methods are ridiculous.

Something is decidedly lacking in a college student body that cannot properly govern itself in a self-government business meeting and a simple cheer practice without degenerating into country high school-ish disorder. Aside from the unpleasantness of the situation itself, the problem represents a fault lying deeper than mis-conduct during a student meeting. It is an ominous manifestation of the inability of the student body to govern itself. For two years after its organization, student government showed a remarkable growth at the College. Unusual powers were vested in the council, and the regulations were made more liberal than in most of the other colleges in the South.

During the past several months, however, degeneration seems to have been rapid. More than one orderly process has been disrupted by uncooperative students, and the affair Monday was but a culmination of long-standing bad attitude. Student government at High Point College is in danger, and if we are to be saved from the complete faculty domination of 1924-1934, the more civilized element of the student body must take drastic action to save our dearest institution from a complete breakdown.

KAGAWA AND CHRISTIANITY

Enthusiastic receptions accorded the great Japanese religious leader, Kagawa, at student meetings and in college auditoriums all over the country seem to indicate that, contrary to the belief of the view-with-alarm contingent, the youth of America may yet retain some interest in the Christian religion. When it was learned that Kagawa would visit the United States, he was besieged with requests for engagements. Retained by immigration authorities for a time because of a contagious eye disease, he was released by a special order of President Roosevelt at the insistent demands of the organizations to whom he was scheduled to speak. Taking all precautions to prevent spread of his malady, Kagawa is now on one of the most extensive lecture schedules a foreign visitor has ever undertaken in this country. Thousands of students have had the unforgetable experience of listening to the great social gospeler in person; thousands of others have heard about him and his program.

If youth is not greatly interested in the religion of its fathers, it has amply demonstrated that it is vitally interested in religion with a program and a courageous leader. Christianity has never thrived in stagnation; it has moved forward on the current of reformation, of vital programs, of great change. So does religion move today. Youth shows no great enthusiasm for the chants of minor priests, but it is ready and eager to sit at the feet of great teachers who apply religion to a program of social reform, world peace, and satisfying philosophy.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Persistent complaints continue to travel around the campus about the way in which men's physical education classes have been conducted during the semester now closing. It has been pointed out to both Student Council officials and members of THE HI-PO staff that many classes are not met at all by an instructor and that at other times only for the formality of checking the roll. Although the gymnasium is now better equipped than ever before, men's physical education is reported to be at the lowest ebb in years. Tumbling has been abandoned, and interest in intra-mural sports is decidedly sporadic, if existent at all.

It is altogether likely that Coach Yow finds it highly inconvenient to meet every physical education three times each week. He is doing an excellent job of keeping three basketball teams on their toes, and his other duties are myriad. But, why, we ask, are student assistants not used in the physical education department as they have been in years past? Certainly there are juniors and seniors on the campus capable of teaching the rudiments of tumbling, volley ball, and basketball, and the need here is just as strong as for other self help jobs given students.

We suggest two possible solutions for the problem of men's physical education for the coming semester. First, physical education may be put on an entirely voluntary basis, with the duties of organizing an adequate intra-mural program left in the hands of the students. Second, a staff of student assistants may be drafted as suggested in the preceding paragraph, and every class should be well organized and instructed. Physical education has been a failure during this semester, but we ask for improvement at the beginning of the new term.

YOURS FOR BETTER SPEECH

College students are either very careless of their speech or have not been taught the correct grammar forms. From week to week your correspondent is going to mention some of the most glaring English mistakes heard during the past week.

A common mistake is the use of the word enthused. This is not a good English word, although it is used in some localities. Enthusiastic is the word which is used by educated people, people of culture.

In practically the same category is the misused verb to suspicion. Suspicion may be used only as a noun; to suspect is the verb.

Two frequently mispronounced words are appreciative and statistics: the first is pronounced "a-pree-sh-a-tiv," with the accent falling on the second syllable; the second has no a before the second t, and those who try to put one there are merely trying to make an easy word hard.

Quite unaccountably, we find ourselves with a sudden rush to the head of stories about absent-minded college professors. We do not recall where the stories originated, nor whom they concerned, but our remembrance of all of them suggests that there is a basis of truth for each one.

We know, for example, of the professor in a small town college who travelled 50 miles away to another campus to observe a basketball game. As the game broke up, a man from his home town offered the professor a ride home. He accepted, with gratitude. No sooner did he set foot on his front porch than he realized he had driven his own car to the other city.

Since he had to teach the next morning, he sent his wife on the train to get the car and drive it home.

So he stopped in at the depot and bought his wife a round trip ticket!

We recall the story of another man, a German professor, who was sitting in a railway depot with his wife, waiting for the train. Suddenly he exclaimed, "My, word! I've left my gold watch up in the hotel room! I'll have to run up and get it."

"But you haven't time," said his wife.

Thereupon the professor jerked out his watch (the watch in question) and blurted, "Sure, I got fifteen minutes. I can make it." And he turned and started to scurry away!

* * *

No doubt similar episodes to this have often happened in colleges. But it's still good. We are thinking of the psychology professor who stomped into his first hour class, threw down his notes and began to lecture. Rapidly, concisely, using his best witticisms, he talked for 15 minutes. Then he stopped.

"Any questions?" he asked. There were none.

So he began to ask some questions of this student and that. None of them could answer.

"Good Lord!" he burst out finally. Have I spent this whole semester for nothing? Don't you know a blessed thing about this course?"

And a brave boy raised his hand and said, "No, sir. This is a class in eighteenth century prose."

Faculty people dance and frisk occasionally as well as their students, so each campus generally has its faculty dancing club. At one of these affairs, a professor of education began to dance with the wife of another instructor.

As the first dance wore on, the educator began to complain vociferously of the floor, the music and even hinted that his partner wasn't quite up to snuff as a dancer.

Everything was solved, however, when his partner informed the professor that he still had on his rubbers.

* * *

Have you yet heard of the young girl in a Latin class who translated the story of Achilles into English? Concerning that famous episode in the life of the great warrior, her translation said:

"His mother, holding him by the heel, dipped him into the river Stynx, until he was fairly intolerable."

Let us close by observing the plight of members of the college marching band, accustomed to forming the names of opposing schools, on the football field, who learned that their next opponent was to be the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Abolition of states and division of the country into regions, their boundaries dictated by economy and by cultures and traditions, was suggested by Dr. J. W. Manning of the University of Kentucky.

The University of Chicago has established a new chair of comparative law. Prof. Max Rheinstein, Nazi exile, was given the post.

We have only their story for it, and even at that we don't know whether to congratulate them or to apologize for them, but it makes good bull session material. It seems that about ten High Point rooters journcyed up to Boone Friday night and took over the Appalachian gymnasium. They tried to do all the yelling for both the Panthers and for Appalachian, and 'tis said that the task was gladly turned over to them by the Mountaineer student body. It is also reported that one lassie retreated from the gymnasium after losing a verbal duel with Our Boys over the court prowess of a Panther player. They had to admit, however, that they were helped by a couple of spectacular shots on the part of said player. And as we have said before, we only have their story for it. We picked it up in a bull session the next day after it had been highly polished with furniture oil, but it makes a good story, and they insisted that we tell it. . . .

A much larger though perhaps less picturesque group of High Pointers traveled over to Salisbury Saturday night to watch the Panthers scratch the poor Indians. Interest seems to be keen in the cage game, and tomorrow night we have a chance to make a noise on our own court, augumented by a shiny new band. (We hope it will shine.)

And after that: ELON HERE WE COME!

Who is the co-ed most talked about in McCulloch Hall bull sessions, and why is she? The boys as a usual thing are chivalrously impersonal when talking on their favorite subject, women; they like to wax pseudo-scientific, or shift the scene of action back to the old home town, but now they are all talking about the same girl. She may soon expect a boom in popularity.

TWO LADIES BANNED AS DANCE PARTNERS

Women Deny Disturbing "Equilibrium" of West Point Dancing Students.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

West Point—The "equilibrium" of United States army cadets must be preserved at whatever cost, so the two attractive young women who assisted at West Points' compulsory dancing classes last year have been banned forever.

When Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, of Tulsa, Okla., went to the academy to teach dancing to those of the cadets who didn't know how, they took along as accompanists two young women from their dancing school. It was a good idea, but it didn't work.

"The young ladies disturbed the equilibrium of the cadets learning to dance," it was explained.

The two dancing partners who came so near upsetting the academy said they had "a swell time" and didn't notice anything wrong with their dancing partners. "It was grand," said Miss Ann Templeton. "If we disturbed their equilibrium I didn't notice it. I'd like to go back."

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The FERA-WPA Lodge of the American Federation of Government Employees, after a brief fight lasting only one week, succeeded in having their president, released from the WPA two weeks ago, reinstated in her old job. The union's success surprised even its executive officers. They expected opposition from everybody from Mr. Hopkins down against reinstatement of Miss Richter, allegedly discharged for inefficiency. They had ammunition for a long fight ready, ammunition calculated to prove that their president's discharge had been prompted by her union activities, not by the quality of her work, which quality they believed they could prove was excellent.

John Donovan, once the central figure in a battle between General Hugh Johnson and the NRA employes union, spoke at the rally held by FERA employees launching the effort to reinstate Miss Richter. Donovan, during a term as president of the NRA lodge, was similarly discharged, and not reinstated until the case, brought before the National Labor Board, was decided in his favor.

All this serves to illustrate the point that since the New Deal first brought youngsters into the service there has been a growing militancy in the government employees unions. The NRA lodge and the FERA-WPA lodge have been outstandingly pugnacious and outstandingly successful in their battles. The militancy is directly attributable to a number of young men and women, recent college and university graduates, who organized and now run both these unions. Many of them happened to major in labor economics in their undergraduate days and now they're showing the old guard government employees' leaders that they're not just theoreticians but also able union strategists. The charge among the old timers is that they're just a bunch of young college kids, "playing at 'union,' the way children play at 'soldiers.'"

That charge is partially true. There are a couple of "over the ramparts, boys!" people among the young folks in the new unions of the New Deal agencies, but most of them are as hard-headed as the AFGE president, Clyde Babcock. In addition, they bring to the fight of the government employees what the old leaders sem to lack, ingenuity, persistence and idealistic courage.

With the example of the unions of these capable young amateurs before them, many old-line lodges have begun to show signs of increased vigor. Clyde Babcock, who stood godfather to the NRA lodge when it was first formed, never realizing what a rambunctious youngster the baby was slated to become, is beginning to find his job much harder, and somewhat less secure with all the young people so active. At the last AFGE national convention recently the FERA and NRA lodge delegates provided a great deal of fireworks for Babcock and the other conservative leaders by threatening to run candidates for AFGE national offices unless the old leadership got over its hardening of the arteries.

Of course, although the employees unions can fight single cases of discriminatory discharges or wage cuts, they're up against it when hundreds are dropped from the payrolls of the new bureaus, which is being done right now, as the recently begun economy wave gathers momentum. With the NRA numbering about 1,200 employees as against 5,000 or more a year ago, the end of that lodge is in sight.

Some of the other lodges will be almost as badly hit as the NRA lodge when the wave rolls over their respective bureaus. However, the example of the successes of these lodges, even if temporary, will have the effect, as it is having the effect now, of showing the local lodges that remain and the new ones that may come just how trade union tactics, if applied vigorously, can be translated into victories for the employees.

More significant than the effect these locals had on all government unions is the effect they may have on organized labor outside of Washington. One thing the activities of these Washington groups did was to impress labor elsewhere with the fact that young college people did have the ability to lead labor, to plan campaigns, and to stay with the fight until it was finished. Some people are beginning to think that organized labor could readily do with the leaven of young leadership of that type.

If labor does take them under its wing for tutelage, it will save time by taking them under its left wing, where John Lewis abides. They wouldn't be happy under its right wing along with A. F. of L. President Green for a single minute. They're all for industrial unionism and not Green's craft unions. No, they would not be happy with President Green nor would he be very happy with them. They're much too lively.

Drastic Steps Considered To Save Football

Subsidization, Professional Competition, and Drunkeness Coaches' Worry.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York—Predictions that intercollegiate football as it exists today "will be dead in 1942" unless drastic steps are taken immediately, and the loudest furore in years over the perennial problems of athletic subsidization and spectator drunkenness marked the close of the hectic 1935 gridiron season.

The "slow whistle", increased use of laterals, side-line rules, gambling, the black-listing of officials and a movement to put the posts back on the goal-line furnished minor headaches at coaches' conferences here.

Outstanding among 1935 developments was the forthright approval of paid athletes by two big Southern conferences, the Dixie and Southeastern. A marked tendency to follow suit was noticeable all over the country.

The Dixie Conference voted that room, board and tuition were no more than an athlete ought to get for his labors on the playing field, and Southeastern made a sudden decision in favor of above-board athletic scholarships. Despite the importance of the move, little excitement was evident in the comment that followed. It was generally recognized that the Southern schools were merely legalizing and admitting a common under-cover practice.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Western Conference mogul, was one of those viewing with alarm, as did officials of Southern Methodist, one-half of this year's Rose Bowl clash, but the Universities of Texas and Kansas openly applauded. So did Prof. C. Willett, Pacific Coast Conference chairman. The attitude of the Eastern schools was one of indifference.

Blame for increased drunkenness and rowdiness was laid squarely on the shoulders of the colleges themselves. For incidents such as Dartmouth's twelfth man against Princeton, and the tearing down of the goal posts before the completion of the Princeton-Yale game the schools have themselves to blame, said such outstanding footballers as Dr. Mal Stevens of N. Y. U.; and the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church dealt itself a hand with the statement that, "the leading teams are invariably followed to the field of battle by all of the barber shop sports of their home environment, including the full roster of village idiots."

"Alumni" who flunked out of grade school are blamed for most of the disorders reaching a new peak this season. "If we continue to accept hoodlum dollars," said Mal Stevens, "we ought to be willing to pay for sufficient police protection."

The bogey-man of professional competition poked its leering head into coaches' nightmares again, a good many prophets professing to see college football following baseball into oblivion within a few years. The sensible, thrill-producing pro rules were cited as a big threat, and cries for revision of the amateur rules were loud.

The posts ought to be put back on the goal-line, said Chick Meehan, and the college game would benefit by the following pro side-line rule, moving the ball in 15 instead of 10 yards after out-of-bounds play.

It took a statement from the president's office to assure the students of Alma College, Michigan, that the official bulletin erred in stating the last day of vacation as January 2. It should have been January 6.

Since everybody interested in the sports world, both on this campus and elsewhere, is now talking basketball, there is no reason why the space in this column should not be devoted to slants and comments on the cage sport as related to our entry in the current North State conference race, and the possibilities of the season.

—o—

As we see it, the Yowmen will be strong contenders for the North State flag this time. This is not a prediction, because there are many strong clubs in the conference, and the race might prove to be a wide open affair, probably marked by many upsets. But a look at the situation here will convince even the uninterested observer that the Yowmen are to be reckoned with before any championship is won. Although feeling very much the loss of Captain Ronyeez and Niernsee, who is out ith an injured knee, Coach Yow has, with these exceptions, the same squad as last year and one addition, Red Towery. One year of experience together for the players should add considerable strength to any ball club, but, frankly, for some reason the locals failed in their opening games to click with the machine-like precision of last year.

—o—

After the Appalachian Mountaineers had upset his club in the opening conference contest, Coach Yow shifted his line-up by moving Culler back to a forward post, and placing Harris at center. This new combination has clicked better, and although not winning every time by an impressive margin, has emerged victorious in the remainder of games to date, four conference tilts and one non-conference with E. C. T. C.

—o—

Traveling to both parts of the state, flirting with the members of the fair sex on the E. C. T. C. campus the first of the week, and gaining a well deserved repose in the crisp, mountain air of western North Carolina Friday night, the Panthers played some real ball. And, as usual, there was plenty of fun on the trip—mixed dates, joy rides (one fellow had two dames), and then there was something about rabbits. We found our grave in Wilson, and although Coach Yow bowed in due respect, we corrected their mistake by taking the marker (now on display at book store).

—o—

Perhaps one contributing factor to the success of the locals this past week-end was the surprising loyalty of many students who followed the boys to lend their moral support. Outstanding among the supporters were the F. F. F.'s—this new alphabetical term means the five faithful freshmen, who braved the rain as they trailed the Panthers through the mountains to Boone and back to Salisbury.

—o—

The boys should be in great shape to give the home fans a real treat Thursday night. Plenty of color will be added to the occasion by the College band under the direction of Dean Lindley (we hesitate to suggest a name for the organization). . . . We hear that the students have put out some real bands here in the past, and we are expecting this one to help add attraction to all the home games.

Next, ELON.

Panthers Meet Elon Christians Saturday Night

YOWMEN STAGE SECOND HALF RALLY TO DEFEAT INDIANS

Pack Comes From Behind in Battle at Salisbury to Win By 42-31 Margin.

Entering the second half of the contest with unusual zeal and exhibiting their true fighting spirit as a large delegation of High Point fans cheered them on to victory, the Purple Panther cagers completely routed the Catawba Indians in the last period of a tough conference game at Salisbury Saturday night to win by a 42-31 count.

The Indians, starting fast after the opening whistle, outplayed the locals both on defense and offense during the entire first half, although the Pointers rallied sharply at the close of the period. An exchange of foul shots tied the teams up for the first minutes, but, led by Pritchard, flashy Catawba forward, the Indians soon forged into the lead which they managed to maintain for the remainder of the period and half of the next. They were leading 23-16 at half time.

Martin, Culler, Towery and Intrieri set the pace in the second period as the Panthers opened up their offensive attack to knot the count at 31-31 after thirteen minutes of play. On the next play, "Red" Towery gave the Panthers what proved to be the winning point when he sank a free throw on the fourth foul committed by Garland, Catawba center, who was removed from the game for excessive fouling.

From this point on the locals had things in their own hands, scoring freely, while Coach Kirkland's machine, shattered by the brilliant offensive thrusts of the Yowmen, failed to click during the remainder of the contest. The Pointers increased their lead by five more points in the next three minutes and continued their drive by annexing six more to their total count before the final whistle.

The close, defensive work of the Panthers in the second period was one of the highlights of the game. With their forwards effectively bottled up, the Indians were able to garner only three field goals. Making a total of only nine action shots during the entire contest, the losers capitalized on their numerous free throws.

Culler led the scoring attack for the Panthers with 15 points, while Martin, Towery and Intrieri also came in for their share of scoring honors. The other men who appeared in the second half, Brinkley, Harris and Humphreys, performed well.

Although held scoreless in the last period, Pritchard ran wild in the first to lead the Indians with 11 points. Bauer and Garland also featured for the losers.

Despite the disagreeable weather, a large crowd of High Point students and local fans were on hand to witness the contest.

Reserve Squad Loses Contest To Triangles

The local Y. M. C. A. basketeers went on a scoring spree during the final minutes of an extra period last Wednesday night to trip the College "B" team by a 32-26 count in one of the closest games during the regulation play ever witnessed on the Harrison gymnasium floor.

Trailing behind the Triangles during the first and second periods, the collegians put up a great fight in the closing minutes to knot the count, 24-24, a few seconds before the final whistle. In the extra period, the college five failed on their offensive drives as their numerous shots missed their mark, and at the same time allowed their opponents to crash through their defense for four action baskets.

The Triangles held a slight edge over the locals during the first half, as Whitley and Spencer rang up basket after basket to give them a 15-12 lead at half-time.

Loser to the college varsity squad by only a two-point margin in a tough game immediately after the holidays, the Triangles went on the floor as favorites, although they did not boast their complete line-up. But Coach Yow's reserves showed plenty of fight and determination in the battle and came near duplicating the feat of the team on which they are striving to earn a berth.

The College club failed to make their lone chance on a free throw, while their opponents made only two good in six attempts. Only one foul was committed by the "Y" team.

Spencer and Whitley were the big guns in the attack of the Triangles, while Humphreys, Peeler and Koontz led the scoring for the losers.

The Purple Panther quint, strong contenders in the North State conference race who now have a firm grasp on second place, and the Elon Christians, the defending champions and leaders in loop standings at present, will meet for the first time this year on the Elon floor Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the feature battle of the North State circle this week.

Realizing that the results of the clash will have important bearings on the ultimate outcome of the season's standings, both teams will go into the battle geared for a tough fight. Both clubs have been playing good ball so far this season, and this contest between the two arch-rivals of the court promises to be as hotly contested as the ones in the past.

Aroused to a high pitch of enthusiasm, the local students have shown that they are fully behind their team, and a majority of them are expected to be on hand Saturday night to root for the Purple and White aggregation. In all probability, some arrangements will be made to transport those without ways, either in the cars of students, a private bus, or the school bus.

Last year the Christians defeated the Panthers three times, two in the conference, and one in the Charlotte tourney, to take the crown for the third consecutive year.

This year they have played only one contest in the loop circle, defeating the Western Carolina Teachers, 33-18, to take the lead in the present race.

The probable starting line-ups were not available, but each coach is expected to put his best combination on the floor.

CATAMOUNTS HERE FOR TILT THURSDAY; BAND MAY PLAY

Pointers Return Home For Contest After Four Games on Road; Teachers Expected to Bring Strong Club Here For Encounter Tomorrow Night at 8 O'clock.

Returning victorious from their four-game road trip of last week, the Purple Panther basketeers will be given a royal welcome by the home fans and the College band when the locals take the floor against the Western Carolina Catamounts in a North State conference clash tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Although the Western Teachers dropped their opening conference game of the season to the Elon Christians last week, they won a couple of loop tilts from the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs at Wilson Friday and Saturday night to tie with the Lenoir Rhyne Bears for third place in the conference standings. Always proving to be tough foes in a court contest, the Catamounts last year upset the Elon Christians to spoil a perfect record for the conference champs.

The Panthers, now firmly situated in second place in the North State circle with four wins in five contests, should be in great shape for the contest. This will be the first contest for the locals on the College floor since their conference win over Lenoir Rhyne last Saturday night. Coach Yow has been drilling his men hard during this week, and barring accidents, the team should put up a great exhibition for the local fans.

No reports have been received from the mountain camp of the invading Catamounts, but the Panther rooters can expect plenty of trouble during the contest from Woodard, White, and Thomas, sharpshooters on Coach C. C. Poindexter's quint.

The College band, a newly formed musical organization under the direction of Dean Lindley, may play before the contest and during the halves, to add plenty of pep to the three game card for the night. The first preliminary starting at five o'clock, will pit the freshmen against Hasty High, while the second tilt will find the College reserves probably playing the Adams-Millis five at 6:45.

Mountaineers Fall Before Panthers By 43-24 Count In Battle At Boone

Locals Gain Revenge for Defeat in Opening Conference Game at Hands of Boone Lads; Culler, Booth, and Intrieri Lead Scoring.

Taking the lead from the first, the High Point College basketeers showed the result of better teamwork and better shooting skill as they gained an emphatic revenge on the Appalachian Mountaineers for their first conference loss as they invaded the mountain home of the Boone lads last Friday night to override them 43 to 24.

BOOTH - CENTER

A field goal by Martin, skillful sophomore forward, opened the game which gave the Panthers a new lease on the conference title. Diamont, veteran guard, followed the initial field goal by a clean foul shot to at once set the Appalachian rooters on the edge of their seats as play after play, accurately maneuvered, put the Mountainers on the spot.

The Panthers not only kept the ball in their hands most of the time by a fighting "always there" policy, but throughout the game showed a post-season defense which the Appalachian five a good deal of the time was unable to crack, allowing their hosts only 13 well-earned points during the first half and a lone eleven points for the second period.

Culler, captain and stellar guard, entered the game after ten minutes of play to put even more life into the squad both on the defense and the offense, sharing the top scoring honors with his running mate, Ray Intrieri, by scoring ten points. Baucom, Boone star guard, featured for the losers by taking care of seven of the total points.

This win again gives the locals a chance to pull in the top North State honors, this making their fourth conference win as compared to one loss.

PANTHERS TAKE DESERVED REST

Laying aside their basketball togs after the Elon game, the members of the Panther quint will fight a common foe next week—examinations.

The squad will take a well deserved rest during the week, probably returning to the court the last of the week for workouts in preparation for the next clash with the Lenoir Rhyne Bears at Hickory on February 3, the first of three conference clashes scheduled for that week.

COLUMBIA PROF HAS NEW BUSINESS PLAN

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York — Columbia University's Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, head of the department of industrial engineering and a leader of the technocracy movement, has developed a system which he claims will cut about $5,000,000 a day from the losses of American business men.

The new system, it is said, would enable an executive to determine the profit or loss to be expected from any sales volume, and the point at which the business will break even. It was devised after analytical studies had been made of the financial reports of hundreds of industries.

"My studies have convinced me that the average American business is inefficiently run," Prof. Rautenstrautch says. "Not more than between 5 and 10 per cent have an adequate knowledge of the cost of production and the costs of doing business."

Well Kept Promises

Well kept promises are as important in the Printing business, as well kept food in a refrigerator.

They are even more so, because while food can be replaced, lost confidence of a customer can hardly ever be.

Hence we are mighty careful to deliver your Printing when promised, barring accidents beyond our control. We go on the theory that a disappointed customer is usually a lost customer, and if we know that we cannot get your job out on the day you want it, we tell you so frankly, rather than disappoint you.

But of course, with our equipment and organization, we seldom have to tell a customer that. DOING GOOD PRINTING PROMPTLY has built up our present business, and the same principles will keep it going.

GIFTS TO COLLEGES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Harvard Leads in Endowment Increases With Two and Half Million Addition.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — If the increased number of gifts falling into the laps of colleges and universities is any indication, America feels the surge of returning prosperity. Heavy money has flowed into school coffers during the past two weeks.

Harvard tops the list with gifts totalling over two and a half milmion, two million given by Lucius Littauer, retired manufacturer and former Representative in Congress(for the establishment of a graduate school of public administration. The new school, its objective the scientific training of men for governmental careers, may be opened in September, 1937. A commission of leading educators and students of governmental adminstration is now considering plans.

Another gift, of $500,000 was offered by Thomas W. Lamont, New York banker, for the endowment of a chair in political economy, and the Automobile Manufacturers Association gave $54,250 to further the work of the Harvard bureau for street traffic research.

Johns Hopkins University hospital received $900,000 from the estate of Albert Marburg, retired manufacturer, who also left $50,000 to Princeton. Princeton's gifts during the last fiscal year totalled $569,104. Yale reported a total of $6,719,846.

About $193,000 came to Notre Dame recently from the estate of John F. Cushing, to be used in the construction of an engineering school, and $52,600 was received last week to establish a fund for chemical research.

The University of Chicago has received $170,500 in recent weeks.

South Carolina has the highest illiteracy rate in the United States, according to a study by Professor James Karl Coleman.

BARNARD ALUMNAE DO WELL, SURVEY SHOWS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Barnard College alumnae average $1,962 yearly earnings, according to a late survey. The averages run from $1,115 for the class of 1933 to $4,125 for '93 to '98.

Law and medicine, although showing the greatest decline since 1929, are still most lucrative fields, credited with maximum earnings of $16,000 and $10,350 respectively, with the average at $2,750.

Eight women—a lawyer, a doctor, a secretary, a writer, a publicity executive and a research worker in economics—were shown by the survey to be drawing $10,000 or more.

College-age drivers cause the greatest number of auto accidents. In the 18-24 age bracket, 286,940 crashed last year.

DR. CARVER BOASTS REMARKABLE RECORD AS FARM SCIENTIST

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Tuskegee, Ala. — From wood shavings he has made synthetic marble. From peanut shells he has made insulating walls for houses. From the muck of swamps and the leaves of the forest floor he has made valuable fertilizers. From the common peanut he has made 285 useful products, including milk, cheese, instant coffee, pickles, oils, dyes, lard, shaving lotions shampoo, printer's ink, and even axle grease!

Scientific marvels from nothing, or almost nothing. Such has been the incredible achievement of Dr. George Washington Carver, distinguished Negro scientist, who for 31 years has been director of agricultural research at Tuskegee Institute, noted Negro school here.

From the lowly sweet potato he has made 118 products, among them flour, starch, library paste, vinegar, shoe polish, ginger, ink, rubber compound chocolate compound, molasses and caramels.

From the clays of the earth he has made non-fading paints and pigments. From worn-out sandy soil he has produced paying crops.

Born in a rude slave cabin in Missouri about 70 years ago (Dr. Carver does not know the exact date) he began his education with a Webster blue-book speller. Today his honors include a Bachelor of Science, Master of Science, honorary Doctor of Science, winner of the Spingarn medal for Negro achievement, member of the Royal Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce of Great Britain.

The aging Negro's versatility is remarkably demonstrated in fields other than science. Dr. Carver is an accomplished artist, and is especially skilled in painting flowers. His works have been exhibited at world fairs, and some are to be hung in the Luxembourg gallery in Paris after his death. He makes all his own paints, using Alabama clays. He makes his paper from peanut shells, and the frames from his pictures are made from corn husks.

Dr. Craver is a skilled musician and once toured the country as a concert pianist. To top these accomplishments, he is an expert cook, and recipes originated by him are used today in leading hotels throughout the country.

By his work in agriculture and chemistry, Dr. Carver has been able to serve his own people and lighten their burdens. Experts say that he has done more to rehabilitate agriculture in the South than any other man living.

"When you do the common things of life in an uncommon way," Dr. Carver once said to his students, "you will command the attention of the world." In that sentence lies the secret of his own achievement.

'Champagne For Breakfast' Shows at Carolina Sunday

With all the good humor and sparkling freshness of champagne, a spirited band of talented young players, combined with an exciting story, made of Columbia's "Champagne for Breakfast," a thoroughly enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Lively acting, finished in every detail, brings each one of the young players a decided step nearer to that big star rating.

Mary Carlisle, Hardie Albright, Joan Marsh and Lila Lee are featured, and their interpretation of the madcap, three-cornered romance is delightful and intriguing.

The climax comes as a distinct, but entirely entertaining, surprise. The novel finish tops it off to put the cork back on this bottle of bubbling filmfare.

Such well-known players as Bradley Page, Adrian Rosley, Vince Barnett, Wallis Clark, Edward Martindel, Lucien Prival, Clarence Wilson, Harry Woods, Tammany Young, Jack Grey and Will Stanton support the four featured players. Their work is outstanding and completely in keeping with the gay mood of the picture.

The direction is fast and intelligent, for which Melville Brown gets credit.

"WAY DOWN EAST" POWERFUL DRAMA

Fox Film's "Way Down East," coming to the Carolina Theatre Monday and Tuesday, is a moving and revealing picture of the elemental drama of a woman's love.

With a setting in bleak New England of the 1890's, the film unfolds a tale of a young girl who had loved well, but not wisely.

When the young girl's past is uncovered by gossip she finds herself struggling against the self-righteous and prideful society of New England.

The defenseless girl fights for the right to love and be loved again and finally wins out when an understanding youth offers her the love she rightfully deserves.

"Way Down East," which was produced by Winfield Sheehan and directed by Henry King, presents Rochelle Hudson and Henry Fonda in the leading romantic roles. In the supporting cast are Slim Summerville, Andy Devine, Edward Trevor and Margaret Hamilton.

Methodist Protestants To Hold General Conference In City Starting May 20

Conclave to Draw Leading Clergymen and Lay Leaders From Throughout America.

UNION TO BE DISCUSSED

First Methodist Protestant Church to be Host to Highest Legislative Body.

Plans are now underway for the general conference of the Methodist Protestant denomination which will be held in the city of High Point in May, with the First Methodist Protestant church acting as host.

The meeting will attract leading ministers and laymen from throughout the United States to this city for what is considered one of the most significant conferences in the modern history of the church. The meeting will open on May 20, and will continue for about ten days during which the momentous question of union with the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be discussed and possibly acted upon. Interest in the proposal for union of these three churches has been revived with the greatest hope success in the history of Methodism. It is of particular significance that the matter will be discussed by the Methodist Protestant church at its meeting here in the same month that the Methodist Episcopal church convenes in Columbus, Ohio, to act on the same question. Should approval be ultimately given by the various conferences concerned with the union, it will bring together the three churches into the largest single Protestant organization in the United States.

Dr. J. C. Broomfield, of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the General Conference, will preside over the sessions here, and there will be between 200 and 250 official delegates in addition to the numerous other interested Methodist Protestants who will attend. The delegates were selected by the annual convention on the basis of one layman and one minister for every 2,000 persons in the congregation. North Carolina will have thirty official delegates.

In view of the fact that the General conference is the highest legislative body of the denomination and that it meets only once every four years, the actions which will be taken here will be of great significance to the members of the church throughout its territories. In addition to attracting delegates from all over the United States, there will be representatives drawn to this city from the mission fields of Japan, China, and India. Presidents of almost every annual conference in the denomination, and practically all of the Methodist Protestant college presidents are also expected to attend as are editors of conference publications.

It is also interesting to note that the general convention of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Methodist Protestant church will be held at Grace church in Greensboro just about one week before the General Conference meets here.

The Rev. J. Clay Madison, pastor of the host church in this city, is a graduate of the College and is expected to take an active part in the proceedings, as are Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, Dr. R. M. Andrews, head of the North Carolina conference, Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of the College, and other leaders in the denomination in this state. The conference is expected to come to a close on Friday before commencement at the College, and it is expected that many of the delegates will remain over for the exercises here.

Vassar will double its present library capacity of 200,000 books.

Master of 53 tongues, Prof. Watson Kirk Connel of Wesley College, Winnipeg, says Basque is the most difficult language in the world.

Kirkman Speaks On Government At Chapel Meet

Railway Official Says Too Few People of Today Trained in Governing.

Too few persons today are trained to shoulder the responsibilities of government, O. Arthur Kirkman, general manager of the High Point, Thomasville and Denton railway, told the students of the College at the last chapel meeting on Friday, January 24.

After a brief introduction by Miss Vera Idol, head of the College English department, Mr. Kirkman discussed the responsibilities of college students, especially with reference to student government. He pointed out that the English people have ability in government because with them training has been traditional along that line.

Sound government is based upon assurance of decency in relationship to others, Mr. Kirkman said. Unless the students of High Point contribute to decency and fairness their career here will be a failure, according to the speaker.

He emphasized the importance of student government as a training ground for citizenship. Unless a student can prove his ability in student government, it is not likely that he will become a good citizen in later life, Mr. Kirkman said.

The speaker deplored the fact that too few young people are trained to carry the responsibilities of government, and he felt that this training is a vital need of America today.

HARDING TO APPEAR FOR FOURTH LYCEUM NUMBER NEXT MONTH

Arkansas Scientist Replaces Elliott James as Next Lyceum Lecturer.

Elliott James, who was scheduled to appear on the College Lyceum series late in February, has been replaced by Dr. A. M. Harding, of the Extension department of the University of Arkansas. Dr. Harding in his lecture "A Tour to Other Worlds" comes to the College on March 17.

The change is only in personalities, not in the type of entertainment. Mr. James' program consisted of a lecture on the properties of liquid air, and a demonstration of those properties. Dr. Harding will talk about astronomy, its history, practicality, and advenure. He classes his lecture as a "Celestial Travelogue."

Mr. James' numerous Western engagements are responsible for the cancellation of his appearance here. He finds it impractical to return to the East for fewer engagements. Dr. Harding, who is Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy at the University of Arkansas, is an authority on his subject; in addition to verbal information he will bring a number of slides which will serve to illustrate some of his statements concerning the "Other Worlds" on which he will speak.

Dr. Harding's lectures will be the fourth program presented by the Committee on Lyceum this year. The first number was Wallace the Magician in a demonstration of the familiar theory that "it's fun to be fooled." Wallace was followed by Bohumir Kryl and his Symphony Band; with the band were a number of soloists, both vocal and instrumental. The third attraction was the Twin City Glee Club, coming over from Winston-Salem to present a number of negro spirituals and classical and semi-classical musical features.

The last feature of the series is a concert by Ethelynde Smith, soprano. This program is scheduled for April 24.

Arizona State gridsters will play rugby during 1936 spring practice.

Debate Team To Engage Campbell Here Next Week

First Definite Meeting Arranged for February 15; Other Contests Planned.

The debate squad of Campbell College will come here for two non-decision, practice contests with the Purple debaters on Saturday, February 15, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, forensic coach.

High Point College and Campbell have engaged in lively debate competition for the past several years, and the local men look forward to the contest with enthusiasm.

At meetings held Monday night and Tuesday night, Mr. Owens and his debating squad worked out plans for an intra-squad by which a team will be selected to take part in the Campbell meeting. There is a possibility of a debate with Wake Forest previous to the Campbell contest. Although Mr. Owens was unable to accept the Baptists' offer to come here on Saturday, February 8, he hopes to arrange a meeting at a time suitable to both teams. Negotiations with Lafayette College were dropped when the debate authorities at the Pennsylvania school decided to conclude their southern journey before reaching North Carolina.

The High Point debaters will take part in several practice debates during the three weeks between the Campbell struggle and the Southeastern Forensic Tournament at Rock Hill, South Carolina, March 5, 6, and 7. At least one member of the College squad is interested in taking part in oratorical contests and it is likely that High Point will be represented in this department of the tournament.

The query to be used by the High Point debaters this year is the Phi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional.

The members of the tentative squad from which the teams will be selected are Pittard, Garlington, Stirewalt, Morgan, Ferree, Fulk and Wood.

Twenty out of 57 universities and colleges recently questioned report that they maintain motion-picture service for about 5,000 other schools.

AD SALESMEN WANTED BY COLLEGE JOURNAL

Allen Austin, business manager of THE HI-PO, has issued a call to both old and new students who are interested in working in the advertising department of THE HI-PO to get in touch with him at once. The position of advertising manager of the paper has been made vacant by the withdrawal of W. C. Barnhouse, and at least one other salesman is needed to complete the business staff. Both men and women are eligible to fill these positions.

Old or new students who are interested in working on the reporting staff will also be given a chance to try out at this time. Feature writers are especially needed.

Lindley Speaks Before Sunday School Meeting

High Point Township Sunday School Institute Hears Dean; Fulk Host.

Dean P. E. Lindley delivered the principal address at the High Point Township Sunday School Institute, which took place at the North Main Street Baptist church Sunday.

A. Lincoln Fulk, pastor of the church, and president of the student body at the College, welcomed the workers and supervised the several phases of the program. Scripture readings and prayers were in the hands of Rev. J. E. Groce, pastor of Ward Street-Archdale Methodist Episcopal church. S. E. Tucker and Walter E. Crissman presided over the afternoon and evening sessions.

Rev. Shuford Peeler of Salisbury, general secretary of the state Sunday School Association, and Miss Dorothy Jennings, director of young people's work, were present and led the principal discussions. Rev. F. L. Conrad, of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, spoke on the practical side of preparing and teaching Sunday school lessons.

Dean Lindley's remarks were concerned with teaching in the adult division. Considerable time was given to the discussion of the state Sunday School convention to be held in Winston-Salem on February 17-19.

Cantor To Award Scholarship For Best Method To Keep World Peace

Famous Comedian Offers Four Years Schooling to Person Turning in Best Letter on "How Can America Stay Out of War;" Educators to Judge.

Eddie Cantor, famous radio stage, and film comedian, has announced that he will reward a sum sufficient to maintain a student for four years at any American college or university to the person who writes the best letter on the subject, "How Can America Stay Out of War?"

The letters will be judged by a group of distinguished educators, whose decision in the matter will be final. They are Frederick Bertrand Robinson, College of the City of New York; Robert M. Hutchins, University of Chicago; Ray Lyman Wilbur, of Leland Stanford University; and Henry McCracken, Vassar College. All have heartily endorsed the contest in the interests of world peace and education.

The subject of the competition was suggested by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, with whom Cantor had discussed his proposal.

As soon as the best letter is determined by the judges, Cantor will deposit in the winner's local bank the sum of $5,000, which can be used only for the specific purpose of a college career. From this amount, an adequate allowance will be provided for the student to pay his entire tuition and living expenses during the 4 year term.

Cantor places no restriction or conditions on the contest. Every man, woman or child is eligible to participate. However in the event that the winning letter is from an individual unable to avail himself or herself of a college education, another person must be designated to receive the award. The choice of school and the time of attendance is entirely in the hands of the student. The letter is not to be over 500 words.

In speaking of the contest, Cantor made this statement: "There are absolutely no strings attached to this offer. No one has to tear off the top of a carton of any kind, nor send in stamps, nor solve a crossword puzzle. All one has to do is to sit down and write a straightforward letter on 'How Can America Stay Out of War?' I never was fortunate enough to have a college education myself, but I want to provide one for some American boy or girl. Like most people in this country, I'm a rabid peace advocate. I'm certain that the winning letter will be worthy to bring before Americans as another link in the strong chain of peace. I'm very grateful to Mr. Newton D. Baker for so kindly suggesting the title."

The competition will close Saturday, February 22nd. The judges award will be announced by Cantor on Sunday, April 5th. All letters are to be addressed to Eddie Cantor, General Post Office, Box 99, New York City.

College Opens For Second Term With Enrollment Little Changed

Eleven Recruits Registered For Second Semester

Several New Students Registered For Spring Term; Three Dorm Men Leave.

At noon yesterday a total of eleven students who were not in school last semester had registered for the new term.

So far three men residing in McCulloch Hall have definitely withdrawn from school this semester. Andrew Basalyga, a freshman, has gone back to his home in Ambridge, Pennsylvania; William Barnhouse, a member of the junior class left Monday for his home in Belle Valley, Ohio; and James Luther, a first year business student, is now at his home in Liberty. No figures can be given concerning withdrawals among the day students because of the slow registration among that group, but the loss is expected to be slight. The status of one or two dormitory co-eds who have failed to return is also uncertain at this time.

The new students who have registered at the College this semester are as follows:

George Armfield, Dorothy Cummings, James Durland, Hazel Lanier, and Charles Diffendale, all of High Point; Jack Fitzgerald, of Linwood; James Higgins, of Liberty; Harry Lanning, of Lexington; Norris Perry, of Thomasville; and John Rudisill, of Lincolnton.

Of this group, Armfield and Rudisill, both juniors, are former students of the College. Armfield attended school here as a freshman in 1933-34, and last year was a student at the University of North Carolina. He was not in school last semester. Rudisill has been a student here for the past two years, but was employed in Thomasville during the past semester. He is a pitcher on the Panther baseball nine.

Higgins enters the College as a member of the senior class and Fitzgerald is rated as a junior.

AKROTHINIANS START NEW SEMESTER UNDER LEADERSHIP OF INGLE

Gray Elected Forensic Council Representative; Other Men Installed.

George Ingle was inaugurated president of the Akrothinian Literary Society at the last meeting of the organization held on January 22. There was no meeting of the Society last Thursday night because of examinations, and the meeting tomorrow night has been cancelled because of the basketball game here with Catawba.

G. I. Humphreys, Jr. was elected chaplain of the Society and Paul Owen was named assistant secretary, both replacing men who had been elected previously but who were not present at the installation meeting. Alson Gray, of High Point, was named by a unanimous vote to represent the Akrothinians on the Forensic Council.

The new president appointed a new program committee for the second term consisting of Paul Owen, a former president of the Society, chairman, Elijah Diamont, and .

Other regular officers installed at the last meeting were Sheldon Dawson, secretary; Wilson Rogers, critic; Debro Peeler, marshal; and Porter Hauser, assistant marshal. Weisner, the vice president elect, was unable to be president elect, was unable to be present at the meeting, but the Society decided to retain him in his position.

The Akrothinians voted to contribute an additional sum to help complete payment on the sidewalk which has been built between McCulloch Hall and Harrison Gymnasium. An extra amount was needed because the walk was constructed somewhat wider than had been originally planned.

C. E. Union Has Banquet

Several From College Attend Dinner Held by Christian Endeavorers.

The High Point Christian Endeavor Union, of which the campus society is a member, gave a banquet last Tuesday night in celebration of Christian Endeavor week.

The banquet theme was friendship. During the evening toasts were given to "Our Friends the Newly-elected Officers," "Our Friends the Pastors," and "Our Friends from out of Town." Rev. Clay Madison, class of '32, responded to the toast to the pastors. Miss Jewel Welch, class of '34, toasted those from out of town.

Rev. H. L. Fesperman, new pastor of the First Reformed church, made a short talk, instead of the usual long after-dinner speech, on the subject, "Friendships in C. E." Another feature of the program was called "Friendly Introductions," at which time each person introduced the person on his right.

Christian Endeavor week is an annual event which is held the week just prior to February 2—the date of the organization. During this time the many Chrsitian Endeavorers throughout the world celebrate with banquets and other special programs.

The High Point banquet was held at Lebanon M. P. church. Byron Haworth, young High Point lawyer and vice-president of the Union, acted as toastmaster.

Those attending from the College society were Miss Young, Sulon Ferree, Mary Margaret Bates, J. E. Garlington, Kathleen Heptinstall, and Hoyt Wood.

PITTARD CHOSEN HEAD OF MINISTERIAL CLUB

Sulon Ferree Elected Vice President of Association; White Secretary.

The student Ministerial Association at the College is beginning its work for the second semester under the leadership of Leo Pittard, who was elected to the position of president on January 22. He succeeds Ferman Wright as head of the organization.

Sulon Ferree, of Tobaccoville, was named vice president, a position which was vacant last semester. Wilbur Walton of Fairfax, Alabama, was elected chaplain of the Association, replacing J. E. Garlington. Charles White, a day student freshman, was named secretary to succeed Odell Brown.

Pittard comes to the College from Thelma, and has been active in various activities during his four years on the campus. He is a member of the Thalean Literary Society, president of the A Capella Choir, a member of The Zenith staff and the Christian Endeavor Society.

SCIENTISTS HOPE TO SOLVE SOLAR MYSTERY

Expedition to Siberia Seeking Cause of Corona Visible in Eclipse.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cambridge, Mass. — Setting up their instruments near the border of Siberia, American scientists hope soon to pierce the mystery of the solar corona—that irregular "ocean of flame" extending millions of miles beyond the surface of the sun.

Visible only during a total eclipse of the sun, the corona will next put on its show June 19, but already Harvard astronomers have arranged for front row seats.

The ecilpse will not be visible from the western hemisphere. Starting in the Mediterranean, the 75 mile wide belt of total darkness will sweep eastward across Greece, the Black Sea, Siberia, Manchuria and northern Japan.

EXAMS MARK END OF FALL TERM'S WORK

Registration Figures Virtually Unchanged as New Students Replace Losses.

The College officially opened for the second semester of the school year with the convening of classes Monday morning. The first term closed with the completion of the examination schedule last week.

All indications point to a registration equal to or surpassing that of last semester. The population in the dormitories has remained virtually unchanged, with a few new students coming in to replace those dropping out. Although registration for the new term began early last week, students were slow in signing up because of adverse weather conditions and other situations. Monday witnessed a rush of students, particularly the day commuters, to the office, and registration has continued throughout the week.

The first official student assembly was held Monday morning at the student government period, with Allen Austin, vice president of the council, in charge of the meeting. After several brief routine announcements, the assembly was turned over to the cheerleaders, who conducted a pep meeting for Monday night's game.

The accounting classes for the second term in the business department will be taught by W. H. Ford instead of H. L. Spessard. Cullen B. Owens takes over the class in Business English, and he will also offer a course in oral interpretation. No credit courses in advanced speech or dramatics will be offered this term, it has been announced. The course in Modern Economic Problems also has been postponed until next year, and one or two other classes are awaiting final decision pending completion of registration.

The first semester Honor Roll, consisting of those students who have received no grade lower than B and who have conformed to the College regulations regarding attendance and conduct, will be announced at the chapel hour on February 14.

Tapping ceremonies for the Order of the Lighted Lamp, which at present consists of only two members, will also take place sometime during the spring term. The rush period for the six Greek letter social clubs on the campus, whose membership is confined to those students who have a scholastic average of C or above, will open soon after the first of March.

Except for the Easter holidays in early April, the present semester will continue without a break until the eleventh commencement exercises on June first.

WAR COURSE SOUGHT AT NORTHWESTERN U.

Students Would Make Scientific Investigation of War as Institution.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Evanston, Ill. — Although the budget committee of Northwestern University has declared that because the already large deficit, no new courses can be added to the curriculum, students here are pressing for a second-semester course on war.

The purpose of the course, plans for which originated last year, would be to make a scientific investigation of war as a human institution and a study of the best methods of prevention. It would involve the political, economical and psychological causes of international conflict.

Instruction would probably be provided by members of the various departments who would be willing to give their services without pay.

At the University of Chicago a similar course is being contemplated, according to Prof. Quincy Wright, head of the political science department.

POLICY IN RETROSPECT

Unlike a number of newspapers in other colleges THE HI-PO undergoes no change of administration at the beginning of the spring semester. Except for the vicissitudes brought about by the coming and going of students, the staff of the College paper is almost the same one that issued a statement of policy last May.

While there has been no radical turnover in personnel and our views of student problems are essentially the same, we feel that this is an opportune time to restate our policies, and to comment on observations that have caused certain changes in our attitude. At the beginning of our administration we pledged our support to student government at High Point College. The council has undertaken a number of ambitious projects during the year, and, to use the baseball terminology as adapted by President Roosevelt, while it may not have batted .1000 it has been in the main successful. At certain times, however, the student government organization has been severely handicapped by glaring displays of indifference or antagonism on the part of certain students and faculty members. The council may be forced to abandon some of its schemes and alter the plans of others, but we reiterate a faith in the essential soundness of the system and its leaders.

As another plank in our platform we pledged our support to the cause of a broader social program at the College, and specifically did we join with a vast majority of the students in asking that sane, well-chaperoned dances be allowed on the campus. The passing of time has but emphasized the need for dancing here and aggravated the desire of the students for this form of recreation. Definite progress has been made in other phases of the social program, such as the broader freedom granted co-eds, but the dancing question is apparently at a standstill. We are still waiting.

We have always been enthusiastic for more cooperation among the various student organizations on the campus. To put it tritely, we point with pride to the newly completed sidewalk between Harrison Gym and McCulloch Hall, constructed as a combined project of the four literary societies. A move is on foot to hold the celebrations of the two brother-sister literary organizations on the same day, and to this, too, we give our endorsement. It is explained that the full maturity of another fruit of cooperation, the completion of the gymnasium dressing rooms, has been delayed because the work must be done gradually as the money is turned in by the classes instead of finished in a short period of time, as had originally been planned. With this we can have no quarrel; the slow completion of the work will not detract from the ultimate value of the project.

WE START OVER AGAIN

As a starting point for new hopes, new ambitions, new activities, the beginning of the spring semester is second only to the opening of school in September in importance. We start the new semester with only a slight shakeup in student body and curriculum, and we have the experience of almost five months of working together behind us. Scholastically our opportunities are the same that they were in September — plus what knowledge we may have acquired in the first semester's work.

The program of activity for the next four and a half months is a replete one. The remaining few games on the basketball schedule will determine the fortunes of the Purple Panthers in the current North State championship race. Not since the supreme days around the turn of the decade has a championship seemed so imminent. The chase grows hot, and we follow it with bated breath.

The new semester will see two more lyceum programs presented, a drama production, a series of debates, and various other activities common to the College campus.

Of outstanding interest to the members of the four literary societies will be the annual celebrations held each spring to commemorate the founding of the organizations at High Point. It is rumored that the two celebrations may be held on the same day, with a joint program and separate banquets.

Whatever the developments that may take place, either planned or unexpected, the new semester is sure to be filled with interesting events. We have an opportunity to build around them a real school spirit that will be of value to every student here. Remembering the lessons of the past, and mindful of the opportunities of the future, let us make the most of a new start.

MESSAGE TO CANBY

Henry Seidel Canby, Yale '99, in an article in the February issue of Harper's magazine, decries the disappearance from the American collegiate scene of the romantic, unconcerned, devil-may-care, turtle-neck sweater attitude, as typified by his own college days. Extra-curricular activities rather than an interest in present day problems were emphasized in Mr. Canby's day. The students of the 'nineties were concerned with their own importance—with their own tiny, inconsequential problems to such an extent that major issues of the day for them did not exist.

The students of today are still interested in extra-curricular activities, Mr. Canby. Perhaps more intensely interested in them than were the students of the 'nineties, since the work put out now is patently superior to that of your day: literary substance of paramount quality, athletic teams of excellent calibre, dramatic groups, glee clubs, orchestras, and bands—all better than ever before, to speak tritely, Mr. Canby.

And yet, the present-day student is intimately concerned with the processes of civilization going on about him. He is interested in vital problems, and he does his best to act intelligently upon them. He is preparing himself for work. He is making sure that he does not leave college totally uninformed of the place to which he is going.

Neither is the rah-rah era altogether gone, as some college editors have tried to impress on their various student bodies, and as you infer in your article, Mr. Canby. Pep rallies and cheering squads, mascots and snake dances still occupy an important place. These buoyant evidences of loyalty and the unrestrained emotionalism of youth happily are still with us.

We are not the cold, stiff, "uncollegiate" pragmatists that you might compare so favorably with your adventurous nineteenth century beer-drinkers. Yes, Mr. Canby, we are intensely interested in things outside of the pitifully small collegiate world, and perhaps, as adventurous as your fraternity drinking song.

And perhaps this interest will build better citizens.

THE SMALL COLLEGE

When individuals appeal to the nation for increased support of the 600-odd small liberal colleges in the country, characterizing them as the seed beds of leadership and "among the principal sources of high character and noble ideals without which any purely economic system would collapse," they voice opinion in which leading impartial educators strongly concur.

The small liberal arts colleges have usually had to travel a road of thorns and obstacles. Their endowments at best have been meager. They possess only one-fourth of the capital funds behind all higher educational institutions, large and small in the United States, and they include in their cloisters one-half of the students. While large universities have been spending huge sums in extravagantly beautifying and enlarging their physical aspects, the small colleges have carried on with scant funds that do not even suffice to pay their faculties fair salaries. The present period of economic depression has further multiplied the difficulties which in general beset these smaller institutions.

Distinctly American in nature, the small liberal arts college truly plays a most important role in the American educational system. Amid the growth of state-supported institutions and highly-endowed universities, the smaller college has held on as one of the strongholds of a truly cultural education. The broad opportunities which it offers for intimacy and for increased student-faculty fellowship have demonstrated the value of the small-unit education. The recent inclusion within several large institutions of a number of smaller divisions, such as the colleges in the quad plan, is a recognition of the advantages of the small college over the large educational plants. Yet the great bulk of these smaller institutions, along with the equally-neglected women's colleges, are forced to struggle along, leading a hand-to-mouth existence, while a few major institutions grow relatively opulent.

Regret is naturally occasioned by the fact that America's larger institutions cannot secure all the financial backing they could use to increase the salaries of faculty members or to erect luxurious Gothic and Gregorian buildings. But the plight of America's scores of worthy but financial starving colleges, particularly prevalent in the South and in certain portions of the West, brings to the surface one of the most pressing needs of modern American higher education.

DAVIS SEES SHORTAGE TECHNICALLY TRAINED

Says Demands for Engineering School Graduates Exceeds Supply at Stevens.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Montclair, N. J.—American business and industry faces a "terrible shortage of technically trained men, according to the recent statement of Dr. Harvey N. Davis, president of Stevens Institute of Technology. Among general non-technical industries in particular, he said, the demand for engineering school graduates far exceeds the supply.

"The employment situation definitely broke for Stevens alumni early last spring," Dr. Davis said. "Ninety-six per cent of the graduates of the six depression classes, 1930 to 1935, are employed, close to what one would expect in normal times. For last June's seniors, the figures are 91 per cent employed and more jobs have been turned down than there are men left."

General business concerns of a non-technical nature, Dr. Davis said, are showing an increased preference for graduates of technical schools.

"In the boom years most of our graduates were absorbed by the utilities," he explained. "Now, however, all the men we can supply are being taken by general industry, and I don't know what we'll do when the utilities come back."

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

There was something gaspy, of course, about that case of the Southwestern University students and the nude young girl who danced for them on the athletic field the other night.

And there was something delightful about the stern comment of the dean after the investigation began. The dean issued a pontifical statement to the effect that the incident was closed "until further facts were laid bare."

—o—

Death of Decorum at the University of Texas:

Down there, old Henry Harper, dean of the graduate school, for years has preserved his vigorous independence of thought and dress, despite the standardizing influence of the campus, which universally tends to make professors dress with decorum, behave quietly, write few letters-to-the-editor.

The dean has alwnys worn a blood-red bow tie, which lies across his throat like a scarlet butterfly alight upon a cactus.

Recently the dean and his ties received national recognition when the dean sent one of them as a Christmas present to O. O. McIntyre, the New York columnist whose own sartorial aberrations are well known.

The color of the tie, said Odd, "is based on the oxyhemoglobin of the red blood cells in human arterial blood."

Students have many stories about the Dean and his tie. Some say he began wearing them in memory of a beautiful lady in red who flitted across his horizon some years ago. The dean however, says he wears them just because he likes them.

—o—

East to West:

A columnist in the student paper at Brown University devotes several paragraphs to the "coyaotes" who roam the western plains, and "menace the lumberjacks."

("Kiyutes" wouldn't be so bad, but coyaotes"—Good Lord!)

And then we notice in the Princeton paper that a correspondent declnres, "out west when they see a man driving recklessly, they toot their horn at him three times.

He feels ashamed and toots back three times, and goes on with everyone feeling he has been sufficiently punished."

—o—

Does it mean the decay of culture—the resurgence of Babbitry—or just a feeling of economic insecurity?

Anywny, Northwestern University students, accrding to a study there, are choosing courses of study which will be definite, monetary value to them after they get out of school.

Most of those interviewed seemed to be taking economics and such things as "business letter writing," etc. But one young realist said he probably should be studying about the Navy, since such a course would be of more real value "the way the world is now."

Another young man when questioned, said he was taking business writing, "because, ah, er, it developed writing ability, and ah, ah—there wasn't any final exam!"

UNIVERSITY SAVED BY BILL PASSED IN OHIO

State Solons Put Through New Appropriation Replacing Vetoed Law.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, Ohio. — Disastrous consequences for Ohio State University were narrowly averted last week when the state legislature unanimously passed a new biennium appropriation bill restoring most of the items vetoed by Gov. Martin L. Davey from the original budget submitted last May.

Because the veto included provision for such items as fuel and salaries, fears that the university would be forced to close were commonly expressed.

Included in the state restorations were $100,000 for fuel and $2,594,000 for salaries; $50,000 for building repairs, $65,000 for educational and recreational supplies and $65,000 for other maintenance items.

AROUND WASHINGTON

By ARNOLD SERWER
(A. C. Press Correspondent)

Washington.—Col. Frank Knox, publisher of The Chicago Daily News and a leading possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, in answering the charge of Edward Filene, philanthropist and one-time Boston department store owner, that "the interests" were dictating the anti-Roosevelt and anti-Administration policy of leading newspapers throughout the country, claims that the turning of Washington newsmen away from the New Deal policies and their growing abhorrence of all Roosevelt's works is the factor which has caused the press attacks upon the New Deal. The New York Herald-Tribune, one of the most vitriolic critics of the administration, in an editorial backs up the Knox statement, speaking of the nausea induced among Washington newspapermen by the trend of Roosevelt's policies.

This is so much applesauce. First of all, the ordinary columns of Washington news sent to the home papers by the rank and file newsmen here have not been particularly anti-New Deal. It has been the editorial pages of the papers that have been pounding away at the Roosevelt policies. Added to this has been the frequently opinionated work of the journalistic big shots, the special writers and columnists, whose columns, because of the weight their names carry, must obviously not disagree sharply with the editorials.

The workaday newspapermen here are still a long way from being anti-Roosevelt. The personal opinions of mnny of them do not jibe at all with the editorial stands of their respective papers concerning Roosevelt. Even assuming that no reporter here ever has had it brought home to him, either by an edict from his editor, a hint, or in any other direct manner, that his work will be appreciated more if he goes out and digs up a few good stories about boondoggling, governmental extravagance, and administrative incompetence, still what reporter is unaware of his paper's editorial policy regarding the New Deal? And what reporter is going to be foolhardy enough not to subordinate his impressions to that of his paper's?

The news that newspapers take their cue as to policy concerning the New Deal from the reactions of their Washington correspondents is a new slant on the relation of the reporter and the publisher. The tail is wagging the dog, if Col. Knox's claim is true. In spite of the impartial attitude of Col. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, Ogden Reid of The Herald-Tribune, Mr. Hearst and Mr. Paul Block, it seems that their minds were changed for them by the "growing revulsion" of their Washington correspondents to the New Deal, so that now, almost to their sorrow, they find themselves attacking it. No one here suspected that the average newspaperman, whose influence in the past has usually not been strong enough with the publisher of his sheet to promote a five dollar raise, has had so much influence in making up the publisher's mind for him on national questions.

On the other hand the Filene charge that "interests" have used the newspapers against the New Deal needs a great deal of qualification. It is unlikely that deals of any sort between papers and the "interests" have been made. What has most likely happened is that the publishers feel that their future is bound up with big business more than it is with the beneficiaries of Rooseveltian policies. No single advertiser influences them, but their dependence on the whole body of advertisers undoubtedly does.

PROFESSOR FORGETS TO CASH '34 CHECK

Harvard Instructor Delays Supreme Court Records by Failure to Cash Check.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cambridge, Mass.—The absent-minded professor joke was revived last week. Ralph J. Baker, Harvard professor and member of the bar of the United States Supreme Court, had mislaid a check for $15.45 mailed to him by a court clerk as part of a fee for his appearance before the tribunal in 1934. Because the check hadn't been cashed, it was impossible to close the court's record in the case.

Four letters of inquiry were sent to the professor; he answered none of them. Finally he was threatened with disbarment, and that stirred him to action.

Dropping all else, he searched through his paper for four hours, found the check, cashed it and wrote an apology to the clerk and the justices.

The disbarment action was dropped, but Prof. Baker was "reprimanded for an unjustified failure in a duty owed by him as a member of the bar." The duty was to answer letters from the Supreme Court.

SCIENTIST TO GIVE PAPER ON CAUSE OF DEATH OF COMRADES

Last Survivor to Analyze Cause of Death of Twenty-Nine Others.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Toronto, Ont.—Even more grisly than the famous Civil War veterans' "Last Man" club, members of which met annually to drink a toast to their dead comrades, until but one was left, has been organized by a group of Canadian scientists.

In the distant future a medical paper will be published by an old scientist in which he will give the cause of the death of twenty-nine of his colleagues.

Dr. C. H. Best, Professor of Physiology in the University of Toronto, revealed the strange pact in the course of a recent speech.

Thirty research workers in the School of Hygiene have an annual physical examination. They examine each other and from each other they draw a sample of blood which is chemically analyzed.

"The idea is," explained Dr. Best, "that the survivor will write a paper on what caused the deaths of the others."

YOURS FOR BETTER SPEECH

A very common and deplorable grammar fault of college students is the wrong use of the verb tenses. Juniors and seniors at our College are often heard to make such glaring errors in English as, "I have saw" or "I seen" —no, not in fun as may be supposed, but because of poor backgrounds at home and in school.

If you want people to think well of your family and of yourself, be careful in your English. Take a specific fault and work on correcting that in your speech. Let friends check up on your faults and do not get angry when they call you down. After all, school should be a place for improvement in speech, manners, dress, and so forth.

The common mistakes in verb forms occur mainly in the use of the past participle an the past tense. Except when used as an adjective, the past participle is always used with some form of the verb to have and cannot be used alone as the main verb in the sentence. The past tense is used alone and not with the auxiliary!

You come now, you came yesterday, you have come before.

You saw, but you had seen.

You did it, but you have done it.

You went to town, but he has gone.

You have written, but you wrote.

You eat now, ate awhile ago, and have eaten.

You gave and have given.

You took it, but you have taken it.

Enough for verbs until the next person grates on our nerves with an offensive error.

BOA CONSTRICTOR IS PET FOR FRATERNITY

Cornell University Man Brings Snake as Mascot to Fraternity House.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Ithaca, N. Y.—Snakes have been seen in fraternity houses before this, but Josephine, young imperial boa constrictor now doubling as a pet and scientific guinea pig for a Cornell fraternity man, is real.

Non-poisonous, too young to hug after the fashion of her kind, but plenty old enough to bite. Josephine was a gift from Dr. Harry Eno of Colon, Panama, to Frank Trevor, a senior from Syracuse, N. Y.

Boas thrive in a temperature of around 80 degrees, and until his roommate rebelled, Trevor kept his quarters at tropical temperature.

PACK INCREASES LEAD IN CONFERENCE RACE WITH CLOSE WIN OVER LENOIR-RHYNE BEARS

After Harris had saved the game for the Panthers with a basket in the last three seconds of play that knotted the count at 38-38, Culler sank a field goal and free toss in the extra period of play to give the High Point College cagers a 41-40 victory over the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears at Hickory Monday night.

The game was one of the most thrilling, and nerve-wracking contests ever witnessed in the North State loop as the sharpshooters on both squads matched point for point during the entire 40 minutes of regulation play and on into the extra minute period. At no time during the contest was either team able to amass more than a four point lead, which was always quick to fade away.

Martin dropped in two free throws to put the locals in front 2-0 in the first minute, but McSwain matched this with a goal on the next play. The Pointers led most of the time in this period by a narrow margin, only to have the Bears forge ahead 21-20 at the end of the half.

This gruelling duel continued in the next period which found the Bears leading by four points with 5 minutes to go. Then fighting with their backs to the wall, and finding their conference leadership in danger, the Panthers managed to tie the count 36-36, but Lanier dropped in two free throws to break the tie, as the clock showed one minute to go. Still fighting the Panthers were rewarded by Harris' goal.

Culler was the first to break the tie in the extra period but Ward retaliated for the home team to tie the count again. In the last minute Culler made good one of his free throws to give the Panthers the close victory.

Winner over the Bears by a wide margin in their first encounter this year the locals looked far from impressive last night in registering up their seventh win in eight loop games to date.

Culler was high scorer with 13 points, followed by Harris with 10 for the Pointers. Ward and Tucker were the big guns for the Bears' offensive attack.

Intrieri dropped in four long baskets to come next with eight points.

Examinations proved to be about the toughest foe that the Panthers have encountered this year. We are not referring to any particular difficulties with scholastic grades, if there were any, but to the physical condition resulting from worry, irregular hours, and lack of physical exercise. They haven't played the type of ball they displayed in downing Elon before the week of midnight oil.

—o—

However loyal supporters should not take the loss of the practice game Saturday night seriously. And we might say that it was merely an unscheduled, practice contest. Only three members of the regular starting lineup were in uniform, and they remained in the contest approximately half of the time. Midway in the second period they left the gym for the showers. The purpose of the game was to give the squad, including all the reserves and the varsity members that were able, a much needed workout. Still the reserves did not do so bad, considering their lack of practice during that week.

—o—

Well, we beat Lenoir Rhyne, and that's about all there is to say. (Further details will be found in your weekly HI-PO).

—o—

And now we have the most important games of the year scheduled in the Harrison gymnasium this week, on Thursday and Saturday nights. We are predicting for the Elon clash to draw the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game on this campus. Come early for seats! And there is no doubt that these two contests will have more influence in determining the conference championship than any of the remaining games.

—o—

What we need is a band. Those who attended the Elon game realize the color that one adds to a basketball game, and may we say, the inspiration that it furnishes the players. There is nothing that can take its place in the cheering section of any college group.

—o—

A band was organized here last fall under the direction of Dean Lindley. It was reported that progress was made as the group held rehearsals, and we became enthusiastic over the matter. Rumor got out that they would put in their initial performance here the night of the W. C. T. C. game, and everybody was in a receptive mood for some real stirring marches. But to the disappointment of everyone, they failed to show up with their horns and drums.

—o—

We are sure that the organizer of the band has done his part, and perhaps all the members have under the existing conditions. But we are also sure that if schools of equal rank can put out bands, that we can! Members of the band, we are expecting you Thursday and Saturday nights!

—o—

Here and there. . . . And what could be more appropriate for Captain Culler on his birthday than a victory over those Christians from Elon. . . . It was the first time he had ever helped to beat them on their home court. . . . And the game revealed that we have some alumni members that are interested in the team, and who really want us to win. . . . Somebody was either color-blind the other week, or found the wrong campus for hoisting the yellow flag. . . . You can bet that neither team will have up the white flag of truce when the two clubs go into the battle Saturday night. We are not able to quote the odds on the betting, so use your own sense in picking the team to place your money.

After nosing out the Lenoir Rhyne Bears in a close game at Hickory Monday, the Conference leading Purple Panther cagers return to their home court for two of the most crucial games of the current race against the Catawba Indians and the Elon Christians this week.

The game with the Elon Christians here Saturday night promises to be the most colorful contest of the year. Both teams are strong contenders for the conference crown, and the result of this battle will have much to do in determining the final standings in the loop at the close of the season.

But first in order comes the Catawba Indians on Thursday night.

The first encounter between these two rivals, played on the Catawba court over two weeks ago, threw a scare into the players and the Panther rooters as the Salisbury boys outplayed the locals both on the defense and the offense during the entire first half, allowing the Pointers a rally only at the end of the first period. Only during the final half did the High Point squad show any power, finally emerging with a close but nevertheless impressive victory, 42-31.

As a result of this loss, according to the last figures obtained, the Indians now hold the fifth position in the North State conference standings but in recognition of the hard struggle evident during the last game, the Panthers are preparing for a close struggle, hoping to keep the records clear of any other defeats which might prove ruinous to the tentative position which they now hold.

Captain Culler, Martin, Harris, Intrieri, and Booth or Towery will probably make up the starting squad for Coach Yow's Panther pack Thursday night before the record crowd which is expected. Coach Kirkland's starting team has not yet been made known but in all probability Pritchard, flashy Catawba forward, will again lead the attack with the combined help

Volleyball Tourney Starts Next Week

The men's intra-mural volleyball tournament is slated to get underway next week, according to information received from the athletic department.

The tourney will be a "round robin" affair, with each class team playing the three other teams in one contest. The two clubs coming out of this round with the highest percentage will battle for the championship.

Further details concerning the time of play, or the pairings for the first contest, were not released.

Intra-mural basketball will start immediately after the completion of this tournament.

YOWMEN DEFEAT CATAMOUNTS IN CLOSE CONFERENCE GAME

The High Point college basketball quint narrowly missed defeat two weeks ago as the Western Carolina Catamounts staged a desperate last minute rally which put them only two points behind as the final whistle blew in the local college gymnasium, the score finally totaling 51-49.

Open the game with a rush and scoring with seeming ease, the Purple Panther five showed real aggressiveness throughout the first half. Broadus Culler, captain and star forward, dropped the ball in a few minutes after the starting gun to then lead his team during the rest of the game not only in spirit but in shooting, tieing Woodward, Catamount star, for top scoring honors with 19 points.

After snatching 11 points of the total 51 during the first five minutes of this thrill-packed contest, the locals slowed up slightly in their offensive tactics as the visitors then monopolized the ball for a short time, though at no time during the first period endangering the High Point college lean. The score as the first half ended was 34-31, allowing the over 350 fans to sit back and breathe a sigh of relief.

But the second half changed that sigh of relief to a groan as the Teachers began an attack which threw a monkey wrench into the forward drive of the Panthers, boxing them up for about three slow minutes. Martin, wiry forward, and Towery, freshman guard, then stepped out with the combined help of their teammates to match goal with goal, keeping the local team far enough ahead to eke out victory by a narrow margin.

In an interesting preliminary game the Purple Panther B team lost another close game to a hard-playing Adams-Millis five, 29-25. Jarrett, freshman center, led the local's attack while accounting for six points. Cooper, Adams-Millis star, led the field with a total of eight points.

Sherrill Named Captain Of Soccer Squad; Thirteen Letters Awarded

Lee Sherrill, backfield ace on the soccer eleven last fall and former baseball hurler, has been named captain of the Panther shin-busters for the coming season, it has been announced by Coach C. Virgil Yow.

At the same time of this announcement during the chapel period on Friday, January 24, letters were awarded to thirteen members of the record making squad for their services during the past season. A special award will be made to Broadus Culler, coach of the eleven for the past three years.

The new captain finished out his third season with the soccerites this past fall. He played on the college football team his first year in school. However, when the sport was abandoned the next year, he went out for the soccer team, and has seen service in that sport since. Last spring he left school after signing a contract with the Cardinals, but returned last fall to continue his studies the first semester. He will leave again for spring training camp the middle of March, but plans to return next year.

The men receiving letters were: Niernsee, Co-Captains Isley and Elder, Intrieri, Smith, Gray, Sherrill, Harris, Martin, Koontz, Peeler, Brinkley, and Manager McDowell.

Giles and Ellington are the freshmen receiving numerals.

Alexis Carrell, Nobel prize winner, will teach at the University of California during the spring semester.

A permanent national youth program to replace NYA is provided for in a bill now before Congress.

UNIQUE WINS OVER CAGERS

Showing clearly the effects of their lay-off during examination week, the High Point cagers dropped a ragged exhibition game to the Unique Furniture five of Winston-Salem Saturday night by the score of 36-23, in the second of a two-game card on the College floor.

Examinations seemed to have taken all the pep out of the Panthers, as they played lifeless ball against the team they conquered earlier this season by a 36-20 count.

Coach Yow used a total of thirteen men in the contest, with the second string playing during most of the time. At no time in the game did the Panthers boast the line-up that defeated the Elon Christians last Saturday to take the lead in the conference race. The mainstays on the defense, Intrieri and Towery, were not in uniform for the game.

The invaders gained a 6-0 lead within two minutes after the opening whistle before the locals were able to find the range. The Panthers rallied midway in the period and held a 14-11 lead at the end of the half.

Although numerous substitutions were made with the first string men taking the showers at the half way mark, the Pointers weakened in the second period. Taking advantage, the Unique club soon overcame this lead and forged ahead. Cooper led this offensive attack as they rang up 25 points before the final whistle.

Taking advantage of their height and size, the Chatham Blanketeers of Elkin experienced

After one of the greatest first half battles ever waged in the North State basketball circles, the Purple and White clad warriors of High Point College proceeded to outfight the Elon Christians during the second half last Saturday night at Elon to triumph 41-29 over their traditional rivals.

The victory was the sixth in seven starts in the conference for the locals this year and placed them in the front of the league race above the defending champions.

The crowd that packed the Alumni gymnasium, estimated at something over 600, witnessed 40 minutes of brilliant, well-played basketball as the two traditional rivals, geared up for their first clash of the year, fought for supremacy every moment of the contest.

This decisive victory for Coach Yow's forces was the second in seven years of warfare on the hardwood court over the Christians, and served as a break to the proverbial "jinx" that has followed the Panthers. The other victory over the Elonites during these seven lean years was registered in '34 when the locals scored a close 27-25 win on the Harrison gym floor.

Determined to stop the invading Panthers as in the past, the Christians put up a great fight in the first half, but the fast stepping Panthers proved too much for them in the second period. Neither team was able to keep the lead for any length of time as the sharpshooters of both squads flipped in action shots.

Culler sank one on the opening play to put the Panthers ahead, but a foul toss and action basket by Roye gave the losers a 3-2 lead at the end of seven minutes play. Elon held a 9-4 margin midway in the period, but the

Frosh Co-Eds Go To Chapel Hill

The freshman co-ed volleyball team overwhelmed the University of North Carolina lassies last night by the score of 62-17. The High Point bowling team lost to the Carolina women in both games.

In accordance with arrangements made late in the fall, volleyball and bowling teams from the College left yesterday afternoon for Chapel Hill, where they will engage the University co-eds in those two sports.

The squad left yesterday afternoon at around four o'clock. Only freshman women were included in the volley-ball line-up, by virtue of their taking the intra-mural tournament which is an annual feature of the physical education program for women. Features of the trip included dinner in Spencer Hall, through the courtesy of the Women's Athletic Association, volley-ball in Bynum gym at seven o'clock, and bowling in Graham Memorial at 8 o'clock.

The College volley-ball team is composed of Ann Watkins, Violet Jenkins, Helen Bates, Dorothy Wiggins, Virginia Dixon, Elizabeth Cullum, Olga Marlette, Elizabeth Hoffman, and Evelyn Lindley. Volleyers for the University were Evelyn Barker, Jo Oettinger, Mary Pride Cruikshank, Jean Buch, Anise Belden, Polly Pollock, Hester Barlow, and Martha Louise Croom.

Mildred McCullan and Eileen Smith bowled for the University. The College bowlers were Marguerite Jenkins and Violet Jenkins.

An urgent call has been issued by all class managers and by the physical education director for larger attendance at basket-ball practice. Practices are held on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons from four to six o'clock. In order to get points for a letter it is necessary to attend at least one-half these practices. Those not making teams may earn extra points by attending practice.

LOCAL CAGERS SCORE SECOND WIN OVER ELON IN 7 YEARS

Pointers' offensive attack began clicking and soon knotted the count at 9-9 on a crip shot by Culler.

From this point on the lead changed hands frequently until the end of the period when the red team held a 18-17 advantage.

Goals by Harris, Intrieri, and Towery put the locals ahead six points within five minutes after the opening whistle in the second period. Although this margin was cut down to one point many times during the rest of the game, the Panthers remained ahead as every member of the team contributed to the total number of tallies.

Playing as a well organized unit, the local line-up afforded no outstanding star of the night. Culler, to whom the victory came as a birthday present, led the scoring with 13 points, while the remainder of the points were well distributed among Harris, Martin, Towery, and Intrieri, the other four men in the starting combination.

Roye, hitting his free tosses with deadly accuracy, garnered 12 points in the first half to take down scoring honors for his team.

ELON CONTEST ON SAT. FEATURE TILT

of Garland, Bauer, Goodman, and Black.

It is also reported that the newly-formed college band will make its initial appearance Thursday night, at least, some more peppy noise to support the Panther cagers in their sixteenth contest.

Climaxing a hard three game schedule for this week the Yowmen will again engage their traditional enemies, the Elon Christians, Saturday night with hopes of giving the visitors a second erowning defeat.

Losing by a score of 41-29 only a week ago, the Elonites then conceded the locals the top position in the North State conference which for three years had been theirs. For over three years the Panther pack has been unable to overcome this powerful combination in a single contest, finally able to put away the nemesis only by showing the greatest exhibition of passing, shooting and guarding ever put on by the Yowmen before last Saturday.

Both teams, Saturday, will be keyed up to the breaking point because of the keen rivalry between the two squads and only by being always there will either team be able to pull out a decisive victory, because again the outcome of this clash will have important bearings on the ultimate outcome of the season's standings.

Elon, according to last compilations, now holds the second position in the conference although they have played only a few of their regularly scheduled conference matches so far. The High Pointers have played in seventeen contests so far this season, eight of them being conference games, leaving them only five more conference battles before climaxing the basketball season.

The line-ups of the two teams, though not available, will probably be composed of the best combination possible in anticipation of a real battle.

"DARK ANGEL" IS COMING TO TOWN

"The Dark Angel," Samuel Goldwyn's gripping romantic drama, starring Fredric March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall, will be the feature attraction at the Carolina Theatre for two days beginning Monday.

This powerful and beautiful love story, set in a lovely, quiet corner, reflects the hearts of a woman and two men—one of whom she loves, while the other loves her.

A great emotional climax is reached when the man she loves comes to a realization of his love for her. Their happiness is shortlived, however, as the relentless forces of life tear them apart. Years after, when the girl has resigned herself to a betrothal to the other man, a kindlier fate intervenes and the lovers are reunited.

Sidney Franklin, who handled the megaphone on "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Smilin' Thru" and other outstanding film productions, directed "The Dark Angel."

Others prominent in the supporting cast are Janet Beecher, John Halliday, Henrietta Crosman, Frieda Inescort, Claude Allister, George Breakston, David Torrence and Cora Sue Collins. The film is released through United Artists.

Dartmouth made $36,609 on football last season.

Panthers Virtually Clinch Conference Crown With Win Over Elon In Harrison Gym

Pack Stretches Winning Its Winning Streak to Nine Straight With 52-43 Victory Over Rivals.

CAPACITY CROWD HERE

Purple and White Climaxes Championship Drive Before Thousand Court Fans

The Purple Panther cagers virtually clinched the North State conference crown Saturday night by trouncing the Elon Christians by the score of 52-43 in a hotly contested battle which was witnessed by a capacity crowd of 1,000 fans in the Harrison gymnasium.

The contest, which gave the winners a lead in the circuit that will be hard to overcome in the final stretch of the race, was perhaps the most colorful ever played on the local court. Both clubs were checred wildly by their respective supporters, but the local cheering section, aided by the college band, was far superior in its expression of enthusiasm.

It was the ninth straight victory in the loop for the fast-stepping Panther pack, and the second win over the Christians this year. The Appalachian Mountaneers, now far down the scale in conference standings, inflicted the lone defeat when they upset the Yowmen in their initial tilt, by a 28-27 count.

Statistics reveal that the leaders can afford to lose one of their three remaining games and still come out on top in the race. Two of these are with the Guilford Quakers, and one, still pending, with the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs.

Realizing the importance of the contest, the two clubs put up a great exhibition of the cage sport that kept the fans in a frenzy of excitement throughout the entire 40 minutes of play. Two field baskets by Bradley and a foul toss by Cheek gave the invaders a 5-0 advantage after four minutes of play. A scoring spurt, led by Martin and Towery, pulled the locals up even 7-7, two minutes later. Culler's toss on the next play gave the Yowmen a lead which they maintained throughout the remainder of the contest, although it was cut down to 2 points several times. At half time they held a 6 point advantage, the score standing at 27-21.

Still maintaining their pace which was too fast for the Christians to match, the Panthers were ahead 42-29 midway in the last session. A short rally by the Elonites cut the lead down to five points at one stage of the contest, but the Panther guards, Towery and Intrieri, stopped the rally with fine defensive work.

Referee Hawn called a total of 35 personal fouls in an effort to keep the contest well under control, and removed three players for excessive fouling.

Although held to one field basket in the last half, Bradley, lanky pivot man for the Christians, topped the scorers with 16, followed by Smith and Cheek with 8 each for the losers.

Heavy Snowfall Brings Unusual College Scenes

Class Work Slowed Friday and Saturday as Day Students Find Going Tough.

A heavy snow-fall combined with a threatened shortage of coal virtually brought College activities to a standstill last Friday and Saturday.

Starting about five o'clock Thursday afternoon, the storm continued throughout the night and up into the day Friday, covering the campus with long waves of drifted snow of irregular depth. A large section of the student body, the day student contingent, found travel hazardous or impossible Friday morning, and many classes were either suspended altogether or held informally and briefly. The regular Friday chapel service was curtailed to a few hymns and the announcements made by Dean Lindley. No visiting speaker was presented at this meeting.

As if to make up for the paucity of snow during the two previous winters, Nature this year has covered the ground with six separate falls, four of them coming since the end of the Christmas holidays on January 3. The long-dormant art of snow sculpture has been revived by the more talented of the students, and snowball fights runs basketball a close race for extra-curricular popularity.

Promotional Secretary N. M. Harrison has utilized the somewhat unusual aspect of a snow-covered campus to aid to his series of moving picture films of College scenes. Soon after examinations, a gigantic snow-ball battle was staged before the camera on the lawn in front of Roberts Hall. Mr. Harrison also had several feet of film showing students dressed in the unusual garbs which have been created for winter communication about the campus.

The deep snow drifts kept many of the students busy pushing out cars after the games Thursday night and Saturday night, and Coach Virgil Yow gave two class periods of credit in Physical Education to the thirty or forty men who shovelled off the walkways around the campus Friday.

SOPHOMORES CONDUCT WEEKLY MEETING OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Caroline Pirtle and Garlington Act as Joint Leaders For Second Year Members.

The sophomores conducted the Christian Endeavor program last Sunday night, using as the topic, "Stoning the Prophets." The meeting was impressively opened with a short prayer, followed by the Gloria. Caroline Pirtle and J. E. Garlington, joint leaders, cooperated in bringing an inspiring program before the group. Margaret Smith gave a talk on "Christ as a Prophet," and Mary Frances Gerringer compared this talk with a discussion of "Man as a Prophet." A poem entitled "Jesus Wept," was read by Occo Gibbs. The special music for the evening was a violin solo by Marguerite Jenkins, accompanied at the piano by Elizabeth Phillips. She used as her selection, "O, Jesus I Have Promised."

In the reports of the sides in the contest, the "Willing Workers" proved to be ahead of the "Helping Hands" some fifty or more points.

Instead of having scripture in answer to the roll call, as is customary at the monthly consecration meetin, an impressive candlelight service was used. In answer to the roll, each member went forward, lighted a candle, and helped form a circle around the auditorium. During this time soft violin and piano music could be heard playing the hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be."

Juniors, Sophs Take Honors At Faculty Party

Class of '37 Judged Peppiest In Yell Competition; '38 Wins With Skit.

The classes of '37 and '38 divided honors last night at the College stunt night program given in the auditorium. To the sophomores went the distinction of presenting the best skit, while the yells of the juniors were adjudged the peppiest.

The program, which is a new feature at the College, was sponsored by the administration and the faculty. Its form was simple but effective, each class presenting a short skit or stunt and a number of peppy songs or yells. The faculty was also represented in the entertainment, not only in person in two short skits, but by proxy in the "shipboard" atmosphere of the sophomore production.

The S. S. H. P. C. was the craft which brought the sophomores before the student body. The ex-yearlings appeared in the guise of several of the faculty members, and in the course of the program revealed numerous astounding facts concerning many of the students and their future lives. Notable among the impersonations were Alson Gray's appearance as Mr. Yarborough and Marion Dickon's as Miss Adams. J. E. Garlington led the cheers.

The junior cheer leader was Faye Holt, whose duties immediately followed the class skit, an obvious "take off" on the famous Major Bowes and his Amateur Hour. Charles Ridge appeared as the Major, who was boosting the campus aversion, broccoli. Included in his amateur artists were William Booth, '37, who sang "Blue Moon"; Polly Parker and Margaret Dixon, '37, in a tap dancing routine; and the ministerial quartet, consisting of Wilbur Walton, '38, Lee Moser, '36, Ferman Wright, '37, and Leo Pittard, '36.

The senior skit was in the form of an amusing play "The Blood-stained Bread Knife," in which the peaceful household of Professor Mush was upset by the carelessness of his cook. Such well known campus figures as "Cricket" Varner, Dot Perry, George Ingle, and "At" Hartman were included in the cast. Owing to the smallness of their class, the seniors attempted no songs or yells.

The yearlings presented an unusual skit of the wedding of the Freshman Class to High Point College. Elizabeth Cullum and Niana Graham Crawford, as the happy couple, were joined in amusing matrimony, leaving the stage in a clever dance routine. They were inadequately supported

DEBATERS OF CAMPBELL TO MEET LOCALS

First Debating Contest of Season Planned For Saturday; Teams Named.

The High Point debate squad will meet the platform artists from Campbell College in two non-decision, practice contests in Roberts Hall auditorium on Saturday, February 15, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, forensic coach.

To avoid conflict with the Guilford game Saturday night, the meeting will take place in the afternoon if it can possibly be arranged, Mr. Owens said. Although the Campbell debaters are now on tour and cannot be reached, they are expected to arrive here Saturday morning according to their announced plans. The visiting squad will remain on the campus over night as guests of the College.

In an intra-squad debate held Monday night, Ferree and Morgan were selected to represent High Point on the negative side of the question, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Override by a Two-Thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional. The College affirmative team will consist of Wood and either Pittard or Garlington.

The meeting with Campbell is expected to be the start of a busy round of contests for the local debaters before the Southeastern Forensic Tournament, which will be held at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., March 5, 6, 7. Last year High Point's debaters were declared state champions at the tournament held in Hickory, and they finished second for the entire southeastern territory.

Poll Shows College Students Want Check On Powers Of Supreme Court

Editors Suggest Various Methods For Curbing Power of High Tribunal to Invalidate Legislation Passed by Congress; Favor Constitutional Changes.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C.—The power of the United States Supreme Court to invalidate legislation has reached socially damaging proportions, in the opinion of American college students, and should be curbed without delay.

Revision of the constitution so as to check the power of the high court is favored by a majority of students, according to an Associated Collegiate Press survey just completed.

Remedies ranging from increasing the number of Supreme Court justices by naming liberal appointees known to have kept pace with the times to giving congress the power to reinstate legislation thrown out by the court are suggested by college leaders.

Strongly urging revision, The Ohio State Lantern commends a state law-maker:

"Usually conservative, 'safe and sane,' Senator Vic Donahey announced in Washington that he favors a revision of the Constitution because he believes it has not kept pace with the times. A revision is necessary, he pointed out, to provide additional guarantees of health, safety and security for the people'.

"We believe that is a significant statement and probably holds significant results. It is indeed heartening to note that Senator Donahey, who is usually classed in the conservative bloc in Congress, has finally recognized need for change. His statement indicates quite clearly a trend away from the traditionally-held belief that the Constitution is a sacred document, one which must not be changed lest we gain the wrath of the gods.

"There is even a new and more liberal attitude growing among the general public toward constitutional change. This is as it should be. The ironical fact is that for too long most of us have clung to the time-worn theory that to change the constitution is plain heresy.

"It is just as ridiculous for us to believe that we could write a Constitution in 1936 to govern the political, social and economic attitudes of Americans in 2083 as is to to believe that a group of individuals could be expected to

Annual Oration-Essay Contest Not To Be Held By College This Spring

Contests Held For Past Three Years Brought Several Students Here on Scholarships; College Will Probably Continue Offers to Exceptional High School Students.

The high school oration-essay contest which has been an annual feature at the College for the past three years will not take place this year, it has been announced by N. M. Harrison, Promotional Secretary.

The contests, which were to some extent in the nature of experiments in promotional work, and which were further designed to attract to the College students of the highest type, began in the spring of 1933. The first prize in the competition consisted of a scholarship covering all College expenses for one year; it was awarded to Margaret Smith of Winston-Salem, at that time a senior at Reynolds High School. Miss Smith spent the 1933-34 term at the College, but did not return the following year. She is at present back at the College, as a member of the sophomore class. She is a member of the Artemesian Literary Society, and of the Sigma Alpha Phi social club. A South Carolina "annex" to the contest brought to the College John Hussey of Florence, who led his class through its freshman year, and who made an enviable record as an intercollegiate debater. Hussey did not return to the College the following year, but continued his college training at the University of South Carolina.

Kathleen Heptinstall of Aurelian Springs High School was the winner of the first prize in the 1934 contest, the scholarship designed to bear a part of the College expenses for four years. Miss Heptinstall is now a sophomore, active in class affairs, and a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society.

Last year's contest gained for the College Nancy Parham of Henderson, who is at present a freshman, an Artemesian, and a member of THE HI-PO staff. A number of the less successful participants of the contest are also enrolled with the yearlings.

No similar plan has been adopted for this year. Probably the only awarding of scholarships by the Administration will be based on exceptional high school records after judicious investigation. Valedictorians and salutatorians will receive special consideration.

THALEAN MEETING IS FEATURED BY DEBATE ON SEASONAL DATING

Briles and Myers Successfully Argue That Winter More Romantic Than Summer.

In their first meeting of the second semester, the Thaleans held an informal debate on the query, Resolved: That It Is More Romantic to Date In Winter Than In Summer. The program was given on Wednesday night because of the basketball game with Catawba Thursday.

S. E. Trogden and Ferman Wright upheld the affirmative against Samuel Myers and Ralph Briles. The seemingly serious expression of Wright and the dry wit of Myers kept the society in uproarous laughter. From all indications the debaters on both sides of the question were aided by ample experience in the subject, both in summer and winter. The judges decided in favor of the negative team, Briles and Myers.

It was an odd coincidence that the debate followed M. C. Henderson's discussion of public opinion on the lethal gas method of execution now used in North Carolina.

Dale Jarrett spoke to the Society on the plan offered by Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, to end subsidization of athletics in the Southern Conference.

A brief sketch of the life of Kipling was given by Howard Apple.

With only four members absent and interest in the Society nearing the peak, the organization will enjoy a most successful semester, the new president predicted.

The Thaleans voted to challenge the Akrothinian Society to a basketball game in the near future.

FIRST BAND PROGRAM GIVEN AT CAGE GAME

Musicians Make Initial Appearance in Harrison Gymnasium Here.

After several weeks of practice, the College band made its first appearance of the year at the Catawba game last Thursday night. The band's premier was closely followed by a second appearance Saturday night at the contest against Elon.

The band was organized by Dean P. E. Lindley, with Joseph Payne as student leader. It is the first musical organization of this kind on the College campus in several years, and its initial appearance had been anxiously awaited by the students and faculty.

Among those who play in the band and their instruments are the following:

David Cooper, Dr. Lindley, Arnold Bolin, cornets; Joseph Payne, Lawrence Austin, trombones; James Mattacks, baritone horn; Max Rogers, bass horn; Iris Welch, flute; Fred Cox and Sheldon Dawson, drums.

The band is expected to play at each of the four games remaining on the season's basketball schedule.

ARTEMESIANS ARGUE PLACE OF WOMEN IN WORLD OF BUSINESS

Lambe and Moffitt Re[illegible] Vote of Society Over Rival Affirmative Debater.

Because of the basketball game with Catawba, the Artemesian Literary Society held its meeting on Wednesday of last week, with Mary Parham, president, in the chair.

Dorothy Wiggins conducted the devotionals, and the secretary read the minutes and called the roll. Parts of the constitution relating to the second semester were read, and committees were appointed for the annual Society Day, which will occur on March 28.

The program for the meeting was built around the general topic of "Women and Careers," and a number of phases of the topic were discussed. Sarah Jones gave a review of the air stewardess and her work; Mary Mitchell Baity described the "profession" of modeling, which may refer to dress shops, or to the studios of the painter, the sculptor, or to the photographer; "Women's Ways In Politics" were discussed by Julia Coe; Ruth Lee supplied some interesting and unusual facts about Nancy Astor.

Following up these discussions of specific aspects, there was a return to the general topic in a brief debate on the query, Resolved: That Women Should Enter the Business World. In the absence of her colleague, Catherine Brown, Nancy Parham upheld the affirmative. Mildred Lambe and Mary Lou Moffitt so strongly objected to woman's entering business that the entire society voted in favor of the negative speakers.

The critic's report was favorable. The meeting closed with the singing of the society song.

Former Dean Leaves Soon For Georgia

Instituted First Two-Year Business Administration Course in North Carolina.

H. L. Spessard, business manager of the College, head of the Commerce Department, and a former Dean of Men, has resigned his position here to go with the Home Owners Loan Corporation in Atlanta, Georgia, it has been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Spessard expect to leave today for Atlanta where he will take over the position of assistant personnel director of the HOLC for the southeastern district, comprising the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama.

R. H. Gunn, at present bursar of the College, will take over Mr. Spessard's duties as business manager, and his classes in the Commerce Department will be taught by W. H. Ford and Miss Elda Clark.

Mr. Spessard came here six years ago from the faculty of the high school in Haddonfield, New Jersey, to become Dean of Men and professor of Business Administration. When the deanship was abandoned about a year and a half ago, Mr. Spessard became business manager of the College. Mrs. Spessard, the former Miss Naomi Dawson, was formerly secretary to Dr. G. I. Humphreys.

Mr. Spessard was born in Hagerstown, Maryland, where he received his secondary school education. He is a graduate of Gettysburg College, in Pennsylvania, has done advanced work in Bowling Green Business University, in Kentucky, and holds a Master of Arts degree in the field of edu-

DR. ANDREWS SPEAKS TO MINISTERS' CLUB ON TASKS OF PASTOR

Conference President Outlines Duties and Problems Facing Ministers.

Dr. R. M. Andrews, presidest of the North Carolina conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, and former president of the College, addressed the student Ministerial Association last Wednesday afternoon on the subject, "Tasks of a Pastor."

The speaker called attention to a new youth movement which is bringing a new Christianity and a better world, and he described the fulfillment of these ideals as the task of a pastor. In the performance of this task, the pastor has two duties, Dr. Andrews said, first, keeping his own soul alive with God, and leading his people into the ways of life.

The pastor has many problems to face, Dr. Andrews pointed out, and he must meet them as well as he can. He must furnish the mind, he must know how to do the work, and often he must be ready to actually do the work himself.

As the main business of a pastor Dr. Andrews ascribed the duties of developing people, of finding and cultivating people, and making these people better.

In conclusion Dr. Andrews noted five big problems that face the pastor. He has the job of making the indifferent church member different, he must list the unlisted in the community, he must find members who can lead, he must find tasks for growing members, and he must conform the sick, the aged, and the infirm.

HAIL THE FORENSIC

The debate teams of High Point College clear up their throats Saturday for the first contest of the season, to be argued against Campbell College. Debating has enjoyed unusual success here since the College was founded, and this activity deserves more support from the student body than it has received for the past several years. Even last year's state championship squad hardly drew enough spectators to provide time-keepers.

The query to be used Saturday is a pertinent one. Perhaps no question of the day is more discussed than what to do about the Supreme Court. Directly or indirectly the question of limiting the powers of the high court will play an important part in the rapidly approaching presidential race. Already the court has drastically affected the lives of millions of citizens by its decisions on the NRA, the Agricultural Act, and other New Deal projects, and arguments pro and con fill the newspapers, magazines, and ether waves. Any intelligent discussion of the problem, as the debate Saturday is likely to be, should be of interest to all college students.

We wish the new debate coach and his men Godspeed at the start of their campaign to defend High Point's state championship. They have a splendid reputation to uphold, but we believe that they have the ability and the enthusiasm to come through with another good showing for High Point College on the debate platform.

OBITUARY NOTICE

Edna Millay, who has perhaps as much hope of literary immortality as any American writing today, has aptly phrased the desire of every poet, every novelist, indeed of every person who seriously puts pen to paper, in her lines to Death:

"You shall scratch and whine
Many a night, and you shall worry
Many a bone before you busy
One sweet bone of mine."

Perhaps there is less of real assurance of living on than sheer unassured defiance in these lines. Like every other creative artist, the poet is afraid that her work, torn from her heart, built from her bone, will perish; she is afraid that, as she phrases it, will be buried in piles of other books—old and dusty, forgotten, unread.

"All that once was I"

It is a real tragedy that children so hardly born of love and sorrow, of hope and pain, should die when there is much that they could give the world—either in practical knowledge or in sheer sense of beauty. But books do die—just as surely as blood and bone and flesh fade and are changed into dust. And many of them die which deserve to live on much longer, to give their beauty or their advice to those who need them.

There are people with widely differing tastes, and people with apparently none, in books. At High Point College there are only a few groups—or there are a great many people who do not read at all; for on the shelves of the College library are numbers of books which have never been checked out at all, others which have been read by perhaps two people in the course of five years—and they are often books which should have been read by many for their real value, either practical or emotional. Don't murder too many really worthwhile books—it's a real tragedy.

SPIRIT OF HIGH POINT

Much credit for the manifest good spirit of the High Point College student body at the Catawba and Elon games last week should go to Dorothy Perry and her cheerleading cohorts. Patience and hard work on the part of Miss Perry even in the face of occasional indifference have finally been rewarded with a highly creditable cheering section.

A valuable contribution, too, was made by Dean P. E. Lindley's band in its first appearances last week. THE HI-PO "points with pride" to the support that has been given a winning team.

QUESTION LEADERSHIP OF C. C. N. Y. PREXY

Alumni Committee Probes Radical Activities at New York City Institution.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Charges that he lacked the qualities necessary for "socially imaginative leadership" made by a special committee of alumni were decried last week as "personal attacks" by an "antagonistic groups" by Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the College of the City of New York.

Twelve members of the special committee, appointed on December 17, 1934, to investigate conditions at the college, signed the majority report, which held that there was conflict between Dr. Robinson and some members of the faculty and undergraduate body. Four members submitted a minority report upholding the president and one did not sign either.

The alumni investigation was prompted by the frequency of undergraduate demonstrations and dealt in particular with campus radicalism and the relations between Dr. Robinson and the faculty.

C. C. N. Y. was whitewashed on the charges of radicalism, the committee reporting that "to believe the college was a hot-bed of subversive radical agitation" was to defame "the college and the citizenry as well."

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Two excellent pieces of journalism got into the college press this last week. One was an interview by Saumel Mintz, University of Wisconsin, with the late Huey Long and the other was an accidental interview with a boy just off a chain gang, by a reporter for the Princeton paper.

—o—

Mintz' story gave an idea of Long's tremendous bustling, hectic, overflowing energy.

Excerpt:

A door flew open, Huey's head popped out. A "come on in boy!" went rumbling down the hall.

"I'm a college student." I got no further.

"I know all about colleges. I run one."

"What do you think should be taught in college?"

"Arithmetic. That's all. Plain and simple arithmetic. You've got to show the boys that there's something wrong in nine hundred and ninety-nine hogs being fed on one portion of hawg feed and one hawg being fed on nine hundred and ninety-nine partions of hawg feed.

"What you've got to do boy is read." He jumped out of his chair, almost overturning his desk. He elbowed a very pretty secretary out of the way. "I'll give you some real literature. Ever hear about the Share the Wealth idea?"

Suddenly he left me. He ran into an adjoining room. I turned to go. "Where are you going?" Mr. Long was back. "Did you say you were a college student? "Well, listen to me: "Don't you grow into a college professor and become a brain-truster. Do you hear?"

—o—

The Princetonian interview demonstrated that slavedriving conditions still exist in the southern chain gang. "All a fellow has to do was even look cock-eyed at a guard and he'd get the lash," said the interviewee. "If you've ever had a lash with pieces of iron on the end come down on your back you'll know how it feels."

Shackles, he said, were clamped on his legs and the rivets smashed with an iron hammer.

—o—

Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio has been rather rough on the state allottments of funds to Ohio State University. As a result, an old epigram is being passed about on the campus in this new form: "Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do to Davey."

—o—

Progression a la undergraduate:
Hesitation.
Trepidation.
Interrogation.
Information.
Investigation.
Confirmation.
Jubilation.
Graduation.

—o—

Do you follow?

—o—

One boy the principal couldn't lick.

He's Robert Wadlow, 17 years old who has just been graduated from high school in Alton, Illinois. He is going to enter college next fall to study law. We don't know for sure, but we imagine Robert is being deluged by offers from college basketball coaches right now.

For Robert is 8 feet, 4 inches in height and weighs 390 pounds.

Bobbie is still growing. Doctors think he may become the tallest man in recorded history.

—o—

One would think Mr. Wadlow should be able to impress a jury.

Yours For Better Speech

It is incorrect to say Reverend Smith; the correct form is Reverend Mr. Smith or Reverend Charles Smith.

During the week we heard someone say, "Have you wrote your theme, yet?" The past participle of to write is written and it alone can be used with have or had.

"I had almost went to sleep" is just as gross an error, and we heard that, too.

SUBSIDY FOR COLLEGE FLYING MAY BE GIVEN

Government May Sponsor Student Flying Corps, Amherst Man Discovers.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

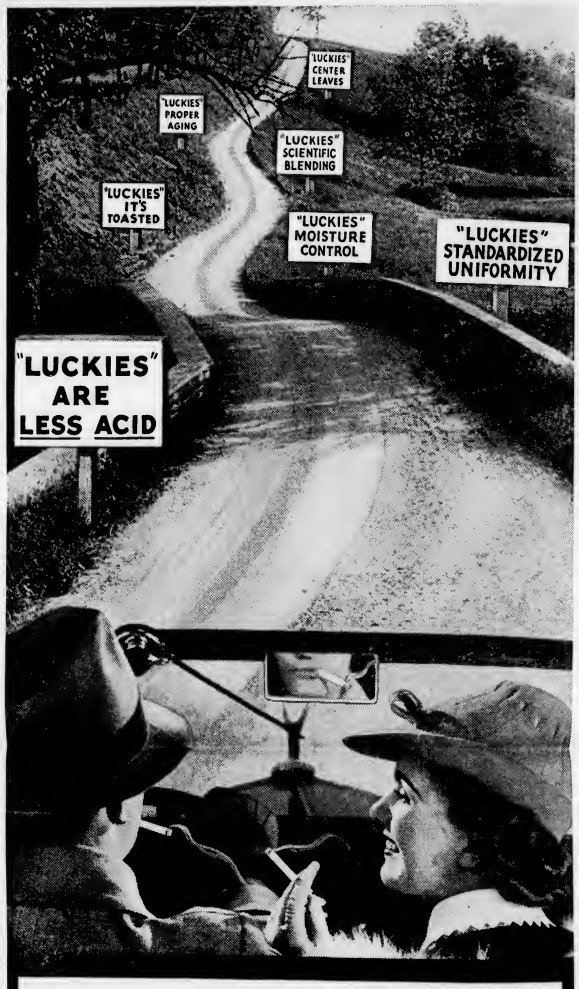

Amherst, Mass. — There is a distinct possibility of a government subsidy for college aviation, in the opinion of W. D. Strohmeier, Amherst senior who made a request appearance before the House Comittee on Military Affairs last week.

According to information Strohmeier received from Rep. John J. McSwain (Dem., S. C.), the comittee is considering a bill to authorize the appropriation of federal funds for the encouragement of college flying, and provide for the formation of a junior air reserve corps made up of college flyers.

Strohmeier said he did not believe the bill intended anything resembling a regimented military organization.

Beginning in June, Yale engineering graduates will receive bachelor of engineering instead of bachelor of science degrees.

Each first down would count one point under a new football scoring system proposed to the national collegiate rules committee.

A LIGHT SMOKE

of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

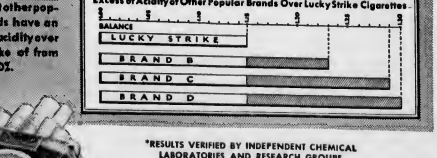

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

YOWMEN START FINAL DRIVE FOR TITLE SATURDAY NIGHT

Freshmen and Sophs Win In First Round

Fast Games Mark Opening Round of Intra-Mural Volleyball Tourney.

The class volley-ball tournament, sponsored by the athletic department, opened with two surprises yesterday as the freshman and sophomores triumphed over their older opponents in straight games.

The first match, bringing the freshman and the juniors together, found both teams slightly erratic, neither showing much form as they cut the ball back and forth with very little teamwork. The freshman recovered first to take the lead in the initial game and managed to keep a slight lead throughout the rest of the opener, finally winning 15 to 12. The second game progressed a little faster with each team showing improvement in its serving, setting-up and driving tactics and only after the lead had changed hands several times did the freshman again edge out victory, winning 15-13.

In the second match of the afternoon the seniors surprised the few fans by showing very little power in their attack and proved an easy mark for the well clicking sophomores who showed more skill in setting up and driving and much better teamwork. Never able to take the lead from the first to the last, the seniors bowed to their underling opponents in the first game, 7-15, and walked off the court after the second game in shame as they were drubbed 3-15.

The matches will continue until each class has played the round.

GAME TONIGHT

The varsity basketball squad will meet the High Point Y team in a regularly scheduled contest on the Y court tonight at 8 o'clock. The College freshman team will play the Junior Y squad in a preliminary game.

The game with the Y was originally scheduled for February 22, but it has been moved up in an exchange of dates with the Atlantic Christian contest which was slated for tonight. The Bulldog team is handicapped by an epidemic of flu, and local authorities have agreed to play the game on the 22nd of this month.

PANTHERS WIN OVER INDIANS IN CONFERENCE TILT, 49-37

Pointers Lead During Most of Contest; Yow Uses Reserve Strength in Last Period; Band Makes Its Initial Appearance.

The High Point Purple Panthers clinched a little more tighter their lead in the North State conference race last Thursday night as they decisively trounced the Catawba Indians 49-37 on the High Point College gym floor.

A crowd of 400 people turned out to see the Panthers seize the lead after about five minutes of play, never to again be seriously threatened throughout the remainder of the game, despite the bad weather. Bauer, Catawba star, dropped in the initial goal soon after the starting whistle only to be matched by two perfect foul shots as Ray Intrieri, zealous Panther guard, evened the count. Score matched score for the first few minutes until backed by a well-clicking defensive, Culler, captain and brilliant forward and Harris, his running mate, started rolling up the points which left the visitors deluged by a 31-12 score at the end of the first half.

The Indians also took the initial tallies at the beginning of the second half as they attempted a winning comeback but again the Panther's forward wall started a barrage of shooting which, though not as impressive as in the first period, was nevertheless effective. The starting five was then replaced by practically a whole new team which saw action long enough also to increase the final score by a few points.

Culler led his team and the field on the offense by scoring 16 points while Bauer, of Salisbury, ran him a close second with 14 points. Martin and Towery, Panther stars, though having very few chances of scoring, played a stellar defensive game for the locals.

Once a team has "got ahead" and leading by a safe margin, there is always the tendency to let up in observance of training rules, and to take practice sessions less seriously. It is the time when there is a danger of "cockiness," or an overabundance of self-confidence. Too often we see the disastrous results of this new and costly attitude taken by the players on a winning team. After turning in brilliant performances to lead in the early part of a race, many clubs have reached their peak before the close of the season only to fall out at the end because they depended upon their past success to carry them to final honors.

—o—

No doubt you have guessed what all this is about: The Panthers, staging a brilliant comeback after their defeat by Appalachian, have played a superb type of ball to lead the conference at this time with nine wins in ten starts. They are now standing on top, closer to conference honors than any time since they won their third consecutive crown in '30. They have defeated every team in the conference with the exception of Guilford, a quint they have not played. Three more games remain before them in their final drive. But unless they continue to observe training rules, keep in shape, take the game seriously, they cannot expect to play the type of ball they have so far. Unless they continue to tackle the enemy with the true Panther fighting spirit, the brilliant record now behind them might count for nought in the final standings.

—o—

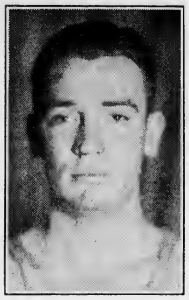

Congratulations to the director of the band and all the members! No longwhatsoever as to their er do we have any doubts school spirit, or the strength of the organization. And I think that everyone will agree that the band added plenty of pep to the home contests last week, and really went a long way in making them our "big games" of the year. Dean Lindley has a band that toot, beat, and blow just as well as any of them.

FLASHES:

We keep hearing vague rumors that some of the College boys are entering the amateur boxing contest down at the local "Y", which comes off along the first of March. . . . Among the number is a "red headed" member of the varsity basketball squad. . . . All that are intending to enter please drop by the office and let us in on the story. . . . But no promises of front page pictures of "local boy who crawls between ropes tonight for fast bout with Joe Cauliflower." In any group of boys this large you are sure to find several that are interested in the manly art. . . . Although there are two and a half more weeks of basketball, talk of baseball is starting. . . . A sure sign that spring is not so far off. . . . We can't say much about the prospects yet, except that we have a good southpaw back. . . . The schedule should be released soon. . . . But to leave your mind on the basketball problem: How many more fans would have turned out for the Elon game if the weather had been more agreeable, and what would we have done with them?

Plans Made For North State Meet

First Conference Tournament To Be Held In Harrison Gym Last of Month.

Preparation has already started for the first Annual North State Conference basketball tournament, open only to members of the conference, here in the High Point College gymnasium February 27, 28 and 29.

This tournament, similar to the one held in Charlotte last year when the locals lost in the semi-finals, is the first tournament to be sponsored by the North State conference alone and only if it proves a success, financially and otherwise, will it be continued. A success may mean that it will become an institution with High Point College as its base.

Lenoir-Rhyne and other teams will again get a crack at the top ranking Purple Panthers in this mix-up and although the North State title is not at stake, plenty of excitement should be evidenced in this tournament. Although the Elon Christians have not yet entered the meet, they are expected soon to bring the total number of entrants to eight which would include all the North State schools.

CULLER LEADS CONFERENCE IN SCORING; WOODARD IS SECOND

Harris Has Total of Ninety Points; Martin Also Places In Big Ten With Seventy-One Tallies; Intrieri Next With Sixty-Nine.

Broadus Culler, flashy Panther forward who has placed on the all-conference team for the past three years, is again leading the North State conference in scoring, according to statistics compiled at the close of play the past week.

In the ten conference tilts he has hit the hoop with a deadly accuracy to account for a total of 130 points, with an average of 13 points per game. His nearest rival, Woodard, Catamount sharpshooter, has a total of 118 points, while Bauer, Catawba forward, is third with 109 tallies.

Unless either Woodard or Bauer goes on a scoring rampage in their remaining games, Culler is certain to take down the scoring honors again this season. He has three more contests in which he can bring his total up.

Harris, Panther center, is second high scorer for the locals with 90 points, while Martin also made the Big Ten with 71 points. Intrieri, scrappy guard, failed to make the Big Ten by a scant margin, having a total of 69 points, three less than the lowest man among the leading ten.

Towery has accounted for 49 points, while the remainder have been divided among the other members of the squad, with Booth gaining 13, Brinkley, 11, Diamont 5, and Rogers 3.

Rudisill Returns For Spring Term

Southpaw to Strengthen Pitching Staff of Panther Nine.

John Rudisill, a popular member of the High Point College student body last year, enrolled again at the beginning of the second semester to give baseball fans more of hope for top diamond honors in the spring.

A main cog in the Purple Panther hurling staff, Rudisill gained much valuable experience during the past summer which will prove useful to him and the team as they begin competition this spring by playing for the strong Thomasville Chair Co. nine in a semi-pro league. He continued to work for the Thomasville company after the close of the baseball season, making it impossible for him to attend classes here the first semester.

Rudisill, a member of the ITK social fraternity and the junior class, will be much in use on the mound for this spring for the Yowmen as their pitching staff is lacking in quality and quantity. The rest of the team is more experienced and will be expected to give the hurling staff the cooperation needed to pull out a championship nine.

TOMB DEDICATED TO ARAB CAMEL DRIVER

"Hi Jolly" Honored by Arizonans for Part in Transportation Plan.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Tempe, Ariz.—Students of Arizona State College here played an important part recently in the dedication of a tomb to Philip Tedro, of Hadji Ali, Arabian camel-driver who played a minor role in the making of United States history.

Military men and desert rats corrupted Tedro's Arabian name to "Hi Jolly" when he came to Arizona in pre-Civil War days as driver of camels imported from Arabia as a transportation experiment. The experiment failed because the camel's feet were not adapted to the hard desert rocks, they were turned loose to roam at will and Hi Jolly was left as the sole remaining evidence of the unique attempt.

Hi Jolly died in 1912, and his body lay in an unmarked grave at Quartzsite, Ariz., 75 miles from Tempe, until state officials erected a tomb over it.

CORRECTION

We are glad to correct a mistake made in the article on the game with the Elon Christians at Elon on January 25. In this article it was stated that the victory was the first for the Panthers on the Elon court in seven years. It was the first win at Elon in five years. Further research revealed that the Christians scored their first win over the Panthers in a basketball game during the '31-'32 season.

Cagers Meet Quaker Team In Home Gym

Three More Contests Remain on Conference Card For Locals.

HOW THEY STAND

The standings of the conference teams to date are as follows:

Teams:	W.	L.	Pts.	Op. Pts.
High Point	9	1	422	333
Lenoir-Rhyne	6	3	334	288
W. Carolina	6	3	374	316
Elon	4	2	266	185
Catawba	4	5	334	327
Appalachian	2	6	227	390
Guilford	1	4	135	195
Atl. Christian	1	9	254	402

Like the silence before a storm, the Panthers have been idle the past week before beginning their final three game drive for the conference title when they clash with the Guilford Quakers in the Harrison gymnasium Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

The Quakers and the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs now stand as the only obstacles between the locals and the North State conference crown. Two games are with the Quakers, one on each court. In the past two years the Guilford teams have held a "jinx" over the High Point outfits, winning the two game series both times. However, the Yowmen hold high hopes of overcoming this "jinx" when the two clubs meet here Saturday night.

The game with Atlantic Christian was originally scheduled for tonight, but was postponed until a later date at the request of that team. An epidemic of influenza among the players on the A. C. C. squad was given as the reason for this change. No other date has been set for the contest at the time of this writing, but it is certain that the two teams will meet sometime before the season closes to finish out the thirteen game card for the Panthers.

Recognized as the toughest team to defeat on their home court of any in the conference, the Quakers are expected to cause the Pointers plenty of trouble when they meet there on February 20.

Statistics show that the Panthers can afford to drop only one of the three remaining contests, and come out on top. If the Elon Christians, now in fourth place, finish out their twelve game card with no more defeats, they would then have 10 games in the won column and 2 in the lost column for a percentage of .833. By winning two of the three remaining contests, the Panthers would finish with 11 won, and 2 lost, or a percentage of .846. Both clubs would lose the same number of games, but the extra game on the credit side of the locals would spell the difference. Other teams in the conference do not stand a chance unless High Point loses all the remaining games.

SEES ENDS OF PRIVATE COLLEGE ENDOWMENTS

Alleghany College Prexy Says Increasing Taxes Will Stop Gifts to Colleges

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Harrisburg, Pa. — Gather ye rosebuds while ye may, sums up the advice to the private colleges of America just offered by William Pearson Tolley, president of Alleghany College here. Endowments are due to become a rarity on the American scene, he warns.

"Regardless of the party in power," President Tolley said, "taxes will grow steadily higher, the number of great estates steadily smaller and the surplus out of which come the gifts to colleges, schools, churches and other institutions will gradually disappear.

The change will not assume alarming proportions for about a decade, he said.

HIGH SCHOOL, COLLEGE STUDENTS GIVEN HELP

Federal Youth Bureau Provides Aid For Deserving Students in Every State.

The National Youth Administration is paying 166,347 needy high school students a maximum of $6 a month each in return for part-time work supervised by school authorities, it was announced today by Aubrey W. Williams, Executive Director.

Simultaneously, Mr. Williams announced that 118,889 undergraduate and 4,781 graduate college students were being enabled to continue their education through NYA aid, making a total of 290,017 students who are receiving direct benefits from the program.

Although in a few instances, aid is given to needy high school students who are maintaining high scholastic standards without requiring them to work, nearly all of those participating are now employed at tasks useful to the schools and communities. In most cases, they are members of relief families but other students whose needs are equally great are being given assistance.

Figures were taken from reports of State Youth Directors submitted at the close of 1935.

While funds were allotted colleges and universities on the basis of $15 a month per undergraduate students, Mr. Williams pointed out that in some instances college officials have been able to divide their allotments among a larger number of students. Determining the needs of the individual students is left entirely to the institution's discretion. Graduate students are earning an average of from $25 to $30 a month.

"College and university authorities, having administered the Federal Emergency Relief Administration college aid program during 1934-35, quickly put NYA funds to work," Mr. Williams stated. "But the program was new for high school officials and was, therefore, longer in getting under way."

Typical of the attitude of college heads is that expressed in a letter from Dean Herman Schneider, of the University of Cincinnati College of Engineering and Commerce. He writes in part:

"We have a number of young men of demonstrated mental capacity for college work who would have been denied seeing the inside of a university had it not been for the Federal grant .... It is the best life and hope insurance that I know of.....I think one of the most menacing things in this depression is the large number of youngsters who have been unable to get positions, who have become utterly discouraged, and who are developing an unfortunate 'what is the use?' philosophy."

Among the jobs being done by high school students are patrolling traffic near schools before and after classes; repairing worn textbooks, athletic and playground equipment; and assisting in lunchrooms and libraries. College and graduate students are assisting professors in research work in such fields as chemistry, sociology and agricultural biology; working in museums, and college offices and libraries; assisting in laboratories; working off the campus in welfare and municipal offices; and instructing in Civilian Conservation Corps camps.

ALUMNI NEWS

During this semester we will try to give up-to-date news of the graduates and others who have attended the College. If any reader knows any news of alumni not mentioned with the class or more recent information of any, the College and THE HI-PO reporter would appreciate the reader's sending that information. The College wishes to keep up with her former students.

In a recent issue of THE HI-PO there appeared the news of the class of '35. However, some changes have occurred, and we will give only the information regarding the changes.

In addition to her other work in High Point, Emma Carr Bivins taught principles of designing at the College during the second quarter of the past semester.

Oscar Easter was sent to be pastor of the churches on the Creswell charge in Washington county at the last meeting of the M. P. conference.

James Hight is working in a bank in Henderson.

Edythe Hughes got her cap indicating that she has completed her dietetics training at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Philadelphia.

Jasper Jones is studying at the Westminster Theological Seminary in Westminster, Md.

Mary Ward Johnson is doing graduate work in home economics at the University of Maryland.

Ray Russell is a bookkeeper in High Point.

Lucy clyde Ross is secretary to the head of the Rotary work in the state, in Asheboro.

Helen Raper is teaching commercial subjects in High Point.

Joe Stone is working for the Duke Power Company in King.

John Warlick is at his home in Shelby.

Larry Yount married Margaret Chandler of High Point on November 10. He is in the construction business with his father and is living in Pittsboro.

draft a document in 1789 to fit the needs of Americans in 1936. Yet a cry for constitutional change has always been met with charges of 'communism' and 'un-Americanism'. So we can see an attempt to abolish child labor by constitutional change failing not because Americans feel child labor should be allowed to remain in our economic system, but principally because it suggests constitutional change."

Meanwhile, Duquesne University students, in response to a questionnaire, voted 56 per cent in favor of curbing the power of the Supreme Court. It is increasingly evident, said The Duquesne Duke in commenting editorially on this vote, that the interest of college students is steadily swinging from the frivolous to matters of national concern.

"In Mr. Justice Roberts' opinion, in which five other justices concurred," says the Union College Concordiensis "the Supreme Court has one duty when the constitutionality of a law is questioned: 'to lay the article of the Constitution which is invoked beside the statue which challenged and to decide whether the latter squares with the former'. Yet this very duty is not granted to the court by the Constitution. It is a procedent, and 'unwritten law', begun by one man and continued with the help of luck and circumstance until it has acquired an axiomatic prestige.

"We have the logically strange picture of an austere, impartial court, examining laws in the light of an abstract Justice, which does not authorize such examination. The obvious question is: where does the power lie? In the Constitution, as the court proclaims; or in the persons of the court who define the Constitution in practice? . . . The fundamental concepts of democracy . . . are really only petrified prejudices, opinions of men as fallible as ourselves."

cation from the University of Michigan.

As head of the department of Business Administration, Mr. Spessard instituted the first two-year course in business to be taught in the state. The course was patterned after courses of this type offered in the best northern schools, and it has proved unusually popular here. It differs from the regular one-year commercial course in that it provides a more comprehensive study of the executive side of business, is not confined to secretarial work, and offers a greater variety in the course of study.

As Dean of Men, Mr. Spessard was primarily interested in education, and he devobted much of his time to comparative studies, and tests and measurements. He has always shown a keen interest in the College in all of his positions, and he has constantly applied study and research in order to increase his constructive contributions to the institution.

SEX HYGIENE COURSE ASKED BY COLLEGIANS

Student Council at Butler University Requests Scientific Instruction.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Indianapolis, Ind. — Establishment of a course in sex hygiene has been asked of Butler University officials by the school's student council. Frank Demmerly, council president, said the organization is recommending a recognized authority be obtained to teach the class and that men and women be grouped for free discussion.

"If college students are given proper instruction in sex matters by recognized authorities," Demmerly said, "we feel that such information may make as great a contribution to a happy and healthful life as any other offering now found in the curriculum."

The National Student Federation of America at its national convention at Kansas City during the Christmas holidays recommended that all colleges consider seriously the need for sex education.

(Review Current at Berlin University Suggests Solution of Instruction.

By Associated Collegiate Press

Indianapolis, Ind. Establishment of a course in sex instruction has been asked of Butler University by the student council, it was announced tonight. Frank Bandowski, council president, said the request stems in consequence of recent student activities in connection with the Kinsey sex study and data now contained by prompt for the director.

"If college students are given proper instruction in sex matters by recognized authorities, there will be less chance for them to get information they make or create themselves," Bandowski said.

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this—

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine and picked and by hand from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer at the right time and in the right way no "quick-fog" or brimstone, but slow and leisurely kind of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market by skilled tobacco buyers who prized it in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfield their milder, better taste.

PANTHER PACK TAKES CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP

Sykes Urges Students To Bring Peace

Friends Pastor Tells Students Real Patriotism Is "Fighting For Peace."

MRS. WHITE IN CHARGE

Speaker Contrasts Life Governed by Love With Life Governed by Hate.

"Tom" Sykes, of the Friends Church of the city, was speaker on Friday morning at the regular chapel period. Mr. Sykes, who came at the request of Mrs. H. A. White, spoke on the "Fight For Peace."

For many years, Mr. Sykes has been a "fighter" for peace, and he stated that it is a real struggle. As years go by, he said, world peace seems more diffieult to attain. While women are appealing to the world for money to feed undernourished children, while Lady Astor and others are pleading for aid in their efforts toward a more peaceful world, said the speaker, high government officials in many countries are asking for billions of dollars to be spent in preparation for the war they fear. He commented on the fact that we are loyal to all but Jesus, and believed that when loyalty to Christ is restored the world will be nearer to peace.

"Patriotism," said Mr. Sykes," is not going to war. America does not need the kind of patriots who will die for her—but she needs those who are not afraid to live for her, to work and build for the future." He gave two contrasting lists, of 13 words each, one list including words expressing hate and jealousy, the other words of loyalty and love. Either list, he said, may govern our lives, and if loyalty and love are given the helm, the world will change overnight in one in which there is real practicability in world peace.

Sketching briefly in a few words a picture of the "United States of the World" under a government of freedom, equality, and fraternity, Mr. Sykes asked, "Which set of words will dominate American lives?"

Mrs. White conducted the chapel services and introduced the speaker. Appropriate songs and readings were a part of the services, the students singing, "God of the Nations, Near and Far," and reading the contract for world peace.

Councilmen Lead Monday Meetings

Miss Hedgecock in Charge of First of Series by Student Council Members.

The first of the student government meetings in charge of council members was held Monday morning with Lois Hedgecock, senior representative, in charge.

Following the routine announcements and the customary devotionals, Miss Hedgecock gave a brief review of Carl Sandburg's biography of Abraham Lincoln. Before going into a review of the book she sketched the life of Sandburg himself and told of his intimacy with the neighborhood in which Lincoln lived. She told of Lincoln's struggle to the presidency, his losing battle against personal enemies, and related Sandburg's estimate of the life-work of the Civil War president.

The Monday morning programs for the next few weeks will be in charge of various members of the student council. The student in charge has complete freedom as to the type of program to be given, and he may terminate the program with only regular announcements if he so desires.

Many From College Attend Program Given At Wesley Memorial Church

Westminster Chorus Presents Varied Program in City Before Large Audience of Music Lovers; John Finley Williamson Directs.

Many from the College were included in the capacity audience which heard the varied program presented last evening at the Wesley Memorial Church by the Westminster Chorus.

The Chorus, which is conducted by John Finley Williamson, is well-known throughout the United States and has toured Europe. It enjoys the distinction of being the first coral group invited to sing before Russia's Soviet government.

The program offered with Johann Sebastian Bach's "Sing Ye to the Lord," which is one of the three most popular Bach choral works. The second number was Roy Harris' "Song for Occupations," an eight-part chorus which is a musical rendition of Walt Whitman's poem of the same name, and which is dedicated to the workers of the world. So well received was this composition that the chorus took two encores, singing "Old Black Joe" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul," with the audience acting as the "organ" for the latter.

Noble Cain's "Wake Up, Sweet Melody" and Burleigh's negro song "Water Boy" were the next numbers. The male chorus sang Geoffrey O'Hara's cowboy song "Whoopee-Ti-Yi-Yo." Outstanding among this group was "The Shower," composed especially for the Chorus during its recent European tour. The negro spiritual "Steal Away" supplied another encore.

Jerome Kern's "Old Man River" was the next number, and one which was described as especially well received on the Continent. "The Echo," by Orlando di Lasso, was unusual in that the echo was supplied by a quartet stationed in one of the small rooms off the main auditorium. Carl August Fischer's "Slumber Song" was enthusiastically applauded, and finally repeated by the Chorus. A Pawnee Indian melody, the "Victory Song," was the next number, and was followed by the German hymn "Praise to the Lord." The program closed with the Chorus' traditional final number, a benediction in honor of all former members.

The vestments of the Chorus were distinctive, the men wearing maroon velvet with fringed sashes, the women red velvet and cream satin.

NEGRO DISCUSSED IN VARIOUS ASPECTS AT NIKANTHAN CONCLAVE

Religion, Music, Poetry Have Place in Society's Study of American Negro.

The negro in a few of his various aspects was discussed at the regular meeting of the Nikanthan Literary Society Thursday evening. This was the first of a series of meetings on the same subject.

Mildred Grant introduced to the society a new figure on the religious horizon, George Baker. He is a little Long Island negro who operates a chain of "Heavens" all over the United States, with his headquarters in Harlem. Some thousands of converts, both white and black, profess to believe that "Father Devine," as he calls himself, is God. He supplies, in return for their devotion and a nominal sum, fried chicken, gravy, and beds for the weary.

Kathleen Hepinstall read "Shoat," Stark Young's homely story of a young negro rising from the humble beginnings of a log cabin by the river to singing in opera. It was a careful study of how the "basic savagery" was also the beginning of beauty.

Ruth Hendrix and Lois Pressley supplied special music in tune with the program, leaning toward negro spirituals. Their music was followed by a discussion of "The Negro as a Poet" by Dorothy Bell. She introduced her remarks with a few facts about the negro spirituals, stressing the fact that even in sorrow and oppression the negro's soul found an outlet in music. Illustrating various aspects of the new negro poetry, she read selections from Paul Lawrence Dunbar, Claude Mackay, Langston Hughes, James Weldon Johnson, and James Edward McCall.

During the business session with which the meeting opened, the society discussed the inter-society debate which occurs early in April. In the absence of the president, Lois Hedgecock, Inza Hill was in the chair.

DUKE MUSIC CLUBS TO GIVE PROGRAM IN CITY

Two outstanding musical programs to be given in the city tonight are expected to attract a large number of College students. Miss Virginia Frank's violin students will present their annual mid-winter recital in Roberts Hall auditorium at eight o'clock, and the Duke Musical clubs will present a combined concert in the junior high school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

AFFIRMATIVE WINS IN UTILITIES DEBATE AT AKROTHINIAN MEETING

Weisner and Crowell Successful in Argument; Rogers, Owen Oppose.

Public utilities should be owned and operated by the government, Weisner and Crowell successfully argued at the last meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society. Wilson Rogers and Paul Owen defended the negative side in the debate, which was the main feature of the program.

The affirmative debaters pointed out the inadequacy of private ownership in providing utilities service for rural communities. They also argued that water power is a natural utility that should be operated by the government to benefit the greatest number of people, and they told of the corruption that has been uncovered in connection with "utility trust" investigations. The affirmative used the postal system as an example of the efficiency and service that is possible with a government-controlled monopoly.

The negative team argued that corruption would follow in the wake of government ownership, and argued that the industry would make greater progress under private control. They deplored the trend toward socialism and communism as manifested by government encroachment into business fields. They also maintained that the ultimate cost of government-controlled utilities would be as great to the taxpayers as if the industry were left in private hands.

Max Rogers concluded the program with several humorous readings from Benet's "Book of Americans." He also gave a collection of light limericks which were well received by the Society members.

The Akrothinians voted to accept the Thaleans' challenge to an inter-society basketball game, and the contest is now pending decision on a time acceptable to both organizations.

INVENTS INSTRUMENT TO DECIPHER PAPERS

Pomona, Calif. — The "sluroscope," new to modern science and literary research, has been used by Prof. Mendal G. Frampton, of the Pomona College English department, in deciphering ancient manuscripts.

An ingenious ultra-violet ray machine, the "sluroscope" enabled Prof. Frampton in reading passages obliterated by time, usage and weathering.

The device is thought to be the only one of its kind in existence.

Debate Tomorrow

The debate with Campbell College, scheduled for last Saturday, will be held on the campus tomorrow, it has been announced by Cullen B. Owens, forensic coach. Postponement was asked by the Campbell squad when several of their debaters fell victims to an epidemic of influenza. To avoid conflict with the Guilford game tomorrow night, the debate will be held in the afternoon if at all possible, Mr. Owens said. Debaters for High Point will be Wood and either Garlington or Pittard, affirmative, and Morgan and Ferree, negative.

Frosh To Sport At Quadrennial Frolic Tonight

Leap Year Party on Slate For Yearlings in Dining Hall; Redman in Charge.

The freshman class will hold a Leap Year party tonight in the College dining hall, it has been announced by Max Rogers, president of the yearlings.

Pattie Redman, chairman of the social committee, will be in charge of this party, which is confined to members of the class and a few outside invited guests. The men and women in the class have been matched by drawing names, and, in keeping with the theme of the party, the co-eds will call at the club room of McCulloch Hall for their chosen ones. The surplus women in the class were allowed to invite outsiders after the first year men had been exhausted.

This party is entirely a social affair, the first of the year to be given by the class of '39. According to student government regulations, the freshmen are not allowed to sponsor any program to which admission is charged because the thirty-niners are not bound to the inter-class project for the completion of the gymnasium.

Faculty chaperones who have been named for the Leap Year party tonight are Miss Sloan, Mrs. Whitaker, Mr. Rulfs, and Mr. Ford. Miss Louise Adams, sponsor of the class, will be present as a chaperone ex-officio.

JUNIORS HAVE CHARGE ENDEAVOR PROGRAM

Troxler and Owen in Charge of Weekly Meeting; Obedience Theme of Program.

The juniors had charge of the Christian Endeavor program last Sunday night, with Vesta Troxler and Paul Owen joint leaders. They built the program around the topic of obedience and governmental authority. Mimeographed sheets, giving the full program in detail, added much to the worshipful atmosphere of the meeting. Responsive reading was another feature which made the program different. Outstanding among the things on the program were talks by Paul Owen, Alson Thompson, Faye Holt, Elizabeth Pirtle, and Vesta Troxler. G. I. Humphreys, Jr., read the scripture. A quartet consisting of Hyacinth Hunter, Faye Holt, Sheldon Dawson, and Wilson Rogers sang the hymn, "In the Garden," as a special selection.

The contest reports showed the Willing Workers have 780 points, while the Helping Hands have 640 points. Enthusiasm seems to be in the air as a result of the contest.

Lindley Presides At State Sunday School Convention Held This Week

Dean Heads Association Which Is Holding Three Day Session at Centenary Church in Winston-Salem; Meeting Closes With Banquet Tonight.

The North Carolina State Sunday School Convention which has been in session at Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church in Winston-Salem for the past two days will close tonight with a banquet at 6:00 o'clock and an unusual musical program at the evening service.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of the College, is president of the association.

Dr. Tom Sykes, of High Point, and Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl, of Winston-Salem, were among the speakers on Monday. Dr. S. D. Gordon, Dr. Luther Little, Bishop William F. McDowell, and many others were heard on Tuesday.

Tuesday night Professor H. Augustine Smith, head of the College of Music at Boston University, presented his great pageant, "The World at Prayer and the Gateway to Goodwill." In it the Mohammedans, Hindoos, and the Western Indians were portrayed yearning for God. Hebrew hosannas and Eastern hallelujahs were sung. The cast included about 100 people. The costumes were in order for the production, and the lighting was very effective.

Among the speakers heard were Dr. Lawrence Little, head of the Religious Education department at Western Maryland College, Bishop Tom C. Darst, and Dr. M. L. Stirewalt.

Professor Smith had with him his collection of rare and famous religious paintings. He conducted the delegates through the gallery and explained the pictures and made suggestions for their own private or church collections.

The theme of the convention has been "Forward Through Cooperation."

PARLIAMENTARY RULE COMES IN FOR STUDY ON THALEAN PROGRAM

Customs of Order Discussed at Length by Members of Men's Society.

The program at the Thalean meeting last Thursday night was built around the general topic of "Parliamentary Procedure."

Since the president of the Society was on the program, the vice president, Pittard, presided while the program was in progress.

"Why Have Parliamentary Law?" was discussed and answered by Allen Austin. Stressing the importance of having some kind of code by which organizations may be regulated, Austin said that the nature of the law is not so important as that we have regulations of some sort.

Moser discussed parliamentary order as it is applied to the Thalean organization. He gave a survey of the duties of each officer, and challenged the Society to show more formality and dignity in its procedure.

In speaking on "Laws and Customs Which Every Debater Should Know," Wood declared that it is possible for anyone to learn laws but that only experience on the debate platform will familarize a debater with customs.

Ferree brought to the Society a timely discussion of the controversial topic, "Should We Have a Society Day Union?" In the business meeting following the program, the Society held a heated discussion of this question, but no action was taken.

Thompson introduced a lighter tone into the meeting with his interpretation of "Bits of Humor."

SYRACUSE MAN RUNS MUNICIPAL MORGUE

Syracuse, N. Y. — When Paul Schroeder's phone rings in the early morning hours, it isn't a prankish friend calling to ask if he's sleeping well, or news that someone's finally died and left him a million. Nine times out of ten it's the police, or state troopers, or the emergency ward of a hospital, with a request that Schroeder drop around with the hearse and pick up a little business.

Schroeder, a liberal arts student at Syracuse University, is official custodian of the city morgue from 6 p. m. to 4 a. m. of every day. The work doesn't bother him, he says—he took the job a year ago—and he thinks it may prove to have been a useful experience.

FORMAL DINNER HELD IN WOMAN'S HALL BY MODERN PRISCILLAS

Home Economics Majors Entertain At Annual Banquet; Valentine Theme.

The Modern Priscilla club entertained Friday night at dinner in Woman's Hall. The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations and menu.

The dining room walls were covered by a white crepe paper trellis on which little red hearts had been placed. In the center of the wall opposite the door was a large double heart made of small red hearts. Strips of red and white were woven together overhead. The large table in the center of the room was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with flowers and silver candlesticks. The seven small tables were covered with large strips of red and white paper and centered with candles to which two large hearts were tied with white bows. Name cards indicated each person's place. The room was lighted by candles.

A tomato juice cocktail furnished the appetizer. The main course consisted of creamed chicken in patty shells, string beans, sweet potatoes candied with oranges, celery and olives, hot buttered rolls, and coffee. The salad course, a congealed fruit salad, was followed by vanilla ice cream, topped with red cherries and nuts, and red cookie hearts.

Dorothy McCollum, president of the club, welcomed the guests at the beginning of the meal.

GOVERNOR'S CHARGES ACCEPTED AS SATIRE

Chicago.—Gov. Martin L. Davey's football joke has been officially recognized as such by the Western Conference, and is no longer regarded as a serious charge against Ohio State gridsters.

Following a thorough investigation, Conference officials announced they were satisfied that the Ohio governor was merely joking when he said, last October, that 15 Ohio State football players were on the state payroll and insinuated that athletic prowess won them their jobs.

The players obtained the jobs on their own initiative and through the help of personal friends, the report stated, were paid at the same rate as non-athletes, and did not hold more jobs in proportion.

NO TEAM NOW HAS CHANCE TO STOP LOCALS

Purple and White Comes Back After Loss in First Game to Win 10 Straight.

Although the Panthers still have two contests remaining on their 13 game conference card, statistics reveal that Coach Yow's Purple and White clad warriors have already clinched their first North State title since 1930.

With ten conference victories to their credit and only one defeat marked up against them, the Panthers can afford to drop their two remaining tilts with Guilford and Atlantic Christian and still end the season with a better percentage than any other club in the first division.

The Guilford Quakers spoiled the championship chances of the Lenoir Rhyne Bears last night when they defeated them on their home court. The Bears had a mathematical chance of winning the crown before the Quakers handed them their fourth defeat of the year. They had 14 loop contests on their card, and prior to last night had suffered only three defeats. If they had finished out the season with only three defeats, and the Panthers had dropped their two final tilts the Bears would have won by a narrow margin.

Due to the fact each team will have twelve games on their card, the Elon Christians have no chance of overtaking the fast stepping Panthers. They have already lost three contests, and provided they won the remainder of their contests and the Panthers lost their two finals, the locals would win by a scant margin.

After losing their initial conference tilt to the Appalachian Mountaineers, the Yowmen staged a brilliant comeback to win ten consecutive victories, bowling over every opponent in the loop. They are favored to take the remaining tilts, but these results will have no bearing on the championship.

Plans Under Way For Celebration

Eighth Annual Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day to Be Held Next Month.

Plans have been started for the eighth annual Society Day celebration of the Akrothinians and Artemesians to be held on the campus Saturday, March 7. Because of the nearness of the date of the celebration, it is not expected that the discussed plan to unite this Society Day with that of the Thaleans and Nikanthans will be carried out this year.

President George Ingle of the Akrothinians, and Mary Parham, Artemesian leader, have appointed committees to make plans for both the morning program and the banquet. Negotiations have been started to secure an alumnus as speaker for the celebration, and the person selected will probably be announced in the near future. Plans have also been started for the banquet, which will be held in the College dining hall. Several themes are now under consideration.

The Akrothinian - Artemesian Society Day is traditionally held on the first Saturday of each March to celebrate the founding of the organizations at High Point College. A second Society Day for the other brother-sister literary organizations, the Thaleans and Nikanthans, is held on the first Saturday of each May. It has been suggested that the two celebrations be held on the same day, and the plan has been discussed by all of the societies, but no action has yet been taken.

SUPPORT THE TOURNAMENT

A signal tribute to High Point's enthusiasm for basketball is the decision of the North State Conference to hold its first annual cage tournament at the College starting next week. Since the Panthers have been victorious in their drive for the conference championship in the regular season's play, it is a fortunate coincidence that High Point, with its added drawing power, has been selected to act as host to this event. The tournament provides the basketball fans at the College and in the city not only an opportunity to make the event a success, but perhaps to entrench it as a permanent feature for High Point.

Although annual tournaments following the close of the regular season have been features of other conferences for many years, the North State circuit is undertaking such a project for the first time this year, and the result will be eagerly watched by basketball fans throughout the state. High Point's support of the tournament will in a large measure determine whether or not the event will be continued. Promise has even been made that in the event adequate support is given here, the location of the tournament will be fixed in High Point permanently, adding greatly to the athletic prestige and opportunities of the College.

The College has the facilities and the city has the population to make this tournament a success. All that is needed is enthusiastic boosting by every student at the College. As a tribute to our team and our coach, let's do everything possible to put this tournament over in a big way.

ON THE BEAUTY OF BOOKS

Who of us has not, at one time or other, longed to escape the inconsequential proceedings of the day and live instead with more richness and significance? Surely there are few. And few too are there who have never found themselves attacked by a lethargic ennui, supplemented by a gnawing desire to know and live among the great writers who have scratched their way beneath the surface of life's mysterious shroud. But the deplorable sequence of such social aspiration is all too often a drifting back to the drab interior of one's original shell, accompanied by a despair of ever exalting existence by having such for friends.

What most people fail to see is that an intimate acquaintance with these people can be gained, simply by reading their enthralling and inspirational literary works. By so doing we can fathom many of the motivating forces of their lives and their general stream of thought. (As a matter of fact a careful study of a man's book will often reveal his inner nature more readily than will actual social contact with him.) The veriest quintessence of their passions and emotions is laid bare before our eyes as are the imprinted pages of their books. They have done more real living than most of us, and have set down in book form the results of a comprehensive analysis of life and present therein to the gentle reader a logical, beautiful, satisfying philosophy.

The value of the reading habit though is not confined to its cosmopolitan enlightment or its delicate presentation of spiritualism; it is also one of the most entertaining practices acquirable. A good book and an apple will usher some as near bliss as is possible while dwelling upon this orb.

If you do not have the reading habit, just remember that if it is conscientiously cultivated at the outset, the latter stages will take care of themselves. Do this and an enjoyment never dreamed of will be yours.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '34:

It has been only two short years since you graduated from the College, but even in such a short time many changes can take place in the lives of the members of your class. We've been wondering if you were "up" on all these happenings.

Of course, we suppose you know that Alma Andrews is teaching history out at Jamestown; Helen Betts and Jewel Welch teaching at Cloverdale school; Edith Guthrie, at Eli Whitney in Alamance county; Frances Taylor and Mary Reid Idol, at the Junior High here; and Jane Lingo, at her home in Milton, Delaware. They were at the same places last year. Joe Coble and Forrest Wagoner are still at the Seminary in Westminster, Maryland; and Harris Jarrell is still at Harvard in the law school.

Howard Smith is with the Du-Pont chemical company in Richmond for the second year; Curtis Humphreys is a chemist with the Brooklyn refractory in Baltimore, Maryland.

Ivan Crissman is with the Soil Erosion work in High Point; John Austin, in Durham; and Ben James, in Greensboro. Ben is married, too.

John Taylor is with the CCC near Lexington.

Others of the class who are teaching are: Ola Stafford, at Monticello; Ora Mae Welborn, in Guilford county; Ruth Kearns, at Farmer; Sallie Mae Bivins, near Graham; Winifred Beck, at Alan Jay in High Point; and Grace Williams, in Davidson county.

Sarah Holmes is the dietician at Emma Blair school in High Point, and Mrs. C. Dewitt Jackson (nee Meta Heath, who was married last June) is dietitian at the Junior high school.

Virginia Fritz married Reid Leonard last June and is living in Lexington. Mrs. Carl W. Spence (nee Virl Andrews) of Gary, Indiana, is the mother of a daughter who arrived in September.

Laura Braswell is now in Kanapolis or was the last we heard.

Robert "Pinky" Williams tried teaching for a year but is now selling life insurance.

Herman Yokeley is preaching at Connelly Springs.

We didn't know last week just what Frank Sudda, '35, was doing, but we found out since that he is manager of the Canary Castle in Greensboro.

That's about all we know about the class of '34, and you may know some news we haven't heard. If you do, we would like for you to tell us so that we can keep up-to-date.

MEND THY SPEECH
LEST IT MAR THY FORTUNE

Increasing stress is being put upon the necessity of correct English. The department of English at Harvard has recently warned us against "linguistic laziness, indolence, indifference, and improper training, combining to devastate one of our richest heritages —the legacy of our speech." We maul and distort the commonest constructions have no discrimination of tense and mood, are ignorant of the proper use of prepositions and our pronunciation is stumbling. Our vocabularies are so limited that we over-burden and actually wear out words which could really be used occasionally quite expressively.

"Poor speech inheritances cling like leeches" — What has your background been? Are you safe?

When you say, "He gave it to you and I," or "it don't," which we heard last week, you are telling your listeners that the folks at home never had much education and your years in school didn't teach you a great deal. To stop yourself from saying "to you and I," start putting the preposition before both pronouns; most people know better than to say "to I." One seldom says "it do not," but how often we hear "it don't."

"Almost any English-speaking person can get a job in China teaching English." — William E. Daugherty, Ohio State graduate, returns from Tung Chow.

"Brooklyn is the graveyard of the ministry." The Rev. Cornelius Greenway, pastor of All Souls Universalist Church, Brooklyn, sends a tip to theological students.

"Student radicals are manufactured by the hysterical regulations of the institutions in which they are enrolled." President Robert Maynard Hutchins of Chicago releases the cold dope.

One thing about being editor of a paper in a very old college—you can always fill up space with stories out of the past if you have to.

The editors of the Princetonian have been poring over a few old ledgers these days and coming up with some very interesting sidelights about their college in olden days.

They tell how hockey first put in an appearance at the college in 1787. The faculty was immediately alarmed over the sport. A statement was issued, saying "It appearing that a play . . . . much practiced by smaller boys . . . . with balls and sticks . . . . is in itself low and unbecoming gentlemen students." Furthermore, said the faculty, "the sudden and alternate heats and colds" attending this sport were very dangerous.

Sports were not professionalized, not at all. They played "prison Base" in those days and in 1786 Richard Mosby became the college jump champion, "going 11 feet at a hop for 36 hops altogether."

Petite Mary Sanford, just graduated from the University of Minnesota, has the University administration overwrought with excitement.

Scanning her nice, crinkly new diploma Miss Sanford noticed something ghastly in such a document:

Immediately she wrote a letter to the president of the college, saying, "The document reads, 'Know all men by these presents that the Board of Regents by virtue of the authority vested in them by the state of Minnesota have conferred upon . . . . .' The pronoun 'them' and the auxiliary verb 'have', both plural, refer to the subject, 'Board' which is a collective noun and is considered singular. The correct form are 'it' and 'has.'"

At the next Regents meeting, Miss Sanford's plaint will be the first item of new business, the President has assured her.

Dr. Leroy Hartman of the school of oral surgery, Columbia University, recently was credited all over the country with developing a new chemical formula for killing pain in teeth that are being drilled.

But now a reaction is setting in, and the public is finding that maybe it isn't all the newspapers said it was. Said Dr. Paul Kitchin of Ohio State University:

"The publicity given the new desensitizer is unfortunate in that anything which gives hope or promises as much relief as this does should have been put in the hands of the profession for a try-out before it was put into the minds of the public."

Instead of being a lazy individual who sticks to the campus because "it's a nice, easy life" the average university professor is one of the nation's busiest professional men, says Northwestern University, where a little study has been made. They found that the average teacher spent 9 hours a day in work connected with his classes and research, delivered 4.8 lectures during the year, traveled 1,213 miles, wrote two articles for publication, published a fifth of a book, taught evening classes, gave radio speeches and served as official for some learned society.

And at the University of Wisconsin (where they discovered the annual crop of lipstick on the campus would paint a barn) student reporters discovered that the ordinary bottle of ink will enable one to write 191,600 words—if you don't spill any.

New York. — Women doctors have not only accomplished some of the best research work in America, but they are doing well in both institutional work and general practice, Dr. W. T. Sanger, president of the Medical College of Virginia, said recently in response to a virulent attack on women doctors by Dr. Oliver Wendell, California specialist, published in a nationally circulated magazine.

Dr. Sanger emphatically denied the California man's assertion that few women ever succeed in becoming good doctors.

An expert in Neuro-psychiatry hsa been added to the Williams College health department.

Eight North State Quints To Compete In Tournament

All Teams In Conference Have Entered Meet; Coach Yow Heads Committee.

The Elon College Christians entered the first Annual North State Conference basketball tournament, scheduled to be held in the Harrison gymnasium February 27, 28, and 29, on Monday afternoon to bring the total number of entrants to eight including every team in the circuit.

With all the teams of the conference competing for top honors in the meet, larger gate receipts are predicted for every day of play. This is the first event known as the North State Tournament, but is something similar, or rather a successor of the Tri-State Tournament staged in Charlotte last year under the sponsorship of Charlotte newspapers. Six conference teams entered in this meet, but schools from South Carolina and Virginia entered as well. Elon won out in that event, after taking their third straight North State title.

The commitee representative of the conference, composed of Dr. David E. Faust, of Catawba; Dr. F. C. Shepperd, of Guilford; and Coach C. Virgil Yow, High Point, met in High Point Saturday afternoon and finished plans for the event. An agreement was reached on the number of players for each team to bring, expenses, the handling of the receipts, and other matters.

Coach Yow, chairman of the committee, states that with eight teams entering, the meet should prove to be a big success, financially and otherwise. Chosen as the site for the first of the tourneys last spring, High Point may become the permanent abode of this annual feature if this one is a success.

Although awards will be made to the winners of the tourney, the outcome will not officially determine the conference championship. The team finishing the regular conference season with the highest percentage will bear the title of the North State champions as in the past years.

The seedings and the pairings will be announced after the close of the conference race. In all probability, the teams will rank according to their final standings in the circuit.

The first round on Thursday afternoon and night with the entire eight teams in action, the semi-finals will be staged on Friday night, and the finals Saturday night.

PACK DEFEATS TEACHERS IN SLOW CONTEST

Final Score 40 to 32; Holleman Leads Scoring With Sixteen.

The High Point College Panthers stepped out of the North State conference race last night to score an unimpressive win over the Eastern Carolina Teachers, 40 to 32, in a slow and uninteresting game on the Harrison gym floor.

Although the locals took over the lead in the early part of the game, they were not able to build up any great margin of lead in the contest. The brilliant Panther offense, which has brought defeat to every team in the conference this season, failed to click with any accuracy. They were able to handle the ball a large part of the time, but failed to make good their numerous chances at the basket.

After the varsity had piled up a 22-14 margin at half time, Coach Yow sent the second string into the affray. The Pirates rallied and came within two points of the Panthers' lead when the varsity returned. However, the rally had already gathered momentum, and a basket by Holleman, Pirate center, tied the count 24-24, before the regulars could get into action. Tallies by Harris, Culler, and Intrieri gave the Panthers a lead in the next few minutes that they were able to maintain until the final whistle.

Once or twice the Panthers flashed forth with their deadly passing attack, but during most of the time the teams played erratically.

Holleman, lanky Pirate center, took advantage of his height to lead the scoring with 16 points. The scoring for the locals was rather evenly divided between Intrieri, Culler, Martin, and Harris. Intrieri lead the attack with 10 points.

PRELIMINARY TILTS

The College reserves, strengthened by recruits Diffendale and Durland last night defeated the Globe Parlor five by the count of 19 to 10 in the preliminary tilt.

The locals grabbed the lead early and continued to remain ahead throughout the contest. Grigg and Diffendale were outstanding in the offensive drive for the Collegians, while McDowell starred for the losers.

The freshmen also tasted victory by winning over the C. C. C. five from Lexington, by the score of 23 to 16 in the first preliminary.

Cagers Drop Game To Local Y Club

Farlow's Foul Toss Wins Game for Triangles.

The top-ranking Purple Panther basketball five, showing a lack of practice after completely vanquishing a strong Elon quintet four days before, gave way to the wily High Point Y team in a fast and furious practice tilt on the Y court last Wednesday night, losing only by one point, 40-39.

Coach Yow sensing the need of a good work-out for the entire team in preparation for the Guilford battle, gave ten men action in the fray and as a result this irregular lineup was unable to battle up, with much degree of satisfaction, the fast stepping Woody Thomas who led the field on the offense by dropping in 17 points, bagging a goal seemingly from any position. Brodus Culler, captain and dyamic Panther forward, constantly matched Thomas' goals but was unable to get more than 14 points as Harris, his running mate, accounted for 12 other points.

Leading 18-15 at the end of the first half, the High Point College boys were unable to keep the lead during the second period, having a hard fight to keep the score tied up, finally losing out as Ted Farlow, Y. M. C. A. star, dropped in a lone foul shot which the Yowmen were unable to match. A total of 26 fouls were called during the game.

Assured of their first conference crown since 1930, the Purple Panthers finish their loop schedule this week with contests against the Guilford Quakers and the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs.

Tomorrow night the Pointers move over to Guilford to battle the Quakers on their home court. Although the locals swamped Coach Anderson's charges by the score of 60 to 25 last Saturday night, the battle will no doubt be closer tomorrow night. Recognized as a dangerous foe on their own floor, the Quakers have lived up to their reputation this year.

Even with this handicap of an unfamiliar court placed on them, the Yowmen are favored to take the struggle to extend their circuit winning streak to 11 consecutives. Breaking the "jinx" by defeating them on the local floor last week, the Pointers stand ready to duplicate the feat. Both squads are reported to be in good shape for the contest.

A large crowd of local fans is expected to make the journey to Guilford to see the rivals in action. In the past years the Purple and white rooters have done their part in filling the Guilford gymnasium to overflowing at the High Point-Guilford contests.

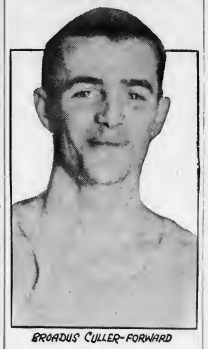

The clash with the A. C. C. Bulldogs on the local floor Saturday night will wind up the 13 game card for the Yowmen. Winner over the Rosemen by a 33-22 count in their opening clash the Panthers should experience little trouble with the cellar club of the circuit.

Before going into the tournament the locals will play the strong Randolph Macon club here on Tuesday night.

Beginning next year, M. I. T. will limit its freshman class to 600.

Graduate courses in automobile traffic control will be offered by Harvard next year.

Sophomores Win Volleyball Meet

Second Year Men Blaze Way Through Tourney Without

Blasting all opponents before them, the well-clicking sophomore volley-ball squad annexed the intra-mural volley-ball championship Monday by beating the hopeful freshman outfit, for the second time, in the final play-off, winning three straight games.

Winning over the seniors, juniors and the freshman in one, two, three order, the sophomores, led by J. E. Garlington earned the right to take on the next contestant in line with the next best percentage, the freshmen, who had won two and lost one. Meeting Monday afternoon in the final round, these two teams were more evenly matched than ever before and for the first few minutes of each of the three games of the series the freshmen threw a scare into the sophomores as they grabbed the initial points and the lead; and only after several cries of "Be staunch," instigated by the hard playing but erratic Robert Rankin, did the title snatchers manage to pull out three games by narrow margins. Both teams showed improved skill in setting-up and serving, especially during the first two games. Both teams showed signs of tiring during the final game which ended 11-15. The first game ending 8-15, the freshmen were unable to garner more than one extra point in the second and finally gave way with the score standing 9-15.

The winning team was made up of J. E. Garlington, James Mattocks, Robert Rankin, David Cooper, Allen Parker and Arnold Bolin.

SPORTSCRIPTS

By Alton Hartman

Coming as a climax to a season of many tournaments for High Point, in our opinion, is the first Annual North State tournament to be held in the Harrison gym. The Y. M. C. A. tourneys in basketball, the boxing tournaments, and the College basketball meets are furnishing sport fans here in the city a real treat. Enough basketball was played in the local gymnasium Saturday afternoon for most of us—six games from 3 until 10:30. The winners really displayed power to walk away with the title.

—o—

As the conference race has produced some real fights, and upsets, so will the tourney. The intense rivalry between the teams, manifested in many of the battles this year, will flare up again in the tournament as certain teams attempt to defend laurels won in the regular season, while others will make a desperate attempt to gain revenge for losses inflicted. The three top ranking clubs, Lenoir Rhyne, Elon, and High Point, are all anxious to get another chance at each other. And from within this triangle, High Point, Elon, and Lenoir Rhyne, will come the champion of the tournament. (We do not mean the conference champions).

—o—

High Point was fortunate in being selected as the site for the first of these tournaments. If this one proves a success, it probably means that this will be the permanent home of the feature. However, upon thinking the matter over in an impartial manner we come to the conclusion that this is the best place. High Point is situated in the Piedmont section, midway between the schools in the mountains, such as Appalachian and W. C. T. C., and the schools from the east, such as A. C. C. When completed, the Harrison gymnasium will be one of the finest and best equipped gyms in the North State circle. We don't be-

Seniors and Freshmen Lose First Round of Intra-Mural Tourney.

Two hotly contested basketball matches yesterday in the initial play-offs of the intra-mural basketball tournament showed that all the cage talent were not members of the North State conference championship team. The sophomores pulled the only surprise of the afternoon as they took the lead from the first to hold it throughout the game, winning 26-20 over the seniors while the juniors ran true to form to take the yearlings after a close contest, 27-20.

Lee Sherrill, high-stepping junior, although playing an erratic game, took the lead on the offense for his teammates to score 10 points, while Walton, freshman center, took the follow-up position with eight points. Neither of these teams in the opener of the series showed much brilliance

Reserves Lose Close Contest

Freshmen Lose to Yadkinville High Five in Close Game.

A brilliant rally in the closing minutes of the game by the College reserves fell short as the American Bakery five won over the College "B" team by the score of 24-21 in a preliminary tilt Saturday night.

The visitors outplayed the Collegians through the entire first half, and held a 18-9 advantage at the intermission. They continued to hold the upper hand in the contest during the early part of the second half. Led by Grigg, the reserves staged a desperate rally but the Bakery five were successful in defending their lead until the final whistle ended the attempt.

Grigg was the spearhead in the offensive attack for the locals with a total of 11 points, the highest indivdual score of the evening. Koontz came next with three field goals for 6 points. Spencer, playing at the pivot post for the visitors, gained a total of 8 points to lead his team.

In the first of the preliminary tilts the Yadkinville high school five, coached by Ray Graham, former Panther star at the pivot post, defeated the College freshmen by the count of 15 to 11 in an interesting and hard fought tilt. As the scores indicate, both teams lacked in their offensive power, and were unable to hit the basket with any accuracy.

Practically every man on the frosh squad scored, Giles leading with 4 points. Brumfield lead the attack for the winners with a total of 10 markers.

Locals Score Smashing Win Over Coach Anderson's Club; Score 60-25.

Measuring up to the form of true champions, the Panther cagers swamped the Guilford Quakers by the score of 60 to 25 in the Harrison gymnasium before 800 fans Saturday night to break a "jinx" of two years standing.

The victory was the tenth straight in the conference for the locals, and practically sewed up the championship for them. However, Lenoir Rhyne still has a mathematical chance of tying them for the title.

The Yowmen uncorked a dazzling passing attack in the melee Saturday night to walk away with the battle. While the results were never close and the outcome never in doubt once the locals swung into battle array, the two quintetes battled hard from the opening gun.

Culler, appearing in top form, added to his conference scoring honors by hitting the hoop for 18 points, walking away with high scoring honors for the evening. Intrieri, after gaining one goal in the first half, cut loose with a Three Panthers again placed in the Big Ten of the North State conference scorers, with Culler still heading the list with a total of 148 points. With the season drawing to a close, it appears that the Panther ace will again take down high scoring honors for the conference.

Bauer, Catawba forward, moved into second place with 132 points, while Roye, Elon guard, took third position with 123. Woodard, holding second place in last week's list, slipped down to fourth with 118.

Harris, Panther center, rated among the leaders again with 102. Martin, who placed last week, gave way to Intrieri. The flashy guard scored 15 points in the game with Guilford to bring his total to 84, while Martin secured 9 points in that clash to run his total up to 80.

Fascist Growth Alarms Council

Investigation by Congregational and Christian Churches Reveals Danger.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — The growth of fascist forces in this country, indicated by the present tone of the Hearst press, seriously endangers American civil liberties, according to a survey made public by the Council of Social Action of the Congregational and Christian Churches of America.

"In America the problem of civil liberty has become more than a theoretical defense of our constitutional rights," the survey asserts. "We are experiencing that denial of our elemental rights which is the sign of the presence of fascist forces at work in our national life. 'Oust the reds' is the slogan. But the reality of the matter is that the wave of repression threatens to engulf liberals, progressives and radicals alike."

The survey cites that today the denied class and the middle class have no reason to be worried about the denial of their civil liberties. "The brunt of the fight for freedom is borne by the disinherited, the exploited, the under-privileged."

Chief weapons of the fascist group, says the survey, are the "over-riding of the constitutional rights of workers and farmers through the courts, the police, the militia, and by vigilantism."

in floor work and only during the first half was there much spirited playing when the juniors built up the substantial lead which the frosh were unable to overcome. The second half gave the underdogs a chance to threaten this lead as Sherrill was unable to get more than two field goals during this period, but the junior lead held.

In the second of the afternoon's contests more interest was evidenced as both teams were pretty evenly matched but despite prognostications to the opposite the second year men stole the lead from the senior men and even with several threats by the losers the game was finally pulled out with Garlington, sophomore leader, pulling out the top scoring position with eleven points. Ingle, senior forward, brought up the second position with seven points. A total of 25 fouls was called during the game.

barrage of shots at the opening of the second half to garner a total of 15 points for second honors. Harris also placed among the leaders with 12 points.

Weston and Overman led the assault for the Quakers with nine points each.

Martin opened the fireworks for the Panthers with a blast from beneath the basket and for the next few minutes the battle waged merrily with the clubs keeping within a few points of each other. It was not until after eight minutes of play that the Panthers turned on the compressed air and blew the Quakers out of the game.

At the end of these eight minutes the locals had a 11-7 advantage, but from this point the inflated sphere began to sizzle through the net with regularity until the intermission when High Point held a 26-11 top.

The spurt in the last few minutes was due primarily to the passing of Intrieri and Culler and their deadly accuracy at the basket.

High Point continued its march in the second half with Intrieri dropping in four field goals with deadly accuracy. Culler was just as potent and with 15 minutes still to play Coach Kew's club held a 37-14 advantage.

The reserves were inserted for five minutes of play and fought the Quakers on even terms, swapping three points for two.

What dizzy blonde (fresh) tried to bumfuzzle another of the fair sex into surrendering her "drawn" swain (another blonde—but of the opposite sex) so that said dizzy blonde could have the pleasure of bestowing on him her cabbage leaf corsage?

What Bunny left an angry scratch on the cheek of a sophomore waitress? (Did she turn the other cheek?)

What blonde frosh was glad enough to resume those friendly chats under Dr. Roberts' picture with her tromboner after a two weeks' sojourn in the S. S. C?

What young frosh, annexed by a gray sophomore, is a bit conceited?

What Tar Heel caused a "rift" which ended in a two days' upset of Wood?

What junior girl loathes "The Dark Angel," and what frosh profited?

What two "Pinks" are stepping out together at the shindig tonight?

Why do stars fall on Alabama because "zip" pours from Louisiana?

What section in Woman's Hall needs to begin a club for musical appreciation?

What red-head is besieged by sisters—being robbed, first of her Carolinian, and next of her Yankee?

Why has Honey-Bunny developed a sudden, deep friendship with Jimmie Jones? (There is method in his madness!)

What freshman cheer-leader describes waitresses in stronger language than could be used on English class?

Why are Ma's grocery bills lessened, and why do the waitresses spend less time in the dining room than they formerly did?

For the dining hall force—Is Honey-Bunny's sprained ankle a convenience or a fact?

What sophomore boy can't decide between the Grahamites?

What new waitress has seemingly changed her convictions about her "raising," and what boy caused it, and when?

What chivalrous ex-student of H. P. C. came back on a certain social night and entertained "our little Nell"?

What little Lambe, now an honorary member of the S. S. C., has resumed her consumption of those much-needed milkshakes?

Who is the ministerial "ladies' man" who is interested in child care?

What enterprising young Marc Anthony was rushed by Cleopatra? (Valentine's night, and Leap Year to boot—look out!)

What frosh has at last found a man she can look up to?

What young curly-head has a preference for "Bucks"?

What green Greensborite shows a marked leaning to the letters E. E. P.?

Why is Gibbs (younger) so joyous at the snow's leaving us?

Who got the "hot seat" yesterday? (Not Hauptman—another H.)

What apple-cheeked freshman is the bone of contention between Pattie and the new freshwoman?

Why have the "lowbrows" in Section C been threatened with the "Poiple Hand"?

What two women of the same name are trying to go Mona Lisa one better with Maybelline? (What lashes! What eyebrows!)

Why does Ruby spend most of her waking hours chanting "bah, bay, bee, bay, bah, baw, boo, baw." (Ask Mr. Owens!)

What Harvardite is interested in modern Grecian culture—music in particular? And what does diet have to do with it?

What Soph. boy was so addled that he forgot to come home from a date with his best girl until the wee hours of the morning (four a. m.)?

HOLYOKE GIRL LEADS IN MUNITIONS QUERY

Josephine Burns Revealed as Moving Force Behind Nye Committee's Finds.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C. — A sharp-eyed, indefatigable 25-year-old girl has been revealed as the moving force behind the sensational discoveries of the Nye munitions committee. She is Miss Josephine Burns, former instructor in the department of history and political science at Mount Holyoke.

Miss Burns put in a solid year of research before the munitions investigating committee began its work. Tireless, she spent 15 hours a day in digging into forgotten documents, letters, pamphlets and state papers, and the data she amassed shocked the nation when it was presented by the Nye committee.

It was due mainly to Miss Burns' efforts that the senate investigation was able to prove that neither President Wilson nor Secretary of State Lansing were motivated in their negotiations by a sincere desire for neutrality.

DEAN LINDLEY HEADS SUNDAY SCHOOL AGAIN

College Faculty Man Is Re-Elected President of State Sunday School Group.

MRS. WHITE SECRETARY

All Officers Elected to Serve Second Term at Convention in Winston-Salem.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean and head of the religious education department of High Point College, was re-elected president of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, which closed a three-day convention in Winston-Salem Wednesday night.

Mrs. H. A. White, librarian of the College, was again named recording secretary of the Association.

Dr. H. Shelton Smith, Duke University; J. A. Bodinc, Wilmington; and Rev. J. L. Thornburg, Statesville, were re-elected vice presidents.

Elected members of the executive committee were as follows: R. L. Pope, Thomasville, chairman; T. A. Avera, Rocky Mount; Clyde R. Hoey, Shelby; Herbert W. Coble, Burlington; F. O. Clarkson, Charlotte; C. F. Finch, Thomasville; Marvin Snider, Salisbury; Mrs. W. B. Lindsay, Charlotte; Charles W. Gunter, Gastonia; Dr. J. Henry Highsmith, Raleigh; Miss Lucy H. Pell, Greensboro; John Sprunt Hill, Durham; Mrs. Cameron Morrison, Charlotte; Prof. D. J. Bodwin, Elon College; R. A. McCuiston, Winston-Salem; H. C. Dennis, Henderson; Miss Maud Reid, Raleigh; C. F. Shamel, Winston-Salem; A. E. Tate, High Point; E. F. Craven, Greensboro; C. S. Wallace, Morchead City; and W. L. Ward, Asheboro.

Shuford Peeler, of Salisbury, was re-elected executive secretary.

Outstanding among the features of the conference was the banquet which was held on the closing night. Dr. Lawrence Little, head of the department of Religious Education at Western Maryland College, and Carl Goerch, editor of the State, who delivered the commencement address here last May, were among the speakers at the banquet.

Washington Is Foremost Man Says Jackson

Woman's College Dean of Administration Speaks Here on First President.

REALISTIC PICTURE

Describes Washington as Planter With Wide Human Interests and Motives.

The main feature of the regular Friday morning chapel period was a series of timely and authoritative remarks on George Washington, whimsically supplied by Dr. W. C. Jackson, Dean of Administration at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Jackson began with a few words of greeting from the Greensboro institution, suggesting that all colleges are involved in the rather precarius business of dispensing education, and hoping that High Point students might acquire it as happily as possible.

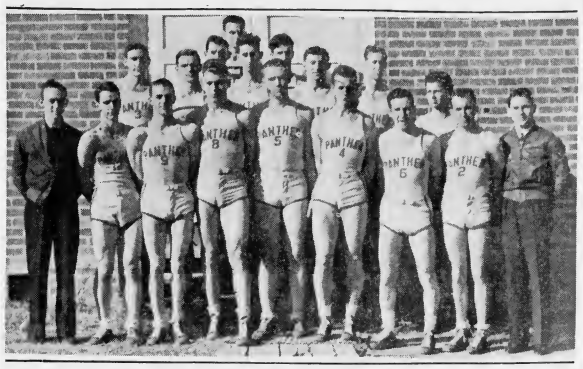

George Washington, Dr. Jackson characterized as "the foremost figure in our history." "He was not," he said, "a genius in the common acceptance of the term; but take from American history what he gave, and the rope would be ravelled and useless." He described "the father of his country" as a man of great physical stature, with especially large hands, brownish hair "although some people of this later day endeavor to establish that his hair was red," face pitted with smallpox scars, and fashionable clothes. "He was fond of dancing," said Dr. Jackson, "and did it well, in spite of the fact that he wore a number thirteen shoe and a number 14 army boot." Washington's spelling he described as consistently poor and his education as largely self-obtained. "He invariably used the spelling l-y-e for falsehood, perhaps to add strength."

The speaker declared that Washington had his "share of love affairs in his early youth, and was even so affected as to attempt to write poetry. . . . But this I am sure of—he always conducted himself as a gentleman."

Dr. Jackson suggested that Washington was at his best as a farmer and landed proprietor, and added as an interesting side-light that in the nineties he garnered $1700 as profits from one year's

Radio Broadcasts Are Sponsored By College

Miss Vera Idol, head of the English department at the College, spoke briefly over High Point's radio station, WMFR, Friday morning. The subject of her air talk was poetry.

Miss Idol's talk was the second of a series of educational talks which the College is sponsoring in cooperation with the broadcasting station. During the course of the series, various members of the faculty are to deliver short lectures on matters falling in their chosen fields. First to appear on the series was Dean P. E. Lindley, Dean of the faculty and head of the department of religious education. D. J. Rulfs, of the English department, is slated for a talk in the near future.

The College programs may be heard on Friday mornings at 10 o'clock.

Rush Week For Social Clubs Opens Saturday

The annual spring rush week for social fraternities and sororities on the campus will open on Saturday, February 29, and close on March 6, it has been announced by Broadus Culler, Pan-Hellenic Council president. No one is eligible to receive a bid to a social club who has not been in school a previous semester. In addition the student must have a scholastic average of C and must be in good financial standing at the Bursar's office.

Following the close of the rush period, bids will be issued through the office of the Dean of the College, and answers to the bids must come through the same office the next day.

It is customary for the Greek letter clubs to entertain prospective pledges at a round of parties during rush week.

Yearling Co-Eds Escort Dates To Leap Year Party

Women Furnish "Corsages" as Class of '39 Entertains at First Social Event.

Excitement prevailed in Woman's Hall last Wednesday night as the first-year women prepared to escort their chosen ones to the dining hall, after calling for them at the reception room of the men's dormitory. The occasion of the unusual behavior was the freshman Leap Year party.

The party, which was entirely a social event, was the first affair of this kind given by the class of '39. The men and women of the class were matched by the drawing of names, the women to escort the young men whose names they drew. Since there were a few more women than men in the class, it was necessary to invite a small number of upperclassmen to prevent a "stag-line."

The duties of the women did not stop at their calling for their "dates": they were expected to furnish their charges with flowers for the occasion, to help them with their over-coats, to see that they were fed. A number of unusual and amusing effects were secured by the "corsages" which some of the yearling women prepared for their "drags." Ten-minute dates furnished entertainment for the evening, and in these cases, too, the women had to do all the duties of gracious escorts.

TAPPING CEREMONIES FOR HONOR SOCIETY PLANNED FOR APRIL

Tapping ceremonies for the Order of the Lighted Lamp, local honor society, will be held on April 17, it has been announced.

This orgnnization, which was organized last spring with five charter members, now has only two representatives in school. These members, Lois Hedgecock and Lincoln Fulk, are now working on a tentative list of honor students to be added to the organization.

A constitution for the Order has been drawn up and is now awaiting final approval by the faculty. The purpose of the organization is to promote higher standards among the student body. Eligibility for membership is based on qualities of scholarship, character, service, and leadership.

Davidson To Be Chief Speaker On Society Day

Former Akrothinian President Accepts Invitation to Speak at Celebration.

Dwight M. Dnvidson, Jr., of Washington, D. C., has accepted an invitation to speak here at the eighth annual Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day, to be celebrated on March 7.

Davidson graduated from the College with the class of '33, and has since done advanced work at Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois. He was a member of the Akrothinian Society for four years, and served as president of the organization for two terms. He was also editor of THE ZENITH, a member of THE HI-PO staff, president of the Forensic Council, manager of football, chief College marshal, and president of his class during its freshman year. He finished with one of the highest scholastic averages in the history of the College, and is now employed in a statistical bureau in Washington.

The Artemesian Society last week elected Edith Crowder and Pattie Redman, of High Point, and Nancy Parham, of Henderson, to act as marshals for Society Day. Plans for the annual banquet, which will come as a climax to the day activities, are now in the hands of a joint committee from the two societies.

Debate Teams Open Season; Speak Twice

First Debates Held Here Against Campbell Thursday and Erskine Saturday.

TOURNEY NEXT MONTH

Erskine Negative Debaters Propose Unusual Plan in Arguing Court Question.

The High Point debate teams started intercollegiate activity for the year last Thursday evening when they met Campbell's squad in two practice, non-decision contests. They followed up this meeting closely with two more practice affairs against Erskine College Saturday.

The question used in all the debates was the Phi Kappa Delta query, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Over-Ride By a Two-Thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional.

Thursday evening Morgan and Ferree, of High Point, held forth on the affirmative side of the question against Campbell's negative team, George Kelly and Mac McIver. Wood and Garlington, High Point's negative team, argued against George Penny and Cullen Hall, the Campbell affirmative men.

Saturday afternoon Morgan and Ferree debated John McCutcheon and Donald Calhoun, of Erskine. Displaying a poise gained by experience and training in debating, Erskine's negative team proposed a unique counter plan in an effort to swallow up the opposing team's points. Contrary to the usual stand taken by negative teams on the question, the Erskine men maintained that the Supreme Court is wholly incapable of reviewing any legislation passed by Congress, and that it should not be necessary for Congress to uphold its laws even by a two-thirds majority. Thus forced into a conservative position, the High Point affirmative men defended the Court as an advisory organ and a brake for too hasty legislation, but they still maintained that Congress should have the final word on the constitutionality of its acts.

Saturday night the High Point negative team, Garlington and Wood, debated Thomas McDill and Mervin Garossman, of Ers-

EIGHT CLUBS ENTER FIRST LOOP SERIES

Every North State Team to Play in First Tournament Held by Conference.

PAIRINGS ARE GIVEN

Purple Panthers to Meet Catawba Quintet in First Bracket of Eliminations.

The first cage tournament ever held exclusively for members of the North State tournament will get under way in the Harrison gymnasium tomorrow afternoon with High Point College acting as host to the seven visiting conference teams that will compete for the top honors.

The eight North State quints entering the meet have been seeded according to thir final standings of the regular conference season. The seedings are as follows: High Point, first; Lenoir Rhyne, second; Elon, third; Western Carolina, fourth; Catawba, fifth; Guilford, sixth; Appalachian, seventh; Atlantic Christian, eighth.

In the first round Thursday afternoon, the Western Carolina Teachers will meet the Atlantic Christian five at three o'clock, and the Lenoir Rhyne Bears take the floor against the Guilford Quakers immediately after this contest.

On the program that night the Elon Christians tackle the Appalachian Mountaineers in the first tilt, while the Panthers play the Catawba Indians in the final struggle of the night.

The semi-finals will take place on Friday night between the two winners in each bracket, and the finals will be played on Saturday night.

Judging from the performance of the clubs during the regular conference season, experts are picking High Point, Elon, Lenoir Rhyne, and W. C. T. C. as the leading contenders for the first prize in the meet. All these clubs finished the season in the first division. However many upsets have marked the current season, and the second division clubs may make plenty of trouble for the favorites.

The tourney will not decide the conference championship, but the percentage of games won during the regular season will be used as the basis for selecting the champions as in th past years. Al-

Duke Music Clubs Present Varied Program In Junior High Building

Concert Orchestra, Glee Club, and Dance Band From Durham School Give Variety of Musical Selections in City School Auditorium; Collegians Attend.

Attracting a number of students from the College, the Duke University Musical Clubs presented a varied program ranging from classical opera selections to the latest dance rhythmns in the junior high school auditorium last Wednesday evening.

The concert orchestra, directed by Robert B. Fearing, a former resident of High Point, opened the program with Haydn's "Symphony No. 100," played in four movements. This was followed by Sibelius' "Valse Triste" and Beethoven's "Egmont Overture." Mr. Fearing later appeared as a violin soloist to present "Zigeunerweisen," by Sarasate, and two Ries numbers, "Adagio" and "Perpetuum Mobile."

The Duke Glee Club, directed by J. Foster Barnes, sang "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," a 17th century German melody; "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming," by Proaetorius; and "Where'er You Walk," by Handel-Sproas. Featuring Joe Mackie as a baritone soloist, the Glee Club also gave three numbers from the Gilbert and Sullivan opera "H. M. S. Pinafore," "We Sail the Ocean Blue," "A Maiden Fair to See," and "My Gallant Crew."

Hayward W. Henderson, tenor soloist, sang "Standehen," by Schubert, and "Life," by Pearl G. Curram. John Cole, tenor, sang Victor Herbert's popular "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and Bertrand-Brown's "All For You."

The Male Quartette, consisting of Hayward Henderson, Joe Mackie, J. P. Waggoner, and Terry Morris, accompanied by Carroll Feagins, presented Arlen's "I Love a Paradise" and a medley of Southern airs. They came back to give "Sophomoric Philosophy" as an encore.

The Glee Club closed the first part of the program with three pieces, the "Pilgrim's Song," by Tschaikowsky; "The Sleigh," by Kountz-Baldwin; and "Olav Trygvason," by Edward Grieg.

In the second part of the program, Al Preyer and his orchestra appeared to give a concert of modern dance music. Among other popular numbers, they playel "Moon Over Miami," "It's Danger-

Dr. Humphreys Sounds Keynote For Brotherhood Meeting In High Point

Jews, Catholics, and Protestants Gather at Junior High School for Local Observance of Brotherhood Day; Speakers From Three Faiths Are Heard.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College, sounded the keynote at a meeting held in the High Point junior high school auditorium Sunday afternoon to observe National Brotherhood Day.

The meeting was attended by Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, who gathered to hear the round table discussion of brotherhood by speakers of each faith who stressed the unity of purpose and spirit of all religion in sound citizenship and in fighting wickedness and evil.

The spirit and purpose of the meeting was to "Make America Safe for Differences," and with that thought in mind Dr. Humphreys defined the scope and intent of the meeting and started its spirit of respect, faith and loyalty without controversy; Dr. Humphreys traced the precious guarantee of civil and religious liberty which is the priceless heritage of this country and saw America as the hope of the world that such may not perish from the world but rather remain a challenge to others to extend the social benefits it nurtures in sound citizenship and religious conviction necessary thereto.

Rabbi William Greenburg, of Charlotte, a vigorous younger leader of Judaism who was presented by Ben F. Herman, traced the rise and development of his religion, stressing its philosophy and concept that basically is founded upon real brotherhood and as such the beginning of all religion. He sees in the present times a challenge to all religions to present a united front against the forces which are foreign to the evil which besets a fear-ridden world but which must meet and offset just that.

Father Arthur J. Racette, pastor of Saint Edwards rectory, presented the Catholic view, and in so doing emphasized that the Catholic must be a good citizen if he is to be a good Catholic, for the social purposes of the faith require devotion to the soundness of the state. With the Catholic it is a moral responsibility before God, and that of necessity for a sounded citizenship, Father Racette said.

THE CASE FOR TOLERANCE

As students at a denominational school, we are boosters, academically at least, of anything that makes for more tolerance and generally improved fellowship among all faiths and races. And so we heartily commend the spirit of the Brotherhood Day celebration held in this city Sunday afternoon, at which our own president, Dr. Humphreys, defined the issues and set the scope in the keynote address.

Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, all three of which are represented in the student body of the College, each had a speaker on the program of the meeting, and followers of each faith were present in large numbers. The avowed purpose of the meeting was to "Make America Safe For Differences," and the entire affair was said to have been marked by a spirit of respect.

According to a report contained in our larger urban contemporary, The Enterprise, "there were voiced numerous testimonials by members of each faith of the splendid accomplishments and contributions to the community as a result of the gathering of the local Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, and there was much insistence that it should be made an annual affair."

It is meetings such as this, dominated by a spirit of mutual respect, that indicates that America still cherishes ideals of true democracy, and that she is still willing to pioneer in a movement to improve the welfare and happiness of her people. Adherence to the spirit of this meeting and other meetings like it will make impossible any such conditions of hatred and religious persecution that exist in Germany and other European countries today. By a brotherly co-operation among members of all three great faiths, the grosser, more bigoted and ignorant elements of America will be held in check and the ideals dear to all religions will be maintained.

Again we commend the spirit and purpose of Brotherhood Day, and ask the students of High Point College to join with the leaders in the city in making it an annual event of increasing importance.

THE VOGUE

CAN YOU TELL US WHY—

A big-footed frosh (male) shows a striking resemblance to another big-college guy (mustached) who came to H. P. C.?

The green Greensborite (not Hot-Seat Hornaday) has turned his eyes this week from one group of Greek letters to another (no gate-crashing, please!)?

Our Samuel described a cute little nursie as "kinda ficklish"?

The chief of the section C "lower half," recently turned waiter, continues to show marked improvement in becoming a second "Jonesy" in manner and action?

Brinkley (minor) was solemnly wishing the other night that he was a married man?

Ice cream for two had to be hurriedly bought at the store during the Leap Year affair? (Ask "Footsey" Durland and Crowell.)

A couple of curly-haired (artificially) Freshmen were too sissy to be good company at the Frosh Party? (They were so dull their dates got disgusted, and for them the party was a flop—and to think they have fraternity connections, too!)

Cleopatra turned modern and became Mona Lisa the Third? (Maybe her apple-cheeked Mark Anthony will be doing something rash next.)

Gibbs asked Sharpe not to go to sleep until he showed up at about half-past eleven?

The Senior Class "Kid" (remember the stunt night performance?) has suddenly grown up to the extent of dating a bold, bad Washingtonian?

J. E. is being rushed? (line forms to the right!)

One of our new additions (former Guilfordian) has joined the Liberty League?

Students have stopped wondering about the source of the heftiness of a couple of skirt-barn dwellers? (Maryland, my Maryland!)

The "Griping Waitress" and Little Jack allowed eye-witnesses to that awe-inspiring draping of arms the other night? (The S. S. Club will get you if you don't watch out!)

—o—

WE UNDERSTAND—

That Dr. Bowen is starting a Hope Chest, and that the laundry has furnished the first article. We believe the article is intended for the future generation (we don't see how the Doc can wear 'em!)

That the frosh were ignominiously corralled in the dining room throughout the course of their party, even while engaged in ten-minute dating. (Ah, the sweet freedom of dear old Leavenworth!)

That the T-ville Terror believes in that good old song hit, "Sing Before Breakfast." Yes, and those who work in the dining hall might add that she sings before lunch and dinner as well, for good measure. (The radio is ruining America!)

That Big Jim thinks he's a Packard, Ford, or What-Not, 1936 model. At any rate, he voices an uncanny imitation of an auto horn in thick traffic. (On second thought, he probably thinks he's a truck and trailer.)

That the Guardian Angel was very much upset when one of her most trusted charges came in alone the other night (non-social). She forgot that there had been a debate with Campbell—and to think that she'd doubt "little Millie."

That Shelton dates much more than he used to. Was he afraid the in-laws would write to the family?

That our red-headed neighbor boy took two of our soph women home for the week-end. They got in just in time to meet the waitresses bound for the breakfast tables. How do they do it?

That the skirt-barn Big Shot spends a lot of time with Jo. Wonder if she will enlighten us?

That the Little Lambe is working down town now. (Yeah, maybe it's for money—and maybe it's to be nearer those milkshakes.)

That the upperclassmen wished they were freshmen again Wednesday night. (More power to Leap Year—make the best of it while it lasts, Girls!)

That a movement is afoot to quarantine a certain freshman waitress because she has a bad and contagious attack of "griping fever."

SENIORS HAVE CHARGE ENDEAVOR PROGRAM

Pattie Bartee and Hoyt Wood Conduct Meeting Sponsored by Senior Class.

The series of Christian Endeavor programs sponsored by various classes closed Sunday night, with Pattie Bartee and Hoyt Wood conducting the program as representatives of the class of '36. The freshmen began the series four weeks ago.

"Things For Which We Stand" was the topic of the senior programs. Ruby Martin, James Massey, and Sulon Ferree assisted the joint leaders by discussing various asspects of the subject. Vesta Troxler, Lena Hunter, and Agnes Louise Willcox were obligingly lent by the junior and sophomore classes to remedy the lack of senior musical talent in the society; they supplied the special music for the program.

An important feature of the meeting was the check-up on the competition which has been going on between two "rival" groups in the society, points being given for attendance, participation, offering, and visitors. The Helping Hands group was successful in gaining more points at the Sunday night meeting, but for the total time of the contest the Willing Workers have a lead of some 75 points.

CHOIR PLANS TO GIVE 2 PROGRAMS SUNDAY

Choral Members to Appear in Lexington and Albemarle; Go North in March.

Because of wide-spread sickness which has necessitated the closing of city schools for an indefinite period, the College choir's engagement to sing at the Junior high school Thursday has been postponed. The choir will fill two singing engagements on Sunday, however.

The Choir will visit the First Presbyterian Church in Lexington, probably on Sunday morning, and will have charge of the entire service. On Sunday evening they will be in Albemarle for a religious concert of similar length. These will be the Choir's first engagements this semester, as Miss Margaret Sloan has been concentrating on rehearsals in preparation for the Choir's proposed Northern trip, which will begin on March 12.

On the heels of the news of the Choir's plans for a Northern trip comes the rumor that the College Orchestra will probably disband because of lack of attendance at practice. This rumor is at present officially unsubstantiated.

Cage Series Now In Second Round

First Round Does Not Produce a Champion.

Pulling victory out of defeat, the wily Sophomores chalked up their second upset of the class season in the intra-mural basketball tournament which is now in its second week by beating the Seniors by two points in an extra period contest Monday. This win puts the second year men on the top position for the time being with the Juniors and Seniors bringing up the next two successive places.

The most thrilling of the class games have been furnished to the rooters when the Sophomores were one of the participants. Losing to the Juniors in the first round of the contests, they came back in the second round of play to decisively beat their nemisis by a 15-28 score to then follow this win by beating the Seniors in the closest game of the tournament, 26-24.

After the first round of play had ended in a three-way tie with only the Freshmen having no wins, the Juniors seemed to have the edge on the rest of their college mates and as they have played only one game this series their stock still has a high level, but with the Seniors winning over the Freshmen for the second time and the Sophomores having no lossses so far this round the outcome is still very doubtful.

According to alumni office records, 750 Duke University alumni married as a result of campus romances.

Hilarious contests and simple refreshments added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Pattie Redman, chairman of the social committee, with her colleagues, decorated the dining hall for the party. The George Washington motif was carried out in the decorations, the Leap Year spirit being too nearly indefinable to serve as a motif. Red, white, and blue bands wreathed the central pillars of the room, and clusters of balloons hung from the lights. A silhouette of Washington filled a prominent place on the wall.

Faculty guests and chaperones for the party were Miss Margaret Sloan, Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, D. J. Rulfs, and W. H. Ford. Miss Louise Adams, the class sponsor, was present as a "chaperone ex officio."

The top leaves of all tobacco plants tend to give a definitely harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable acid-alkaline balance. In LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes the center leaves are used.

Stars To Shine Here In Conference Meet

All Clubs in Three Day Event Will Contribute Outstanding Players.

Basketball astronomers are predicting a shower of stars on High Point when the eight conference teams meet in the Harrison gymnasium for the first Annual North State tournament on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The outstanding performers of the circuit, who have been furnishing headlines for the sport pages of the state papers, will add to the glamor of the three day event that is expected to attract thousands of fans before the close of the series. Practically every team will offer its own favorite star in the collection. There wil be High Point's Culler, Elon's Roye, Western Carolina's Woodard, Atlantic Christian's Cunningham, Lenoir Rhyne's McSwain, and many others on the above and other teams.

Probably the foremost figure among these cagers is Broadus Culler, captain of the Panther Pack, and for the past three years a member of the North State conference five, which is picked by the coaches of the teams in the circuit. The "Little Wonder" will end a brilliant career in the Purple and White uniform at the conclusion of this series. High scorer in the conference for the past three years, he scored 158 in the twelve conference games to finish close behind Roye for top honors.

Elon's favorite is Paul Roye, flashy sophomore guard from Chattanooga who made the conference team last year. The sharp-shooting guard has lived up to his reputation this year to lead the conference in scoring with 167. His running mate, Cheek, attained the same honor last year, and has played a consistent brand of ball this time.

The highly publicized Western Carolina Catamounts will offer Woodard as their chief attraction, along with Thomas and White, the other two-thirds of the "three ring" circus.

Perhaps the fastest floor man in the loop is "Saddle-legs" Intrieri, diminutive Panther defensive ace. "Tige" Harris, Pointer center, is noted for his deceptive fakes on passing and shooting.

YOW SELECTS FAMOUS FIVE FOR CIRCUIT

Three Panthers Given Place on All-Star Team by High Point Mentor.

High Point, Lenoir Rhyne, and Catawba were represented on the All-Conference team given by Coach C. Virgil Yow during an interview with the HI-PO reporter yesterday afternoon.

Three Panthers, Culler, at forward, Harris, at center, and Intrieri, guard, were among the selections of the High Point mentor. Along with these were Bauer, freshman forward for Catawba, and McSwain, sophomore guard for the Lenoir Rhyne Bears.

Culler is the only senior who gained the vote of Yow for this honor. Three sophomores, Harris, Intrieri, and McSwain, and one freshman, Bauer, make up the five.

The official All-Conference, which is selected by a vote of the eight coaches, will probably be announced early next week. The above players drew Yow's vote in the official tabulation. His team corresponds in most instances to that of Caldwell, North State publicity agent. The newspaper man placed Roye at guard, instead of McSwain, whom he placed at forward, and Tucker, Lenoir Rhyne, at center.

Yow's first and second team selections follows:

FIRST TEAM

Player	Pos.	School
Culler	F	High Point
Bauer	F	Catawba
Harris	C	High Point
Intrieri	G	High Point
McSwain	G	L. Rhyne

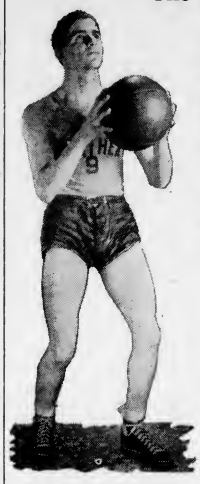

SECOND TEAM

Coach C. Virgil Yow discovered this winning combination of Culler, Martin, Harris, Intrieri, and Towery soon after the opening of the season, and has used this starting lineup in practically all the conference games. The players pictured here have borne the brunt of the attack for the Panthers during their successful campaign for the North State conference championship, and have emerged from the fight with high honors. Several of these stars are expected to make strong bids for top honors in the conference. Although they have been left out of the limelight, the reserve squad has rendered valuable assistance.

Panthers Beat Quakers In Final Loop Contest

PACK DEFEATS VIRGINIA FIVE IN EASY TILT

Yowmen Have Little Trouble Macon by 40 to 28 Count. in Downing Randolph-

Yowmen Score 50-28 Victory Over Traditional Rivals in Guilford Gymnasium.

The High Point College Panthers experienced little trouble in downing the Randolph-Macon cagers by the score of 40 to 28 before a small crowd in the Harrison gymnasium last night.

The North State conference champs started the game off with a bang and ran up a 9 point lead before the visiting Virginians made a free throw good to break into the scoring column. Culler continued to hit the basket with accuracy in this period to give the locals a 21 to 12 advantage at intermission.

Coach Yow used two entirely different teams in the struggle, inserting the second string about the middle of the first and then again in the second period.

Martin, sophomore forward for the Panthers, opened up with a blast at the basket in the second period to take down high scoring honors with 12 points. He was closely followed by his teammate, Culler, who gained 10 points in the affray.

The college freshman quint defeated the Gibsonville High five 42 to 12 in the first preliminary tilt, while the College All-Stars, led by Niernsee, eked out a 23 to 21 victory over the College reserves in the second preliminary contest.

The lineups:

Ray, g	0	1	1
Totals	13	2	28

The victory was the first that the local cagers have scored in the Guilford gym since Coach Yow came here four years ago.

The two teams played on even terms Thursday night during the entire first half, but the Pointers turned on the steam after the intermission to walk away with the contest. Grabbing the lead with two baskets by McCommons soon after the opening whistle, the Quakers held a slight lead during the early part of the game. Playing on a strange court, the locals soon found the range of the baskets and pulled up even with the Guilfordians about midway of the period. From this time the lead see-sawed back and forth, as the players matched basket for basket. The half ended with the locals four points ahead, the score standing 20 to 16.

Opening up with deadly fire on the basket from the start of the second period, the Yowmen soon built up a safe margin to pull the game out of danger. Martin, Culler and Harris featured in this offensive drive. With 7 minutes to go they were leading 43 to 23.

Appearing in the Purple and White uniform for the last time in regular conference competition, Captain Broadus Culler turned in a brilliant floor performance to lead his mates to victory. Although he did not find the hoop with his usual accuracy, he rang loop, has returnel to the Atlantic products of his "excellent copper still, at which he made both corn and rye." His table was always bountifully spread, and there was usually at least one guest. One dish which appeared on the table every day in the year was fish, of which Washington was inordinately fond.

Speaking briefly of the first president's ability as a business man, and his shrewdness in driving a bargain, Dr. Jackson described Washington as a religious man, "not the pious, autere man of the cherry tree legend or the prayer at Valley Forge, but a man simply devout, believing in a wholesome practice of Christianity." That Washington swore on occasions—"evidences are that he made an excellent job of it"—and bet on horses at times, that he was fond of wine and good living, that he owned slaves, Dr. Jackson described as commonplaces of the day, things which were the birthright of the well-to-do Southern planter. "But," he declared, "few of those people who hide behind what we may call the vices of Washington are able to approach him in virtues."

"I should like, "said the speaker, "to dwell upon the characteristics of Washington which made him great." He summed up his remarks by describing him as tolerant, deeply patriotic, solid and enduring, unselfish, impartial, a man whose virtues overweighed his faults. "The life of this man, "he concluded, "rises like some majestic peak, a sentinel by which we may chart our course in the devious way of life."

though not definitely a permanent feature of the loop, the event is expected to rival that of the Southern conference in Raleigh for interest of state cage fans.

The arrangement committee is composed of Dr. David E. Faust, Catawba; Dr. F. C. Shepard, of Guilford, and Coach C. V. Yow, High Point, chairman. Final plans for the three day event are nearly completed.

Officials are predicting capacity crowds to witness these contests, especially the night games. High Point was selected as the site of the first conference tourney last spring during a meeting of conference officials here. If this one is a success, Harrison gymnasium may become the permanent scene of this annual classic.

The Protestant viewpoint was brought by Rev. Tom A. Sykes, a leading Quaker minister and advocate of world peace, who was presented by Grover H. Jones. Mr. Sykes praised the gathering of the religious groups and saw therein a splendid opportunity as well as a challenge to combine in an assault upon evil and warfare that all groups might approach more nearly the brotherhood which is the underlying purpose of each. His closing of the program was particularly forceful and summarized well the spirit and purpose of the occasion.

Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise and chairman of the local committee of Jews and Christians, presided over the meeting and in an opening statement endorsed the proposition that a day be dedicated to brotherhood and expressed the wish that it be taken seriously enough to have its sentiment spread over wide circles.

The committee consisted of Mr. McPherson, chairman; Ben L. Herman, Harry Doctor, Rabbi Nathan Stein, Father Raecttе, H. C. Barthmaier, Charles Dean, Grover H. Jones, Rev. J. Clay Madison, and Mr. Sykes.

Two Literary Societies Will Hold Eighth Annual Festival Saturday; Davidson To Speak

All Classes To Be Suspended For Celebration of Akrothinians, Artemesians.

CROWELL TO BE ORATOR

Annual Banquet Saturday Night Will Climax Day of Festivities at College.

Plans have been completed for the eighth annual celebration of the founding of the Artemesian and Akrothinian Literary societies at High Point College, which will be observed here Saturday. Activities will last throughout the entire day, and no classes will be held at the College.

Dwight M. Davidson, Jr., a former Akrothinian president and a graduate with the class of 1933, has accepted an invitation to deliver the main address of the day. Davidson, who has done graduate work at Northwestern University since leaving High Point, is now located in Washington, where he is employed as a statistician for the Federal Housing Administration.

George Crowell, a freshman at the College, last Thursday night was selected by the Akrothinian Literary Society to deliver the annual oration at the Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day which is to be held here Saturday.

Crowell, who will speak on the subject of world peace, was selected by a vote of the Society. He competed for the honor with John Thomas, who spoke on "The Yellow Peril of Today: Japan," and Alson Gray, whose subject was "Friendship."

All classes will be suspended Saturday for the activities of Society Day, which is an outstanding feature of the spring semester at the College. Besides speeches by Davidson and Crowell, the morning program will include music and the presentation of awards to outstanding members of the two societies. Formal announcement of the two societies' contributions toward the construction of the walkway between Harrison gymnasium and McCulloch Hall will probably be made at this time. It is customary for the societies to present an annual project on Society Day, but this year all four societies on the campus joined in building the walkway.

As an added feature of the celebration, some sort of afternoon program will be given for the first time this year, it has been announced. The annual Society banquet will be held Saturday night in the College dining hall as a climax to the festivities. A joint committee from both organizations has been working on the banquet, and it is expected to be one of the high spots of the social year.

Box Party Slated By Junior Class For Next Tuesday

Third Year Students Seek to Repeat Success of Similar Event Held in '33.

Tentative plans are being laid by the class of '37 for an old-fashioned "Box party" to be held on the evening of March 10. It promises to excell in hilarity the well-remembered similar affair held by the class in its freshman year.

Members of all classes are invited, provided that they comply with a number of conditions. No woman will be admitted without a box of food to be "knocked down" by the auctioneer. The young man buying a box will be entitled to share that box with the woman who prepared it. Each box will be auctioned off in traditional manner, going to the highest bidder, and no box will be given any sort of preference by the auctioneer.

Arrangements are being made for the distribution of a number of complimentary theatre tickets. The young man paying the most for a box, the woman whose box brings the highest price, the preparer of the most attractively wrapped box, and a number of others will probably receive these tickets.

Members of the senior class will recall that the freshman box party sponsored by the class of '37 proved a "howling" success. Greater enjoyment is predicted for those attending this later attraction. It is probable that the auction will be carried on out-of-doors if the weather permits.

STATE PEACE ORATORS TO COMPETE APRIL 24 AT GUILFORD COLLEGE

Neighboring School To Be Host To North Carolina Intercollegiate Contest.

The Intercollegiate Peace Oratorical Contest for North Carolina will be held at Guilford College on Friday, April 24, according to information received here from Dr. Albert Keiser, of Lenoir Rhyne College, state chairman of the association which is sponsoring the event.

The rules of the contest specify that a local contest must be held at each college entering at least two weeks before the state meeting, which would make April 11 the latest date at which the local contest could be held. The preliminary contest at High Point will be in charge of Cullen B. Owens, professor of speech and debate coach. The complete rules and regulations are now in the hands of Mrs. Alice Paige White, who is also able to supply valuable information to prospective entrants.

The winner of the contest at Guilford will be given a cash award of $50.00, and, in addition, his school will have possession of the Association's silver cup for one year. As host school to the state contest, Guilford College will provide entertainment to the visiting orators for twenty-four hours.

Only bona fide undergraduates carrying at least twelve hours of regular college work are eligible to enter. The oration must be confined to 1700 words.

Bates Sisters Sponsor Modern Priscilla Meet

Varied Program Features Regular Meeting of Home Economics Organization.

Mary Margaret and Helen Bates were joint hostesses at the regular meeting of the Modern Priscilla club Monday night. A varied program was presented.

Margaret Fogleman reviewed a new biography of Ellen H. Richards, who was the founder of the home economics movement. Becky Finch gave a brief discussion of the school and home economics. Various openings in the field of home economics were summarized by Elizabeth Phillips. Virginia Curry read a creed in verse, "An If for Girls."

It is a custom of the club to buy each year, as a project, something useful for the home economics cooking laboratory or something which may be used in the practice house which the department sponsors every other year. A committee was chosen at the club meeting to choose this year's gift. It was made up of four members, one from each class.

The meeting took place in the room of the hostesses, but the club later adjourned to the home economics laboratory for refreshments.

Junior-Senior Banquet Slated For Early April

The annual Junior-Senior banquet wil be held on April 3, according to tentative plans that have been made, it has been announced by Alton Hartman, president of the class of '37.

It is planned to hold the annual event earlier than usual this year to relieve the congestion among social events in early May. Committees have already been appointed to find a time and place, furnish decorations, and provide a program for the banquet.

Tournament Host

Coach C. Virgil Yow, whose Purple Panther basketball team won the championship of the first annual North State conference tournament.

Yow Presents Series Prize

Championship Trophy For First North State Tournament Formally Given To Students.

Coach C. Virgil Yow Monday presented to the student body of High Point College the trophy which was awarded to the champions of the first annual North State basketball tournament, which closed here Saturday night.

In a brief speech before formally presenting the trophy, Coach Yow paid tribute to the fine play and fighting spirit of the Purple Panthers in going through eleven straight victories in regular conference play and three in the tournament. He paid especial tribute to Captain Broadus Culler, who closed his career in the Purple uniform Saturday night after four years of all-conference playing for High Point.

The trophy was accepted in behalf of the student body by A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the government council.

Culler, in his turn at speaking, paid tribute to the fine services of Coach Yow, who came here as coach the same year that Culler came as a player. The speaker also commended the cooperation and support that he received from his teammates, starters and reserves, in bringing High Point its first conference championship since 1930, and the championship of the first tournament ever held by the North State loop.

Both Coach Yow and Culler congratulated Dorothy Perry and her fellow cheer-leaders upon organizing and leading the student body in its support of the basketball team throughout the year.

Endeavors Have Novel Program

Impromptu Speakers Chosen by "Grab-Bag" Method; New Talent Found.

The College Christian Endeavor Society got its regular weekly program from the "grab-bag" Sunday evening. The effect was unusual and well-received.

Small envelopes were passed out to those present. The envelopes contained slips of paper bearing directions concerning some part of the program. The program was centered around the observation of the Sabbath, and Occo Gibbs drew the slip which entitled him to lead the discussion.

Short talks on various features of the topic followed—all impromptu, but showing signs of earnest consideration in the few "minutes of grace." Special music was supplied by hitherto undiscovered talent with better than indifferent success.

Sunday evening's meeting marked the biginning of another—and the last—month of the competition which has been going on in the society. Two groups are contesting for the honor of bringing in the most visitors, members, and offering during a limited period. The contest closes the last Sunday in March.

SPRING RUSH WEEK CLOSES FRIDAY NIGHT

Competition For New Members Now at Full Blast Among Greek Letter Clubs.

BIDS ISSUED MONDAY

Period of Silence To Be Observed Between End of Rush Week and Issuance of Bids.

Spring rush week for the Greek letter social clubs on the campus opened last Saturday and will close Friday at mid-night. The usual Monday to Monday week was changed slightly to avoid conflict with the Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day here Saturday.

As usual, however, the official bids will be issued through the office of Dean P. E. Lindley on the first Monday morning after the close of rush week. The intervening forty-eight hours this year from Friday night until Monday are to be observed as a period of silence on the part of the social clubs. Answers must be turned in through the office of Dr. Lindley by next Tuesday.

In keeping with the usual custom, rush week has been featured by a series of parties given by the clubs in honor of their prospective new members. Epsilon Eta Phi started the fraternity social activities with a smoker at the home of Professor J. Harley Mourane Monday night. The other two organizations for men, Iota Tau Kappa and Delta Alpha Epsilon, followed suit closely with similar affairs Tuesday night.

At the end of this rush week, the social clubs may issue membership bids to students who have been in school here a previous semester. The members of the freshman class, who were ineligible at the fall rush week, are now the centers of attention, and many bids are expected to be issued to the Thirty-niners.

No one may become a member of a fraternity or sorority here

A Capella Choir Presents Initial Program of Year

First Appearance Made in Thomasville Church Sunday; Sing in Chapel Friday

The College A Capella Choir made its initial public appearance Sunday afternoon at the Community Methodist Protestant church in Thomasville. The program was presented at 5 o'clock.

The first group of selections consisted of "The Lord is in His Holy Temple," by Sloan; a Russian air, "The Vesper Hymn;" "The Trees and the Master," by Vorse; Noble's "Fierce Was the Wild Billow;" "Now the Day Is Over," by Knight.

This group was followed by a solo by Dorothy Perry, "soprano, "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again."

The choir then sang its second group, beginning with "A Legende," by Tschaikovsky, and continuing with a Basque carol, "Peaceful Night Descending;" a French carol, "Sing Noel;" "Cherubim Song," by Bortnyansky; and concluding with a number in Latin, "Adoramus Te," by Dubois.

"The Prayer Perfect," a solo by Wayne Hornaday, baritone, followed.

The last group by the choir consisted of spirituals, including "O' Thou Traveller Unknown," by Noble; "Deep River," by Burleigh; James' "Dark Water;" Dvorak's "Goin' Home. The program closed with the "Seven-Fold Amen," by Stainer.

At the regular chapel program Friday morning, which will be conducted by Miss Margaret Sloan, director of the choir, the singers will appear for several numbers.

On Sunday the choir will fill two singing engagements. At 11 o'clock they will sing at Pfeiffer College at Misenheimer. The 5 o'clock program will be presented in Albemarle at the First Presbyterian church.

To Debate At Winthrop

Pictured above are the two seniors on the College debating squad, which leaves tomorrow for Rock Hill, S. C., to take part in the Southeastern Forensic Tournament. Hoyt Wood, left, teams with J. E. Garlington to form High Point's negative team. Sulon Ferree, right, and Dwight Morgan will argue the affirmative side.

Professor Owens and Four Men to Attend Meeting at Winthrop College.

STATE CHAMPS IN '35

Wood Only Man Held Over From Squad That Took Honors at Hickory Last Year.

Four members of the College debating squad, along with Professor Cullen B. Owens, tomorrow will leave for Rock Hill, South Carolina, where they will take part in the annual Southeastern Forensic tournament. Winthrop College is acting as host to the meeting this year.

The men who will make the trip are Hoyt Wood and Sulon Ferree, both seniors; J. E. Garlington, a sophomore; and Dwight Morgan, a freshman. These men were selected by a series of tryout debates started in the late fall. They have recently met the debate squads from Erskine College and Campbell College in dual, practice contests.

The Southeastern Forensic tournament is held each year with schools from North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, and other states sending representatives. Last year the High Point debaters won the state championship at the meeting held in Hickory, and they finished second in the entire tournament. Of this championship squad, only Wood is now taking part in debating at the College. Two of the squad, Wilbur Hutchins and Aubert Smith, graduated in June while the fourth, Lincoln Fulk, is ineligible for debating because he is not taking the required number of hours of work.

The query to be used in the tournament is the Phi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Override by a Two-Thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional. Although oratorical contests are held at the tournament each year, High Point is not expected to be represented in anything except the debating. Fulk won second place in the extemporaneous speaking contest last year at Hickory.

The tournament opens tomorrow and will continue through Saturday, March 7.

Co-Ed Society Debate Will Be Held in April

Nikanthans and Artemesians Select Speakers to Compete for Loving Cup.

Speakers and a query have been chosen for the annual inter-society debate between the representatives of the Artemesian and the Nikanthan Literary societies, which will take place on Wednesday evening, April 8.

The query, presented by the Artemesian women, reads as follows: Resolved: That Entrance to American Colleges Should Be by Examination Only. Limitations of the query include the understanding that the word "examination" shall be interpreted to mean a thorough physical examination coupled with a formal written one. The Nikanthans have chosen to support the negative view of the query.

Marguerite Jenkins, sophomore, of Frostburg, Maryland, will represent the Artemesians, with Margaret Smith, sophomore, of Winston-Salem, as her colleague. Virginia Grant, senior, of Garysburg, and Dorothy Bell, junior, of Southport, will speak for the Nikanthans.

The debate is sponsored by Miss Mary E. Young, former dean of Women, whose interest in wholesome extra-curricular activities has been of invaluable aid to the College women. In 1927 she offered the first Mary E. Young Loving Cup for inter-society debaters, which is now in the possession of the Nikanthans by reason of three consecutive wins. The second cup is still shuttling back and forth between the rival societies. Last year Dorothea Andrews and Virginia Walker, Artemesian seniors, upset the Nikanthans, who had two legs on the cup, by defeating their opponents, Dorothy Bell and Lois Hedgecock, to put the trophy back in free circulation.

Of the three judges necessary for the occasion, one is selected by each society concerned, and the other is named by the Administration. The names of the judges have not been made public.

Dr. Lindley Speaks At Father and Son Dinner

Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean of the College, delivered the main address at the annual Father and Son banquet of the Central Friends church last Sunday night.

John Gurney Briggs, Jr., supplied special music for the occasion. Several other speakers made contributions to the interesting program which was given, and a large delegation of fathers and sons attended the banquet.

The supper was served by ladies of the Evening circle at the Friends church, with Mrs. Silas B. Casey, Mrs. Wade Hiatt, and Mrs. D. L. Parker acting as committee in charge.

NIKES GIVE SECOND PROGRAM IN SERIES ON AMERICAN NEGRO

The Nikanthan Literary Society held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening of last week rather than on Thursday, as is customary. The program was the second of a series on the negro.

A debate had been scheduled, the query reading, Resolved: That the Negro is in as much servitude as ever in the South. Because the meeting was not on the regular date, however, many of the members were unable to be present, and among those were several of the people who were to appear on the program. Juanita Hayworth discussed the question from the negative viewpoint, showing that many improvements have been made in the status of the negro since the Emancipation Proclamation.

Virginia Burton read one of Irwin Russell's inimitable poems portraying the humorous side of the Southern negro. A detailed account of negro superstition and its variance with different localities was supplied by Bernardine Hurley. The program closed with the singing of the Nikanthan and Thalean songs.

Winter-Wood Tells About Negro Drama

"De Lawd" of "Green Pastures" Speaks Here At Regular Friday Chapel.

RELATES EXPERIENCES

Succeeded Late Richard Harrison in Lead of Connelly's Great Play.

Professor Charles Winter-Wood, who succeeded Richard B. Harrison as "De Lawd" in Marc Connelly's phenomenal dramatic success, "The Green Pastures" spoke at the regular chapel meeting Friday morning. His subject was "The Negro and the Drama."

Professor Winter-Wood's remarks were largely concerned with the Connelly play, in the cast of which he spent about six years. Its first performance, in Mansfield Theatre in New York in February of 1930 with an all-negro cast gave the American negro his greatest opportunity on the legitimate stage. After the remarkably long run of one year and six months on Broadway, the play went on the road for almost four times that period. The speaker supplied a number of events of rare human interest in connection with the tour. King Prajadripok of Siam included the play in the many things he viewed in his American visit, International Y. M. C. A. convention delegates seeing the performance included East Indians, Syrians, Greeks, and almost all nationalities, while "one young white boy saw the 'Divine Comedy in black-face' seventeen times."

Professor Winter-Wood spoke of Roark Bradford's book, "Old Man Adam an' His Chillun," from which the dramatist got the germ of the plan for his play. The play he represented as an interpretation of the plantation darkie's conception of the Scriptural tales—but as far more than that. "In eighteen splendid scenes," he said, "it speaks to the present age through the ancient." He declared that it speaks to all humans of all faiths —if they will hear—of cooperation with that Great Intelligence which made all things. As Teschylus and Shakespeare put a God, visible or invisible, on the stage, so did Connelly show "De Lawd" walking the earth as a natural man. Professor Winter-Wood spoke of cooperation with God as the only solution of all problems, and concluded by saying, "Yes, God walks the earth today, even as He did in 'The Green Pastures'."

The speaker's own history is almost as phenomenal as that of the play on which he based his talk. Once simply "Charlie," who blacked boots, sold newspapers, and in his spare time read Shakespeare, he now holds a degree of Master of Arts from Columbia University. He did his undergraduate work at Beloit College in Wisconsin and worked with Dr. Washington at Tuskegee Institute before securing the Rockefeller scholarship which took him to Columbia. After leaving Columbia University, he returned to Tuskegee, where he remained until he joined the "Green Pasturs" cast in 1930. For five years he served as Harrison's understudy without ever having to go on for him in the role of "De Lawd." Following the death of Harrison in March of 1935, Winter-Wood carried the play through three months, playing to capacity audiences.

Professor Winter-Wood is now head of the dramatics department at Bennett College, well-known negro college in Greensboro.

ABOUT DANCING

Upon several occasions the students of High Point College have started agitation to have properly chaperoned dancing permitted upon the campus. Through the government council, the students have even gone so far as to present a petition in good faith to the board of trustees. Except to recognize the right of the students to petition, however, the trustees have taken no action on the matter. Believing that dancing would be permitted sometime during this year, the students have been remarkably patient and have exercised all the discretion that anyone could hope for. It seems, however, that advantage is being taken of the quietness to put off a definite stand on the petition.

If High Point College is to ever attract in large numbers the type of students which the faculty desires and deserves, the social program here must be broadened. The total of the sports program here is on the par with that of most small colleges; the scholastic standards are gradually rising; there is definite promise of one more new building, and others may be erected within a comparatively short while; but the social program is still marked by childishness and provincialism. The absence of dancing here creates an incongruity that is distinctly harmful to the College's attempts to gain students of the highest type while competing with other schools which have an enlightened social program. Were dancing permitted here the reduction in "freshman mortality" and the increase in day student enrollment alone would more than make up for any losses which might be incurred.

High Point is one of the few colleges in the state, denominational or otherwise, that still prohibits dances. The past two years have seen several small schools, notably Guilford, Catawba, and Lenoir Rhyne recognize dancing as a wholesome social recreation. In the case of two of these schools, dancing was brought about by student agitation and petition, the exact method of approach that has been tried here. In the third school, the more direct and just as effective method of simply starting a dance in the dining hall, was used to bring about the desired end. Continued delay in the response to our first approach should and will ultimately result in our utilization of the second method. The small majority opposed to dancing at the College may finally have to be taught to swim by being pushed overboard. While we recognize and respect the sincerity of the opposition, we cannot forever allow a handful to block the progress of the College.

THE MATTER OF JOINING

Aside from being a time when benevolence reaches it zenith on the campus, and a period when parties and studied congeniality are the order of the day, rush week is a time when all prospective pledges should give thoughtful consideration to the matter of joining a fraternity or sorority.

Membership in a social club is a far more complicated matter than first appearances might lead one to believe, involving as it does personalities, finances, and individual habits.

A characteristic rushing device used by almost every college fraternal organization is the offer to make the desired pledge a leader in some campus activity or organization. A survey of the situation at High Point, however, will show that there are outstanding students in every Greek letter club; here, as elsewhere, men make the fraternities rather than the contrary.

Next to financial consideration, then, the sole basis for selection of a social club should be the matter of congeniality. Can you work and play with the present members of the club which you contemplate joining? Will you enjoy associating with them during the months to come, or will their presence seriously disturb the routine to which you have become accustomed?

THE HI-PO is strictly nonpolitical; it boosts no social club and it knocks none. In keeping with our policy of printing unbiased editorial opinion, we only ask that the prospective member consider the real issues involved in selecting a fraternity. Join where you believe that you will fit best, and let no man dissuade you by impossible promises.

THE VOGUE

WE KNOW ABOUT—

Three girls who answered a note signed "Two Boys."

A waiter who's so attached to the dining hall that he spent the biggest part if his "sleepy time" there last Saturday night.

Students who haven't had a thing in common this year, but who are now found constantly together chatting intimately and even holding hands. (Who said it was Rush Week?)

A freshwoman who thinks a star-fish is round! (Love is blind.)

A prominent freshman who has such an irresistible personality that he has been adopted by a new mother (or did he do the adopting?).

A sophomore who drives a Buick and who has been driving it around the back of Woman's Hall very frequently since a classmate of his was confined to the infirmary.

A senior woman who is reducing at such a rate that she lost three pounds over the week-end. (For secret formula see—No, we won't tell!)

A baby-faced freshwoman with bangs who has exchanged jobs with a tall, dark, and handsome sophomore. (She sweeps while he knits!)

A "come-and-get-me" blonde who has taken a back-set lately.

A student who, ever since Christmas, has been marking the days till Easter vacation. Must be expecting the Easter rabbit.

A big freshman whom we would like to ask about the origin of the passage—"All men are created free and equal."

Some lines from Tennyson which read—"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." (How'd he know Egghead would be in town for the week-end?)

A science instructor who knows the sweetest man in the world.

Somebody who said that Pudge and M. M. are the best students in Home Ec. 10.

A certain blonde senior who stood in a corner and cried, "I won't take that old nasty medicine! I wanta go home to my own bed!"

A victim of the "Flu" who, against the wishes of her nurse, ate a whole pint of ice cream and then kept the occupants of the infirmary awake half the night. (If everybody had a soda-jerker boy friend!)

A sophomore who hid some deuces prior to an exciting session of Nose Poker—for personal motives.

A senior who got it in the nose on account of those deuces.

An unhappy "nurse" who had to quarantine a whole hall to keep food-smugglers and unwanted visitors out of the sick rooms.

A student helper who has carried enough trays to sink a warship in the last few days.

A fellow who wears woolen unmentionables.

A preacher who has an evil mind.

Sunday afternoon excursions.

A lot of things we won't mention here.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '33:

Before we tell you what we know about the members of your class we want to ask you if you have heard anything in the past two years from Vernon Cannoy and Hugh McCathers. They seem to have gone into seclusion, or something like that, after graduation, and we have heard nothing from or concerning them in the past two years, at least.

We heard that Ralph Jacks is at home in Dunlap farming—Is that true? He's another one who never lets us hear from him.

As for the other members of the class, so far as we know, and we may be giving ancient history, the following concerns their present whereabouts.

Homer Bivins and Gladys Culler are each doing clerical work in High Point.

Dwight Davidson, who went on with his studies at Northwestern University, is now in Washington as a statistical expert with the Federal Housing Administration.

Lester Furr will graduate this June from the school of religion at Duke. Clarence P. Morris is going there, also, in addition to his duties as pastor of the new M. P. church in Danville, Virginia.

C. L. Gray, Jr. is in the school of medicine at Duke for the third year.

Adrian Thompson will be graduated from the Garret Biblical Institute in Evanston, Ill., and he has been assigned Halifax charge in North Carolina following his graduation.

Wilton Kimmer is continuing his studies in Philadelphia.

Dwight Nifong is preaching near Winston-Salem, and Lindsay Strader, in Anson county.

George Pussey is a chemist with the Proctor and Gamble soap company in New York City.

James Patch is mayor of the city of Clayton, New York.

Carl Smith is assistant general manager of the Y. M. C. A. in Spencer. You will probably remember that he married Angellette Prevost in May, 1934.

Joe Craver is no longer teaching but is now with the C.C.C.

Agnes Ingram is Mrs. A. D. Wardell of High Point. She was married November 30, 1933.

Bill Howard will be graduated from Westminster Theological Seminary in Westminister, Maryland, this spring and is now assistant pastor of Star church, one of the largest M. P. churches in Baltimore.

Lillie Mae Fogleman, on last August 2, became Mrs. Enos Causey of Liberty.

Elizabeth Gurley is assistant librarian of the High Point city library.

Ollie Knight is in the mercantile business with his brother-in-law in Norlina.

All we know about Kenneth Swart is that he is in Akron, Ohio. Doing what?

Howard and Margaret Pickett are working in a textile plant in Burlington.

Katie Sue Stanfield is at her home in High Point.

The rest are teaching:

Elva Cartner, Kannapolis.

Ray Graham, teaching and coaching at Yadkinville.

William Hedrick, Guilford county.

Cornelia Howard, Allan Jay in High Point.

Ida Johnson, in her home high school in Morven.

Joyce Julian, Balfour school near Asheboro.

Tyree Lindley, Eli Whitney high school, Alamance county.

Ina McAdams, High Point.

John Morgan, eighth grades at Jackson's Creek, near his home.

Unity Nash, High Point junior high.

Irma Paschall, Norlina.

Mrs. M. L. Patrick, Oak Hill, High Point.

Elizabeth Ross, Asheboro.

Tony Simeon, Kernersville high.

Jesse Smith, Walnut Cove.

If you have any information about members of this or any class, please send it to N. M. Harrison, care of the College. We are anxious to keep the news of former students up to date.

MEND THY SPEECH LEST IT MAR THY FORTUNE

Here's the sentence of the week, said by a College student, and not jokingly, either—

"Ain't you never heerd nobody. . . . ?

Ain't, as most of you know, is a word used by illiterates and shunned by educated people.

Three negatives in almost the same breath!

Heard is pronounced hurd, not heerd.

The singular of cent or of mile should be used only when meaning one cent, or one mile. When you speak of more than one, the words are plural; for example, fifty cents, twenty miles.

The Woman's Athletic Association met last Monday night for a combination business and social meeting. Among the matters discussed was the installation service which is to take place at the next regular meeting of the Association. Any girl having earned 25 points for athletic achievement is eligible for membership.

A date was set for the woman's inter-class basketball tournament, which is an annual feature, and second of a series of intra-mural sports tournaments this year. It will take place the first week in March. All women are eligible for team play, but only those attending at least half of the scheduled practices will receive credits from the Association. The first tournament—in volleyball—was won by the first year women, who were rewarded with a trip to Chapel Hill, where they were victorious over the University co-eds.

Following the business meeting the women adjourned to their new room on the third floor in Woman's Hall. The room has been equipped by the Association with various means of amusement, including ping-pong, horse-shoes, ring-peg, checkers, and card games. During the social hour ice cream and cake were provided for the members. The new room will be open to members of the sports organization at any time.

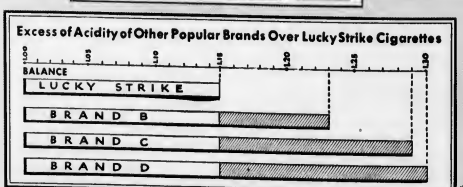

The meeting was in charge of Pauline Parker, vice-president of the Association.

STANDARDIZED UNIFORMITY

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill—uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Panther Pack Wins North State Cage Tournament

FAVORITES GO INTO FINALS OF TOURNEY

Second Division Teams Are Eliminated In First Round of Tourney by Favorites.

The first and semi-final rounds of the North State tournament here last week produced no upsets as the favored teams of the meet marched to triumphs over their opponents.

The four first division teams in the seedings, High Point, Lenoir Rhyne, Elon, and W. C. T. C. won easy victories on Thursday afternoon and night. Although the second division clubs, who were the underdogs of the tourney, put up game fights, they were definitely outclassed by the favorites.

FIRST ROUND

Atlantic Christian and W. C. T. C. took the floor for the first game at 3 p. m. The Catamounts experienced little trouble in eliminating the Bulldogs in the battle. Gaining an early lead, the "aerial circus" held a 43 to 22 lead at the intermission. However the second half saw the Bulldogs stage one of the greatest rallies of the whole tournament. Dawson, Bulldog center, got hot on the basket at the opening of the period, and pulled his teammates within 9 points of the Catamounts. Unable to hold this fast pace, the Wilson squad dropped out of the race as the Western Teachers forged into the semi-final round with a 46-36 victory.

In the second game, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears, seeded number two, turned back the number six club, the Guilford Quakers, by the score of 51-24 in an easy contest. Held down pretty well by the Quakers in the first period, the Bears turned on the steam in the second period to walk away with the victory.

The Appalachian Mountaineers, number seven, were the victims of the Elon Christians, seeded number three, in the first game of the program Thursday night. Piling up a heavy lead in the first ten minutes, the Christians coasted to an easy 56 to 31 win over Coach Flucie Stewart's charges.

High Point's Panthers won over the Catawba Indians by the score of 59 to 35 in the finals of the opening round to go into the semi-finals with the other three winners.

Leap Year Brings Panthers Fourth Loop Championship

Cagers Complete Successful Year Under Tutlege of Coach C. Virgil Yow.

Leap year brought the Purple Panther cagers their first North State crown under the tutelage of Coach C. Virgil Yow, popular High Point mentor for the past four seasons.

The championship was the fourth that the Panthers have won in what is now called the North State conference. For three successive years, '28, '29, and '30, High Point was crowned champs in the "Little Six" circuit, the forerunner of the North State conference.

Not since 1930 has High Point experienced such a measure of success on the hardwood courts of the state. After dropping their opening loop tilt to the Appalachian Mountaineers, the Purple and White clad warriors of Coach Yow staged one of the most brilliant winning streaks in the history of the circuit to capture the conference flag, which has flown over the Elon campus for the past three years.

The leap year served the Panthers with an abundance of good luck. On the extra day of the year, February 29, they climaxed the season with a smashing victory over the Lenoir Rhyne Bears to add the North State tourna-

Thalean Tossers Take Rival Team

Garlington Leads Mates to Victory Over Akrothinian Five.

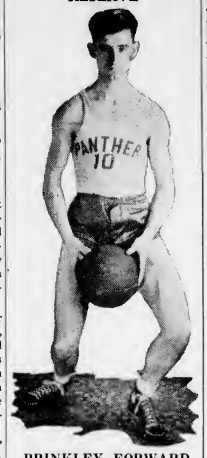

Taking an early lead last Wednesday night, the Thalean Litterary Society more than repaid the Akrothinians for a defeat earlier in the year in volleyball by completely downing them in a fast, hard-played game of basketball, 18-27.

Taking time-out from their more or less literary pursuits, these two men's societies clashed last week in a game which was filled with laughs, spills and even thrills, even giving a crowd which is used to seeing a conference championship team play, an interesting hour.

J. E. Garlington, the "biggest" man on the campus, being unable to find anyone who could hold him down, literally barged through his opponents to take the cake on the offensive, accounting for twenty-two points. He was very ably helped in the scoring department by his teammate, Lee Moser, who took care of fourteen points.

The losers furnished most of the laughs, especially as their scoring leader, Bobby Rankin,

YOW RELEASES DIAMOND CARD

Card Will Contain Around Thirty Contests When Completed.

Although still incomplete, the varsity baseball schedule, which was released yesterday afternoon by Coach C. Virgil Yow, contains 26 contests for the Panther nine this spring.

When completed, the schedule will have around 30 games, according to Coach Yow's statement in releasing the card. Opening the fireworks with a contest against the Chatham Blanketeers at Elkin on March 21, the Panthers will find little rest until they close the season with a clash against Guilford on May 13.

The schedule:

March 21—Chatham Blanketeers at Elkin.

March 28 — (Pending) — McCrary at Asheboro.

April 1 — Catawba at High Point.

April 4—Duke at Durham.

April 6 — Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory.

April 7 — Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory.

April 9—Elon at High Point.

April 10—(Pending) — Chatham Blanketeers at Elkin.

April 11—Unique Furniture at Winston-Salem.

April 13—E. C. T. C. at New Bern.

Baseball Squad Begins Work For Opening Game Of Season

Reserves Defeat Pilot All-Stars

Freshman Cagers Victorious Over Fairgrove High School Quint.

Patterning after their North State champion mates, the Purple Panther Freshman and B teams stepped out last Wednesday night to take both games in a double billed program my impressive margins, humbling the Pilot All-star quintet and the Fairgrove high school five successively.

The Purple Kittens, having already made a good name for themselves this year, continued to uphold their record as they showed their hosts a brand of defensive and offensive ball unusual in a team so young. The scoring was very evenly matched with "Big" Durland and Ray Giles having a slight edge on their teammates with six points each; Hester and S. J. Welborne, star freshmen, held down the defensive wall with skill as the forward wall pulled out the game by a 23-14 score.

In the second game of the night, "Dub" Koontz, flashy B team forward, led his team in a shooting orgee against a hard playing All-Star team, erstwhile of Pilot high school, which finally ended 39-22.

Initial Practice Held Monday Afternoon; Basketball Players to Report Soon.

Spring is here and so is baseball. Around ten men responded to a call for baseball material Monday afternoon as plans got under way to develop a diamond club that will uphold the high standards which the 1936 basketball quint of High Point College has already set.

Coach Yow intends to push practice as much as possible in order to get his men in shape for the first game which takes place on March 21st when the Panther nine meets the Chatham Blanketeers at Elkin, N. C., and all men interested are asked to report to practice every afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Making a pretty good record last year, the Purple Panther baseball nine hopes to make even a better record this year. Having practically a full team of experienced men back this year, Coach Yow has his biggest worry in the hurling department where he has only three men of any college experience. Both Harris and Rudisill, mainstays of last year's team, gained some valuable experience this past summer playing with a semi-pro league and should prove valuable to this year's team. Diamont, Culler and

LOCALS DEFEAT LENOIR-RHYNE TO TAKE TITLE

Pack Wins Over Catawba, Elon, and Lenoir Rhyne In Tourney.

Winner of the North State conference championship, the Purple Panther cagers proved their strength by taking the conference tournament title with a 49 to 39 victory over the Lenoir Rhyne Bears in the finals Saturday night.

Repeating their brilliant performances of the regular conference games during the past season, the Panthers marched through three of the toughest foes in the meet to annex the title to that of regular crown. In capturing the third straight tournament game, the Yowmen chalked up their fourteenth consecutive conference win.

Catawba, Elon, and the Lenoir Rhyne Bears were pushed aside in the three nights as the Purple and White warriors climaxed a glorious season. The contest with the Christians, on Friday night, was the toughest meet of the series for the Yowmen.

Although worn by their grueling contests in the first rounds, the Panthers put up an exhibition of the cage sport that the Bears were not able to match. Hitting the hoop with deadly accuracy in the first minutes of play, they piled up a lead which the Hickory quint was never able to overcome, although they made several desperate attempts.

Harris and Intrieri led the scoring attack of the Pointers, gaining 13 points each. Most of Intrieri's shots were long, spectacular baskets that gave the losers plenty of worry.

Although he failed to take down scoring honors, Culler played a stellar game during his last appearance in the Purple and White. He accounted for a total of 8 points, but floor work and superb passing were his outstanding features.

Three attempts at the basket, soon after the opening whistle, by Harris and Intrieri netted the Panthers 6 points. The Bears broke in the scoring column with a goal by Ward, and the race was on with the Panthers keeping their lead throughout the first half, which ended with them ahead 27-15.

Making a great bid for the trophy in the last period, the Bruins ran up their score and had the Panthers' margin down to 36-29 at one stage of the contest. The Pointers called for time out, and after a brief rest

NORTH STATE TOURNEY DRAWS LARGE CROWDS FOR CONTESTS

First Annual Cage Meet Proves To Be Big Success With High Point College As Host; Harrison Gym May Be Scene of Others.

The first annual North State conference basketball tourney came to a close last Saturday night, bringing High Point College and its students many honors and proving to be a successful affair for the local College.

Hundreds of fans attended the games of the tournament which made its debut here, starting last Thursday afternoon in the Harrison gymnasium, proving that the series was popular with the public. Thursday night's games, the openers of the night play-offs, brought out about five or six hundred spectators to see the favorites easily take their contests to advance into the semi-final round the next day. Gaining more interest Friday night when the High Point Panthers were scheduled to take on the Elon Christians, over a thousand fans congregated for the hardest fought game of the tourney; and practically the same large crowd came back for the finals on Saturday evening as the conference champions took Lenoir Rhyne for the third time of the season to annex the tourney title also.

This unusual interest shown by the fans of High Point and vicinity made it possible for the hosts to break a little more than even, according to good authority, although the visitors probably broke a little below par because of other expenses. The outcome of this tournament has shown that the people are interested in contests of this kind and will probably influence the coaches and other authorities to continue to hold a North State tourney each year with the High Point College gymnasium as its base. Nothing definite will be known until later on in the year when the coaches again convene.

CULLER AND INTRIERI GIVEN POSTS ON ALL-TOURNEY TEAM

Culler Named Captain of Mythical Quint; High Point Only Team to Take Two Positions; Bradley, McSwain, and Bradley Win Places.

Broadus Culler was named captain and forward of the first annual All-North State conference quintet at the close of the meet Saturday night. Ray Intrieri, scrappy guard, was also named for the team to give High Point two places on the team.

Culler was accorded the honor of captaining the mythical quint because of his outstanding record in the North State circle during the past four years. Coaches of the conference have named him on their official all-conference team for the past three years, and he is practically assured of a position on this year's quint, which will be released soon.

The brilliant forward measured up to his reputation during the tourney to lead his mates in three great victories.

Intrieri, clever sophomore guard for the Panthers, turned in wonderful performances during the series to earn his berth. In addition to playing a stellar defensive game, he displayed an uncanny eye for the basket, and in the final contest proved a thorn in the side of the Bears.

The North State champions were the only club to place two men on the team. Hal Bradley, Elon center, received the center position, while "Rip" McSwain, Lenoir Rhyne star, was awarded a guard post. Sammy Pritchard, Catawba ace, was given the other forward post.

Other players nominated were: Smith, Elon, forward; Tucker, Lenoir Rhyne, center; Roy, Elon; Towery, High Point; and Little, Lenoir Rhyne, guards.

The selections were made by a committee of sports writers, coaches, and officials, headed by Frank Barfield, sports editor of High Point Enterprise.

Many of the basketball men are expected to report later in the week, as the practice gets under way in full swing.

Teachers, by a 48 to 29 count. In the first few minutes of play the Bears built up a 11-point advantage before the Catamounts could tally a single point. Finding the range of the baskets, the Teachers started scoring, but were never able to catch the fast stepping Luthereans.

The arch rivals of the conference, the High Point Panthers, and the Elon Christians, fought it out for the third time this year in the second game of the semi-final round. As in the two previous matches of the year, the charges of Coach Yow were victorious over those of Coach Walker.

However, in this contest, the battle-scarred Panthers experienced more trouble than in the first two encounters. The Christians got hot in the first minutes and gained a considerable lead. The Panthers failed to register a field goal until 11 minutes of play, at which time the Christians were leading by a 9-4 mark.

Going into the second period on the short end of a 17-14 count, the Yowmen staged a desperate rally to overcome the lead of the Elonites. With each member of the squad contributing points to the total score, the locals ran up a considerable margin over the Walkermen midway of the period. However, the red team staged a rally in the closing minutes that fell short by two points as the contest ended with the Panthers ahead 36-34.

This classic was the outstanding battle of the tourney and drew the largest crowd. The two teams fought on about even terms throughout the 40 minutes of play, and gave the fans their money's worth of entertainment.

N. Y. Y.'s five "iron men" have been the sharpest menace to Eastern basketball leagues this season.

ment crown to that of the regular conference championship. Favored to win, the Yowmen turned back Catawba, Elon and Lenoir Rhyne in three successive nights to take down honors in the first conference tourney. In gaining the tournament championship, with its trophy award, the Panthers increased their prestige in the North State circle.

Coach C. Virgil Yow, a three letter man while in school here, deserves much credit for the successful year that the Panthers experienced. The cage machine, which he started building his first year here in '32-'33, clicked with wonderful precision throughout the season. After some experimenting, he hit the perfect combination with Martin and Culler, forwards, Harris, center, Intrieri and Towery, guards.

The two proverbial jinxes for the locals, the Elon Christians and the Guilford Quakers, were both pushed aside twice as the Yowmen marched through all opposition. A total of eleven consecutive conference wins were chalked up for them, with the Appalachian defeat the only blotch on an otherwise perfect conference record. Lenoir Rhyne, who took second place, finished far down with 10 victories and 4 defeats.

Starting their round of preseason games on December 7, the Panthers won over the Unique Furniture five of Winston-Salem, 36 to 20. The next week they lost to Duke, 50-22, but trampled the Chatham Blanketeers at Yadkinville.

A trip through Virginia and Maryland prior to the holidays netted two hard earned victories over Randolph-Macon and Western Maryland. After the holidays, they warmed up with a practice contest against the local Y, and then got off to a disastrous start in the circuit in the game with Appalachian. Next they came back to beat Lenoir Rhyne here by the count of 43-30.

The next week the Panthers took the road for four tough games. On their eastern trip they defeated E. C. T. C. and A. C. C. in an easy way. Swinging to the opposite direction of the state the last of the week, the Panthers met and defeated the Appalachian Mountaineers and the Catawba Indians on their own courts.

Returning to their home court, they eked out a close win over the Western Teachers, and then traveled down to Elon to administer a severe beating to the defending champions.

Hardly back in shape after their lay-off they traveled to Hickory where they won out oevr the Lenoir Rhyne Bears 41-40 in an extra-period battle. Next they returned to their home fort and successfully defended it against the terrific bombardment by the Catawba Indians and the Elon Christians on Thursday and Saturday nights.

The next week they trampled the Quakers in the lone contest. E. C. T. C. was disposed of in an easy manner, and then they marched over to Guilford to beat them in their own barn to close their twelve game conference card.

A Capella Choir To Leave On Thursday For Twelve Day Journey; Goes To New York

Choristers Will Carry Programs Into Several States on Annual Spring Tour; Radio Broadcasts To Be Included In Appeaances; Sang Twice Last Sunday.

High Point College's A Capella Choir leaves tomorrow on its annual spring tour, which this year will extend into the North as far as New York city. The choir's journey through several states will last twelve days, and the group will return to the campus on March 24.

The first stop will be at Henderson, N. C., where the choir will give a concert in the First Methodist Protestant church at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tomorrow night the singers will appear in the Byrd Park Methodist Episcopal church in Richmond, Va.

Saturday will be spent sight-seeing in Washington, D. C. Two performances are scheduled in the capital city for Sunday, March 15. At 11 o'clock the choir will sing at Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant church, and at 8 o'clock in the Starr Methodist Protestant church in Baltimore, Maryland.

Monday, March 16 will find the group in Philadelphia where three churches of that city are uniting to sponsor a program at St. Luke's Methodist Protestant church.

The following day will be spent sight-seeing in New York City. There will be no program that night. A concert will be given on Wednesday at the First Methodist Protestant church in Newark, New Jersey. Thursday night the choir will sing at the Peninsula Methodist Protestant church in Wilmington, Delaware.

Friday will take the choristers to Salisbury, Maryland, where they will sing at the Bethesda Methodist Protestant church of that city.

Saturday, March 21 will be spent fishing in the Chesapeake Bay at Norfolk.

At 3:30 o'clock on Sunday the choir will give a concert at the First Baptist church in Newport News, Va., followed at 8 o'clock by an appearance in the Ghent Methodist Episcopal church, South, in the same city.

On March 23 the Parent Teachers Association of Warrenton, N. C. will sponsor a program by the choir in the Warrenton high school. The following day will bring the singers back to the campus.

Several radio broadcasts have been arranged during the trip, and the time and place of these programs will be announced later.

The thirty-seven members of the choir, including the director, Miss Margaret Sloan, and N. M. Harrison, business manager for the group, will travel by bus and cars.

Last Sunday the College choir sang at Pfeiffer Junior College in Misenheimer at the 11 o'clock chapel exercise. Sunday evening a second program was given at the First Methodist Protestant church in Albemarle.

SENIOR CLASS WILL PRODUCE FOLK DRAMAS

Three One-Act Carolina Folk Plays To Be Given As Annual Drama Project.

MISS HAUSER DIRECTS

Seniors Undertake Ambitious Program; May Use Actors Outside Class.

Tryouts were begun yesterday afternoon for the three one-act Carolina folk-plays which will constitute the senior class dramatic offering this yesr.

The three plays are typical of the finished craftsmanship of the pupils of the University's popular "Pro[illegible]" Koch. Each is concerned with some phase of North Carolina life.

Elizabeth Lay's eerie drama of superstition in Northhampton county, "When Witches Ride," will be one of the units of the three-fold production. The scene is laid in a crossroads store on a stormy night. The characters, Uncle Benny, Jake, Ed, and Phoebe Ward, are overshadowed by the outstanding personality of the "licker jug" — the contents of which are an aid to the overactive imaginations of the humans.

Less weird and serious is "Quare Medicine," another brief drama of life among poor whites. It is proof enough that not all successful psychologists are college professors.

The most rollicking of the three plays is the short comedy-romance, "In Dixon's Kitchen." The play portrays a young farmer "courtin'" under difficulties. The hilarious adventures of the swain and his chosen—especially of the many interferences from her fam-

THALEANS ENTERTAIN AT PARTY GIVEN FOR NIKANTHAN MEMBERS

Boone Provides Main Feature of Program at Party Feting Sister Society.

The Thaleans entertained for their sister society, the Nikanthans, with a variety program in the College auditorium Thursday night.

As the Nikanthans entered the door they were given slips of paper containing the names of their partners for the evening. Each girl, leap year fashion, had to find her man and sit with him during the entertainment.

In the absence of the president, Leo Pittard, vice-president, took charge. After welcoming his "sisters" he presented to the group an outstanding Thalean, J. Vaughn Boone.

Boone, a member of the freshman class, performed a number of card tricks, several sleight-of-hand acts, and did some difficult juggling. The young magician mystified the audience by making a queen, king, and jack appear unaided out of a deck of cards. He performed the usual ball-disappearing act and made a thimble go through a handkerchief without making a hole in it.

In his usual entertaining manner, Boone acted out a modern version of a Midsummer Night's Dream. Toward the end of his program someone in the audience hid an article in the auditorium. Boone was blindfolded and led by two members of the group. After one unsuccessful attempt to lo-

Akrothinians Discuss Various Phases of Broadcasting at Weekly Meeting.

The subject of radio and radio broadcasting was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society last Thursday evening. Four men took part in the program, which followed a joint business meeting with the Artemesian Society.

Porter Hauser was first on the program with a discussion of "Radio's Man of the World." The speaker succeeded in creating suspense by giving a full description of the life and personality of his subject without revealing his name at the outset. Hauser finally told the listeners that radio's man of the world is Lowell Thomas, popular news commentator.

Harry Ershler talked about one of the most outstanding innovations of recent broadcasting history, the amateur program. His discussion centered around the most popular program of this type, Major Bowes' hour. Ersh-

Rush Week Nets 29 New Members For Greek Clubs

Fraternities and Sororities Gain Several New Members at End of Season.

Twenty-nine students at the College accepted pledges to local Greek letter social clubs at the end of the annual spring rush week which closed Friday night. Bids were issued through the office of Dean P. E. Lindley Monday morning, and answers were turned in through the same office Tuesday.

Those accepting pledges and the fraternity or sorority which they joined are as follows:

Sally Ruth Shuford, of Thomasville; Jane Tressell and Elizabeth Hoffman, of High Point, pledged to Alpha Theta Psi, day student sorority. Marjorie Elkins, of Liberty; "Jo" Walker, of Burlington; Marion Dickson and Dot Jones, both of High Point, joined Theta Phi sorority. Nancy Parham, of Henderson; Jacque Kinney, of Reidsville; Mary Frances Warlick, of Lawndale; Frances Muse, of Carthage; Pattie Redman, Ann Watkins, Sarah Jones, and Sophia Taplin, all of High Point; and Lillian Pearson, of Thomaston, Alabama, pledged Sigma Alpha Phi.

Ed Stirewalt, of High Point; George Crowell, of Trinity; Max Rogers, of Denton; G. W. Holmes, of Graham; Lester Valentine, of Winston-Salem; Porter Hauser, of Shoals; and Sheldon Dawson, of Salisbury, Maryland, accepted pledges to Iota Tau Kappa fraternity. Dwight Morgan, of Farmer; Robert Elkins, of Liberty; and Bill Hester, of Greensboro, joined Epsilon Eta Phi. Edward Grimes, of Williamston, and M. C. Henderson, Jr., of Asheboro, pledged Delta Alpha Epsilon.

The issuance and acceptance of bids came at the end of a week of rush parties given by each of the social clubs. Although the number of students pledged this year has not been as large as in some years past, fraternity and sorority leaders have generally expressed themselves satisfied with their pledges.

According to Pan-Hellenic Council regulations, initiation of new pledges must be completed within one month after the end of rush week.

Choir Sings At Regular Friday Chapel Exercise

The A Capella Choir sang before its most critical audience last Friday morning when it appeared in the College auditorium at the chapel hour. This was the second public appearance made by the choristers.

The choir opened its program with "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple," composed by the director, Miss Margaret Sloan. The group also sang "Cherubin Song," by Bortnyansky; "Now the Day Is Over," by Knight; "Peaceful Night Descending," a Basque Christmas carol; "Dark Water," by James; "Sing Noel," a French carol; and "Adoramus Te," by Dubois.

Harding Will Lecture Here Next Tuesday

Well-Known Astronomer to Appear in College Auditorium on Lyceum Program.

WRITER AND SPEAKER

Harding Replaces Elliott James as Performer For First Number This Term.

Dr. Arthur M. Harding, author, lecturer, and university professor, will be at the College on March 17. His lecture on astronomy will be the first Lyceum program this semester.

Dr. Harding is widely known as a writer and speaker on astronomical subjects. During recent years he has delivered his travelogues and lectures on elementary science and modern education in 413 cities in three-fourths of the states in the union.

He is director of the General Extension Service and professor of mathematics and astronomy at the University of Arkansas, an institution from which he graduated in 1904 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He holds the Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from the University of Chicago. He has been on the University of Arkansas faculty since 1905. Scientific and scholarship organizations to which he belongs include the American Astronomical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Mathematical Society, Mathematical Association of America, Phi Beta Kappa, and Sigma Xi.

Dr. Harding has written many magazine articles and newspaper features, has contributed to American and European scientific journals, and is co-author of four text-books on mathematics. His

Stars and Stripes Fly Over Campus As Pulley Snarls Atop Flag Pole

Old Glory is staging an endurance contest at the top of the College flag-pole beside Roberts Hall. A jam in the pulley by which the bunting is raised and lowered has kept the flag flying continuously in the March breeze since last Saturday, and no means has yet been devised whereby it can be taken down.

Official Flag-Raiser Sheldon Dawson and Bursar R. H. Gunn are considering calling out the city fire department's extension ladder within the next few days if no other method of lowering the Stars and Stripes from their position at the top of the mast can be found. It was thought that the flag-pole could be loosened at its base and swung to the ground in order to straighten out the jam in the rope, but so far Dawson and Mr. Gunn have not succeeded in doing this.

Nursery Rhymes Are Theme For Annual Banquet

Mother Goose Motif Carried Out at Artemesian-Akrothinian Banquet Saturday.

The Artemesian and Akrothinian literary societies furnished a new slant on nursery rhymes when they used the Mother Goose motif as the theme of their annual banquet on Saturday night. The decorations, special features, toasts, and favors followed the Mother Goose trend.

The banquet was presided over by Mary Parham, Artemesian president, and W. W. Weisner, vice-president of the Akrothinians.

Following an invocation by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College, Mary Parham gave the welcome with a toast entitled "Boys and Girls Come Out to Play."

Appropriate toasts were given to the school, the faculty, the alumni, the mascot, and the Nikanthans and Thaleans by Edith Crowder, Mary Frances Gerringer, Nancy Parham, and Bobby Rankin, respectively. These were appreciatively responded to by Dr. P. E. Lindley, Miss Mary Young, Adylene McCollum, Betty Auman, and Lois Hedgecock. Each carried with it a modern version of some nursery rhyme.

The Sheraton and DeMolay Orchestras furnished the rhythm for the banquet. Among their numbers were "Rhythm in My Nursery Rhymes," and "Eenie, Meenie, Minie, Mo."

As special features, little Alice Fulton gave a tap dance, Anne Wood told a quaint story of Mother Goose rhymes to music, and Betty Auman, Artemesian mascot, responded to her toast with a tap dance and a recitation.

A highlight of the program was the presentation of the annual awards given by alumni members of the society. George Crowell, '29, who delivered the annual society day oration, was presented the Hauser Oratorical Award by W. W. Weisner.

The decorations for the banquet were a suitable setting for

Admiral Byrd To Speak In City Next Thursday

Admiral Richard E. Byrd will lecture at the senior high school in High Point on Thursday, March 19, it has been announced.

The famed polar explorer is appearing in the city under the auspices of the Altrusa Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club. Admiral Byrd is widely known as a lecturer and writer, and is said to be the greatest living explorer. He has flown across both the North and South poles, one of the few men in history to accomplish this feat, and he has led two scientific expeditions into the Antarctic continent.

Tickets may be bought at the College from Miss Sidney Brame, director of physical education for women. Admission for school and college students will be twenty-five cents.

Davidson Chief Speaker At Annual Society Day Of Two Literary Clubs Last Saturday

Akrothinians and Artemesians Hear Washington Man Talk on "Progress" at Celebration Held Here Saturday; Project Presented in Behalf of All Societies.

Dwight M. Davidson, Jr., of Washington, D. C., a graduate with the class of '33 and now employed as a statistician for the Federal Housing Administration, delivered the main address at the eighth annual Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day held at the College Saturday.

Speaking on the subject of "Progress" Davidson suggested that some of the maladjustment in present day society has been brought about by the failure of social development to keep pace with the advancements of science. He said that progress must be more than physical; it must also be mental, moral, and social.

"Something has been wrong," Davidson said, "Some essential adjustment which would enable us to realize the complete benefits of our advancement has not been made."

He traced the attempts made by government regulation and other agencies to bring about the proper adjustment. Although convinced that changes must be made, he defended the American economic and social order as distinctive to American people. Present progress must not be junked, he said, nor must future advancement be forfeited, but technological advancement must be accepted with limitstions.

"The production of wealth and scientific progress," Davidson said, "should provide human satisfaction and a decrease in the amount of effort required in productive processes."

He stated that to accept technological progress and to realize the advantages it has to offer, the nation must seek the encumbrent implications and so adjust its social as well as economic institutions. Since individually we at least partially failed to do this, we may safely expect an increase in the necessary functions of the federal government, Davidson said.

"We have technological progress," he said in conclusion, "and we have implications and adjustments. Unified action is necessary to find and to make the necessary adjustments and above all to avoid sudden adherence to some absurd, fantastic, and one-sided solution."

The Society Day celebration opened Saturday morning with the devotionals in charge of Catherine Browne, followed by a brief welcome given by Mary Parham, president of the Artemesians.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Mrs. Ed Mendenhall, who sang a vocal solo, and Iris Welch, who played a number on the flute. Both were accompanied at the piano by Ernestine Strickland.

In the absence of the Akrothin-

SPEAKERS WIN FIVE DEBATES AT ROCK HILL

Local Forensic Squad Victorious in 5 Out of 12 Contests at Tourney.

WAKE FOREST AT TOP

High Point's Affirmative Team Wins Three Debates; Negative Takes Two.

The College debating teams won five out of twelve contests at the Southeastern Forensic tournament held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of last week at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.

High Point's affirmative team, Ferree and Morgan, won three out of the six contests in which they participated. They debated teams from Piedmont College, of Georgia; Bristol College, of Tennessee; Stetson University, of Florida; Lenoir Rhyne, of North Carolina; Carson-Newman College, of Tennessee; and Presbyterian College, of South Carolina. However, it has not yet been learned to which of these teams the local debaters lost and over which they won, since the final results of all the debates have not been tabulated.

The local negative team, consisting of Wood and Garlington, won two out of six debates against Piedmont College, North Carolina State College, Wake Forest, Catawba, Mooschead State Teachers College, and the College of Charleston.

Wake Forest's debating teams were declared winners of the tournament and of the North-Carolina state championship this year. Maryville College, of Tennessee, tournament defending champions, won only four debates this year but placed high in the oratorical, extemporaneous, and impromptu

BASKETBALL TEAM TO BE FETED AT DINNER AND DANCE SATURDAY

Alumni Join With Business Men in Honoring North State Champion Squad.

The North State champions of the court will be honored at a banquet and dance Saturday night at the Sheraton Hotel by the business men of the city together with local alumni members.

Frank Robbins, chairman of the arrangement committee, states that the affair should prove to be one of the biggest celebrations ever given to a High Point team. A similar event was sponsored last year by the same group, but the banquet was restricted to members of the varsity squad. This time all the students will be able to purchase tickets for the banquet and dance.

Local basketball fans, and alumni members have given the Panthers plenty of support this year, and officials are expecting a large crowd to turn out for the final celebration of the season.

The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock. During the course of the program, the letters for the season will be awarded along with other awards. The majority of the students are expected to attend the dance, which begins promptly at 8:30. Students are urged to be on time, as the affair will close at 12 o'clock.

Separate tickets for each event will go on sale Friday. Alson Gray, H. B. Haughtaling, and George Ingle will have charge of the tickets here on the campus.

Variety Program Given At Meeting

Topics on Radio and Music Feature Weekly Program of Artemesian Society.

The Artemesian Literary Society held its regular meeting in the College auditorium last Thursday night.

Following the roll call and the reading of the minutes, the program for the evening was presented.

"Troubles in Tin-Pan Alley" was discussed by Margaret Dixon. "Scenery of Radio," was the subject of Virginia Ellison's talk. Lillian Pearson played a piano solo, which was followed by a talk on "From Tap to Riches," given by Lucille Ingram.

Jacqueline Kinney talked on "From Amateur to Star," and Olivia Amos closed the program with a discussion of "Amateur Hour."

The annual Society Day was discussed at a joint business meeting with the Akrothinians preceding the Artemesians' program. Final plans were made in a separate business session before the meeting adjourned.

ATTENDANCE AT SOCIETY DAY

The attendance, interest, and enthusiasm of the majority of the student body seems to have been the only thing lacking at the annual Akrothinian-Artemesian Society Day celebration here Saturday. Although the speakers on the program Saturday morning succeeded in attracting the attention of the few students industrious enough to attend, all too many took advantage of the suspension of classes to spend the week-end at home, or to sleep, or to play bridge.

The College cannot afford to continue to suspend classes two days each year for society celebrations if the members of these organizations do not show enough interest to attend their own events; nor can alumni members afford to accept invitations to speak at these celebrations, sometimes at a great cost of time and money, if only a handful of students turn out to listen to what they have to say. No one likes to speak before row after row of empty seats.

If society days are to be continued at High Point, the membership of the literary organizations must show more interest than they have shown for the past several years. Society days were started as a result of genuine interest and demand, but students now show little enthusiasm for celebrating the founding of their organizations. Already the Administration is seriously considering combining the two celebrations in order to save the time lost, and it is not at all impossible for society days to be abandoned altogether unless more interest is aroused.

BON VOYAGE, CHORISTERS

The College A Capella Choir tomorrow starts on its annual mission of culture, this time planning to invade one of the world's greatest music centers, New York City. THE HI-PO wishes the personnel of the choir success on this journey, confident that the singers will continue to receive the commendation that has greeted their programs in years past.

The choir has always been a worthy representative of the musical talent at High Point College, and thousands of people throughout the eastern part of the United States have received a good impression of the institution through the choir's programs. The choristers are a sort of ambassadors sent out from the College, and their appeal is to a substantial group of people. Interest in the choir has been influential in bringing a number of students to High Point.

THE DEBATERS DO WELL

Although High Point failed to keep the state debating championship which it won last year, the new coach and his four men, three of whom were inexperienced, deserve much credit for their showing at the recent forensic tournament held with Winthrop College.

Starting the season with only one man available from last year's squad, Mr. Owens has worked patiently with green material and has been successful in training teams that won five out of twelve contests against formidable opposition. There is much promise in the group of freshmen and sophomores who tried out for debating this year, and the College should continue triumphs on the platform for the next several years.

The Southeastern Forensic tournament is an institution of growing importance that attracts more and more schools every year. This event probably has done more to arouse interest in debating and public speaking among the colleges of the South than any other influence, and the competition becomes keener each year. Yes, High Point's debaters have done well to win five out of twelve contests this year.

"The professor or the student who is notably pious is an exception, somewhat embarrassed by a prevalent suspicion of enfeebled intellect." Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox of Union College dwells on the passing of the religious collegian.

THE VOGUE

WE HAVE HEARD—

That two freshmen at the Artemesian-Akrothinian banquet got lost in a faculty forest—poor babes in the woods!

That a tall, brunette sophomore woman has joined the Humane Society. (Ask Julia who cried when she ran over the crummy canine.)

That Cerelda Lackey has changed her name—everybody calls her Ice cream now!

That Pudge and Dot have a new version of "Tulip-time in Holland"—To them it's "Toddy-time in High Point."

The choir members who take Educational Psychology are laughing up their sleeves because the test doesn't come until after they leave for the North. (Why laugh, songsters? Ya can't win!)

Miss Young, Dot Bell, and the Bates sisters are planning to move to Alaska and raise rhubarb.

That Heppy has a new enthusiasm—crossword puzzles!

WE NOMINATE—

As successor to Peter Pumpkin-Eater—a certain French teacher who locked his wife in.

As saturated blankets — two hefty canarics who went bus-slumming Sunday.

As Gertie, the Giraffe with a love complex—the erstwhile Chattering Chimpanzee (alias Tittering Terror).

As prize suckers—the people who saw "Red-Hot Steppers."

As seat-mates for the choir trip—Craver and Wright (Just to help everybody else along!)

For the Congressional Medal—any person who can keep that bus running throughout the choir trip.

As a clothes designer—whoever dressed Little Boy Blue and Little Jack Horner Saturday night.

As successor to Jack of Beanstalk fame—the big promoter who almost knocked a church down Sunday—he caught it just in time.

For the lunatic asylum—all survivors of the Northern tour.

As campus physician—Doc Harrison, castor oil dispenser.

To be strung along—the rising young guitar strummer who can't confine his activities to the campus.

Fearing that he will be exposed, each member of the debating squad refuses to disclose any of the laughs of the recent trip. But somehow it has leaked out that the girls ganged up on one bashful member of the squad—No, it wasn't Wood—and Garlington is too easily seen in the dark. That narrows it down a bit.

We also understand that while the coach was pursuing research studies in the realms of feminine speakers, Wood, speaking extemporaneously on "The School Slacker," looked around, saw no professor—and gave the crowd a brief sketch of C. B. Owens, who didn't show up to hear Wood speak.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '32:

William Jarrell, in addition to "bringing home the bacon" for Margaret Louise Hayden to fry since 1934, is practicing law in High Point. He went to Harvard law school after his graduation from the College. His office is in the Security National bank building.

Talton Johnson and Gladys Morris were married May 11, 1934, you remember. They are at home in Burlington where Talton works in a textile mill and is active in church work; in fact, he is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Lewis Bethea is with the Soil Erosion department in Washington. He travels out from there as a kind of supervisor.

Frank Robbins is keeping books for the Robbins Knitting mills in High Point.

Lawrence Lee and his wife, who was Maloie Bogle, are at home in Elk Park, N. C., where "the Bishop" has a pastorate. He graduated from the Duke school of religion in '34.

Lewis Mabry graduated last spring from Westminster Theological Seminary located in Westminster, Maryland, and is now pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church in Lexington.

Clay Madison has been pastor of the First M. P. church in High Point for the past two years. His church is to entertain the General conference in May, so he is rather busy with that in addition to his usual pastoral duties. Clay was in the hospital for quite a while at the first of the year, but he seems to be getting along fine now. After graduation he attended the University of Chicago for two years and then was chaplain in C.C.C. camps in western North Carolina for scveral months.

Clifford Pearce received his B. D. from Duke last year and is now pastor of a church in Gibsonville.

Clarence Isley is pastor of the First M. P. church in Albemarle.

There are only a few teachers in the class.

Grace Koontz, teaching in High Point; Nathalie Lackey, English and French at Fallston high school; E. M. Macon, principal Churchland high school in Davidson county; Thelma Moss, Johnson Street school in High Point; Lala Lindley, Alamance county; Bill Ludwig, Salisbury; Eleanor Young, Belmont; Jester Pierce, Aulander; Iris Routh, High Point; Sally Wood, eastern North Carolina; Mary Lee Briles, Troy; Lula Belle Black, ?; Eloise Best, High Point; Reuche Chadwick, and Fern Daniel, Guilford county; and Truth Isley, music in Alexander Wilson and Eli Whitney high schools.

These, in addition to teaching, are married:

Juanita Andrews is Mrs. G. C. Peace, was married May 24, '35, and is teacher at Reids. Harvey Radcliff married Airee White, of Morven, and teaches in Northampton county; Harvey Warlick married Pearl Cornwell, from Fallston, in '35, we think it was, and teaches in Fallston; Zeb Denny and Sue Morgan were married last August and now live in Roanoke Rapids where Zeb teaches and coaches in the high school and Sue clerks in one of the stores; Gladys Guthrie is Mrs. Bruce Pugh—has been since March, 1935, with her home near Franklinville and still teaches at Grady's Chapel; and Frances Patton has been Mrs. Ralph O. Smith since August 4, 1934, and is teaching in Guilford county.

Verdie Marchbanks taught two or three years at Eli Whitney high school, found a man—"tall, dark, and handsome"—and became Mrs. French Holt early last summer. They lived in Greensboro until her husband was transferred to Clarksburg, West Virginia.

Angellette Prevost and Carl Smith were married in May, 1934, and she is now desk clerk at the Y. M. C. A. in Spencer where Carl is assistant general manager.

Olive Thomas is now Mrs. J. W. Wible of Pike Road, Alabama. She was married in early June about the same time Verdie was. She also taught home economics for several years.

Wilbur Brantley married Maude Hamil of High Point and they are making their home here.

Martha Hall is a social case worker for the welfare department in High Point.

Blanche Hockaday is in charge of the altering department in a ladies' ready-to-wear store in Roanoke Rapids.

Allen Hastings is in the lumber business in Seaford, Delaware.

Roger Watson is with the Soil Erosion in High Point.

Frances Pritchett is doing clerical work with the distributing plant of the Gulf Refining company in Burlington.

Fielding Kearns was doing clerical work in High Point.

Since writing the above about "Bishop" Lee, we have learned that he has had a nervous breakdown and is now in Grace hospital in Banners Elk.

We do not have any information concerning the whereabouts of Harry Johnson, do you?

Since last time we have learned that Ralph Jacks is teaching, and that Ben James' address is 407 Woodlawn avenue in Greensboro.

Do you know any changes in the information we have about the members of your, or any other class? If you do, won't you write Mr. Harrison or somebody at the College so that we can keep up with the alumni?

"Quotable Quotes"

"Of course, I don't intend to refuse the money when it comes, but I don't think I'm really entitled to it." Prof. Donald Gates of St. Thomas College offers original comment on the bonus payment.

"The compulsory loyalty oath for teachers is a symptom of "national nervousness." Dr. Harry M. Wriston, president of the Association of American Colleges, fondles the nation's pulse.

"At 17, many high school and preparatory school students are sufficiently mature to enter college." Harvard's Dean of Freshmen Delmar Leighton would lower the legal limit.

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product. All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

By Alton Hartman

yours truly,
alton hartman.

S. S.—Well, that ends another season. But there was a lot more to the basketball season than appeared in the papers. Of course all the results have been covered by the papers, but many of the things that sometime spells the difference between a winner and a loser have gone unnoticed. Practically no dissension has appeared in the team, but unselfish teamwork has been predominate throughout the season. The cheer leaders, the band, and the students who have turned out in great numbers not only for the home games but for those away, have all helped the team by lending their moral support.

—o—

There is one man behind the scenes who has seen that the players performed their part in this drama. The "Big Director" has directed the court activities of the Purple and White teams for four years, but it was the fourth year that he has realized one of his highest ambitions. Coach started building this winning machine his first year here, and after three years of patient work, had finished a team that clicked with wonderful precision in North State circles. Many small problems, which always confront a coach, have been smoothed out by Yow this year. Coach C. Virgil Yow, (he prefers the full name) deserves a lot of praise for turning out probably the best court team ever to don the Panther uniforms.

—o—

No. 9 doesn't live here any more—That will be heard along the basketball sidelines next year when the Panthers attempt to defend their title, without the services of their star, Broadus Culler. There is no use repeating all the good things said about him; we have nothing but praise. Without doubt he is the most outstanding athlete ever to attend High Point College, and one of the most colorful athletes in the state. Soccer, baseball, basketball—all these sports look alike to the "Little Wonder."

—o—

But to get back to the fact that No. 9 doesn't live here any more. Immediately after the final game of the conference tourney, Coach Yow stated that the No. 9 jersey would not be used again while he was Coach here. A fine tribute to Culler. We hope that this number is never used again by the court team. (Culler saw to it that at least the present one would see no more service.)

—o—

ABOUT THE SEASON:

The biggest upset — The Appalachian win over the Panthers, 28-27, in the opening conference game of the season. (This could also be labeled the most disappointing game of the season.)

The most thrilling game—The Lenoir Rhyne game at Hickory, when the Panthers increased their conference lead with an extra period victory over the Bears.

The most valuable goal—Tige Harris' goal which tied the count in the Lenoir Rhyne game three seconds before the final whistle. To refresh your memory, Culler sank a field goal and a foul in the extra period to give the Panthers the game.

The most valuable player—Broadus Culler.

The "hardest" puller for the team—Sheldon Dawson. (Don't pull the rope so hard next time.)

The proudest Panther — Coach Yow (after the Panthers had finished the season by taking both titles).

The best sports that the Panthers have met — Pat Shores and his Lenoir Rhyne Bears get the vote.

The biggest booster — Frank Barfield. (But what makes him bet the other way?)

The "forgotten" man — Frank Niernsee. . . . Frank was slated to go places with the Panthers this year, but was kept on the sidelines with an injured knee. This was a tough piece of luck for him and the team. Here's hoping for better luck next time.

The most loyal alumnus—We hesitate to make any nominations. . . . But the Panthers have the Robbins brothers and Ed Hedrick to thank for the banquet and dance Saturday night.

The loudest cheerer—Tasker Williams.

The most superstitious — Coach Yow—he always puts on some new piece of clothing before a game.

The big puzzle—Did Elon really put up the yellow flag?

Sophs Capture Cage Title In Class Tourney

Second Year Men Swamp Seniors in Finals of Court Series.

Treating the seniors to the most humiliating defeat of the intra-mural basketball tourney, the versatile sophomores annexed the class championship title Tuesday afternoon, March 3, in the Harrison Gym, as they won the final contest by a 17-42 score.

The seniors, having won over the juniors in the semi-final round the day before, had earned the right to meet the second year men, who had gone undefeated throughout the second round, in the finals; and for most of the first half these two teams seemed to be more or less evenly matched as each team swapped goals.

Leading by two points at the beginning of the second period, the sophomores at once began to pull away from their ragged opponents as Niernsee, expert soph came forward, tossed the ball in the basket from all angles, taking advantage of the better breaking offensive attack which his teammates offered and the weak defensive work of the seniors. Accounting for eleven points, Niernsee was very ably helped by Rankin and Garlington as the five sophomores kept the ball in friendly hands most of the time, allowing their upper-classmen opponents very few chances at scoring.

Mattocks and Parker, winning guards, showed the handful of fans a good brand of defensive playing, allowing their men only a minimum of points.

Playing a hard but losing game for their teammates, Lee Moser and Atley Hartman, star senior forwards, took care of the scoring for the losers, while Ferree and Wood worked hard at the defensive part of the game.

This is the second time of the season that the sophomores have walked away with an intra-mural sport, having won the class volleyball tournament earlier in the year, patterning after their North State basketball champion classmates in taking all before them.

Art Lecture Tonight

Colonel John Blair will lecture on "Art Appreciation" tonight at 8:00 o'clock, it has been announced by Dorothy McCullum, president of the Angelus Club, the organization which is sponsoring his appearance here.

The lecture, which will be given in classroom number five in Roberts Hall, will be illustrated by about fifty reproductions of art masterpieces which Colonel Blair owns. While the lecture will be of particular interest to members of the Angelus Club, visitors will be welcome at this meeting, Miss McCullum said.

"People will learn better how to live, how to accomplish their purposes with less friction and more efficiency." Dr. William O. Hotchkiss of Rensselaer Polytech envisions happy days for the next generation.

BASEBALL SQUAD WORKS HARD FOR INITIAL GAME; SEVERAL MORE CANDIDATES REPORT

Hartman Is Named Baseball Manager

G. I. Humphreys, Jr. to Serve as Assistant Manager For Team.

Atley Hartman, a member of the senior class, has been appointed manager of the varsity baseball team, it was recently announced by Coach C. Virgil Yow.

Hartman will take over the managerial post filled last year by James "Bugger" Warlick, athletic director and instructor at Evergreen high school this year. The present manager served as assistant under Warlick last year.

He is vice-president of the senior class, and a member of the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity.

G. I. Humphreys, Jr. will serve the necessary apprenticeship this year, with expectations of assuming the managership next year. It has been the custom for the managers to work as assistants before taking the full duties. The post carries many responsibilities, and the occupant is rewarded with a letter at the close of the season.

No announcement has been made of the selection of the baseball captain.

Prospects Bright for Successful Season as Locals Start Second Week of Practice

After a week of batting and fielding practice the Purple Panther baseball camp is now pulling into full swing with about twenty men reporting for action, showing prospects of a winning team being produced.

With the players who also played varsity basketball reporting to the camp after a short rest the full number of prospects are now being whipped into shape. Coach Yow, with a conference basketball crown behind him, now hopes to pick a North State baseball title threat out of his full team of monogram men, depending on the freshmen and other material to furnish him any replacements which he deems necessary to be made.

Harris and Rudisill, chief batteries for the locals, have again gotten into suits, taking short work-outs on the mound preparing for a hard season while Brinkley has been slowly grasping the first base position with Koontz taking the second sack, Martin the shortstop and Culler the third base stronghold. Diamont and Elder are fighting for the backstop place while out in the outfield Red Dorsett, Grigg, Isley, Waggoner, Giles, and Jarrett are competing for jobs.

From now on with the full amount of material out for practice training will be begun with full steam ahead in preparation for the first game which will be played March 21st at Elkin, with the Chatham Blanketeers.

FEW INTERESTED IN MARRYING FOR CASH

Both Students and Parents Put Love Above Money in Choosing Mate.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — You may think you'd like to marry money, but the chances are that when you come to a decision you won't much care.

At least this attitude is indicated in a six-year survey of the problem just completed by Dr. Ray Baber, Professor of Sociology in New York University.

Dr. Baber, who conducts a course at the university's Washington Square College entitled "Marriage and Family Life," interviewed 642 college students and 220 parents on the matter of choosing a marriage partner.

The students, 321 young men and 321 young women, declared that economic status was a matter of small concern when it came to selecting a mate, since 93 per cent of the men said they would marry a girl of lower economic rank than their own and 82 per cent of the women were of the same opinion.

Not so many of the 220 parents (105 fathers and 115 mothers) took the same view of the question. Sixty-six per cent of the fathers declared they would be willing to allow their daughters to marry a person of lower economic rank and 69 per cent of the mothers agreed.

Fifty-eight per cent of the men and 42 per cent of the women would marry outside their own faith, while on the question of intelligence, the men voted 76 per cent in favor of a less intelligent mate, 18 per cent of the women.

BEARD CALLED ASSET BY COLLEGE STUDENT

Minnesota Senior Says Hirsute Decorations Help End Inferiority Complex.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn.—Losing an inferiority complex, finding a broadminded, intelligent girl or impersonating a faculty member are all as easy as growing whiskers, in the opinion of Herbert Jensen, University of Minnesota senior, who is the owner of the school's only undergraduate beard.

"Everyone I meet suggests a reason for my beard," he says. "Just to clarify the situation, let me say that I have not been disappointed in love. I am not trying to establish myself as a campus personality, and I am not mentally deficient.

"I'll admit, though, that it does not exactly please most girls. But at least I have the assurance that any girl who goes out with me is broadminded and intelligent," says the bearded man, who has not revealed the number of such girls at Minnesota.

Cultivation of the beard has been a matter of perserverance, explains Jensen. It received a severe set-back when only two weeks old—a number of his fraternity brothers, doubtless motivated by petty jealousy, forcibly removed a considerable portion of it.

Sherrill Leaves For Spring Camp

Former Panther Hurling Ace With Rochester Club This Year.

Lee Sherrill, former Panther hurler who joined the professional ranks last spring, left yesterday morning for Bartow, Florida, where he will report for spring training at the camp of the Rochester club.

After making an outstanding record as an athlete during his two years here, the big right-hander signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals last March, and was placed with Asheville, the Card's farm in the Piedmont league. Despite the fact that this was his first year in professional ball, he made an impressive record on the mound for the Tourists. In 22 starts he broke even, winning 11 and losing the same number. In addition to these games, he served as relief pitcher in many contests, probably working in a total of 45 games.

Sherrill took a step up this spring when he was sent to the Rochester club, a member of the International league. Although he may be switched later, he will get his fling at faster ball this spring. Many baseball experts predict that this is a stepping stone towards major league ball.

Returning last fall, Sherrill continued work towards an A. B. degree, and expects to complete his college education next semester. He has been ineligible for baseball since turning pro, but played with the College soccer team last fall. The shinbusters are not members of any college conference, and there are no rules to prevent his playing. He was elected captain of the soccerites for the next year at the close of the season.

He was the mainstay of the hurling staff of Coach Yow's nine during his two years' stay here. He made a record for himself in the North State circles his second year by winning 11 games in 14 starts against conference teams. He played football his freshman year.

Netmen Start Practice For Busy Season

Racqueteers Meet Appalachian Netmen in Opening Match April 1.

Spring is well on its way. Plans are already being made to put five of the College's tennis courts in shape for play before April first when the racquet wielders first take the field in competition with Appalachian College on the home ground.

Several players are already getting into shape in preparation for a hard season, hoping to pull an upset this year in the conference circle by pulling out top honors. Losing only two men by graduation and gaining two of new material, the Panther tennis team is the strongest since the game first made its debut here four years ago. Frank Niernsee, George Armfield and Dale Jarrett will probably take care of the first three positions on this spring's team, with Rogers, White and Cooper or Setzer holding down the remaining niches. Niernsee and Jarrett finished up in one two order during the fall tournamets, showing considerable skill both on their offensive and defensive strokes, and should give their opponents in the collegiate competition some real trouble. George Armfield, a man of a good deal experience and skill, will probably give Niernsee a close race for the number one position during the spring tournament, making a welcome addition to the club.

Captain Rogers announced Monday that though the full tennis schedule has not been arranged as yet the first match will take place on the local courts when Appalachian comes here on April 1; the Panther team then takes the road on a two or three day trip to meet Appalachian on April 2 at Boone, Lenoir Rhyne on the third and probably several other teams which are now pending.

When a member's father needed a transfusion recently, the entire University of Minnesota chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon offered blood.

the theme. The tables were arranged in U-shaped formation, centering the main table at which the toast-master and toast-mistress sat. To the left of the entrance was a fenced-in garden where Marjorie Daw's see-saw was in full swing. The right side of the entrance was reserved for the orchestra. In the center of the U, grassy and soping, was the hill of Jack and Jill, with the well at the top. At the foot of the hill was a white house, and the waiters and waitresses—representing various familiar nursery rhyme characters — were scattered about in this Mother Goose Land.

The banquet was concluded with the singing of the Artemesian song.

SOCIETY STUDIES RADIO PROGRAMS

ler told how the Major's performers are selected from among the hundreds who try out, and how the completed program is finally presented to the listening public.

Elijah Diamont went into another phase of broadcasting with a discussion of "Quackery in Radio." He revealed how the radio is sometimes misused and overcommercialized by unscrupulous persons, particularly advertisers of patent remedies. He also said that news is sometimes faked by stations too eager to scoop competing newspapers, and that sports broadcasts are given more color than they deserve in an effort to attract listeners.

The business side of radio programs was discussed by Weisner, who talked on "Does Radio Advertising Pay?" He discussed the fundamental aims of all types of advertising, and compared radio programs with other selling mediums. He finally came to the conclusion that good programs, combined with effective sales talks, are worth the money that is spent on them. Inferior programs, however, compare unfavorably with newspaper and magazine space for advertising, the speaker said.

This is the most ambitious senior effort since the class of '34 produced Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest." Three casts, three stage settings, and three sets of properties and costumes will be required. It is possible that, because of the smallness of their class, the seniors will resort to other classes for part of the characters necessary to the presentation of the three plays.

Miss Margaret Hauser, of High Point, will direct the plays.

Twenty-three schools from eight states sent well over 100 delegates to the tournament at Winthrop this year, and it has been decided to hold the meeting with the same school again next year.

The question used in all the debates was the Phi Kappa Delta query, Resolved: That Congress Should Have the Power to Override by a Two-thirds Majority Vote Decisions of the Supreme Court Declaring Laws Passed by Congress Unconstitutional.

Wood took part in the preliminaries of the extemporaneous speaking contest held in connection with the tournament. He was High Point's only entry in the individual speaking competition.

It may well be that the single standard of morality is slowly cracking up under the ravages of this evil age, or it may just be that anyone, including a Ph.D. can do about anything he wishes with figures.

During its year and a half of existence this column has witnessed and reported campus "surveys" of every conceivable type—from the average number of hairs in a fraternity boy's eyebrows to the number of years it takes the average banker's son to get through college.

And all this faithful following of the college press has at last been rewarded.

We can now present to you the results of the purity survey on the campus of Queen's University. "Purity" in the personal, intimate, whisper-and-snicker sense.

It seems that the women are 66.4 per cent pure while the men are but 59.3 per cent virtuous.

The test consisted of 18 questions and was given to 150 students. Questions varied. One was, "Do you smoke?"

One girl turned up with a perfect score, and one man got 99.5 per cent holiness. He was the one who admitted he had once smoked a cigaret.

It appears, according to a professor at Kansas State College, that college, after all, does perform a developmental function. This professor maintains that dumb students get more out of attending college than the naturally bright ones. He says he has shown that the gains made by the former are both absolutely and relatively greater.

Along with this we might report a study made by the University examiner at Ohio State University who says that the bright boys and girls of high school finish college still at or near the top of the list.

A strange tale of the consequences of a mistake made in translation of a book on basketball rules is brought to the University of Minnesota by a student, Carl Hensel, who has just returned from the University of Vienna.

Hensel said he found the Austrian students playing basketball as they learned it from an American rule book. But in translation they thought they were to use an oval ball instead of a round one. So night after night, before cheering throngs, the Austrian college men fought around the wooden floor, tripping over one another while trying to dribble a football. Eventually they came out on the court with a round ball—but whether the translator's mistake had been found or their own ingenuity was responsible, Hensel did not know.

University of Kentucky Player Now In Care of Famous N. Y. Specialist.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Knoxville, Tenn.—Almost completely incapacitated as a result of severe brain injuries suffered in the Thanksgiving Day game with the University of Kentucky team, Herbie Tade, star University of Tennessee center, is in the care of a famous New York brain specialist today, while students and football fans of both states push a drive to establish a fund for his care.

One thousand dollars has already been raised to defray present expenses, and if in the judgment of the New York specialist Tade's case is hopeless, additional money will be sought with a view toward establishing a permanent trust fund for the injured gridiron hero.

Tade was hurt in the closing minutes of the Kentucky-Tennessee game last fall. Throughout the last half, with Tennessee far behind, he had been the main pillar of defense and one of the explanations of his almost fatal injury is believed to lie in the fact he had so completely played himself out.

Harding Speaks At College On Astronomy for First In Second Term Lyceum Series

University of Arkansas Man Brings Popular Lecture on Stars and Planets.

ILLUSTRATES REMARKS

Lecturer Uses Charts and Slides to Demonstrate Verbal Statements.

Dr. Arthur M. Harding, professor of mathematics at the University of Arkansas, last night lectured at the college in the first lyceum program of the second semester. His subject was astronomy.

Dr. Harding humorously began his lecture with the statement that once the answer to the sum of three and four was simply seven, but now the answer begins, "When in the course of human events," and goes on for hours. He told of the small boy who illustrated the effects of heat and cold with the graphic statement, "In the summer it's hot and the days get long; in winter it's cold and the days get short."

The lecturer said that a train traveling at the speed of one mile a minute would take 93,000,000 minutes to go from the earth to the sun. Had this train started on its journey in July, 1776, it would still be far from its destination.

Further illustrating the tremendous distances in space, Dr. Harding said that an aeroplane traveling from the earth at 200 miles an hour would take 53 years to reach the sun. To demonstrate the speed with which heavenly bodies travel, the speaker said that when one looks at the sun, he doesn't see it in its present location, but he sees where it was eight minutes previously.

Dr. Harding demonstrated the relative position and size of the nine planets by means of charts. He included in his charts the newest of the family, Pluto, discovered in 1930. The lecturer showed the various phases of the moon by means of telescopic photographs.

The speaker spoke briefly on the various constellations which are to be seen in the heavens, giving special attention to the great and little dippers. He referred to the Pole Star of the great dipper group as "Nature's clock."

ADMIRAL BYRD SPEAKS IN LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING TOMORROW

Famed Polar Explorer Lectures Under Auspices of 2 Organizations In City.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famed polar explorer, lectures tomorrow afternoon and night at the senior high school auditorium in High Point. His appearance here is sponsored by the Altrusa club and the Business and Professional Girls' club.

Admiral Byrd is perhaps the most outstanding explorer living today, and his visit to this city is attracting wide atention. A formal welcome, headed by Mayor C. S. Grayson, has been planned for him, and his two lectures are expected to be attended by capacity audiences.

Byrd is one of the few men in history who has been over both the North and South Poles. Following his successful conquest of the Arctic regions in 1926, Admiral Byrd turned his attention to the South polar regions, and has since led two expeditions to the Antarctic continent. Byrds' expeditions have been marked by the use of modern equipment, such as aeroplanes, snow tractors, insulated houses, and the latest scientific apparatus for the study of physical conditions of the country.

Byrd is the author of "Little America" and numerous magazine articles. He has gone on lecture tour following each of his expeditions, and he has always been well received by his audiences.

Tickets to the lecture have been on sale for some time in the College Book Store. These tickets are good only for the afternoon lecture tomorrow.

Tentative Casts For Senior Play Projects Chosen

Tryouts Continue as Senior Class Goes Ahead With Plans for Folk Dramas.

A number of tentative selections have been made for the casts of the three one-act plays which the senior class plans to present late in April or early in May. Further casting will be taken care of in the immediate future.

Jerry Isley has been chosen to portray Paw in the rustic romance "In Dixon's Kitchen," by Wilbur Stout. Annie Lee, blushing and bucolic, will be played by "Cricket" Varner, while her rural swain, Lem, will be played by Hoyt Wood. Several parts in this play are as yet uncast.

"When Witches Ride," an eerie drama of superstition in Northampton county, has a complete cast. Phebe, who is suspected of being a witch, is played by Mary Parham. Ed, Uncle Benny, and Jake, the tipplers who witness old Phebe's departure into the storm and presumably into the arms of Old Nick, are played by Atley Hartman, Jerry Isley, and George Ingle, respectively.

James Higgins will fill the role of Doc in the serio-comic play, "Quare Medicine." Other members chosen for the cast are Frank Jones, who plays Jernigan, and Sulon Ferree, as Henry.

Tryouts continue, and Miss Margaret Hauser, director, promises complete casts very soon.

EDUCATION COMES BUT SUPERSTITION LINGERS

Bugaboos Imbedded on Campus of Rochester University; Athletes Lead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(ACP)—Has higher education abolished superstitition?

Not on the University of Rochester campus. No indeedy. Pet bugaboos uncovered by a recent department of sociology investigation included all the old stand-bys and a few new ones.

There are the men students, for instance, who will wear only a particular "pet" tie on examination days, and those who never say "I hit the books" because of the alarming effect the phase has on their grades.

Men are far more superstitious than women, the investigation shows, and athletes are particularly susceptible. A trackman reported that he never dared shave on the day of a race, and would rather run barefoot than wear any but the first pair of track shoes he ever owned.

Other athletes rely on a careful shining of their shoes before a contest, or a wad of gum stuck on their equipment somewhere.

Physician Talks To Students On Alcohol Effects

Dr. F. G. Taylor, Former Biology Instructor Here, Speaks at Chapel.

Dr. F. G. Taylor, a former instructor in biology at the College, now practicing medicine in High Point, spoke at the regular chapel session Friday morning. His remarks concerned the effects of alcohol on the human body.

For years Dr. Taylor has made a scientific study of alcohol and his remarks were based on his observations and designed to clarify the mind of youth in regard to the subject.

"Alcohol," declared Dr. Taylor, "is not a stimulant, but a depressant, of the nervous system." He commented on the fact that so many people believe alcohol to be of stimulative effect and use it constantly for such purposes, while all the time it exerts a descending action on the nervous make-up, deadening the highest powers first.

In giving an analysis of the role that alcohol plays in automobile accidents, Dr. Taylor used a chart of 119 highway accidents. In each type of accident, those involving alcohol had the largest number of killed and injured. He said that even small doses of alcoholic beverages lead to many of the accidents and that driving while drunk and driving while at all under the influence of alcohol often have similar results where automobiles are concerned.

"Leaving out the moral side," said Dr. Taylor, "it is better to go on a 'spree' occasionally, touching no liquor between times, than to drink small quantities regularly." Big "drunks" at intervals, he said, are dangerous while in progres, because the body is suffering from an acute alcoholic poisoning, which may cause instant death. But the regular drinker is suffering from a chronic poisoning; with habitual drinking there is a slow, progressive, and, in the later stages, incurable wearing-down of bodily organs and resistance—which, after a time, must lead to death. He also stressed the fact that there is a great moral objection to the "sprees," although they may be physically less dangerous to the drinker.

On discussing the relation of alcohol to mental disease, Dr. Taylor gave figures to show that the lowest rate of mental disease was reached in 1920, a Prohibition year. "Alcohol," he declared, "is a sure cause of many mental diseases, both directly and indirectly, and is so a great menace to society." He concluded his constructive remarks by pointing out that society must be convinced that alcohol only temporarily drowns sorrows, that it is a permanent factor in many automobile tragedies and mental diseases, and that it is detrimental both to body and soul.

Dr. Taylor taught biology at the College during its first year, and he is now a practicing physician.

Methodist Protestants Gather At Greensboro For Educational Meet

Dr. P. E. Lindley Speaks at Religious Education Conference Held in Calvary Church; Many High Point Graduates Have Places on Program.

"The Program of Christian Education in the Local Church" was the subject of the Methodist Protestant Conference on Christian Education which was held Monday at Calvary Methodist Protestant church in Greensboro. Rev. J. E. Pritchard, D. D., is pastor of the host church, and Rev. T. J. Whitehead, of Burlington, director of religious education, is president of the conference.

Rev. F. L. Gibbs, of Pittsburgh, presided at the morning service, which began at 10:30 o'clock. Worship was under the direction of Rev. E. L. Ballard, of Mebane. Subjects to be discussed at the first session and the respective speakers are as follows:

"Christian Education and its Objectives," Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean of the College; "Why Have a Total Program of Christian Education for the Local Church?" Rev. T. J. Whitehead; "Children's Division," Mrs. J. Elwood Carroll; "Young People's Division," Rev. Luther R. Medlin; "Adult Division," Rev. Fred W. Paschall; "Leadership Education," Rev. J. Elwood Carroll; "Vacation Church School," Miss Maxine Taylor; "Music and Art," Rev. E. L. Ballard; "Dramatics and Stories," Rev. J. T. Bowman; "Recreation," Rev. J. W. Braxton; "What Contributions Can Christian Education Make to the Annual Conference Program?" Rev. R. M. Andrews, of High Point, president of the annual conference.

Rev. T. J. Whitehead presided during the afternoon session. Rev. F. L. Gibbs will speak on "General Conference Working to Improve the Local Church Program of Christian Education." Leaders of the group discussions were Rev. F. L. Gibbs, Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dr. R. M. Andrews, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, Dr Fred W. Paschall, and Rev. J. Clyde Auman.

College Choir Takes Annual Journey North

High Point Choristers Leave On Twelve-Day Tour Thru Northern States.

RETURN NEXT TUESDAY

Group Scheduled to Sing at First M. P. Church in Newark, N. J. Today.

The High Point College A Capella choir left last Thursday afternoon on an extended journey into the Northern states. The group is expected to return to the campus next Tuesday.

Leaving the college about midafternoon, the choir was scheduled to make its first appearance of the trip at the First Methodist Protestant church in Henderson last Thursday night.

Friday the choristers continued their journey to Richmond, Virginia, where they appeared at the Byrd Park Methodist Episcopal church and sang over radio station WRVA.

The choir spent Saturday sightseeing in Washington, D. C., before singing at the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant church in the same city on Sunday morning. Sunday night the choir was scheduled to sing at the Starr Methodist Protestant church in Baltimore, Maryland.

Monday took the choristers to Philadelphia where they sang at St. Luke's Methodist Protestant church, in a program given under the joint sponsorship of three churches of the Pennsylvania city.

Yesterday the singers were to arrive in New York city. It was planned to spend the entire day in sight-seeing, and it was one of the few days of the itinerary on which no program was scheduled.

Today the choir moves to Newark, New Jersey, to sing at the First Methodist Protestant church there. Tomorrow night the choir will go to Wilmington, Delaware, for a concert at the Peninsula Methodist Protestant church.

Friday will find the choir in Salisbury, Maryland, where they

Lindley Talks To Christians

College Dean Guest Speaker at Sunday Night Meeting of Endeavor Society.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of administration and head of the religious education department was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the College Christian Endeavor Society on Sunday evening. Dean Lindley spoke on "The Power of Purpose."

The speaker concerned himself with the question, "What can a definite and abiding purpose do?" In answering the query he divided his remarks into four divisions. Purpose lends, he said, direction and dignity to the life of him who holds the purpose. He who has a purpose does not wander about aimlessly, dissipating energy with no result. He has somewhere to go. Dr. Lindley used as an effective illustration the farmer boy who steered the plow by the ear of his plow mule, only to find that the row was amazingly crooked; when he set his course by a distant tree, keeping his eyes fixed on that mark, he plowed a far straighter furrow.

Purpose also, said Dr. Lindley further, enables one to use his experiences. An occurrence may have no meaning to th street corner loafer; it will mean something to the medical student, perhaps; it will mean something far different but perhaps as significant to the young minister. The speaker further characterized definite purpose as conserving talents because it prevents the scattering of energy and abilities.

By having a definite purpose in life, said Dr. Lindley, one may best serve Christ— certainly He had a program and plan of life. A definite purpose, if it leads in the right direction, means a higher life.

Samuel Myers and Mary Mitchell Baity were in charge of the program.

Blair Lectures On Appreciation Of Art Before College Student Group

High Point Art Critic Gives Lecture Before Members and Guests of Angelus Art Club; Illustrates Remarks With Lantern Slides of Masterpieces.

Colonel John Blair, of High Point, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Angelus Art Club on Wednesday evening. His subject was Art Appreciation.

Colonel Blair, who was the only speaker on the program, was warmly welcomed and introduced to the group by Dorothy McCollum, president of the club. He began his remarks by giving his own definition of a great picture, a definition which is applicable probably in many other fields of art. "A great picture," said Colonel Blair, "is a picture which gives the greatest enjoyment to the largest number of people for the greatest length of time."

Following these introductory qualifications, the guest used a projection lantern to show to the group a large number of slides of some of the world's greatest paintings. Some of the slides reproduced the paintings in their original colors, but most of them were in sepia. With each slide Colonel Blair gave a brief sketch of the painter, a criticism of his style, and in many cases a history of the painting itself, particularly giving information as to where the original painting is at present. Portraits by Gainsborough and Reynolds were among the collection, and a number of other English painters were represented. Such old favorites as Breton's Song of the Lark and Corot's Dance of the Nymphs (Morning) were included as representative pieces from the Barbizon school of the French, while Boucher and Renoir represented the somewhat later French painters. Velasquez and his matchless portraits of the Spanish royal family which he served were also given an important place in the discussion.

Among the nature painters to whom Colonel Blair gave particular attention were the English colorist, Turner, whose Fighting Temeraire was among the slides; the American Whistler, who, although rarely painting landscapes, excelled in them; the American Martin, whose View of the Seine (usually known as The Harp of the Winds) brought him almost instant recognition. He particularly stressed the Spring of the Italian Botticelli, who is among the earliest masters.

Among the most interesting facts of Colonel Blair's remarks was the information that the mother of James McNeil Whistler, whom he has immortalized in his famous Study in Black and White, was a native of North Carolina. Before her marriage, she was Anna Matilda McNeil, and her home was in Wilmington.

Colonel Blair closed his "mystic shadow-show" with photographic slides of a number of pieces of sculpture, including the famous Greek marble Winged Victory, the Grief of Augustus St. Gaudens, and Rodin's Thinker.

The visitor's concluding remarks were of encouragement to those who are interested in any phase of art, either as a hobby or as a profession. He spoke of the great joy he had derived from his collecting of reproductions of famous paintings, and from learning something of the lives of their creators.

THALEANS MAKE STUDY OF VOCATIONAL PLANS AT REGULAR MEETING

Talks Given on Various Occupations by Members of Society; Discuss Debate.

The program at the regular meeting of the Thalean Literary Society last Thursday night was built around the topic of vocational opportunities.

Such professions as law, medicine, the ministry, engineering, advertising, and teaching were discussed by members of the society.

The debate committee presented several topics of current interest for consideration by the Society. One of these topics will be selected as the query for the annual Society Day debate in May. Although the sales tax issue polled the most votes from members of the Society, no definite query has yet been stated.

The Thalean society meets again tomorrow night.

Mrs. White Attends Language Meet Held At Woman's College Saturday

Teachers of Classic Languages Gather in Greensboro to Discuss Mutual Problems; Dr. H. M. Poteat Gives Address on Work of Poet Horace; Gwynn Speaks.

Mrs. H. A. White, College librarian and instructor in classic languages, Saturday attended a meeting of the state's college teachers of classics at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, in Greensboro.

The meeting included discussion of the declining of the study of Latin in the high schools and measures to remedy such a deficiency, of the conditions in departments of classic languages in colleges throughout the state, and of the bimillenial celebration of the birth of the poet Horace. Reports were receivd from Catawba Collge, Davidson College, Flora MacDonald College, High Point College, Salem College, the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest College, Woman's College of the University, not all of which were represented at the meeting. Perhaps the most important phase of the meeting was the discussion of a new plan concerning the teaching of Latin in the high school.

Dr. Hubert M. Poteat, professor of Latin at Wake Forest College, delivered a brief and witty address on the work of the poet Horace. Dr. J. Minor Gwynn, of the University of North Carolina, spoke on the various curricula of the state.

Among those present at the meeting were Drs. Poteat and Paschal of Wake Forest, Dr. John Bailey and Mr. Beatty of Davidson, Drs. Gwynn and Harrer of the University, Miss Helen Price of Meredith, Miss Smith of Salem, and Miss Denneen and Dr. Jernigan of Woman's College.

MEN FETED AT DINNER, DANCE GIVEN IN CITY

Large Number of Cage Fans Gather to Toast Panther Five at Local Hotel.

The North State conference champions of the court were honored at a banquet and dance by the local alumni members and the business men of the city at the Sheraton Hotel Saturday night.

A large crowd of students, alumni members, newspaper men, and local supporters gathered at the banquet, which was a stag affair, to pay homage to one of the greatest teams ever to represent High Point on the basketball court. All the speakers of the evening were plentiful in their praise of the Panthers.

The program, which consisted of impromptu speeches and the presentation of the awards ,was entirely informal. Charlie Robbins, Jr., who served as toastmaster, had little trouble in finding men who were ready to say a good word for the basketeers. After the invocation by Rev. Clay Madison, a graduate of the College and pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, the round of speeches started, with time only for eating purposes.

Six block H sweaters and other awards were presented by Coach C. Virgil Yow at the close of the program. Earl Brinkley, Ray Intrieri, Wayne Harris, C. W. Martin, G. I. Humphreys, Jr., and Manager Alton Hartman were the ones receiving sweaters.

A gold award was made to each of the following men: C. W. Martin, Broadus Culler, Wayne Harris, Ray Intrieri, Glenn Towery, Early Brinkley, William Booth, G. I. Humphreys, Jr., Elijah Diamont, and George Elder.

Broadus Culler was presented with an 18-inch trophy as being the most outstanding athlete ever to attend High Point College. In addition, he was presented with the No. 9 basketball jersey, which he has worn during the past three years.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College, presented the football question during his speech, and was responded to, in behalf of the city, by Judge Lewis E. Teague.

Among those who made brief talks at the meeting were: Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, Horace Haworth, C. C. Robbins, Sr., Brooks Reitzel, Ed Hedrick, Bill Hunter of Greensboro, Bill Ludwick of Salisbury, John Perry, Ray Dixon, Frank Walker, Mike Boyce, Prof. N. P. Yarborough, R. H. Gunn, and Captain Culler, who expressed his appreciation to the alumni and supporters and also spoke in behalf of the team.

Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise, and Frank Barfield, sports editor of the Enterprise, were present and pledged the support of the press in the college athletic program.

For a room in the Old South dormitory was the birthplace of Rho Dammit Rho, extra-legal fraternity far famed in song and story in the good old days when a raccoon coat meant a college student and a college student meant a flask.

Alpha chapter of Rho Dammit Rho, which typified everything notable in the John Held collegiate era, has long been disbanded. Now WPA has descended on the fraternity's old headquarters.

COLLEGE PRIDE

The students of most colleges—not excepting High Point—are divided all too completely into two parts, those who knock everything about their school and those who boost everything. Neither group adds anything to its college, because the former sees no good upon which improvement can be based, offers no constructive suggestions, gives the entire place up as a bad job; the latter sees no faults to be corrected, resents suggestions from inside or out, thinks the place is perfect and therefore cannot be improved upon.

The habitual knockers condemn the school's athletic policy as being over-emphasized or under-emphasized. they kick about the faculty, the food, the buildings, the administration. If they do not say it outright, they at least intimate that they would much prefer to be somewhere else—anywhere else, but it is an ironical tragedy for many schools that a large number of such students continue their knocking for four years. This type of student is a detriment to any college because he belittles his own school in the eyes of strangers and prospective students, and spreads a spirit of discontent over the campus.

The blind loyalists, collegiate counterparts of George F. Babbitt, offer an alibi for every athletic defeat that their school suffers, they defend the school from even justified criticism, and they block efforts at improvement by declaring faults non-existent. These seudents, who sound like civic-minded real estate salesmen in action, are detrimental to their school because they foster disillusion in younger students who are lured by their effusions.

The best type of student is the one who recognizes both the merits and the faults of his school. He arrives at a sincere and correct estimate because he tends to no exaggeration either way. If he sees faults, he either leads or follows a sane movement to improves conditions. He criticizes no one without first investigating that person's position, but he is not afraid of agitation where agitation is needed. This type of student has the best school spirit because his pride is two-fold: he is proud of what has been accomplished by others at his alma mater, and he is proud to have improvements to fight for in the future.

The people in the hot country of India have a considerable weakness for titles, degrees and other forms of embellishment, related Dr. John Scudder in a lecture at Rutgers university.

To illustrate, Dr. Scudder told about receiving a calling card from a man in Calcutta. This man had been flunked out of his college. In the lower corner, after the name, there was printed, "Failed, B. A."

Miss Pipher, columnist at Los Angeles Junior college, is somewhat discouraged with Professor Rollin F. Charles of Franklin and Marshall college for his recent deflationary remarks concerning a song which Miss Pipher rather likes.

The song is "The Music Goes 'Round and Around." This is false propaganda, says Professor Charles. While the music may come out "here," it simply does not go round and round inside the horn. There just isn't any music at all until the sound waves reach the bell of the horn. Then the air column and the instrument itself oscillate to produce the tonal effect.

Miss Pipher is discouraged because she has been experimenting with the new conception of the song. Her efforts have only brought her to, "The air column goes round and round and it oscillates here." She doesn't care for it.

Professors at the University of North Carolina can breathe more easily now. For a moment it looked as if students would go on record asking that professors all take comprehensive examinations in the subjects they teach. But they didn't vote that way. However, they did vote their desire that all professors take compulsory courses in public speaking.

At the moment there appears to be some discussion at the University of Minnesota as to whether or not officials ought to install a special course in marriage problems, such as they have at some schools. The columnist in The Minnesota Daily has made his own suggestion to help untie the problem. So far no official cognizance of this suggestion has been taken, however.

His contribution is in the form of a question: "Would it be wise to make it a laboratory course?"

Science is wonderful and ingenuity is wonderful and pretty soon all the little problems that vex you are going to be solved.

This week's report of solved problems concerns that neat device employed by a young man at Northwestern university when he wishes to extract gold from his male parent.

He carefully follows market reports in the daily newspaper and whenever the stocks his father holds goes up, then he drops a note to father, expecting to hit him in the correct mood.

Interesting results have followed the study made by Dr. William S. Learned of the Carncgie Foundation, of comparative stores of information held by high school seniors and college students. He studied 49 colleges in Pennsylvania and a large group of high schools, giving four-hour comprehensive tests to students. He found that:

Some college freshmen knew more than probably any college teacher they might have. Other freshmcn had so little knowledge that it was a "practical impossibility" they would learn much in college. No background.

Ten per cent. of 1,500 high school scniors knew more than did half of 3,700 students just finishing college.

Twenty-five per cent. of the college seniors knew less than half of 5,700 college sophomores.

Ten per cent. of the college seniors knew less than did half of the high school seniors.

In general, the "enormous spread of scores completely belies the scholastic classification to which our registrars now devote such meticulous pains."

"The modern college student is a more active and selective learner than ever before."

The New York board of aldermen voted $10,000 to aid 7,000 Hunter College students when a college building was burned recently.

INITIATION TO FRATS COMING UNDER BAN OF MANY STUDENT GROUPS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—Hell Week is dying, but the traditional fraternity initiation period still has loyal supporters, according to Associated Collegiate Press correspondents at Middle Western, Pacific, and Southern schools. Despite the annual barrage of criticism, plenty of pledges absorbed the prescribed doses of punishment and indignity this year.

"And why not?" demanded the anonymous and slightly ungrammatical forestry student who denounced Penn State Collegian editors for the paper's anti-Hell Week policy with: "The foresters are more of a gentleman in their crudest moments than you are. A self-respecting fraternity wants men in its membership, not 'sissies.'"

Slightly at variance with this view, was the stand taken by nine Penn State fraternities. Alpha Chi Rho, Delta Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu and Triangle, after listening to a plea by Wilbur M. Walden, national secretary of Alpha Chi Rho, declared a permanent ban on Hell Week.

Similar action was taken by the University Disciplinary Committee at DePauw, with social probation the penalty for fraternities declining to abolish outlawed initiation practices. "The fraternity world is changing," said The DePauw, student paper, in commenting on the decision. "If we contemplate for long the fraternity of ten years ago we shall find ourselves holding a mess of pottage."

The University of Tennessee's Orange and White asked the Interfraternity Council to order discontinuance of Hell Week. "Many of our fraternities have gone beyond the limits of reason, and even respectability in their application of this pre-inititation custom," says The Orange and White. Considering the violence to which some of our fraternities have resorted, Tennessee is lucky that more 'accidents' have not occurred."

Meanwhile, the National Interfraternity Council planned a national campaign. The Council has repeatedly gone on record as opposing every Hell Week practice.

Unmoved by all this, however, are the editors of The Golden Gater, San Francisco State College publication. Remarking the transfer of freshman "discipline" from an association of men students to the sophomore class in an editorial headed "Must Staters Always Mind Their Manners?" they say, "It's time for us to forget our 'high-falutin' philosophy and get some collegiate color in our veins. Let the bulbous-browed Individuals pursue their one-track academic ways. We'll take a little fun and spirit with OUR medicine."

COLLEGE RADICALISM CALLED MYTH BY DEAN OF NEBRASKA SCHOOL

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago.—Frequent charges of campus radicalism made throughout the country are strikingly belied by the average college student's utter unconcern about social and economic matters, according to Dean William F. Zimmerman of Midland College, Fremont, Nebraska.

"The students of today are incapable of entertaining radical idcas because of their utter disinterest in the problems which Communists and Socialists do all the shouting about," Dean Zimmerman told a group of educators here recently, adding that it was his opinion college students cannot even understand these problems.

Dean Zimmerman gathered data on "spontaneous student conversations from many campuses, derived not by questionnaire, but by listening in when young persons were unaware of being studied."

The college girl's first interest, as inferred from the frequency with which she chats about it, is in the doings of her college friends, while the male student gives first place to his studies. Public affairs attracted only seven-tenths of one per cent of the concern of men and two-tenths of one per cent of the girls' remarks, according to conclusions drawn by Dean Zimmerman's survey.

To the victors belong the spoils! The victorious Panther warriors, gathering around the festive board last Saturday night, had few spoils to divide. But there were plenty of honors for the team and individual players. The men receiving sweaters, gold awards, and the trophy have worked hard this year, and really deserve everything they received.

The alumni and local supporters treated the Panthers to a swell affair. Casting training rules aside, the boys dug in and really enjoyed themselves for the night.

During the course of the talks Saturday night, several of the speakers compared the Purple Panthers with teams of the Big Five. Some of the enthusiastic High Point supporters voiced the opinion that the Panthers could take in the top ranking clubs of the senior circuit. Others, cautiously inclined or loyal to their alma mater, went so far as to give the Panthers a good chance. Of course this dispute will never be settled. Duke knocked the locals off in a pre-season game without any trouble. This contest, however, cannot be accepted as a basis for comparison. Coach Yow's team was just off that night.

Although still below the level of Southern conference basketeball, the cage sport in the North State conference has shown wonderful improvement in the past few years. Several of the teams defeated Big Five clubs this year. During the past season the Panthers took two Big Five enemies into camp within a single week. But for some reason, the officials were unable to arrange games with the same teams this time. There is no doubt that the gate at the Harrison gymnasium would justify the appearance of any Big Five team here against the Panthers. The champs could at least give them a good game. Perhaps the reception last year was just too hot for the big brothers. That's no way to treat guests.

While dishing out praise in the column last week, we left out one of the best supporters of the team. (People have a habit of forgetting the doctor until they are sick.) But hats off to Dr. Glenn Perry. He has rendered valuable service to the team this year, and has done much to keep the boys on their feet during the thick of the fight. The busy doctor was never too busy to attend to an injured player, or give medical advice.

While glancing through the Tech Echo, the East Carolina Teachers' college publication, we noticed on the sports page the following streamer, "Panthers Lose Only One Game During Season." This caught our eye, so we proceeded to read more. True to facts, we found that the loss was to Appalachian. But don't get excited—they were not giving us that much publicity. By coincidence the girls' basketball quint at E. C. T. C. bears the same name as the local boys team, and they lost only to the Appalachian team. Well, the High Point Panthers suffered their lone conference defeat at the hands of the Appalachian Mountaineers. But there will be no dispute over names between friends!

Congratulations to the fair Panthers.

A friend in need—Bill Vidal.

We are anxious to see the baseball nine swing into action. The game at Elkin on Saturday will be a tough test for the Panthers this early in the season.

Add fashion note: White sweaters, with crew necks and Purple leetters are the rage on the campus this spring. They can be worn until early summer.

Annapolis expects increased enrollment. Legislation now pending would allow each Congressman five, instead of four appointments.

CULLER RECEIVES TROPHY AS MOST OUTSTANDING ATHLETE

Yow Presents Panther Star With No. 9 Jersey During Banquet Program.

High Point College's most outstanding athlete, Broadus Culler, was presented with a silver trophy Saturday night in recognition of his valuable services in collegiate sports.

With the close of the current baseball season, the "Little Wonder" will finish a colorful athletic career at the College. Despite the handicap of a small stature, Culler has participated in three major sports each year that he has been here. These sports are soccer, basketball and baseball. Only strict observance of training rules, and wonderful endurance have enabled him to go through four seasons of play without rest.

Culler came to the College in the fall of 1932 from the local high school. He made a wonderful record in the high school sports, especially on the basketball team. Starting with the round the first year, he made the varsity string in soccer, basketball, and baseball.

After playing on the first string soccer eleven his first year, he became coach the second year and has continued to produce championship elevens since. This past fall the Kernersville club inflicted the first loss that his charges have suffered during the three years' play. Besides coaching the squad, he has filled the center position in wonderful style, and is probably rated the most outstanding soccer player in the south.

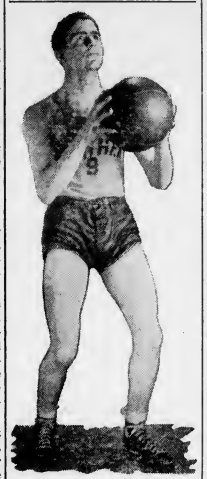

The jump from high school to collegiate basketball was not too great for the Panther star, who made the all-conference his first year. Coach Yow built his offensive attack around the sharpshooting forward this year. Culler hit the hoop with deadly accuracy to average over 18 points for 21 games. He has made the all-conference team for four years, and was named captain of the mythical North State team at the close of the conference tourney this spring. His scoring average has been less than that of the first year, but he has developed into a better floor man, and a more valuable player to the team.

He has developed into a real baseball player during his stay here. After a fair season his freshman year, he found himself at short, and has shown steady improvement since. A dangerous man with the stick, he is just as effective in the field.

This year has served as a fitting climax to his success. High Point has experienced a successful season in athletics so far, and indications point to a better baseball nine this spring. After three unsuccessful attempts at the North State cage crown, Culler had the satisfaction of captaining his mates to the championship this year.

His athletic ability and sportsmanship is recognized and respected by his friends and enemies alike. All the praise that has been heaped upon his shoulders has not turned his head. Coach Yow, who came here as coach the same year of Culler's entrance in college, is quoted from an article appearing in THE HI-PO of last year, "Having followed the athletic game very closely in a small way for the past five years as manager and coach, I am convinced that we have here at High Point College one of the best and smartest athletes I have ever seen."

Local Boys Enter Gold Medal Meet

Robbins Knitters Win in Opening Round; Dark Horses Eliminated by Grocers.

Playing under the colors of the Robbins Knitters, the Purple Panther players took the court Monday night to trounce their old rivals, the local Triangles, by the score of 40 to 30 in the opening round of the annual Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal tourney.

None of the boys had practiced since their closing game on February 29. Although they failed to show the speed and endurance that carried them to the top in the North State race, they were able to beat their opponents without much trouble. The victory was satisfying to Culler and Co., who have divided two practice sessions with the Triangles during the past season.

The happy-go-lucky band will go into the finals of the class A division Saturday night when they will battle the winner of the Cone Memorial-Unique Furniture game, which will be played tonight.

Harris, Culler, and Martin led the offensive attack for the Panthers. Hester and Niernsee got their chance with the big boys during the match, and showed up in fine style.

The "B" team, banding together as the Dark Horses, were eliminated from the meet by the Fifty-Fifty Grocers of Lexington in the B class division. The combination of Humphreys, Diamont, Brinkley, Elder, and Koontz was not quite strong enough for the Grocers who came out on the long end of a 28-19 count. "Dub" Koontz had little trouble in finding the hoop, but just didn't find it enough.

These players are sponsored by outside organizations in the tourney, and are not representing the College.

CHATHAM NINE TO ENTERTAIN POINTER CLUB

Yow to Use Three Hurlers in Opening Contest With Blanketeers at Elkin

Travelling to Elkin, N. C. Saturday afternoon, the High Point Panthers will play the opener of a diamond schedule which promises to be full of fireworks, as they take on the Chatham Blanketeers in a fast practice match.

Having over twenty-six games on schedule this season, Coach Yow's baseball nine will have a hard time upholding the records so far set by local athletic teams. In preparation for this hard competition the team has been using every available pretty day for practice, resorting to "skull" practice on the many bad days. The game Saturday will be the first in a series of practice games by which it is hoped, the rest of the kinks in the ball club may be straightened out before the opening conference match April 1 when the Panthers meet a strong Catawba nine on the home grounds.

The Chatham Blanketeer diamond team is purported to be one of the strongest semi-pro ball teams in the state and will give the High Point boys an excellent chance to show their stuff. Both teams will probably do a lot of experimenting in the placing of their men in the various infield and outfield positions, seeking to find the best man for the job.

Although the full starting lineup has not been announced by the Panther mentor, Coach Yow said that it was probable that he would use all three of his pitchers during the contest, Harris, Brinkley, and Rudisill. While not pitching Brinkley or Rudisill will probably hold down the first base position while Koontz grabs the second sack, Culler the shortstop place and Martin the hot corner. Diamont and Elder are still fighting for the backstop position while Dorsett, Grigg, Isley, Waggoner, Giles, Ingle, and Jarrett will take turns in the outfield.

On March 27th the Panthers again take the road as they travel to Winston-Salem to take on the Unique Furniture team before going on to Asheboro the next day for a contest with McCrary.

The home games, which last year were mostly played in Thomasville, will this year be played on the Willis Park diamond just outside the city limits, giving the many local fans a better chance to follow the progress of their team.

So he wouldn't have to listen to "Sweet Adeline" at 3 a. m., President Frederick Arnold Middlebush of the University of Missouri built a week-end cabin 100 miles from the campus.

BASEBALL CLUB GUNNING FOR FIRST NORTH STATE PENNANT

High Point Has Not Produced Championship Team; Many Stars Started Here.

An ambitious Panther baseball nine, under the guidance of Coach C. Virgil Yow for the fourth year, will make a desperate attempt in the coming campaign to capture the first North State conference baseball title for High Point College.

Although the College has been represented by good diamond teams in the past years, the conference bunting has not yet been won by the Panthers. The Yowmen, led by their hurling ace, Lee Sherrill, probably made their strongest bid for the honors in the season of '34 when they finished a close second behind the Elon Christians. The Panther ace won 11 games in 14 starts that year to lead the list of circuit hurlers.

Last year, however, the Panthers fell down the scale to finish in fourth position. The hurling staff, weakened by the loss of Sherrill, who joined the Cardinal baseball chain, was unable to cope with the opposing batters. This year Coach Yow has practically the same men returning plus probable freshmen recruits. The pitching staff, composed of Rudisill, veteran southpaw, Harris, and Brinkley, should perform in better style this year. With more experience, the whole squad should play a better brand of ball in conference competition.

High Point has had only three baseball mentors. Coach Jack Boylin, the diamond power prior to 1930, produced some real teams during his stay here. Starting from scratch, his teams soon developed and played the experienced conference nines on even terms. Just at the time when the sport was gaining a foothold here, it was discontinued for two years, 1931-32.

Coach Brown was baseball mentor in 1924, the first year that the College opened.

Coach Yow, who played under Boylin while an undergraduate here, took over the baseball reins upon the resumption of the national pastime in 1933. The following year saw the new mentor produce one of the strongest teams ever to wear the Panther uniforms.

The baseball teams have all worked under a heavy handicap. Lack of a baseball field on the campus has forced the team to play their home games in different parks in this city or nearby cities. Attendance at the games has always been disheartening to the players and coaches alike.

Still, many diamond stars have gone out from this institution. Probably the most outstanding is Lee Sherrill, at present with the Rochester club, of the International league.

Others are Wade Fuquay, stellar catcher of past years, Ed Hedrick, of High Point, and Ray Perdue. Coach Yow was an outstanding hurler on the Panther club while an undergraduate.

Football Problem Discussed At Fete

Completion of Athletic Field Depends Upon Vote of the City Council.

A renewed interest in the fight for the return of football here was shown at the stag basketball banquet Saturday night by the administrative officials and the local supporters of the College.

Judging from the reports of many speakers on the program, the king of collegiate sports should return to the campus within a short time. The sport was discontinued here after the season of '33 because of lack of a stadium. The question of its return hinges entirely upon the stadium question. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, in an interview last fall, stated that it was highly probable that sufficient funds would be secured which would make possible the completion of the field before the football season nxt fall.

For the first time since the time of that statement, it appeared that the prophecy might be fulfilled. Dr. Humphreys started the football topic Saturday night by saying that this city would have its own football stadium once the city council votes its approval of a project now before the state PWA administration. The speaker was referring to the College stadium, which is in an incomplete stage. Work was started on the athletic plant in the summer of '33, but lack of funds forced a halt to the construction. The field is located west of the College, between Montlieu and Lexington avenues, at a distance from the College which would practically assure better student attendance at baseball, football and other outdoor sports because of the convenience.

In reply, Judge Lewis E. Teague, justice of the city court, hinted that the city fathers had been looking favorably upon the matter. The problem is not restricted to the College campus. High Point has no stadium for high school football contests as well. It is a recognized fact that the whole city would gain benefits from such an athletic field.

Several business men of the city have shown interest in the project as well as the alumni of the College. The hint dropping at the banquet stirred the imagination of the large gathering and sounded an optimistic note in the fight.

New Union College eligibility rules allow any student, no matter what his grades, to participate in one extra-curricular activity.

CORNELL PLANS SEND DELEGATES TO GERMAN UNIVERSITY FESTIVAL

Controversy Rages Around School's Acceptance of Nazi Invitation.

ITHACA, N. Y.—(ACP)—Despite undergraduate protest and adverse criticism from The Cornell Daily Sun, student newspaper, President Livingston S. Farrand has announced that Cornell will send two representatives to the 550th birthday celebration of the University of Heidelberg this summer. Dr. Farrand said he did not regard an "exchange of courtesies" between the two institutions as involving an expression of judgment on German policies in government or education.

Distinguished alumnus Hendrik Willem Van Loon expressed a different view in two telegrams sent The Sun. Participation by Cornell in the celebration would be "an insufferable insult" to the university's founder, he declared.

Van Loons' letter assered that "the Germans, being free, white and twenty-one, are of course entitled to any sore or form of government that hapens to please their Teutonic fancy, and it is none of our business to what lengths they may go in offending the decent opinion of the rest of mankind.

"But it seems incredible," he continued, "that Hitlers bright boys would care to associate with representatives of a university founded by that ominently broad-minded Quaker, Ezra Cornell."

Meanwhile, Harvard authorities were trying to think their way through a prety quandary. Consistency called for refusal of the bid, since scholarships offered by Ernst Hanfstaegl, Hitler aide, were twice refused. However, Harvard has invited Heidelberg to send representatives to its own 300th anniversary celebration, doesn't dare to risk a retaliatory snub.

Opinion at Princeton, passed up by the Nazis, seemed to be that the university had missed nothing but a headache.

Invitations to British universities were withdrawn by Professor Wilhelm Groh, rector magnificus of Heidelberg, following publicity similar to that attending he Cornell decision here. English scholars had asserted 1936 was the 549th, not 550th anniversary of Heidleberg, basing the claim on an original charter in the British Museum, adding that the date of the celebration, set for next June, coincided exactly with the date of the the Nazi "blood purge" of last year.

HARDING SPEAKS ON ASTRONOMY IN SECOND TERM LYCEUM SERIES

Dr. Harding showed slides of the Milky Way and of the various other nebulae which are visible. These star clusters, he said, are believed to be universes similar to our own.

Dr. Harding is a graduate of the University of Arkansas, where he is now director of the General Extension Service and professor of mathematics and astronomy. He holds the Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from the University of Chicago. Scientific and scholastic organizations to which he belongs include the American Astronomical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Mathematical Soicety, Mathematical Association of America, Phi Beta Kappa, and Sigma Xi.

Dr. Harding has written many magazine articles and newspaper features, has contributed to American and European journals, and is co-author of four text-books on mathematics. His most recent contribution to the literature of popular sciences is "Astronomy—The Heavens Brought Down to Earth," which is now in its third printing.

will sing at the Bethesda Methodist Protestant church. The group takes another vacation Saturday in order to fish in Chesapeake bay at Norfolk, Virginia.

At 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the choir will appear in a concert at the First Baptist church in Newport News, Virginia, and another appearance in the Ghent Methodist Episcopal church, South, will follow at 8 o'clock.

The last program of the journey will be given next Tuesday, when the Parent-Teacher Association of Warrenton, North Carolina, sponsors a program at the high school in that city.

The thirty-five members of the choir, accompanied by the director, Miss Margaret Sloan, and N. M. Harrison, business manager, are traveling by bus and cars.

LOYALTY OATH BILL FLAYED BY STUDENTS

Thirty Schools Represented In Protest Against Bill in New York Senate.

ALBANY, N. Y.—(ACP)—A horde of indignant young college men and women, accompanied by a dozen adult sympathizers, descended upon the New York state senate last week to protest against the so-calle Nunan student oath bill, which would force all students in colleges, universities and norma schools supported wholly or in part by state funds to swear alegiance to the state and federal constitution.

More than 30 colleges and universities were representd, but it wasn't easy for the students to get their commnts into the record. Senator A. Spencer Feld, Democrat, who presided at the hearing, lost no time in informing the protestants that he would do his best to hold down their testimony. Senator Feld became so irritated at the testimony of one that he had him forcibly removed from the floor.

The person involved was Joseph P. Lash, representing the American Student Union. Questioned on the union's attitude toward the Oxford oath, Lash said that if swearing alegiance to the constitution meant members could not take the Oxford oath "then we will fight to the end, and we can fight."

"Fight, did you say?" inquired Senator Feld facetiously. "I thought you were against war."

"I think," said Lash quietly, "that that pun was unworthy of your high position."

A roar of laughter greeted this sally, and the senator's face turned a bright crimson. He slammed down his gavel and announced that Lash had said enough, ordered the sergeant-at-arms to throw him out.

Joseph Dunn, of the Junior High School Teachers' Association, appearing for the bill, was the target for boos and hisses when he said he spoke in the name of "red-blooded Amricans" and included William Randolph Hearts in that category.

STUDENT TO FINISH AFTER SHORT PERIOD OF STUDY AT CHICAGO

Donald McMurry to Receive Degree in Eight Months Under New Plan.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago — A B. A. degree in eight months!

That will be the record of Donald MacMurray, sensational New York prodigy, if he graduates from the University of Chicago in May according to schedule.

MacMurray, who graduated from a Bronx high school at 15, is the fastest of the prodigies attracted by Chicago's New Plan, allowing graduation as soon as candidates can pass examinations.

MacMurray studies 14 hours a day (with the aid of coffee and chocolate bars) then takes two days off and goes hiking. He has bored through 200 books since October.

College Choir Returns From Northern Trip

Choral Group Comes Back to Campus After Making Journey to New York.

GIVES MANY PROGRAMS

All Scheduled Appearances Made on Time; Last Cancelled for Floods.

The College a capella choir returned to the campus Monday night after an extensive tour into the North.

The singers met every engagement on schedule time, and they reported a highly favorable reception at each point of appearance. Because of the flooded conditions of the rivers in eastern North Carolina, the engagement at Warrenton Monday night was cancelled, causing the choir to return to the campus one day earlier than had been expected.

Thirty-five members of the choir, the director, Miss Margaret Sloan, and the business manager, N. M. Harrison, left the College on Thursday, March 12, traveling by bus and automobiles.

The first appearance on the trip was made Thursday night at the First Methodist Protestant church in Henderson. Friday the choristers continued their journey to Richmond, Virginia, where they sang at Byrd Park Methodist Protestant church and over radio station WRVA.

The choir spent Saturday, March 14, sight-seeing in Washington, D. C., singing at the Rhode Island Methodist Protestant church in the Capital City on the following morning. Sunday night the choir sang at the Starr Methodist Protestant church in Baltimore, Maryland.

Monday, March 16, took the choristers to Philadelphia where they sang at St. Luke's Methodist Protestant church under the joint sponsorship of three churches in the city.

The climax of the entire journey came last Tuesday when the choir arrived in New York city. Since no program was scheduled in the nation's metropolis, the singers spent the entire day sight-seeing. This was one of the few days of the itinerary on which no program was given.

Council Program To Come Friday

Student Government Officials to Take Part in Chapel Exercise Here Friday.

The student government council will have charge of the chapel exercises at the College Friday morning, it has been announced by A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the student body.

The relation of student government to various phases of college life will be the subject for the program, which will consist of a series of talks given by various members of the council. Among the topics to be discussed are "The Responsibilities of the Student Body to the Council," "The Responsibilities of the President of the Council," "Faculty Relationship to Student Government," and others. Those who will take part in the program, besides Fulk, are Allen Austin, vice president of the council; Edith Crowder, secretary; Sulon Ferree, senior representative, and several of the underclass members of the government council.

Brief devotionals will be held Friday morning in keeping with the school's policy of holding religious exercises on Friday mornings. This is the last of the current series of chapel programs, which terminate with the senior investiture service next week. The remaining Friday morning programs will be given over to prominent speakers who will bring special messages to the members of the graduating class.

The regular student government meeting Monday morning will be devoted to reports from the local delegates who will attend the congress of the North Carolina Federation of Students.

Local Students To Attend Meeting Of State Federation At Greenville

Weisner, Bell Leave Tomorrow to Represent High Point at Student Government Convention Meeting With Eastern Carolina Teachers College; Come Back Sunday.

Dot Bell and W. W. Weisner will represent High Point College at the seventh congress of the North Carolina Federation of Students, which meets at Greenville Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week. The student government association of Eastern Carolina Teachers College is acting as host to the convention.

The meeting opens Thursday afternoon with registration and tea at the Proctor hotel in Greenville. The formal opening will be held Thursday night with welcomes given by Ellen Jenkins, student government president at Eastern Carolina, and Dr. Meadows, president of the school. Jack Pool, president of the federation, will preside over all sessions.

The delegates will convene Friday morning for group discussions, which will take up special problems in men's colleges. This will be followed by a talk given by a visiting speaker. Friday afternoon the delegates will hear another speaker and meet for a discussion on the topic, "Campus Interest in Public Affairs." A formal dinner will be held on the campus of the host college Friday night, followed by a dance and a concert of modern dance tunes.

Saturday morning the students will meet for a discussion of co-ed problems, which will be followed by a discussion of individual problems. After lunch Saturday the delegates will hear another speech and meet for a final plenary session. The convention's formal banquet Saturday night followed by a dance will conclude the business activities of the meeting. A breakfast Sunday morning will bring the convention to a close.

High Point sent delegates to the Student Federation convention for the first time in the fall of 1934, when Wilbur Hutchins, then president of the student body here, was elected to an office. Last spring Hutchins, Edith Crowder, and D. Kermit Cloniger attended the convention held with Meredith College in Raleigh.

Weisner and Bell, junior representatives to the student government council, will make a report of the convention proceedings to the student body Monday morning.

BELL AND GIBBS ARE GUEST SPEAKERS FOR ARTEMESIAN PROGRAM

Visitors From Thalean, Nikanthan Societies Help Members Discuss Women.

Dorothy Bell, a Nikanthan, and Occo Gibbs, a Thalean, were guest speakers at the regular meeting of the Artmesian Literary society Thursday evening. The program was an unusual discussion of the modern girl and her place in the social, economic, and domestic worlds.

The first phase of the topic, "Getting Along With Women," was discussed by Christine Carroll. She gave a number of pointers which may be successfully used by the young man who wishes to be popular with the opposite sex—advising a frivolous attitude with a serious young woman, a "mature" bearing with a sweet young thing, and other paradoxical attitudes. Hildreth Gabriel lauded the French woman in a brief review of a magazine article, "She Pleases Him." A number of the perennial French charmer's dainty wiles were described, and her domestic virtues commended. Contrasting the modern college with that of earlier days, Margaret Austin drew a clear portrait of "The New College Woman."

Another visitor, Charles Ostwald, supplied three varied piano selections, beginning appropriately with "Sophisticated Lady." At the enthusiastic applause of the listeners Ostwald offered as an encore the first movement of the ever-popular "Doll Dance."

PROFESSOR'S MODESTY BRINGS WRONG ANSWER

Harvard Instructor Passes Credit For Wrong Event On To Tutors.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cambridge, Mass.—A certain young history professor of Harvard, locally celebrated for a unique absentmindedness, made what was most definitely the wrong answer the other day.

Last month the professor's wife was rewarded for years of work in the field of poetry when Scribner's published an anthology she had compiled. Through what has euphimistically been called "an act of God," the date of publication found the young woman in a hospital, having that morning given birth to a son.

The same afternoon two student friends of the professor met him and stopped to congratulate him on the blessed event. As they started to express their best wishes, the professor put up his hand, waved them away.

"Oh, don't congratulate ME, boys," he said modestly. "My wife did it all by herself. Herself, with just the help of two Dunster House tutors."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS SPONSOR CANDY PARTY IN GIRLS' DORMITORY

Games Feature Party Given by Society's Social Committee Friday Night.

The Christian Endeavor Society sponsored a candy pulling in Woman's Hall last Friday night at 7:30. Ping pong, rook, carroms, horseshoes, and many other games were features of the entertainment before and after the "pulling." The W. A. A. and the upstairs clubrooms were open to the guests who paid their admission fees.

Near the middle of the evening Miss Caroline Pirtle, in charge of the affair, conducted the party to the basement where the taffy had been poured out to cool. The group then showed their skill at pulling candy. Some of the more experienced put on a demonstration for the benefit of the others. Professors Rulfs and Owens, greenhorns at the game, soon caught onto the art of pulling snow-white candy—except that Mrs. Yarborough had to come to the aid of Mr. Owens once and remove the sticky mass from his hands and put some shape into it by pulling for some time. However, they blamed this on the cooking. Mr. Rulfs and Royce Gibbs became very artistic and produced some animals from their batches which they called rabbit and dog, respectively.

The candy all pulled, the group

APRIL 28 SET AS DATE FOR SENIOR PLAYS

Three Carolina Folk Dramas To Be Presented as Annual Senior Project

April 28 has been set as the date for the production of the three one-act Carolina folk dramas which the senior class will present this year. Several tryouts have been held during the past two weeks, and the casts are expected to be completed in the near future.

"In Dixon's Kitchen," written by Wilbur Stout, will boast Jerry Isley in the role of Paw, and "Cricket" Varner as the blushing country maiden, Annie Lee, and Hoyt Wood playing the part of her rural suitor, Lem. The complete cast of this play could not be learned before THE HI-PO went to press.

James Higgins, a second semester newcomer, will fill the role of Doc in the second of the dramas, "Quare Medicine." Frank Jones has been chosen to play Jernigan, and Sulon Ferree the role of Henry in this cast.

"When Witches Ride," a drama of superstition in Northampton county, was the only one of the three dramas with a completely announced cast yesterday afternoon. Phoebe, who is suspected of being a witch, is played by Mary Parham. Ed, Uncle Benny, and Jake, the three tipplers who witness old Phoebe's departure into the storm and presumably into the arms of Satan, are played by Atley Hartman, Jerry Isley, and George Ingle, respectively.

The plays are directed by Miss Margaret Hauser, of High Point, and Mrs. McCachren, also of this city, will assist with the sets three of which are required to put on the program.

Twentieth Century Began In 1901, Says Texas Man

Puzzles Class in Greek History With Question or When Century Started.

Austin, Texas — Did the 20th century begin January 1, 1900, or January 1, 1901?

A University of Texas professor baffled a class in Greek history with this question the other day. Half the class voted January 1, 1900, while the other half wouldn't comment.

The learned pedagogue finally told the boys and girls.

"There's no such thing as a zero year," he said. "Did you ever stop to think of the year 1 A. D? Now think about 100 A. D., and you'll see only 99 years passed between January 1, A. D., and January 1, 100 A. D."

Therefore, January 1, 101 is the date that marked the exact passing of the first century after Christ, and the 20th century began January 1, 1901.

Number Of Important Events Slated For Final Quarter Of School Year

Junior-Senior Banquet Next Week Heads List of Outstanding Social Events; Two Societies to Hold Celebration in Early May; Commencement Comes in June.

A number of outstanding events are scheduled to take place during the last quarter of the school year, which officially opens next Wednesday, April 1.

Heading the list of social events will be the annual Junior-Senior banquet, which will be held at the Emerywood Country club on Friday, April 3. Alton Hartman, president of the juniors, some time ago appointed several committees to complete arrangements for the annual affair, and the time and place committee, headed by Allen Austin, has finally selected the local country club as the scene of action. The decorations and the invitations committees will begin work in the near future to make final arrangements for the banquet. Hartman will be toastmaster.

A second outstanding event will be the annual Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day celebration on May 2. Committees from both organizations have been working on plans for this event for some time. The activities of the day will include a morning program with a visiting alumni speaker, the annual intra-society debate, and the banquet on Saturday night.

To complete the spring social season at the College, the fraternities and sororities which have not yet held banquets are expected to hold their functions during the last quarter. Several other organizations on the campus may hold dinners for their members later in the spring, although they are unwilling to make formal announcement to this effect at this time.

Other events to claim the attention of students here will be the annual Artemesian-Nikanthan debate for the Mary E. Young loving cup, the election of new officers for various student organizations, and the North Carolina Collegiate Press convention at Raleigh April 16, 17, and 18.

Easter holidays break into the quarter about the middle of April, but the students will come back for what is considered the busiest stretch of the entire school year, which concludes with the annual commencement exercises in June.

GREAT DECISIONS ARE THEME AT MEETING OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS

Several Members Appead on Program at Regular Sunday Night Meeting.

"The Consequence of Great Decisions" was the topic discussed at the regular meeting of the College Christian Endeavor society Sunday evening.

A number of the members discussed various decisions and their consequences to the world. Paul and the consequences of his right decision were described by Clara Tanner. Once an ardent opponent and persecutor of the Christians, he "saw the light" on the road to Damascus, to become one of the greatest leaders the world has ever known.

Kathleen Hepinstall spoke of Moses and his right decision which resulted in the deliverance of a people, from whose ranks came the world's saviour. Judas' wrong decision was the theme of Elise Kilpatrick's remarks, which showed how his decision led him to the rope with which he hanged himself.

Hoyt Wood and Sulon Ferree dealt with the many decisions which must be made today, and the difficulties of deciding rightly. They emphasized the care which must be taken in making these decisions because of the effects which may come from a seemingly trivial one.

Helen Bates and Hoyt Wood were in charge of the program.

THALEAN MEETING IS FEATURED BY DEBATE ON MOTION PICTURES

Movies Proved Not Detrimental; Committees Appointed for Society Day.

The main feature of the Thalean program last Thursday evening was a debate on the query, Resolved: That Motion Pictures Are Detrimental to the American Public.

Alton Hartman and M. C. Henderson upheld the affirmative side of the question, while Dwight Morgan and G. W. Holmes upheld the negative. In contending that pictures are detrimental, the affirmative pointed out the degrading influence of "Wild West" and Mae West pictures, and shows playing up sex and gangster themes. The negative's answer to this accusation was that the educational value of the higher type pictures outweighs the evil influence of the others. The decision was awarded to the negative team.

S. E. Trogden gave a brief sketch of conditions over the Rhine. He stated that if this river had the power of speech, it would be able to tell much interesting history that has been made on its banks.

"The next war will be like magic," Ralph Briles told the Thaleans, after picturing the perfect timing and accuracy necessary for the operation of big guns and the radio control of planes and ships.

Plans for the annual Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day to be held the first Saturday in March are getting well under way. The Thalean president has named the fol-

NYA Sponsors Employment Services

Establishment of 24 Junior Placement Services in eleven states was announced today by Aubrey W. Williams, executive director of the National Youth Administration.

Under the supervision of Dr. Mary H. S. Hayes, director of guidance and placement for the NYA, and in co-operation with state employment services, the NYA has stationed junior employment counselors in state employment offices to help find private employment for young people between 16 and 25 years of age.

"State employment services have found their hands so filled with seeking jobs for older and experienced workers that very little attention has been given the problems of the younger inexperienced jobseekers," Dr. Hayes stated. "The junior employment councelors, however, will make no effort to displace older workers in favor of the younger group but rather to see that beginners' jobs are conserved for those to whom they rightfully belong."

In Durham, North Carolina, twenty young people were placed in jobs within two weeks after the NYA counselors began work. A separate office, manned by Negro counselors, is being maintained in this city for Negro youth.

Other cities where junior employment counselors have been stationed are:

Los Angeles and San Francisco, California; Bridgeport, Hartford, and New Haven, Connecticut; Davenport, Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Sioux City, and Des Moines, Iowa; Boston, Worcester and Springfield, Massachusetts; Concord, Nashua, and Manchester, New Hampshire; Brooklyn and Bronx, New York; Durham, North Carolina (separate white and Negro offices); Fort Worth, Texas; Cincinnati, Chicago, and Indianapolis.

Requests of nine other states—Tennessee, Colorado, Delaware, Louisiana, New Jersey, South Carolina, South Dakota, West Virginia, Virginia, and Wyoming—for installation of the service are now under consideration.

Pointing out that no independent offices are being set up, Dr. Hayes said the counselors are working under the joint supervision of the directors of state employment services and state youth administrations.

Their services are available to all unemployed young people in the 16 to 25 age group in the various cities whether members of relief families or not. Office space is provided by state employment services.

"What the majority of unemployed young people want is a regular job," Dr. Hayes declared, "But approximately 70 per cent. of them have no work record to establish their abilities with prospective employers. Their problems, therefore, need special attention."

Among the functions of the counselors listed by Dr. Hayes are the following:

To interview young people applying for jobs with a view to ascertaining some means of evaluating their work capacities.

To give those applicants practical information about jobs of various kinds, the nature of their duties, how much they pay, what they lead to; the education, training and experience which they require; where and how to get such education and training; and in so far as possible, what the chances are of getting these jobs as measured by the known demand for labor and observed trends of employment.

To refer these applicants to po-

SAYS COURT'S POWER NOT CONSTITUTIONAL

Charles A. Beard Says That Decisions Will Be Reversed If Crisis Recurs.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—A continuing or recurrent economic crisis will result in the reversal of recent Supreme Court decisions, according to Dr. Charles A. Beard, famous historian.

"Only on the theory that the country will never again have to face a crisis," he said in a recent address, "can we assume that a government stripped of the power to legislate in the general interest will ndure. To cherish such a theory is to fly in the face of the recorded experience of this nation and all mankind."

"There is not a word in the Constitution that expressly or by implication declares that the Constitution must be strictly interpreted by anybody," Dr. Beard declared. "That is a fiction largely created by Thomas Jefferson when he was trying to unhorse Hamilton, and flagrantly violated by Jefferson all through his two administrations."

Large Chairs Hard To Fill Lambeth Says

Chairs of Leadership Need Bigger Men Than Ever, Pastor Tells Students.

GIVES QUALIFICATIONS

Is Long Way From High Chair of Childhood to Big Chair of Leadership.

Bigger men are needed to fill the bigger chairs of leadership, Dr. W. A. Lembeth, pastor of Wesley Memorial Church, told the student body at the College Friday morning.

The speaker told the audience that the big chair which now stands on the square in his home city, Thomasville, is to be taken down and one twice as large erected in its place. Speaking figuratively Dr. Lambeth said men will find the big chairs of leadership today larger and more difficult to fill than they have been before.

Filling the big chairs is a difficult job and requires qualities which all men do not possess, the speaker told his listeners.

The hardest chair in the world to fill, Dr. Lambeth asserted, is that of Christian motherhood; and this chair has been filled perfectly by only one woman—Mary, mother of Christ, although Suzannah Wesley and others have almost reached perfection.

It is a long way, he added from the high chair of childhood to the big chair of leadership. There are four qualifications, he said for filling this big chair of leadership: a notable Christian character, an outstanding personality, a sane and balanced judgment, and a spirit of determination. He warned the students against impractical and impossible dreams, ex-

[illegible] to "go off on a tangent." To be broadminded, he said, one must see his own side of the question, the other fellow's side, and the right side.

He suggested as good mottoes for the College three which were used during the World War: "Carry On" used by the British; "They Shall Not Pass," used by the French; and "Over the Top," used by the Americans.

The speaker was presented by Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, professor of education and psychology at the College.

Irish Discussed By Akrothinians

St. Patrick, Industries and Religion of Ireland, Subjects on Program.

Ireland and its patron Saint Patrick were taken up for discussion at the last meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society.

Alson Gray delivered the main talk of the evening, using as his subject, "Ireland — Topography, Industries, and Religion." His description of the physical features of the country led up to a discussion of Ireland's chief industries, which he named coal, iron, and copper mining, general farming, stock raising, and distilling and brewing. In discussing the religion of Ireland, Gray went back into the history of the country to relate that Christianity was introduced to the pagan natives in the sixth century. He told of how Ireland came to be divided between Catholics and Protestants and the significance that this division has had on the politics of the country.

Weisner read a humorous poem, "The Birth of St. Patrick," and Sharpe concluded the program with a series of witticisms.

The program was short Thursday night because of the absence of several members who were scheduled to appear on the program, and the business meeting was curtailed because several of the society officials were away with the College choir.

The General Motors Corporation presented a series of short educational films in the College auditorium last night. The subject of the program was the construction of roads and automobiles.

THE LAST QUARTER

It is an ironical coincidence that with the arrival of spring and its traditional fever comes the beginning of the final quarter of the school year, undoubtedly the busiest period of the entire session. Socially the period is important because of the many functions which are annually held in the months of April and May. From the extra-curricular point of view, the spring period is outstanding as the time for the election of new officers to lead the student organization next year. The choosing of new officials will, as usual, involve politics—friendly, we trust — and who can deny that political maneuvering takes time? And of course final examinations and graduation exercises will come as a climax to the entire year, with the seniors winding up their careers at the College.

The quarter which closes next Tuesday has been an interesting one; it has seen the High Point Purple Panthers win their first North State conference championship in basketball since 1930 and follow up with a clean sweep in the first cage tournament ever held by the conference; it has seen the choir, debate squad, two of the literary societies, and other campus organizations reach their peak of activity for the year; and it has seen genuine scholastic accomplishments. Yes, the quarter now closing has been an interesting and busy one, but the spring term has distinct possibilities of becoming a grand climax to the year.

ELECTIONS IMPENDING

The student government council is now considering suggested changes in the method of electing council officials for next year by which it is hoped to arouse new interest among the students. Although specific plans for the change have not yet been completed by the council, the main feature that has been suggested is to nominate the officials several days before the actual election. The elections, too, would be changed from the standing vote now used to a secret ballot system with registration of each student required. By this means it is hoped to put more thoughtful consideration in the voting and reduce mob psychological influence to a minimum.

Anderson Says "Oh, Yeah?" and "Can Take It" Express Human Feelings.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—Two slang phrases of the hour—"Oh, yeah?" and "He can take it"—were lauded by Robert Anderson, author and newspaperman, in a recent address to Hunter College students.

"'Oh, yeah?' is not ridiculous," Anderson said. "It is tragic in its implications. It is eloquent of world weariness as the bitterest cry of the disillusioned from Ecclesiastes down to Dreiser and Lewis.

"It bristles with challenge, as the young men cry: 'Why have you slain our illusions? Why have you killed our faith?'"

Nor was there anything new in "He can take it," Anderson declared, pointing to the analogy between it and the spirit the Victorians applauded in Henley's line, "Beneath the bludgeoning of chance, my head is bloody but unbowed."

Cambridge, Mass.—Discovery of ancient "buttery" ledgers of Harvard College shows the appetite of yesteryear.

For one meal, in August, 1729, the "butler" purchased milk, eggs, sugar, flour, nutmeg, "legg" of mutton, pork, squash, butter, "pigeons," bread, apple pie and wine—all for $7.15.

Another dinner, this one in October, featured pork, cheese, "fowle," butter, "beafe," carrots, turnip, apple pie and wine, and cost about $5.

EDUCATIONAL LIBERTY FOR TEACHERS SOUGHT AT COLUMBIA COLLEGE

Commission Seeks to Protect Instructors From Dismissal Because of Beliefs.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Formation of a Commission on Educational Freedom to lend financial and legal aid to school teachers and other educators who are dismissed because of their political, economic or social beliefs, has been announced by Frederick L. Redefer, executive secretary of the Progressive Education Association of Columbia University Teachers College.

This commission, the culmination of 18 months of study and research by the Asociation, wil endeavor to protect those teachers whose jobs are endangered through discrimination and whose rights to academic freedom are threatened.

"Every year numbers of able and forward-looking teachers are dismissed and many more are threatened into silence or conformity," Dr. Redefer declared in making the announcement, adding that educators must view with "deep concern" any move to prevent teachers from expressing themselves openly, or criticising the social order from any angle.

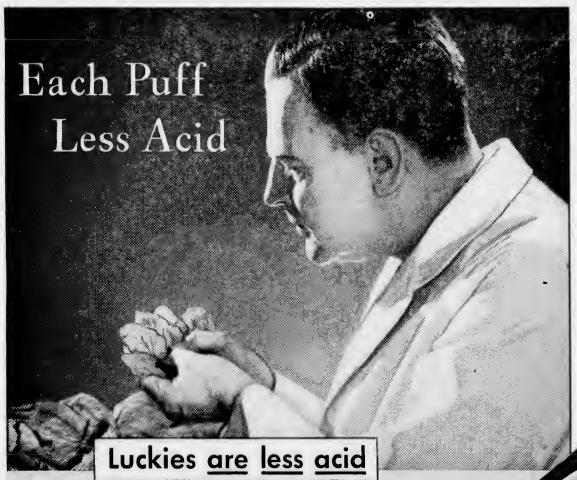

Other educators agree. In explaining the need of the organization, Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, Columbia professor of education, pointed out:

"The years just ahead will challenge American education beyond anything hitherto known. Our democratic civilization will stand or fall with the thinking done by the American people on our social, economic and political problems. We who teach must help the rising generation to yet higher standards of thinking. To this end we must be free to 'present, to investigate and to criticize any position in regard to the social order.'

"But many in our nation will oppose this freedom, a few selfishly, the most because their thinking is traditional and inert. Every effort will be made by busybody pressure groups to prevent freedom or discussion in our schools. The high name of patriotism will be invoked in behalf of obscurantism and demagoguery.

"Duty to country and professional honor both demand that we fight to preserve our freedom

Panther Track Team Won Conference Title In 1930

Ralph Mulligan and Clyde Pugh Student Leaders of Cinder Team Which Made Outstanding Record During Brief Stay Here; Interest May Be Revived by Class Meet.

By David Cooper

Looking back six years in the history of athletics at High Point College, we find, believe it or not, that the Purple Panther track team, which is non-existant at the present time, was the leader of the North State conference, having taken all conferrce meets during the '30 season.

Making its first appearance during the year 1928, the Pointer cinder team progressed with a characteristic Panther determination from fifth place in the state meets to the top position in the conference race, taking only two years to reach that goal.

The credit for such a brilliant record goes to Ralph Mulligan and Clyde Pugh, popular High Point college alumni. Mulligan , an all-'round good man on a track team, served as captain and coach for three years, introducing the sport to the college during the year 1928 and seeing that it remained a sport as long as he remained a student here. During that period he placed consistently in the state and conference meets, running off with the individual scoring honors in the Little Six meet at Greensboro at the close of the '29 season.

Clyde Pugh, taking over the position as business manager of the cinder club in 1929 to hold it the remainder of his college life, arranged meets, looked after equipment and field arrangements and in some way got the money to finance the whole thing. The team had a lot to do to uphold the hard, unselfish work of its captain and manager.

During the initial year, Ralph Mulligan's teammates, fifteen of them in all, trained hard, trying to make a seasoned team out of practically green material. Five meets were scheduled, including a class meet and mets with Guilford, Catawba, Wake Forest, and the State freshmen, finally to enter the state meet where they placed fifth.

The following year the ambitious Panthers with sixteen men and the same leader again arranged five mects, the repertoire being practically the same as the initial year. Having representatives in practically every department of the track field, shot-putting, high jumping, high and low hurdling, pole vaulting, mile and half-mile running 100, 200, and 440-yard dashes, the team was developing a more finished product, preparing to annex the conference title. Captain Mulligan outclassed his opponents in the Little Six meet to take two dashes and the broad jump. Johnie Hughes, distance runner for the Panthers, won the mile and two-mile runs to let the state fans know just who was in the conference.

Next came the climaxing year in High Point College track history as a veteran captain gathered around him a crew which was unequaled in the North State conference. Ralph Mulligan made of his last year as a student a year of glory as each conference team bowed before his team—winning the title!

Talk is now being spread about to again establish track as a sport here at the college. Plans are being pushed forward, under the sponsorship of the athletic department, to hold a class day field meet wherein all the classes will be expected to have representatives. There will be dashes, distance races, relays, high jumping, broad jumping and sack racing. There should be plenty of thrills and hilarity in a meet of this kind and, who knows, maybe if the contest is a sucecss a regular cinder team may be the result.

SPORTSCRIPTS

By Alton Hartman

If they keep booting the football question around, High Point students may witness the return of the sport before another decade. Speaking of football, we were called upon to look up the scores of the Panther eleven during 1930. The Panthers played only seven games that year, winning two, tieing one, and losing four. The scores: Wofford 18, High Point 6; Erskine 26, High Point 0; High Point 2, Newberry 0; Elon 13, High Point 7; Lenoir Rhyne 6, High Point 0; High Point 0, Atlantic Christian 0; High Point 31, Fort Bragg 0. That's giving the dark side of the question, as this was probably the worst year that the Panthers experienced.

—o—

The High Point athletes polled few votes in the Flaming Five contest conducted recently by a state newspaper for the purpose of selecting the five outstanding athletes in the state. These were picked by the readers of that paper. Only three Panthers were nominated, and none of these received a large vote. We believe that a poll by a nearby paper, in the vicinity where the local players are better known, would show an entirely different story.

—o—

Now that spring is here, we can look for the usual letdown of interest in athletics in High Point. However, the fans will probably be offered more than they can take in during the next few weeks. The baseball team will be plenty busy if the weather man permits it to play the remaining games scheduled. The tennis card promises some interesting matches. But these two teams fail to arouse the interest of the entire student body. The basketball team has received the enthusiastic support of the students in the past winters, especially since the construction of the Harrison gymnasium. Students find it convenient to attend the cage games, but it is a different story when they want to see the baseball nine, or the tennis club in action. The home games of the diamond team have always been played at Willis Park. Last year, when the baseball team was forced to play home games in Greensboro, Thomasville or Lexington, and the racqueteers found it necessary to entertain the visiting netmen on the city courts, attendance at these contests was at its lowest ebb. The attendance will never be up to par with that at the basketball games as long as they are played off the campus.

—o—

Considering the condition under which they work, the players of both teams are just as worthy of praise as the basketeers. They need the support of the students. It is highly probable that the existing conditions will be remedied to some extent in the near future. This would do much to bring about a revival of interest in the spring sports. After all, maybe it's just the spring fever.

—o—

One columnist states that a certain coach in the North State circle is nearly always good for some story. We have a coach here that may not be quite as good as spinning the yarns, but it seems that he got more action on the basketball court this past season than any other mentor in the loop.

—o—

The prize story of the week: This one was contributed by a local student, and a graduate of a high school involved in the story. It seems that there was intense athletic rivalry between two high schools. (Something like the High Point-Elon situation). After one had defeated the other in a football game, the followers of the losing team offered their alibis. The winning team was accused of using players who were quite beyond the average high school age. There was no Graham plan to prevent this practice. One man even reported that he saw several youngsters running up and down the sidelines during the games and shouting at the participants, "Come on, pop!" Don't laugh if you have heard it.

Bring on your tall stories.

Yowmen Meet Unique Club And McCrary

Panthers Launch Conference Campaign With Home Contest Against Catawba.

Stopped by cold weather and wet grounds in the scheduled game with Chatham last Saturday, the Panthers are slated to open the 1936 season Friday afternoon when they travel to Winston-Salem for a clash with the Unique Furniture nine.

The local boys will have their hands full this week-end. After meeting the Furniture club on Friday, they meet the McCrary team at Asheboro on Saturday afternoon. Both of these rival clubs will present a strong array of stars that are expected to make the going tough for Coach Yow's clan.

The bad weather, which caused the postponement of the opening game, kept the Panthers inside most of the time last week. Coach Yow resorted to skull practice sessions, teaching the fundamentals of the game. However, the men are not in good physical shape.

Practice was resumed Monday afternoon when approximately 19 men reported to Boylin field for the drills. In a spirited practice tilt, the players showed good form eonsidering the amount of practice they have been able to get. Coach Yow intends to work the entire squad hard this week, with hopes of rounding them into shape before the initial contest. Although they hit the ball with plenty of pep in the drills, the men have yet to find thir so-called "batting eye" before the Panthers will have the needed punch at the plate.

The game Friday afternoon will be of interest to many local fans because of the fact that "Jessie" LeRoy Pinkston, former Panther slugger, will be in the lineup for the Furniture nine. Pinkston was a member of the High Point team that ran the Elon Christians a close race for top honors in the season of 1934. The clouting outfielder was with the Twin City club last year, and has made a good record since leaving school.

Last year the Yowmen eked out a close 5 to 4 victory over the Unique boys in an eleven-inning battle at Winston during the Easter holidays. Always a tough foe for any industrial or collegiate ball club, they are expected to make the going tough for the locals.

Coach Yow has announced that he will probably alternate his pitchers in both the week-end games. Rudisill, Harriss, and Brinkley will bear the main brunt if the weather permits, but other players may be shifted to the firing line in ease of cold weather. Rudisill was out for nearly a whole season with an injured arm in '34, and Coach Yow is not taking any chances with his hurlers this time.

The probable lineup has not been announced, but it is likely that many men will get a chance in the opener. Many of the freshmen have not had a trial under fire, and may get their test in these two games.

The locals will launch their North State campaign on April 1 when they entertain the Catawba Indians at Willis Park. This will be the first home game for the Yowmen.

With Willis Park at the home base this year, the athletic officials are expecting larger crowds to witness the home games of the Panthers this year. Last year the attendance of the home fans hit the lowest mark in several years. This was explained by the fact that the Yowmen were forced to play their home games away.

Netmen Play 14 Matches; Work On Courts Started

Racqueteers to Open Season With Home Match Against Appalachian on April 1.

Rushing the construction work on the tennis courts of the college, the Purple Panther tennis wielders are working hard to get into shape in time for the first intercollegiate match of the season which takes place April 1 on the local courts against a strong Appalachian team.

Captain Wilson Rogers announced yesterday that the tennis schedule had been completed and fourteen contests will make up the docket, including matches with Davidson college of the Big Five conference and twelve matches within the Little Six territory. Due to bad weather conditions, very little work has been done on the three courts and no formal practices have been held, leaving the Panther raequeteers in a rather bad tennis condition for the first few matches which come so early in the spring.

Losing twice to the veteran Boone team last year, the locals have a beter balanced team this year and if good practice eonditions hold up should develop into a team which will give the conference leaders a dangerous threat. Frank Niernsee, winner of the fall tournament, is expected by most authorities to take the top position on the team, and, having consistently taken his number two matches during the past season, should be able to take the top seeded matches this year. eGorge Armfield, top ranking player in the city, will give Niernsee a close race for the first position and in match competition will probably prove to be a consistent winner. The other top position will be held by Jarrett, runner-up in the fall tournament.

Due to the shortage of time before the first match, Rogers says that there will be no seeding tournament this spring, as usual, but the players will be placed where it is thought they will do the most good in match play. The home matches will be played on the College courts instead of on the city eourts as they were last year, giving the fans a better chance to witness the games.

The April's Fool Day match will be followed the next day by a return match with Appalachian at Boone from whence the tennis players proceed to Lenoir-Rhyne the following day and to Davidson on the fourth, giving the Panthers a tough schedule

KNITTERS ARE DEFEATED IN CAGE TOURNEY

Local Boys Lose to Winston-Salem All-Stars in Gold Medal Finals.

The Winston All Stars trounced the Robbins Knitters 60 to 41 in the finals of the fourth annual Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal tournament Saturday night to capture the Class A title.

The Knitters, composed of local College stars, went into the final battle by virtue of a victory over the local Triangles, who were sponsored by the Beeson Hardware company. Cone Memorial "Y" fell before the fighting Twin City club in the other semi-final bout.

Taking advantage of their height and weight on the small court, the All-Stars set a pace too fast for the Knitters. Absent from the court since their triumphant march through the North State tournament, the Collegians were in no shape to match the play of the winners. Handicapped by loss of players for excessive fouling, the locals were not able to keep up with the fast stepping Winston team to the finish.

Returning to former haunts, Cooper featured in the offensive attack of the winners by ringing up 25 points. He hit the loop with deadly accuracy, looping them in from all angles of the court. Johnson, at center for the winners, tied with Martin, Knitter forward, for second place scoring honors with a total of 16 points.

Globe Parlor won the Class C crown with a smashing win over the Sears-Roebuck team. Piggly Wiggly of Burlington, eked out a close victory over the Fifty-fifty Grocers of Lexington to take the Class C honors. After the two teams had played on even terms throughout the first three quarters, the winners came back strong in the final period to win 30 to 23.

"Pinky" Williams, former captain of the Panther Pack, appeared at guard for the winners, and showed his old form by sewing the game up for his team with a long shot in the closing minutes.

The young woman found a half-frozen mastiff on the Union doorstep one morning, and brought it into her office to thaw out.

When it finally got warm, the dog walked over to Miss Herschler, busily typing, bit her severely, and ran.

WISCONSIN'S LIBERAL PREXY UNDER FIRE OF CONSERVATIVE GROUP

Controversy Centers Around Fight to Unhorse Glenn Frank From Position.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis. — Traditionally progressive Wisconsin, home of liberal movements since its founding 100 years ago, seems to be turning against liberalism last week when long-current rumors of the impending "request resignation" of the University of Wisconsin's President Gleen Frank were announced as fact and left undenied.

Hard on the heels of an athletic department blow-up which culminated in the dismissal of Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach, Dr. Walter B. Meanwell, probably No. 1 U. S. basketball coach, and Trainer William Fallon, came the report that the board of regents, by an 8-to-2 majority, will ask Frank to leave Wisconsin with the 1936 graduating class.

Released on March 10 by the Madison Progressive newspaper, the story has been taken as gospel in some quarters, pooh-poohed in others, and nowhere emphatically denied. President Frank has had nothing to say, members of the board of regents refused to be quoted, and suggested candidates for the post were for the most part unavailable or unwilling.

Under fire more or less steadily since 1932, when John B. Chapple, demagogic newspaper publisher, campaigned for the U. S. Senate on an anti-University, anti-Frank platform, the young and brilliant president has taken all comers in his stride, and generally retained the respect of faculty and student body. Rising to speak at a faculty meeting last week, Frank was cheered for a full five minutes, and the 380 students, instructors and townspeople attending the traditional Gridiron banquet two days later paid similar tribute.

Frank's $18,000 salary, his frequent absences from Madison on speaking trips, and his recently-manifest interest in Republican national politics—he is considered a leading "dark horse" contender for the '36 nomination—were reported as the principle grievances of the board of regents.

As counter-claims Frank supporters cited the numerous appointments to the faculty of high-ranking scholars since he took office in 1925, rise of the University of Wisconsin from seventh to second place in national ranking, over such schools, as Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Columbia. He has made only some 120 outside speeches during his ten year tenure of office, they say, and has confined himself politically to one talk, given at the New York Lincoln Day dinner last month. One time editor of Century Magazine, author and acknowledged educational pioneer, Glenn Frank generally leaves his audience convinced they have heard America's finest speaker, is in great demand, particularly in the East.

Emphasizing the political angle evidenced by the action of the board of regents, largely appointees of Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, was the rumor that the governor himself was interested in the president's chair. Hard to believe because of the similarly liberal opinions credited to the two men, friends of some years standing, the rumor was quashed by Progressive Gov. LaFollette with the remark, "I would under no circumstances be a candidate for the position, nor would I accept it if it were tendered to me."

Lloyd B. Garrison, dean of the law school, and Erwin Fred, dean of the graduate school, were most frequently mentioned as successors to Frank should he leave the post that has made his nationally famous. Both are his appointees, and neither showed great interest.

Meanwhile the rumor machines grind on, and the suave, imperturbable, impeccably garbed Glenn Frank continues to shape Wisconsin's liberal policy.

Alcohol, tobacco, tea and coffee, moderately used, do not cause any disease of the heart or blood vessels, says Harvard's Dr. William H. Robey.

"SELL YOURSELF" PLAN USED BY ART STUDENT

Works Scheme to Finance Trip Abroad; Promises Dividends From Art Sales.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis. — The sell-yourself system, brought to its peak by Max Baer when he sold some 200 per cent of himself to various managers under the belief that "per cents were like pieces of pie," has been successfully used by Rudolph Jegart, University of Wisconsin football player and sculptor, to finance a trip abroad.

Having sold all the shares available, Jegart left for France last week. Investors in the one-man corporation may look forward to dividends of oil paintings, water colors, or sketches on his return.

Jegart is the originator of "Kinetic Sculpture," using wire, wood and string as principal materials. His "The Lynching," in this medium won wide acclaim last Fall, and he has won various prizes in other art forms.

CHOIR RETURNS FROM ITS NORTHERN TRIP

Last Wednesday the choir came back South as far as Newark, New Jersey, where a program was given at the First Methodist Protestant church. Thursday the Delaware, to make an appearance choristers went to Wilmington, at the Peninsula Methodist Protestant church.

Friday the choir sang at the Bethesda Methodist Protestant church in Salisbury, Maryland. On the following day the singers took another vacation to fish in the Chesapeake Bay at Norfolk, Virginia.

Last Sunday afternoon the choir appeared in a concert at the First Baptist church in Newport News, Virginia. The final program of the journey was given at the Ghent Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the came city Sunday night. The choir left Norfolk on Monday morning and arrived at the College late that night.

This journey was the high spot of the year's activities for the choir, and it followed several months of practice and a number of local concerts by the singers. Although the choir may make several other appearances in this or nearby cities, the group is not expected to make further extensive tours this year.

SAYS SMALL BOMB TO BE REAL WAR MENACE

Columbia Chemistry Professor Explains Danger of 2-Pound Thermite Bomb.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—The two-pound incendiary bomb, containing thermite, will be the real peril in the next war, according to Prof. J. Enrique Zanetti of Columbia University's chemistry department.

"A single two-ton bomber can carry 2000 of these bombs," says Prof. Zanetti, "and if only one in 100 makes a hit, that bomber will start twenty fires within a few minutes of each other."

Thermite is a mixture of iron oxide and powdered alumnimum or magnesium, stable if protected from moist air, but reacting violently if heated to a high temperature.

BELL AND GIBBS ARE ARTEMESIAN SPEAKERS

Mary Tice, reading from "The Victorians Had a Word for It," endeavored to describe the nineteenth century conception of charm, and the efforts of fond mamas to carry off Victorian maidens. She spoke of modern methods of supplying charm—dancing schools for grace, correct eating for proper weight, careful use of makeup, intelligent conversation.

With these reviews as a background, the visitors contributed two word portraits to the program. Miss Bell humorously described her ideal man, setting as an essential requirement that he like hamburgers. She insisted also on a good speaking voice and a fondness for poetry, and heartily deplored such habits as eating crackers in bed. Mr. Gibbs revealed his conception of an ideal girl, making the unusual admission that he did not want to feel superior to her. He rounded out his decision by reading some humorous verses which described the type of girl of which he was not fond.

Chaplain's duties were performed by Dorothy Wiggins. In the course of the business session, Nancy Parham and Patty Redman were selected to serve as marshals for the inter-society debate which takes place on April 8. The meeting closed with the society song.

Friday Chapel In Charge Of Local Council

Student Government Organization Presents Program Here Friday Morning.

COUNCILMEN SPEAK

Duties and responsibilities of Student Government Analyzed by Officials.

The Friday morning chapel program was in charge of the Student Council who presented an analysis of Student Government—its duties and responsibilities to the student body. Allen Austin, vice-president of the Council, presided and several informative talks were given on the program by Council members.

The first talk, "Responsibility of the President," was given by Lincoln Fulk, president. He presented the duties as fourfold—to the students, Constitution and By-Laws, Council and to the Administration. "The president," said Mr. Fulk, "has powers centralized, controlled and directed and his particular duty is to make student activities better, lift ideals higher, and increase school spirit and serve as a service officer."

Alson Gray, sophomore representative, analyzed the responsibility of the Council members as a student and "The work of the Council," he said, "is always according to the desires of the students it represents as well as the administration. Its duty is to act as a court of appeals for the students and to pass on all regulations of the dormitory councils."

The duties and responsibility of the students was discussed thoroughly by the representatives. Thacker stressed the fact that the whole success or failure of student government depends on the reaction of the student body and its response to rules and regulations. He concluded in interrogation, "Cooperation or strike?"

Elizabeth Phillips represented the dormitory councils, explaining the necessity of enforcing dormitory rules. "Students in the dormitories," said Miss Phillips, "must conduct themselves in a commendable manner both off and on campus while under college regulations. The dormitory councils are merely branches of the Student Council and in cooperation there is strength."

Sulon Ferree presented the responsibility of the faculty in student government and emphasized the need of their influence, encouragement, and cooperation in making it a success. "Cooperation," he said, "is the soundest requisite of a sucessful Student Government and this envelops cooperation and compromising among the Student Council, Faculty, Students, and Dormitory Councils." This program was the initial presentation of the Council.

Edith Crowder conducted the devotionals followed by "The Prayer Perfect," sung by Wayne Hornaday.

G-MEN GRAB STUDENTS WHO SENT FAKE BOMB

Government Agents Investigate Machine Sent to University Chancellor.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Personal, if slightly informal relations with a lot of G-men were enjoyed by twenty-five Syracuse University students last week when the finger of the law identified them as the pranksters who had sent a fake bomb to Chancellor Charles W. Flint. They were charged with disorderly conduct, and the post-office department wired a note of cheer from Washington, saying that Federal action might be taken.

The tale begins with a group of architectural students sitting around trying to think of something to do instead of studying architecture. Some bright lad thought of the bomb plot, and an infernal machine was immediately constructed from taped wires, cotton, dead dry cell batteries, cardboard tubes filled with sugar and an old alarm clock. Addressed to "Comrade Chancellor Charles W. Flint," it was entrusted to the U. S. Mails, wherein lay its undoing.

SENIORS WILL DON CAPS AND GOWNS FRIDAY

Investiture Service To Be Held at Regular Chapel Period at College.

The annual investiture service for members of the senior class will be held Friday morning at the regular chapel period, it has been announced by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College.

This service, which is one of considerable effectiveness, and one of the greatest of the College traditions, is the first occasion of the year when the seniors wear their academic caps and gowns. At each Friday chapel exercise from now until the end of school, the members of the graduating class will attend in their caps and gowns. Several speakers have been selected to deliver a series of talks especially for the seniors.

Dr. Humphreys and several members of the faculty will take part in the investiture service Friday. Each senior will select one member of the sophomore class to assist the graduating student in donning cap and gown. The seniors wil occupy the front seats in the center section of the auditorium at each remaining chapel exercise.

Nikes Debate On Motion Pictures At Weekly Meet

Judges Give Decision to Side Arguing Against Censorship of Motion Pictures.

A debate on the query—"Resolved: That motion pictures should be censored," was the main feature of the regular meeting of the Nikanthan Literary Society Thursday evening.

Inza Hill and Elsie Kirkpatrick conservatively held out for bigger and better censorship for the sake of the morals of the nation, while Iris Welch and Helen Hunter went liberal in a big way to ask for complete freedom from movie reformers. So forcefully did the negative speakers support their views that the judges, after listening to all the pros and cons—including the inevitable discussion of Mae West—of the question, gave them the decision.

Elizabeth Bagwell enumerated the advantages of the motion picture as an educational medium. She pointed out the increased numbers of "classical" movies as an indication of change in public attitudes and in willingness to be educated.

Clara Tanner's brief speech dealt with "The Movie Dawn," and discussed motion picture beginnings and the great progress that has been made since the inception of the industry.

Plans for the annual Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day were discussed, and committees were appointed to make preparations for morning and afternoon programs and for the banquet to be held in the evening.

CAROLINA SCIENTISTS TO MEET APRIL 24-25

State Academy of Science to Hold Thirty-Fifth Annual Meeting at Duke.

With over two hundred scientists expected to attend, plans are being rapidly completed for the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the North Carolina Academy of Science to be held at Duke University on April 24-25. The high point of the assembly will be the announcement of prizes and awards given to, and by, the Academy on the last day of the meeting.

Of interest to students and the public will be the general program Friday, at which time papers, dealing with all fields of science, will be presented by members of the Academy. On Saturday, the general group will divide into smaller bodies for study of special branches of scientific matters. The committee in charge of arrangements has also planned for a field trip through Duke forest, an inspection of Duke hospi-

Two Local Students Attend Meeting Of State Federation In Greenville

Two representatives from High Point College attended the annual convention of the North Carolina Federation of Students, held at East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, N. C., Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

High Point's two delegates, W. W. Weisner and Dorothy Bell, junior members of the student council, gave reports of the convention at the student government assembly here Monday morning.

The convention opened Thursday evening with a dinner, followed by brief speeches of welcome given by Dr. Leon Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, Ellen Jenkins, hostess to the meeting, and Bill Aycock, of State College, acting president of the Federation.

The first plenary session was held Friday morning on the campus of Teachers College in Greenville. The delegates held an open forum discussion of student interest in public affairs, and the Federation officially went on record as seeking to intensify student interest in national and international affairs through existing organizations and through the medium of the campus press.

Dr. Leon Meadows spoke to the convention delegates Friday morning on the topic, "Government by the Governed." The speaker traced the development of civil government from the era of one-man rule through force to the modern representative governments.

Dr. Meadows outlined the development of student self-government from the time of absolute faculty autocracy to the modern student government that directs almost every phase of campus life. He pointed out that many of the manifest weaknesses in civil democracy have also shown themselves in student government. He said that in both cases the tendency for hero-worship has led the majority to surrender its independence and go back to one-man rule.

Dr. Meadows urged the student government officials to study all types of government and adapt the best features of each to campus self-rule. He suggested that student government officers should be leaders in all other phases of campus activity. "Learn to do by doing," he said.

Friday afternoon Miss Gwynn Roberts, social dean at William and Mary College in Virginia, spoke to the convention on "My Impressions of Student Government." She related many experiences in her connection with student government at William and Mary, and she urged reason, common sense, and a sense of humor in dealing with student problems.

Following Miss Roberts' speech, the delegates divided into two groups to discuss the special problems of men and women student governments.

The final business session of the convention was held Saturday morning, when Bill Aycock, of State College, was elected president of the Federation for the coming year. Al Martin, of Wake Forest College, was elected vice president; Ruth Kiker, of East Carolina Teachers, was named secretary; Charles Blair, of Guilford College, was chosen treasuerer. Greensboro was chosen as the convention city for next year, with Woman's College acting as hostess. Weisner was named to the executive committee to serve for one year.

Dr. Benjamin Holzclau, professor of philosophy at the University of Richmond, spoke to the delegates Saturday afternoon on "Student Government and Democracy." The speaker said that student government has grown up as a part of the American tradition of democracy.

As the basic reasons for the popularity of democracy in government, Dr. Holzclau gave the desire of every human being to be free from oppression, the better function of society as a whole when the individual has a part in government, and the educational and moral benefits from democracy.

In discussing the dangers of democracy, Dr. Holzclau warned against allowing representative government to become tyranny of the majority, suppressing and overriding the interests of small groups.

As further dangers of democracy, the speaker pointed out the difficulties which have beset this form of government in modern, complicated society, and the known inefficiency of self-government in times of great crisis. Lack of education has caused the people to follow demagogues, Dr. Holzclau said. He stated that people have less respect for laws passed by themselves than for orders handed down by uperior powers, and that there is a tendency to pass wild laws in haste under democracy.

The greatest difficulty of democracy, the speaker said, lies in the moral breakdown of the people and the loss of self-control and discipline. When the people become too interested in materialism, he said, thy lose interest in government.

Dr. Holzclau drew an analogy between civil democracy and student self-government, saying that the same benefits hold in both cases, and that student government has the same dangers of tyranny, demagoguery, inefficiency in crises, disrespect and complications.

The convention closed Saturday night with the annual banquet which was held in the Proctor hotel in Greenville. The new officers for the coming year were installed at this affair, and each responded with a brief speech.

REGULAR MEETING OF MODERN PRISCILLAS HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Home Economics Majors Discuss Project to be Given Laboratory This Spring.

The Modern Priscillas held their regular meeting Monday evening in their clubroom. Part of the meeting was given to discussion of the project which the club is to present to the home economics laboratory this spring.

Mrs. N. P. Yarborough, advisor to the club, read to the members a number of interesting and helpful facts concerning the care and cleaning of silver. Her remarks exploded the old theory that silver should be used only on special occasions, and at other times packed away in cotton wool. Insead, she said, silver should be used regularly if it is to retain its lustre and best appearance.

Another feature of the meeting was the appointing of a nominating committee to prepare suggestions as to next year's officers for the organization. The committee is composed of Catherine Farlow, Christine Latham, and Elizabeth Phillips.

Following the transaction of business and the completion of the program, the club members adjourned to the home economics laboratory, where they were entertained by the refreshment committee.

The next war will be won by the nation having the best gasoline, says Dr. Merrell R. Fenske of Pennsylvania State College.

College C. E. Society Wins Union Banner

City Union of Christian Endeavor Holds Quarterly Mass Meeting at College.

CARROLL GIVES AWARD

First President of College Endeavorers Presents Banner as Activity Prize.

The College Christian Endeavor society last night was awarded the activity banner for the past quarter at a City Union mass meeting held in Roberts Hall auditorium.

The College organization garnered more than 1800 points to take the quarterly award by a wide margin. Welch Memorial church's society placed second in the competition, followed by Springfield Friend's church.

Roscoe Brilly, of Welch Memorial society, president of the City Union, presided over the mass meeting last night. Following the devotionals, which were led by J. E. Garlington, Shubert's Serenade was played by Iris Welch, flutist, and Ernestine Strickland, violinist. They were accompanied at the piano by Agnes Louise Willcox, who had charge of the music for the night.

Presentation of the activity banner was made by the Rev. J. El-

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY CONTEST WON BY WILLING WORKERS

Lena Hunter's Review of "Women Under the Southern Cross" Is Featured.

The contest which has been running for the last two months in the College Christian Endeavor society ended Sunday evening, with the Willing Workers some 500 points in the lead.

The main feature of the evening's program was an entertaining and informative book review given by Lena Hunter. It was a discussion of Margaret Ross Miller's "Women Under the Southern Cross," which is being used for foreign mission study by the organized Methodist Protestant Women's Work. Miss Hunter told something of the women of South America, giving amusing incidents from their everyday life, describing their characteristics, and relating their various circumstances and customs. She impressed upon the minds of her audience the importance of supporting the South American missions, and sent out a challenge for more interest along that line.

The contest which closed on Sunday evening has promoted a great deal of interest in the campus religious organization, as has been demonstrated by the increase in attendance and offering. The offering collected Sunday evening amounted to some fourteen dollars. The winning Willing Workers, who were headed by Paul Owen, will be

JUNIORS WILL FETE SENIORS FRIDAY NIGHT

Annual Junior-Senior Banquet Slated for Emerywood Country Club.

Invitations have been issued for the annual Junior-Senior banquet, which will be held at the Emerywood Country club on Friday night of this week.

Final arrangements have been made by the various junior committees which have planned the annual dinner in honor of the graduating class, it has been announced by Alton Hartman, president of the juniors.

Detaiis of the banquet have been worked out by several committees, the chairmen of which are as follows: time and place, Allen Austin; program, Elizabeth Pirtle; invitations, Inza Hill; decorations, Charles Ridge.

Hartman, as president of the host class, will act as toastmaster for the banquet. Edith Crowder is president of the seniors, and will act as spokesman for her classmates at the dinner given in their honor.

The nature of the program and the decoration scheme have not been divulged, but it has been learned that an orchestra has been engaged to provide music for the occasion.

World Questions Are Topics For Society Program

Akrothinians Turn to National and International Topics for Program.

National and international questions provided the main topics for the program at the last meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society.

Porter Hauser opened the discussion with a talk on a comparatively recent innovation in American politics, the "Brain Trust." The basic materials for his speech was taken from an article in the March issue of Harper's Monthly magazine entitled "Brains in Washington."

The policies and ambitions of Italy's aggressive dictator, Mussolini, were discussed by George Craver. Basing his remarks on material found in the March Review of Reviews, Craver gave an analysis of Mussolini's attitude toward the Ethiopian conflict and his motivating interests in European policy.

The program shifted to another fascist dictatorship as David Cooper spoke to the Akrothinians on "Year IV Begins for the Nazis," taken from the March issue of Current History. Cooper related some of the accomplishments of Hitler's government during its three years in power, and he told of its general outlook at the beginning of its fourth year.

Paul Owen provided the literary note in the program with a number of selections read from Dickens' immortal Pickwick Papers.

BARREL CHEST IS NO SIGN OF GOOD BRAIN

Minnesota University Scientist Says Flat-Chested Are Above Mental Average.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn. — If your chest is flat, you are probably more intelligent than that fellow over there whose bulging, barrel chest interferes with his view of his feet.

At least so says Dr. S. A. Weisman of the University of Minnesota, who has spent a lot of time peering and probing into the matter. He concludes that flat-chested persons not only average greater intelligence than the full-chested, but are taller and heavier.

And that isn't all, either. Flat chests are no evidence of tuberculosis, nor of tendencies toward it. The deep-chested individuals have a better chance of contracting that disease.

Bernard Crasner, 41, who matriculated at C. C. N. Y. when he was 20, will get his degree in June. The World War is responsible for the delay.

New Catalog Shows Large Registration

Dr. Humphreys Releases Enrollment Figures Shown in New Catalog.

STATISTICS ARE GIVEN

Eight States and District of Columbia Are Represented Among 311 Students.

The new catalog to be issued within the near future will say that High Point College has the largest enrollment in its history, according to a statement issued by Dr. G. I. Humphreys.

A total of 311 students are enrolled in the regular winter session of the school, according to the president's figures. The registration according to classes is as follows: senior, 21 men and 23 women; junior, 29 men and 18 women; sophomore, 32 men and 31 women; freshman, 64 men and 50 women. There are 43 special students, including both men and women, enrolled at the college.

The summer school session of 1935 had a total enrollment of 75 students, and the extension department has set a new record in carring for a total of 160, making a new record of 546 students for all departments of the College, Dr. Humphreys said.

This is the largest enrollment in the history of the College, and the largest number ever registered for the regular session during the present administration.

Dr. Humphreys said that the growth in extension work here is of particular significance because the large majority served by this division are teachers in the public school system of North Carolina.

The president expressed confidence that the upswing in student enrollment will continue, and he believes that a new record will be set in the registration for the regular session next year.

Eight states and the District of Columbia are represented in the present enrollment at the College, the new catalog will show. Besides North Carolina, the states and the number of students which they contribute are as follows: Alabama, four; Maryland and Pennsylvania, three each; Virginia and Louisiana, two each; and Ohio, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia, one each.

STUDENT UNION WILL SPONSOR WAR STRIKE

High School and College Students To Be Called Out For Annual Peace Show.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Students in high schools and colleges throughout the country will be called from their classrooms on April 22 to participate in the third annual student strike against war, it has been announced by Joseph P. Lash, executive secretary of the American Student Union.

Citing the recent passage of the largest peace-time military budget in American history, including extensive appropriations for the ROTC, Lash predicted that at least 350,000 students would answer the strike call at 11 a. m. on that day.

The date of the walkout has been set for later than in previous years because of Easter vacations which would conflict in many areas with an earlier strike, Lash said.

"Passage of the unprecedented military budget has started a flood of inquiries to us from student groups and individuals who want to register their disapproval of the war program by joining in the strike," Lash said.

"The strike offers the educational system an opportunity to take an unequivocal stand for peace. In the light of the onrush of jingo propaganda in Washington, that stand is still more imperative than ever before. We hope that students will not be forced to face reprisals and violence which have greeted their declarations for peace in the past."

Excess of religious ferver rarely leads to insanity, according to Dr. E. W. Twitchell, University of California neuropsychiatrist.

COLLEGE BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT ACQUIRES PLANT COLLECTION FROM WINSTON DOCTOR

A recent acquisition of the College biology department is a collection of North Carolina plants, the gift of Dr. P. O. Schallert, Winston-Salem medico. The collection was gratefully accepted by Dr. Paul R. Bowen, head of the department, who proposes to call the gift the Schallert Herbarium.

Although Dr. Schallert's degree is in medicinc, he has been since his under-graduate days a botany enthusiast. In "riding" this hobby he accumulated a considerable number of plants native to this state, carefully identified and classified them, and preserved them. Now, although still interested in botany, he feels that his collection may be of value to a group rather than to an individual. With such a purpose in mind, he has presented the entire collection to the College.

Dr. Bowen pronounces the collection an excellent one, well-preserved and scientifically catagogued, which should be of real value to the classes in botany. It includes a particularly good group of liverworts and mosses, a number of fungi and ferns, and many flowering plants. Many of the plants the College had no adequate specimens of.

Dr. Bowen expresses the hope that at some early date he may have Dr. Schallert as a guest at the College, and that the generous doctor will perhaps consent to speak to one of the classes in botany before school closes this spring.

Friday Chapel In Charge Of Local Council

Student Government Organization Assumes Responsibility Next Friday Morning.

COUNCILMEN SPEAK

Duties and responsibilities of Student Government explained by Officials.

The Friday morning chapel session will be in charge of the Student Council with a program in the form of Student Government. The entire responsibility of the program will be left in the hands of the Council, students and members of the faculty. Allen Austin, vice-president of the Council, chairman and master of ceremonies for the program, announced this morning.

The first talk, Responsibility of the Freshman, was given by Lee Hall Polk, president the organization. The theme of Polk's talk was Student Government and Its Relation to Responsibility.

The president said in part, "Student Government is a privilege. It is the result of years of struggle on the part of students in overcoming the spirit of indifference which existed in the student realm. Our duty is to see to it that this privilege is maintained and to keep the organization in a healthy condition."

The duties and responsibilities of the students were discussed next by Polk. In the enumeration of duties Polk stressed the fact that the honor system must be upheld by the students. The student government must be supported and co-operated with by the students. The student government must be kept clean and the students must be responsible for its standards. The student body must be behind the student government and active in its support.

Responsibility was discussed by Polk in the following words: "Responsibility is not an educational standard but a practical standard. Responsibility is the test of character." Honesty is responsibility. Responsibility is the test of democracy. Student Government is democracy in action. Responsibility is freedom. Responsibility is the test of the student government. Responsibility is the test of the student. The student government must be responsible. The Student Council and all organizations must be responsible.

Austin Farren presented the second talk on the program. His talk was given presentation of the duties and the need of their immediate consideration and support by the students of the organization. Concentration, the topic of the second talk given by Gertrude Stuckey Greenwood, was discussed under the following headings: Responsibility to Studies, Responsibility to Organizations, Responsibility to Society, and Development through Responsibility. This was the latest presentation of the Council.

Lelia Cowper conducted the devotional exercises which opened the Friday program. Prayer was given by Lee Hall Polk.

SENIORS WILL DON CAPS AND GOWNS FRIDAY

Investiture Service To Be Held in Wesleyan Chapel Period a College.

All Senior candidates receiving degrees from the College will be invested at their Friday morning chapel period. The investiture will be conducted in the Wesleyan Chapel by the Marshals and Faculty.

The Marshals, Thompson, Hunter and Bowling Green, will lead the Seniors to the chapel. All those receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts will wear the black gown with the purple hood. Those receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science will wear the black gown with the white hood. Those receiving the degree of Bachelor of Music will wear the black gown with the white and purple hood.

The service, which is one of considerable solemnity, is conducted under the direction of the College Marshal. The Seniors are presented to the president of the College by the Marshal. The president then confers upon the candidates the degrees which they have earned. The Faculty and Trustee chapel students will then sing the Alma Mater and the candidates will be dismissed.

The Senior candidates have been advised to defray a portion of their expenses by selling their caps and gowns after graduation.

Wednesday and several students are expected to be present.

Dr. Hunter says the student government movement is only a step in the right direction. The ultimate goal is a democracy of the student body. Dr. Hunter says that the student government movement is only a means to an end. The end is a democracy of the student body.

Dr. Hunter says that the student government movement is only a means to an end. The end is a democracy of the student body.

STUDENTS AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The greatest motivator of interest in student government and public affairs, the North Carolina Federation of Students, held its annual convention last week-end under the sponsorship of the student government association at East Carolina Teachers College in Greenville.

The most significant action taken by the delegates was the resolution which put the Federation on record as seeking to intensify student interest in national and international affairs through existing organizations and through the campus press. The delegates doubtless gained from the open forum discussion of this problem much information that will have its effect on each campus represented.

It is also of particular significance that each of the three visiting speakers—distinguished educators from North Carolina and Virginia—expressed confidence in the essential soundness of student government. Each admitted that since student government is but a training ground for larger civic responsibilities, student officials should proceed with caution and thoughtfulness, but no one questioned the permanence of democracy in campus life. Dr. Holzclau perhaps sounded the keynote of the convention when he said that student government has grown up as a part of the American tradition, and that it has the same benefits and weaknesses inherent to civil democracy.

The two topics most discussed at the convention—student government and student interest in public affairs — are both questions that need more emphasis at High Point College. We hope that the two local delegates will be able to bring the accomplishments of the Federation in these two fields home to influence the organizations to which they belong.

A college is after all, the best possible training ground for citizenship. The college student who takes no interest in the state affairs of his state and nation and the world, and who takes no part in student government faces the possibility of being left behind in the race of later life. A person ignorant of the principles of government is fair game for the demagogue, the crack-pot, and the unscrupulous politician. Do not lose the best opportunity of your life to train yourself for a place in democracy.

The Vogue

Some pleasant April Fool jokes that could happen:

Maw could give us a good lunch.

Inza could be seen without Jim.

Weisner could put out a HI-PO without Dot (he says he can do it!)

Eddie Cantor could make a funny movie.

Chicken soup could have real chicken in it.

The Guardian Angel could take somebodys word for it.

Every cloud could hav'e a silver lining.

The HI-PO could have some hot news.

We could get somebody to write The Vogue.

We could stop this "Peeping Tom" business.

We could have a dance for the Junior-Senior.

We could have two weeks for Easter.

Pudge and Dot could locate that toddy.

The faculty could forget the meaning of the word "test."

The reporters in Woman's Hall could get some energy.

Mr. Rulfs could forget the freshmen can write.

Mr. Ford could forget to make an accounting assignment.

The staff could know a clean joke.

Prosperity could really be just around the corner.

Fraternity initiations could be really funny.

Sally could laugh like a gentleman.

Nobody would hold hands on the campus during April and May.

John McDowell would get rid of that pipe.

The members could get in their own fraternity rooms.

Jerry could talk about something except women.

Odell could have his nose removed—also get to class on time.

We could have pretty weather for a ball game.

We could hear something definite about that new library.

Somebody would do something about these driveways.

Bushy could stop cussing.

Co-eds could stop fooling the boys with those engagement rings.

The sun could shine.

WE MAKE THE NEWS—

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '31:

We are about to take our pen in hand and with the aid of the ink endeavor to tell you a few things about the members of your class that you may not know. With that beginning we should get somewhere before we stop.

We want to warn you to begin with that we are not all-knowing, although we might still be in the sophomore class. Therefore, we do not pretend to know the present state of affairs of every member of your rather large class, so we would be delighted to hear from you if you know something that we do not. Just write us in care of Mr. Harrison, the promotional secretary.

Tate Andrews attended the law school at the University and is now in the tailoring business with Virgil Yow.

Mrs. Lawrence ("Bishop") Lee, nee Maloie Bogle, changed her name in September, 1934, and now lives at Elk Park where her husband is pastor of a church.

James Bowman graduated from the Seminary at Westminster, Md., in '33, and has since been pastor of the Denton charge.

Kenneth Lyons is pastor of Mt. Tabor M. P. church in Washington, D. C.

Vernon Morton is an M.P. minister and now lives on route 3, Winston-Salem. His daughter, Ramona Celeste, was born April 25, 1933.

E. O. Peeler has been pastor of Enfield-Whitakers charge for four years.

C. F. Womble is an M. E. preacher located at Cramertown.

Enough for the preachers; now for the teachers:

Lucille Brown teaches in the High Point junior high and lives with Miss Vera Idol. Elizabeth Crowell teaches in High Point and this semester is also teaching a course in art at the College. Mae Edwards teaches in Cleveland county; James Howard Friddle, in Guilford; Charline Grimes, in High Point; Lula Gray Harris, Eldorado; Leslie Johnson, Gray's Chapel; Flora Dell Mitchell, near her home at Jennings; Bill Snothery, math at the Senior High here; Ruby Warlick, Lawndale; and Ruth Woodcock, English in Salisbury high school.

Clara Goolsbey did teach in High Pint but she is now Mrs. Floyd Teague of Charlotte. Mr. Teague was from High Point.

The romance which began on the campus between Emma Lee Poole and Henry Furches culminated in marriage last September 7. Henry has taught and coached at Oldtown high school since graduation. Mr. and Mrs. Furches live on a route out from Winston-Salem.

Louise Collett and John Easter were married in June, '34. John teaches at Allen Jay and Mrs. Easter still teaches at Trinity, where they live.

Pauline Hicks and Hazel Lanier each have a music studio in High Point. Hazel is out at the College this semester working on her A. B. degree.

Hart Cambell taught at Asheboro high school for three years but is now with the WPA.

Elizabeth Brown atended summer school at H. P. C. and W. C. of U. N. C. after graduation, and is now with an office in the City Hall.

Alph Hamlet is in the stone crushing business. Barrett Harris is farming near Denon.

Essie Haney is in training in the Grace hospital at Banner Elk.

Louise Jennings is doing library work in Burlington. She was College librarian for three years.

Riley Litman is working with the Bell Telephone company, Weston, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Talton Johnson, nee Gladys Morris, was married on May 11, '45. They live on Front street extension in Burlington where both are working.

Clyde Pugh is a salesman with the Robbins hosiery company in High Point.

Phillip Routh is in medical college. Where?

Mrs. T. H. Nabers, nee Evelyn Seward, was married June 17, '34, and now lives on the Winston Road.

Chester Smith, Jr., is director of physical education at the Kannapolis Y. M. C. A.

George Taylor is with the Parker Paper company in High Point. Margaret Thompson is doing clerical work in Thomasville. Currie Williams is selling insurance in Burington. Frank Walter is a soil erosion engineer in High Point.

Mary Beth Warlick became Mrs. Ralph Brackett on May 19, 1934, and now lives in Greer S. C.

William Worley is an insurance inspector in Fairmont, W. Va. He married Miss Josephine Morrison on July 23, '33. Bill was here last Homecoming day.

Last June 1 Riley Martin died suddenly of a mysterious ailment. He was the third H. P. C. graduate to die. He was an electrician in High Point. On November 5, '32, he and Edith Armstrong, a commercial student here during '30-'31, were married. They have a daughter, Jean Kyle.

Since the last HI-PO news has come of the arrival of a daughter, Anzie, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, of Spencer, on Mar. 7.

Now, what do you know?

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

RACQUETEERS MEET BOONE OUTFIT HERE

Rush Work on Men's Courts; Locals Handicapped by the Lack of Practice.

The High Point College racquet squad takes the courts this afternoon in the first inter-collegiate and conference match of the season as they meet a strong Appalachian team on the home territory. They are not quite prepared for real competition as yet because of bad wather conditions, but still hopeful.

Last minute work is still being rushed through on the College tennis courts, but it is doubtful that it will be possible for the various singles and doubles matches to be played on these grounds. Various private courts of the city will be used instead. Bad weather conditions have competely retarded not only the construction work on the courts, but has kept the Panther team members from the practice which is much needed to round them into some sort of shape for this initial match. The entire number of players got their first practice on Monday.

The Appalachian team is rated as one of the best in the conference and should show the fans a brilliant brand of ground strokes, aerial vollies forecourt and backcourt drives and services. Although their roster has not been made known yet, the two Sawyer boys who held the number one and two positions down so ably last sseason will probaby be again in the lineup to give the locals a real fight.

Captain Rogers in watching the practice Monday said that Niernsee, winner of the fall tournament and star of ast year's team, will again hold the first position while Jarrett, runner-up in the fall playoff, will take care of the second niche. Armfield, highly rated player who enrolled here again after attending the University of North Carolina a year and a half, has been found ineligible for conference play because of this attendance at another college. He will be unable to become a member of the team until after a year in residence here at High Point College. The number three position remains to be picked from a group including Rogers, White, and Setzer, with Rogers having the edge. The other position will then be held down by the two who do not make the third post.

Although the Panthers also engage in a baseball game today also on the home territory, a fairly large crowd of tennis fans is expected to witness the various play-offs, singles and doubles, in this, the initial match of the season.

On Thursday the netmen return the match with the Mountaineers when the two clubs meet again at Boone. The following day they continue their North State campaign by taking on the Lenoir Rhyne team at Hickory. The match scheduled with Davidson on Saturday has been cancelled.

Don't be surprised if you hear Coach Yow and the baseball players chanting, "rain, rain go away, we all want to play." Why not make "Stormy Weather" the theme song? Coach Yow showed a lot of foresight in making out a long schedule. Think how all this rain would have practically washed away a small card. But let's be optimistic on April Fool's Day —hope that the weather man fools us with some fair weather. If this continues, might suggest that the players take up indoor baseball or water polo.

—o—

The baseball team had better watch those Indians today, regardless of the condition of the field. It was in 1934 that the Redskins scalped the Panthers twice one afternoon in the mud at Willis Park to knock them out of a possible tie with Elon for top position. After playing a brilliant brand of ball throughout the season, the Panthers came to the final home stand against the Indians only two games behind the Christians. The double setback sent them into the second position.

—o—

Believe it or not: (with apologies to Ripley) The High Point College netmen scored their first victory in intercollegiate competition on Friday, the 13th. To be exact, they defeated the Elon racqueteers (yes, we double checked) by the score of 5 to 4 on April 13, 1934. They continued their, may we call it impressive showing, that year by winning another match from the Western Carolina club by the score of 5 to 3. But these two instances are the only times it has happened before or since. The history making team was composed of Johnny Taylor, then singles champion of the College, Primm, Hussey, Yount, Armstrong, Pressley, and Rogers. But this is leap year, and a lot of funny things sometimes happens on the odd year. We have plenty of material this time, and the indications point to the strongest team in history. Last year the racqueteers failed to scratch in the winning column, but we are predicting for them to upset the dope bucket this year.

—o—

Lee Sherrill, who left our midst two weeks ago for the sunny south, will trek back northward on April 6 with a wonderful tan plus an improved pitching wing. (We learned this information through an indirect source.) Lee has been going good in spring training camp this time, so good, in fact, that they have moved him up to the Columbus club. He started out with the Rochester club, of the International league. This step will give the big right-hander a chance to show his stuff this year. Columbus, the Cardinal farm in the American Association, is rated as a strong club.

The King College boxers made a good showing in the A. A. U. tourney here last week. Wilkerson, winner of the 135 pound class, was without doubt the most outstanding fighter of the meet. As expressionless as Joe Louis, the Lincolnton boy slashed his way through all opposition without any trouble. He was a great favorite with the High Point fans during the Central Carolina Golden Gloves tourney, and was awarded the popularity prize this time.

—o—

Congratulations to Martin. Although there is plenty of "pepper" in his play, he is just about as silent as any "moon" in a ball game. We are not sure whether he has a temper or not. If he has, he always keeps it well under control.

—o—

Prize story of the week: This one was contributed by "Tige" Harris, and is really a whopper. It all happened during a baseball game last summer, in which the narrator was a participant. In the first inning of the game, a certain batter reached first on a single, but was trapped off first with a quick throw by the pitcher. The next time he came up the same thing happened. Somewhat peeved, the batter, upon reaching the base for the third time, decided to play safe. He stood with one foot beside the bag, and patted the sack with the other while he made his boast to the pitcher that he wouldn't get him this time. Nothing daunted, the hurler waited for his chance. By careful timing, he was able to catch the runner with his foot off the base between the pats. "You're out", says the ump.

Field Event Is Delayed By Bad Weather

Date For Intra-Mural Event to be Announced by Athletic Director.

Due to continued bad weather, the members of the various classes who wished to take part in the field day track meet which is to be held under the sponsorship of Coach Yow's athletic classes, have been unable to do much in the way of getting in shape. I is necessary for the meet to be put off for possibly another month.

All men who are interested in participating in either the dashes, distance runs, relays or sack races are asked to begin at once to start conditioning themselves in preparation for some real earnest competition. This event, which will be a meet between the classes of the College, promises to be a hard fought, well run off meet. Distance runners and dash men have already been discovered, many of them having had experience in high school inter-scholastic track meets.

An affair of this kind which will probably be filled with thrills, spills and laughs will, it is hoped, again make High Point College track-minded, possibly, if enough talent is found, again will revive track as a regular sport here.

Culler, Towery And Martin Are Awarded Honors

Martin Given Sportsmanship Trophy; Culler and Towery on All-Star Quint.

Three of the High Point College basketeers, who played under the name of the Robbins Knitters during the fourth annual Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal tournament, were awarded honors by the local tournament committee last week.

Broadus Culler, and Red Towery were named on the Class A All-Star team, while "Pepper" Martin was voted the Sportsmanship award in this division. The Robbins Knitters, composed of the local college players, were defeated in the finals by the Winston All-Stars. These two teams placed two each on the team, while the other was from the local Triangle five.

The Class A team follows:
Forward: Culler, Knitters.
Forward: Thomas, Triangles.
Center: Johnson, Winston-Salem.
Guard: Towery, Knitters.
Guard: Cooper. Winston-Salem.

One of the greatest awards the tournament committee makes each year is that of the sportsmanship trophy for each division. The player in each class who shows the best spirit on the floor, in defeat or victory, is rewarded with the trophy.

Martin landed the place in Class A; Turner, of City Market, Winston-Salem, was voted that award for Class B. Hughes, of Proximity Red Birds, received the award in Class C.

The All-Star players and the Sportsmanship honorees will receive special awards at annual Y. M. C. A. athletic dinner

ELON

The Christians will continue their pre-season games another week before they launch a campaign for their seventh consecutive North State pennant. For six years the Elonites have ruled supreme in the circuit, but with many strong entrants in the race this time it appears that they will have a harder time repeating.

Still they have set the pace in the exhibition games during the past week by winning two out of 3 contests. The defending champions lost to Springfield in the season opener, but evened the series the next day with a 3-1 victory. Last Friday they appeared in mid-season form when they subdued the Johns Hopkins nine 6-0 in a seven inning affair.

Captain Mike Briggs, ace hurler, entered the baseball hall of fame by setting the invaders down without a hit or run.

Coach Walker's men will play 2 more strong foes this week. They take on Duke at Burlington, and Friday and Saturday they travel to Elkin for two games with the Chatham Blanketeers.

LENOIR RHYNE

Winner of second honors in the diamond race last year, the dangerous Lenoir-Rhyne Bears will meet their first conference competition of the year Saturday afternoon when they travel to Salisbury for a clash with the Catawba Redskins.

Coach Pat Shores has a wealth of material reporting for positions this time, and should produce one of the most powerful clubs in the circuit. They were victorious over the Springfield nine, 3-2, in the lone contest of the past week. Today they meet the Davidson Wildcats in a tussle at Hickory.

Jesse Burngarner, veteran Bear outfielder, has been elected captain of the team for the 1936 season. Other stars with the Shoremen this time are: Deal, hard clouting first baseman; Willett, Sigmon, Sanders, and C. Tuttle.

CATAWBA

After one preliminary tilt, the Redskins will meet the High Point Panthers in the opening confernce contest for both teams at Salisbury this afternoon.

The Indians were rained out of two contests last week with Springfield and Johns Hopkins, but lost their opening clash with Erskine Saturday afternoon. Costly errors enabled the South Carolinians to trample the North State club by the count of 5-3. Smiling "Hamp" Hampton, sophomore twirler, opened on the mound for the losers, and held the invaders hitless for three innings.

They entertain Lenoir-Rhyne Saturday afternoon.

Last year the Redskins captured third place in the final conference standings to finish one notch above the Panthers. With an improved team this season, especially in the hurling department, the Salisbury team appears as dangerous contenders.

GUILFORD

A second division team last year, the Guilford Quakers may prove to be the surprise team of the conference this year. Their brilliant performance in an exhibition game against the Mojuds of Greensboro earlier this season leaves the impression that they are much stronger.

Today they meet Atlantic Christian at Wilson in the first of a two game series. After finishing these two opening tilts, they move on to Greenville for a couple of non-conference games with E. C. T. C.

ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN

Coach Bud Rose, holding hopes of finishing higher in the final conference standings this time, is quietly at work whipping the Bulldog outfit into shape for the opening circuit contest with Guilford today.

Few reports have come from the Wilson camp, but it is predicted that the Bulldogs will have more to say in the race this time. Coach Rose has a veteran squad back to build his team around this time.

APPALACHIAN

The spring snow has failed to cool the enthusiasm in the Boone camp, although it has hindered practice sessions and early games. Approximately 30 candidates have reported for a place on the team this year. With veterans out for every position, the Mountaineers should put out a polished team.

A scheduled game with Lenoir-Rhyne was postponed until the Mountaineers can recover from the effects of the snow. There are no conference contests on the slate this week.

Co-Ed Basketball Meet Opens Today

Sophomores and Seniors Meet at 4 O'clock; Frosh and Juniors Play Tonight.

The women's intra-mural basketball tournament, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will get under way this afternoon at 4 o'clock and continue through Friday afternoon.

The sophomore team, defending champions in the meet, will take the floor against the senior club in the opening match. At seven tonight the freshmen and juniors will meet in the second tussle of the tourney.

Continuing the round on Thursday afternoon, the seniors and freshmen will come to grips in the 4 o'clock contest, while the sophomores and juniors play in the night battle.

Friday afernoon the freshmen and sophomores meet.

Conforming to the general custom, the freshman team is favored to walk away with top honors in the meet. All the participants in the series will get points towards a letter or sweater.

Officials for the games will be announced later.

PANTHER NINE PLAYS INDIANS AT SALISBURY

Game Switchedto Catawba Grounds by Coaches; 3 Tilts This Week.

Although practice has been very limited, the Panther baseball team will open the 1936 season this afternoon when they meet the Catawba Indians in a North State conference tilt. The game, which will be payed on the Catawba field, will begin at three o'clock.

Due to a conflict with the work of the Binghamton club, of New York, the game, originally scheduled for Willis Park, was switched to Salisbury by coaches Monday afternoon. The New York club has leased the park for their spring training drills, and will be busy for some time with the grounds. However, they will not interfere with the remainder of the games scheduled in the park by the Panthers. This contest will count as a home game for the Panthers, although it will be played at Salisbury.

With a busy week ahead, the home forces will have a hard time keeping their slate clean in the opening week of play. The game with the McCrary team of Asheboro, which was slated to be played last Saturday, will be played on Thursday afternoon. On Saturday the Yowmen move over to Durham where they tackle the Duke reserve nine.

Practice was resumed Monday afternoon, when fair weather offered the candidates their first chance for a good practice session. Drills have been very limited since the initial session, and the players are in bad physical trim, considering the late date.

Rain caused the postponement or cancellation of the first three games on the slate. These were with Chatham Blanketeers, Unique Furniture and McCrary. The game with McCrary is to be played at a later date.

Unless new developments take place, the Panther infield will probaby bonst either Rudisill or Brinkley at first; Koontz at second, Culler at short, and Martin at third. Diamond will take care of the receiving position. Coach Yow has a long list of candidates to select the outfield from. The outstanding candidates are: Dorsett, Ingle, Waggoner, Harris, Giles, and Grigg.

No announcement has been made concerning the starting pitcher, but it is believed that either Rudisill or Harris will get the opening assignment.

The Catawba club will present a strong combination against the locals. The two clubs are sworn rivals on the baseball field, and should give the fans plenty of fast baseball. In their opening game, the Indians lost to the Erskine nine by the score of 5-3.

Many of the local freshmen will probably get their chance at collegiate ball before the three contests are played this week. Towery, out for third base, and Waggoner, candidate for outfield post, now appear as the most likely prospects from the ranks of the new men.

wood Carroll, of Greensboro, president of Christian Endeavor for this district. Mr. Carroll, a graduate of the College, told of the development of the Christian Endeavor society here. He revealed that the College chapter won the banner the first year that the College was opened, and that this first banner was finally won permanently for the local society. Mr. Carroll led in organizing the Christian Endeavor society at High Point College, and he served as its first president. The banner was accepted by Mary Margaret Bates, president of the College society.

A part of the meeting last night was given over to a discussion of Easter sunrise services to be held by Christian Endeavorers. Since it was found inconvenient for the entire City Union to sponsor a service Easter morning, invitations were issued to individual services by Springfield Friends church, and the City-wide young peoples' organization of Greensboro. The College society also issued an invitation for visitors to attend the sunrise service on the campus Thursday morning, April 9, the last day before the beginning of the spring holidays.

The social period last night was in charge of Vesta Troxler, of the College society, who led the assembled Endeavorers in various games.

Brown Outlines Program Of NYA In Radio Speech Over Raleigh Station

Text of an address by Richard R. Brown, Assistant Executive Director of the National Youth Administration, over Radio station WPTF, Raleigh, N. C., on March 20, 1936.

I am indeed very much indebted to the North Carolina Youth Administration and to the management of WPTF for this opportunity of describing to you from a national standpoint the program and activities of the NYA.

Many of you probably know of young people who are working under the NYA program in North Carolina. You are acquainted with the type of work they are doing. You have doubtless read, too, in the newspapers how many young people in your state are being enabled to continue their education and are working on projects of various kinds. But because our program has been built up on a local basis, it differs rather considerably from state to state. I am therefore going to give you a brief description of the NYA's program as it applies to the country as a whole.

First, however, let me draw a rough sketch of the situation which youth was facing before the NYA was created. Statistics of May, 1935, indicated that there were nearly three million young people between the ages of 16 and 25 on relief. Of these approximately 1,-700,000 were eligible for work relief; while 400,000, or nearly one-quarter, of the latter had had no work experience whatsoever. Furthermore, the proportion of this age group on relief was greater by nearly twenty-five per cent than that of any other ten-year age group. Youth, it appeared, was coming out on the short end of things.

It is not necessary for me to go into any detail as to the causes of this situation. The facts are too well known. With some one and a half million young people graduating from school each year during a six-year depression period it is not surprising to find that so great a number of them have been unable to find jobs. Having entered a world where industriousness, thrift, and the ability to work are no longer sufficient to guarantee the earning of a respectable living; having entered a labor market which was already greatly over-crowded, they have been caught in a vicious circle. Generally speaking, they have been unable to get jobs without experience; and they have been unable to get experience without jobs. To create educational, recreational, training and work opportunities for many of these needy young people the NYA was established by President Roosevelt last June.

Through its student aid program some 315 young people are earning a sum of money which is the difference between their continuing in school and college and their being forced to drop out. Having modified and expanded the FERA's college aid program of last year, the NYA is making it possible not only for college students to earn $15 a month but for secondary school students to earn $6 a month and college graduate students $25 and $30 a month. Under the supervision of the educational authorities these students are working on a great variety of jobs. School students are assisting principals in general office work, are reading to shut-ins, are mending classroom furniture and other school equipment, are working in school cafeterias and are performing many similar useful types of work. College and graduate students naturally are, for the most part, engaged in activities requiring a greater amount of skill and education. On the campus they are helping professors in research work in such fields as agricultural chemistry, bacteriology, physics and sociology. They also are giving valuable assistance in libraries, museums and laboratories. Off the campus they are engaged in hospital and social work, in supervising activities at local recreational centers, and in various jobs in local governmental agencies.

For many of those young people who want job-training and work experience rather than further schooling, the other half of the NYA program provides apprenticeships, camps for unemployed women, job counseling and placement services, and work projects.

In many states, as here in North Carolina, camps for young women corresponding in some measure to the CCC Camps for young men, have been organized. These camps usually have a term of two months; and their curricula includes workers' education, adjustment counseling, training in household management, health education, and work in the creative arts. The young women, however, are not paid for the work they perform since this is but a part of their training course. Many leave the camps well qualified, for example, to enter domestic service; and a particular effort is made to find jobs for all camp girls—aneffort which has resulted in considerable success. Up to the present time more than 3,100 young women have attended these camps.

Because many state employment offices have found their hands filled with seeking jobs for older and experienced workers, little attention has been given the problems of the younger and inexperienced job seekers. It is to give this younger group the special attention it must have that that NYA has already stationed junior employment counselors in twenty-four state employment offices throughout the country. In Durham there are two offices where NYA counselors are at work. At one of these, as many of you know, there is a Negro counselor who is giving special attention to the needs of Negro youth.

The principal function of these counselors is to evaluate the interests and work capacities of young people and to find jobs for them in private industry. But since private employment opportunities are still limited, a number of young people, chiefly from relief families, are being assigned to jobs on NYA and regular WPA work projects on a part-time employment basis. NYA projects are of four kinds—youth community development and recreational leadership, rural youth development, public service and research — and are thus broad enough to allow local communities to plan projects that are adapted to their individual needs and present facilities.

A flood more disastrous than that of 1927 threatens the South this year, according to Prof. Vernon C. Finch, University of Wisconsin expert in climatology.

DOCTOR WALT N. JOHNSON IS SPEAKER HERE

Durham Baptist Clergyman Speaks In Chapel on Problems Confronting World.

SAYS CHRIST SOLUTION

Calls War, Revolution, and Crime "Diabolical Trinity of Unregenerate Race."

Dr. Walt N. Johnson, prominent Baptist clergyman of Durham, was the guest speaker at the student government meeting here Monday morning.

Dr. Johnson chose as his topic the condition of the world today. Two outstanding changes have taken place during the past 300 years, the speaker said, physical changes have unified the world, and democracy has sought to work itself out, though recently breaking down into chaos on one side and hardening into dictatorship on the other.

The world is now a physical unit , the speaker told the students, and it must ultimately become a spiritual unit before the people will be happy. The person who does not think of the world as a unit is in danger of becoming an enemy to the race, Dr. Johnson said.

He continued that a divided race on a unified planet makes a tense situation, and he named the three great lines along which the people of the world are divided. First there are national lines, a division that has brought wars. Second, there is the class division between those who have the materials for producing wealth and those who have not, leading to destructive revolutions. And as his third point, the speaker named the division of the race into gangs or factions for individual gain at whatever cost.

These three great divisions result in war, class revolution, and organized crime, which Dr. Johnson called the "diabolical trinity of unregenerate humanity."

As the sole remedy for the chaotic situation, Dr. Johnson mentioned a spiritual awakening that would make us aware of the solidarity of the human race. "Man is at conflict at every level below the spiritual," he said.

The only way out, the speaker said, is for small groups to be teamed with Christ as strongly as the ganga are teamed with the devil. The hope of the race, he said, is not in the headquarters of the great denominations, but in the small minorities in the background who are in touch with Jesus.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY TO SPONSOR SERVICE AT SUNRISE

Bagwell and Walton Program Leaders at Regular Meeting Held Sunday.

Plans were laid Sunday evening at the regular meeting of the College Christian Endeavor Society to sponsor the customary sunrise service tomorrow morning at six o'clock. The service will be held on the campus or in the foyer of Roberta Hall, dpeending on the weather.

It is an annual custom of the society to hold such a service on the last morning before Easter holidays, and to welcome all students and visitors. Leo Pittard will have charge of the service this year.

Elizabeth Bagwell and Wilbur Walton were program heads for the Sunday evening meeting. Miss Bagwell presided. Among the speakers were Patsie Ward, Elizabeth Phillips, and Sulon Ferree.

The society president, Mary Margaret Bates, presented to the members the attendance trophy which the College organization won at the last mass meeting of the City Endeavor Union.

In answer to their names at roll call, the members read "slices" from the "Bread of Life" box, which contained Bible verses. Jacqueline Kinney was accepted as a member of the society.

Seniors Feted By Junior Class At Annual Banquet

Class of '37 Host to Graduating Students at Formal Banquet Held at Emerywood Country Club Friday night; Hartman Acts as Master of Ceremonies.

The members of the graduating class were honored by the class of '37 at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet at the Emerywood Country Club Friday night.

After an invocation by Sulon Ferree, senior ministerial student, the banqueteera went into a full dinner session, with a menu consisting of grapefruit juice cocktail, mock chicken legs, new potatoes, peas in timbles, rosebud beets, hot buttered rolls, celery and olives, midnight salad, coffee, pincapple ice and cookies.

This affair set a precedent for College banquets in that the program was brief and followed no set theme.

Alton Hartman, junior president and master of ceremonies, welcomed the seniors in behalf of the host class, and Edith Crowder, president of the graduating class, responded in behalf of the seniors.

A toast to the College was given by Lois Hedgecock and answered with a toast in verse given by Miss Margaret Sloan, head of the music department. Dorothy Bell recited a nautical verse as a toast to the sponsors and counselors. Professor J. Harley Mourane, senior adviser, responded. The two class mascots, Mary Alice Fulton for the seniors and Joan Crowder for the juniors, were introduced to the diners by the master of ceremonies.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys brought the banquet to a close with a brief speech in which he praised the form of the program for the evening and reminded the two upper class members of the greater social privileges which are theirs.

Music for the occasion was furnished for the occasion by Cary Davis and his orchestra. Following the banquet, a brief period of dancing was enjoyed by the members of the two upper classes.

Women's Clubs Hold Sessions In Auditorium

North Carolina Federation Now Holding Three-Day Convention in City.

The opening sessions of the convention of the North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs were held yesterday afternoon and last night in the auditorium of Roberts Hall.

Mrs. G. I. Humphreys is president of the local chapter of the Federation.

The convention, which is expected to attract 500 delegates and guests to this city, will remain in session through today and tomorrow. The theme of the convention this year is "Education."

In keeping with the theme, such speakers as Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, Clyde Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction, and Mrs. E. L. McFee, a past president of the Federation, have been invited to attend the sessions.

An education rally has been set for Wednesday night in the junior high school auditorium. County and city school superintendents and members of the faculties of state colleges have also been invited to be present.

Mrs. George E. Marshall, president of the Federation, delivered her address at the opening session yesterday, speaking on "Education for Living." Other speakers at the convention include Mrs. W. T. Bost, state superintendent of public welfare, and Dr. Harriet Elliot, dean of Woman's College at Greensboro.

Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Oklahoma, president of the General Federation, will be a guest at the annual banquet to be held Thursday night.

Dr. Elliott will will address the convention on the subject of social security, a question now in the foreground of the national scheme. Some of the state's best orators are also scheduled for the luncheon addresses.

The College marshals acted as ushers for the sessions which were held on the campus yesterday.

Madison Talks To College Ministers

First Methodist Protestant Pastor Speaks to Group on Personal Evangelism.

Rev. J. Clay Madison, pastor of the First M. P. Church, addressed the Ministerial Association last Wednesday on "Personal Evangelism." In part Mr. Madison said, "The main business of any church is winning souls to Jesus Christ. Old members are moving or dropping out and the church must have new ones to take their places. The Kingdom of God has to be made up of men and women, and if it grows they must consecrate their lives to Christ, If church members are to be His servants, their main concern is to bring others into a relationship and fellowship with God. This was so important to Christ that it was His main objective. A church may be a social or a financial success, but if it fails to win soula to Christ it is a failure.

"Public revivals have been the main effort in this work and have played a great part in bringing people to Christ, but the revival has some shortcomings. The primary purpose of a revival is to reach the un-Christian, but nearly all of the crowds are church members and profess to be Christian. It faila to reach the intended ones. Often revivals are spectacular and people don't count the cost. In a revival the adults and children are treated alike, and today they are not as popular as in the past."

Mr. Madison offered as a substitute for the revival Personal Evangelism. This plan reaches the entire section of town; laymen are put to work and the un-Christian see more in Christianity. This was Christ's method, and He is depending on us. Madison closed his address with the well-known conversation between Christ and Gabriel.

Movies Discussed By Akrothinians

Various Aspects of Industry Taken Up on Literary Society Program.

A discussion of the various aspects of the moving picture industry featured the program at the last meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society. Three speakers took part in the program, which was shortened because of the absence of several members.

"On the Current Screen," a review of some of the outstanding pictures now being shown, was given by John Glasgow. He devoted most of his remarks to a study of the moving picture adaptation of H. G. Wells' "Things to Come."

Max Rogers next discussed his favorite actors and actresses, dividing them into several different categories for a critical study. For more serious dramas, Rogers selected George Arliss and Geta Garbo as his favorites. For his favorite musical comedy stars, he selors. Professor J. Harley Mour- Rogers and Fred Astaire.

Harry Ershler closed the program with a discussion of "The Screen as a Profession," in which he talked about the salary rangea in Hollywood and compared movie acting with other types of entertaining.

Co-Ed Debate Slated To Be Held Tonight

Artemesians and Nikanthans to Argue for Mary E. Young Loving Cup Tonight

SPEAKERS ARE NAMED

Smith and Jenkins to Oppose Bell and Grant in Annual Forensic Event.

Representatives of the two campus women's literary societies will meet in inter-society debate this evening in the College auditorium. The debate is an annual feature of the spring semester.

The co-eds will debate the question—Resolved: That entrance to American colleges should be by examination only. Further limitations of the query provide that the word examination shall be taken to mean thorough physical examination and a formal written one. Arguing in favor of the examinations are Marguerite Jenkins, sophomore, of Frostburg, Maryland, and Margaret Smith, sophomore, of Winston-Salem. Virginia Grant, senior, of Garysburg, North Carolina, and Dorothy Bell, junior, of Southport, will oppose them.

The annual Nikanthan-Artemesian debates began in 1927, when Miss Mary E. Young, then dean of women, offered the first Mary E. Young Cup for such competition. The first cup, by reason of three consecutive platform victories, is now in the permanent possession of the Nikanthan society. Last year, Dorothea Andrews and Virginia Walker, Artemesians, defeated Lois Hedgecock and Dorothy Bell to void the two "Nikanthan legs" on the second cup and put it back into free circulation. Tonight's winners will begin a new serics for their society.

Dr. P. E. will probably preside over the debate, with Lois Hedgecock, Nikanthan president, acting as secretary. It is customary for the two societies to alternate their presidents in the secretary's position.

Judges for the occasion are chosen, one by each of the competing societies, and one by the College administration.

Holidays Open

The Easter holidays start tomorrow afternoon, according to the schedule in the College catalog. Dormitory students are expected to be back on the campus by five o'clock on Tuesday, April 14. Classes will be resumed at 8:30 o'clock the following day. The baseball team will remain here for several days to play games scheduled during the holidays.

Formal Investiture Held Here For Class Of 1936

Seniors Given Caps and Gowns in Impressive Ceremony Held Here; Dr. Humphreys Speaks to Class on Responsibilities of New Academic Position.

The members of the senior class were formally invested with academic caps and gowns in an impressive ceremony held in the College chapel Friday morning.

Following an invocation given by Dean P. E. Lindley, a solo, "Today" was sung by Miss Margaret Sloan, accompanied at the piano by Ernestine Strickland. Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, professor of psychology and education, presided over the service.

Professor J. Harley Mourane, sponsor of the senior class, presented the prospective graduates to Dr. G. I. Humphreys. In a brief speech of presentation, Professor Mourane compared the college careers of the seniors to the process of fractional distillation used in the chemistry laboratory. "The class came here as a mass of heterogencous material to be shaped and purified through education." Mr. Mourane said, "It is now fifty-three percent of its original number, and still not perfect in form, but it has gone through a process that has done much to mold it into a homogenous group."

Dr. Humphreys, in accepting the seniors, raised the question, "With What Have You Been Invested?" He told the members of the graduating class that their caps and gowns are symbols of new dignity that will merit public approval and new responsibilities to aid in building a better world. He told the seniors that they are about to assume their places in the academic fraternity at large, membership to which entails the obligation to live and move and have being in building a finer society. He challenged the class to add character, culture, and consecration for the welfare of the world. "To learn and continue to learn should be your creed," he said.

The president stated that a cap and gown are symbols of greater personal responsibilities. "You are invested as individuals within a group;" he said, "You will miss or make a success as individuals. In nature man is great or small as pleases himself; he may enlarge his soul or he may let it shrink to pygmy-size."

As further possibilities that attend upon the entrance into the great academic fraternity, Dr. Humphreys named a feeling of the divine over human power, a sense of dignity, and honor rightly merited and faultlessly appraised.

In closing the speaker quoted the Biblical passage, "Ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock and ye shall enter," as appropriate to the graduating students.

Choose Debaters For Society Day

Thaleans Name Speakers to Take Part in Debate; Pegg Is to Talk.

Four speakers were selected at the last meeting of the Thalean Literary Society to take part in the annual Society Day debate next month.

The men chosen were Occo Gibbs, G. W. Holmes, Ferman Wright, and J. S. Higgins. Tasker Williams was named alternate speaker. The query, Resolved: That North Carolina Should Abolish the Sales Tax, was used by all the speakers, and Dr. Lindley and Professor Owens acted as judges.

Dr. Fred Pegg, a former Thalean and now a practicing physician, was chosen by the Thaleans to give the main address at the Society Day exercises.

The banquet committee reported that plans are well under way for a successful banquet.

The intra-society debate is an annual feature of the Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day, which is regularly held in the first Saturday of each May.

Greensboro and Greensboro And To Choral Club

A Capella Choirs Makes First Public Appearances Since Northern Tour.

The College a capella choir sang in Liberty Sunday afternoon, going to Greensboro for an evening concert. This was the choir's first engagement since its return from the Northern tour.

In Liberty, the concert was presented in the local high school building, but the audience was rather small because of the inclement weather.

The concert in Greensboro took place in Calvary Methodist Protestant church, where the choir was served with supper. Here the choir sang to a fairly well filled house.

The program, given in the same order at both places, follows: "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple," Sloan; "The Vesper Hymn," to a Russian air; "Trees and the Master," Vorse; "Fierce Was the Wild Billow," Noble. The second group included "Now the Day Is Over," Knight; "A Legende," Tschaikovsky; "Come, O Thou Dweller Unknown," Noble; "Peaceful Night Descending,' a Basque carol; a French carol, "Sing Noel." In the third group the choir sang "Deep River," Burleigh; "Dark Water," James; "Goin' Home," Dvorak, and "Cherubim Song," Bortnyansky. The last group was made up of "Lost in the Night," Christianssen; "Adoramus Te," Dubois; "By Babylon's Wave," Gounod; and the "Seven-Fold Amen," Stainer.

Future Veterans Move Spreading

Sixty Chapters of Pacifist Group Organized; Demand Bonus Payment.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—Repercussions of a quiet remark dropped in a Princeton bull-session swept the country last week as the latest of the bonus-seeking organizations, the Veterans of Future Wars, established chapters on more than sixty campuses and embarked on a program variously hailed as delightful, valuable and "unpatriotic."

"Because it is customary to pay bonuses before they are due," said the manifesto announcing the birth of the organization, "the Veterans of Future Wars demand immediate payment plus three per cent interest compounded annually from June 1, 1965, backward to June 1, 1935." Payment now, the manifesto emphasized, would "lift the country out of the depression" and enable beneficiaries to enjoy the money before they lost their lives.

Hardly had the future veterans elected officers when the first chapter of an auxiliary society, the Association of Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars was formed at Vassar. Indignant outbursts followed, and the name was changed to the "Ladies Auxiliary of Future Veterans." Loudest in denunciation, of course, were the other veterans' groups.

"Had the students confined their insulting remarks to the veterans, we would have laughed it off," said Joe E. Murray, former national chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, "but they have brought in the name of a group of women we hold sacred!" No satire or disrespect was intended, replied Louis J. Gorin, Jr., national commander. Gorin was unperturbed by American Legion threats of

PARKER MADE PRESIDENT OF SPORTS GROUP

Co-Eds Select Richmond Junior to Head Women's Athletic Association.

DIXON IS VICE PREXY

Bernedine Hurley Is Chosen Secretary, Gerringer Treasurer of Organization.

The Woman's Athletic Association met Monday night to elect their officers for the ensuing year.

Pauline Parker, junior, of Richmond, Varginia, was unanimously elected president. Miss Parker, a member of this years junior class, has shown her interest in the society this year by her work in getting the W. A. A. clubroom ready for use as well as in the work she has done to help the tournaments go off smoothly. Miss Parker is a Nikanthan.

Other officers are: Margaret Dixon, High Point, vice-president. Miss Dixon is a junior and a member of the Artemesian Literary Sosiety. Bernadine Hirley sophomore, of Troy. was elerted secretary. Miss Hurley is a Nikanthan. Mary Frances Gerringer, of Greensboro, was elected treasurer. Miss Gerringer is a sophomore and an Artemesian. Fay Holt, junior, of Saxapahaw, was elected sargent-at-arms. Miss Holt is a Nikanthan. Marguerite Jenkins, of Frostburg, Md., will be publicity chairman, and Nancy Parham, of Henderson, will co-operate with her in the capacity of reporter. Miss Jenkins is a sophomore and Miss Parham, a freshman. Both are Artemesians. Olga Mariette, Graham, will be hiking manager for the coming year. She is a freshman and also a member of the Artemesian Literary Society.

May 16th was set as the date of the annual Athletic Association banquet. Letters and sweaters which have been earned by the various members of the association will be awarded at that time.

The date for the tumbling tournament was set for Tuesday night, May 5th. The tennis tournament will be held from April 15th-May 10th, and the president announced that all girls who wished to enter will have to sign up before the Easter holidays begin.

Pauline Parker, vice-president, took charge of the meeting in the absence of the president.

KEITH HARRISON RUNS FOR PLACE IN HOUSE

High Point College Alumnus Trys for Seat in North Carolina Legislature.

J. Keith Harrison, High Point attorney and graduate of the College with the class of 1929, recently announced himself as a candidate for the state House of Representatives, subject to the Democratic primaries in June.

Harrison was president of his class during his senior year, and he was an outstanding debater and orator while at the College. Following his graduation here, he attended the law school at the University of North Carolina and has been practicing in this city for the past several years.

BADGER BOXERS AGAIN NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Defeat Penn State Pugilists to Clinch Fourth Straight Crown.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—The University of Wisconsin boxing team, defeated but once in four years, again took possession of the mythical national championship this week as the result of a severe 5½ to 2½ drubbing handed to Penn State, Eastern champs.

The Penn mittmen, accustomed to the Eastern style of boxing for points, couldn't match the Badgers' combination of clever boxing and vicious in-fighting, lost by two knock-outs and three decisions.

JUNIOR-SENIOR CALLED SUCCESS

Needless to say, it is generally conceded that the junior-senior banquet held Friday night was the most successful event of this type in the history of High Point College.

The banquet Friday night was a marked improvement over all other banquets held by the College in two important aspects: First, in the short program given without any attempt to follow a set "theme;" second, in the broader social freedom which was given the students for the first time in the history of the College. While a set theme or motif has its advantage in lending unity to more or less informal banquets, a certain dignity and maturity is achieved by allowing each speaker to give his toast without laboring under the obligation of following a form. And of course the brevity of the program at the Junior-Senior is to be recommended for any banquet; after all, every such occasion should have some time for the consumption of food and for friendly conversation.

To the committees that planned the banquet, to the toast-master, and to the Administration for its liberal attitude thanks are due for the best banquet since the College was founded. We hope that the precedents and the standards set Friday night will be upheld at all College social events of the future.

THE VETERANS OF FUTURE WARS

Bringing praise from liberals and bitter denunciation from patriotic organizations, the recently organized Veterans have attracted attention as have no other aspects of the student peace movement. Student strikes, mass meetings, pledges, demonstrations all proved far less effective than the satirical device of organizing a parody of existing veterans' organizations.

The idea for the Veterans of Future Wars was conceived on the campus of Princeton University and has spread like wildfire through most of the larger schools in the United States. Following the example set by the men, the women students at Vassar organized a Gold Star Mothers of Future Wars unit, which they later changed to the Ladies Auxiliary under fire of the organization which they satirized. The Veterans of Future Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary, nee Gold Star Mothers, set up as their goal a thousand dollar bonus for each member of the former organization, a trip to Europe to view the scenes of future graves for the latter.

Irate James Van Zendt, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the organization whose names the students parodied, denounced the college organization, said the members would never be real veterans because "they are too yellow to go to war." The leader of the student organization replied with the ironical charge that Van Zendt is a Communist and should be investigated by Congress.

Were the veterans who have denounced the student organizations astute enough to accept the Veterans of Future Wars with good sportsmanship, it is not entirely impossible that it could be made into a true military organization. The ideals of youth are mercurial, and a threatened national crisis might readily change the outlook of the Future Veterans from pacifistic to militaristic. But satire thrives on denunciation, and the more the veterans' leaders rave and rant and tear their hair in fury, the more successful will be the Veterans of Future Wars in spreading its doctrines on every campus in the United States.

"I marvel at the gentlemanly ways that have been discovered of being dishonest." Chicago's Robert M. Hutchins discovers that honesty is no longer considered smart.

The Vogue

Maybe we'll learn to quit yelling for contributions from the hoi polloi; last week we modestly inquired why someone doesn't help us write this column, and yesterday we found an anonymous paper lying on our desk. This is what it said:

"WE WONDER:

Why people put what they do in the Vogue.

Who writes 'em anyhow. (Know 'tain't me.)

Just why all the society of the campus comes from the Skirt-Barn. Don't they know this is a co-ed school?

Why people always kick about meals. (I'm not dead yet and I haven't heard of any funerals—mind you, I'm not saying how long it will be.)

Why the recent G-boro hurricane almost caused a cynado on the campus.

Why you have read this far.

DO YOU KNOW WHO

Is the campus Gary Cooper, otherwise "ladies man?"

Likes to pick on the freshies?

Bit a certain tall junior?

Breaks all of these frat paddles

Hollers "gimme" in the chemistry lab and gets it?

Always makes a break for a door to hold it for an upperclassman?

Has to go up town more times than she is allowed?

Wrote this?"

The well dressed toastmaster at HPC banquets this season is wearing tuxedo coat and pant by Thedo, shirt by Pittard, tie by Austin, studs by Gray, socks by Niernsee, and collar from the dime store. At least these were the sources of the outfit worn by the amiable junior proxy (see front page) at the Junior-Senior last week. And he looked so nice that one of his constituents insisted on kissing him right in front of Mr. Roberts' gift to the College!

It is recommended that nice little girls who want to go to Oak Ridge on Sunday afternoon must not be seen in Greensboro on Saturday afternoon, even if they are just examining a tornado's tracks. If you happen to be in the company of a baseball player it is considered safe to duck into the nearest ladies shop.

Why do all the co-eds who are trying to study on Sunday nights come out with a rush when a fraternity decides to visit the Skirt-barn in a body? They do say that they can't study because of the noise but we believe it's mass S. A.

Add victims of the recent bad weather: Sally's Maudie. The way down east contingent may have to walk home for the Easter holidays yet.

Wanted: A chorister to make a speech about something except the recent trip to New York.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '30:

To begin with the most recent news, James Asbury's home in Tupelo, Miss., where he is Scout Executive, was destroyed by the recent tornado which struck Tupelo, but his family was not hurt. They have gone to Mrs. Asbury's home in Kingsport, Tenn., until they find somewhere else to live. Mrs. Asbury was formerly Miss Molly Grinkey before their marriage in '34.

Since we began with a married man, we'll just continue with those who have married since graduation:

Hilda Amick and Talton Whitehead, both members of this class, were married in the summer of '34 and are now living in Burlington where they serve the Mt. Hermon charge.

Kalopia Antonakas is Mrs. Keith Harrison of High Point and still teaches in the Junior High.

Grace Barnette is Mrs. Harold Cox. She lives in Mebane where her husband is connected with the White furniture company.

Betty Bloom is Mrs. Joe Barr and still teaches in High Point.

T. P. Criddlebaugh married Eliza Lomax in '31 and is in the insurance business in Leaksville.

John Dosier married Miss Charlotte Hayes of El Paso, Texas, in '34 and is a chemist with the Enka Rayon Mills in Western N. C.

Lorarine Ellison became Mrs. Arnold Swann in September '34 and now lives near Winston-Salem.

Lula Fobleman changed her name in '33 to Mrs. Herman Edwards and lives at Guilford College, N. C. Lelah Motsinger also lives at Guilford College and is Mrs. French Smith. She was married in August, '34.

Wade Fuquay is principal of Eli Whitney high school near Graham. He married Miss Helen Zachary in '31.

Clara Grissom became Mrs. Alex-

When Fred Lemmer, student at the University of Minnesota meets his English professor, Mr. Weaver, they both blush slightly.

Over a period of many weeks, Mr. Lemmer has broken all records for arriving late to Mr. Weaver's first hour class. His alibis have varied: "My alarm clock is broken" or "There was a traffic jam" or "My car busted down."

Finally Mr. Weaver snarled, "Next time you'll tell me your house burned down."

Last week Mr. Lemmer was late again. During the night his house had burned down.

Governor Alf Landon is not the only Kansas male winning renown for his sense of economy.

Take the males at the University of Kansas for example. The men's council there has just issued a firm resolution requesting the girls of the campus to share evenly in the evening's expenses while dating the men. They have even gone so far as to formally request the cafe owners of the town to issue separate dinner checks for the women.

"Do not have a false sense of chivalry" the University men were advised by the council.

They were experts on apples, out there at the University of Washington, where the Yakimas and the Wenatchees come from—so what they have to say about the business of apple polishing ought to be worth listening to.

The student paper set out to find just what amount of apple-polishing existed on the campus. They found there was much less of it going on than popularly supposed.

Most of the professors interviewed agreed that there wasn't much of it. One even said that "Many times students don't come to see their instructors when they should just because they feel they will be suspected of working for a grade."

One woman professor did have a "gripe" in this connection. Said she, "We don't like to have all the brothers and sisters from a fraternity or sorority come down and try to high pressure us into giving a student a higher grade so he or she can be initiated."

Prof. William F. Hoffman of Boston University is sore about the attempts of some professors to eliminate American dialects from the English language.

"Variety is the spice of speech" he said.

The new movement in American colleges (first told about in this column some weeks ago) to organize chapters of the VFW or "Veterans of Future Wars" is growing rapidly. Nineteen local cells of the society are now functioning in 19 different colleges.

Princeton has been the most active and their work has stirred up a testy reply from the national head of the real VFW.

At the University of Chicago of Chicago a search is on for one member of the VFW to be chosen as Unknown Soldier for the Future War.

Chief goal now is a $1,000 bonus for each future veteran—to be paid ahead of time of course, in order that the imitation of the real VFW and American Legion may be as faithful as possible.

Expect Lower Salaries

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York. — Columbia University seniors placed a lower estimate on their salaries five years after graduation than any other class during the last 15 years.

They expect that in 1941 they will have an average salary of $2,835, compared with $3,600 for last year's class and $5,102 for the class of 1934. Only three expect $10,000 in five years.

STUDENTS IN EASTERN SECTOR AID IN FLOOD REHABILITATION WORK

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Boston.—Hundreds of New England college students offered their dormitories and services to flood sufferers last week when swollen rivers went on a rampage that cost scores of lives and caused property damage estimated in the millions.

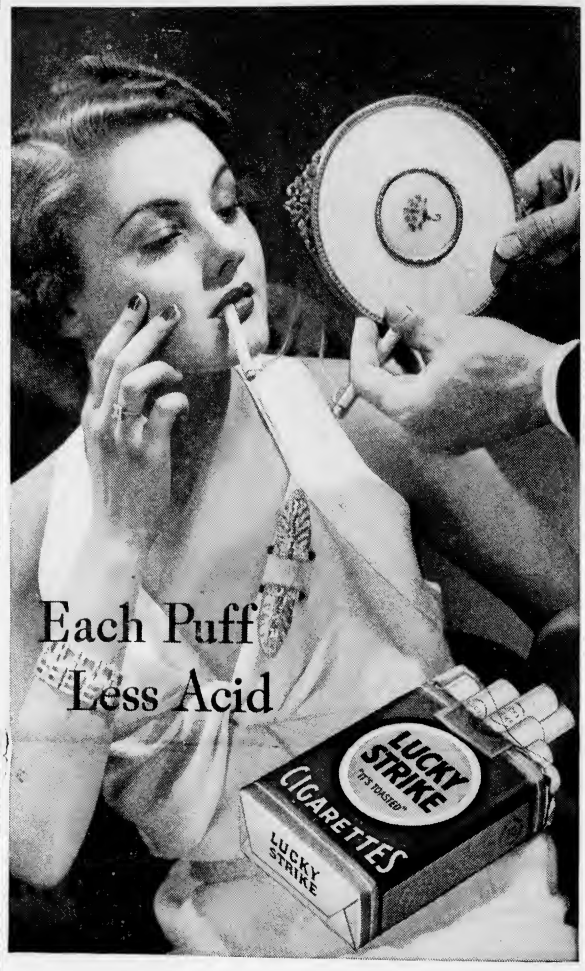

State dormitories, at Amherst, were opened to 1400 refugees, and Dartmouth students stood ready to join WPA workers in the task of sandbagging dams and river banks.

Although most New England colleges were safely out of the flood area, nearly all suffered minor inconveniences. Mid-term vacations were curtailed for some, communications were out generally.

Other Eastern schools had sec-

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

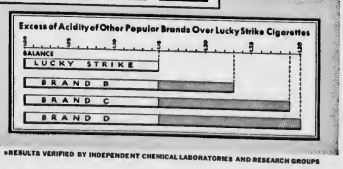

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Elon Nine Here Tomorrow For Conference Clash

Rivals Meet In Game At Willis Park

Contest to Start at 3:30; Coach Yow Fails to Announce Starting Hurler.

By David Cooper

If the weather permits, the Panther baseball nine will take the field for the second conference game of the season tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 p. m. at Willis Park when they meet the conference champions, Elon, in what promises to be one of the most telling games of the year.

Bad weather conditions have hampered not only the meeting of scheduled games but has also kept the High Point College bat-wielders from much needed practices. The locals have only been able to meet one conference game as scheduled so far this year when they met a hard-playing Catawba Indian nine on the Salisbury diamond where they showed, by ragged fielding and batting that they were badly in need of conditioning. No chance has been had to hold an outdoor practice this week in preparation for the Elon contest.

Elon, sporting practically a veteran team, has for six years held the North State baseball supremacy and has shown considerable promise of repeating the extraordinary feat for the seventh time so far in their preliminary tilts, losing to Springfield in their opener, but evening the count later on with a spectacular 6-0 defeat over Johns Hopkins U. team. Mike Briggs, their captain and ace hurler will possibly see action in tomorrow's game and might cause some trouble at the plate.

Coach Yow's bunch hopes to upset the betting odds when they meet their arch-rivals, the rivals whom they finally triumphed over in basketball, and the fans should see some real fire-works when the growling Panthers descend on the diamond. Culler and Harris have so far been the main power-houses at the plate and will probably lead the Pointers in the batting. Rudisill or Brinkley will probably hold down the first sack; Koontz at second, Culler at short, and Martin on the "hot" corner. Diamont will take the back-stop position and the outfield will be taken from the competant list of Dorsett, Ingle, Harris, Giles, and Grigg.

No announcement has been made concerning the starting pitcher, but will probably be either Harris or Rudisill.

Staying together over the Easter holidays, the Panther squad will try to get in some real practice on Friday and Saturday when they travel to Winston and Elkin for games with the strong Unique Furniture and Chatham Blanketeer clubs. The Blanketeers were also on the Panther's earlier schedule but due to rain the game was called off.

QUIETLY QUOTING

Clipped from the "Maroon and Gold," the Elon College publication. This issue appeared immediately before the second basketball game of the year between High Point and Elon. . . . "Elon's basketball club may be able to save High Point College's student body further danger of injury from celebration by beating the Purple Panthers tonight. It seems that it is such a rare occasion when High Point beats Elon that a student became so over-joyed when the Panthers licked Elon earlier this season that he rang the chapel bell there so hard the bell fell upon him and caused injuries that had to be treated at a High Point hospital."

Needless to say that we rang the bell long and loud twice more during the past season immediately after an Elon game.

—o—

We play Elon tomorrow afternoon on the baseball field. We still have "Old Yadkin." We still have men to ring it! (If it doesn't rain.)

—o—

From THE HI-PO, May 9, 1935 — "Harris, freshman pitching ace, hurled the Panther nine to a thrilling 8-6 victory over the Elon Christians at Elon Thursday afternoon to enable High Point to overcome an Elon jinx of eleven years' standing." That was the ice-breaker, and the boys will be gunning for their second win over the Walkermen tomorrow afternoon. Six clubs in the North State loop will be out to win the conference flag which has flown over the Elon campus for the past six years. Still the Christians appear about as dangerous as ever. . . . Mike Briggs entered the hall of fame. . . . But, to repeat, it's leap year.

—o—

From the High Point Enterprise, April —"Bill Skiff, manager of the Binghamton, N. Y. baseball team, and Roy Hamey, business manager of that team, spoke before the Lions club at its meeting last night at the Elwood hotel.

"The speakers told of baseball activities and commented upon the fact that more big league baseball players have come from Guilford county than from any other county in the United States. They also spoke highly of High Point and the treatment they have been accorded."

—o—

CAUGHT ON THE REBOUND:

The tennis team is running true to our leap year predictions. . . . That was number three. . . . Catawba has track, tennis, baseball, golf, soccer, basketball, and football. . . . Appalachian has track, tennis, baseball, basketball, football, wrestling, and boxing. . . . Our spring sports calendar has been practically washed away. . . .

Carolina wants a swimming pool, while we are praying for a dry spot to play a little baseball. . . . The April Fool edition of the Daily Tar Heel ran a picture of a Russian choir with the caption, "1936 Tar Heel Gridsters." . . . .

And do they grow baseball players at Liberty? . . . . Liberty high swamped Gray's Chapel by the score of 35 to 1. . . . "Football" Elkins, who says baseball is not his game, is from Liberty; Fred Julian hails from Gray's Chapel. . . . We'll all be out at Willis Park this afternoon with our raincoats to greet the Yanks. . . .

—o—

A fast one by Culler—There seemed to be a great deal of argument on a certain baseball club as to who was the fastest man on the team. There was no agreeable settlement of the dispute, until an incident happened during batting practice one day. One of the boasters knocked a hot line-drive through the pitcher's box so fast that the pitcher had to duck. The same player was carried off the field on a stretcher a moment later when the same ball struck him in the back of the head as he was rounding second base. . . . Yes, he won the prize.

April 29 Set As Date For Field Event

Final Plans for Intra-Mural Meet To Be Worked Out by Student Committee.

The first annual Intra-mural Field Day, open to all men students, will be held on Boylin Terrace April 29, it was announced yesterday afternoon by Ray Intrieri, student chairman of the arrangement committee.

Slated to be held earlier in the spring, the event has been delayed by the continued bad weather. The candidates have also been hindered in their attemps to get in shape for the competition.

All arrangements for the meet are in the hands of a student committee, with Intrieri as chairman. Each class will enter a team in each event, and the class coming out of the day's activities with the most points will be declared winner. All students, regardless of what athletic team they are member, are eligible to participate in the event.

The class presidents are urged to organize a team in their class as soon as possible. A manager will be appointed to supervise the placings on the teams.

Plans are being made to hold the following events: 100 yd. dash, 220 yd., 440 yd., and 880 yd. Relay teams, composed of four men, will participate in an 880 yd. and mile run. There will be a broad jump contest, potato race, and three-legged race.

The main event of the day will be the finals of a class softball tournament. The first rounds of this elimination affair will be held on Monday and Tuesday afternoons, with the finalists meeting Wednesday for the championship.

With the Easter vacation intervening before the time of the meet, the participants have very little time to get in condition for the gruelling competition. It is hoped that interest in his popular sport will be revived as a result of the event.

Final preparations will be worked out soon by the committee in charge. The track around Boylin Terrace will be repaired by that time if possible.

Netmen Lick Applachian; Drop Loop Tilt To Bears

Racqueteers Beat Boone Outfit, 4-3, on City Courts for Third Win in Inter-Collegiate Competition; Lenoir Rhyne Wins by 4-3 Count at Hickory.

By winning their opening match from Appalachian, 4-3, and losing the second contest to Lenoir Rhyne two days afterward by a very close margin, 4-3, the Purple Panther tennis team has shown some real potentialities, even making the local squad loom as possible North State title contenders.

Opening the schedule April 1 on private courts 'mid clouds and threatening rain, the High Point College racqueteers, led by the fast stepping Dale Jarrett, promising freshman player and number two man, marched forward to show the few fans that the college really has a tennis team this year, experiencing very little difficulty in taking care of four of the seven individual matches.

Jarrett, taking advantage of the slightly moist courts, proceeded to adapt his playing to the court and chopped, sliced and outplaced his bewildered Boone opponent, allowing him only one game out of each of two sets. This fine exhibition of wily tennis playing in the initial intercollegiate match which Jarrett has ever played in, prophesies him as a continuous point getter in the future. Setzer, promising freshman player, and Rogers, captain and manager of this hopeful team, also gave their friendly enemies lessons in low-bounding ground strokes, and "heady" playing. Niernsee, number one player, started his match off with his characteristic skillful playing to pull out the first set only to show some ragged playing about midway of the second set, probably due to lack of training.

Being unable to meet the Appalachian court stars in a return match there on April 2, Captain Rogers took his team to Lenoir Rhyne Friday, April 3, where they put up a great fight for the upperhand only to lose by a close margin when Kennady and Coulter, Hickory freshman doubles team, handed Rogers and Setzer a defeat by taking two deuce sets.

Jarrett and Niernsee again led the point getting for the Pointers, easily eliminating the Lenoir Rhyne number one and two men, Jarrett winning his first set at love, dropped only two games in the second set; Niernsee again found his true form even in the face of a slightly cool wind which gave the players considerable trouble and allowed Lawrence, the Bear's number one man, only five games in two sets, 6-2, 6-3. Captain Rogers gave his man considerable trouble, fighting every point, volleying the ball with his opponent sometimes for a minute or two, deucing the first set, winning the second set and finally giving way in the third set, 6-2. Setzer found the wind and his wily opponent too much for him after taking the first set and played an erratic, losing game, bowing 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. Niernsee and Jarrett combined together at the end of the singles competition to win the fourth point of the match, 11-9, 6-3.

High School Quints Form Cage League

Rural Teams From Guilford, Randolph, Forsyth, Davidson, and Alamance Enter.

Tentative plans were announced yesterday afternoon by Coach C. Virgil Yow for the organization of a Central Piedmont basketball conference sponsored by High Point College, to be composed of rural high school teams from Guilford, Forsyth, Davidson, Randolph and Alamance counties.

A meeting of representatives from the high schools entering the conference will be held shortly, and it is hoped that the details will be worked out in time for the league to function smoothly at the opening of the cage season next fall. A president, secretary and treasurer of the organization will be selected at the meeting.

Coach Yow states that early efforts toward organization have been successful, and there is every indication of a well-organized circuit among the high schools. Although no definite count can be made as this date, it is ascertained that at least 35 to 40 schools will join the league.

The primary purpose of the conference will be to promote the interest of high school basketball. An efficient organization will do much to eliminate the confusion and the hazards of the ordinary high school schedule. A complete season schedule will be worked out by a committee for all the teams competing before the season starts.

Reporters from each school will keep the sports editor of THE HI-PO posted on the outcome of all conference contests, and the official conference standings will be released to the state papers from that office weekly. All publicity pertaining to the circuit will also be handled by that office.

At the close of the season all the teams will converge on High Point for the conference tournament, which will be an annual affair to select the champion of the circuit. Seedings for the event will be according to the final standings at the close of the regular season. This championship tournament will be held in Harrison gymnasium the last of February or the first of March.

Sophmore Team Wins Title In Co-Ed Cage Tournament

The Sophomores blazed their way through the Women's Intramural cage tourney last week without the loss of a single contest to take the championship title for the second straight year. Last year they were crowned champs of the annual meet as the freshman team.

The Seniors and Juniors fell before the fast stepping squad on Wednesday and Thursday by the one-sided scores of 18-5, and 30-4, respectively. On Friday afternoon they clinched the title with a hard-earned 11-8 win over the freshman team, the dark horses of the meet.

The four-day meet, starting Wednesday and lasting through Saturday, furnished the fans with good basketball.

Wednesday Afternoon

The sophomores and seniors met in a slow game Wednesday afternoon with the sophomores taking the tilt with a score of 18-5. L. Hunter was the outstanding sophomore forward; Dameron and Elkings, guards. Outstanding seniors: V. Grant, forward; Perry and Crowder, guards. Heptinstall was lent to the seniors because of their lack of players.

Wednesday Night

Freshmen co-operated Wednesday night to win over the juniors with the overwhelming score of 51-10. Lindley was high scorer for the freshmen with V. Jenkins a close second. M. Grant played a quick, steady game. Marlette and Watkins, freshman guards, kept the flashy junior forwards, Holt and M. Dixon, from getting a chance at the basket. In the second half, freshman forwards and guards swapped around just for fun.

CATAWBA BEATS LOCALS IN OPENING DIAMOND CONTEST

Redskins Take Conference Tilt by Score of 5 to 2; Smiling "Hamp" Hampton Goes Full Route for Winners; Dorsett and Elder Lead Locals at Bat.

The Panther nine got off to a bad start in the North State conference race last Wednesday afternoon when they dropped the season opener to the Catawba Indians by the count of 5 to 2 on the Catawba field.

Inclement weather caused the postponement or cancellation of the three slated contests with Chatham Blanketeers, the Unique Furniture nine, and McCrary prior to this date. As a result, the Yowmen went into their initial contest lacking in practice and in poor physical trim for a tough engagement. The Indians, who had the benefit of only one practice game with the Erskine club, were in little better shape for the encounter.

Smiling "Hamp" Hampton, sophomore twirler for the Indians, went the full route on the mound for the winners, allowing the locals 8 safe blows. All of these hits were well scattered, with no more than two coming in any single rack. Only one error was chalked up against his teammates, who gave him good support in the field and at the plate.

Harris started on the firing line for the home forces and for three innings gave up only three hits and one run. In the fourth the Salisbury team jumped on his offerings for four safe hits, and drove in three runs before the side was retired. Grigg relieved him in the sixth rack without a score, but was nicked for one more marker in the seventh.

Culler left short at the last of the eighth to toss the horsehide across. No hits were recorded during his short stay on the firing line, during which time he struck out one man.

The Panthers scored first in the fourth when Martin drove in Culler, who had gained first on an error.

Ingle scored the other run in the sixth on a single by Dorsett.

Each team secured eight safe blows, but the Indians took advantage of three errors by the locals to take the contest.

WAGGONER IS OUT WITH AN INJURY

Gilmer Waggoner, promising freshman candidate for an outfield post on the Panther nine, may be lost to the team for the remainder of the season with an injured hand.

Blood poison set in last week from a blister received in a practice session. Although the wound is responding nicely to treatment, the attendant physician, Dr. Perry, states that it is doubtful if he will be able to return to the lineup.

Harvard's Pie Eta Club was forced to appeal to women's colleges for a supply of chorines to dance in the annual show when members refused to shave their legs.

Yowmen Take Tilt From Duke B Nine

Scoring four runs in the eighth rack, the Panthers came from behind to eke out a 10 to 9 victory over the Duke "B" team in a ragged exhibition game at Durham Saturday afternoon.

The Yowmen showed up in better form in their second encounter of the year, and nicked the Blue Devil hurlers for 15 safe blows. However, each club played erratically afield, with four errors chalked up against the Pointer club, and two against the Durham outfit.

"Lefty" Rudisill tossed the pill across for four innings in splendid fashion, alloying the junior Devils only three hits and no runs. During this time his teammates were touching Rink for two runs in the third and fifth to hold a 4 to 0 lead at the end of the fifth.

Grigg took over the pitching duties in the next inning, and, although he allowed only two hits, he issued four free passes in the seventh. Capitalizing on the walks, hits and errors, the Durham outfit pushed 7 markers across the plate to push ahead. Grigg found himself again in the eighth and set the losers down without a hit.

Harris finished on the mound for the locals, and allowed one run in each inning.

Culler and Harris led the slugger's parade for the locals with three safe blows each; Culler securing two bingles and a double, while Harris got three singles.

National Youth Bureau Employs Many Students

On more than 6,800 work projects, the National Youth Administration is employing approximately 210,000 out-of-school young people, its executive director, Aubrey W. Williams, announced today.

Falling under four general classifications—Youth Community Development and Recreational Leadership, Rural Youth Development, Public Service, and Research—the projects are adapted to the needs of the individual communities and approved by State Youth Directors.

Most of the projects are sponsored by local public or quasi-public organizations which furnish in many instances equipment and supervision, Mr. Williams stated. In this manner, he pointed out, the NYA is enabled to spend more than 85 per cent. of its project funds for youth labor.

Young people employed on these projects work between 36 and 46 hours a month and receive a maximum of $25 monthly, the amount depending upon the type of work at which they are employed. Ninety per cent. of those employed are members of relief families. Preference in placing youth on jobs is given to members of large families so that where the need is greater, th family income may be supplemented.

In the recent Eastern floods, several thousand NYA workers were temporarily taken off State Youth projects and dispatched to flooded areas to aid in relief of suffering. Many of them are still assisting the Red Cross and other welfare groups in rehabilitation work.

The types of projects vary in the individual states. In Texas, the State Highway Department is co-sponsoring a state-wide project for the construction of "pocket-sized" roadside parks where motorists may pause for picnics or rest on long trips.

In California, the State Forestry Service is co-sponsoring a project for the location of fire hazards, the erection of fire control telephone lines and other forestry work. Young people thus employed are being trained to take the civil service examination for the State Forestry Service.

Chicago young people are working with the local office of the immigration and Naturalization Service to speed the clearing of applications for citizenship papers.

Young people in Rochester, New York, are indexing the files of local newspapers to obtain and make available to the public a key to local history. In Montana, as in many other states with scattered populations, a project is employing youth in collecting books and circulating them in rural communities.

The recreation Commission of Cincinnati is co-sponsoring the employment of young people to assist in recreational and boys work in delinquency areas of that city. In nearly every state, the NYA is providing assistants in playground and recreational work, or providing workers to improve athletic grounds and facilities.

"While we are paying cash wages to more than two hundred thousand," Mr. Williams emphasized, "it must be remembered that a far greater number of young people will receive benefits from the projects while they are operating and when they are completed."

"A middle-aged individual has less chance to reach the age of eighty than his grand-parents had." So says Dr. Alexis Carrel, who ought to know.

DEGREE CONFERRED ON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Rollins College Grants Doctor of Literature Title to Chief Executive.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Winter Park, Fla.—In an impressive ceremony marked by praise for his past efforts, and a "pledge of our faith in the laws yet to be drafted, in State papers yet to be written," Rollins College conferred the Doctor of Literature degree upon President Roosevelt last week. Mrs. Roosevelt was also honored by the college.

Declaring that critics of his policies are invariably motivated by group interests, instead of striving for the good of the whole nation, President Roosevelt pleaded for the "good neighbor" policy.

Social and political methods must be changed continually, he said, else they grow stagnant, and added: "Yet growth and progress invariably and inevitably are opposed, bitterly, falsely and blindly opposed."

vigorous complaint to Princeton authorities, kept three secretaries busy sending instructions to new chapters.

The VFW's announced intention of establishing a chapter in every college in America seemed likely to succeed. Harvard, Williams, Union, Pennsylvania, Stanford, Georgetown, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Connecticut College for Women, New York University, Chicago, the University of Wisconsin, and Washington University of St. Louis were quick to get on the band wagon, with others coming fast.

Criticism and approbation were divided about fifty-fifty, with most support coming from students, faculty members and outside liberals, charges of Communism and "un-Americanism" from the American Legion and other veterans' organizations.

Mrs. Mathilda Burling, president of the New York State Chapter of Gold Star Mothers, called the movement "unpatriotic and ill-mannered," and James E. Van Zandt, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the students were "too yellow to go to war." The future veterans replied that Mr. Van Zandt was a Red, challenged him to debate.

A self-appointed strong-arm squad of athletes attempted to prevent formation of a VFW chapter at Rice Institute, Texas, with a barrage of mud-balls and cries of "Communists!" but were successfully repulsed.

City College of New York announced formation of a specialized affiliate: an Association of Foreign Correspondents of Future Wars, with "the purpose of training its members in the writing of atrocity stories and garbled war dispatches."

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY BARS STUDENT UNION

Conflicts With Existing Organization, Say Authorities.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Syracuse, N. Y.—Because "it is not in accord with the plans already made by a recognized organization on the campus," Syracuse University's administration has barred establishment of a chapter of the American Student Union here.

In a brief statement Vice Chancellor William P. Graham declared that since a campus peace organization already has been set up by the student senates there is no need for another group.

The decision was made after Syril Gerber, field secretary of the Student Union, declared before a group of students that his organization would support a nation-wide "peace strike" on April 22.

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

OUR PRINTING sinks to a degree of satisfaction, pushes the theromometer to a friendship level and we shave the price as close as good printing will merit.

Plans Under Way For May Day Festival

Nikanthans Practice For Leading Feature of Society Day on May Second.

HEDGECOCK IS QUEEN

To Be Crowned by Former President Ann Moss; Parham Maid of Honor.

Plans and practices are well under way for the annual May Day festival, in charge of the Nikanthan Literary Society, which will be held at 5 o'clock in the evening May 2, on the campus of Woman's Hall.

Miss Lois Hedgecock, of High Point, president of the Nikanthans will be crowned Queen of May by Miss Annie Laurie Moss, last year's May Queen. Miss Mary Parham, of Henderson, president of the Artemesian Literary Society, will be Maid of Honor. Miss Virginia Grant, of Garysburg, will play the role of Sir Walter Raleigh, while Miss Unity Nash, graduate of the class of 1934, and a former Nikanthan, will be Queen Elizabeth. Misses Pauline Parker, of Richmond, Va., and Doris Hedgecock, of High Point, will lead the procession as heralds.

This year instead of having the honorary faculty members as court ladies Miss Hedgecock has selected outstanding seniora as her Ladies of the Court. They are: Misses Pattie Bartee and Dorothy McCollum, of Reidsville; Edith Crowder, Christine Latham, Juanita Hayworth, of High Point; Catherine Farlow, Sophia; Laura Fritz, of Lexington; and Hazel Welborn, of Thomasville.

Miss Annie Fay Holt, of Saxapaw, is general chairman for the event. Miss Sidney Brame, head of the department of physical education for women, will direct the dances. Some of the pupils of Miss Davis' Dancing School will give several of the dances.

The May Day celebration is a feature of the Nikanthan-Thalean Society Day held every year the first Saturday in May. Various Thaleans have consented to take part in the festival.

The morning program at 10 o'clock will be in charge of the two societies. A debate by members of the Thaleans will be held at 2 o'clock, and this will be followed by the May Day celebration. A banquet held in the College dining hall at 8 o'clock will complete the day's program.

The annual Society Day will also be featured by a morning program with a visiting speaker, and a debate in the afternoon between members of the Thalean society.

COLLEGE CHOIR SINGS IN SACRED CONCERT AT LOCAL CHURCH SERVICE

A Cappella Choir Presents Program at Wesley Memorial Church Sunday.

The A Capella Choir of High Point College presented a sacred concert at Wesley Methodist Episcopal church, South, Sunday night under the direction of Miss Margaret Sloan.

This program was one of a series of local appearanccs which have followed the choir's recent tour through the North.

The numbers sung at the service Sunday night were as follows: "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple," Sloan; "The Vesper Hymn," to a Russian air; "Trees and the Master," Vorse; "Fierce Was the Wild Billow," Noble. "Now the Night Is Over," Knight; "A Legende," Tschaikovsky; "Come O Thou Unknown Dweller," Noble; "Peaceful Night Descending," a Basque carol; "Sing Noel," a French carol; "Deep River," Burleigh; "Dark Water," James; "Goin' Home," Dvorak; and "Cherubim Song," Bortnyansky. The last group was made up of "Lost in the Night," Christiansen; "Adoramus Te," Dubois; "By Babylon's Wave," Gounod; and the "Seven-Fold Amen," Stainer.

Bethea Speaks To College Group At Chapel Exercises

Veteran Minister Brings Special Message to Senior Class; Labor Is Theme.

Dr. N. G. Bethea, pastor of West End Methodist Protestant church in Greensboro, who has served 39 years as a member of the North Carolina Methodist Protestant conference, spoke at chapel Friday morning in the first of a series of talks to the members of the graduating class.

Dr. Bethea said that he came from a world of work, where those who don't labor either go to the devil or to government relief. He urged his listeners to come to a full realization of the value and necessity of hard work, and he spoke despairingly of those who depend on means other than work to support themselves.

Labor was pictured by Dr. Bethea as a divine attribute through which man catches the import of life and an appreciation of his fellowman. There is something in labor, he said, that uplifts and exalts one's opinion of other laborers.

His hearers were admonished to turn to hard, honest labor, to do away with petty jealousies and to cultivate worthwhile habits. Creative work is most deeply appreciated, but work of any kind, if honest, merits great returns, he said. He added that the opportunities and privileges so often pictured to college graduates are not opened up but must be made by hard work.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the College. The remaining Friday morning chapel services will be given over to speakers invited to bring special messages to the seniors.

Music Featured By Akrothinians

Two Quartet Selections and Two Solos on Program; Rulfs Appears.

Music, dramatic readings, and burlesque all had places on the program at the last meeting of the Akrothinian Literary Society.

Max Rogers opened the program with a number improvised on the French horn. The piece was without title, anonymously composed, was never played before, and probably never will be heard again.

In a more serious vein, a quartet billed as the Harmony Throatclearers sang a group of old Scotch favorites and Negro spirituals. The men composing the quartet were Wilson Rogers, Robert Rankin, Paul Owen, and Sheldon Dawson.

Another quartet, listed as a sequel to the Harmony Throatclearers, but which was better described by its spokesman as a travesty, sang "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," and "Auld Lang Syne." The men in this group were Alson Gray, David Cooper, Bill Weisner, and Porter Hauser.

Professor D. J. Rulfs, a faculty member of the Society, was the concluding performer on the program Thursday night. He gave dramatic readings of parts from Wycherley's "The Country Wife."

THALEANS ARE FETED BY NIKANTHANS LAST NIGHT AT CITY LAKE

Co-Ed Society Reciprocates Entertainment Given by Thaleans in Fall.

The Nikanthan Literary Society was host to the Thalean Literary Society at a picnic held at the City Lake Park last night. This affair was given in reciprocation for a party which the Thaleans gave earlier in the year.

Leaving the College about 7 o'clock last night, the picnickers lingered until the usual closing hour of 10. The revelers roasted weiners and marshmellows and were entertained by Vaughn Boone with his guitar.

The picnic was chaperoned by faculty members of the Nikanthan and Thalean societies.

JULIA COE TO HEAD SOCIETY FOR NEXT YEAR

High Point Co-Ed Selected Artemesian Society President For Next Year.

GERRINGER VICE PRES.

Full Slate of Officers Named to Lead Society During 1936-37 Term.

Julia Coe, of High Point, was unanimously elected by the Artemsian Literary Society at its regular meeting last Thursday evening to serve as president of that organization for the ensuing year.

Miss Coe has been a member of the society for the past three years. For the past year she has held the responsible office of treasurer to the organization. She is a member of the class of '37, the College A Cappella Choir, and the Theta Phi social club.

Mary Frances Gerringer, of Greensboro, will support Miss Coe as vice-president of th society. "Jo" Walker, of Burlington, will hold the positions of secretary and treasurer, respectively. The pianists are Lillian Pearson, Montgomery, Alabama, and Christine Carroll, of Winston - Salem. Mary Mitchell Baity, of Henderson, will act as chaplain; Sophia Taplin, of High Point, as reporter; Margaret Dixon, of High Point, as critic; Dorothy Jones, of High Point, as chorister; Frances Muse and Dorothy Wiggins, of Henderson, will be the monitors for the year.

The new officers will be formally installed at the next regular meeting, and will serve for the last meeting of the year.

Other features of the meeting were several impromptu numbers by members of the society. Jacqueline Kinney discussed "What I Expected of the Society"; Sarah Forrest Thompson spoke of the benefits which she has received from society membership; Caroline Pirtle spoke on "Changes and Improvments I Noticed in the Society." The meeting closed with the singing of a pep song, led by Dorothy Perry and Marguerite Jenkins.

Columbia Preferences

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

The average Columbia University senior, almost 21 years old and weighing 153 pounds, is slightly antipathetic to the New Deal, would rather win a Phi Beta key than an athletic award and would not fight in a war conducted outside the United States, a recent survey revealed.

Sings Friday

Miss Ethelynde Smith

Miss Smith To Appear Friday In Auditorium

Soprano Soloist to Appear Here Friday Night as Lyceum Performer.

IS FIFTH ATTRACTION

Miss Smith's Appearance to Conclude Lyceum Series For Current Year.

Miss Ethelynde Smith, soprano, will appear in concert in the College auditorium on Friday evening, April 24. This is the fifth and last of a series of programs presented by the College Lyceum committee this year.

Miss Smith, the only soloist to be featured in the series, has enjoyed a wide experience on the concert stage. This season she has toured the United States, and she comes to High Point on her return trip from "Deep South." She is described as an entertainer of experience, variety, and skill.

The nature of Miss Smith's program contrasts greatly with the preceding lyceum number, a lecture on astronomy by Dr. Arthur M. Harding, of the University of Arkansas. Most of the programs have however, been musical — Bohumir Kryl, well-known cornetist and conductor, with his symphony band; the Twin City Glee Club, a group of negro singers from Winston-Salem. The first number, a demonstration by Wallace the magician, was enthusiastically received.

Dr. P. E. Lindley is chairman of preceding lyceum number, alecture group of programs is contempateld for next year.

SUMMER TERM TO START HERE ON JUNE NINTH

Dr. Hinshaw To Be Director of College's Ninth Annual Summer Session.

AIMS ARE EXPLAINED

Designed For Public School Teachers, Regular Students, and Freshmen.

Registration for the first term of the ninth summer session at the College will take place on June 9th, it has been announced by Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, head of the department of education, and director of the summer school.

The summer school is designed to help three classes of students: the high school graduate who expects to enter college next September, the regular college student who may be benefited by attending the summer school, and the teacher who is in service and wishes to raise or renew his certificate. For the high school graduate it may serve as a period of orientation, and to shorten his time spent in college. It may help the regular student in catching up his hours, or in getting courses which he could not find available otherwise. And it may serve the teacher not only to raise their certificates, but to bring them to college degrees if they have not already earned such degrees The work done at the College will count at any other institution.

Courses in art, geography, chemistry, education, English, French, history, music, psychology, and religous education will be offered in the regular program of the summer school. Other courses than those catalogued may be offered if there is sufficient demand.

Included in the instructors listed in the recently issued bulletin of the summer session are Dr. Hinshaw, who will teach courses in education and psychology; J. H. Allred, professor of French; Miss Elizabeth Crowell, instructor in art; Miss E. Vera Idol, professor of English; Dr. P. S. Kennett, professor of history; Dr P. E. Lindley, who heads the department of religions education; J. Harley Mourane, professor of chemistry; and Miss Margaret Sloan, who will conduct the classes in musical theory and practice.

The first session will close on July 17th. The second session will begin on July 20th, and will close on August 28th.

Like the regular term, the summer session is divided into two semesters.

Wake Forest Man Chosen To Head Press Association At Convention

James Mason, editor of the Wake Forest College yearbook, was acclaimed new president of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association at the final business session of the 31st annual convention which was held in Raleigh with Wake Forest as host.

Opening on last Thursday with an informal tea, the convention heard an address of welcome by Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, president of Wake Forest. Characterizing the daily newspaper office as a "madhouse" Dr. Kitchin expressed the belief that college editors should attain a great degree of accuracy because they do not have to contend with the time element that plays such an important role in daily paper routine. He urged his listeners to consider the slogan, "all the news that'a fit to print" and possibly change it to "all the news that's wise to print."

Friday morning was devoted to general business and editorial discussions. Editors of papers heard John M. Park, editor of the Raleigh Times, discuss practical problems rleated to journalism. Editors of magazines and annuals listened to Herbert Hitch and Fred Brown commercial representatives of engraving companies.

Publications business managers discussed various problems with Andrew Beck, representing a Raleigh printing establishment.

On Friday afternoon delegates were guests of the State, Palace, and Capitol theatres of Raleigh.

The high spot of the three-day program was a banquet and dance on Friday evening in the Sir Walter ballroom. The dinner was presided over by W. L. Brown, of Davidson College, retiring association president, who introduced the speaker of the occasion, Jule B. Warren, secretary of the North Carolina Educational Association.

In his address Mr. Warren called attention to changes which have come about in the immediate past, saying, "the old folks are wondering whether or not these young people are going to be able to take the place of us older ones, who have made such a mess of things."

"My answer to that is yes," he asserted. "They couldn't make as big a mess of things as we have."

"There has been and will be continuing changes throughout the years," he continued, "but you needn't be afraid of the fellows who with great dignity and solemnity tell you that it's going to be a very difficult world in which to live."

"I hope that out of the soundness of judgment that comes from your efficient training," Warren concluded, "you will see to it that this State and nation do fulfill the destiny for which they are meant."

Following the banquet delegates danced to the music of Bubbles Becker and his NBC orchestra.

The convention adjourned Saturday morning with a business session. Delegates adopted a resolution calling for "a mo complete freedom of the colleg e press". A motion was also pas d placing the delegates on record as "favorably disposed" towards the proposed publication of a "cosmopolitan collegiate magazine" by three Wake Forrest students, Charles Trueblood, Fred Williams, and A P. Godwin, Jr.

Officers elected other than Mason were: Pete Ehrich of State College, first vice-president; Hoke Robinson of Davidson College, second vice-president; Miss Nancy Powell of Meredith College, third vice-president; Miss Sis Terry of Flora MacDonald, secretary; and Herbert Upchurch of Duke University, treasurer.

They succeed W. Lamont Brown of Davidson, president; Miss Susan Rudisill of Meredith, vice-president; Miss Elizabeth Yates of W. C. U. N. C., secretary; and Phillip Russell of Duke treasurer.

The association accepted the invitation of Davidson College to hold the 1936 fall convention at that institution and adjourned.

Student Council Officials Will Be Named At Election Slated For Next Wednesday

Nominations For Government Officers To Be Held at Student Meeting Monday; Election Wednesday Morning To Be By Secret Ballot; History Given.

The nomination of officers for the Student Government Association will be held next Monday morning, followed by the election on Wednesday, it has been announced by A. Lincoln Fulk, president of the council.

For the first time in the history of student government at the College, the nominations and election will be held on separate days. Another innovation is that the election will be by secret ballot, thus making the selection of officers more business-like and reducing mob psychology to a minimum.

Nominations for president, vice president, and secretary will be made Monday morning. Ballot boxes will be maintained in the foyer of Roberts Hall throughout next Wednesday morning, with present members of the council acting as election officials. Two representatives to the council will be selected by each of the four classes at the regular meeting hour Wednesday morning. The treasurer of the student government is selected each spring by the members of the new council.

High Point College has witnessed an astounding growth in the functions of student government during the past two years. Revived in the fall of 1933 after an absence of several years, student government has assumed more and more duties during the past three years.

Robert Williams, then president of the senior class, was elected first president of the renewed student council, with Wilbur Hutchins as vice president and Dorothea Andrews as secretary. Hutchins was elected president in the spring of 1934, D. K. Cloniger was named vice president, and Lucy Clyde Ross secretary. Cloniger was elected president to serve for this year, but A. Lincoln Fulk was selected when Cloniger failed to return. Allen Austin is now vice president, and Edith Crowder is secretary.

Nikanthans Win Over Rivals In Annual Contest

Bell, Grant Defeat Artemesian Debters on Educational Question.

Representatives of the Nikanthan Literary Society defeated the Artemesian speakers in the annual inter-society debate held Wednesday evening, April 8, in competition for the Mary E. Young loving cup.

The query used in the debate was Resolved: That Entrance to American Colleges Should Be by Examination Only. Dorothy Bell and Virginia Grant, of the Nikanthan Society, were successful in defending the negative side of the question against Marguerite Jenkins and Margaret Smith.

The affirmative speakers argued that adoption of the proposed plan would raise the standards in American colleges and universities, that it would better adapt the student to college life, and that it would give a better indication of the students' ability than the system of accepting units from accredited high schools.

The negative debaters maintained that acceptance of students by examinations only would result in an educational clite not in keeping with the American tradition of democracy. They cited instances in which the examination plan has been tried and later abandoned, stating that the proposed plan is nothing new, but is an old, discredited method displayed in new form. The negative presented an array of authorative opinion against the proposed plan.

The judges for the debate were Byron Hayworth, Judge Lewis E. Teague, and W. A. White. Miss Young acted as chairman, and Lois Hedgecock, Nikanthan president, was secretary for the occasion. The two societies alternate in providing secretaries and marshals for the annual debates.

The annual Nikanthan-Artemesian debates were started in 1927, when Miss Mary E. Young, then dean of women, offered the first cup bearing her name for such competition. The regulations provide that one society must win the debates for three consecutive years to gain permanent possession of the award.

Lindley Speaker At Church Rally

Dean Leads Discussion on "Conserving Value of Worship" at Meeting.

Dr. P. E. Lindley led a discussion on the subject "Conserving the Value of Worship" at the ninth district rally of the Methodist Protestant conference held at Rankin Memorial church Sunday afternoon.

The meeting, which was attended by about 100 persons, had as its theme "Conserving Religious Values." In addition to the forum led by Dr. Lindley, a discussion on "Conserving the Value of Conviction" was led by Dr. S. W. Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church of Asheboro. Rev. Edwin Suits, pastor of Rankin Memorial church, led a discussion on "Conserving the Value of the Christian Home." Miss Mary E. Young, of the College faculty, also appeared on the program.

Special music for the meeting was furnished by a large choir composed of selected members from the choirs of all the churches in the district, and the numbers were arranged by A. J. Koonce and Miss Margaret Opal Neese of High Point.

Miss Bates Will Head Christians For Second Year

Winston-Salem Co-Ed Again Elected President of Christian Endeavor Group.

At the Christian Endeavor business meeting which was held last Friday night, officers were elected for the coming year, and certificates were given to those completing the Expert Endeavor course.

Mary Margaret Bates, of Winston-Salem, was elected president of the organization for the second year. Miss Bates is a member of next year's graduating class, and is active in the Modern Priscilla club, the Nikanthan literary society, and the art club. She is also a member of THE HI-PO staff, and is a marshal for this year.

Occo Gibbs, of Gibsonville, a member of the incoming junior class, was elected vice president. He is a Thalean and a member of the I. T. K. fraternity.

The secretary will be Virginia Curry, a Nikanthan of the class of '39. She will be assisted by Samuel Myers, a member of next year's senior class. Miss Curry is from Pleasant Hill, and Mr. Myers, a Thalean, is from Thomasville.

Paul Owen, of Shoals, will act as treasurer for the next year. Mr. Owen is an Akrothinian and a member of the I. T. K. fraternity. Elizabeth Phillips, a sophomore and a Nikanthan, will be assistant treasurer.

The offices of pianist and assistant pianist will be filled by Agnes Louise Wilcox and Inza Hill respectively. Both are of this year's junior class and members of the Nikanthan literary society.

Sheldon Dawson, of the class of '37, will serve as monitor, and G. W. Holmes III will assist him. Mr. Dawson is an Akrothinian

COUNCIL ELECTION NEXT WEEK

The student body of High Point College next week will elect government council officials under a new plan that should add much to the efficiency and prestige of student government. The council officials are to be nominated on one day and elected on another, leaving an intervening period of time for judicious contemplation on the part of the student body. The election this year is also to be made more business-like by the use of secret ballots on printed forms, an innovation that should do much to reduce the spur-of-the-moment voting hitherto prevalent at College elections.

It has become a platitude by now to say that the success of student government next year depends on the officials who are to be chosen in the coming election. But it is still no less true that the student body needs to give the most conscientious thought to choosing leaders for its government. Shut out horse-play, shout out biased politics and you will have an election worthy of the cause for which it is held. Three years of training in government men have developed a number of candidates who are the most promising in the history of self-government at the College—and they all deserve honest consideration.

It is needless to review the added responsibilities and accomplishments of student government during the past year. But it is well to bear in mind the new opportunities that attend the natural growth of the College and added duties of which an experienced student body is capable.

THE LAST OF THE LYCEUMS

When Miss Ethelynde Smith concludes her program of soprano numbers Friday night, another series of lyceum attractions will be brought to an end. And who can deny that the 1935-36 series has been one of the best in the history of the College?

Five programs have been presented by the lyceum committee this year; one or two have been outstanding; all have been of acceptable merit. Opening with a purely entertaining feature by Wallace the Magician, the lyceum series has brought such performers as Kyrl's Band, the Twin City Glee Club, and Dr. Harding.

The lyceum series fills a definite need on the program of any college. Of all activities outside the class room these cultural attractions perhaps make the largest contribution to the education of a college student. To have seen and heard artists and speakers of eminence is an experience that no one would willingly forego.

Restricted from the beginning by small financial resources, the lyceum committee, in the opinion of THE HI-PO, has done well in providing the best possible attractions for the students' money. For this the committee is due the thanks and support of the student body.

LOOKING TOWARD THE END

With the last holiday of the school year behind, the College now goes into the final stretch, with some of the most important events yet to come off.

All extra-curricular activities on the campus from the student government to the smallest specialized organizations face the problem of selecting new officers for next year. The election of officers is in itself a function that holds the interest of members of all organizations. Politics is incurably fascinating, even when kept on a high plane, and things are bound to sizzle on the campus from now on.

For the seniors the next few weeks are indeed the last stretch—they are the honor group around which important activities are to center. For them the last series of chapel programs have been planned; for them many interested persons will flock to see the last march on June 1.

From all viewpoints the last month of school will be an important one.

The old order changeth:

Dr. Calvin Stone of Stanford University is well on his way to changing the whole, century-old technique of love-making and the gentle art of proposing.

This iconclast proves that when a young man swears undying devotion, he should not clasp his hand over the heart, but should instead hold his head in his hands.

The heart, says the doctor, hasn't anything to do with your emotion. What counts is the pituitary gland at the base of the skull. Although, he admits, the heart might get a "little kick" out of being in love, with a manifestation of increased blood action. But's that's all.

When people up at Macalester College in St. Paul, ask Prof. William Augustus Cornell if he isn't the young man who teaches the course in marriage problems, the professor generally changes the subject hurriedly.

Mr. Cornell, you see, is a bachelor in his mid-thirties.

Mr. Cornell is strong for matrimony—for other people.

"Love? No one can fall intelligently in love," declared the professor-bachelor.

"But professor, who wants to be intelligent," said a bright young thing in his class of 35.

"Spring," said the professor, "is here, and class is dismissed."

Two items come to us:

Says one: Almost all the seniors who finish Brown University this June will not be faced with unemployment, according to statisticians at that fortunate university.

Says the other: In a tough, shambling federal relief camp pitched on the outskirts of the village of Savage, Minnesota, live 40 broken, wandering men listed officially as "transients." One was graduated from Harvard, another from Princeton; some hold degrees from Tulane, Tufts, Wisconsin, Missouri, Bates and Haverford. Some of them once headed businesses or ranked high in their professions.

The camp cook is a bacteriologist, graduated from Missouri and one of the potato-peelers is a graduate of the Art Students' League of New York.

Nine hundred and fifty alumni of the University of Notre Dame were asked this question recently:

"Do you think you missed anything by not attending a coeducational school?"

Answers: 766 said "No." 78 thundered "Absolutely Not!" 36 said "Yes." 25 said "Social life." Eight said "Don't know." Seven said, "Possibly." Five murmured, "Not much."

Tempest in a Chinese Tea Pot:

Undoubtedly the quibblingest little tiff of the school year has broken out at the University of Michigan.

The famous Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese evangelist and platform performer extraordinary, has lost all his friends in the Chinese Student Club at that University. The Japanese, you see, used the word "Manchukuo" in his speeches on the campus. The word is a misnomer, said the Chinese students. "Kuo" means soverign state, they pointed out, and since the rest of the world has not recognized Manchukuo, Mr. Kagawa ought to do the decent thing and call the region Manchuria.

The Chinese feel it so deeply that they called off a dinner for which Kagawa was scheduled.

"Baloney" declares Smedley Darlington Butler, is what anti-war strikes amount to.

"The only way," he declares, "to prevent war is to put the fear of God into the hearts of your bloody congressmen.

"Organize, sure," he admitted, "but you have to do more than talk. Get out petitions and frighten your senators and your president to death with them. The only thing they fear is public opinion.

Shudder note: Dean C. E. Edmondson of the University of Indiana has suggested that in the future all students there ought to be fingerprinted for identification purposes.

WHEATON PAPER ASKS EDUCATION CHANGES

Formulates Five-Point Program for Drastic Revision of Standards.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Norton, Mass.—Answering the challenge of Wheaton College's Pres. J. Edgar Park, the staff of the Wheaton College News has formulated a five-point program which would lead to drastic changes in the standards of education.

In answer to Pres. Park's challenge that "the only thing that can save the American college from going down when the public discovers how little real interest there is in study is an insurrection on the part of the students," the News advocates:

1. That mentally capable but lazy and frivolous students be flunked out at once instead of being allowed to slide by as at present, thereby handicapping the ambitious students.

2. That a new deal be upheld for freshmen and that they be urged to concentrate their energies on widening their intellects and broadening their minds, rather than scattering their resources over many extracurricular activities, thus emulating present popular figures of the "all-around" but intellectually mediocre college senior.

3. That the faculty accept the idea that teaching should include the class as well as the subject matter and not allow it to degenerate into a dull tossing of words into a thick and sleepy atmosphere; that the teachers should remember that any one can read a textbook and that what students very often need is some interest shown in them as individuals.

4. That there be a closer relationship between the various academic departments, with more coordination and integration of the student's various courses, so that an A.B. degree may indicate an intelligent American citizen, not merely a potential graduate student, with each of the subjects he has studied tucked away in separate mental compartments.

5. That the five-course program be abolished, so that the students need not be forced into superficial, hurried work, or into neglecting one subject entirely, as they are often found to do under the present system; that fewer subjects be required.

SALARY CUTS DURING DEPRESSION STUDIED

Department of Interior Conducts Survey of Faculty Salary Changes.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C.—The extent of the severe salary cuts taken by faculty members of the nation's 51 land-grant colleges during the depression period has been outlined here in a special report issued by Dr. Walter J. Greenleaf of the Department of Interior's office of Education.

Deans employed on a nine-month basis saw their median salaries decreased from $5,193 in 1928-29, to $4,187 in 1934-35, an average decrease of more than $1,000.

The survey showed similar depression-period slashes in salaries paid to professors, associate professors, asistant profesors, and instructors. Full-time professors on a nine-month basis received an average salary of $4,278 in 1928-29. By 1934-35 their annual income had decreased to $3,775. Those on an eleven-twelve-month basis had their salaries cut from $4,161 to $3,682 over the same period of time.

Associate professors dropped from $3,352 salaries in 1928-29 to $2,903 in 1934-35; assistant professors from $2,738 in 1928-29 to $2,449 in 1934-35, and instructors from $2,005 to $1,769 over the 4-year period.

Salaries for the present year are higher than last year.

Center Jump Abandoned In Wisconsin Cage Conference

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Stevens Point, Wis.—Coaches of the Wisconsin State Teachers College basketball conference, in a meeting at the Teachers College here, abolishd the center jump in conference court games next season.

Anticipating a like change in rules by the national basketball rules committee, the coaches adopted regulations which will put the ball in play by center jump at the beginning of each half, but at other times under the basket of the team scored upon.

SINCERITY IS URGED IN SPORTS PROGRAMS

Says Value of College Athletics in Danger if Present Course Continued.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City—"Quit hypocrisy and come down out of the clouds before the distinctiveness and worthwhileness of college athletics are lost."

That was the appeal made by Lafayette College's new athletic director, Henry W. (Esky) Clark, at a meeting here of the New York alumni association of his college.

The severe indictment of college athletics made by Clark follows in part: "As I see the intercollegiate athletic picture, it seems to be rapidly crystalizing into set groups. We hear talk of 'ivy leagues' and the forming of various other associations in the public press, and those more familiar with the situation know that there is a mad scramble to become associated with the proper group socially—so much so that those in control of arranging football schedules are making them as far ahead as 1942. To me this seems to be the wrong way to seek prestige. The first step is to put your own house in order and seek out those who are doing likewise, then meet them on the common ground of facilities and ideals. After all, lasting friendships are built on such sound understanding.

"We hear a lot of talk of subsidizing and proselyting. Poor old Andy Carnegie saved like a true Scot and set up a foundation which five years ago spent thousands of dollars investigating college athletics, and all to no avail. It would have been far better to have set up goals for us to shoot at. Friends of college athletics feel that the present state is worse than the previous one. We are treated to resolutions, investigations, codes, commissions and what not. It is the old story of government by laws instead of by men; all attempts at control from without. Such methods proved unavailing in national life in prohibition, censorship and other experiments, and they have proved equally hopeless in the college athletic picture.

"We should quit hypocrisy and come down out of the clouds before we wake up to find that we have lost the distinctiveness and worthwhileness of college athletics, nor with the newspaper men who exploit them—all this fills a very definite place in our national life that calls for amusement, for spectacles, for exhibitionism. But this is no part of our picture or problem; the professional leaves us alone and is to be honored for his calling.

"The answer, to my mind, is for each college to attend to its own housecleaning, and to do it in such a way as to satisfy its nearest neighbor, who, after all, knows it better than any one else. To do this promptly we should all try to be better neighbors by being more frank, having more backbone and becoming more interested. By frankness I mean we should all try to play the game squarely; not try for sudden outbursts of glory beyond our normal strength. By backbone we should endeavor to limit our schedules to those willing to play the game the way we play it. By interest we should regard the whole athletic picture as our own responsibility."

SAYS SELF-HELP PLAN NOT ALTOGETHER WISE

Columbia Professor Hints That Too Many Students Are Seeking Education.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City—Definite affirmations that the student working his way through colleges and universities is likely to wreck his career "by the very plan through which he hoped to achieve success," have been made here by Nicholas D. McKnight, associate dean of Columbia College.

The dean believes that self-help by students is thoroughly nonproductive from the educational standpoint.

"It may be that part of the answer is to be found in the growing belief that a considerable number of boys and girls now going to college would be better of doing something else," he said in answering his own question concerning the fate of the problem.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '29:

Many of the members of your class have not been satisfied with a mere four-year college education—but have gone on into specialized work or have taken work at the university.

Louise Adams, Antonio Antonakas, Claire Douglas, have their M. A. from U. N. C. Louise taught at Davenport College in Lenoir until its close and then came to H. P. C. where she is head of the math department; Tony Antonakas teaches science at Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone; and Claire has been for several years at Lees-McRae Junior College at Banner Elk.

Blanche Ingram and Velna Teague have also taken work at the university and both teach in Kernersville. Grover Angel went to U. N. C. two summers while teaching at Denton; he is now at the Spring Creek High School in Western North Carolina.

Juanita Amick went to King's Business College in Greensboro, was stenographer with the Smith-Holland Brokerage Company there, and is now a clerk in one of the government departments in Washington.

Dr. Theodore Antonakas graduated from the medical college of the University of Georgia. Will someone please tell Mr. Harrison at the College where he is practicing and whom he married?

Jabus Braxton got his B. S. T. from Duke. In April '34 he married Dessie Lee Little of Durham. He is now pastor of the Mt. Pleasant charge near Greensboro.

Keith Harrison received his law degree from Carolina. In '30 he and Kalopia Antonakas, '30, were married. Keith has an office in High Point and is quite busy. He has recently entered politics, being a candidate for the next session of the legislature.

Ben Herman has his law degree and is also practicing in High Point.

Bill Hunter is also a lawyer, practicing in Greensboro. After attending Duke, Carolina, and Wake Forest, he finally got his degree from the latter. On April 21, 1934, he married Frances Merritt of Wilmington. They have a daughter, Anne, born August 2, 1933.

H. E. Jones went on to the school of religion at Duke. We have had no later report of him. Will someone please send us some information?

Glenn Perry is also an M. D. now, practicing in High Point. He graduated from Richmond Medical School in '33 and did his internship in Charleston, W. Va.

Pauline Whitaker received her nurse's degree in New York City and was elected to the nursing staff in the hospital where she took her training. Her health broke down and she is now at home in Julian recovering.

The latest marriage took place last Monday morning, April 20, when Pauline Hunter was married to C. D. Duncan of Raleigh. They will make their home in Raleigh.

Alta Allen is Mrs. Homer Keever, of Stoney Point, where Mr. Keever is pastor of a church.

Helen Barker became Mrs. Norman Debart January 30, 1934 and lives in Winston-Salem.

Willie Fritz married R. C. Brinkley, of Welcome, in August '31, and still teaches.

Elda Clark taught in Asheboro until '34, when she became head stenographer at Amos Hosiery Mills. Last fall she came to the College as secretary to the president and member of the faculty, teaching shorthand and typing.

Last year Margaret Gurley married L. H. Fumell and now lives in Roseboro.

Elizabeth Nicholson and Nick Sides, '28, were married in July, 1932. They have a son, C. D., about two years old now.

Inez Reynolds taught and did stenographic work until May, '31, when she married Ralph Vance, '28. They now have a daughter, Patsy. Irene does clerical work in High Point.

Mamie York did stenographic work in High Point and then married C. P. Wirehing, of Salem, Ohio, and now makes her home in Chicago.

Margaret Clarine Davis is doing welfare work in High Point.

Does anybody know anything about Lillie Mae Davis, Pearl Payneor, Bruce Yokeley? We don't.

Raymond Dixon taught and coached in Kannapolis but is now doing clerical work with Robbins Knitting Mills in High Point.

Willie Wood taught at Central Junior High in Greensboro, but is now employed by the Juvenile court there.

The rest are teaching: Marjorie Welborn has charge of the English and French in Southmont High School; Louise Holmes, Creswell; Dot Hoskins, now in Thomasville; Blaine Madison, principal of a school in Iredell county; Graydon Wrenn, rural Guilford; Vernon Robertson, Iredell county.

We'll be hoping to hear from you.

Outfielder Lloyd Wampler did, and the batted ball made a direct hit on Pitcher Rullell Behr's nose, breaking it badly.

PANTHERS WIN THREE GAMES ON ROAD TRIP

Divide Series With Eastern Carolina; Win Two Loop Games From A. C. C.

During four days of spring training down east last week, the Panthers turned in three victories in four starts against Eastern Carolina and Atlantic Christian. The two victories over Atlantic Christian are the lone conference wins for the locals to date.

MONDAY

After a stop-over at Greenville Sunday night, the Yowmen proceeded to New Bern where they met their hosts, the E. C. T. C. Pirates, in a holiday contest. But the salty atmosphere did not agree with the Panthers, and they dropped the first game of their trip by the count of 5 to 3. Wells, who went the full route on the mound for the Pirates, pitched effective ball, allowing the locals five scattered hits.

Rudisill, hurling for the Panthers, had the Greenville outfit well under control during the first three innings, but weakened in the fourth to yield five hits, and four runs. He regained his fire in the next rack, and continued to pitch winning ball throughout the remainder of the contest.

Score by innings: R H E
High Point 000 021 000—3 5 1
E. C. T. C. 000 400 100—5 9 2
Batteries: High Point—Rudisill and Diamont. E. C. T. C.—Wells and Ayers.

TUESDAY

Upon returning to Greenville the next day, the Panthers gained revenge for the first loss by defeating the Teachers 6 to 4 in an extra inning battle on the E. C. T. C. field.

The Pirates rallied in the last half of the ninth to tie the score 4-4 at the end of the game. Coming up for their turn at bat the Panthers opened up with a barrage of hits that netted them two

High School Conference

High School representatives to the proposed Central Piedmont basketball conference, for rural high school teams and to be sponsored by High Point College, will meet Saturday morning in Roberts Hall at 10 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by Coach C. Virgil Yow.

The meeting will be the first step in the organization of the conference, which will be open to all rural high school teams in Guilford, Forsyth, Davidson, Randolph and Alamance counties. A president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer wil be elected at this time.

There will be a league for boys and girls, with a regular schedule for the season worked out ahead of time. A championship tourney in Harrison gymnasium will close the season for the conference members, and determine the champions in both the boys' and girls' divisions.

Local Nine Meets Duke Outfit This Afternoon

YOWMEN DROP FIRST CONTEST BEFORE HOME FANS TO BEARS

Lenoir Rhyne Batters Gain 17 Hits to Take 9 to 7 Victory Over Panthers; Culler, Rudisill, Bumgarner, and Deal Hit Homers.

The High Point College nine stopped by at Willis Park Friday afternoon to lose a North State contest to the Lenoir Bears, 9 to 7, in their first appearance of the season before home fans.

After five days of 'spring training' down east, the Panthers failed to make an impressive showing in their debut before the students and local fans who turned out to the local park to see them in action Friday. The mighty bats of the Pointers, which broke loose several times during the Easter games to turn in late or extra inning victories, were kept in control by Tuttle, hurler for the Bears. The Panthers secured eight hits.

Meanwhile Coach Pat Shores' Bears, winners of second place in the circuit last year, went on a batting spree to gain a total of 17 safe blows off the slants of Rudisill, veteran Panther southpaw.

Deal, Bear first sacker, poled out a home run in the first rack to give the visitors a one run lead, but the Panthers scored three times during their turn at bat on singles by Koontz, and Dorsett and a homer by Culler.

Singles by Perry, McSwain, and E. Tuttle netted the Hickory nine two more in the second frame. Taking advantage of a walk and errors, Diamont scored the fourth Panther run in this inning.

The Bears gained the lead in the fifth rack on four hits plus an error by the Pointer infield, scoring 2 runs. They increased their total to 8 runs in the seventh frame on a single by Stepp, home run by Bumgarner, walk to Willett, and single by Perry.

Rudisill drove one out of the park in the seventh, and Koontz, the following man at bat, failed to duplicate his feat by inches. E. Tuttle, starting Bear hurler, was replaced by C. Tuttle, in this rack. Three Panthers scored in this inning.

"Hamp" Hampton Twirls Indians To Second Loop Victory Over Locals

A ninth inning rally by the Panthers fell short Saturday afternoon, as the Catawba Indians trounced the High Point nine, 5 to 3, in a North State contest at Salisbury.

Trailing 5 to 2 when they came up for their turn at bat in the final rack, the locals jumped on Hampton for three safe blows, including an extra base knock, but scored only one run. With one out Harris singled and came home a minute later on a double by Koontz. However "Dub" was called out at third while attempting to stretch the knock into a triple, and Towery's single went for naught as Dorsett grounded out to end the game.

Smiling "Hamp" Hampton, sophomore twirler for the Indians who handed the locals a 5-2 defeat earlier this season, went the full route again this time, allowing the Panthers seven hits, one less than in the first game. He received excellent support from his team mates, who played errorless ball afield.

It was a different story in the case of the opposing moundsman, Harris. "Tige" allowed the Indians only eight hits, but a total of five errors on the part of the High Point fielders contributed to the loss.

The winners scored heavily in the early innings. A double by Davis, an errored ball, a walk to Pritchard, and a double by Hampton netted them two runs in the second rack. They scored again in the third, and two more in the fourth. After this Harris tightened, and failed to allow more than one hit in any rack.

Diamont, gaining a free pass, scored the first Panther run in the fifth inning on a single by Koontz. Culler doubled in the eighth and came in with the second run when Ingle, the next man up, duplicated his feat.

Koontz led the High Point bat-

The Panther nine is slated to play the second home game of the year this afternoon when they meet the Duke "B" team in an exhibition contest at Wilis Park. The game will start at 3:30.

Winner over the Durham outfit by the score of 10 to 9 in their first encounter at Durham this spring, the Yowmen are holding high hopes of breaking in the winning column again before the home fans.

The team concluded a heavy week Saturday afternoon when they lost to the Catawba Indians. They were winner in three of the six games played during the six playing plays of the week. 'Spring training' down east the first of the week helped to get the boys in better physical trim, although they failed to make an impressive showing upon their return to this city for their opening home contest with the Lenoir Rhyne Bears on Friday.

Tomorrow afternoon they travel over to Guilford to tackle the strong Quakers in a conference struggle. These clubs have not met so far this year. Coach Anderson's nine has shown plenty of fight in encounters with Elon and Georgetown this spring, and will probably give the locals plenty of trouble tomorrow.

Friday they return to Willis Park for the third shot at the Catawba Indians, victors over the

CLUB HITTING AT SLOW PACE

Statistics compiled at the end of Saturday afternoon's game showed that only three of the Panthers are hitting the ball at or over the .300 clip, while the team is averaging only .250 at the plate.

In the field of the regular hitters Culler is leading with a .319 average. Rudisill is hitting exactly .300 in 10 trips to the plate, while Brinkley has gained two hits in five attempts to lead with the high of .400.

At the close of the season last year only two local hitters had an average of .300. Culler was first with the exceptionally high average of .382 for the season, while Grigg came a close second with .352.

Other players have stepped to the firing line to score more of the five victories registered by the Yowmen than the regular hurlers. Grigg, who roams in the right field garden, took the mound in the game with the Duke "B" team and received credit for the win. He scored his second win on the mound in a game against the Eastern Carolina club. Harris turned in his lone victory over the Unique Furniture team of Winston-Salem, when he bested Moore in a beautiful 13 inning duel. Dorsett and Culler each scored a victory over the Atlantic Christian outfit.

The batting averages of the individual players:

BULLDOG NETTERS WIN OVER PANTHER RACQUETEERS, 6-1

Niernsee, Number One Player, Turns In Lone Point In Match With Atlantic Christian On City Courts Monday Afternoon.

The High Point College netmen plainly showed their lack of experience and practice Monday afternoon when they met a well rounded Atlantic Christian aggregation on the local city courts to win only one match out of 7.

Frank Niernsee, top ranking Panther player, came through true to form, striking his stride early in the match to control his match practically throughout. Though looking fairly well matched at the beginning of the first set as each game went to deuce several times, Niernsee at all times topped his opponent in hard well-placed ground strokes and unreturnable services. Dawson, Christian number one man, playing a steadier, less flashy game, fought the initial set to deuce three times before finally dropping the set, 8-6. The second and final set found Niernsee putting even more on the ball to quickly draw out the set and match point.

The number four and number five matches furnished the only other thrills of the day as Captain Rogers and Leonard White, four and five men respectively, brought each set of their playoff to deuce before dropping them. Hudson and Rogers in the first of the two matches continually swapped games as well as points in the first eight games of each set, each getting an even break. Rogers weakened and was the first to drop two games in a row after the sets had reached deuce and both sets were lost, 6-4, 6-4. White met Dean in a similar match to lose also, 6-4, 6-4. Jarrett, promising freshman player and number two man, failed to show his usual form, to humbly bow the knee of fealty to Cunningham, crafty A. C. C. player, 6-2, 6-3.

This is the fourth loss out of five starts, the team failing to hold their pace as they started when they stepped out to the forefront of the field to eliminate a well balanced Appalachian racquet squad. The main cause of these defeats is attributed to the lack of practicing grounds due to the fact that the work on he college tennis courts was considerably hampered at the earlier part of the season because of bad weather.

The summary:

Cunningham defeated Jarrett, 6-2, 6-3; Niernsee defeated Dawson, 8-6, 6-2; Hudson defeated Rogers, 6-4, 6-4; Deans defeated White, 6-4, 6-4; Dawson and Hudson defeated Niernsee and Setzer, 6-4, 6-0; Cunninghan and Barnes defeated Jarrett and Rogers, 6-4, 6-4.

Netmen Lose To Elon and Catawba; Handicapped By Lack of Training

Returning from the Easter holidays for their third and fourth conference matches, the High Point College netmen failed to uphold the optimistic promises foretold from their win in the initial match of the year as they failed to show much competition to two of the top ranking tennis squads in the conference, bowing to Elon, 9-0, and to Catawba 7-2.

Meeting the strong Elon Christian aggregation on the opening day of school following the holidays, the Panthers were greatly handicapped by the lack of much needed practice and their top player, Frank Niernsee, who has lost only one match out of four starts this season, showing promise of becoming one of the leaders in the North State tennis circles, and were unable to pull out even a lone point. Hoping to pull out a few points by strategy, Captain Rogers switched his top ranking players to positions in the lower ranks of the competitive play while moving the less skilled players to the top branch only to find that the Christian team was so well balanced that it was impossible to find a weak spot in it. Dale Jarrett, freshman and stellar number two man, though failing to pull out the necessary games, gave "Rusty" Jones, a member of the state's champion doubles team, some real competition, often bringing the games to deuce before finally dropping them. Greenwald, Elonite, completely outplayed Cooper in the number one position, to win 6-0, 6-0. The doubles showed the winners even more skillful than in singles, the locals getting only one or two

CLASS TEAMS TO BATTLE IN FIELD EVENT

Softball Tourney to Start Between Classes Monday Afternoon; Finals Wednesday.

The intra-mural field and track meet of High Point College, which is being introduced to the College again after several years absence in an effort to get the school more track-minded, will open Wednesday, a week from today, at 3 o'clock on Boylan Terace with the hundred yard dash, according to an announcment made by Roy Interieri, chairman of the activities. On Monday preceding this meet the class softball teams will also meet in the openers of a series of games to decide the soft-ball champions.

The class presidents of the student body are to have charge of getting together the various track specialists of their groups with the exception of the senior class, which will have as its head, Sulon Feree, versatile fourth year man. This meet should prove of real interest to the local student body as the to the local student body as the group of dash men, distance men and sprinters will have amongst it several men who have had valuable teams and there should be some thrilling finishes in the course of events.

The cinder path behind the gymnasium is being prepared for use and judges are being procured from the staff of the High Point high school state champion squad. The events, which will start with the 100 yard dash to procede with the 880, 440, half mile and relay, should be carried off in veteran fashion.

In the outdoor ball tournament, which starts on Monday, the Freshmen first meet the Juniors of Coach Yow's gym classes have already been introduced to the sport and from observation of these games, there should be some good competition between the classes. On Tuesday the Frosh meet the Seniors while the Sophs meet the Juniors and on Wednesday the Seniors meet the Juniors before the Sophs come up against the Freshmen. The two highest rated teams will then play each other for the title.

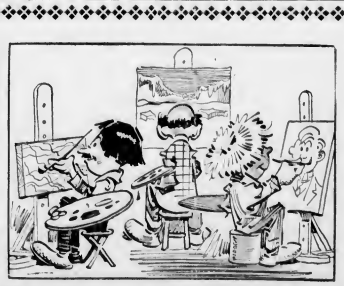

NETMEN LOSE TO ELON RACQUETEERS

Doubles — Jones-Dickerson (E) defeated Niernsee-Jarrett, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4; Smith-Malbon (E) defeated Hornaday-Setzer, 6-0, 6-1; Greenwald-Taylor (E) defeated Rogers-White 6-2, 7-9, 6-3.

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

GRIGG KNOCKS HOME RUN IN 13th FOR WIN

The baseball nine gained an even break in two Easter games with strong semi-pro teams, winning a thirteen inning thriller from the Unique Furniture nine of Winston-Salem, while losing to the Chatham Blanketeers of Elkin.

Playing on a muddy field, the Panthers were smeared by the Elkin outfit, 9-3, in a seven inning contest on Friday afternoon. Grigg, on the mound for the locals, had trouble with the wet and slippery ball, allowing a total of 12 hits.

Players on both teams made comparatively few errors considering the condition of the field on which they played. High Point made only one, while the Blanketeers muffed twice.

Towery and Culler led the hitting for the Panthers with two safeties, while Weston and Gough led the assault on Grigg with three hits each.

Score by innings:

	R	H	E
High Point	201 000 0—3	6	1
Chatham	332 010 0—9	12	2

Batteries: High Point, Grigg and Diamont. Chatham, Proctor, Maxwell and Jones.

UNIQUE GAME

"Butch" Grigg was the hero of this 13 inning struggle when he smashed a long drive over the right field fence of Southside Park to give the Collegians a 4 to 3 victory over the Unique Furniture nine in Winston-Salem on Saturday afternoon, April 11.

The blow which came with two down ended a beautiful hurling duel between Harris, for the Panthers, and Moore for the Twin City club. After the Panthers had come back in their half of the ninth to tie the score at 3-3, neither team was able to break the tie until the fatal thirteenth. The Furniture club made a serious threat in the 11th when Tysinger and Holcomb singled in succession, but Harris promptly curbed the rally.

The game was a nip and tuck affair from the start until the last man was called out in the thirteenth. The losers scored first in the second rack, but the Panthers scored two in the third on singles by Koontz and Culler together with errors, to take the lead.

Two more in the fourth gave the Furniture makers a margin which they maintained until the ninth frame, when the Yowmen knotted the count at 3-3.

Harris appeared in mid-season form on the mound, and seemed to get better as the game progressed. The seven hits secured by the Twin City hitters were well scattered, and three errors on the part of the Pointers contributed to the total number of scores by the losers. "Tige" displayed superb control, giving up no free passes to first base during 13 innings.

Moore, who relieved Anderson, in the first rack pitched a beautiful game for the losers, and was especially effective at the critical moments.

After striking out four straight times, Grigg connected with a single and homer in his last two times at bat to lead the Pointers with the willow.

It was the second time in two years that games between these two teams eked out a 5-4 decision in an 11 inning Easter clash.

runs. Culler started the fireworks with a single, and was followed by Ingle, Towery and Martin.

Brinkley, who has been out of the lineup due to illness, started on the mound for the locals, and although allowing nine hits during the first six innings, kept them well scattered for only three runs. He was relieved by Grigg in the seventh, who finished the game with only one run chalked up against him to win the game.

Both teams hit the apple hard for a total of 25 hits. High Point gained 12, with Koontz, Ingle, Towery, Martin, and Brinkley leading the parade.

WEDNESDAY

A ninth inning rally, featuring doubles by Culler and Ingle, gave the Pointers a 5 to 4 victory over the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs on Wednesday. This was the first conference win of the season for the Pointers.

Culler doubled to open the rack, and came home on a terrific drive by Ingle that went for two bases also. Hayes connected for a single during the Bulldog turn at bat, but Dorsett held the opposing batters down to win the contest.

Called in from his outfield post to hurl, "Red" Dorsett hurled a nice game for the Yowmen, although nicked for a total of 10 hits. Dawson, hurling for the Bulldogs, gave up 9 hits during the entire game.

Towery, Culler, and Diamont led the hitting attack for the Pointers with two each, but it was Ingle's blow that drove in the winning run.

games out of each set, if any at all.

Taking a day out for rest following this defeat, the Purple Panther racqueteers then traveled to Salisbury on Friday, there to meet a wily Indian team. Frank Niernsee, number one man who was again in the lineup, and Dale Jarrett, number two man, again showed their invincible form to rout their hard playing opponents each in three sets. These wins by the top ranking Panther players were found impossible to be matched by their teammates and the High Point netters dropped the third of four matches.

Niernsee found it hard to adapt himself to the playing of Goodman of Catawba in the first set and was unable to pull out more than one game in that set. Pulling himself together in the second set Frank settled down into the hard driving, well balanced form which is usually his, quickly taking the set 6-1. He then clinched the match by a 6-4 win in the final set. Jarrett also experienced difficulty in beating his opponent, taking the first set with a rush, 6-1, only to lose the second set, 3-6. The two men then fought it out in the final set reaching deuce not only in the games but in the set. Jarrett triumphed 6-4. Captain Rogers gave his man plenty of competition in the fourth match dropping two deuce sets, 6-4, 6-4.

The summaries:

High Point vs. Elon

YOWMEN PLAY DUKE "B" AT WILLIS PARK

Yowmen in two loop contests. Smiling "Hamp" Hampton, sophomore artist, has proven poison to the local batters this year, handing them both of the lefeats.

They play the fourth game game of the week Saturday afternoon in Greensboro when they meet the strong Mock-Judson team in an exhibition game.

Coach Yow had not decided yesterday afternoon upon the choice of pitchers for this afternoon's battle. Several hurlers should get a chance sometime during the 4 games to be played this week.

The Yowmen have gained an even break in the ten contests played to date. However the percentage in the North State conference is not as good. In the five loop gamcs played, the Yowmen have won two, defeating Atlantic Christian twice in a series, while losing two to Catawba and one to Lenoir Rhyne.

A plan is now being formulated in Paris to set up loan exchange between 1,000 students in the U. S. and France.

and a member of the I. T. K. fraternity. Mr. Holmes, of this year's freshman class, is a Thalean and a member of the I. T. K. fraternity.

Miss Mary Young, instructor of the Expert Endeavor cause, gave certificates to the following: Bernadine Hurley, Evelyn Lindley, Nell Blonde Bess, Agnes Louise Wilcox, Helen Hunter, Elise Kilpatrick, Paul Owen, Alson Thompson, Occo Gibbs, and Samuel Myers. These people are now entitled to wear the Expert Endeavor pen that can be worn only by those completing the course in that field.

Student Government Officials To Be Elected Today

Two Societies To Observe Annivirsary Day Saturday; Fred Pegg Chosen Speaker

Thaleans to Engage in Intra-Society Debate in Afternoon; Lois Hedgecock, Nikanthan President, To Be Crowned May Queen; Banquet To Conclude Event.

Classes will be dismissed Saturday for the annual Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day, which is regularly scheduled for the first Saturday in May. Features for the day will include a formal morning program, a May Day festival in the afternoon, and the society banquet in the evening.

Dr. Fred Pegg, of Winston-Salem, has been selected to deliver the address of the morning. It is customary to select some outstanding Thalean alumnus for this speech. Dr. Pegg, who graduated with the class of '29, is a reputable medical man. There will be student speakers also on the program.

Early in the afternoon, Occo Gibbs, G. W. Holmes, Ferman Wright, and J. S. Higgins will speak in the annual Thalean intra-society debate. The query is—Resolved: That North Caroling Should Abolish the Sales Tax. The division of speakers and their positions has not been announced.

The May Day festival, which has heretofore been exclusively the province of Nikanthans, this year takes in a number of people from the other campus literary societies. A number of Thaleans and Artemesians will assist in the pageant, "The Enchanted Thorn," which will be one of the major features of the festival. Lois Hedgecock, Nikanthan president, will be crowned Queen of May by Ann Moss, past president. Miss Hedgecock is prominent in campus affairs, and will Saturday evening at the society banquet receive the medal annually given by Miss Unity Nash, of High Point, to the most outstanding member of the Nikanthan society.

The joint society banquet which will take in the Thaleans, the Nikanthans, and their guests, will be centered on a tropical theme, with Hawaii supplying the setting. Miss Hedgecock and Hoyt Wood, Thalean president, will preside.

Senior Play Not To Be Given This Year

There will be no senior class play this year, it has been announced by the secretary of the class of '36.

Three one-act plays had been cast and were in rehearsal under the direction of Miss Margaret Hauser, of High Point. Miss Hauser is well-known for her finished dramatic productions, and the plays promised to be successful. The prime difficulty, however, was in securing a date. The plays were finally scheduled for last night, the night of April 28. Later, it was found that the date decided upon was in conflict with the baseball schedule. No satisfactory arrangements could be made; the result was the definite abandonment of the project.

The class regrets the necessity of giving up the presentation of a play. However, there is no alternative.

Fraternity Has Annual Banquet

Epsilon Eta Phi Holds Annual Dinner at Sedgefield Inn Saturday Night.

The members of the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity entertained their guests, alumni and honorary members at the annual "frat feed" last Saturday night at the Sedgefield Inn.

Good food, music, and short humorous speeches was sufficient to make the night a most enjoyable occasion for the large number of people present. The whole affair was carried out in an informal manner, with the tables arranged in cabaret style.

To their surprise, the revellers found that no program had been supplied for the occasion. With Toastmaster Broadus Culler directing the activities, the people present "took their turn" upon the call by Culler.

After the invocation by Mr. Edgar Hartley, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., and an honorary member of the fraternity, Prof. Yarborough responded to Culler's first call fo a speech. Using freely of his French, Professor had little trouble in taking up his allotted time in his talk.

Kermit Cloniger, alumni member, came next, and praised the men for their continued hard word in the organization. Rankin then said nothing in particular for two minutes.

Two active alumni members, Pinky Williams and Bill Snotherly came as the last speakers on the impromptu program, with each contributing to the success of the whole program.

Music for the evening was furnished by the Davis Brothers orchestra of Thomasville.

The men's dormitory council election will be held tonight.

Ferree, Wagoner Get Medals From Thalean Society

Local Ministerial Students Have Charge of Early Devotional Services.

Sulon Ferree was selected by acclamation to receive the Thalean Efficiency Medal at the meeting of the Society last Thursday night. This medal is awarded each year to the best all-round member of the organization.

Gilmer Wagoner was chosen as the freshman who has made the most improvement since coming into the Society. He will be awarded with the Lindley Improvement Prize, awarded by the Dean of the College.

Other features of the meeting were discussions on race problems in America. Leo Pittard compared the intelligence of different races. The Negro crime rate was discussed by Wilbur Walton, who gave interesting statistics comparing the black and white races.

In discussing the possibility of the ultimate merger of the races into one, Hoyt Wood pointed out that the great underlying difference in races is mental, and that this difference comes from environment.

The president announced that the officers for the coming year will be elected at the next regular meeting, which will be held tomorrow night.

After the Society had adjourned, the members met with the Nikanthans to practice songs for the May Day exercises Saturday.

Society Picnic Planned For Thursday Postponed

The joint picnic of the four campus literary societies which was planned for Thursday evening has been postponed because of a conflict with the College regulations of social events.

Instead of the picnic, the societies wil hold their regular meeting Thursday night. The Thalean society plans to elect officers for the coming year at this time.

Officials of the organizations hope that the joint picnic may be held at some later date that would conform with the College regulation.

May Queen

Lois Hedgecock, president of the Nikanthan Literary Society, who will be crowned May Queen at the Society Day celebration here Saturday.

Miss Smith Is Final College Lyceum Artist

Soprano Soloist Appears in Auditorium For Year's Concluding Number.

SLOAN PLAYS PIANO

Sings Six Groups of Songs Ranging From Opera Numbers to Folk Songs.

Miss Ethelynde Smith, a soprano soloist of Portland, Maine, gave a song recital in Robert Hall auditorium Friday night for the fifth and concluding lyceum attraction of the year.

The soloist was accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Sloan, head of the music department at the College.

The selections in the first group which Miss Smith sang were described as "Old Songs." In this group she sang "Sommi Dei," the aria of Polissena from the Italian opera "Radamisto," by George Frederich Handel. Next she sang "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free," written by Francis Hopkinson and described as the first American song. She concluded the group with Cecil Sharp's arrangement of an old English folk song, "Oh No, John," which was especially well received by the audience.

In her second group Miss Smith sang two German Lieder, "Traume," by Richard Wagner, and "Verrgebliches Standchen," by Johannes Brahams. For her third appearance Miss Smith sang "L'annee en vain chasse l'annee," an aria from the French opera "L'Enfant Prodigue," by Claude Debussy. An an encore she sang "The Marriage License."

From the Russian songs, the soloist gave "My Native Land," by Gretchanioff; "The Isle," by Serge Rachmanioff; and "The Lark," by Anton Rubenstein.

For her fifth group Miss Smith chose songs written by American women, singing "Treasure," by Lois Mills; "White Clouds," by Kathleen Lockhart Manning; and "Mornin' on Ze Bayou," a Louisiana Cajun folk song arranged by Lily Strickland. As an encore Miss Smith sang "Her Dream," by Frank Waller.

Miss Smith's sixth and concluding group of songs was described as "Songs of Youth." She sang "Little Brother's Lullaby," a Flemish folk song arranged by Jan Broeckx; "The Icicle," by Karolyn Wells Bassett; "Vespers," Fraser-Simpson's adaptation of A. A. Milne's poem; and "Mandy and the Spiders," by Lorraine Tombo. She was called back by the audience to sing two encores, "His First Haircut," and "Little Boy."

Miss Smith's program was the last on an ambitious schedule arranged by the College Lyceum committee. Besides Miss Smith, the committee has presented Wallace the Magician, Kryl's Band, the Twin City Glee Club, and Dr. A. M. Harding, astronomer.

Lighted Lamp Takes In Six New Members

Annual Tapping Ceremony Held Friday Morning For College Honor Society.

HINSHAW PRESIDES

Wilbur Hutchins, Miss Idol, Humphreys Speaks at Impressive Induction Service.

The second annual tapping ceremony for the Order of the Lighted Lamp, campus honor society, was held Friday morning in the College auditorium. Dorothy Bell, of Southport; Edith Crowder, High Point; Sulon Ferree, Tobaccoville; Virginia Grant, Garyburg; Alton Hartman, Advance; and Paul Owen, King, were the new members chosen.

The tapping ceremony was performed by Lois Hedgecock and Lincoln Fulk, both members of the class of '36, and the only remaining charter members of the society still at the College. Two other charter members, Emma Carr Bivins and Wilbur Hutchins, returned for the ceremony.

The meeting was opened with suitable devotionals under the direction of Dr. P. E. Lindley. Preliminary statements concerning the Order, which is comparatively new on the campus, were made by Dr. C. R. Hinshaw. The tapping following. As each new member was designated, he was conducted to the platform, where he sat for the remainder of the program. The newly chosen members were presented to President G. I. Humphreys by Dr. Hinshaw, and Dr. Humphreys, after a few remarks concerning the great honor and responsibility of membership, formally inducted them into the society.

The charter member address address was delivered by Mr. Hutchins, a graduate with the class of '35, now a student in the school of religion at Duke University. His remarks were directed toward an analysis of what education can do for men. He suggested that education creates within in a reverence for the past, a desire to live in the present, and a belief in the greatness of the future.

Miss Vera Idol, head of the English department, delivered the faculty address, the subject being "The Power of Leadership." She commended the establishing of honor organizations; she referred to the Order, with its fourfold requirements of scholarship, leadership, character, and service, as a new page in the "educational romance" which is being written at the College. Self-reverence, self-knowledge, and self-control she classed as the three keys unlocking the door to the right kind of leadership. "It is not so hard to bear the failure," she said, "but it takes someone in whom the elements of greatness be to accept success graciously and simply."

The meeting was closed with the school song, followed by the recessional.

Choir Sings At Raleigh Sunday

Burlington and Capital City Audiences Hear College Choral Organization.

The A Capella Choir took an all day trip to Raleigh, by way of Burlington last Sunday. At the eleven o'clock morning service the group gave a program at the First Methodist Protestant Church, Burlington. The house was well-filled, and the Choir was royally entertained with a picnic lunch after the concert.

In Raleigh the choristers sang at the First Baptist Church at the eight o'clock service. Here again a full house heard a concert given by the High Point College choir, that pretty well kept up its reputation of previous years by giving a very good program.

Thalean Prexy

Hoyt Wood, president of the Thalean Literary Society, who, with Lois Hedgecock, will preside over the Society Day activities here Saturday.

Holt Elected President Of Nike Societv

Graham Co-Ed Succeeds Lois Hedgecock as Head of Nikanthan Society.

NAME OTHER OFFICERS

Hurley Becomes Vice President, Walton Secretary, Phillips Treasurer.

Annie Fay Holt, of Graham, Thursday was elected president of the Nikanthan Literary Society for the ensuing year. Bernadine Hurley, of Troy, will support her as vice-president.

Miss Holt is a member of the class of '37, and for the past three years has been active in the affairs of the organization which she will head next year. She is especially prominent in women's sports, and is a charter member of the Woman's Athletic Association. This year she is chairman of the annual May Day festival which will be held on Saturday, May 2. She succeeds Lois Hedgecock, of High Point.

Miss Hurley also is active in athletics, and a member of the W. A. A. This year she served as monitor for the Nikanthans. She is a member of the Christian Endeavor Society. She succeeds Inza Hill, of Denton.

Margaret Walton, of Asheboro, who will serve as secretary for the society, is a member of the class of '39. She has had as yet little opportunity for active service, but she is a member of the Christian Endeavor Society and has been prominent in the affairs of her class. She takes over the position held this year by Cerelda Lackey, of Fallston.

Elizabeth Phillips, of Asheboro, will succeed Vesta Troxler as treasurer for the society. Miss Phillips is a member of the class of '38, active in class affairs. She has served on the Student Council for the past term, and has also been a member of the house council in Woman's Hall. She is a member of the Modern Priscilla Club and of the W. A. A.

Devotionals for the ensuing year will be in the hands of Iris

Charles Sharpe Speaks At Christian Endeavor Meet

Mr. Charles Sharpe, of Greensboro, spoke to the Christian Endeavor Society Sunday night concerning ways of finding God. Mr. Sharpe, superintendent of Moriah Methodist Protestant Church near Greensboro, was introduced by Leo Pittard, acting pastor of that church. Occo Gibbs was in charge of the program.

Next Sunday night will be consecration service, and the officers for the coming year will be installed. There will be a guest speaker, and all the members of the society and visitors are urged to attend.

Owen and Austin Nominees For President of Council; Bell Is Acclaimed Secretary

Four Students Up For Vice President; Election To Be Held Today by Secret Ballot in Foyer of Roberts Hall; Classes to Choose Monday.

Allen Austin, of High Point, and Paul S. Owen, of Shoals, will be voted upon today for president of the student government association. They were nominated at the student assembly Monday morning.

BULLETIN

Allen Austin, of High Point, today was elected president of the student government for next year, receiving a majority of the votes over Paul Owen.

A run-off election for vice president will be held Monday, May 4, between Alson Gray and Occo Gibbs. The polls will be open from 9:15 until 11:00 a. m., it has been announced by A. Lincoln Fulk, retiring president. Representatives to the council will be elected Monday at separate meetings of the four classes.

Students Shown College Movies For First Time

Harrison Makes Initial Showing of "Hip-Hip Hooray at High Point" Friday.

Students of High Point College last Friday night witnessed with both amusement and satisfaction the results of what was probably their first "screen test."

"The Hip-Hip Hooray at High Point," produced and directed by N. M. Harrison, promotional secretary of the College and campus photographer, was shown on the screen in Roberts Hall auditorium. Most of the actors and actresses in the educational drama were present for the film's premiere, with no likely indication of a sudden migration to Hollywood in quest of high screen honors. Mingled cheers and boos came up as the critical audience recognized each new face shown upon the silver screen.

A variety of campus scenes, many beautifully done in technicolor, were shown Friday night. The views ranged from early fall to the heavy snowfalls of midwinter.

Faculty members and students were shown at work and play as the picture portrayed the life of the average student at High Point College. Freshman initiation, hikes, classroom work, "the largest snow battle among college students ever filmed," gruelling soccer games, and numerous other activities were refreshed in the memory of the students as the celluloid strip unwound through the projector.

An outstanding feature of the film was a series of technicolor views of the families of several faculty members. Dr. Humphreys, Dr. Lindley, Dr. Kennett, Professor Allred, Dr. Hinshaw, and Mr. Spessard were all pictured in family poses in front of their own homes. The Yarboroughs were shown in informal poses on the campus, as were several other members of the teaching staff.

The picture shown Friday night represented something less than half of the total amount of film that Mr. Harrison has taken throughout the year. None of his movies made during the last few weeks were shown, and much of his earlier work was culled out of the first showing. He plans to make an extensive showing of the film throughout the state in his campaign to arouse interest in the College. He promises a showing of more views here at an early date.

Occo Gibbs, of Gibsonville; Elizabeth Phillips, of Asheboro; James Mattocks, of High Point; and Alson Gray, of High Point, all members of the rising junior class were nominated for vice president.

Dorothy Bell, of Southport, a member of the incoming senior class, was chosen by acclamation to be secretary of the council for next year. Since she had no opposition for the position, her name will not appear on the ballot.

Miss Bell has served as junior representative on the council during the past year. She is managing editor of THE HI-PO, a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society, and was recently tapped for the Order of the Lighted Lamp. She has participated in the annual inter-society debates for the past two years, and she was a member of the winning team this year.

For the first time in the history of student government at the College, the elections are being held by secret ballot, with an intervening period of time between nominations and elections. Ballot boxes have been placed in the foyer of Roberts Hall and voting will take place today from 8:30 until 11:30 a. m. Student council members who are not candidates for office will act as election officials.

Representatives to the council will be chosen by each of the four classes next Monday morning. Each class elects two representatives, with the specification that one must be a boy, the other a co-ed, one a day student, the other a dormitory resident. A treasurer will be elected by the new council from its own membership.

College Conducts Morning Services At Station WMFR

Ferree Receives Efficiency Medal, Wagoner Freshman Improvement Prize.

Members of the College Ministerial Association were in charge of the series of devotional services conducted over the local radio station, WMFR, last week.

Hoyd Wood was in charge of the service Monday morning. Music for his program was provided by Vesta Troxler and Iris Welch, who sang, with Agnes Louise Wilcox at the piano.

Tuesday moning J. S. Higgins had charge of the devotionals, using studio transcription facilities for his music.

Odell Brown appeared Wednesday morning, with Ferman Wright singing and Charles Ostwald playing the piano.

Samuel Myers was in charge of Thursday's devotional service. Wilbur Walton and Wright sang at this time accompanied by Ostwald.

Leo Pittard talked Friday morning. Miss Margarct Sloan, head of the College music department, played a piano solo.

Lee Moser concluded the College series with the devotional service Saturday morning. At this time a quartette consisting of Wright, Walton, Pittard and Moser sang, accompanied at the piano by Lena Hunter.

Several of the College ministerial students had broadcast before last week under the sponsorship of the city ministerial association. According to the present arrangement at the studio, each church in the city has charge of the devotionals for an entire week, and the campus ministerial association was asked to provide speakers and music last week.

STUDENTS FOR NEXT YEAR

An interesting and patriotic avocation for the summer is the duty of persuading high school graduates to attend High Point College next year. While it is true that the administration maintains a full-time promotional secretary and sometimes employs additional solicitors, they cannot possibly contact every prospective student in the communities represented in the present student body. Then, too, a word of enthusiasm spoken by a student at the College is likely to have an important bearing upon a high school senior's decision.

It is not necessary to paint a rose-colored picture of conditions here, but neither should one discount the obvious advantages offered at High Point. And above all, stress the fact that any school is, to a very large extent, what the students make it. Follow the activities of any college student body and you will find crusades for this and that, some failing, others succeeding; you will find chronic fault-finders in any school who draw a dismal picture of the whole place. No, High Point is by no means unique in its shortcomings, and it has advantages untouched by many schools.

Congeniality is, after all, a welcome background for a college career, especially during the trying first months of one's freshman year. If you have a friend who is interested in attending college you can at least offer him the prospect of a continued friendship. Of course we expect to have a better High Point College next year—and why not bring in a few freshmen who can help us build and share this improvement?

ENDEAVORERS DO A GOOD WORK

The Christian Endeavor Society has always been most active on the campus, taking in as it does a large portion of the resident students. But often toward the end of the year, edged out by the intensive programs of other bodies, it has gone into a decline from which it did not revive until the beginning of the fall emester. As this year nears its close, we feel justified in commending the officers who have kept the organization "On its toes" during the past months and who continue to ..o so now.

The Society's record this year has been unusual. Where often in the past it has come through by the proverbial eyelash financially, it has this year inaugurated a competitive system which has provided funds to cover its pledges to various philanthropic causes. It has kept up a higher rate of attendance. And its programs have been consistently of a high quality. Some of its members attended the International Peace Conference at Indianapolis, returning with material and enthusiasm to "set off" new reactions to international problems and to attach a new religious significance to the cause of world peace.

It is often suggested that campus societies are full of "dead wood," that they satisfy no need, that they are not fulfilling their duties. We believe that the Christian Endeavor Society this year has done that which is expected of it, and that the society so administered will be a power for good.

"Quotable Quotes"

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"One may sympathize with struggling youth," says Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford, urging higher medical school standards," but one should sympathize more with future patients."

"It is encouraging that so many people are dying of cancer." Yale's Dr. Howard W. Gaggard goes on to prove that present cancer mortality rates prove that the young no longer succumb to the dread malady, that the end of the fight against it is in sight.

"And yet the paradox of the situation is that now, just when we most need freedom and fearlessness in the school's handling of the basic issues of the time, waves of popular hysteria against a free and fearless scholarship begin to beat over the schools." Wisconsin's President Glenn Frank views with alarm.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

If you are one of those who has perfected the trick of lying, sluggard-like, abed until only a mad gulp and a gallop will bring you to your first hour class on time—take refuge in history.

The inclination to wait for "one more minute" and to arrive in class in a frowsy state, is very old among students, leclare historians of Princean University. They have found an old diary of a junior of 1786, who had to rise at five o'clock instead of seven or eight.

And so that proctors need not credit the claim that "I didn't hear the alarm clock" the "college servant" always knocked on the door in addition. Typical entry by the junior: "Hear the knocking and fall asleep again. Don't wake till second bell done, get up in great hurry—go into Hall unbuttoned, not time to light candle nor unrake fire, near being tardy."

While on this subject, may we introduce Dr. A. J. Williams, professor of geology at the University of Okahoma, whom, we feel, ought to be brought to trial for setting a bad example. This gentleman for 20 long years has requested eight o'clock classes every day. He likes it. The reason he gives is even more degrading and dangerous than the practice—he does it because he wants to get in an extra hour's work each day!

* * *

Editors of the Daily Northwestern, at Evanston, Illinois, apparently believe with others that the function of the daily newspaper is changing in America. At the top of their sheet one reads: "Paragraphs set in italics are interpretive, explanatory or editorial comment. This material is not to be considered factual."

Careful search of the issue by the writer failed, however, to reveal a single italic.

We join the writer in the University of Washington Daily in expressing profound shock that the spirit of April Fool does indeed seem to be dead among the youth of the land. Can you, reader, recall a single real April Fool's joke perpetrated on any American campus this year?

Nor can Dean Condon of Wasnington, who has been there since 1903. Furthermore, he can't remember a single one on that campus in all those 33 years.

The Washington writer suggests that the tradition was begun by Noah when he sent out that first dove, looking for land.

University of North Carolina students, convinced that you have to know how to pull strings to get ahead in the world, or maybe thinking they will learn to be dictators, are enrolling in a course of puppetry.

Unimportant but interesting survey:

Taken in three southern California colleges, indicates that most students seem to believe soft, melodic music at the elbow is conducive to study and concentration.

A minority thought not, citing the requent interruptions by announcers who talk through their noses.

A majority of the professors think not also, maintaining that radios cause laxity in studies, that concentration simply cannot be complete with music in the room.

On the sunny, leafy campus of Stanford University there is an air of expectancy, of uncertainty. What everyone is thinking of at the moment is—how will David Lamson be received back at the school after his three years in prison?

The reception of the man who finally won acquittal after three trials for wife-murder interests the columnist on the Stanford Daily who writes, "it would be a glorious opportunity to prove sincerity or hypocrisy." Despite the reception, says the writer, Lamson "will be known as a Stanford man who has won a fight greater than most Stanford men ever have to face."

That sort of columning, by the way, looks well alongside the genin so many campus publications. in so amny campus publications.

POE'S POEM IS LINKED WITH EINSTEIN THEORY

Similar Views Found in "Eureka" and in Scientist's Latest Theory.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Burlington, Vt.—Einstein's latest theory—that gravitation and electricity combine to form solid matter, a development of his theory of electrical bridges between shells of space—has been related to Edgar Allan Poe's prose poem "Eureka" by Prof. Julian I. Lindsay of the University of Vermont.

Poe's work defined gravitation as attraction, which he calls the principle of the body, and electricity as repulsion of the principle of the soul. No other principles exist, says Poe. All are referable to one or the other of these two, which stand for the material and the spiritual priciples of the universe.

"Discarding now the two equicoval terms"—to quote from 'Eureka'—"let us adopt the more definite expression, 'attraction' and 'repulsion'. The former is the body, the latter the soul; the one is the material, the other the spiritual principle of the Universe. No other principles exist. All phenomena are referable to one, or to the other, or to both combined. So rigorously is this the case, so thoroughly demonstrable is it that attraction and repulsion are the sole properties through which we perceive the universe — in other words, by which Matter is manifested to Mind—that, for all merely argumentative purposes, we are fully justified in assuming that matter exists only as attraction and repulsion—that attraction and repulsion are matter; there being no conceivable case in which we may not emply the term 'Matter' and the terms 'Attraction' and 'Repulsion' taken together, as equivalent and, therefore, convertible, expressions in logic."

ADVANCEMENT MADE IN "ROCKET SHIPS"

Smithsonian Institute Receives Report of New Travel Developments.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C.—Progress in actual scientific development of a "rocket ship" which may eventually carry a human being to enormous heights has been reported at the Smithsonian Institute here.

Although admitting the great practical difficulties in the way of even the first step, Smithsonian scientists announced that Dr. Robert H. Goddard, of Clark University, has developed a satisfactory motor for the rocket. It is a combustion chamber from which are ejected the exploding liquids which give propulsion power, and it yields the terrific horsepower of 200 per pound of its own weight, with possible speeds as high as 700 miles an hour.

The inventor has spent 15 years in study and experimentation in rocket development, and has a specially constructed laboratory at Roswell, N. M.

COUPLE TRY UNUSUAL MARRIAGE EXPERIMENT

Two Separate After Ceremony Until Each Graduates From College.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Pittsburgh, Po. — Two students have been married here under the terms of a unique agreement which permits them to go back to college without facing the necessity of maintaining a home.

Ellen Jane Wakefield, 18, and Donald D. Hyland, also 18, separated after the ceremony in St. Paul's Cathedral that made them man and wife, Mrs. Hyland to return to the Maryland College for Women and the groom to go back to his classes at Duquesne University.

Their parents made the marriage possible so that the students could be pledged to one another without ending their college careers.

The bride will learn to cook, she says, so as to be ready to start housekeeping after graduation.

GILDERSLEEVE TALKS EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

Barnard College Dean Says Education Should Make Life Interesting.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Should girls be educated? If so, why, and how far?"

Thus pondered Barnard's famed Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve in a discussion with trustees, faculty and guests of Milwaukee-Downer Seminary last week.

Answering her own questions in the talk she called "Making Life More Interesting," Miss Gildersleeve summed up her views with the remark that she believed the primary reason for giving a college education to women was to make life more interesting to them and to make them more interesting to their families.

"When there were candles to be made, and such home occupations," she said, the more women in the home the better. Maiden aunts were welcome. But maiden aunts are not so welcome now—just to sit by the fire and be supported."

This, Miss Gildersleeve declared, indicated that women should develop their own abilities to work and play—whether in the field of Egyptology, medieval Chinese paintings, or badminton.

Dean Gildersleeve explained that with the ever expanding field of government there is ample opportunity for women in civic life. Women, she said, have more leisure for politics than have men.

In the field of human relations a college education is valuable, the speaker said, because—she cited statistics—college educated women, once married, tend to stay so. In other words, divorce among college women is much rarer than in the case of non-college women.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH IS ASKED IN LEGION BOOK

New York County Veterans Call Halt on Abuse of Political Opponents.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City—Flatly advocating freedom of speech and the search for truth, the New York County American Legion last week issued a book that is designed as a guide for all Legion speakers and called a halt on all attempts to "abuse or silence" those who differ with them on government forms of policies.

But the book does warn its readers that dictatorship by "a person or by an special group" would mean "the intolerant suppression by an armed force of democracy, justice and liberty."

"Never was it more necessary than now for all Americans to support their right to freedom of speech and freedom to listen and learn," the booklet says. "We live in a period of bewildering changes. Some nations have shifted convulsively from one form of government to another overnight; others waver between various forms.

"We face the fact that many people, recently converted to new and undemocratic forms of government, are eager to bring about similar changes here in America. Some of their ideas may be new to us; some may seem dangerous. Nevertheless, believing in freedom of speech for others as well as for ourselves, we must not attempt to abuse or silence them."

MEN BEAT CO-EDS IN WORLD AFFAIRS TEST

Males Still Favor Sports and Comic Sections in Newspaper Reading.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Although male students are markedly superior to co-eds in knowledge of the world's affairs gained through newspaper reading, they still favor the sports section and the comic strips, to judge from results of a test given at St. Petersburg Junior College.

With a score of 60 set as "good," those taking the test averaged 41.5. The president of the International Relations Club, in his test named Hamilton Fish, Jr., and Robert M. LaFollette as the diplomats who proposed the Anglo-French plan for settling the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Locals In Double Win Over Eastern Carolina Pirates; Culler and Dorsett Pitch

Panthers Win Opener by Count of 7 to 5 With Culler on Mound; Dorsett Turns in 9-8 Victory in Nightcap.

The High Point Panther baseball nine showed real power at the plate Monday afternoon as they constantly drove out singles and doubles just at the right times during the course of the fourteen innings of a double header with the well-seasoned Eastern Carolina Teacher's College ball club on the Willis Park diamond, to win 7-5, 9-8.

Broadus Culler and Ishmael Dorsett, versatile High Point College players, stole the spotlight during yesterday's series to give the decidedly "home team" fans thrills not only at the plate but in the field and on the pitcher's mound. Trying to outdo his usual stellar playing at shortstop where he is a regular, Culler gave up only six hits and five runs while assuming the mound duties of the Panther team in the initial game, giving the regular pitchers some real pointers before the final inning. Dorsett did his best to equal his teammate's record, allowing the teachers very few telling blows while on the mound in the second game.

The teacher's second man up in the initial game banged out a double to start the hitting and also the scoring for the day as he came in on an error by Martin at shortstop. This, however, was soon equaled and surpassed by Koontz, High Point's hard-hitting second baseman, and Dorsett, then playing the center field position, as they led their team in singles and triples.

A perfect double play in the third, one of the outstanding features of the game, as Culler fielded a low bounding ball, throwing to Koontz and Koontz throwing to Towery gave the Teachers a chance to score only one run during that period. Harris circled the bases after securing a safety in the latter part of the third to break a tie which had come about as a result of that hit which held until the fifth inning as Culler retired the side in one, two, three order while being ably supported at the play by his teammates with a run in the fourth rack as Elder doubled and Koontz singled. With runners on second and third in the latter part of the sixth, Diamont, Panther catcher, got a well placed single to score both players before he himself came home on a lead which was unchallenged in a steal and a bad throw, piling up the last frame.

The second game, pretty much a replica of the first, was featured by a home run by Gibson, the visitor's right fielder, in the first inning. The Yowmen quickly built up a lead which was not overcome until the very last inning after getting over the circuit clout scare and though Dorsett did not receive the support

Racqueteers Renew Court Campaign Friday In Match Against Quakers

The Purple Panther racquet squad will take the courts here Friday afternoon in their seventh contest of the year when they meet a strong Guilford College aggregation for the first time this season in an effort to pull their average up another notch.

The Pointers, after taking the initial match of the year when they outpointed Appalachian, 4-3, have lost much of their steam because of lack of a place to practice and favorable weather conditions and have failed to match this first win by any other victories so far this year. Still hampered by the bad practicing conditions, the netmen have gotten in as much good practice as possible and hope to give the Quakers a real scare if not a defeat.

Frank Niernsee, stellar number one man, will probably take on the top position as usual while Jarrett, Setzer, Rogers, White and Hornaday take their places in order in the remaining niches. These men have become pretty well seasoned during their preceding six contests and will probably show even more skill than usual.

Captain Rogers announces that the place of play is not as yet fully decided upon although it is hoped that the Blair Park courts can be secured in order to give neither team the advantage because of bad court conditions.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED TO WATCH CLASH

Contest to Start at 3:30; Two Teams Meet at Elon Saturday.

Finishing their two game series with the Lenoir Rhyne Bears at Hickory this afternoon, the Panthers will return to Willis Park tomorrow afternoon for the first clash of the year with their traditional rivals, Coach "Peahead" Walker's Elon Christians. The game is slated to begin at 3:30.

Marked as the "big game of the year" for the home forces, the battle is expected to draw a large crowd of students and local baseball fans out to the park. In all probability, arrangements will be made to carry the students to the scene of action in the College bus.

The ancient rivals were scheduled to meet here on April 9, but a cold rain that day stopped any action on the baseball field. Last year the Panthers won their first clash with the Christians on the baseball field in eleven years of fighting, gaining an even break in the two game series.

Champions of the North State loop for the past six seasons, the Christians are finding their pennant monopoly in danger this time as the conference race appears an wide-open affair. The Catawba Indians loom as strong contenders, along with High Point and other teams. The Christians had a tough time defeating the Guilford Quakers in two games, both by the count of 2-1, while the Panthers "went to town" against the Quakers last Thursday afternoon.

Harris, who pitched the locals to their victory over the Elonites last year, will probably get the call for action tomorrow.

This will be the fifth number of a seven-game week for the Yowmen. Starting with a double-header against the Pirates on Monday, they have played the Bears two, meet Elon tomorrow, Duke "B" nine here Friday, Elon again at Elon Saturday.

After a slow start, the Pointers have showed more punch in the past week, displaying an uncanny ability to hit in the "pinches." Several of the games have been won in the last rack, as the Panthers came through with that needed punch.

Eighth Inning Rally Gives Lenoir Rhyne 7 to 6 Victory Over Panthers.

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears rallied in the eighth inning to defeat the Panthers by the count of 7 to 6 in a conference contest at Hickory yesterday afternoon. The teams meet in the second game of their series there this afternoon.

Aided by a home run by Grigg in the fifth scoring three runs, the Panthers were leading by the score of 6 to 4 as the last of the eighth began.

The loss balanced the Panthers' percentage in the conference standings at .500, with four on each side of the ledger.

Mock-Judson Wins Game From Locals

Dave Barbee Leads Greensboro Club With 3 Home Runs and Single.

Dave Barbee, slugging third baseman and former major league player, led the Mock-Judson nine to a 14-to-6 victory over the High Point College Panthers in an exhibition contest on the Greensboro grounds Saturday afternoon.

In four trips to the plate, Barbee poled out three home runs and a single to feature in the slugfest. Coach Yow started Booth on the mound, but went in himself at the beginning of the seventh, after the Greensboro club had pounded Booth for eight hits and seven runs.

A desperate rally in the ninth rack fell short, although the Yowmen pushed five runs across the plate before the side was retired.

Koontz, Harris and Dorsett led the hitting attack for the locals. One of Koontz' blows went for four bases, while Harris gained three hits in five trips to the plate.

PANTHERS DEFEAT INDIANS; 'HAMP' DRIVEN FROM MOUND

Brinkley in Top Form as Relief Pitcher, Allowing No Hits in Six Racks; Fourth Loop Victory; Final Score 9-6.

An eighth inning rally producing six runs gave the High Point College nine a 9 to 6 victory over the Catawba Indians at Willis Park Friday afternoon, snapping the winning streak of the Indians at eight straight in the North State Conference.

The win was the second in two days at the local park over conference foes, and was the fourth loop win in seven starts for the Yowmen. They have now won a total of seven in the dozen they have played.

Winner over the Pointers twice this season, "Hamp" Hampton was again the mound choice of Coach Kirkland, and he started off in good shape. In the second rack the Panthers scored two runs on one hit by Koontz and errors, but were then held hitless until the seventh frame. Doubles by Diamont, Panther catcher, and Martin produced another marker in this inning.

The Indians scored early in the game to lead 6 to 3 at the end of the seventh. Harris started on the mound for the Panthers, but was nicked for seven hits in the first three frames, which coupled with three errors on the part of his teammates, produced six runs. Bickett slammed out a home un in the third inning to feature in this attack.

Brinkley, sophomore twirler for Coach Yow's nine, relieved Harris at the beginning of the fourth, and retired the first three men to face him. He appeared to have the Indians' number as he continued to hold the invaders hitless throughout the six innings he hurled. His superb relief pitching was without doubt one of the outstanding features of the game.

The eighth inning brought about the downfall of Hampton. After Hampton has walked one man in, Diamont doubled with the bases loaded to tie the count at 6-6. Brown relieved Hampton at this time, but was greeted with a double off the bat of Martin,

Yowmen Swamp Guilford Club, 13-4, In Loop Contest At Willis Park

Scoring seven runs in the sixth rack, the High Point College nine routed the Guilford Quakers by the score of 13 to 4 at Willis Park Thursday afternoon for their third win in six North State conference contests.

Athough they were outhit by the Guilford nine, who gained 13 while the Panthers secured 11, the Yowmen bunched their hits more effectively. They had two big innings, the third when they pushed four markers across the platter, and the sixth when they drove Swaim to the showers.

"Lefty" Rudisill, veteran Panther southpaw, went the full route for the locals. Although they nicked him for 12 hits, he was able to keep them well-scattered and had the Quakers under his control.

Swaim started on the mound for the Guilford team and gave up six hits before he was removed in the sixth. Boles relieved him with the bases loaded and was greeted by Culler with a terrific smash over the right field fence. Higgins took over the mound duties in the seventh to finish the contest.

The Quakers scored one run in each of the first three innings to lead 3-0 when the Panthers came to bat at the end of the third. Until this time Swaim had held the Yowmen hitless, but they touched him for three hits and two walks in this rack to score four runs. Koontz, with a double, and Harris, who hit a homer with two mates on the bases, featured in this scoring spree.

A triple by Kyle in the fifth, driving in Weston who had singled, gave the Quakers their fourth and last run of the game.

Only three hits were marked up for the locals in the sixth inning when they scored seven runs. Errors, walks, and wild pitches, together with the fact that Culler's circuit blow came with three men aboard accounted for the heavy scoring.

A hard drive by "Pepper" Martin, Panther third sacker, in the seventh rack failed to clear the fence by a small margin and went for a double.

Dorsett, with three bingles in five trips, also featured for the locals with the stick, while Capella, Quaker center fielder, had a perfect day in four times at the plate, gaining four singles.

Featuring in the field for the Panthers, Culler made several

CLASS TEAMS PLAY FINALS IN SOFTBALL

Final Plans Made For Field Day; Students to Engage in Several Events.

The first annual Intra-Mural Field Day will start this afternoon on Boylin Terrace at 3 o'clock, when the entrants from each class will line up for the starter's gun in the 100 yard dash.

Ray Intrieri, chairman of the student committee of arrangements, stated yesterday afternoon that everything was ready for the big event. Preliminaries were held in the softball tournament yesterday afternoon, and the freshmen and sophomores will battle for the title this afternoon.

The schedule of events follow: 100 yard dash; 1 mile run; 440 yard run; 220 yard dash; 880 yard run; half-mile relay race (4 men); broad jump; shot put; 3 legged race; softball finals between sophomores and freshmen.

All men students are eligible to participate in the event, regardless of what varsity team they may be a member. Many class teams will be weakened by the loss of men on the baseball trip.

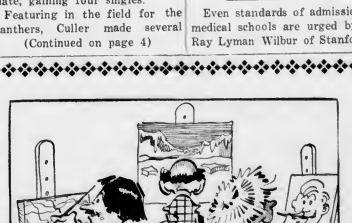

There are no qualifications for entrance in any of the events with the exception of the 440 yard and 220 yard runs. During trial runs yesterday afternoon four men qualified in each of these events. Jarrett, freshman, led the field in the 440 yard, with Parson, junior, second; Gibbs, freshman, third; and Myers, junior, fourth. In the 220 yard dash, Rogers, junior, came in first in the first heat, with Grimes second. Ellington, freshman, led the second pack, with Thompson, junior, second. These four, Rogers, Grimes, Ellington, and Thompson will run in the finals this afternoon.

The freshmen had little trouble in eliminating the junior softball team winning by the overwhelming score of 25 to 1. Fitzgerald, Thompson, and Dawson, each tried their turn on the mound in an effort to stop the yearlings, but countless errors on the part of the third year fielders threw away the contest. Fitzgerald led the losers at bat with three hits, while practically every member of the freshman team claimed one or more safe blows.

The sophomores, playing a winning brand of ball, behind the hard-hurling Intrieri, won their way into the finals with a 18 to 7 victory over the seniors. Garlington led the winners at the plate with three safeties, with the rest of the men contributing two each.

Even standards of admission to medical schools are urged by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford.

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

OUR PRINTING sinks to a degree of satisfaction, pushes the theromometer to a friendship level and we shave the price as close as good printing will merit.

CHESTERFIELD TO HAVE NEW RADIO BROADCAST

Andre Kostelanetz' Orchestra to Replace Winter Series; Pons Continues.

A program of dance music and leading song hits every Friday night, at ten o'clock New York Daylight Saving Time is replacing the Saturday night broadcasts sponsored by Chesterfield Cigarettes throughout the winter season. The new series will feature Andre Kostelanetz' 45-piece dance orchestra with Kay Thompson and Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers. David Ross will be the announcer.

The Lily Pons programs with Kostelanetz' Concert Orchestra and Chorus will continue as usual on Wednesday evenings. Just recently, on a nation-wide poll of radio editors, Miss Pons was voted the most ppular singer in her field.

As to the new Friday night entertainments, Kostelanetz has selected forty-five musicians—thirty-seven of whom were chosen from famous dance bands throughout the country. "We are going to try and show there's more variety and color in dance music than people ever dreamed of," Kostelanetz states. The versatile orchestra will play fox trots, rhumbas, waltzs, boleros, "swing" music and novelties from the best dance music. Supporting the orchestra, Kostelanetz will have Kay Thompson, popular radio singer; Ray Heatherton, romantic baritone, and the Rhythm Singers.

Considering the size and makeup of the orchestra, and the singing stars who will be featured, this new program promises to be in keeping with the Chesterfield standard of radio entertainment.

Bates Named To Head Priscillas

Winston-Salem Co-Ed Elected President of Home Economics Organization.

Dr. Fred Pegg Speaks Here At Literary Society Festival Of Thaleans and Nikanthans

Winston-Salem Physician, Former Thalean Member, Urges Students to Keep Pace With Modern Scientific Progress; Annual Banquet Held.

Dr. Fred Pegg, of Winston-Salem, a graduate of the class of '30, was the principal speaker at the morning program of the eighth annual Thalean-Nikanthan Society Day, Saturday, May 2.

Dr. Pegg, who is among the alumni members of the Thalean society, began his address with references to the almost phenomenal progress made in science and mechanics in the last century. He spoke of the radio, of various labor-saving devices, of the great work of Pasteur in the field of bacteriology. He referred to the great Chinese Clipper of the air, contrasting it with the sailing ship which took weeks to eross the ocean. But the great difficulty now, said the speaker, is that we, like the scientist Frankenstein, do not know how to control the things which we have created.

Dr. Pegg cited the automobile as an example of this difficulty. It is, he admitted, almost a necessity in this age; but the horrors of past wars are overshadowed by the number of deaths occurring each year from automobile accidents. With the invention of devices to save man's labor and to give him time for profitable leisure, unemployment increases and with it human suffering. The scientific discoveries which were believed to be beneficial to man are being used to destroy life in the most cold-blooded warfare.

The transgression of the laws of nature and of that force which we may call God or human ideals does not bring success, said the speaker. Rather it is necessary that we discover the best laws and follow them. Through this course, and this course alone, can we secure real and lasting success.

Dr. Pegg was introduced by Hoyt Wood, '36, Thalean president, following a brief welcome by Lois Hedgecock, president of the Nikanthan society. Sulon Ferree, '36, opened the program with a short devotional period.

During the program the songs of both societies were sung, and the meeting closed with the singing of the College song.

Annual Banquet Held

Grass skirts, palm trees, sail boats, gay colors, and tropical music helped to make their "Evening in Hawaii" a delightful one for the Thaleans, Nikanthans, and their guests at the annual joint society banquet held in the College dining hall Saturday night.

The program, most of it written in what purported to be Hawaiian, proved to be intriguing. Although the speakers often wondered just what the strange words beside their

Haworth Speaks To Endeavorers

Local Attorney Talks to Christian Society on Crime Prevention.

Byron Haworth, a High Point lawyer, was the speaker at the Christian Endeavor installation service Sunday evening. Mr. Haworth spoke on endocrinology, the science which is proving so valuable in the study of causes of crime. He urged the Endeavorers to consecrate themselves to the task of putting a stop to the sweep of crimes in the United States.

Special music for the evening was supplied by Professor J. H. Mouranc who sang "Come Unto Me, Ye Weary." Miss Beulah Moton accompanied him at the piano.

The installation was in chargo of Miss Mary Young, counsellor for the society. As the officers took their respective pledges, they lighted candles from a large one representing the Truth and the Light. Negative Wins Annual Meet

Gibbs, Holmes Victors in Sales Tax Argument; Higgins Receives Prize.

Debating on the negative side of the query, G. W. Holmes and Occo Gibbs defeated Ferman Wright and J. S. Higgins in the annual intra-Thalean debate held in connection with Society Day here Saturday.

Although on the losing team, Higgins was awarded the Thalean Debating cup, donated by Perkinson Jewelry Store, for the best speech given during the debate.

The query used by the debaters was Resolved: That the Legislature of North Carolina Should Abolish the Sales Tax.

The affirmative team, arguing that the sales should be abolished, contended that it is an unfair tax, one that is not levied according to ability to pay. They pointed out that it falls hardest on those least able to pay, that the lower one's income the higher the proportion that goes to the sales tax. The affirmative speakers also attempted to prove that the tax is unequally collected and is more expensive to be administered than other forms of taxation.

The negative team, on the other hand, maintained that the tax is fair and just because it reaches a class of people who pay tax through no other channel. They said that the sales tax distributes the burden according to benefits received. They also contended that the sales levy is indispensable to the state school and road system, and that it takes a great burden from farms and other property.

The judges for the debate Saturday were Clayton Glasgow, William Snotherly, and Milbourne Amos, all former students at the College.

Inza Hill Named To Head Woman's Dormitory Group

Denton Co-Ed Succeeds Grant as President of Dormitory Council.

Inza Hill, of Denton, a member of the incoming senior class, was on Monday evening selected as president of the Woman's Dormitory Council succeeding Virginia Grant, of Garysburg.

The new president is a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society and of the Woman's Athletic Association. She has been active in the affairs of her class, and on Monday morning was chosen class secretary for the ensuing year. Vesta Troxler, of Burlington, will support her in the Woman's Council as vice-president, succeeding Lillian Varner, of Morganton. Miss Troxler is also a Nikanthan and a member of the W. A. A. She is active in the campus Christian Endeavor Society, and the A Cappella choir.

Marguerite ("Peg") Jenkins, of Frostburg, Maryland, succeeds Gladys Maxwell, of Henderson, as secretary to the Council. Miss Jenkins is an Artemesian, a member of the choir, and publicity manager for the W. A. A. Mary Baity, of Henderson, an Artemesian and a Sigma Alpha Phi, will serve as treasurer, succeeding Elizabeth Phillips, of Asheboro. Miss Phillips, in turn, succeeds Miss Troxler as Head Proctor.

A representative will be elected from the freshman class early in the fall. Helen Bates served as freshman Council member this year.

As is customary, new and old officers will serve together until the close of the semester. The election was preceded by a few practical remarks by Miss Mary Young.

May Day Fete Is Presented Saturday P.M.

Lois Hedgecock Is Crowned May Queen at Annual Celebration Here Saturday.

HELD ON FRONT LAWN

Mary Parham Acts as Maid of Honor; Thaleans, Nikes in Cast of Pantomime.

The annual May Day festival took place on the lawn of Woman's Hall at five o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The program was divided into two parts: the coronation of the queen, Lois Hedgecock, and the pantomime which was presented for her entertainment.

The procession led by the heralds, Doris Hedgecock and Pauline Parker, began at the front entrance of Woman's Hall, and proceeded along the Court Road to the throne which had been erected at the east end of the lawn. The flowergirls were followed by Queen Elizabeth (Unity Nash), Sir Walter Raleigh (Virginia Grant), the crown bearer, the Maid of Honor (Mary Parham), the queen, and the ladies of her court. The queen was crowned by Anne Moss, last year's queen.

Following her coronation the queen demanded entertainment and was diverted with the pageant in pantomime, "The Enchanted Thorn," which pictured the results of a spell laid on a thorn tree by cruel witches. In the course of the pantomime dances were featured by a group of "milkmaids," and by fairies supplied from Mrs. Davis' dancing classes. The pantomime closed with the Maypole dance.

Miss Parham, the Artemesian president, was chosen as maid of honor because of her position. The Nikanthan society sponsors the festival, and the usual courtesy was extended to Miss Parham, who was becomingly dressed in blue chiffon. Little Betsy White, Nikanthan mascot, was crown bearer, and the train bearers were Mary Alice Fulton and Joan Crowder, junior and senior class mascots. The flower girls were Betty Lydick and Martha Ingram.

The ladies of the court were chosen from the senior class rather than from the honorary society members, as has been customary. They were Pattie Bartee, Edith Crowder, Dorothy McCollum, Christine Latham, Catherine Farlow, Laura Fritts, Juanita Haworth, and Hazel Welborn.

The cast of the pantomime included Faye Holt, J. E. Garlington, Leo Pittard, Elizabeth Bagwell, and Samuel Myers in the principal roles.

Owen Is Chosen Society Leader By Akrothinians

Men's Literary Society Elects New Officers for Fall Semester of '36.

Paul Owen, a rising senior, of Shoals, Thursday was elected president of the Akrothinian Literary Society for the coming year, succeeding George Ingle.

Owen, a member of the Order of the Lighted Lamp, has been active in the Society for three years. He served as president for the first semester of this year, and he has served as secretary and chairman of the program committee. He is a member of Iota Tau Kappa fraternity.

Sheldon Dawson, of Salisbury, Maryland, was chosen vice president to succeed W. W. Weisner. Dawson, a rising senior, is now secretary of the Society, and he has served on the program committee.

Wilson Rogers, of Denton, was named secretary, succeeding Dawson. George Crowell, of Trinity, was elected treasurer, to succeed David Cooper. Alson Gray was chosen critic for next year, succeeding Wilson Rogers. Porter Hauser was selected to be chaplain; Max Rogers, marshal; Edward Stirewalt, assistant secretary, and Harry Ershler, assistant marshal.

The new offices for the year will be installed at the next regular meeting tomorrow night.

Niernsee Is Class Prexy Second Term

Southport Man Chosen to Head Class of '38 for Second Straight Year.

INTRIERI VICE PRES.

Rising Juniors Choose Bagwell Secretary and Robert Rankin Treasurer.

Featuring the re-election of Frank Niernsee as president, a meeting was held Monday morning by the rising junior class to choose officers for the coming year.

Ray Intrieri, of Erie, Pennsylvania, was elected to support Niernsee as vice president. Elizabeth Bagwell, of Henderson, was chosen secretary; Robert Rankin, of High Point, was named treasurer; and David Cooper and Elizabeth Phillips were selected to represent the class on the student council.

Niernsee, a member of the Panther basketball and tennis squads and of the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity, has served as president of his class during the past year, contributing much to the success of the sophomores. He came to the College in the fall of 1934 from Southport, North Carolina, where he graduated from high school with honors. He is a chemical engineering student here.

Intrieri, also a member of the Panther basketball team, is a member of Epsilon Eta Phi. He was chosen All-Conference guard at the close of the cage season, and he has been active in various campus activities.

The new secretary, Miss Bagwell, is a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society and the Christian Endeavor Society. She is a student assistant in the College library.

No other business was taken up during this meeting, and after the president had stressed that each member of the class should be present at the next meeting, which is to be held today to discuss very important matters, the meeting adjourned.

THREE HIGH POINTERS SEEK HIGHER DEGREES AT DUKE UNIVERSITY

Local Graduates to Submit Theses Toward Divinity Titles at Durham.

Durham. — Three graduates of High Point College are among the 38 graduate scholars in the Duke University school of religion who are submitting theses toward the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in the local institution this year. They are: Clifford H. Peace, Hurlan E. Jones, and Lester S. Furr.

Peace, whose home is at Gibsonville, is writing on the subject, "The Modern Conservative View of the Person of Jesus Christ."

Jones' home is at Liberty. The subject of his thesis is, "The Significance of the Historic Jesus in the Thought of Some Recent Liberal Christian Theologians."

Furr, whose home is at New London, has chosen the subject, "The Philosophy of Dr. Albert Schweitzer and Its Exemplification in His Life."

Rising Senior Class Selects Owen Head

Prominent Member of Class Given Highest Honor by Rising Seniors.

RIDGE IS VICE PRES.

Hill Named Secretary, Dawson Treasurer, at Annual Class Election.

Paul Owen, of Shoals, was chosen in the class elections of Monday morning to head the class of '37 during its last year at the College. Charles Ridge, of Lexington, was re-elected to the vice-presidency.

Owen has been active in the affairs of the class since he entered as a freshman in 1933. He is prominent in the College Christian Endeavor Society, and will act as treasurer for that organization next year. He is a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society and of the Iota Tau Kappa social club.

Ridge has served as vice-president, "advertising manager," and general factotum of the class this year, ably assisting Alton Hartman, of Advance. Ridge is a Thalean, a non-fraternity man, and a member of the A Cappella Choir.

Inza Hill, of Denton, succeeds Julia Coe as class secretary. Miss Hill is a Nikanthan and an active member of the Woman's Athletic Association. Sheldon Dawson, of Salisbury, Maryland, will act as treasurer for the ensuing year, succeeding Gladys Maxwell, of Hendersonville. Dawson is an Akrothinian and a member of the Iota Tau Kappa social club and the College A Cappella Choir.

Mary Margaret Bates, of Winston-Salem, and W. W. Weisner, of High Point, will act as senior representatives on the Student Council. In accordance with the regulation, Miss Bates is a dormitory student, Weisner a day student. Weisner, an Akrothinian and a member of the Delta Alpha Epsilon social club, served as class representative on the Council this year. Miss Bates, who will head up the Christian Endeavor Society and the Modern Priscilla club next year, succeeds Dorothy Bell, who will serve as secretary to the Council for the next term of office.

The election was followed by a few brief and grateful remarks from Alton Hartman, retiring president.

Dormitory Group Selects Hartman To Head Council

Advance Man Elected McCulloch Hall Council Head; Harris Vice Pres.

Alton Hartman, of Advance, has been chosen president of the Men's Dormitory Council for next year, succeeding Hoyt Wood, of Denton. Wayne Harris, of Rutherfordton, will support Hartman as vice president.

Sheldon Dawson, of Salisbury, Maryland, and Paul Owen, of Shoals, were elected to represent the rising senior dormitory men on the council. Both are active in campus affairs.

Erastus Grigg, of Shelby, and Wayne Harris were chosen by the dormitory men to represent the rising junior class.

Wilbur Walton, of Fairfax, Alabama, and Roger Peeler, of Belwood, were chosen to represent the rising sophomore dormitory men on the council.

Harris was elected vice president from among the members of the council. The new president will appoint a secretary, completing the list of officers.

Hartman, the new president, is a member of the Order of The Lighted Lamp, president of the junior class, and sports editor of THE HI-PO. He is student director of the College press bureau, and a member of the Thalean Literary Society and the Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity. He served as a member of the central student government council during the second half of his freshman year.

Gibbs Named Vice President In Run-Off Election Monday; Members Elected By Classes

Gibbs Gets Majority of Votes Over Alson Gray for Vice President's Position; Three Classes Choose Representatives; Installation Monday.

Occo Gibbs, a rising junior, of Gibsonville, was elected vice president of the student body over Alson Gray at the run-off election held Monday morning.

None of the four candidates for vice president received a majority at the regular election last Wednesday, and Gray and Gibbs, as high men, went into the second election Monday.

Allen Austin, of High Point, was elected president for next year at the first election, and Dorothy Bell, of Southport was chosen secretary without opposition.

Austin is business manager of THE HI-PO and has served as vice president of the student council this year. He is a member of the Thalean Literary Society, has worked on the technical staff of College dramatic productions, and is a member of Epsilon Eta Phi social fraternity. He came to the College in the fall of 1933, after graduating with honors from the local high school.

Gibbs, the new vice president, is a member of the Thalean Literary Society and is vice president of the Christian Endeavor Society. He has served on the men's Dormitory Council and as assistant manager of basketball. He is a member of Iota Tau Kappa fraternity.

Miss Bell, the new secretary, is a member of the Order of the Lighted Lamp, managing editor of THE HI-PO, newly elected critic of the Nikanthan Literary Society, and she has served on the student council this year.

Class Representatives

Mary Margaret Bates, of Winston-Salem, and W. W. Weisner, of High Point, Monday were elected council representatives from the rising senior class. Miss Bates has recently been elected to serve her second term as president of the Christian Endeavor Society. She is also a member of the Modern Priscilla Club, the Nikanthan Literary Society, and THE HI-PO editorial staff. Weisner is now editor of the College newspaper, a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society and Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He has served as junior representative on the council this year.

David Cooper, of High Point, and Elizabeth Phillips, of Asheboro, were chosen representatives from the rising junior class. Cooper is a member of the Akrothinian Literary Society and Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity. He is a member of THE HI-PO staff, serving with the sports department. Miss Phillips, who was elected to succeed herself on the council, is a member of the Nikanthan Liter-

Clay Madison Talks Friday

First Methodist Protestant Pastor Stresses Need For Prospective.

Rev. J. Clay Madison, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church, was the speaker for the regular Friday morning assembly, his remarks being on the "Need of a Historical Approach to Life." Dr. G. I. Humphreys conducted the devotionals after the regular processional of the graduating class.

Mr. Madison pointed out the fact that all too often we are blinded to the true values of the present by forever praising the past. When we place too much emphasis on the present, he commented, we become over-confident and disillusioned much like Robinson's "Miniver Cheevy." If we would form a saner and finer appreciation of life, he said, we must learn to blend the knowledge of the past and the price that has been paid that we might enjoy present blessings, with the knowledge of the present opportunities. Knowledge of the past, he stated further, will produce nothing unless we learn by it to appreciate our life today. He spoke at length on the things today which characterize an appreciation of life. "An insight into the past history," he concluded, "reveals that all knowledge is incorporated within our knowledge."

Mr. Madison's talk was one of a series of talks given by visiting speakers especially for the seniors following the annual investiture. The series was broken for the honor society tapping on April 24, but it will be continued for three more weeks.

Thaleans Select Myers President For Coming Year

Ridge Elected Vice President; Walton Secretary; Hartman Critic.

Samuel Myers, a rising senior, of Thomasville, was elected president of the Thalean Literary Society at the regular meeting last Thursday night. He will succeed Hoyt Wood at this position.

Charles E. Ridge, of Lexington, was chosen vice president. Wilbur Walton, of Fairfax, Alabama, a rising sophomore, was elected secretary, with Royce Gibbs as his assistant. The position of treasurer went to J. E. Garlington, of Pollock, Louisiana. F. A. Wright was chosen chaplain of the Society, and Alton Hartman was named critic. John Apple was selected marshal, with Dwight Morgan as assistant. Owen Lindley was chosen reporter. The press representative's duties will be in the hands of Vaughn Boone, with G. W. Holmes helping. Occo Gibbs was elected Forensic Council representative.

Myers, the new president, has been a member of the Society for the past three years, and he has held the offices of secrtary and assistant marshal. A non-fraternity man, he is a member of the Ministerial Association and is circulation manager of THE HI-PO.

Ridge, also a non-fraternity man, is business manager of the College book store and photographer for both THE ZENITH and THE HI-PO. He succeeds to the vice presidency from the position of secretary.

The new officers of the Thalean Society will be installed at the regular meeting tomorrow night.

Modern Priscillas Install Officers

Mary Margaret Bates Succeeds Dorothy McCollum as President.

The Modern Priscilla Club last Monday night closed a successful year and installed, informally, the officers for the coming year. Dorothy McCollum, president, made a brief talk in which she expressed her thanks to the members for their cooperation during the year and her good wishes to the new set of officers.

Miss McCollum read some fashion notes for the program. The hostesses for the meeting were Elizabeth Pirtle, Becky Finch, Lorene Koontz, and Lillian Varner. After the refreshments the future homemakers, etc., left on a tour of inspection through a reconditioned house near the College.

The officers for the past year were Dorothy McCollum, president; Mary Margaret Bates, vice-president; and Elizabeth Phillips, secretary-treasurer. Miss Bates succeeded Miss McCollum as president; Miss Phillips, Miss Bates, as vice-president; and Virginia

TOO MANY GUNS

In the Student Advocate for March of this year appears an article by Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas. Its title is "The R. O. T. C. Builds Women," and it is a protest against the parading of uniformed women with R. O. T. C. units. It is more than that—it is a protest against that false sort of patriotism which blinds so many eyes to the horrors of war. The Congressman is himself an ex-soldier; he knows what he is talking about; and he uses plain language. He states that it is his purpose to take out of the minds of people, and especially of young people, that there is any glory in war. His credo is that we should have learned enough sense in the last war to keep out of the next.

Such plain language is a timely addition to the "peace agitation" which is beginning to be circulated throughout the nation, and which will probably be helped immeasurably by the Emergency Peace Campaign which is being planned for this summer in the United States. The campaign urges sacrifice now rather than later for the students who will go out as its agents this summer; Congressman Maverick urges that we fight now—fight intellectual battles, verbal battles, knowing what we fight for. Each person can help; it is mass enthusiasm, mob blindness, which draws a country into a war.

The Congressman is right; we want to keep out of war. Why should a few bands, a few jingoists, thrust us into one? Let's get some bands of our own, and play a louder tune. And let us, in the name of common sense, as he says, stop "wearing too many guns and going places where we have no business, costumed mentally and physically like parrots."

NEW OFFICERS WELL CHOSEN

A significant fact about the new officers chosen to lead student government is that they are not only experienced in government but are also connected with a variety of other activities on the campus. Each of the three leading offices was filled by a student who has been connected with some phase of student government, and of the five representatives elected so far, two succeed themselves on the council. This gives the new council an unprecedented background of experience, and we expect to see a steady improvement in self-government at the College.

Every officer and every representative chosen is connected with two or more campus activities besides student government. Nearly every type of activity on the campus—religious, publications, literary, social, honorary leadership—has a representative on the student council. Next year's council has a better chance than ever before to act as a coordinating force for all organizations at the College. Every viewpoint, every faction will have its spokesman in student government.

As leaders of ability, as experienced workers in student government, and as representatives of all phases of campus life, the new student government officers deserve congratulations upon their opportunity to make the council's fourth year of operation its best. Throughout the year THE HI-PO has emphasized the progress made by student government. To use baseball parlance as applied to government, the council has had a high batting average in spite of a few inevitable strikeouts. With a veteran skipper and a veteran team, with just enough rookies to renew interest, student government should overcome all opposition next year.

This department, with its well known passion for surveys among college youth, is acquiver with excitement, awaiting the study that will appear in the June issue of Fortune Magazine. (no ad). Fortune investigators have been studying the ideas in collegiate heads on 20 campuses. Having had a minor connection with the study, which is done through elaborate questionnaires and interviews, we guess the article will show: that despite much feeling among some people that the economic structure is going to pieces, most boys and girls are tranquilly anticipating marriage, families and steady, though not rapid promotion in their work. Most of them seem to feel that all one has to do to overcome the depression is to work faithfully and hard. We expect however that the study will show very few expecting high salaries. And few that are really radicals.

For once the raging, bellowing General Smedley D. Butler was momentarily stymied. They say he even blushed.

It happened on the steps of a building out at the University of Washington. The General had just finished his usual forceful denunciation of war makers. As he was wiping his beetling brow, a young woman pattered up to him and cried:

"Oh General, don't you think if we just all followed Father Divine's idea, peace in the world would soon come about: Don't you think that when two people meet, instead of saying hello they ought to say peace.

When he could speak, the general said he didn't think so.

Perhaps when the next big depression hits, there won't be so many men jumping out of office windows. There won't be, if the work of two young scientists at the University of Minnesota proves fruitful. These men are trying to learn something about the cause and cure of nervous breakdowns.

To do it, they are systematically trying to make a group of rats have nervous breakdowns. Chief devices are a series of electrically charged metal plates and bells. The rats will have to learn to jump from the plates when the bells ring, in order to avoid electric shocks. They will have to learn a good many different things, or else get a shock. Eventually, the lessons will all get so complicated that something will happen to their nervous systems. That's when the scientists will be watching closely.

500,000 PARTICIPATE IN ANTI - WAR WALK - OUT

Called "Dress Rehearsal" for Course To Be Followed in Real War.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York.—Five hundred thousand college and high school students left their class rooms April 22 to participate in the third annual anti-war demonstration. The demonstration was a "dress-rehearsal," American Student Union officials said, for the course to be followed in the event America ever declares another war.

Although no accurate figures were obtainable, with the number demonstrating estimated as high as 750,000 by some observers, attendance was obviously greatly in excess of the 350,000 predicted a few weeks ago by Joseph Lash, national secretary of the Student Union. The first strike, in 1934, brought out only 25,000 students. Last year it jumped to 175,000.

For the most part, the 1936 demonstrations were orderly, with little interference from opposition groups. Three storm centers developed: The University of Kansas, Lawrence College, Appleton, Wisconsin, and Temple University at Philadelphia.

A tear-gas bomb was tossed into the midst of a group of 300 listening to a student speaker at Kansas, and a free-for-all followed. An attempt to break up the Temple meeting was made by a number of athletes, who advanced behind a barrage of rotten fruit and flour bags. Therewere no serious injuries, and the meeting was continued.

Police took a hand in the Lawrence College demonstration when students started to parade through Appleton streets, in defiance of a police order. Night-sticks were swung, and two demonstrators had to visit the infirmary for repairs.

The newly-organized Veterans of Future Wars and its subsidiary groups took an active part in the demonstrations, which were strongest and most numerous in the East, fairly well attended in the Middle-West, and of only negligible importance in the South and on the Pacific coast.

Biggest walk-out was New York's with 10,000 college students and 300 from high schools taking part. Twenty-three hundred demonstrated at Cornell, 1500 at the University of Chicago, 300 at the University of Michigan, 1200 at Dartmouth and 1500 at Brown.

Only 120 left University of New Mexico classes. Fifty students demonstrated at DePauw, 50 at Earlham, and 350 at the University of California at Los Angeles.

SONG NAMED AS CAUSE OF STUDENT'S DEATH

Depressing Song Banned in Hungary Said to Have Caused Suicides.

Ann Arbor, Mich. — "Gloomy Sunday," the melancholy song which was responsible for 19 suicides in Hungary before the authorities banned it—at least so says the publisher's press-agent—has been named as the cause of the death of an American college student.

John Granville Williams, graduate student in chemistry at the University of Michigan, is said to have hanged himself after listening to an American orchestra's recording of the song.

ALUMNI NEWS

Dear Class of '27:

It's been a long time now since you were the first graduating class of the College; many changes have taken place at the College, and in your lives, too, we guess.

Mrs. D. D. Broome, nee Ethel Blackwelder, lives in Henderson where her husband works in an A. and P. store. They have three children, Annette, Earnest, and Frank.

Herman Coble — you heard about him last week if you have been keeping up with these letters—for he married Lelia Wagner, '28, in '29. They both teach in the Leaksville high school and have a son, H. E., Jr.

Margaret Perry is Mrs. James Ellington, was married in '30, and has a daughter, Martha, born November 6, '35. You read about that last week, too, since Jimmy graduated in '28.

Mae Frazier is Mrs. Melford Ferree of High Point, was married last June 1.

Cleo Harrell is Mrs. Jeter Haynes of East Bend. She was married last December 13, and still teaches.

Jewel Hughes is still teaching at Gray's Chapel.

Mrs. Charles Smith, nee Callie Isley, of Gibsonville, has a son. Name, please?

Mrs. A. V. Amick, nee Pomona Johnson, was married in '27, and lives in Burlington. Their son, Aubrey, Jr., is the first grandchild of the College. They have a daughter, Mary Sue.

W. M. Loy is pastor of Burlington, Fountain Place, and O. C. is pastor of First Church in Thomasville.

Mrs. Reginald Strouse, nee Eugenia Williams, lives in Hagerstown, Maryland, and has a daughter, Julia Ann.

Emma Lewis Whitaker teaches in Winston-Salem.

Next week we hope to tell you about some of the ex-students.

ANTI-FASCIST BOOKS GIVEN TO COLLEGES

Books Written by Lauro de Bosis Donated to American College Libraries.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—Lauro de Bosis, Italian writer and patriot, was one of the leaders in the early fight against Fascism, and met his death while distributing anti-Fascist literature from an airplane. He wrote two books telling of his struggle: "Icaro," and "The Story of My Death."

Last week these books began to come into American college libraries, the gift of a Miss Ruth Draper of New York. Except for a letter accompanying the books—excerpt: "Lauro de Bosis was an idealist, who with a great love of life, risked death for his ideal. He has left a message, not only to his countrymen but to all youth, and it is my hope that in this translation of his play, and in the forceful document which explains his purpose, young men man read his message"—no explanation was offered.

It is not known whether "Miss Ruth Draper" is the famed stage figure.

Test Tube Explodes in Princeton Laboratory; the Cause Is Unknown.

Princeton, N. J.—Two Princeton professors were burned, and $4,000 worth of radium was scattered in minute particles throughout a laboratory here when a test tube mysteriously exploded.

Determined efforts to recover the invisible particles from the walls, floors and ceiling of the laboratory are being made, and the two experimenters, members of the Princeton physics department, will undergo extensive tests in order to determine the possibility of their having contracted the incurable radium poisoning.

Reason for the explosion of the radium, which was mixed with five grams of beryllium, is unknown.

Ithaca, New York — Walking classes—but for credit! are a new feature of Cornell's curriculum for women.

Every afternoon at 2:30, 3:30, and 4:30, a group of eager co-ed pedestrians swings away from the women's gym—except on Saturday, when 2:10 has been named as the official hour.

The Cornell Daily Sun, in reporting this latest educational development, states only the bare facts, leaving some phases unexplained.

For instance, the Saturday walks will be through the Taughannock and Buttermilk Gorges (both up and back, rain or shine!) and "transportation will be furnished."

Even though the gorges are three or four miles out of town, it looks like a snap course.

New Brunswick, N. J.—The college writer is imitative, usually of the latest literary sensation, and lacks the wide experience in living necessary for basically sound work.

So said Warren E. Bower, editor of the anthology "The College Writer," addressing the Intercollegiate Writers' Conference held recently at New Jersey College for Women here.

The "little magazine," is ideally fitted to serve as a proving ground for the young writer, Bower said, since it offers stimulation and encouragement without having prohibitive standards.

Elon Winner Over Locals In Two Tilts

Christian Jinx Holds Good as Panthers Drop Conference Contests.

The Elon College nine bunched their hits effectively Thursday afternoon to defeat the High Point Panthers 11-6 in a North State contest at Willis Park.

Harris, who scored the first and only High Point victory over the Christian diamond team last spring, went the full route on the mound for the Yowmen, and with the exception of three innings, had the opposing batsmen well under control.

Four home runs by the Christians, one of which came with the bases drunk, ran the total count up rapidly. The Christians scored twice in the first rack on a double by Cheek, single by Bullock and error by the Panther infield.

During the next five innings the visitors never made a serious threat to score, but came back in the redoubtable seventh to push five more markers across the platter. Home runs by Cheek and Roye were the highlights of this rack. Only three hits were secured off the slants of Harris in this inning, but numerous errors contributed to the scoring.

Newsome, Elon hurler, had little trouble with the Panthers until the seventh rack, when they came to the bat seven runs behind the Christians. A six run rally in this rack put the Yowmen within striking distance of a victory, but failed to move Newsome. A single by Towery, two Elon errors, singles by Culler, Dorsett, Grigg and Martin produced these markers. Dosett's blow came with three aboard the sacks, with all coming in on the hit.

Neither team was able to change the small margin separating them in the eighth inning. In the ninth Smith and Cheek, the first two men up, greeted Harris with circuit blows to give the visitors a comfortable lead. Two more hits plus errors sent in two more runs in this inning.

The heavy-slugging Cheek, Christian first sacker, was by far the outstanding player of the day. In five trips to the plate he slapped out two doubles, two home runs, and secured a walk for a perfect day at the plate.

It appeared to be a great day for the first basemen, however, as the card showed that the opposing first sacker, Towery, had gained three bingles in four trips to lead his mates with the willow.

SECOND GAME

The High Point College nine closed a busy week Saturday afternoon when they dropped a North State contest to the Elon Christians by the count of 12 to 1 at Elon.

It was the second victory of the week for the Christiana over the Panthers, who played a total of seven games during six days. In thoae seven contests they have won three victories over non-conference clubs, while losing four conference tilts to Lenoir Rhyne and Elon.

Playing without the guidance of Coach Yow, who was unable to follow his team because of illness, the Panthers failed to hit the right combination on Comer field as they nicked Briggs, Elon hurler, for only five hits during the entire contest.

Rudisill worked on the mound for seven innings, giving up 10 hits and 10 runs. Culler, acting manager, replaced him in the next rack to allow two more runs.

The lone Panther score came in the sixth rack. Martin, third sacker, opened with a smashing triple, and scored on a single by Diamont.

The weather, which receives blame for almost everything, is a good excuse for the absence of this lot-of-nothing for the past few weeks. Our reasons: first, the baseball and tennis clubs can play when the sun shines, thus furnishing plenty of sports copy and leaving less room for fillers; second, everyone is more or less susceptible to spring fever.

High Point, N. C.
Dear Mr. Yow:

I thought that you might be interested in the progress being made by Lee Sherrill, former High Point College baseball player.

As you know, Sherrill played with Asheville last season, and showed great ability. While his record was not so impressive, he impressed all of the St. Louis Cordinal scouts to such an extent that he was taken to the Florida training camp this spring. While down there he was the outstanding young pitcher in the camp, and so impressed the manager of the Columbus Baseball Club, Mr. Burt Shotten, that they purchased his contract from Asheville. At the present time he is with the Columbus Club, and is regarded very highly by the management. It is very seldom that a young pitcher has the opportunity to break into Double A baseball his second season out, and when he does, you know that he must have something on the ball.

It is the opinion of the officials and scouts of the St. Louis Cardinal organization that Sherrill is only about two years away from the major leagues.

Hoping that we may be able to give you further information on this boy, and with best wishes, I am,
Very truly yours,
Oliver French,
President.

Since this letter was written Lee has been sent to Asheville in order that he would get more experience this season.

—o—

In the last column, written the day before a scheduled game with Elon, we "kinda put the boys on the spot" by running and commenting on a clipping from the Elon paper. . . . Maybe it was a good thing that the game was rained out . . . But we might offer alibis for the second loss to Elon. . . Coach was sick, and every team needs its coach at all times . . . then "Red" Towery was out of the lineup, and every man on the team is needed.

—o—

And did we enjoy Intrieri's track meet. Not many records were broken, at least we didn't hear about any, but several guys nearly broke their legs at the thrilling finish to the 100 yard dash. The meet was run off in orderly fashion, and the competition was keen in some events, but the classes didn't show enough interest. Might suggest that a little training wouldn't hurt anything; a lot of the runners looked like "sissies."

Moral of the meet: You can't drink milkshakes and run the 880, too.

—o—

Prize suntan. Culler's. Now he has a white streak. . . Who said that Ingle didn't take a walk in the game with Duke "B" . . . four walks and a single make a nice day at the plate.

JERRY SPEAKS

That bespectacled, tobacco-chewing leftfielder, "Jerry" Isley, comes through with the prize story of the week. (We are printing it; not vouching for the truthfulness.)

"When I was playing third base for the Graham Fence-Busters, I had the most unusual experience in my baseball career.

"The game was called at 3:30 between the Burlington Half-Hose team and the Fence-Busters. The first two men up for the Half-Hose got hits, a single and triple respectively. The man who tripled was so much faster than the man in front of him that he caught him at third base. The throw was made to home from the outfield so the first runner went back to third to find his colleague occupying that base. The catcher threw to me, and the runners timed their feet perfectly. When I would endeavor to tag one man, he would put his foot on the base and the other would raise his from the bag. This continued without getting either man out until the game was called because of darkness, the score being nothing to nothing."—Jerry Isley.

The varsity baseball and tennis clubs will move into action against strong foes this afternoon when the racqueteers play Louisburg before a home gallery, while the local nine moves over to Salisbury for a clash with Catawba.

This week's play will practically wind up the season for both clubs, neither of which has a likely chance to cop top honors in the circuit. The Yowmen have one tilt with the Guilford nine scheduled for next Wednesday, while the racqueteers have no more definite matches on the slate.

In three encounters with the Indians this year, the Panthers have won 'only one contest. "Hamp" Hampton, who twice sent the locals to defeat, was driven from the mound in the third game at Willis Park which was won by the Yowmen, 9 to 6.

Coach Yow has not announced his hurlers for the three games this week. He stated that there was a probability of the games with A. C. C. being played on Thursday instead of two separate days.

Niernsee and Rogers Turn in Lone Panther Points of Match.

The Guilford College netmen administered a 5-2 defeat to the Purple Panther racquet wielders last Friday afternoon on the local courts for the Pointers' sixth loss out of seven starts.

This match, the first with the quakers this season, found the visitors showing much more power than expected, having little trouble in clinching the majority of the individual matches. The team showed a degree of balance and experience which was almost wholly lacking in the Pointer aggregation.

Frank Niernsee again measured up to expectations for the Panthers and almost made up in form and power what the rest of his teammates lacked. Meeting James Jarsons, captain and potential

FRESHMAN TRACK TEAM TAKES TITLE IN INTRA-MURAL MEET

Sophomores Win Softball Championship Title With Hard-Earned Victory Over First Year Men; Keen Competition Evident in Field Events.

BY DAVID COOPER

By placing in every event of the day, a versatile team of yearlinga completely routed their older opponents in the class field and track meet last Wednesday afternoon with a total of 28 points to annex the College's first annual Intra-Mural Field Day title. They were closely followed in points by the fast-stepping juniors as Wilson Rogers dug up the track in the 100 and 220 yard dashes in almost record time to lead his teammates and the field as high scorer. The sophomores, while taking only third place in the track meet, proceeded to beat the freshmen after a close battle in the finals of the intra-mural softball tournament, 3-2.

Ray Intrieri, chairman of the student committee of arrangements, began the full afternoon of activities promptly at 3 o'clock on Boylin terrace with the 100 yard dash to then take the entrants through seven additional events in record fashion—running the meet like a veteran. Keen interest was shown in this initial field meet as was evidenced by the entrance of over twenty-four men and may influence the College athletic authorities as to whether or not track should be added to the sport's repertorie of the College.

The two highlights of the afternoon came in the 100 and 220 yard dashes as representatives from each of the four classes jumped from the starting lines to literally burn up the inadequate track with Wilson Rogers, ace junior, breaking the tape first in each event. Clocked in these two events by the official timer of the meet he was shown to have stepped the 100 paces off in 10.8 seconds, only 8-10 of a second short of the high school record on a good track; after resting for two events, Rogers then brought home the bacon in 26 seconds on the 220 stretch, also good time on a dirt track. The two man senior team of Sulon Ferree and Hoyt Wood also furnished the fans some thrills as each man took one first place for their only points. Ferree, showing good form throughout, took the lead not long after the starting of the mile run to completely outclass his opponents, breaking the tape in 4 minutes, 54 seconds. Wood assumed the lead from the very first to step across the finishing line about four feet in front of "Cherry" Smith in the 880 run with the passing of only 2.15 minutes.

In the field events Intrieri, Welborn and Brinkley showed the best form and power. Welborn fought it out with Intrieri in the broad jump to finally outjump him in the third trial for first place; Brinkley and Intrieri then battled for the shot putting title with Intrieri again losing in the last toss as Brinkley putted the steel ball for 37.7 feet.

The final scores per class were: First, freshmen, 28 points; second, juniors, 20 points; third, sophomores, 14 points; fourth, seniors, 10 points.

In the finals of the class softball tournament, also sponsored by Coach Yow's theory classes, Ray Intrieri, stocky sophomore, hurled his class to a close win over the hard-playing freshmen while allowing only 3 hits.

The frosh after scoring two runs in the first frame held the winners down to one run for four innings when Frank Niernsee, rangy first baseman, smacked out a homer for the tieing run. The second year men then took advantage of several errors by the yearling infielders to break up the tie and also the game.

This win by the sophomores makes their third win this year in intra-mural activities as they also hold the volley-ball and basketball titles.

The score by innings:	R.
Sophomores	010 020 x—3
Freshmen	200 000 0—2

CHRISTIANS SCORE THIRD WIN OF SEASON OVER PANTHER NINE

Newsome Twirls Elon to North State Victory Over Yowmen at Willis Park; Total of 29 Safe Hits Gained in Contest; Final Score 15-9.

The Elon Christians made it three in a row over the High Point Panthers for this season yesterday afternoon as they defeated the Yowmen 15 to 9 in a free-scoring contest at Willis Park.

Both clubs hit the agate freely in the affray, rattling the boards with a total of 29 safe blows, many of which went for extra bases. The winners claimed 15 of these knocks, while the losers had one less.

The victory increased the Christians' lead in the North State Conference, where they have ruled supreme for the past six seasons. With only four more contests to play in the loop, the Yowmen have no hopes of finishing in first place, but have a chance of finishing high in the first division.

Newsome, who handed the locals a defeat at Willis Park last Thursday afternoon, worked the entire game for the Walkermen and managed to keep the 14 blows fairly well scattered. Culler, the lead off man, greeted him with a long home run in the first rack, but this bad start failed to upset the veteran moundsman.

Harris started on the firing line for the locals but was removed

Duke B Team Is Defeated By Panther Nine

Second Win Over Junior Blue Devils for Locals; Final Score, 9-5.

Although they were outhit 10 to 7, the High Point College Panthers defeated the Duke "B" team by the count of 9 to 5 in an exhibition contest at Willis Park Friday afternoon.

This was the second win for the Yowmen over the B-men from Durham. In their first encounter at Duke this spring the locals eked out a close 10-9 decision.

Coach Yow called Dorsett, regular centerfielder, to the mound. Although they nicked him for 10 hits, "Red" managed to keep the hits well scattered to turn in his second victory on the mound last week.

Duke scored early in the game, one in the first and second racks and two in the third, to hold a four to one lead at the beginning of the fourth. Dorsett drove in the first Panther run in the second inning with a single.

Two hits in the sixth, a double by Culler and single by Harris, plus a flock of walks and errors gave the Panthers four runs to clinch the contest.

Watson, who started on the mound for the Junior Devils, retired in favor of Landen in the seventh rack.

Culler and Harris, each with a double and single in five trips to the plate, led the Panthers at the plate, while Fuller featured for the visitors with three for five.

After working the opposing hurlers for four successive walks, Ingle, Panther leftfielder, banged out a single over short for a perfect day at bat, with one for one.

Bears Bunch Hits Off Brinkley To Win Second Tilt

Both Clubs Secure Nine Hits In North State Contest; Final Score, 7-3.

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears made it two in a row over the Yowmen at Hickory last Wednesday afternoon when C. Tuttle hurled the Shoresmen to a 7 to 3 North State win.

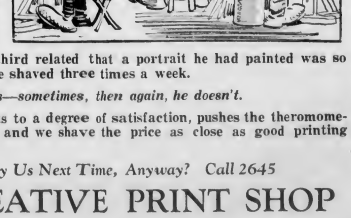

Both clubs secured nine hits in the affray, but the winners were able to bunch theirs more effectively to take the contest. Brinkley, hurling for the Panthers, held the Bears scoreless for the first three innings, but yielded two in the fourth, four in the fifth, and one in the eighth.

This was the third victory over the Panthers this year for the Bears, who are making a great fight for circuit honors.

Score by innings:	R	H	E
High Point	000 010 002	3	9 3
Lenoir Rhyne	000 240 01x	7	9 1

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

OUR PRINTING sinks to a degree of satisfaction, pushes the theromometer to a friendship level and we shave the price as close as good printing will merit.

quet squad, much improved by several days of much needed practice, will meet the Louisburg Junior College veteran team here on the local courts in an exhibition match this afternoon at two o'clock where a large crowd of spectators is expected.

Losing seven matches in eight starts so far this season, the High Point College men have been making good use of the excellent weather conditions during the past week and though still lacking sufficient creditable courts for practice, should be in good shape for today's match. The Louisburg squad is reputed to be one of the best Junior college teams in the South and should give the fans some pointers on real tennis.

Following this match, the Pointers go to Guilford tomorrow for their second match with the Quakers before returning here to meet Lenoir Rhyne for the final conference match of the year. It is also being rumored that the netmen will carry their victory quest into the eastern part of the state following this winding up of the season's formal contesting where they will meet E. C. T. C. and other colleges of that section.

after 4 2-3 irnings, during which time he yielded 11 hits and 9 runs. Brinkley relieved him in the fifth rack with only one down, but had litle trouble retiring the side. He continued in good form for the remainder of the contest although he allowed five runs.

Harris poled out one of the longest home runs ever witnessed at the local park in the sixth rack. The drive sailed high over the centerfield fence, apparently missing the lights by a few feet.

A rally in the ninth netted the Panthers three runs "Bushy" Booth, pinch-hitting for Brinkley, featured in this with a long drive that missed going over the fence by inches.

number one man of the Guilford team, Niernsee found very little trouble in placing his characteristic hard services and deceptive ground strokes in the right places, pulling out the match in only two sets, 6-4, 6-2.

Captain Wilson Rogers, striking real mid-season form in his number four match with Fulp, hard-playing Quaker, made his fighting spirit in match games characteristic staying, always stand him in good stead. While his opponent seemed also to have the same characteristics, Rogers remained in there just a little bit longer, and finally after the games had gone to deuce twice in the first set won 8-6; the second set also went to deuce but Rogers again got the better end of the play, winning 7-5.

In the doubles competition, Niernsee and Rogers combined together to give Parsons and Newkirk a fight-to-the-finish battle, losing the first set after deucing it twice, and winning the second set in an easy manner, only to drop the final set 6-3.

Setzer and Jarrett, number three and two men, found themselves completely out-classed both in their singles matches and in the final doubles match. Setzer, after showing real power in the second set to win it 6-3, lost out completely in the last set. Jarrett seemed a good bit off his usual wily game and gave way to his opponent, 6-2, 6-2.

Summary:

Niernsee (HP) defeated Parsons, 6-4, 6-2; Sykes (G) defeated Jarrett 6-2, 6-2; Newkirk (G) defeated Setzer 6-2, 3-6, 6-1; Rogers (HP) defeated Fulp 8-6, 7-5; Surratt (G) defeated White 6-1, 6-3; Parsons-Newkirk (G) defeated Niernsee-Rogers 8-6, 2-6, 6-3; Surratt-Sykes (G) defeated Jarrett-Setzer 6-3, 6-2.

half of the ninth, Culler tripled to put the locals in scoring position again. Briggs tightened down, however, and retired the next man in easy fashion.

The Christians gave Briggs excellent support in the field, playing errorless ball for the nine innings. It was a different story with the Pointers, who made three errors afield.

Culler, with two of the five hits secured off Briggs, led the Panthers with the willow. Smith, Check, Shelton, and Barrow were the heavy hitters for the winners with two each.

names could mean, they kept the Hawaiian tourists" in good spirits. After the invocation by Aubert Smith, Thalean alumnus, came the welcome by Hoyt Wood, Thalean president, who with Lois Hedgecock presided over the banquet. Faye Holt gave a toast to the Thaleans, to which Lee Moser replied with proper brotherly sentiments. A toast to the faculty was presented by Virginia Grant, and Professor N. P. Yarborough answered in behalf of his fellow instructors. Mary Parham, Artemesian president, responded graciously to Occo Gibbs' hearty words of hospitality to the guests from the "rival" societies. Hazel Welborn spoke to the honorary members in behalf of the societies, and Miss Louise Adams responded.

The toast to the mascot, by Inza Hill, was answered by a dance by Betsy White, newly elected to that position. Kathleen Hepstinstall recited in original and appropriate verse her toast to the alumni, to which J. Clay Madison, a graduate with the class of '33, responded. Throughout the evening Dr. P. E. Lindley furnished a great deal of unexpected spice for the program by presenting "surprise packages" to those having "lucky signs" on their programs.

During the dessert course, Dean Lindley presented awards to those who had received honors in the Thalean society. Sulon Ferree, of the class of '36, received the prize for being prepared for the program the greatest number of times The Lindley Improvement Award went to Gilmer Wagoner, '39, and the medal for the best speaker at the intra-Thalean debate Saturday afternoon to J. S. Higgins.

As a conclusion to the banquet, Miss Unity Nash presented to Lois Hedgecock the Nash Award for the most outstanding services to the Nikanthan society this year.

The menu for the evening consisted of tomato coctail, breaded veal cutlets, gravy, new string beans, potatoes with parsley, hot buttered rolls, coffee, congealed pineapple salad, ice cream, and cake.

The guests left the hall to the familiar strains of "Aloha," played by the Hawaiian Serenaders.

Dean Lindley Gives Speech In Kentucky

Delivers Commencement Address to Graduating Class of Alvin Drew School.

STRESSES DILIGENCE

Dean Reports Pleasant Stay at Pine Ridge; G. W. Andrew Is Principal.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean of administration at the College, delivered the commencement address Friday night to the graduating class of the Alvin Drew School at Pine Ridge, Kentucky.

Dr. Lindley's address was designed to impress on the minds of the class the value of purpose, and the necessity of industry and diligence. He stressed the right direction of the purpose and perseverance in trying to attain it.

The Alvin Drew School is in Wolfe County, in the Kentucy mountains. It is a work of the Home Missions Board of the Methodist Protestant Church, and is proving of great benefit to the young people of the territory. Some elementary work is done, and the high school is of real merit. A number of its graduates have come to the College to make excellent records, a fact which Dr. Lindley mentioned to the class in his address.

Dr. Lindley reports a very pleasant, although brief, stay at the school. Of particular interest to many members of the faculty will be the fact that the present principal of the school is Rev. G. W. Andrew, who received his A. B. degree at the College with the class of '28.

Dr. Lindley's trip to Kentucky prevented his meeting a number of his classes last week. The imminent Methodist Protestant conference to be held in this city will make impossible his attendance on a number of others. He is making arrangements for make-up work to be done by students in these classes.

Senior Contest Tryouts Planned

Oration-Essay Preliminaries Tentatively Slated For May 18.

Plans are underway for the annual senior Oration-Essay contest to be held during the commencement season, it has been announced by Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean of the College.

Professor C. B. Owens, of the speech department, has charge of the contest this year, and a number of seniors are expected to participate. The preliminaries will be held at an early date, probably on May 18, Dr. Lindley's announcement said.

The contest is divided into two sections, an essay competition for women and an oration contest for men. The Charlotte M. Amos Medal is awarded to the winner in the former contest, while Mr. S. Robinowitz donates a medal to the man winning the oration contest.

The essay contest last year was won by Miss Emma Carr Bivins, of High Point, and the orator's prize went to Wilbur Hutchins, also of High Point, and now a graduate student in Duke University's school of divinity.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT GRANTS CLUB AWARD

Wisconsin Language Group Honored by French Government's Gift.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—In recognition of the high standards maintained at the University of Wisconsin Maison Francaise, oldest organization of its kind in the United States, the French government has authorized a gift to the house of 6300 francs ($415).

Rene Weiller, French consul at Chicago who was instrumental in obtaining the award, declared the Wisconsin society the best French-speaking group he had seen in his ten years in the United States.

APPLE CHOSEN CLASS LEADER BY NEW SOPHS

Class of 1939 Elects Reidsville Man to Succeed Max Rogers as Prexy.

After a delayed second election, John Apple of Reidsville, was Wednesday elected as president of the Sophomore Class for next year, succeeding Max Rogers of Denton. He is a member of the Thalean Literary Society, the College A Cappella Choir and has been active in the class this year. Apple will be assisted by Dan Sharpe of Pleasant Garden as Vice-president. He is also a member of the Thalean Literary Society.

Mary Mitchell Baity of Henderson, vice-president of the class this year, will serve as secretary. She is an Artemesian and a member of the Woman's Athletic Association. The new treasurer is Ed Stirewalt of High Point, an Akrothinian and a member of the Iota Tau Kappa fraternity and the College A Cappella Choir.

The class elected as representatives to the Student Council Royce Gibbs of Burlington, a Thalean, and Ann Watkins of High Point, who is a member of the Woman's Athletic Association and the Sigma Alpha Pho Sorority.

No business was discussed at the meeting, and the class adjourned immediately following the election.

Frat Banquets At Sedgefield

Delta Alpha Epsilon Entertains With Banquet For Alumni and Guests.

Student and alumni members of the Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity held their annual banquet at Sedgefield Inn last Friday night.

A round of introductions, music, and short speeches all contributed to the program, which was informal and amply supported with copious quantities of food. The tables in the dining hall of the Inn were arranged in cabaret fashion for the banquet.

Toastmaster George Elder presided over the affair, starting the evening by having one person at each table introduce the other revelers at the table.

Following an invocation by Ishmael Dorsett, active student member of the fraternity, and a welcome by Elder, W. W. Weisner gave a toast to the alumni members. Dr. Glenn G. Perry, local physician, responded in behalf of the graduates. He paid tribute to the spirit of fraternal fellowship and praised the present active members for their work in the organization.

James Mattocks, sophomore member, gave a toast to the ladies, to which Dorothy Bell, sole representative of her sex on the program, responded with a humorous talk.

Elder brought the program to a close with a talk billed as a "surprise."

Music was furnished for the evening by Jimmy Kerr and his orchestra, of Burlington.

SOCIETIES HOLD JOINT PICNIC AT CITY LAKE

Literary Groups Combine for Social Event Held Tuesday Night.

The four literary societies on the campus last night held a joint picnic at the city lake park near Jamestown.

This event was one of the three joint programs planned for each fifth Thursday night of the year, but it was postponed from April 30 because of the College regulation prohibiting social events except on Tuesday or Friday nights.

The revelers left the campus last night about five o'clock, traveling by automobiles and in the bus belonging to the College choir. A variety of sandwiches and other picnic fare had been prepared for the occasion by Mrs. Whitaker, and the society members entertained themselves by strolling about the park grounds until the food was served. The group returned to the campus about nine o'clock last night.

Major Craven Is Chapel Speaker Friday Morning

Trinity Lawyer Tells Seniors to Develop Higher Things of the Mind.

Major Bruce Craven of Trinity, "played a game" with the college students at the chapel hour last Friday. Although he proved to be one of the most interesting speakers of the year, he gave no subject and pointed out no moral, but asked his audience to search for the topic.

Major Craven's dry humor was quite appealing, and he started his talk by stating the things he would not do. He promised, among other things, not to talk long, not to speak of Mother's Day, and not to mention the trite subject of succeeding in the world.

"Miracles" was the main topic of his discussion. Major Craven pointed out that, even though people of today do not believe in miracles, they use the telephone, listen to the radio, and go to movies, not realizing that these things were "scientifically impossible" a few years ago. He also pointed out the fact that there has been three critical periods in American history. He used as an illustration, the big fish in the aquarium that "bumped his nose" on a glass partition every time he tried to dive down and get the little fish hat were on the other side of the partition. Three "bumps" were enough for the big fish, and now the litle fish swim around unharmed. Thus our nation has had three hard "bumps"—he Revolutionary War, the Civil War, and the World War—and now it is up to the youth of today to see that America has learned its lesson.

OFFICERS SEATED AT NIKANTHAN MEETING

Brief Program Precedes Installation of Officers For Next Year.

The new officers of the Nikanthan Literary Society were installed at the regular meeting on Thursday evening in the College auditorium. The installation service followed the program.

The life and works of Rudyard Kipling supplied the topic for the brief but varied program. Wayne Hornaday, "borrowed" for the occasion, sang the familiar musical version of Kipling's Mandalay, with Agnes Louise Willcox at the piano. Mary Frances Warlick, reading from a recently published compilation of the letters of the wife of a British army officer in India, furnished a number of entertaining facts about the young Kipling and his early work, as well as more pertinent facts about his birthplace and early environment. Dorothy Bell read the much-over-worked but still effective Gunga Din, which is one of Kipling's Barrackroom Ballads.

The new officers installed follow; Faye Holt, Graham, president; Bernadine Hurley, Troy, vice-president; Margaret Walton, Asheboro, secretary; Elizabeth Phillips, Asheboro, treasurer; Dorothy Bell, Southport, critic; Virginia Curry, Pleasant Hill, monitor; Vesta Troxler, Burlington, pianist; Mary Frances Warlick, Lawndale, chorister.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL HOLDS ELECTION TODAY

Greek Organization Slated to Name New Officers For Next Year Today.

New officers for the Pan-Hellenic Council are to be elected today, it has been announced by Broadus Culler, present head of the Greeks.

Each social club has one student representative and one faculty member on the Council. The election of officers today follows the selection of new representatives by each of the clubs.

The Pan-Hellenic Council controls rushing, initiation, social functions, acts as a medium between the clubs and the faculty, and looks after other matters of mutual interest to the fraternities and sororities.

Culler, the retiring president, is a member of Epsilon Eta Phi.

FRESHMAN AID GROUP CHOSEN MONDAY NIGHT

Council Selects Four Rising Sophomores to Revise, Enforce Frosh Rules.

THACKER IS CHAIRMAN

Committee to Start Work on Revision of Regulations; Caps to Continue.

The student council Monday night chose a committee from the rising sophomore class to revise and enforce the freshman rules for next year.

Allen Thacker, day student men's representative on the committee, was chosen chairman. He will be supported by Max Rogers, of the dormitory men; Violet Jenkins, of the dormitory women; and Elizabeth Hoffman, day student co-ed.

The committee will have full charge of all rules regulating freshmen, and in addition it will supervise freshman initiation. The wearing of caps will again be required of the yearlings, and the committee will have charge of enforcing this rule also.

Freshman rules and freshman initiation were standardized and placed in the hands of a committee for the first time last fall. Before this the process of initiation had been entirely improvised, and the "rat rules" were hap-hazardly enforced. With the coming of council regulation, freshman initiation assumed a new dignity and the rules were better enforced.

The freshman rules this year included the customary courtesies usually extended to upperclassmen, such as priority in bumming rides, the opening of doors and the running of errands for organizations on the campus.

The committee will begin work immediately on such changes in the freshman code as it deems wise, and the program will be worked out definitely before school opens in September.

Co-Ed Tumbling Teams Perform

Freshman Class Carries Off First Honors in Tumbling Competition.

The physical education classes for women at the College last Wednesday night presented an exhibition of tap-dancing and tumbling under the direction of Miss Sidney Brame, director of physical education for the co-eds.

A large gallery of students and townspeople saw the freshman tumbling team carry off first honors with a skillful exhibition in the intra-mural event. The twelve members of the winning team worked as a smooth unit in performing many difficult gymnastic tricks.

Members of the team were Viplet Jenkins, Ann Watkins, Mildred Grant, Olga Marlette, Olive Hutchins, Virginia Dixon, Evelyn Lindley, Elizabeth Cullum, Nina Graham Crawford, Dorothy Wiggins, Frances Muse, and Patsy Ward.

The sophomore team carried away second honors in the tumbling competition.

Tap-dancing exhibitions presented between the tumbling classes were among the highlights of the evening's entertainment.

VICTORY IS CALLED DRAWBACK TO SCHOOL

Football Win Over Harvard Called "Worst Thing That Ever Happend to Centre."

Detroit—"The worst thing that ever happened to Centre College" was the way Dr. Charles J. Turck, president, explained the famous victory of the "Praying Colonels" over Harvard's 1921 football team.

Only 32 of the 134 freshmen attracted to the college as a result of the victory stayed to graduate, President Turck said, and the students' balance, as well as the townspeoples', was completely upset.

College Library Adds New Books To Its Shelves

Books on Chemistry, Politics and Government Lead List of Additions.

Among the books recently received at the College Library is a volume donated by the American Liberty League. Its title is Democratic Despotism. Apparently the League still disapproves of the New Deal.

Professor J. Harley Mourane, head of the department of chemistry, has given to the library a number of much-needed volumes dealing with phases of work considered in the department. The titles follow: Introductory General Chemistry, Brinkley; 145 Solutions To Process Plant Problems, McGraw and Hill; Successful Control In Food Processing, McGraw and Hill; and 111 Methods Of Handling Everyday Food Plant Problems, McGraw and Hill.

Among the books recently brought in as gifts by Doctor P. S. Kennett, of the History department, are Haworth's The United States In Our Own Times, Beard's American Government and Politics, Ogg and Ray's Essentials of American Government, Woodburn's American Republic, and Patterson's American National Government.

Two books of value to the students of both religious history and of the Middle Ages in general are a translation of Godfrey Kurth's Life of Saint Boniface, and a companion volume by Joseph Clayton, The Life of Saint Anselm.

Coming to the library as a gift of the author is Harriette Hammer Walker's interesting local volume, Busy North Carolina Women, which includes sketches of High Point's own Quaker preacher, Miss Clara Cox, Asheboro's newspaper Mrs. Hammer, and Jugtown's Mrs. Duval.

SEX PROBLEMS TAKEN UP AT THALEAN MEET

Five Members Contribute to Frank Discussion of Problem at Meeting.

A frank discussion of "Sex Problems" by five members of the society featured the regular meeting of the Thalean Literary Society last Thursday night.

Hoyt Wood, president of the organization, temporarily gave up the chair for an opportunity to enlighten his fellow members on the "Basic Principles in Selecting a Girl Friend." He was followed by Wilbur Walton, who went one step further by presenting the principles of a happy marriage.

A general survey of that modern question, "Birth Control," was given by Oceo Gibbs, the next speaker on the program. The interesting question, "Should Society Hold a Single Standard for the Members of Both Sexes," was discussed by Alton Hartman.

Furman Wright then showed that "Monogamy Is An Art," pointing out that for a couple to live happily together requires tact and common sense on the part of both parties.

During a short business meeting following the regular program, the members of the society decided to hold the annual stag picnic tomorrow night.

Kittredge Quits Job At Harvard

Famed "Kitty" Resigns Position on English Faculty After Fifty Years' Service.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cambridge, Mass.—George Lyman Kittredge, last of the famed group of scholars which brought glory to Harvard in the last half century, will never awe another class with his brilliant exposition of English literature, his biting wit, or the temper which often led him to stamp out of a class-room because of inattention for a slight disturbance.

He gave his last lecture on May 1, and his resignation is effective September 1. Member of the class of 1882, world's foremost Shakesperian authority, and an especially colorful personality, Prof. Kittredge was an institution at Harvard for 50 years.

Student Government Council For Next Year Is Installed At Assembly Monday Morning

Newly-Elected Officials and Representatives Take Oath of Office Here.

NEW PRESIDENT TALKS

Austin Says Continued Success of Council Depends Upon Cooperation.

The new student council members and officials for next year were installed at the regular meeting of the student body Monday morning.

The retiring president, A. Lincoln Fulk, administered the oath of office to the new council. In a brief message to the student body, Fulk expressed his appreciation for the cooperation he has received from the old council and the students in general this year.

The new council officials who took office Monday were Allen Austin, president; Occo Gibbs, vice president; and Dorothy Bell, secretary.

David Cooper was elected by the council Monday night to serve as treasurer for next year.

Mary Margaret Bates and W. W. Weisner were installed as representatives from the rising senior class. Elizabeth Phillips and David Cooper will represent the new junior class on the council. Royce Gibbs and Ann Watkins were installed as spokesmen for the class of 1939. Representatives of the freshman class will be chosen soon after the organization of the class next fall.

After taking the oath of office Monday, the new president gave a brief talk in which he praised the accomplishments of Fulk and his council during the past year. As evidence of the definite progress made during the year, he pointed out the standardization of freshman initiation rules, the broader social privileges obtained this year, and the installation of the secret ballot system in student elections.

Austin praised the College administration for its wholehearted cooperation with student government here. He paid particular tribute to Dr. Humphreys as one of the main-springs behind the self-government movement at the College.

Turning to the aims of the student council next year, the new president mentioned the fact that the council takes over the handbook for the first time this summer. He also spoke of the revision of freshman rules and the broadening of regulations governing social functions on the campus.

In closing Austin asked for the continued cooperation of the students, faculty, and administration in working out the program of self government.

"If we let this spirit of cooperation wane," he said, "Student Government and all it stands for will be doomed. Cooperation is the very life blood of any government, and more particularly so of student government.

"May those of us who are remaining behind while the seniors go on resolve to carry on in a big way and in the spirit of Mr. Fulk as expressed by him in his inaugural last fall: Forward together for a bigger and better High Point College."

Council To Take Over Publication Of '36 Handbook

Student Government Committee to Issue Handbook This Summer.

The High Point College student handbook, heretofore issued by the Y. M. C. A., will be published by the student government association this summer, it has been announced by Allen Austin, new president of the council.

A staff to edit and finance the book will be chosen within a few days and will begin work early in the summer. The editorial work will probably be handled by members of the student council.

Although no definite plans have been made concerning the contents of the book, it is expected to follow the plan of the Y books of previous years. The book contains general information about campus organizations and other instructions and rules with which the student should be familiar.

Ministers Name Garlington Head

Pollock, Louisiana Man Selected President of College Ministers.

J. Ezell Garlington, a rising junior from Pollock, La., was elected president of the High Point College Ministerial Association for the first semester of the ensuing college year. Garlington succeeds Leo Pittard in his position. Garlington is a member of the Thalean Literary Society and the Christian Endeavor Society, and he is very popular in campus activities.

Wilbur Walton of Fairfax, Ala., a member of the incoming sophomore class, was elected vice-president to succeed Sulon Freee.

J. Sylvester Higgins, senior of Liberty, will serve as chaplain for the Association for the next term of office.

Charles White, High Point, continues his duties as secretary of the organization.

The new officers of the Ministerial Association will be duly installed by Leo Pitard at the regular meeting this afternoon.

FUTURE VETS OPPOSED ON MINNESOTA CAMPUS

Counter Organization Demands Contract to Fight Before Bonus Is Paid.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn.—An organization to oppose the Veterans of Future Wars has been organized on the University of Minnesota campus here.

Contracts pledging each future veteran to fight in all future wars should be signed on receipt of the $1000 future bonus, says William Robertson, student leader of the new movement.

"If these vets knew that they had to fight for their money they wouldn't be so anxious to collect it," Robertson said. "Besides, the government should have some guaranty that the vets will fight when a war comes along."

"The government, assured by the contracts, would save money by pre-payment of the bonuses," Robertson declared. "Military appropriations could be cut after the bonus has been paid, for the government would have assurance of a million fighting men in reserve."

The "anti-vets" would provide for the home fire division of the VFW as well. "If the future mothers of future veterans failed to bear fighting men, they would have to refund their money to the government," said Robertson.

"I am sorry I cannot be reached for a statement at this late hour," said William Kennedy, commander of the Minnesota VFW post, when he was told of the new organization.

Co-Ed Sports Group Plans Annual Banquet Saturday

Members of the Woman's Athletic Association are making preparations for their second annual banquet, which will be held at the Emerywood Country Club, on Saturday, May 16.

The banquet will have as its theme the Olympic games, and the Greek motif will be carried out throughout the evening. Decorations, program, and other features will center around that theme. With true "Spartan" endurance and self-denial, the women will keep their banquet mauless by inviting no escorts. Letters and trophies won this year will be presented, and the year's progress will be reviewed.

The faculty sponsor of the Association is Miss Sidney Brame, head of the department of physical education for women.

COOPERATION IS NEEDED

No part of Mr. Austin's address in accepting the presidency of the student government needs to be emphasized more than his call for cooperation from students and faculty. Student government ~~is at best experimental, and~~ rightly so. By its very nature student government must try new methods, set new precedents, give its constituents broad experience that will fit them for making improvements in the general social order.

The student council at High Point College has been entrusted with responsibilities not duplicated in any school in the South. In handling student tardies and absences and in systemitizing freshman initiation the local council has broken new ground for all student governments. What success these experiments has enjoyed has been due to cooperation; all difficulties that have come up have resulted from lack of cooperation.

Next year the council doubtless will continue many of its old projects and undertake new ones. With one more year of experience behind it, the student body should be able to give a better measure of cooperation to all the aims that student government seeks to achieve.

ORCHIDS TO MAJOR CRAVEN

Give us more chapel speakers like Major Bruce Craven, who spoke here last Friday. Although disclaiming even so much as a subject for his talk, Mr. Craven proceeded to present a well-organized talk that was effective because it was direct. A far cry from the speakers who name a subject and then talk about everything else under the sun.

Major Craven's talk contained none of the bombastic advice and sentimental platitudes all too common to chapel talks. "I can't give you the laws of success," he said, "because I don't know them myself." Yet we are convinced that the Major's brief speech was of more practical value than any given dozen ordinary talks replete with set formulae for achieving perfection.

PEACE AHEAD FOR THE WORLD?

It was rather re-assuring to the High Point College representatives who attended H. V. Kaltenborn's lecture in Greensboro last Wednesday night to hear the noted radio commentator hold out a prospect of many years of world peace. While no one can be too sure about the future—all history is a record of the unexpected—Mr. Kaltenborn speaks with authority after years of travel and study.

The speaker took each of the world situations generally considered sore spots and showed that they are really not so dangerous, after all. Italy wants no more than Ethiopia for the time being, and British public opinion will not allow retributive measures against Rome. Germany does not desire war, but merely a restoration of self-respect and self-confidence. Russia is forgetting the world revolution and is seeking practical solutions to her own problems. Japan will have her own way in China, but she has nothing to gain by aggression against Europe or America.

We like to believe that Mr. Kaltenborn is right, that things are not as bad as they seem, that the alarmists have overlooked the real feeling of the people involved in the situations generally looked upon as dangerous. But at the same time the youth of the nation should keep up its campaign against war; new sores can break out quickly even if the old ones are healing over.

"My ideal of a liberal arts college is one that insists on a complete symmetrical knowledge of the fundamental laws of all nature, a comprehensive survey of the best in all literature, and a general acquaintance with the great principles that should regulate all human conduct." Ezra Brainerd, one time president of Middlebury College sets for the school's guiding principles, unchanged since 1809.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Among the ingenious college youth of the country, we think we ought to place the name of Harold Pesurun of Columbia alongside that of young Mr. Gorin, founder of the Veterans of Future Wars.

Mr. Jesurun, you may remember, is the student who worked up a tidy bit of business waking up his fellow students each morning so they would not miss class. He earns his way through school with his deft Taps on the Shoulder and Nudges in the Ribs.

But in this business, too, science has led to refinements of methods Mr. Jesurun does nothing so crude now, as Jabbing in the Midriff. Now he has a special concoction of ammonium chloride in a little vial, which he slips under the nose of the deep breathing ones.

This technique is 100 per cent efficient, since it not only awakens, but it instantly clears the mind and leaves one ready for the first hour class.

* * *

Of course, Mr. Jesurun had first to sell his proposition to fellow sluggards. An example of his promotion method, as he himself described it: "You take Fernando. Well, Fernando set his alarm clock for 6:30 a. m. When he was sleeping I sneaked in his room and set it for 8:30 a. m. Then the next morning, I made a call and easily convinced him of the superiority of my method over that of alarm clocks.

Brown University writer, in an essay describing a physical examination:

"He rolled up his arm to the elbow, ripping off the button."

The somewhat complacent Brown students, by the way, have had a tragic experience lately, which has rather undermined their faith in the established order of things.

"Marji" is a young waitress near the campus, we understand. Very pretty and all that. For weeks she dated with no one, despite the organized competition among the very best fraternities on the campus. Then suddenly, she did something that so shocked the student body that the incident was deplored in the Brown paper.

She dated a non-fraternity, non-college man.

* * *

We, understand, haven't the slightest objection to the peace strike, but there is a budding versifier out at the University of California at Berkeley, who has. He objected this way:

Down wit de students
Down wit de class
Down wit de treea
Down wit de grasa
Down wit de countries
Down wit de flags
Down wit de army
Down wit bum gags
Down wit de women
Down wit de men
Down wit de rooster
Down wit de hen
Down wit de spring
Down wit de fall
Whatever it is, I'm against it, so—
Down wit it all.

The middle aged janitor in one of the halls at Princeton knows all about the Veterans of Future Wars now. For a joke, he wore one of the pins of the order. Then he went to a movie in New Brunswick. When he came out of the theater whom should he encounter but a whole gang of tough looking ex-service men, members of the real VFW.

For a time it was an interesting situation, but a passing taxi was the means of escape for the janitor.

It is not known if the janitor colected the taxi fare from the Princeton VFW expense fund.

Resigns Position

Pittsburgh—Charging "irrational authority," Dr. Wynand M. Parrish, for twelve years head of the department of public speaking at the University of Pittsburgh, announced last week he had refused re-appointment.

Dismissal of Richard Murphy, coach of the debating team, despite the fact his work was satisfactory, was given as the reason for Dr. Parrish's action.

Collegiate Press Takes Poll On Subsidization Of Sports

Southeastern Conference Decides on Direct Aid to Athletics; Southern Conference Turns Other Way With Adoption of Graham Plan.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

with surprise at hints that perhaps the eleven iron men who carry the mail for dear old Siwash aren't playing the game only because they love it. Few are the followers who fail to realize that if Coach "Iron John" McGonigle were to sit around and wait for material, instead of going out and buying it, his team would be in the cellar and the alumni would be in his hair.

Increasingly important to the fan—who doesn't realize it, and wouldn't care if he did—have been late developments in this problem of subsidization. The past decade, and particularly the past two years, have seen many high-powered minds earnestly bent to the solution of an evil believed by some to threaten the standing of the game, and panaceas without number have been proposed.

It remained for the 1935 season to furnish the pay-off-decision of the important Southcastern Conference (Alabama, Auburn, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Louisiana State, Mississippi State, Mississippi, Tennessee, Tulane, University of the South, and Vanderbilt) to take subsidization out of the darkroom, admit openly that members were buying players, go out into the high-and prep-school markets prepared to lay cash on the line for the best material available.

Conference representatives did not state it that plainly when they met in the middle of last December, but that's what they mean when they voted to pass a resolution stating the Southeastern Conference would "recognize athletic ability in giving aid to students." In other words, just as studious J. Martingale Darby, the hottest physics student in Jonesville High School, might logically expect to get a scholarship to State University, so might Pete Blumf, bone-crushing guard on the school team that won the intersectional championship.

Outright support of athletics is no new idea. Forthright undergraduates have suggested it many a time. Such a suggestion raised a tempest at Princeton a few years ago, and last fall the University of Louisville Cardinal boldly asked, why not go out and buy a good football team, since the one we have isn't any good?

Main question now is: What did the Southeastern Conference start on December 13, 1935? Will other conferences and other schools follow suit? Will college football become a rival of the pro game, in which case it might logically be expected to merge with it?

The immediate repercussions were hard to gauge. No other conferences followed Southeastern's lead, although it was admitted that every conference in the country would be affected, however little. Southern Conference delegates, meeting December 14, "postponed" action on the proposal, as did the Southwestern Conference.

Day or so later, Southern adopted the straight-laced Graham Plan, outlawing any form of aid to athletics. Student disapproval of the Graham Plan was strong in some places, and schools members of the Southern Conference, yet located in Southeastern territory, reported considerable confusion.

Reaction of those controlling football's destinq was varied. That attitudes of Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, and the Big Ten's mogul, Major John W. Griffith, were typical; Griffith, in company with other Big Ten Leaders, roundly denounced the idea, while Dr. Tigert said: "It's a constructive step. It is the very thing I've been working toward."

But what does it mean? What's going to happen? These questions in mind, The Associated Collegiate Press sent a questionnaire to its member papers. One hundred and fifty-eight replies came back, representing important universities and colleges from coast to coast.

The questions:

1. Do you favor indirect subsidization? (tuition, board and room jobs)

2. There is sentiment for outright aid. Do you favor this? Would your school? What is your school's poaition now? Simonpure? "Scholarships?" Indirect? Outright?

3. What is your paper's policy?

Outstanding conclusion to be drawn from the poll is that despite widespread subsidization, despite such moves as that made by Southeastern, the majority of American college editors still don't like the idea of paying athletics, and their attitude is clearly a reflection of administration policy. Tuition and board-and-room jobs are all right, said 98 of the editors repiying; 55 dessented. But 121 editors said "no!" to direct, dollars-and-cents payment, with only 32 in favor of it.

To the question: "Would your school favor outright aid?" there were but nine affirmative answers, and of these nine, only one stated that the present policy of the school was outright aid for its athletes: The University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

"Indirect aid," the quiet doling out of tuition and arrangements for board-and-room jobs, is the most favored policy today. Of the 158, 72 schools are using this method at present. "Scholarships'" come next in favor, with 58, and forty-seven schools are operating on a strict "Simon-pure" policy.

The policy of most of the papers polled is vague on this question. General trend seems to be to back the college administration, with few editors stepping out for an independent fight.

One of the independents is Bernard Stepensky, sports editor of Main Events, New York University publication. "College sports left the Simon-pure category of their own volition when they they introduced immense, costly stadiums," he writes. "Hypocritical denials of subsidization merely lead to humiliating experiences."

Right, says Bob Allison, editor of The Collegian, Arizona State Teachers' College. "An athlete's contribution during his playing season is worthy of reward. Athletes should be given room and board during the season without working, taking employment after their season of participation is over."

Boyd Sinclair, editor of the Wesley College Pilot (Greenville, Tex.) says: "Observation shows us that 90 per cent of subsidized athletes are lazy, shiftless, do not appreciate opportunity, and are debiliated mentally, because they will not put forth enough effort to establish thinking habits."

Subsidization offers no problem at Oberlin, one of the simon-pure schools. Boasting one of the best intra-mural programs in the country, with probably 90 per cent of the men students participating, and football low in interest and esteem, Oberliners can't get excited.

LEARNS WHAT CO-EDS THINK OF COLLEGIANS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Ben Neville, enterprising student at the University of North Carolina here recently set out to discover just what college women think of college men. He found out, too:

"College men are the most selfish and egotistical creatures on earth," screamed the questioned co-eds. "They get drunk too much, they lack respect for girls and older people, they have no sense of responsibility for their social obligations."

Their table manners are "lousy," and they try to brag about their dates to fraternity brothers. They are rude, insincere, disrespectful, inconsiderate, impolite, discourteous.

"The thing that gets in my hair most," declared a Syracuse University girl, "is when boys won't stand when a girl enters the room; and I could scream when my partner keeps bumping into other couples on a dance floor. I hate unnecessary profanity, and I don't like loudness in a boy, either." In short, there's nothing much that's good about the American male as he is found in college.

From the University of Indiana comes the opinion that "the most common failing of college boys occurs in fraternity houses after dates. There each boy openly and rudely classifies each girl. Sometimes a girl doesn't have a chance to live down a reputation after a boy has branded her."

There is still hope, however. A market does exist for the campus Romeo—providing he's remodeled. A sense of honor, ruggedness of feature rather than good looks, ability to know when he's had enough to drink, a little athletic ability, and above all consideration and politeness are componenta of The Ideal, co-eds agree.

The Thalean Literary Society had to station a special marshal outside the meeting hall last Thursday night to keep the curious co-eds from eavesdropping. We dissent; we believe that the fair ones should be allowed to hear all that Messrs. Gibbs (O.), Hartman, Walton, Wood, and Wright know about the subject. (See front page.)

Now that spring is here, it seems that the regulation prohibiting couples from strolling in the bosky paths on the back-campus needs reemphasis. Even day student co-eds are included in the ban.

It is deemed not wise to make disparaging remarks about our student ministers. The heretofore humble, meek, and patient shepherds have turned militant, as Ball-Hawk Craver can testify. The immediate cause of the uprising was a figure of speech used in describing co-ed ball playing. Even preachers can't take everything.

Wichita, Kan. — Already a pioneer in police courses, the University of Wichita has announced a second class in "The Science of Police Work." The course is offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The Wichita courses are planned to give a thorough knowledge, both general and technical, of all phases of police work.

Similar courses are being taught at the Universities of Minnesota, Southern California, Ohio State and Michigan State.

Tennis Team Invades Eastern Carolina For Matches With Louisburg, A. C. C. Netmen

Racqueteers Will Play Louisburg Junior College This Afternoon.

BULLDOGS TOMORROW

Group Leaves Campus This Morning and Will Return Tomorrow Night.

Having closed their home competition last Friday afternoon, the Purple Panther racquet squad will climax its foreign invasions this week with a two-day trip into eastern North Carolina, meeting a strong Louisburg junior college team this afternoon at Louisburg and coming up against a Bulldog aggregation in Wilson tomorrow afternoon on the A. C. C. courts for the final match of the year.

Captain Rogers, announced yesterday that though the Louisburg net team was unable to fulfill its scheduled match on the local grounds, they were expecting the High Pointers on the Louisburg battlefied for the semi-final match of the year. Louisburg is purported to have one of the strongest prep school teams in that part of the country and the local racqueteers will probably need all the skill and power which they have shown in their last two matches. A. C. C. also has a strong aggregation as was shown by the defeat which they administered to the Panthers in the fifth match of the year on the local courts when they allowed only one match to be dropped.

Backed by several weeks of good practice and match play, the Pointers are prepared to go the limit on this two day trip, having no compunctions about repaying their host's kindness by defeats on the tennis courts.

The same line-up as usual will be observed with Niernsee hoping to clinch the first berth, Jarrett, the second; Setzer, the third; Rogers, the fourth; and White, the fifth. The team will leave the college early Wednesday morning to return Thursday evening.

NETMEN BEAT QUAKERS FOR SECOND WIN

Matches Played on Memorial Stadium Courts in Greensboro.

Showing the most power and the best form of the year, the High Point Panther netters compleely reversed the score of an earlier match with the Guilford Quakers to take the first four singles matches and the number one doubles match in veteran fashion last Thursday afternoon on the Memorial Stadium courts in Greensboro, winning 5-2.

Aftr securing some much needed organized practice on the newly completed college courts, the Pointers more than made up for a defeat administered by the Quakers a week before on the local grounds by completely outpointing their hosts.

Frank Niernsee, Panther star number one man, continued to hold down his end of the wins as he easily triumphed over Sykes, 6-4, 6-3, while Jarrett, wily yearling player and number two man, found the winning stride which was characteristic of his earlier contests, and played erratically only during the second set which he dropped with only two wins. He completely outstroked James Parsons, Guilford captain, and also showed a better degree of coolness than his opponent throughout the match.

In the third match of the afternoon, Richard Setzer pulled out the surprise of the afternoon as he settled down into the form which secured for him the number three niche in pre-season play to experience little difficulty, except in the second set, in defeating Newkirk, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4. Captain Rogers, resorting to a steady placement game, raised his wins to four out of nine

PANTHERS AND BEARS TIE IN COURT MATCH

Teams Battle to 3-3 Deadlock in Loop Match on Local Courts.

Continuing to show the improvement which gave them an impressive win the day before, the High Point college racqueteers fought the Lenoir-Rhyne netmen to a 3-3 deadlock Friday afternoon on the college courts.

The Panthers, though striking their stride rather late in the season, have been showing championship court playing in the last few matches. Completely annihilating the Guilford aggregation on the afternoon before in Greensboro, the Pointers narrowly missed gaining revenge on their Hickory opponents for a close defeat administered earlier in the season the next day.

The biggest upset of the day came when Lawrence, Bear's number one man, made the difference in a win and a tie for the locals by giving Frank Niernsee his third defeat of the year after two sets of deuce play. Niernsee, star Panther player, failed to show his usual steady and excellent form in this contest to play erratically throughout, seemingly unable to make his hard services and ground-strokes work as effectively as usual. The sets were nevertheless close and furnished the fans an educational exhibition, the first set drawing out to 8-6 while the second one ended 6-4.

Dale Jarrett, holding his winning stride in the second position, experienced little difficulty in eliminating Linebury of Hickory 6-0, 6-3 while Setzer failed to show his winning form of the day before and gave Morrison no trouble, losing 6-1, 6-1.

Captain Rogers advanced his record for the season to five wins by putting Coulter of Lenoir-Rhyne out of the play in two sets, 8-6, 6-3 Rogers then teamed up with Niernsee for the doubles competition only for them to find the Mountain Bear team of Lawrence and Morrison well able to take advantage of erratic playing, losing 6-4, 4-3. Jarrett and Setzer more than made up for that defeat by evening the score in the match play by humiliating the Coulter-Linebury team 6-2, 6-1.

This match served as a fitting climax to the home competition which the Panthers undertook this year. And although they lost six out of nine matches this year the team showed considerable improvement after each match, for the most part, giving each team plenty of competition.

The summary:

Lawrence (LR) defeated Niernsee 8-6, 6-4.

Jarrett (HP) defeated Linebury 6-0, 6-3.

Morrison (LR) defeated Setzer 6-1, 6-1.

Rogers (HP) defeated Coulter, 8-6, 6-3.

Lawrence-Morrison (LR) defeated Niernsee and Rogers 6-4 6-3.

Jarrett and Setzer (HP) defeated Coulter and Linebury, 6-2, 6-1.

Catawba Captures Circuit Crown; Christians Conquered By Bears

Six Year Monopoly of Elon in North State Conference Ended by Indians; Victories by Lenoir Rhyne Decide Final Outcome.

Although one game remains to be played in the North State loop before the official final standings are released, the Catawba Indians, finishing the season with 12 loop victories in 16 starts, have already captured the conference pennant over the Elon Christians in one of the hottest loop fights ever waged.

Winner of the bunting for the past six years, the Walkermen ran the Indians a close race this time, losing only by a few points in the percentage column. The Salisbury clan had a percentage of .750, while the Christians, although losing one game less than the Indians, wound up the season with .727. They won eight conference contests while losing three.

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears, who have already captured third place in the loop, played the role of Robin Hood in the circuit. The Indians lost two contests to the Christians, one to High Point and one to Guilford, but trounced the Bears in every encounter.

Losing a contest early in the season to the Bears, the Christians went to Hickory last weekend needing only an even break in the two game series with the Bears to clinch the pennant for the seventh consecutive year. But Newsome and Briggs proved ineffective as the enraged Shoresmen took both tilts to practically hand the bunting to the Indians on a silver platter.

The winner of the High Point-Guilford game this afternoon will take fourth place in the loop, while the loser will lead the second division clubs with fifth place.

Last year the first four clubs finished in the following order; Elon, Catawba, Lenoir-Rhyne and High Point.

The official final standings of all clubs will be released soon.

INDIANS WIN FOURTH TILT WITH YOWMEN

Panthers Lose to Catawba by Score of 6 to 4 at Salisbury.

Still unable to break their losing streak in the North State conference, the Panthers suffered their third defeat in four contests against the Catawba Indians at Salisbury last Wednesday. The final score was 6 to 4.

Vaniewsky, Indian hurler, went the entire route for the winners, and with the exception of the initial rack had the Panthers well under control.

Culler, lead off man for the Panthers, duplicated his feat in the game against the Christians the day before when he stepped to the plate in the first rack to pole out a home run. A single by Diamont, an error by Bauer, and triple by Grigg gave the locals three more runs in this rack.

Rudisill, working on the mound for the Yowmen, pitched winning ball, allowing seven hits. Errors at the crucial moments gave the Indians many of their markers.

The Panthers were leading 3-0 when the Indians came to bat in the last half of the eighth. A walk, double by Black, followed by Davis' home run gave the Indians the contest.

Panther Nine Completes Twenty-Five Game Schedule With Contest At Guilford Today

LOCALS TRIP BULLDOGS IN SECOND TILT

Brinkley and Dawson Go Full Route; Final Score, 6 to 4.

The High Point College nine closed its home season Friday afternoon by defeating the Atlantic Christian club by the score of 6 to 4 in the second game of their series.

The victory was the second in last eight starts in the North State loop for the Yowmen, who have only one more contest left on their slate. Next Wednesday they travel to Guilford for their final clash of the season.

Brinkley, on the mound for the Panthers, and Dawson, lanky Bulldog hurler, went the entire nine innings on the mound for their teams, pitching steady ball. The locals garnered 10 hits off Dawson, while Brinkley allowed nine safe blows.

Culler and Harris, Panther stars, were missing from the lineup. Diamont, Panther catcher, injured his hand in the first inning and will probably be out of the lineup when the Pointers travel to Guilford Wednesday.

The Panthers scored one run in each of the first three racks to lead 3 to 1 at the end of the fourth. Rudisill, Pointer left fielder, banged out a home run for the marker in the third rack.

An error by Lewis, single by Dorsett, walk to Rudisill and bingle by Grigg netted the Yowmen three more runs in the redoubtable seventh.

Rudisill, with a home run and single in four trips to the plate, Grigg and Brinkley, each with two bingles, led the locals with the stick work. Dawson, A. C. hurler, featured at bat with three safe blows.

SOPHS AHEAD IN SOFTBALL CLASS MEET

Co-Ed Intra-Mural Event Now in Progress in Harrison Gymnasium.

The sophomore team is ahead in the girl's Intra-mural softball tournament, with two victories to their credit. The tourney, which started last Thursday and is still continuing, is being held in Harrison gymnasium.

The first clash came Thursday between the juniors and sophomores—the sophomores winning with a score of 22 and 7. On Friday afternoon the sophomores won their second victory when they played the seniors. The freshmen played their first game Monday afternoon, winning from the seniors by a score of 10 and 15.

The seniors met the juniors Tuesday, the juniors and freshmen play this afternoon, and the last game will be tomorrow afternoon between the freshmen and sophomores. Each captain is giving her team workouts and the class winning the most games will hold first place in the tournament.

Pinball Games Take Huge Sum From Ohio Students

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, Ohio — Ohio State students spend an average of $1500 a month on pinball games, according to a survey made by the Ohio State Lantern.

Sixteen machines were found in the immediate environs of the university, located in ten different places of business. Average weekly "take," Lantern reporters learned, is $25.

'Tige' Harris Allows Two Hits As Mates Rout Bulldog Hurlers

Singles by Cockrell and Bryant Rob Panther Hurler of No-Hit Game; Pointers Gain Seventeen Hits and Twenty-One Runs in Slugfest.

"Tige" Harris, sophomore Panther hurler, missed the baseball Hall of Fame by two hits Thursday afternoon as he hurled the High Point Panthers to a 21 to 1 victory over the Atlantic Christian nine at Willis Park.

While he was limiting the Wilson team to two bingles, one by Cockrell in the sixth, and one by Bryant in the seventh, his teammates were slugging the offerings of Jernigan and Ivey for 17 safe blows which were bunched timely. Costly errors aided the Yowmen in running up the score.

The victory snapped the Panthers' losing treak in the North State loop at six straight. With five victories against nine losses in the circuit to their credit, the Yowmen have no hopes of capturing high honors in the race.

The Panthers had their big innings in the second and fourth. A home run by Dorsett with the bases loaded in the second featured the scoring spree which netted six runs. In the seventh the locals bunched walks, hits, and errors for seven runs.

Runs continued to trickle across the plate as the Yowmen scored in every inning with the exception of the first and seventh.

Grigg, with four bingles in six trips to the plate, led the assault which perhaps marked the end of the Pointers' batting slump.

Yowmen Have Won Six Conference Contests in Fifteen Starts.

DIAMONT INJURED

Culler, Ingle, Elder, Isley, and Diamont Play Last Game.

The Panther baseball nine will complete a 25 game schedule this afternoon when they travel to Guilford for a North State clash with the Guilford Quakers. The game is slated to begin at 3:30.

Starting on April 1, the Yowmen have been busy for the past six weeks playing against conference and other teams. Out of the total 15 loop games played to date, the Pointers have emerged victorious in only six to stand far down the ladder in standings.

Idle since their game with A. C. C. here on Friday afternoon, the Panthers should be rested and in good condition for the clash this afternoon. Diamont, catcher, will not be behind the plate due to a hand injury he received in the game Friday. Elder will probably take his post.

In their first contest with the Quakers at Willis Park this spring, the Panthers fell on Fair Swaim, ace Quaker hurler, to drive him from the mound and win 13 to 4.

This is the final contest in the North State loop, but will have no effect on final standings of clubs other than High Point and Guilford. The winner of today's game will take fourth place in the final standings, while the loser will slip down to the second division in fifth place.

Coach Yow declined to announce his starting hurler for the contest, but stated that either Rudisill or Harris would receive the assignment. The Guilford hurler is not known.

With the exception of Diamont's absence behind the plate, the starting lineup for the locals will be the same as that in the majority of games this year.

Five Panthers, Culler, Elder, Diamont, Isley, and Ingle will make their last appearance in High Point uniforms in this contest.

Co-Ed Tennis Finals Today

Doubles Matches Slated For This Afternoon; Singles Tomorrow.

The finals of the Women's Intra-mural tennis tournament, which has been under progress for the past two weeks, are slated to be held today and tomorrow. The tourney is under the sponsorship of the W. A. A.

In the doubles division the team of Watkins and Harris will battle Dixon and Holt, juniors, this afternoon for the title. Both of these teams have fought their way to the top of the ladder system of play used in these tournaments. The teams are supposed to represent some class, but Watkins and Harris do not, the first being a freshman and the latter a junior.

Approximately 16 teams entered the doubles class at the beginning of the meet. Keen competition has been evident as these teams have been eliminated until only two remain.

Fay Holt, junior and defending singles champion, will defend her title either today or tomorrow against Mary Francis Gerringer, sophomore. Each of the finalists had a tough time fighting their way through the early rounds. Thirty-five hopeful co-eds entered in this division, in which the ladder system was also employed in eliminating the players.

Holt went into the finals by virtue of a victory over Virginia Grant, senior, in the semi-finals. She experienced little trouble in turning the senior back, 6-1, 6-2.

Watkins, freshman, forced the other finalist, Gerringer, into three sets in the semi-finals before the sophomore player won, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4.

The exact time of neither meet has been set at the time of publication.

The Biggest Liar Wins

Three artists were once discussing the merits of their work. The first one said: "I once painted a piece of marble so realistically that when placed in water it sank." "That's nothing," the second one replied. "I hung a hermometer on one of my Arctic scenes, and it immediately went below zero." Not to be outdone, the third related that a portrait he had painted was so life-like that it had to be shaved three times a week.

The biggest liar wins—sometimes, then again, he doesn't.

Many NYA Employees Assist In Emergency Flood Fight

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Washington, D. C.—About 13,000 NYA youths saw service in Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut on flood emergency work during the March floods, it was learned at NYA headquarters here today.

As the waters, spilling over the banks of swollen streams rolled into the streets of towns and villages in these three states, which bore the brunt of the east's worst flood in years, NYA officials in flooded areas speedily made their young workers available to local and national agencies striving to combat the disaster. Until the worst was over, in each community young men and women of the NYA, including high school and college students, worked long hours side by side with WPA workers, Red Cross nurses, CCC boys, local police, and National Guardsmen.

At some points NYA youths working as a group under their own leaders held down units of the flood front especially assigned to them. With the danger passed, part of these units are now engaged in rehabilitation in ravaged communities.

According to official estimates, in Pennsylvania about 8,000 youths engaged in flood work in the forty counties hit by overflowing streams and rivers. At Pittsburgh, Johnston, Sunbury, Scranton, Williamsport, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg, and Huntington the young NYA workers did particularly valuable work. They operated short-wave radio stations, set up lost and found offices, moved Federal Government records, manned rowboats for relief and rescue work, operated soup kitchens and aided distribution of food and and clothing, cared for children brought to concentration locations, served as typists and messengers for the Red Cross, filled in as emergency telephone operators, assisted doctors and state nurses, kept records of those given typhoid vaccine, and made flood maps on the basis of which the Red Cross set up their administrative districts. Pennsylvania Red Cross units in letters to NYA county supervisors have been lavish in their praise of flood work done by NYA youths. In one area, Clearfield County, at the peak of the emergency seventy-three young men and women put in a total of 3,000 hours on flood relief.

Abut half of New York State's 9800 NYA workers, some 4900 young people, were transferred immediately from NYA projects to flood relief wherever the emergency warranted. As regular NYA employment about 2700 youths, after being given first aid training by the American Red Cross weeks earlier, had been assigned as safety workers to WPA projects over the state. Now with the outbreak of the floods the NYA was able to switch 7,000 of these young men and 80 young women immediately to posts where they rendered first aid to the injured and those suffering from exposure. NYA reports show they worked many hours overtime giving assistance to flood victims and WPA workers injured while engaged in rescue work. Thousands of others worked either on flood relief similar to that carried on in Pennsylvania or pitched in to clear up debris and muck left by the flood waters.

At Binghamton young Michael Piros, employed by the NYA to teach radio operation to local boys, together with his class was used to send messages all through the night of March 17, warning people in threatened areas and allaying the fears of those not in the danger zones. He used equipment which he had constructed himself.

In the same city William Decerchio, NYA youth, led eight other NYA workers assigned to him, in the difficult task of housing and caring for 500 families driven with their 1400 children from inundated homes. The NYA workers set up cots and mattresses in the classrooms of the Daniel S. Dickenson School, put the older children to work washing dishes and distributing milk and crackers to the younger children, quieted still others by keeping them busily at play in the school gymnasium until the emergency period was passed. Twenty-two young women in other Binghamton schools did similar work on a smaller scale, feeding refugees in their care and keeping conditions sanitary. NYA boys on March 18 and 19 served as messengers between the Binghamton Department of Public Works and gangs engaged in flood relief work throughout the city, making it possible for the department to direct gangs from one point of emergency to another.

Some 60 boys from Onondaga County NYA projects established a safety patrol of Onondaga Creek which overflowed its banks in its passage through Syracuse and endangered the lives of hundreds of children attracted to it out of curiosity. The patrol prevented three drownings and kept many hundreds from the danger zone.

Ohio State Student Reports Good Results From His Experiments.

Columbus, Ohio — An effective antidote for the deadly carbon monoxide poisoning is the goal of Samuel Seifter, Ohio State student who explained his experiments in a paper read at the recent convention of the American Chemical Society.

Seifter reported that 75 per cent of the rats he poisoned with carbon monoxide in developing his antidote, recovered after injections of a solution of ferric chloride and hydrogen peroxide.

Air Gliding Is Called Coming College Sport

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Gliding is beginning to come into its own as an American college sport. With the advent of Spring, campus enthusiasts all over the country are dusting off their motorless planes preparatory to looking up an enterprising air current.

Kent State pilots, who banded together in 1933 and built the world's largest glider, a two-seater with a wing-spread of 47 feet, are hoping to get confirmation of an unofficial world record. On one of its 1935 flights, the ship climbed from a standing start to 1700 feet in one minute and one second, carrying two men. The Kent club's glider has made 1.000 flights without an accident.

An ambitious flight program is being planned by Washington State glider experts. They want to keep a ship in the air so long the pilot will have to be refueled—with coffee and sandwiches.

The University of Wisconsin goes the field one better with its gliding school—a one-man enterprise owned and operated by Robert M. Lee, freshman engineering student, who's paying part of his tuition with the proceeds. Lee soloed at 15, and had earned a department of commerce license by the time he was 17.

matches, as he outfought Fulp in a gruelling three set duel. Dropping the first set 3-6, Rogers came back strong to even the set, 6-2; both players then settled down to fight it out and after several deuces not only in games but in the set itself Rogers gained the upperhand, pulling out the set and match point in the fourteenth game, 8-6.

In the doubles competition, Niernsee and Rogers paired together and easily upheld the winning streak of the day by beating Parsons and Newkirk, 6-2, 6-1. Jarrett and Sezer failed to equal their teammates invincible playing and bowed to the Surratt-Sykes doubles team, 6-3, 6-1.

The summaries.

Singles: No. 1, Niernsee (High Point) defeated Sykes, 6-4, 6-3; No. 2, Jarrett (High Point) defeated Parsons, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3; No. 3, Setzer (High Point) defeated Newkirk, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; No. 4, Rogers (High Point) defeated Fulp, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6; and No. 5, Surratt (Guilford) won with ease over White, 7-5, 6-1.

Doubles: No. 1, Niernsee-Rogers (High Point) defeated Parsons-Newkirk, 6-2, 6-1; No. 2, Surratt-Sykes (Guilford) won over Jarrett-Setzer, 6-3, 6-1.

MEDICOES ARE WARY OF TABLETS IN USE DURING EXAM TIME

Exact Properties of New Anti-Fatigue Drug Not Yet Known to Doctors.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Minneapolis, Minn. — Black coffee or caffein tablets, ammonia cokes, cigarettes, cold showers and the other common devices used by students in the throes of exam periods are no longer countenanced by University of Minnesota students and faculty members. Instead, they wave the banner for benzedrine sulphate tablets.

Although members of the pharmocology department and doctors of the student health department advised against the use of the new "anti-fatigue" pills—they were put on the market only a few months ago—the rush continued unabated.

Chief objection to the drug, which users claim will prevent fatigue for about six hours without any resultant depression, is that its exact properties are not yet nown. University of Minnesota scientists are engaged in research in the attempt to discover if benzedrine sulphate is habit-forming or destructive to body tissues, but meanwhile, their colleagues and students go right on taking it. One Minneapolis drug company reported the sale of 1000 tablets within a week.

"No nation can face the future with confidence when 5,000,000 of its younger citizens are forced to loaf, to loiter or to roam." Dean J. B. Edmondson of the University of Michigan points to a problem which he calls more serious than unemployment.

ERSKINE TELLS TEXANS TO FOLLOW GREEK LINE

Famed Novelist Speaks in Texas on "Moral Obligations To Be Intelligent."

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Denton, Texas.—"Go Greek."

That was the advice given students of Texas State College for Women by John Erskine, author and Columbia University professor when he addressed them on "The Moral Obligation to be Intelligent."

"Our first moral obligation is to see intelligently the situation before us in which we must act, and having intelligently chosen the path of action, our second obligation is to act," Erskine told his audience, citing the teachings of the ancient Greeks and pointing out their modern application.

"Intelligence should be almost number one of the virtues," he said. "We inherited the Greek way of thinking as it comes to us through science, but the Greeks applied their attitude to all of living." Dr. Erskine urged the use of intelligence and truth in art "until the division between the arts and the science has disappeared."

"Nothing excuses you in science from knowing all there is to know about a thing. I want to write a novel having Anglo-Saxon emphasis on character and the modern obligation to be intelligent," he said.
